JUGGLING OF PAPERS HAS INVOLVED FIRM OF GRAIN MERCHANTS

Durant & Elmore in Financial Tangle That Promises Sensations.

Manipulation of Warehouse Receipts Said to Be the Cause.

Many Thousands of Dollars Secured From Banks in Albany.

Albany, N. Y., May 23.—Through the alleged manipulation of warehouse receipts, the firm of Durant & Elmore, grain merchants, with offices in Albany, Chicago, Buffalo and Boston, has become involved in a financial tangle which promises sensational developments.

The National Commercial Bank of Albany holds the company's paper for $300,000; the First National bank has $77,200; and many thousands more are said to have been secured from out-of-town institutions.

According to a statement by Vice President H. Perkins of the National Commercial banl / the company is "hopelessly involved."

"We are informed," said Mr. Perkins, "that eight or nine banks hold the firm's paper, besides grain commission brokers with whom the firm has dealt, and a number of individuals."

Examination Being Made.

The exact condition of the firm's affairs is not known, but an examination is under way. Gibson Oliver, treasurer of the company, had charge of the affairs of its Albany office, according to members of the firm, but no statement from him as to alleged shortage has been forthcoming.

Edwin W. Elmore, a member of the firm, who was summoned from Chicago, is assisting in the examination.

The scheme by which the money is alleged to have been scured was a simple one. As soon as a carload of grain was shipped from Chicago for the local firm, the manager received a warehouse receipt. This was in the regular course of business. Later on the warehouse receipts are said to have

WILLIAM SEYLER IS PUT ON TRIAL

Is Accused of Murdering Jane Adams on Atlantic City Pier.

May's Landing, N. J., May 23.—Charged with having been responsible for the death of Jan Adams, 18 years old, at the Million Dollar pier, in Atlantic City, on the night of Feb. 4, William Seyler was called today to face a jury in the Atlantic county court. The disappearance of Jane Adams and the finding of her body in the surf nine days later, created a sensation in this section of New Jersey.

Seyler, who is a young married man of Atlantic City, accommapned Jane Adams to a moving picture show on the pier. They were accompanied by Seyler's brother, Orvis, and Miss Adams' sister, Alice, both younger than the principals in the tragedy. Later in the evening Seyler and Jane Adams went to the ocean end of the pier and the younger pair returned to their homes. Jane Adams never returned home and the following day the two Seylers disappeared. On Feb. 13 the body of Jane was found in the surf at Chelsea.

Said It Was Accident.

Suspicion having been directed to the Seylers, search was made for them and a week later they were found in Petersburg, Va. William Seyler denied all knowledge of the death of the girl, but later confessed, declaring, it is alleged, that Jane Adams met her death accidentally while with him near the end of the pier. Reports of the alleged methods used in wringing a confession from William Seyler were such as to prompt a United States senator to introduce a resolution in the senate inquiring into the "third degree" methods of police authorities throughout the country.

No charges were preferred against Orvis Seyler.

ELECTRIC LIGHT MEN GATHER IN ST. LOUIS.

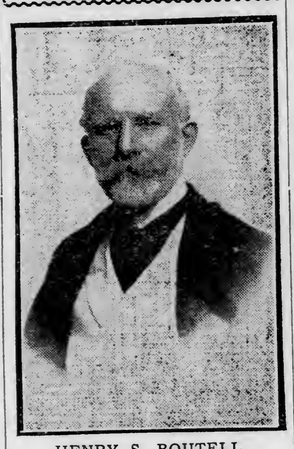
St. Louis, Mo., May 23.—Two thousand delegates to the National Electric Light association convention, which will open tomorrow, have arrived in the city today and by tomorrow it is expected that nearly the entire membership of 5,000 will be here. President Frank W. Frueauff of Denver and New York will deliver his presidential address tomorrow morning. An electrical show, at which the latest electrical inventions will be exhibited, will follow the convention.

MONUMENT TO SPENCER ERECTED BY EMPLOYES.

Atlanta, Ga., May 23.—Presented to the city and state by 30,000 employes of the Southern railway, a magnificent bronze statute of the late Samuel Spencer, first president of the Southern railway, was unveiled here Saturday. The cords holding the veil of the monument were unloosened by Violet Spencer, the 4-year-old granddaughter of the railroad president, who met tragic death in a railroad wreck in Virginia, Nov. 29, 1906.

Hundreds of men, representing all branches of the service, came from all parts of the South to attend the ceremony.

SAYS DEALERS ARE TO BLAME FOR HIGH PRICES



HENRY S. BOUTELL,
Representative From Illinois.

LAYS BLAME ON DEALERS

Representative Boutell Declares Payne Law Did Not Raise Prices.

Makes Speech at Detroit Urging Non-Political Tariff Control.

Detroit, Mich., May 23.—Removal of the tariff from the domain of partisan politics was urged by Representative Henry S. Boutell of Illinois, in a speech delivered here today at a luncheon given at the Bankers' club. Mr. Boutell spoke in support of the item in the sundry civil appropriation bill appropriating $250,000 for securing information bearing upon the tariff, and outlined the change in the parliamentary procedure in congress that must be made by a joint rule before it will be possible to make specific changes in the tariff.

"Every one must concede," said Mr. Boutell, "that, judged solely as a revenue increase, the Payne tariff act has justified the opinion of President Taft that it is the best tariff law that has ever been passed.

"The charge that the Payne tariff has been the cause of the increased cost of living is found, on investigation, to be without the slightest foundation. There is not in the Payne tariff any advance in rates above the rates in the Dingley tariff that justifies the increase in final retail price to the ultimate consumer of a single necessary article of food, clothing or household use. Notwithstanding this, some unscrupulous dealers have put up the prices of their goods, giving the Payne tariff as the necessity for the advance.

Payne Law Scientific.

"The Payne law is the most logically constructed and scientific tariff that we have had. It is well adapted to serve as a permanent, general revenue statute that shall be amended from time to time to meet the exigencies of the treasury and conform to industrial changes.

"We ought now to do away with political tariff revisions, with their accompanying upheavals in the business world, and inaugurate a system of tariff development by way of natural growth. In other words, we should, from now on, revise the tariff gradually by scientific business methods. This

DRAW BLOOD IN THEIR THIRD DUEL

French Counts Finally Succeed in Making Each Other Smart.

Paris, May 23.—Count Ismael de Lesseps and Count Just de Poligny fought their third duel today, and this time each received a bullet wound. At the second exchange de Lesseps' shot struck the barrel of de Poligny's pistol, and richotting, caused a flesh wound in the latter's arm. At the same moment de Lesseps fell, shot through the thigh. He was removed to a hospital, where it was found that the ball had just missed the femoral artery. The wound is not mortal.

De Lesseps is a son of Count Ferdinand de Lesseps and an officer of a cavalary regiment. Some weeks ago he quarreled with de Poligny at the circus and blows were exchanged. On May 3 they met in a formal encounter with swords in the Parc des Princes, the scene of today's duel. De Poligny is lame, and after a round of sword play, during which neither was injured, the seconds called a halt. Subsequently pistols were substituted for the swords and six shots were exchanged. None of the bullets found its mark and the antagonists left the field without a reconciliation.

MORE TRUE BILLS FOUND

Washington, May 23.—The department of justice took a new tack today in its extensive crusade against bucket shops. In addition to the conspiracy charge that was made against twenty-nine men in the cities of New York, Jersey City, Baltimore and Washington last April, the department today lodged a complaint of a direct violation of Section 865 of the District code, which forbids bucketing or setting up a gaming table in the district.

This direct charge of operating a bucket sop in the district is made against the persons who are said to constitute the Standard Stock & Grain company of Jersey City. Four additional men are expected to be caught in the dragnet who were not mentioned in the previous indictment. These are Samuel W. Adler and C. A. Tillis, known among his associates as "Cat" Tillis of New York and William Fox and E. M. Browning of Baltimore.

More Indictments Returned.

Two indictments were returned today charging conspiracy and the setting up of a gaming table against these four men in addition to Edward Altemus of Jersey City, Louis and Angelo Cella of St. Louis, Mo., Robert Hall, Samuel Raymond, Oscar J. Rappel of Baltimore, Henry C. Stumpf of Philadelphia, Henry R. Duryea and Charles Alley of Washington. All these persons are charged not only with entering into a conspiracy to violate the District law against bucket shops, but also with being actually engaged in the conduct of the brokerage business run here in the name of Duryea & Co.

INDIAN MUSEUM LOST IN FLAMES

Hadley Hall at Albuquerque, N. M., is Destroyed By Fire.

Albuquerque, N. Mex., May 23.—Hadley Hall, the science department of the University of New Mexico, was destroyed by fire early today. The loss is more than $100,000. The famous Indian historical musemum and geological collection, belonging to the university, were destroyed. The former was of almost priceless value. Crossed electric wires started the fire and exploding chemicals made it spectacular.

Dickinson Judge Under Fire.

Dickinson, N. D., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Upon the instructions of the city and county, action will be brought against Justice of the Peace Van der Las, to recover money alleged to be due the city, but which has not been paid over. The present contemplated vaction is an outgrowth of the work of Van der Las as police magistrate, when it is claimed that he failed to make full and complete reports and accountings.

FRANK A. DAY GOES ON OPERATING TABLE IN ST. PAUL HOSPITAL

Chairman of Democratic State Committee Under Knife of Surgeon.

Nature of Trouble Not Announced But Is Laid to Overstrain.

St. Paul, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank A. Day, chairman of the Democratic state central committee and private secretary to the late Governor John A. Johnson, was operated upon this morning at the Cobb hospital by Dr. S. G. Cobb. The nature of the operation was not disclosed, but Dr. Cobb said this morning that it was not strictly a major operation.

The operation was a comparatively simple one. Two hours after it was over Dr. Cobb said Mr. Day was rallying strongly from the effects on the anesthetic. His early recovery is predicted.

The affliction developed during the last Johnson campaign, and has grown steadily worse since that time. Mr. Day went South last winter, largely for the purpose of securing relief. Though he was benefited by the trip, no permanent good resulted. Last week it was decided that the only recourse was to operate.

Result of Overwork.

It was said that the trouble is the result of the burden laid upon Mr. Day as chairman of the Democratic state central committee and editor-in-chief of the "Life of John A. Johnson."

Mr. Day has been strenuously engaged during the last six years, and his inability to secure needed rest has aggravated his affliction.

TALK ABOUT RELIEF FUND

Presbyterians Support 472 Ministers and 593 Widows.

Congressman Bennett Talks at Annual Labor Mass Meeting.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 23.—Ministerial relief was one of the subjects on today's schedule of business to be disposed of by the Presbyterian general assembly, now in session here. The report of the board of ministerial relief shows that the board has upon its rolls 472 ministers, 593 widows, thirty-five orphan families, thirteen women missionaries and thirty-two other persons. During the year forty-five ministers, twenty-four widows and two orphans died.

The receipts of the board for the last year were $438,024 and the expenditures $400,378. The endowment fund amounts to $2,000,000. The board calls attention to the constantly increasing number of families of ministers that need aid, and asks the general assembly to call the attention of the churches to the urgent needs of the board.

Over 10,000 persons filled the big

CONN COMPANY'S BIG PLANT IS DESTROYED.

Elkhart, Ind., May 23.—The plant of the C. G. Conn company, said to have been the largest manufactory of brass band instruments in the world, was destroyed by fire early Sunday, entailing a loss of $500,000. One of the night watchmen, Joe Edgerly, was burned to death. His body was recovered from the ruins of the building.

UNCLE SAM LOOKING INTO LUMBER PRICE

Washington, May 23.—The department of justice is investigating the subject of the price of lumber in the United States with a view to determining whether the so-called lumber trust may be reached by the Sherman anti-trust law on the ground that it is a combination in restraint of trade.

NARROW ESCAPES IN TENENENT FIRE

One Woman Dies From Inhaling Smoke While Being Carried Out.

New York, May 23.—There were sensational rescues by firemen today in a blazing tenement on East Seventieth street. Mrs. Mary Miller, however, died in a fireman's arms from the effects of smoke inhalation after she had been dragged to the roof, while her husband, William Miller, clutching the 11-month-old son of the couple, unconscious and suffering from burns, was rescued just in time by another fireman. Fully forty persons were taken in this way from the burning structure, where members of sixteen families had been trapped.

RATES ENFORCED BY STATES NO BASIS IN INTERSTATE ORDERS

Commerce Commission Passes on Relations of the Two Interests.

Southern Express Company Case Brings Important Decision.

New Action By Congress to Affect State Tariffs Is Suggested.

Washington, May 23.—That state-made rates will not be regarded as in any way determinative in the fixing of freight rates by the interstate commerce commission is the ruling made by that body in the case of E. E. Saunders & Co., of Pensacola, Fla., vs. the Southern Express company.

The complainants are fish dealers and shippers at Pensacola. In the ordinary course of their business, they operate largely in the state of Alabama. Recently the railroad commission of Alabama fixed an express rate on fish from Mobile, Ala., to other intra-state points of destination, although, in many instances, the distance from Pensacola to points of destination was less than from Mobile.

The Southern Express company refused to make the same rates from Pensacola to points in Alabama as it was required to make from Mobile, its refusal resulting in a complaint filed against it with the interstate commerce commission.

Opinion Is Unanimous.

The commision's opinion in the case was prepared by Commissioner Harlan and is the unanimous judgment of the commission. It indicates clearly the lines of conflict between the national commission and the various state commissions in the regulation of freight and express rates, and in that sense, is one of the most important decisions rendered by the commission for many months. While the case directly involved may be considered as inconsequential, comparatively, the principle enunciated by the commission is of country-wide application, as it opens, at once, the question whether the national, or the state, regulating author-

FREE PARDON FOR SPITZER

Dock Superintendent Convicted of Fraud in Sugar Deals, Is Witness.

New York, May 23.—The trump card in the prosecution of Charles R. Heike, secretary of the American Sugar Refining company was placed at the opening of the sugar trust underweighing conspiracy trial today when Prosecutor Stimson called the government's first witness, Oliver Spitzer, superintendent of the Williamsburg docks, who, some months ago, was convicted of underweighing and sentenced to two years in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta.

When Spitzer took the stand, John B. Stanchfield, for the defense, claimed that under the federal statute, Spitzer, as a convicted man, could not testify.

The sensation of the trial was then created by the declaration in court that Spitzer had been pardoned by President Taft.

Heike is on trial in the United States circuit court with five former employes of the American Sugar Refining company on the charge of conspiring to defraud the government by underweighing cargoes of sugar imports. Witnesses have testified to the discovery of fraudulent devices on the sugar docks at Williamsburg whereby, it was alleged, employes of the co-called

SHERIFF HUNTS HIS OWN WIFE

North Dakota Officer Arrests Her and His Former Prisoner.

Wahpeton, N. D., May 23.—Sheriff Frank Heley of Richland county, formed his own posse when he jumped into an automobile and ran down Jacob Kelly, formerly a prisoner in his custody, who he charges brought domestic woe upon him.

Kelly and Mrs. Heley went to Wyndmere on the same train.

The sheriff's automobile pursuit to Wyndmere was rather sudden and unannounced. Kelly was taken prisoner in the Gleason hotel. Mrs. Heley also was taken to the Richland county jail in the sheriff's automobile.

Sheriff Heley balked all efforts to get the facts, other than admitting "it was a little family affair, in which the public should not be interested."

Kelly, who conducteed a "blind pig" at Hankinson, served a couny jail term, and it was then the romance began to ripen, it is said.

Toulon, France, May 23.—The American armored cruiser New York sailed today for Spezzia. The cruiser will visit Constantinople, later proceeding to the Orient, where she will become the flagship of Rear Admiral John Hubbard, commander-in-chief of the United States Asiatic fleet.

DOUBLY-MARRIED WOMAN ON TRIAL

Mrs. Doxey Is Accused of Murdering Her Second Husband.

St. Louis, Mo., May 23.—Mrs. Dora Elizabeth Doxey, who with her husband, Dr. Loren B. Doxey, is under indictment, on the charge of murdering William J. Erder, whom, it is alleged, she married, was placed on trial here today. The defense asked a severance of the trials and the state elected to try the woman first.

It is charged that while she was the wife of Erder and also of Doxey, she poisoned Erder with arsenic. It developed at the coroner's inquest that Erder ate heartily of a blackberry pie shortly before his fatal illness.

Erder died in convulsions, July 10, 1909, and, shortly after, it is charged, Mrs. Doxey sent Erder's furniture to the home of Doxey in Columbus, Neb. Mrs. Doxey collected Erder's life insurance.

Married Both Men.

Mrs. Doxey, in an interview last week, admitted she married Erder while she was the wife of Doxey. She said she was not responsible for her acts as she was under the influence of morphine which her husband sent her. Since she has been in jail here she has been cured of the drug habit.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict that Doxey had a guilty knowledge of Erder's death. Last December the grand jury returned indictments.

The defense will claim that Erder took patent medicines. Mrs. Doxey has announced she will not live with her husband again.

"I will do nothing out of spite toward Dr. Doxey," Mrs. Doxey said, "but I expect to protect myself, and he and I are quits forever, whatever is the outcome of this case."

MISS STARK HELD FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Minneapolis Girl of Eighteen Arrested for Killing Man With Auto.

St. Paul, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—A charge of manslaughter was filed by the police today against Miss Theodora Stark, an 18-year-old Minneapolis girl, who, while driving an automobile, ran down and killed S. B. Shotwell, a well-known St. Paul broker, in this city last night.

Miss Stark was accompanied by her mother, sister and two friends, and was driving along Lexington boulevard when the accident occurred.

Mr. Shotwell was struck in the back, knocked down and run over by the machine. He was taken to a hospital and an operation performed, but he died while on the operating table.

Miss Stark, with her sister, spent the night in the county jail, and was not informed of Mr. Shotwell's death until today. Both girls cried hysterically, when they heard the bad news.

MAYOR WILL HURL PELLET

Duluth Executive Promises to Officiate on Opening Day.

Mayor Cullum this morning agreed to throw the first ball over the plate, or make heroic attempt, when the first baseball game of the home season of 1910 is opened next Thursday afternoon. The mayor and city officials will attend the game in full numbers and will take a conspicuous part in the opening festivities.

A. W. Kuehnow, secretary and treasurer of the Duluth Baseball club, this morning waited upon the mayor and extended in person the invitation to open the local season. The mayor agreed and also stated that he would attempt to send the first ball over the plate.

On the assurance of Mr. Kuehnow and his associates that proper support will be forthcoming, the mayor has agreed to give to the local club the services of his strong right arm on opening day.

"That is, I shall be very glad to impress upon the public mind the fairness and the desirability of giving our home club a warm and encouraging welcome," said the mayor. "This is a manly sport, a healthy sport and deserves all the encouragement possible and, of course, this organization is a benefit in an advertising way to our city. Other cities, realizing this, make half holidays of such occasions. While perhaps this would be too much to ask of the business interests, yet we hope those who can will make it a point to give the management whatever encouragement they can on next Thursday by attending in as large numbers as possible."

Plans for opening day were further completed by the officials of the club today. A parade through the downtown district will precede the game. Both teams will take part in the parade, and it is also planned to have various amateur teams of the city take part in the parade. The mayor and city officials will ride in automobiles or hacks, and many of the faithful rooters will also be in line.

Mr. Kuehnow has received word from President John A. Elliott, stating that he will be here on opening day. The league executive will take a prominent part in the exercises attending the first game of the present season.

Today Mr. Kuehnow stated, though the team had gotten away to a bad start, he will assure the fans that it will be up with the leaders within a very short time. Mr Kuehnow stated that neither money nor time will be spared in getting together a strong team, and that before the team has been at home very long the fans will have good cause to believe in it.

Cummings is expected to join the team today at Eau Claire, and if the management of the club can locate Slattery, the man signed to play first base, he will be hurried to the assistance of the team.

Despite the fact that the team has got away to a bad start, the fans have not lost hope by any means and the management of the club is making plans for the entertainment of one of the biggest opening crowds in the history of baseball in this city.

WITH THE AMATEURS

The baseball team of the Panton & White company was defeated yesterday by the Freimuths, the score being 11 to 2. The game was played at the corner of Thirty-second avenue west and Superior street, and was witnessed by a large crowd. But for an error on the part of the Freimuths, the game would have resulted in a shutout.

Drops Out of Race.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 23.—A report from Delaware Breakwater, Del., this morning, says the motorboat Loantaka, one of the starters in the Philadelphia-Havana race, is passing up the Delaware river. This would indicate that the owner has abandoned the race on account of the engine trouble which developed soon after the start Saturday, and is returning to Philadelphia.

The withdrawal of the Loantaka leaves four boats in the race. A tug arriving at the Breakwater today reports that when the little racers passed to sea Saturday night the Berneyo was leading, with the Caliph second and the Ilys and Caroline close behind. The weather reports indicate that conditions of wind and sea today are favorable to the racers.

McKenzie Saw the Comet.
Hugh McKenzie saw the comet. Not only did he see it, but he succeeded in taking a picture of it "as seen in Duluth." He caught the comet when it was brightest last night and he says the negative turned out well. It will be reproduced on postal cards.

Sacred Concert.
The choir of the German Lutheran church, Sixth avenue east and Fourth street, gave an exceptionally good sacred concert last night. The church was well filled.

Committee to Meet.
The new public affairs committee of the Commercial club, appointed by President Luster last week, will hold its first meeting tonight and will organize for the year.

J. D. Crane Dies.
J. D. Crane, 60 years of age, died last evening at St. Mary's hospital after a short illness. He has been making his home with his son, W. E. Crane of 1419 East First street. Short funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at the undertaking rooms of C. G. Stewart, after which the body will be shipped to his former home at Waterbury, Conn. Mr. Crane had been in Duluth but a short time.

Loses Much Blood.
Matt Wilson had so many drinks Saturday afternoon that he lost control of his legs and his head, which struck on the curb, had to suffer the consequences. He sustained an ugly gash and was bleeding freely when brought to the police station. Dr. Cheney was called to dress his wounds. The authorities say that it is a surprise that he didn't bleed to death. This morning he was so weak from the loss of blood that he could barely make his way to the court room. He got off with the minimum.

Duncan Cameron Dies.
Duncan Cameron, 54 years old, died of tuberculosis yesterday in a Superior hospital. Little is known of him, except that he formerly lived at 223 Lake avenue south and that he has a nephew employed at the Board of Trade livery. No funeral arrangements have been made.

Woman Gets Thirty Days.
Jessie Gunther, arrested on a statutory charge, got $25 and costs or thirty days in police court this morning when she admitted the allegation. The complaint was made by a laborer whom she had "roped in." She told the authorities that she had done no work for the last two years.

To St. Paul in Automobile.
Postmaster Guy A. Eaton, with a party of friends, went to St. Paul yesterday in Mr. Eaton's big Winton touring car. They left Duluth at 5 a. m. and reached the Saintly City about noon. The party will return tonight. With Mr. Eaton were E. O. Perry of the Spalding hotel, David R. Black, Mart Adson, and Fred Engles. Mr. Engles returned to the city by train this morning.

Will Sober Up in Jail.
Hans Hanson cannot sober up without the aid of the police. He has been on a long spree and when arraigned in police court this morning he got $15 and costs—or fifty days to help him along on the path of sobriety. He didn't have the cash and went over the hill.

Three Adjudged Insane.
Three people were adjudged insane in probate court this afternoon. Karl Sumenn of Duluth, 36 years old, threatens to kill somebody. E. R. Scribner of Tower, 23 years old, also threatens violence; and John Knutson, aged 40, of Duluth, believes somebody is attempting to injure him.

Huge Trout Is Shown.
There is on exhibition in the show window of the Kelley Hardware company a trout that weighed eight pounds when caught and which as it is now weighs seven and a quarter pounds. It was caught at Split Rock by John Hirsch of that place and is classified as a steel head trout. Some sportsmen say it is a rainbow trout, but the preponderance of testimony is otherwise. The big fish was caught with a rod and line and is a beautiful specimen. The Kelley Hardware company's sporting goods department has offered a prize for the largest trout caught in the waters hereabouts and it was in response to this offer that Mr. Hirsch sent in his catch.

Socialist Meeting.
The Scandinavian Socialist Club of the West end will meet tomorrow evening at Sloan's hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street. Slevert Hanson, a traveling lecturer among the Scandinavian Socialists, will deliver an address and a musical program will be furnished. Rrefreshments will follow.

Says He Is Bankrupt.

STEALS TO GET NEW JOB

If you had spent all your money for clothes, would you steal from the clothier who had taken your cash in order to raise the prices necessary to get a job?

That was the problem which confronted Thomas Whalen, an 18-year-old boy, yesterday. He decided that he would.

Acting upon the decision he stole two watches from Abraham Wiener, a second-hand dealer at 627 West Superior street. Wiener missed the timepieces and gave Whalen chase. He ran at his heels for four or five blocks, and finally drove him into the arms of Patrolman Connors, who promptly embraced him. This morning he was arraigned in police court charged with grand larceny. He asked for a preliminary hearing and will have his examination Wednesday.

The boy burst into tears in court this morning when Chief Troyer asked him to tell his father's name in order that he might communicate with him. Whalen said that he didn't want his parents to know that he was in trouble. When taken into the office later he gave the name and address of his folks. He said his father is a machinist at Saginaw, Mich. He stated that he had shipped from a port in Ohio, but had left the ship here because the men on board were too "tough" for him. He also said that they were mean to him.

He explained that he had spent the last of his money for some clothes in the second-hand store, and found that he didn't have enough money to pay fr another job. It was then, he claims, that he stole the watches to get the cash with which to buy another job.

HOSPITAL IS CROWDED

Applications in large numbers are pouring in on A. P. Cook, county poor commissioner, for accommodations at the county tuberculosis hospital.

The hospital can care for about twenty-five patients and there are twice that number constantly clamoring for admission.

Mr. Cook says that at the hospital a great work is going on. He says that three patients that have been there for some time are almost sure of being competely cured. Many others are being given relief and have good chances of recovery.

Mr. Cook says that until one becomes interested against the fight against tuberculosis the great number of cases of the disease in the country cannot be imagined.

The poor commissioner says that the new county institution which has been talked of for some time cannot be erected and in shape to care for patients at too early a date.

PIONEER DIES AT LAKESIDE

James Rush, 86 years of age, one of the old residents of the city, died early yesterday morning at the home of his son, D. D. Rush, 4713 East Superior street. Death was due to a complication of diseases resulting from old age In addition to D. D. Rush he is survived by another son, Williiam Rush, and several grandchildren.

Mr. Rush came to Duluth about twenty-five years ago from Garden City, Minn. The body was sent back to his old home this afternoon for interment after services at the undertaking establishment of C. J. Stewart of Third avenue west. Mr Rush has made his home at Lakeside for some years and had a wide circle of acquaintances. His wife dled several years ago.

Escaping Steam Burns Child.
Napoleon, N. D., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—A very peculiar accident happened here by which the 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Stauffer may die. The child was standing just outside of the creamery, by the engine room, when the engineer opened the blow-off cock. The steam rushed out through the pipe and struck the child in the back, so severely scalding her that there seems to be little hope of recovery.

Latest Arrivals— Mens $1 plaited shirts. Sweater coats for men and women. E. & W. 25c linen collars. More shoes for men and women.

There's an air—there's a go — there's personality — there's high pressure to the style of our clothes for men and young men.

In our ample stock we've provided for all ages.

For Young Men, special suits that are tailored by experts for this particular period of life when a man is still growing, but is hardest to fit and most anxious to look his best.

No break on the shoulders.

No wrinkling in the front.

These suits are carefully fitted here with less try-ons than at the tailor's and when you take the clothes from here, they look as if they were made for you.

Then among suits for the older men, we subdivide the department in suits for men of regular build, for stout, slim and short men of the usual proportions, and for stout men that are either short or long.

It'll pay every man to keep track of the constant progress made by the leading, modern clothes-makers. It's only a question of time when the old-fashioned tailor will be as obsolete as the individual shoe, glove or hat-maker.

The best place in Duluth to study modern progress in clothes-making is the Columbia, where no cheaply-made suits are handled and where there is so large a stock that almost any man can be suited.

Suits, $10 to $35.

GAY CAREER IS CHECKED

Claimed to Have Swelled His Income By Unusual Swindling Methods.

Lee S. Gibson, 32 years of age, was arrested Saturday afternoon by Detectives Terry and Toewe, charged with embezzling $400 from the MacBeth & Gardner company, Michigan street meat dealers.

For years Gibson was a trusted employe of the Fitzsimmons-Palmer company, the largest commission house at the Head of the Lakes. Recently he has been on the road selling meats. Last summer his wife obtained a divorce from him on the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment, and his troubles are said to have had their inception at that time.

The police state that he resorted to dishonest means to swell his income in order to "go the pace." They state that he has been living beyond his means for some time.

Gibson is said to have defrauded other commission men besides MacBeth & Gardner. The Haugsrud & Marken company, Nineteenth avenue west and Michigan street, has complained to the authorities that he defrauded them out of $196.24 by the same methods worked on MacBeth & Gardner.

Gibson operated in a rather unusual manner. It is claimed that on May 3 he called up MacBeth & Gardner on the telephone, and represented himself as an agent of the Marine Supply company, stating that he wanted a large quantity of bacon, ham, butter and eggs. Asking if they had a rig handy, and, receiving a negative reply, he said he would send a dray.

In this manner he obtained about $50 worth of goods, which he tried to sell to Frank Suech, a retailer at 329 West First street. Mr. Suech said he suspected something was wrong, and informed MacBeth & Gardner.

Gibson, it is claimed, obtained in all about $400 worth of goods from MacBeth & Gardner. He also secured 366½ pounds of butter from Haugsrud & Marken on May 13 and 381 pounds on May 16 in this way. The police say that he sold the butter to the New England restaurant on First street, near First avenue west, and to the Public market.

Gibson asked for a preliminary examination when arraigned in police court this morning. The hearing will be held next Thursday afternoon. Bail was fixed at $1,000. C. E. Adams appeared as attorney for the young man. By a strange coincidence Attorney Adams represented Mrs. Gibson when she secured her divorce from the prisoner.

KILLS HIMSELF FOR ODD LOVE

Croatian Youth Becomes Despondent Over Girl He Never Saw.

Kansas City, Mo., May 23.—Love for a girl he had never seen caused Thomas Cindrich to commit suicide by jumping into the Kaw river here Sunday.

Cindrich came from Ogulin, Croatia, a few years ago. Becoming lonesome, he appealed to Mrs. Matthew Bidnick, the wife of a fellow countryman, to find him a sweetheart. She described several of her friends who were back in the old country, and Cindrich selected the one he thought he would like to marry.

Mrs. Bidnick took up the young man's cause, and, courting the girl by mail, won her consent to wed the bashful and saddened youth. Eighty dollars with which to pay her fare to this country was forwarded the girl. That was three weeks ago. No tidings came from Cindrich's fiancee. He became despondent, thinking she had died. For three nights he did not sleep. Hope deserted him.

"I'm going to find my sweetheart," he told a friend, as they were crossing the Kaw.

Scarcely had he uttered the words, when he leaped into the waters, thirty feet below.

ABOUT TEN MILLION IN PRINCETON GIFT.

Salem, Mass., May 23.—While the value of the immense gifts bequeathed to Princeton by Isaac C. Wyman is estimated loosely at $10,000,000, its exact amount is unknown even to the trustees. John M. Raymond an attorney of this city, who is one of the trustees, says that $10,000,000 is only an approximate estimate. He does not think the estate will exceed that value, and he is not prepared to say whether it will equal it.

"There are millions enough however," to take care of the needs of the graduate college, or proposed graduate college, for which, under the terms of the will, the money is designed.

TWENTY-THREE WANT TO BE MISSIONARIES.

New York, May 23.—The corresponding secretaries of the Women's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church are meeting at Seabright, N. J., and will continue their deliberations until Thursday.

This society, during its forty years of work, has sent $10,500,000 abroad for educational, evangelistic and medical work. During the last year $700,000 was appropriated. The applications of twenty-three candidates for missionary positions are being considered at this meeting.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

And most people say there isn't much doing in a political way! The game is getting so terrifically fast, it seems, that, not content with imposing upon the people a congressional contest that will be settled this fall, fate has dropped a bomb into the serenely unsuspecting Eighth district in the shape of a rivalry for the Republican nomination in 1912. "Already yet, so soon!" seems to be the only apropos remark to make.

Father Time Needs An Automobile

The Gilbert Herald is responsible for letting fate hurl the bomb. That range paper says—neatly dodging direct responsibility for this premature explosion—that Dame Rumor, whoever she may be, has it that P. E. Dowling and John Saari will be candidates for congress in that distant time.

"Both of the above named gentlemen are range products, so you can take your choice," adds the Herald, generously. "It's a long way ahead, anyway," is the Gilbert editor's afterthought.

The only theory that suggests itself in this crisis is that Mr. Saari and Mr. Dowling both have the ambition to beat a Democrat congressman when he runs for re-election, and for that reason have chivalrously given Judge Jaques warning that he cannot expect to have so easy a victory the second time he runs for congress as they expect he will have the first time.

Both of these range products are Duluth men now. Both are former members of the legislature. Mr. Dowling, who has been a resident of Eveleth for years, represented the Forty-ninth district in the thirty-third legislature (1903); Mr. Saari succeeded David Graham as his colleague in the thirty-fourth, and in the thirty-fifth legislature Joseph Austin succeeded Mr. Dowling as Mr. Saari's colleague. Just what kind of a see-saw they are planning to pull off in 1912 is hid in the opaque mists of mystery.

Mr. Saari is practicing law in Duluth, and Mr. Dowling is a recent addition to the population of the Zenith City, in the midst of which he plans to traffic in real estate, 'tis said.

Here are samples of press comment on the announcement that Judge Jaques will be a candidate for congress:

Montevideo Leader: "Congressman Miller of Duluth will find a foeman worthy of his steel in Judge Alfred Jaques, who has filed as a Democratic candidate."

Sandstone Courier: "The latest aspirant for political honors as a representative of this district on the Democratic ticket in the race against "Insurgent Miller at the coming election is Judge Alfred Jaques of Duluth. If he does not make the common error of most politicians by making "political promises" when knowingly unable to fill them all, he stands a good chance of receiving loyal support in this district. His announcement rings true, and has made him many supporters."

The Chicago Tribune has made an inquiry into the insurgency of certain members of congress, asking the members themselves to tell about it. "Why do you call me an insurgent Republican," asks Senator Nelson, and he lets it go at that. Not so Mr. Clapp, however. The junior senator explains it this way:

Insurgents From Minnesota.

"With such light as I am able to get, based upon my knowledge of the history of the Republican party, its achievements, traditions, and policies, and my interpretation of its platform, coupled with an overwhelming assurance from every section of the country that this interpretation is correct, I am trying to be in harmony with my party."

C. B. Miller of Duluth is classed with the insurgents for the purposes of this inquiry, and he explains that he feels entitled to the classification because he is opposed to the organization of the house which he was pledged to oppose and which he helped to put in power. Says Mr. Miller:

"Primarily I am an insurgent Republican because I believe the organization of the house of representatives of late has been opposed to the reform legislation demanded by the people. Incidentally, because the rules have aided a few to control the work of the house. These few—and they are few—have become arbitrary if not tyrannical, unrepresentative if not unrepublican. The last historical parallel is found in the tyrants who, though in a hopeless minority, ruled the Grecian republics for a period because of the people's inertia. Then a revolution sent the usurper into exile; here a like event is taking place. This is in no sense a criticism of or revolt against either the president or the Republican party, for we are effectuating the principles of that party."

C. A. Lindbergh—"I beg to state that I am an insurgent Republican because I have been designated such by reason of the fact that I have not accepted Cannon, Aldrich, and other bosses as my guides in official action. I consider that, as a representative of a sovereign people, I must act for and be responsible to my constituency, and do what seems to me for the common welfare. That, I believe, is called insurgency."

C. R. Davis—"I am an insurgent Republican within the Republican party because I am opposed to a system which has been perfected whereby a few Republican leaders undertake to dominate legislation and control Republican policies. I believe in progressive legislation demanded by the country, which I think this system, with its dominating leaders, is opposed to. I am an insurgent Republican because I believe the salvation of the party is through insurgency."

Senator E. E. Smith of Minneapolis is said to have been settled upon as the next chairman of the Republican state central committee, and if this selection is confirmed he may be permitted to add another to his list of titles, such as state senator, president of the senate, "near-lieutenant governor and boss of the legislature. Mr. Smith is one of the shrewdest politicians Minnesota ever had, but his corporation connections would seem to preclude his selection for the state chairmanship. However, he will know where to find campaign contributions.

E. L. Raab, whose legal residence is near Eveleth, expects to file in the near future as a candidate for the state senate from the Forty-ninth district. Mr. Raab is authority for the statement that Senator Vall will not be a candidate for re-election, his business interests requiring all his attention. Senator Vall told the prospective candidate of his decision some days ago, he says. W. B. Eaton of Hibbing has been mentioned as a probable candidate for the nomination, but Mr. Raab says he is confident that what opposition he may encounter will not amount to much. The Eveleth man is now in Duluth, where he spends much of his time.

Senator Vall Not Candidate?

At Crookston yesterday the German Rund changed its name to 'German-American Liberty League" and planned to take a hand in politics to an extent not heretofore attempted. The organization took in sixty-seven new members, making the total about 200, and elected William Emmerich a delegate to a state meeting of the orgaulization at St. Paul June 2. The league will oppose the county option movement.

O. G. Dale has delayed announcing himself as a candidate for renomination and re-election to the state senate from the Eighteenth district, where Olaf Gjerset of Montevideo and C. R. C. Blom of Milan have made formal declarations of their candidacies. Mr. Dale's delay is taken to mean that he may not be a candidate; that he is keeping out of the race so that his friend Jacob F. Jacobson, candidate for governor two years ago, may succeed him as senator.

"Jake" Candidate for Senate?

Mr. Jacobson is deeply interested in the county option campaign and is believed to have made up his mind that he can do that cause more good as a member of the senate than he can anywhere else. In and out of season, he is bitter in denunciation of the influence possessed by brewery and liquor interests in Minnesota politics, holding these interests largely responsible for his defeat when he was the Republican nominee for governor.

Mr. Dale and Mr. Jacobson are both residents of Madison, which also is the home of J. F. Rosenwald, one of the house members from the Eighteenth. Whether he will be renominated is in doubt, there being some talk of Peterson of Dawson for the place.

Last session the Fourteenth district was represented in the lower houses by a Democrat and a Republican—John Baldwin and D. A. Stuart. Dr. Sogge of Windom and J. H. Dickman are being mentioned for the house this year, but the incumbents are likely to ask for re-election. Dr. Sogge is being boomed by the optionists and Mr. Dickman is a Republican. C. W. Gillam of Windom and Andrew Olson of Jackson county are being groomed to oppose State Senator H. E. Hanson for the Republican nomination.

In the Fifty-sixth district Michael Ferch, who ran for the office two years ago and was beaten, will make another try for the senate. Ray G. Farrington now represents the district. He is a Democrat and will be opposed for renomination by P. W. Bresnahan. The Republicans of the district are joyful over the prospect of a scrap on the other side and are hopeful that the Republican nominee will be able to reclaim the district for the Republican party.

Reapportionment seems to be in the air. The Red Wing Free Press wants a reapportionment of state officers, to the end that the rest of the state may be as well represented in the statehouse as is St. Paul.

Henry Rines of Mora, representative in the last legislature from the Thirty-second district, who was in the city Friday, declared that in his opinion county option is sure to come in Minnesota. In his district the sentiment for such legislation is strong, even Pine county, which has been supposed to be but little taken with the idea, showing symptoms of joining in the demand that has flourished in Chisago and Kanabec counties.

Sees Demand For County Option.

Mr. Rines did not say that he believed the anti-saloon forces would win their victory in the coming legislature, but the trend of his remarks indicated that he would not be greatly surprised if such a result were accomplished.

As to reapportionment, he doubted that the next legislature can be persuaded to enact a measure that will give Northern Minnesota its just share of representation. Mr. Rines is strongly in favor of a measure of that kind, he having worked and voted in the last legislature for one. His fear is that the senators elected this fall for a four year term will not allow the passage of a bill that will legislate them out of office at the end of two years.

If this proves a correct size-up of what the situation will be, and if the county optionists are unable to pass their pet measure during the legislature this winter, they must necessarily defer their hope of ultimate victory for at least four years.

Representative W. H. Putnam of Red Wing is expected to be the county option candidate for state senator from Goodhue county, Speaker A. J. Rockne probably dropping out of the race. V. B. Seward of Marshall, who voted against option in the upper house at the last session, probably will be opposed for the nomination by Representative J. N. Johnson of Canby.

The argument that Mr. Tawney should be re-elected "because of his prominence in the affairs of the nation is rot," says the Madison Independent Press." A man need not betray the people he represents to become prominent."

SUNDAY SCHOOL RANKS ARE SPLIT

Color Line Question Gives Rise to Some Hot Discussion.

Washington, May 23.—Discussion is hot today in the world's sixth Sunday school convention over the criticisms which some of the British delegates publicly heaped upon the Washington committee in the churches yesterday for barring the negro delegates of the District of Columbia from the mammoth parade last Friday.

With two exceptions the criticising sermons were made by white men, and in addition to the English speakers two American delegates, W. N. Hartshorn of Boston and Louis Strolber of Plymouth church, Brooklyn, denounced the drawing of the color line.

Rev. John L. Dube, a Zulu delegate, got up at one of the meetings and declared that he had been admitted to hotels in London and New York but not in Washington.

The whole incident has stirred up varied feelings and it is not improbable that the question may be carried into the convention.

LOOKS OUT CAR WINDOW; HEAD CUT OFF BY CAR.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 23.—Andrew Brown, a machinist, 20 years old, while looking out of a street car window, was struck by a car passing in the opposite direction and decapitated. His body was drawn through the window, dragged along the side of the car and dropped headless on the back platform.

The Dress Goods Sale

Continues tomorrow and until the greater part of the sale groups are gone.

Judging from the response to Sunday's announcement—that is but a matter of a few days.

It is self-evident that Duluth women appreciate the importance of a cut-price sale of S. & B. Co. Dress Fabrics.

The bolt tags show regular prices.
The sale prices speak for themselves.

REGULAR PRICES 60c, ON SALE AT 40c A YARD—36-inch Shepherd Checks in black and white, blue and white, brown and white. Every woman knows the popularity of these two colored minglings this season.

REGULAR PRICES 85c, ON SALE AT 60c A YARD—These black and white Shepherd Checks are 44 inches wide and worth more than we askt for them at regular prices. They should create a mild furore at the above sale price—not only with S. & B. Co. patrons, but with every woman within reach of this store.

REGULAR PRICES $1.75, ON SALE AT $1.25—Ample assortments of these 50-inch Imported Black and White Shepherd Checks that will be, according to latest Paris reports, as popular next fall as now.

REGULAR PRICES $2 AND $2.25, AT $1.50—These imported Black and White Fancy Checks are 52 inches wide and come to us from the best European looms.

REGULAR PRICES $1.50, AT $1.20 A YARD—45-inch Fancy Suitings—a number of these as well as stripes and checks, in shades of tan and gray.

REGULAR PRICES $1, ON SALE AT 70c A YARD—There are a number of gray stripes, a multitude of checks, and quite a few novelty suitings, and they are all 42 inches wide.

REGULAR PRICE $1.75, AT $1.25 A YARD—Basket Weaves in tones of tan and mahogany, that are imported and 45 inches wide.

REGULAR PRICE $2.75, AT $2 A YARD—Imported French Boucle in shades of tan, reseda, wistaria and gray. These goods are 48 inches wide.

REGULAR PRICE $2.50, AT $1.75 A YARD—Fancy Striped Suitings in dark tones of olive green, wistaria and gray blue—imported, of course, and 48 inches wide.

REGULAR PRICE $3, ON SALE AT $2.25 A YARD—50-inch imported French Monotone Basket Weaves, in shades of wistaria, raisin, green and gray blue.

The Half Price Suit Sale

(Custom Made and Summer Lines Alone Reserved.)

Continues to offer exceptional assortments of light-weight and Fashionable Suits at just Half of their regular prices.

From the $75.00 suits at $37.50 to the $25.00 suits at $12.50, any woman can capture a strictly stylish model in any practical material—in any size: from a girl to the woman of unusually large proportions—AND at just half of what she expected to pay. Notwithstanding the unprecedented selling of the past week, our stocks were larger still, so the woman who reads this can be sure of a satisfying variety to choose from—tomorrow or any day this week.

The White Sale

Has something out of the ordinary to offer every woman who needs fresh and dainty undermuslins—especially the June bride—her mother and her sister. Prices are less than at any other time of the year.

FOUR SENIORS TO READ ESSAYS

There are only twelve more days of recitations for the Central high school seniors and a program for the commencement exercises which will be held June 17, is being prepared by Mr. Sprague and Mrs. Custance.

Besides the class oration by Robert Donaldson, president of the 1910 class, four of the seniors will read their senior essays. Miss Marion Williamson, Alma Strand, Elizabeth Mitchell and Laurence Boyle are the members of the class whom Mr. Sprague has chosen to read their essays. Miss Williamson's essay is on the "Growth og Duluth and the Commerce of the Great Lakes;" Miss Strand's on "The American Drama;" Miss Mitchell's on, "The Scotch and Their Folk Lore," and Laurence Boyle's on "What Is Worth While in a College Education."

The title of Robert Donaldson's oration has not yet been announced, but Mr. Sprague says the essay is on Gifford Pinchot and conservation.

The senior class practiced the songs, which they will sing that night, this agternoon. The musical part of the program is being taken care of by Mr. Custance.

UNITARIANS GATHER FOR THEIR ANNIVERSARY.

Boston, Mass., May 23.—Morning prayer in King's chapel conducted by Rev. D. LAUNCH HIT A STURGEON

This is a true fish story.

When Frank H. Wade and a party of friends were running up the St. Louis river on Friday evening last in the launch, "Gee Whiz," the boat struck and stunned a large sturgeon, which was taken alive by the occupants of the craft. It was afterwards killed and Saturday evening a sturgeon supper was served at the Jacoby cottage at Fond du Lac.

The fish weighed 26½ pounds and measured 43½ inches in length. It was hit by the propellor of the launch and knocked senseless, floating along beside the boat. The collision with the sturgeon had stopped the engine and had badly bet the propeller. The fish was taken aboard and soon afterwards it revived.

Arthur Jacoby, one of the occupants of the "Gee Whiz," found it necessary to kill the fish and he used a wrench lying in the boat for this purpose. The fish was taken to the Jacoby camp, where it was measured and weighed. A half day's work was required to straighten out the propellor of the boat.

Those who were in the boat at the time were: F. H. Wade, Arthur Jacoby, Mrs. Henry Colgraff and two children and Mrs. M. Jacoby, all of West Duluth. The affair happened only a short distance from the Jacoby camp. The occupants of the boat say that they will vouch for the accuracy of the story.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING

Halfred, the 16-year-old son of Adolph Gustaffson of Tacony street, West Duluth, escaped death by drowning in the St. Louis river yesterday afternoon by a hair's breadth. He was pulled out of the water near the Grassy Point bridge by a man, whose name was not learned.

Young Gustaffson was fishing and had a small perch on his line. He had been sitting on one of the cross beams under the drawbridge but, in his excitement, he stood up. He lost his balance and toppled over into the water. A number of people witnessed the accident.

A man standing on the shore assisted by George Deatherage of Fifty-ninth avenue west went to the boy's assistance. The youngster knew how to swim but he was slipping away from the bridge, and becoming exhausted, when the man caught hold of him. He was pulled out and taken to shore.

CLAIMS HUSBAND ASSAULTED HER.

Frank Stroik of 3905 West Seventh street was arrested this morning by the police at West Duluth on the complaint of his wife, who alleges that Stroik struck here. She claims that last night she was compelled to stay all night at a neighbor's house. Because his wife said that he had threatened her the police took away a rifle which Stroik had in the house. He will be arraigned this evening before Judge Flack. Stroik is a millwright, 39 years old.

BICYCLE THIEF IS CONSCIENCE STRICKEN.

Bothered by his conscience, the unknown thief who stole a bicycle, the property of Hubert Scanlon of 211 North Fifty-third avenue west, returned the property to the West Duluth police station last evening.

The wheel was found this morning near the door of the police station and was identified by Scanlon as his property. The bicycle was taken from in front of the Duluth hospital, Central avenue and Bristol street, one day last week.

Scanlon recovered it this morning.

WILL DECIDE ON OBSERVANCE OF FOURTH.

The final decision in regard to the proposition of celebrating the Fourth of July at West Duluth will be made tomorrow afternoon at a mass meeting at the Duluth Commercial club rooms.

It will be necessary, it is thought, to raise about $500 for the celebration. Already $100 is on hand for the purpose. This amount was left over from the last celebration, which was held at West Duluth ten years ago.

SUNDAY MORNING FIRE DOES SLIGHT DAMAGE.

Fire broke out early Sunday morning at the residence of R. A. Brooks, 26 South Forty-sixth avenue west, while the family was away from home. The blaze attracted the attention of neighbors, who turned in an alarm.

The Brooks family lost considerable furniture and the damage to the building will be close to $200. Both the house and the contents are insured. The house is the property of Mrs. J. W. Lundgren of 14 South Forty-sixth avenue west.

Henry Johnson has returned from a short visit with friends at Fergus Falls, Minn.

Miss Vera Rockwell and Miss Maude Gilbert will leave tomorrow morning for Hibbing, where they attend the annual convention of the St. Louis County Sunday School association as delegates from Asbury M. E. Sunday school.

D. A. Crosby returned this morning to his home, 117 South Sixtieth avenue west, from Rochester, Minn., where his wife underwent an operation.

Mrs. J. T. Morgan of 4603 Green street will entertain the Ladies' Aid Society of the Merritt Memorial M. E. church at her home Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Gertrude Johnson has returned from a visit to Minneapolis.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Asbury M. E. church will meet Wednesday afternoon with Rev. and Mrs. W. G. Boyle at the parsonage, 5009 Raleigh street. Rev. E. F. Stidd, pastor of Merritt Memorial M. E. church, will leave tomorrow for Brook Park, Minn., where Tuesday and Wednesday evenings he will give lectures. His first lecture is on "New Ideals."

Mrs. J. A. Bellmeur and Miss Belle Bellmeur of 407 North Fifty-seventh avenue west, have left for Eastern Canada, where they will make a three months' visit.

Mr. and Mrs. D. McKindley and daughter, Clara, of Portland, Or., former residents of West Duluth, are here on a visit with friends.

Funeral services were held this afternoon for Mrs. Eliza Booker, 93 years old, who died Saturday. The funeral was conducted from the residence of her granddaughter, Mrs. Minnie Leary, 429 North Sixtieth avenue west, with interment at Forest Hill cemetery. Rev. J. T. Moody officiated.

Herman Haugland has returned from Chicago.

GOT THE WRONG PAPERS.

Citizenship papers were made out this morning by the clerk of the district court for a man who wanted a marriage license, but failed to make himself understood.

He did not know there was such a thing as marriage licenses, but knew that he had to have credentials of some sort from the clerk's office. He asked for his first papers and they were made out. He left the office twice that he might get information about himself so that he might get them.

Deputy Clerk Smith nearly fainted when the man asked if there was any one about the building that could perform the ceremony.

"What ceremony?" asked the astonished clerk.

The clerk and he finally got together, had a little talk and he got the marriage license in the end.

HOPKINS SAYS HE IS NOT GUILTY

Jesse Hopkins, arrested Saturday night by Sergeant Roberg and Patrolman Riedel on the charge of conducting a house of ill fame, pleaded not guilty in police court this morning. The trial was set for this afternoon. Louise Davis, the woman taken into custody at the same time, said she was guilty, but disposition of her case was postponed pending Hopkins' trial.

The Davis woman is well known to the police. She was formerly an inmate of the red light district and has been arrested many times, the police say.

However, that does not save Hopkins from suffering the penalty of the new white slave statute if he has been receiving money from an immoral woman. If the facts can be proved he can be indicted by the grand jury and possibly sent to the state penitentiary.

First dance tonight at Lester Park.

ARGUMENTS ARE PRESENTED.

Aitkin, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Arguments in he Fournier murder trial were presented this forenoon by County Attorney McKusick for the state and W. H. Crowell, assistant counsel for the defense. Mr. Scrutchin, chief counsel for Fournier, will close the argument this afternoon. This will be followed by Judge Stanton's charge, and it is believed the jury will retire to consider the verdict before 4 p. m.

ECLIPSE OF THE MOON IS DUE

The comet was faintly visible for a time in the western sky last night and many people saw the visitor. It appeared first about 9 o'clock and was shut off by clouds and obscured by moonlight between 9:30 and 10 o'clock. The nucleus appeared about as bright as a star of the first magnitude and the tail was dimly visible.

Tonight an eclipse of the moon is due and the comet should be visible under most favorable circumstances if the sky is clear. The light of the moon discounts the glow of the comet greatly, making the celestial visitor invisible or very dim when the moon is shining brightly. When the moon is obscured by the eclipse the comet should stand out in the sky as brightly as it will any time during its present visit to the earth.

EXCAVATING FOR NEW BUILDING

The county commissioners have called for bids for the heating and ventilating plants to be installed in the new district court building now in course of construction at Virginia.

The bids will be opened at the next meeting of the board, which takes place June 6.

The excavation has been started at the site of the new building and good progress is being made. Work on the superstructure is soon to begin.

The Bailey-Marsh company, a Minneapolis concern, has been awarded the main building contract, but it does not include the heating or ventilating. The contract calls for a completed building Nov. 7 of the present year. It is expected that the building will be finished on schedule time.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

STATE SELLS SCHOOL LAND

Nearly 3,000 Acres in St. Louis County Disposed of By Auditor.

Many People From Other States Are Buying Minnesota Lands.

Nearly 3,000 acres of state school land in St. Louis county was sold at public auction this morning at the courthouse by State Auditor S. G. Iverson and his assistant, Theodore Nelson. In all about 18,000 acres were for sale, but it was not expected that all would be sold.

When the sale opened this morning a large number of people were present and the bidding was spirited. Many people were anxious to get farming land in St. Louis county on the easy terms offered by the state and they all seemed to be satisfied with what they secured. The average price paid per acre was $6. Some of the land went as low as $5, which is the lowest it can be sold under the law.

The highest price paid for land was $16.25. Edward Seyk of Kewanee, Wis., bought a half section in section 3-61-21, at tha price. Erick Erid bought the sw¼ of the sw¼ of section 14-61-21, and paid the same price.

Auditor Iverson says that the sales this year have been very successful. Up to date nearly 65,000 acres of land have been sold as compared with 34,000 acres, the total amount of the land sales in 1909. The sales, he says, are the most successful in point of quantity sold and the price paid in the history of the state sales.

In Clearwater county he sold 1,040 acres; in Kittson, 2,760; Roseau, 8,360; Red Lake, 2,760; Marshall, 7,410 and in St. Louis county, 3,000. This makes a total of nearly 25,000 acres of Minnesota state school lands sold during the past few days.

Purchases By Non-Residents.

During the last week land has been sold to twenty-seven people from other states. They bought 5,660 acres. Four of these parties were from the state of Washington, there were a number from Illinois and several from North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa and Wisconsin.

Mr. Iverson says that this is significant of the fact that not only are people waking up to the future greatness of this northern country, but also that the money expended by the state in advertising what it has to offer the settler is spent to advantage.

The state auditor says that many who have owned farms in Iowa and other old farming states are coming to Minnesota after selling their old homes. All these people do not buy state lands, he says, but on inquiry among the real estate agents in every town he has visited he has found that many are following that course. Nearly 25 per cent of all the land sold on this last trip has been to non-residents.

The terms on which the land is sold is most liberal. Only 15 per cent of the purchase price was required to be paid down. The balance may run forty years, with interest at 4 per cent per annum. All mineral rights are reserved by the state. These sales come but once a year and the law requires that the land be sold at public auction. It will be impossible to purchase any school lands in St. Louis county until the 1911 sale.

The party left for Carlton, where a sale will be held this afternoon. From Carlton the party will go to Aitkin, where a sale will be held Tuesday, and then to Princeton, where a sale will take place Wednesday.

GUESTS AT AUTO RIDE ARRESTED

Lee Gibson Didn't Have Money to Pay His Bill.

John Heald and George Mason, giving their occupations as salesmen, got in "bad" Friday afternoon, when they accompanied Lee S. Gibson on an automobile ride. Gibson was arrested Saturday afternoon for embezzling $410 from the MacBeth & Gardner company. It seems that Gibson met Mason and Heald on the street and invited them to take a ride in the machine, which he had hired from the Board of Trade livery. The car was gone five hours, and it is said that when they returned to the stable Gibson didn't have the wherewithal to settle. Capt. James Sullivan, the proprietor, held the three men responsible, but it appears that the two with money couldn't come to terms with him. Capt. Sullivan swore out a warrant for the arrest of Mason, Heald and Gibson, and the first two were brought in Saturday afternoon, after Gibson had been arrested. The grand larceny warrant was held against Gibson, and the other two were charged with hiring an automobile without paying for its hire. The bill was $25, as specified in the warrant. The cases against Mason and Heald were dismissed in police court this morning for lack of evidence.

ANOTHER STEP IN THE CHICAGO TRACTION DEAL.

Chicago, May 23.—Judge Grosscup in the United States circuit court here today appointed receivers for the Chicago Railways company which operates the West and North side street car lines. The company is not insolvent and the receivership is believed to be a mere legal move in connection with Judge Ball's recent decision holding the railway companies liable for bonds of the Moribund Consolidated Traction company.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

Mrs. Alexander Milne was the guest of honor at a birthday surprise reception Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. B. Paul of 1632 East First street. The affair was arranged by the Ladies' union of Pilgrim church and during the afternoon a large company of the members and guests called to greet Mrs. Milne. The house was attractively decorated in wild flowers, cherry blossoms being used. In the dining room the appointments were in yellow, yellow pansies being the table decorations and wild violets, the dainty flowers being used. A birthday cake with yellow candles occupied the place of honor.

During the afternoon, Mrs. O. J. Larson sang and there was a reading by Mrs. F. B. Rollins. A series of toasts in compliment to Mrs. Milne were given by a number of the members.

THIEM-EVERHARD

Wedding Takes Place at Minneapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Everhard will return this week from their wedding trip. Their wedding took place Wednesday of last week at Minneapolis and many Duluthians will be interested in the following social note from the Minneapolis Journal of yesterday:

"Miss Edna Catherine Thiem, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Thiem, of 1322 Douglas avenue south, was married to Frank Taggart Everhard Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thiem. Rev. Clement G. Clarke of the First Congregational church, read the service at 8 o'clock in the presence of the immediate relatives and intimate friends. No invitations had been issued. The ceremony was performed below the bow window in the living room amid appointments of green and white. An altar of palms and white roses was lighted by cathedral candles.

"Miss Elizabeth Nelson was the maid of honor and she wore a white chiffon gown embroidered in pink and carried a shower bouquet of Dorothy Perkins roses. The bride wore a robe of cream silk poplin trimmed with duchess lace and pearls. Her shower bouquet was formed of bride roses, lilies-of-the-valley and stephanotis. Oliver Lovell was Mr. Everhard's best man. Preceding the service Mrs. Helen Smith sang 'The Sweetest Story Every Told,' and 'Mendelssohn's Spring Song.' George Danes of St. Paul accompanied Mrs. Smith and played the wedding march.

"Mr. and Mrs. Thiem and the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. William Everhard, assisted in receiving the guests after the ceremony. All the rooms were decorated in green and white except the dining room, where American Beauty roses were used. A wedding supper was served in the dining room. Mrs. Monroe Freeman of St. Anthony park, and Mrs. George Campbell served ices and coffee. Frappe was served by Miss Helen Lovell, assisted by the Misses Catherine Rittenhouse, Julia Porter and Helen Gullies.

"The bride's going away gown was brown silk with brown hat. Mr. and Mrs. Everhard will reside in Duluth. The bride finished her education at the Chevy Chase school in Washington, D. C., two years ago and the same year the bridegroom graduated at the law school of the university where he was a member of the Delta Chi fraternity."

PUPILS' ORCHESTRA

Appear in Creditable Performance at Lyceum.

The concert which was presented yesterday afternoon at the Lyceum by the orchestra of the Flaaten Conservatory, assisted by a few of the professional musicians of the city, was one of the most interesting musical events of the year. The audience was appreciative, but a large number of Duluthians are not aware of the conscientious and fine work that is being done by this local orchestra under the direction of Mr. Flaaten. A local musician in attendance at the concert has prepared the following review of yesterday's concert:

"When the curtain rose at the Lyceum yesterday it rose upon a scene that must have gladdened the heart of everyone who believes that the future of music is in the hands of the orchestra and that the orchestra, like every other institution, is dependent upon the individual training of its members. Sixty musicians were in place, ready at the raising of the director's baton to send out the beautiful harmonies of sound. True, the young people of the school were reinforced by some of the members of the Flaaten orchestra, but this fact, instead of in any way detracting from the excellence of the work of the pupils, greatly enhanced its value, for no professional musician will trouble to risk his reputation by playing with incompetent amateurs. It merely proves that so far there are not pupils ready to execute on every instrument of the orchestra.

"The beautiful Gade overture, which opened the concert, was full of mystery and wonder, and breathed the very spirit of music, and ocean, and wind, and caves, as it swelled and fell under the interpreting hand of the director.

"The Rubenstein number, being more familiar to the audience, was listened to with the pleasure it gives one to meet an old friend of the piano, dressed in the full garb of orchestral dignity. But perhaps the greatest treat to some were the Haydn numbers. The contrast between the romantic and the classical schools was very clear and accurately given. Dainty, clear, concise, logical, that is Haydn, and so was he rendered by the painstaking pupils.

"Back again to the romantic with Tschaikowsky's exquisite "Romanzo," and the mood all changed.

"Interspersed with excellent judgment between these orchestral numbers came the pupils of the vocal class. To mention any one in particular might seem to be partial where everyone did so well. But it is impossible but to say a word of the great pleasure Miss Ruth Brown gave in the 'Magic Song' by Meyer-Helmud. You dropped the attitude of wondering how it would be done, to simply enjoying the beautiful music. Of all the young singers it may be truthfully said that there were none of the faults so often expected in young debutantes. No harshness, nothing forced and no discords, and the enunciation was good.

"The chorus from the 'Flying Dutchman' was excellent in tone and nuance —possibly a little nervousness as to ensemble made itself felt now and then.

"The charming 'Spring Song' is always appropriate, and was followed by a most difficult violin solo by Correlli—again the classical school. The execution of this number was very creditable to Mr. Lavick, showing splendid technique, and proving the careful teaching that could bring about results. The three dances which closed the concert were given with nerve and spirit and were a fitting ending to a well balanced program. Criticism? Yes, there was a man once of whom a poet said he had one fault in his infancy—he was a boy—before he became a man! But the wise rejoiced that this fault corrected itself. There has been a great deal of talk anent the organization of an orchestra. It seems to be largely on the surface, a question of money. but there are some who ask, given the money support, have we the material in Duluth to make an orchestra?

Here it is, in the making. The public has not yet begun to realize what a concert of this kind means to the city of Duluth, or it would certainly respond more gerously to the effort put forth—respond by placing its children under such excellent training and by giving itself the pleasure, and the teachers of the conservatory the encouragement which a large attendance at such occasions would insure."

TRY THIS DINNER

Kenilworth Soup.

Cook half a peck of fresh spinach in as little water as possible and press through a sieve. Add to it three cups of beef stock, season with salt and pepper and reheat. Take cold boiled rice, mix with raw egg to bind and shape into small balls. Dip in egg and crumbs and fry in deep fat. Add the rice balls to the soup just before serving.

Meat—Braised Liver.

Lard with salt pork a whole calf's liver. Put in roaster. Put over this two cups of boiling water, one-half cup of celery, carrots and onions, one-half a green pepper, all minced fine. Season well with salt and pepper, cover closely; cook two hours. Delicious. Thicken the gravy and serve.

Salad—Watercress and Apple Salad.

Wash the cress, having it perfectly fresh and crisp, and arrange it lightly in the salad bowl. Peel some rather tart apples, cut into thin small slices and put over the cress. Make a dressing of two tablespoons cider vinegar, six tablespoons of oil, salt, white pepper and a very little sugar. Pour over the cress and apples and serve immediately. A fine and discriminating taste has declared that watercress is particularly toothsome when served as an accompaniment for water fowl.

Dessert—Chinese Pudding.

Into one pint of thick whipped cream stir one-half cup of chopped preserved ginger, one-half cup of powdered sugar and one-half cup of boiled rice. Dissolve one-half cup of Irish moss in boiling water, using as little water as possible. Strain and stir into the cream mixture. Stir until it thickens. Set away to harden and serve with ginger sauce.

Ginger Sauce.

To one-fourth cup chopped preserved ginger add one cup of water and one-fourth cup of sugar, and boil five minutes. Pour over well beaten whites of two eggs. Add two tablespoons of lemon juice and chill. This recipe serves six people.

THE PROCESS OF DISILLUSIONMENT

By ALVA ARMSTRONG.

The exceptions prove the rule that the husband most women get is about as tolerable a creature as they can reasonably expect. A young lady friend of mine rushed into my arms the other day with apparently joyful news.

"Well, my dear," I greeted, "and what is the exciting cause of the ecstacy this time?"

"Oh," she said, "I've been to see a clyairvoyant. It was such fun. He tells things so truly."

"Oh," I replied, "does he? And what did he tell you?"

"I do not quite remember everything," was her response, "but I know he said I should be married in two or three years' time."

"Yes," I answered, "and who is to be the happy man?"

"Well, you see," responded the dear girl, "the clairvoyant said he could not clearly vision him, because I did not even know myself, but after a while I should get used to him and be quite happy."

And that, in fact, is the position of most young women. They don't know who their future husband is going to be; but this at least they may count on—they will get used to him after a while, and be at least as happy as they deserve to be.

But before a young woman does get used to her husband she will probably have to revise most of her notions about him. In married life people have plenty of time to find each other out. With a husband the process of finding out is gradual. It always commences a little while after the honeymoon, and ends—well, I really don't know whether it ever does end; but it is certain that every woman who gets married, however beautiful she is, and however sweet and good she thinks she is, sooner or later discovers that there are occasional moments when, if words and actions go for any thing, her beauty and her sweetness and her goodness fall into the category of the commonplace so far as her husband is concerned. For the husband most women get is at times painfully liable to grumps and grumbling at the slightest cause, or what we women regard as the slightest cause.

In the first place, he is a very practical person, however much the poetry of his wooing may have diffused that aspect of his character. He will often fail to see the beauty of his wife as soon as he notes the absence of a button whereon to fasten the back of his collar, and be oblivious to her sweetness and goodness when he perceives a minute hole in the heel of one of his socks. And however a wife may explain or excuse, and put the blame on somebody else—Mary Jane or Matilda Ann—as is the way of our sex when we are really cornered, she can plainly see that her explanations are not at all convincing, for the said husband always argues that if a neglecf or mishap isn't her fault, she should be nobody else's. It is not his habit to tolerate "Please, sir, it was the other boy," in his business, and as he regards his home as a sort of a business over which his wife has supreme control (when he isn't there) he doesn't like her to fall short in the business management; not, at any rate, when it affects him.

If she chooses to fasten up herself with pins, or break her teeth on a piece of toast as hard as a rock, or go about with a hole in her stocking, that is her affair. For his part, it annoys him, and depend on it, when the husband most women get is annoyed, he does not hesitate to mention it.

In the early days of marriage it is possible for a woman to soothe his savage breast by tears of sorrow and kisses of repentance. But I want women, particularly young women, to remember that they cannot compound for sins they are inclined to by kissing those they have a mind to. If men could be kept buttonholed by our pretty tears, if our husbands could be darned and mended by luscious kisses, we should have nothing whatever to worry us. As it is, marriage for most of us women is a compound of poetry and prose. Alas, that so much of the poetry should escape through an insignificant hole in one of our husband's socks!

FARM AND GARDEN

Remove Debilitating Growths.

The growths which spring up near plum and other fruit trees and roses have an exhausting effect, and are rightly termed suckers. They should be carefully cut away from this point of origin, removing a little soil for the purpose.

It is useless cutting them off near the ground; remove the soil down to the root from which they spring, and make a clean cut with a sharp knife. It may be stated that the principal cause of the appearance of suckers round fruit trees is the damage done by digging among the roots of the trees with the spade.

When carelessly used the spade scrapes the surfaces of the thicker roots, and from these wounded surfaces the suckers spring. When roses throw up suckers round their base it is owing to the non-removal of the buds in preparing the stocks before planting.

Habits of the Tropaeolum.

The kinds of tropaeolum which have perennial or long-enduring roots grown in gardens are tropaeolum speciosum, or what is known as the flame flower, as its bloom is a rich scarlet, and tropaeolum tuberosum, the flowers of which are yellow and red and the leaves something like those of the shamrock.

The first one has long, creeping roots, like a cool, shady place, and is not easy to establish, but once it does get well hold of the ground it becomes stronger each year and flowers suddenly for a long season. It needs some spray branches to cling to. The latter one has curious shaped tuberous roots, while it may be raised in cool soil, to lift each autumn after the growth has died down, replanting in March. When strong the growth will run up ten feet in height and carry a great profusion of flowers.

Getting Rid of Snails and Ants.

Half fill some saucers with molasses or syrups and put them down by the runs of the ants and you will trap them all. To kill snails sprinkle the surface line early in the morning with soot, fresh lime or salt. Use the latter sparingly. The lime is the most sure if fresh and hot.

THE EVENING STORY

HIS WIFE'S RELATIONS

By Reginald Holden.

The only fault I have to find with Edna, Graham admitted to me pensively, is that she's got too many relations. I can't remember all their names and haven't seen half of them, and shouldn't recognize most of those I have seen if I passed them in the street. I dare say I should recognize her Uncle Hiram, but he's one of them I never want to meet again.

He called soon after I'd come back, from seeing Edna off on a fortnight's holiday. I heard the knock, and our maid said it was a man who asked for Mrs. Graham, and inquired for me when he learned that she was away. I asked what sort of a man, and was he a gentleman, and she said if so, he was disguised. He had a red, whiskery face, and a shabby derby, and was seedy and down at the heel, as if he'd knocked about a good deal and had been a good deal knocked about himself.

"Ha!" he bubbled over with joy. "You are my nephew George?"

"I'm George," I said stiffish, "but I don't know about nephew."

"But Edna does," says he. "She told me all about you in her letters before you were married. I'm her Uncle Hiram. How are you? How's the baby?"

He held out his hand, and what could I do?" I asked him would he come in, and he was inside before I could shut my mouth.

I was sorry Edna was visiting her mother and had taken the baby, and the girl had gone with her to nurse it, and the maid was sleeping in the basement to get my meals for me, so I couldn't make him very comfortable; but it didn't matter a bit, he said; he wasn't used to comforts, and would stay and keep me company anyhow, because he would like to see Edna and the baby when they returned.

His appetite was genuine, and he drank all right, and there's no doubt he knew Alaska. It's full of money, he said, but he was prejudiced against it, in consequence of the cold weather.

The East is safer, he said, and now that he has more money than he wants, he's going to settle down here, and he asked me to oblige him by inquiring about the rents in Harlem, and whether they've got bath rooms, and I promised him I would.

Well, as he didn't offer to get away, I asked him to stop, and he stopped. Mind you, he wasn't showy; he was just what I've always imagined, a wealthy miner—too rich to care about his appearance, or his habits, or anything.

He certainly seemed pretty thirsty, and he went fast asleep at last on our couch whilst I was trying to imitate for him what was the nearest the baby could do in talking; and as I couldn't wake him up at bedtime, I told the maid not to sit up, and after a while, as he was too heavy to carry, I packed him round with chairs and left him, and went to bed.

About daybreak, I woke, startled, with an awful feeling that there'd been a terrific bump somewhere, and I put on my dressing gown and found it was Uncle Hiram. He'd tumbled off the couch, pulled the cloth off the table, and smashed things, and there were chairs lying on their backs all over the floor. By the time I'd reached him he was helping himself to whisky and spilling it down his collar because the fall had made him feel faint.

However, I managed to get him up as far as the spare room, and luckily next morning was Sunday, and I was able to have my sleep out. He had his out, too, and didn't come down to breakfast till it was almost time to go to bed again.

On the whole, he was agreeable, but not quite nice. His purse was in his baggage, which he had booked straight to our address, and he borrowed $5 so that he might have some pocket money to tip the expressman.

The maid left us that evening and said she would not demean herself by coming again as long as that man remained. It seems he chucked her under the chin, which was undoubtedly disgraceful until you knew, as he explained to me, that it was an Alaskan custom and generally regarded as complimentary out there.

I wrote a long letter to Edna, and said what a pity it was he wasn't at home to take proper care of her uncle; then I made breakfast next morning, but, to tell the truth, I didn't feel easy after leaving him all day by himself.

He said he wouldn't mind and urged me to go; it worried him to think I was neglecting the office on his account; but I took him for a walk, and whilst I was dispatching a telegram to say I was ill, he spent part of my $5 on two bottles of whisky. When I hinted that he needed new clothes, he said he's got plenty coming along in his baggage, but was willing to borrow a suit of mine in the meantime, because he fancied Edna would wish him to do so.

Very affable he was, and of a generous nature. He had bought the whisky for us both, only I never have any except for toothache; he said I looked as if I'd got it and ought to have some now, but as a matter of fact, I hadn't, so he drank my share, too, and this rather upset him. He was so sick I could hardly drag him up to bed, and for two pins I'd have fetched a doctor, for I was not quite certain whether it was intoxication or a fit.

I was relieved to find him alive the next morning, and showed him a telegram that had just arrived from Edna, saying she was coming home and would be with us about noon, and I must not go out till she came.

"I thought she'd come as soon as she knew I was here," he said; and he was very pleased about it. "I haven't set eyes on her," he said, since she was a little tot. She'll be wild with delight," he said.

And she was wild, too, when she came, but it wasn't with delight. He was out at the moment.

She says he was an imposter. From my description of him she says he was the shabby loafer she noticed sitting on the seat against us at the station when I went to see her off and she was giving me hints about how to manage in her absence; he must have overheard her, she says, and followed me home and made a fool of me, especially as she has no Uncle Hiram; the only uncle she has is named Walter, and he is in the Philippines.

He may have been run over, or he may have lost his memory all of a sudden, and be still wandering around trying to recollect who he is. Edna said two of her rings and one or two other little trifles of jewelry had vanished from our room; and though it's true he might have gone there while I was downstairs, she is often so careless, that it is more likely that she has mislaid them; but she has taken such an illogical dislike to the man that I don't believe she would believe in him even if he came back tomorrow with his certificate of birth and a letter of recommendation from the pastor of his church.

Before she left me alone again I suggested that she should make out a complete list of her relatives, their names, ages, and identification marks, in case any more turned up. She wouldn't do that; yet how can she expect me to sort all her relatives out and never get hold of any wrong ones, when she has, as near as I can make out, exactly ninety-four relatives, including thirteen adopted aunts and uncles, and Uncle Hiram, who is doubtful,

I don't know half of them, and I am sorry I know the other half; but I do know that if Uncle Hiram or any other relatives calls when Edna isn't at home, after this, I shall simply slam the door in his face, and if he can't take the hint, I shall call the police out of the window and have him run in on the off-chance.

Girls and Their Figures.

Stiff corsets are unknown in France. French corsets are always supple and bendable, and this much accounts for the ease of French figures, which are never tightened except at the waist, leaving the bust and hips quite free.

If the figure is tightened in too much at the bust and hips, it gives too straight a look to the figure and makes it stiff and uncomfortable, movement being rendered ungraceful by this stiffness Let any girl try to lace her corset only at the waist and let her select it as soft and light as possible, and then see if her figure be not as graceful in shape and as elastic as the most graceful and elastic French figure

No tight, straight down, even lacing will ever make a pretty figure. If the corset cannot be made expressly to suit the figure, then let it only be laced in the middle of the waist. Even then no real corset should be worn by girls until they are well in their teens.

Remember the softer the corsets the easier it will be, and the tighter it may be laced at the waist without feeling uncomfortable. This is the only way to mold the figure, it is said, without injuring the health.

For Pale Lips.

My lips are very pale and thin looking. Will you tell me how I can make them red and full?" asks Viola R.

Your trouble may be due to anaemia, and in this you should take a good iron tonic made up by a reliable druggist. If, however, you are in good health try massaging the lips with the finger tips, and afterwards apply a little good face cream.

THE HOUSEHOLD

Renovating Colored Straw Hats

Colored straw hats may be freshened, if not too discolored, faded or burnt, by dipping a cloth into hot water containing one tablespoonful of ammonia to two cupfuls of water. When the cloth is wrung out it must be placed on the brim of the hat, which has been laid flat side down on a table, and then the brim must be pressed with a warm but not too hot iron. The iron must not be left too long on the hat or the color will be affected.

Special coloring fluids can be obtained for paluting hats afresh, so that last year's shape can be made to do duty again, and with a different trimming will present quite a new appearance.

To Clean Velvet.

Great care should be taken in cleaning velvet, as it loses its fine appearance if wrung or pressed when wet. To remove dirt, dissolve ox gall in nearly boiling water, to which has been added a little spirits of wine. Dip a soft brush in this solution and brush over the velvet; then when clean hang up carefully to dry. Should the velvet have a matted look after drying, steam over a pan of boiling water or over a cloth wet and laid over a hot flatiron, brushing the pile to make it rise. Velvet can be made to look almost like new by this treatment.

Cleaning Oil Paintings.

To clean oil paintings peel a sound raw potato, cut into half, then rub the cut part over a small piece of the picture at a time; as a soapy froth accumulates, use a soft damp sponge to take it up; see that each section is equally cleaned, and that no lime is left between them. As the potato becomes dirty, slice off the surface.

LOCATION SCHOOL CONTRACTS GIVEN

Hibbing Board Closes Deal for Construction of Six Buildings.

Hibbing, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—When the next school term begins the local school district will not have to incur the expense of bringing children in busses from six locations to the local schools as contracts have just been closed for the construction of six buildings by Aug. 15, next. The contract for the four larger schools went to the Graham-Young company of this village as follows: Brooklyn school four rooms, $12,734; Kittszville school, four rooms, $12,984; Pool school, four rooms, $10,028. E. W. Hallett of Pequot, Minn., was the only other successful bidder, the following contracts being awarded to him: Leetonia, two rooms, $6,950; Morton mine, two rooms, $6,900; Kelly Lake, one room, $2,471.50.

Local bidders were the Graham-Young company, C. A. Kilander, and Heazley & Hazelcamp. Other bidders were Redfield & Colburn, A. J. Roberts & Co., L. J. Klippen. The Nauffts, J. R. Quigley and E. W. Hallett.

Hibbing Concern Gets Plumbing.

The contract for the plumbing and heating of all the buildings except the Kelly Lake school which will be heated by stoves, was let to the A. C. Scairmer company of Hibbing for $13,227. Other bidders were the American Plumbing & Heating company, $14,586, and D. R. Black, $14,316.

All of the buildings must be finished by Aug. 15. Graham-Young company will be given a bonus of $20 per day for every day before that time which they can save and will be assessed $15 for every day they overrun. E. W. Hallet will be given a bonus of $15 per day and will be assessed $10. A superintendent will be appointed to have charge of the construction of all of the buildings.

CHISHOLM MAN HAS CLOSE CALL

Albert Burt of Range Power Company Is Nearly Burned to Death.

Chisholm, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Albert Burt, an employe of the Range Power company, is recovering from serious burns he sustained a few evenings ago that might have resulted fatally but for prompt action on the part of a fellow employe.

Burt was carrying a five-gallon can of gasoline up a ladder to a gas producer when drops of the oil fell upon a lighted lantern standing on the floor directly below the ladder. Fire ran from drop to drop upwards until it reached the can. The explosion which followed caused gasoline to saturate Burt's clothing and in an instant he was enveloped in flames.

The unfortunate man made a dash for the open air but was seized by Joseph Cummings, E. J. G. Tower, Alex McDonald and Hugo Olson, who wrapped him in an old engine cover and rolled him over and over until the flames were extinguished. Mr. Burt is burned on the right arm and on the face. The right eye, the only optic from which the unfortunate can see, was slightly injured, although it is not thought he will lose his sight entirely.

The fire brigade was called to put out the fire that followed the explosion, which they did after considerable trouble.

VIRGINIA ODD FELLOWS PLAN BUILDING HALL.

Virginia, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Missabe Lodge No. 221, I. O. O. F., has decided to exercise an option for the purchase of the Viking hotel property at the corner of Wyoming and Maple, as a site for a commodious and monumental hall to be erected at some future date.

The property comprises fifty-three feet frontage on Maple, 100 feet in depth, and the decision relative to the erection of the federal building on the opposite corner makes of the site a choice business location and a central and commanding location for a lodge hall.

CALL FOR NEW BIDS

For the Installation of Virginia's White Way.

Virginia, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—In order to afford bidders a reasonable time in which to bid intelligently on the construction of the proposed White Way the park board rejected all bids offered and will receive new bids June 13.

A committee was also selected to arrange for the laying of a conduit for electric wiring under any cement sidewalk to be laid before the letting of a contract for the construction of the White Way.

The secretary was instructed to advertise for the procuring of fence posts for the rustic park which is being rapidly cleared and improved by roads and paths and will be shortly fenced. Play grounds for the children, swings and seats for picnics are also to be installed and the rustic park will soon be completed.

WATT CAN RUN SOME.

Virginia Sprinter Puts It Over Van Buskrick of Eveleth.

Eveleth, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—About 100 people were attracted to Virginia yesterday by the 100-yard dash speed event held between Marvin Van Buskrick, a local sprinter, and Stanley Watt of Virginia, for a purse of $50, which was won by Watt in 10½ seconds, by a distance of three feet. Ed Hatch, Martin Finuncan, both of Eveleth, and S. Mehan of Virginia acted as judges, while Mayor Peter R. Cosgrove of Gilbert was starter. In a preliminary race, Edward J. Thomas, manager of Van Buskrick, beat E. M. Deering, Watt's manager.

Thomas is an experienced sprinter, with a good record; and, following the main event, challenged Watt to a 100-yard dash, which will be held at Eveleth within a couple of weeks. Arrangements are already being made for a return match between Watt and Van Buskrick, to be run here. Over $300 changed hands on the outcome of the Watt-Van Buskrick race, and the event proved to be one of the prettiest seen on the range.

Chisholm, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Work on the Missabe depot has been under way slowly. Contractor Quigley of Duluth is now on the ground with a large supply of material and will push the work rapidly. The work of putting up the telegraph poles for the depot was commenced Saturday.

MISSING MAN'S BODY LOCATED NEAR HIBBING.

Hibbing, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of John Antilla, who disappeared from the Little Swan settlement south of Hibbing about six weeks ago, was found about a mile from his home by a neighbor. Owing to the fact that the body was in such a badly decomposed state, Coroner Butchart thought it unnecessary to hold a post-mortem. Antilla, who was acquainted in Hibbing, leaves a wife and several children.

Drunken Man Takes Tumble.

Eveleth, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Thornbloom, while intoxicated, on leaving a Grand avenue saloon reeled off the sidewalk Saturday and fell into the muddy street in a pool of water. He was unable to move, and was also barely able to be moved, as it took the strength of two horses, a dray line, a policeman and a driver to get him off the street and lodged in the city jail. He was released on $10 bonds.

Taconite Beats Marble.

Marble, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—A very exciting ball game was played here Sunday afternoon between Taconite and Marble teams. Marble had the lead by a score of 15 to 8 at the beginning of the ninth inning, when Taconite went to bat and brought in nine scores, and Marble bringing in none in the last half, which made a defeat for Marble again by a score of 17 to 15. A rousing crowd attended the game and both sides made some very good plays. Marble plays Grand Rapids next Sunday on the latter's grounds, where they hope to make a better showing than yesterday.

The baseball boys gave a very enjoyable dance Saturday evening. Rather a small crowd attended, but all reported a pleasant time.

JUMPS INTO LAKE AND IS DROWNED

Strange and Tragic Act of William Capstick, Well Known Evelethian.

Eveleth, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—While fishing from a boat with Jack Anderson on Moon Lake, early yesterday, William Capstick, foreman of the Adams stripping either jumped into the water or fell in and was drowned. Anderson managed to swim ashore from the capsized boat, but Capstick being a heavy man and heavily clothed could not swim and sank to his death. The body was recovered late in the afternoon. Deputy Coroner Gleason will investigate the tragedy today. Mr. Capstick was 48 years of age, and a resident of this city for many years, coming here from Michigan about ten years ago to accept the position of foreman of the Adams mine stripping operations, which he held at the time of his death. He was very popular and well known, and was a member of the Odd Fellows, Maccabbees, Redmen and Eagles. He was a lover of the outdoors and was a member of many hunting parties and fishing outings.

He was of English descent, single, and is survived by his mother, Mrs. Sarah Capstick, 83 years of age, who resides here; Albert, a brother, who is employed here, and four sisters, Mrs. Amelia Ellen, Doloton, Eng; Mrs. L. Mason, Preston, Eng; Mrs. T. Smith, Skipton, Eng; Mrs. M. Hayes, St. John, Ariz.

EVELETH BASEBALL TEAM.

Club Being Organized and to Be Supported By Subscription.

Eveleth, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—A professional city baseball team is assured. Frank Winchester, who guided the destinies of the city team part of last season, has consented to manage the organization. The nine will be composed mainly of men employed here, and will be supported by subscription. Edward Boyle, assistant city attorney, and star second baseman of the 1909 city team will again don a uniform as will his brother, Pat, captain of the 1909 team and star third baseman. Hank Boyle, who is now attending Dartmouth college, will, on his return, cover the shortfield position. Chaffee has returned and is awaiting the call, to do the receiving end of the game which he handled so capably last season. Among the new men will be McLaughlin of the 1909 Duluth team, who is now in charge of local diamond drill operations, and who will try for an outfield position, as well as Jack Burns, Adams mine stripping superintendent, the old Hibbing star. E. Johnson, now employed in a local meat shop, and a member of the Hibbing nines in recent years, will also don a uniform and try out as will many strong members of the Independents.

RAPIDS FIREMEN PAID.

Members of Department Will Hereafter Get $25 Per Year.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hereafter members of the local fire department will receive compensation of $25 per year, the village board having decided they should be paid that amount.

The board has also outlined plans for the entertainment of the firemen's tournament here in June.

POPULAR YOUNG MAN OF EVELETH LAID TO REST.

Eveleth, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Louis, the 22-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Mathew Harfod, who died Friday after an illness of a week with throat trouble, was buried yesterday afternoon from the Holy Family church, Father Bilban officiating, with interment following at Virginia. The Holy name of Christ society, of which the deceased was a prominent member, attended in a body and escorted the body to its final resting place. The deceased was single and one of the most popular young men of this city.

Inspect Telephone Plant.

Eveleth, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Many telephone improvements have been made on the ranges recently by the Mesaba Telephone company, and the following officials have been inspecting the plant here: G. E. McFarland, general manager, Omaha; W. B. T. Belt, general passenger superintendent, Omaha; T. J. Dowyer, district passenger superintendent, Minneapolis; Thomas Cotter, general traffic superintendent, Omaha; L. E. Wingett, district traffic superintendent, Minneapolis; John MacCarthy, district passenger superintendent, Duluth; H. H. Friend, engineer, Minneapolis; George A. French, district manager, Duluth. From here the party motored to Grand Rapids, accompanied by District Manager Fred E. Lister of this city.

Married by Father Bilban.

Eveleth, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Chebel and Helen Velepec, both of the Fayal location, were married this morning at the Holy Family church by Rev. Father Bilban in the presence of many friends and relatives.

Aurora Man Candidate.

Aurora, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Village Recorder C. H. Graham announces his candidacy for the position of county superintendent of schools for this district. He has lived here six years, coming here as principal in the local schools.

Dismantling Coal Dock.

Hibbing, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The coal dock, one block east of the depot, a land mark, is being dismantled preparatory to moving the Missabe tracks, so that the Buffalo & Susquehanna stripping can proceed.

LURES FAITHLESS MAN INTO POLICE CLUTCHES.

Chicago, May 23.—Miss Mayme Ryerson played detective so successfully that she was able to hand over her fiance, Walter Kutrichied, to the police when he arrived here from San Francisco. Both are 21 years old, and their homes are in Milwaukee. Miss Ryerson accused Kutrichied of obtaining $300 from her a year ago by false pretenses. She learned of his whereabouts recently and wrote him, offering forgiveness and asking him to return. She met him at the depot in company with Detective Gorman of Milwaukee, who placed him under arrest and returned with him to Milwaukee.

SAYS LEINO IS HER ASSAILANT

Mrs. Peter Norden Identifies Man Arrested on Assault Charge.

Gust Leino, arrested Saturday afternoon by Patrolman Connors, was positively identified later the same day by Mrs. Hilda Norden as the man who criminally assaulted and robbed her Thursday afternoon at a lonely spot on the Thomson road while she was on her way home.

Mrs. Norden almost fainted when the man was brought before her. She had to grasp her husband for support. She declared that there was absolutely no doubt but that the police had the right man. The three boys who saw Leino on the road that afternoon also recognized him.

Leino admitted that he had walked over the road from West Duluth to Proctor Thursday afternoon. He denies that he saw the woman, and claims he has no knowledge of the crime.

Leino waived examination in police court this morning and was bound over to the next grand jury without bail. When first brought before the court he asked for a hearing, but later changed his mind.

ONE BOY IS KILLED IN "SUICIDE" GAME.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 23.—Joseph Klein, 11 years old, was fatally shot last evening, and John Allen, aged 17, who admits having shot his companion, and another boy who witnessed the shooting say the three were "playing suicide." Allen had placed the revolver at Klein's head, instructing him how to commit suicide when the weapon was accidentally discharged. The bullet passed through Klein's head back of the right ear. He died soon after being carried by his mother to their home nearby.

cannot be done and ought not to be attempted by a tariff commission.

"The idea of a tariff commission authorized to report rates of duty violates the spirit of that clause of the Constitution of the United States which provides that all bills for raising revenue shall originate in the house of representatives. An executive tariff commission vested with power to recommend rates might, and frequently would be, in open conflict with the house of representatives. Such a situation would be intolerable, and the possible creation of such a situation is not to be thought of.

What Could Be Done.

"An executive tariff bureau could accomplish nothing in the way of collecting facts that cannot be done by the existing departments under direction of the president, with ample appropriations in accordance with the congressional authority. But the suggestion and adoption of specific duties and taxes always have been and always must be solely a legislative function. Even if a tariff commission should be created and should recommend changes in rates of duty, its recommendations would be abortive under the present legislative procedure in congress.

"In order to replace the present unsatisfactory method, two things are necessary: The first requisite is up-to-date information, the fullest and most searching, on every subject related to the tariff. This information should be gathered through the various departments and by specially trained experts under the direction of the president, and should be transmitted as rapidly as secured to the house of representatives.

"When this information disclosed a defect in the tariff the information would be like a vast, complicated machine, that no one could start, because never before setting it in motion could not be found. In the house of representatives an amendment to a paragraph of the tariff might be considered without opening up the whole tariff, but under present rules such a bill in the senate could be amended without limit.

Joint Rule Needed.

"The second requisite, therefore, for scientific tariff adjustment—the means of making information fruitful, the lever for starting the engine—is a joint rule of the two houses of congress whereby a paragraph of a revenue law can be amended without opening up for consideration any other portion of the law. The rule should provide that when the ways and means committee reports a bill to alter a paragraph of a revenue law, no amendment to the bill that is not germane to the paragraph shall be in order."

sugar trust manipulated the scales so as to bring about underweights.

On evidence of Richard Parr, a government inspector who made a raid on the sugar docks in November, 1907, and others, Spitzer, who was the dock superintendent at the time and for some years previous, was convicted with four checkers employed under him of connection with the conspiracy to perpetrate frauds whereby the government was cheated out of millions of dollars in sugar duties. The four checkers, Boyle, Coyle, Kehoe and Hennessey, were sent to the Blackwell's Island penitentiary for a year. Spitzer got two years in Atlanta. He protested ignorance of frauds on the docks.

"Men Higher up" Tried.

"Men "higher up" were sought, and Heike, the secretary of the trust, and Ernest F. Gerbracht, the refinery's superintendent, were indicted. With them on rial now, besides four other former company checkers, is James F. Bendernagel, the refinery cashier who was tried with Spitzer and the others. The jury disagreed as to whether Bendernagel had a part in the conspiracy and it was decided to retry him.

Pardoned May 10.

As Spitzer testified to the underweighing frauds on the docks it was developed that President Taft granted him an unconditional pardon on May 19 last.

Spitzer went back to the years 1894 and 1895 when, he said, an investigation he made developed the fact that the checkers were affecting the weights on raw sugar by placing small bags of lead on the beams of the scales, causing the record to drop below the actual weight, often as much as forty pounds on each draft. In addition, Spitzer said it was also the practice to stuff paper beneath the floors of the scales for the same purpose. He said that when Deputy Surveyer of Customs Vail took office these devices were abandoned and the use of the steel corset spring instead was begun and continued.

It was said before Spitzer got well into his testimony that he would make a clean breast of the frauds alleged to have been committed in the underweighing of raw sugar on the Williamsburg docks.

Showed Use of Lead.

Spitzer demonstrated in court the use of the bags of lead.

Testifying regarding the use of the wire spring, which superseded the bag of lead, Spitzer said two styles of springs were used, a heavy one first and then a spring considerably lighter in weight.

Spitzer's testimony regarding the weight-lessening device of the newspapers underneath the scale was an absolutely new development. Heike listened to Spitzer's testimony with tense interest.

Spitzer talked freely about the frauds by which the government was robbed of millions of dollars. He said the use of the steel springs was stopped after the sugar trust had paid the rebate to the government as a result of the federal suit.

ity is to be paramount in the fixing of freight rates.

Not Necessary Measure.

The commission states its position in these terms:

Upon general principles of comity the action of a state commission in fixing rates on state traffic must be treated with due respect, but this commission has never felt itself bound to accept a state-made rate as a necessary measure of an interstate rate. Without criticising the state commission rates from Mobile, this commission, in the light of the record and its own investigations, finds itself unable to accept the Alabama rates as a fair and reasonable basis for fixing the defendant's rates to the same points from Pensacola."

The situation and the testimony are discussed thoroughly in the opinion. In announcing that it would not close the record in the case until the defendant had made further efforts to contest the order of the Alabama commission, the interstate commerce commission says:

"The carriage of traffic by a common carrier for one community or one set of shippers at less than it carries the same traffic for a like distance, and under substantially similar transportation conditions, for another community or another set of shippers, is not only in contravention of fundamental right and justice but is essentially inquitous.

Where State Laws Govern.

"If such a discrimination is practiced by a common carrier as between communities or different set of shippers within the same state and on traffic moving only within the state, redress may usually be had under the state laws. On the other hand, if an interstate carrier is guilty of such discrimination with respect to interstate traffic, redress may be had under the act to regulate commerce.

"But when a carrier, as in this case, serves two communities similarly situated, by hauling the same traffic under similar conditions from a point of origin to destinations in the same state and also to the same destinations from an interstate point of origin, it is not altogether clear that existing legislation affords redress against a discrimination, as between the two points, when resulting from an order by the state commission.

Local Hindrance Possible.

"But unless some such power is lodged somewhere under appropriate legislation, it is evident that state-made rates, if established in pursuance of a narrow or selfish local policy, may not only hinder and harm and burden interstate traffic and interstate interests, but may, if adjusted with that end in view, take from a point in another state a business that naturally belongs to that point or in which it is entitled at least to participate, on the basis of equal rates and equal opportunity.

"On principle it is clear that a carrier operating through two or more states is but one vehicle of commerce, and all traffic moved by it, whether state or interstate, ought, when the general transportation conditions are the same, to bear its just proposition of the cost of operation and ought to yield no more and no less than its just proportion of the revenues of the carrier.

"Any other theory is fundamentally inequitable, illogical and unreasonable. It may be, but on that point we express no opinion, that the congress may constitutionally protect interstate commerce, as well as the carriers that are engaged in interstate transportation, by requiring that any state traffic moved by such a carrier shall bear its just proportion of the cost of operation and yield its proper proportion of profit to the carrier; and that with such an end in view it may authorize this commission to fix minimum rates, at least, for state traffic when moved by carriers engaged also in interstate carriage of like distance and under like transportation conditions.

"It has, however, not attempted any such legislation, and whether such an enactment would stand the test of scrutiny by the courts under the constitution as it now stands, and if so whether it would be desirable from the standpoint of a broad public policy, are questions that must ultimately be determined by the legislative power and therefore cannot profitably be discussed by the commission in this proceeding."

M. of Tuesday, June 7, 1910, for the paving of the following described portions of certain streets and avenues in said city of Virginia hereinafter mentioned.

1. Sealed bids for the paving of Chestnut street in said city from the west side of Central Avenue on the east to the west side of Virginia Avenue on the west; Lake Boulevard, Wyoming Avenue and Mesaba Avenue from the north side of Chestnut Street on the south to the south side of Walnut Street on the north; Virginia Avenue, Cleveland Avenue, Wyoming Avenue and Mesaba Avenue from the south side of Chestnut street on the north to the north side of Maple Street on the south.

2. Separate sealed bids for the paving of Maple Street in the said city of Virginia, from the west side of Railroad Avenue on the east to the west side of Virginia Avenue on the west, exceptiong that portion of Maple Street crossing Central Avenue between the east and west lines of said Central Avenue.

3. Separate sealed bids for the paving of Central Avenue from the north side of Willow Street on the north to the south side of Sage Street on the south.

Sealed bids as above described may be submitted for the paving with any of the following materials, viz:

Creosoted wood block on concrete foundation.

Tarvaia and tarcon macadam, on concrete base.

Taroid or any other proper road tar-filled macadam.

Donnellite pavement on concrete foundation.

Bitulithic pavement on concrete foundation.

Granetoid concrete pavement, for any or all of the three above described portions of roadway to be paved.

The City Council specifically reserves the right to select kind of paving as it may desire from the bids submitted pursuant to this notice, upon each or any of the above described portions of roadway and to award the contract for paving to the lowest responsible bidder complying with the foregoing requirements for the paving or pavings so selected by the said Council, and further reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

The person, firm or company to whom is awarded the contract for the paving of any of the above described portions of roadways, shall, within five days from date of award, enter into a written contract to be prepared by the City Attorney of Virginia, Minn., for the proper and faithful performance of the paving work awarded to said person, firm or company. All of said work to be in accordance with the plans and specifications therefor now on file in the office of the said City Clerk of Virginia, Minnesota, all of the terms and conditions of which plans and specifications are hereby made a part of this notice. The successful bidder shall further furnish, at the time of the execution of said contract, a bond for the full contract price, acceptable to and to be approved by the City Council, for the full and faithful performance of said contract.

Every bid shall be accompanied by a regularly certified check, payable to the City Treasurer of Virginia, Minnesota, in the sum of five per cent of the amount of the bid, as a guarantee that the successful bidder will enter into a contract and furnish a bond to the City of Virginia as above designated; said check to be forfeited to said City as liquidated damages in case of failure to sign contract and furnish bond by the successful bidder.

All bids to be sealed in an envelope in such manner that the same cannot be opened without detection, to be directed to the undersigned, City Clerk of Virginia, Minnesota, and to contain a statement on the outside cover showing for what portion of work the bid is made.

All bidders shall further specify what guarantee, if any, covering stability of pavement, they will give, and whether said guarantee shall be indorsed by the furnishing of a surety bond or by giving to the City of Virginia the right to reserve two per cent of the contract price for a term of five years as set forth in the above mentioned specifications.

Said bids to conform in all respects to all terms and conditions of the City Charter relating thereto.

By order of the City Council of Virginia, Minnesota

ALBERT E. BICKFORD, City Clerk.

EDUCATION FOR THE MANY.

The committee of the board of education having in charge the proposed course of studies for the high school has decided that history ought not to be taught in chronological order, and that United States history should come first instead of last, in the interest of those who are unable to complete the courses.

This is a step in the right direction. Under the old system, which it was proposed to continue, students had ancient history in the freshman year, medieval history in the sophomore year, English history in the junior year and the history of the United States was finally reached only in the senior year.

Valuable as a complete education in history is, the first essential is that the students shall know the history of their own country. They need that, as citizens, more than they need the history of Greece or Assyria. It is well for them to have it all; yet if they can have but a part, that part should be the history of the United States.

Under the old system, if a pupil left school at the end of the first high school year, he could tell you all about the Punic wars and the founding of Carthage, but unless he was a reader he could tell you nothing of the Middle Ages, of the Reformation, of the making of England and of the glorious history of his own country. If he left after the second year he would be educated in history down to the Turkish invasion of Europe, but he would be lame in his knowledge of William the Conqueror, Magna Charta, the Stamp Act, the Declaration of Independence, Yorktown and Appomattox. And about 75 per cent of the high school pupils do leave school before they reach the last year's courses.

There are other reforms that time will bring to the high school courses in this and other cities, but it is very encouraging indeed when school officials begin to consider the needs of the many who never can complete the public school courses, and to realize that while perhaps not too much is being done for the fraction of 1 per cent that will go to college, not enough is being done for the 99 per cent that never get beyond the high school, but must get out in the world and earn a living and become citizens upon whose equipment the future depends.

THE ART EXHIBIT.

Few things of the spirit are offered any public with so little responsibility and price as is the art exhibition arranged by the Duluth Art association, which will be thrown open to the public tomorrow evening in the courthouse.

The public's only responsibility is to come and enjoy. Other pleasures of the mind and spirit, which may be planned with a spirit as liberal, are of necessity urged upon the public with the proviso that the cost is very slight. But in this case "Come and enjoy" is the invitation extended to every citizen, big or little, old or young.

The exhibit is well worth time and study. The hours are arranged so that everyone may be accommodated. The exhibit will be open in the evenings until 10 o'clock, a few lectures will be provided for those who are earnestly interested, Duluthians who are so fortunate as to own excellent works of art have gladly loaned them, and there are outside exhibits. The only thing that remains to make the exhibit a success is that those for whom it was created shall go to see it, not once but many times during the two weeks.

It is a great pleasure, for a change, in these days of the high cost of living—or the cost of high living—to be able to announce to a harassed public something which, like June, may be had freely by the poorest comer; something, indeed, to see which you need give but the will to see; something which asks you to receive instead of to give. The price is the same for all—the desire to be pleased and the effort to come.

"NOT UNTIL AFTER ELECTION."

With huge sighs of weariness and tremendous affectation of painful anticipations about the labor ahead, the members of the committee appointed to investigate Mr. Ballinger and Mr. Pinchot intimate that it will hardly be possible to prepare a report before election.

There are 15,000 pages of testimony, it is said, and of course it will take time to transcribe that testimony, to read it and to digest it. "So you see," say the members of the committee, or rather the members of the regular Republican majority of the committee, "it probably will be impossible to issue a report before November"—and, curiously enough, the general elections will be held in the early part of that month.

It has been, it is true, considerable of a chore. The majority members have been kept busy rapping the inquisitive fingers of attorneys for the people's side of the controversy, who wanted to reach for facts that involved Mr. Taft, Mr. Wickersham, Mr. Lawler, Mr. Kerby and others. They have been kept very much occupied, these majority members, headed by Senator Nelson of Minnesota, in seeing that the inquiry did not take on a scope broad enough to lug into the record anything really pertinent to the broad question whether the administration deserves the confidence of the people.

But when the majority of the committee pretends that the labor of reaching a decision is so onerous that it will be impossible to complete it before election one becomes skeptical.

It is notorious that the minds of the committee members are made up already—were made up, in fact, before the taking of testimony began. It isn't so much Ballinger's interest as it is Taft's that the committee was framed to protect; but Taft has so entangled himself with Ballinger that the interests of one is the interest of the other.

Hence it is a notorious fact that all of the Republican members of the committee except one will report in favor of Ballinger, while all of the Democrats and one Republican will report against Ballinger. In the face of this fact, which everybody knows, the statement that the work of reaching a decision is so complex and burdensome that it will be impossible to complete it before election is to be taken with plenty of salt.

The fact appears to be that it is deemed expedient by the Republican organization that the Ballinger controversy shall be kept in abeyance as much as possible during the coming campaign. That is why no report is expected from the committee until November.

While Republican anxiety that the issues shall be circumscribed as much as possible is entirely natural, in view of public interest in "the best tariff bill ever passed" and in such presidential pets as Aldrich, Hale and Cannon, it is doubtful indeed if the expedient of delaying this report will remove Ballinger as a campaign issue.

THE STANDARD OIL DECISION.

The Minnesota supreme court, in a decision prepared by Justice T. D. O'Brien, has decided that the Minnesota law prohibiting discrimination in the sale of oil and oil products is constitutional.

This is a valuable victory in a good cause. The law is sound and useful, and it is based on a real need.

The occasion of the law was this: It was found that while the oil trust did most of the oil business in Minnesota, it didn't do all of it, as there were a number of independent concerns whose presence in the state was a safeguard against unduly high prices and inferior oil products. It was charged by the independent companies that the oil trust was charging more where it had no competition than it did where it had competition. Without regulation, it could cut oil prices below cost in communities where it had competition, in the meantime making up its losses by increasing the price accordingly in communities where it had no competition. The object of its cut in prices would be to kill off competition, and when that object was attained it could put prices up, high enough this time to reimburse itself again for the losses involved in its fight against competition.

In such circumstances, it was clear that it would be but a short time before competition in Minnesota would be stifled, after which the oil trust could charge whatever it pleased.

While the representatives of the oil trust denied all these charges and while eminent statesmen in the legislature argued bravely that the proposed measure was clearly unconstitutional, succeeding in defeating it at one session, it was made a law at the next session, and now stands approved by the supreme court. This ought to work to the consternation of the eminent statesmen who were so certain that the law was unconstitutional when they were opposing it in the legislature, if they are capable of being disturbed by anything that reflects upon the integrity of their motives.

It is a good law, and its principle is sound. Whether or not the oil trust has done the things charged against it, it is clear that it would be worth its while to do them if it were safe. The public, with this law, is protected against having competition stifled by unfair discrimination. Even if there never has been such discrimination, as the oil trust has claimed, it is a good thing to have the law in order that there may never be such discrimination.

THE MILITIA ENCAMPMENT.

At a dinner given to Governor Eberhart by his staff in St. Paul a few evenings ago it was stated by several speakers that the members of the state militia often have trouble getting away from their employment to attend the state encampment, and pleas were made to employers to give their employes who are members of the National Guard leaves of absence for this purpose.

Probably employers who refuse to grant their men leave of absence to attend the encampment are exceptions, not the rule. At any rate it is to be hoped that that is the case.

The state militia without its annual encampment would be thoroughly inefficient. Members of the militia can learn company movements at home, but without drill in movement of large bodies their equipment is incomplete. In camp, too, they learn many other things essential to the soldier which it is impossible to learn in the armory at home. The discipline and drill of the militia not only make good soldiers, but they tend to make good workmen and good citizens. There is besides, a physical benefit in the vacation, in the wholesome outdoor living and in the exercise involved in drill and setting-up movements.

It is stated that the appeal made by the speakers at St. Paul banquet met with a hearty response from several large employers who were present. It is a reasonable and a just appeal, and it is to be hoped that it will meet with an equally hearty response from employers who were not present, but who have men in their employ who are members of the National Guard. It is important to the state, to themselves and to their employers that they should be allowed to attend the encampment.

SOCKING IT TO THE "SOX."

We had thought of asking somebody a question about the Duluth baseball team, familiarly known as the "White Sox" because their uniform stockings are white when they are taken out of the package from laundry. However, the question has just been asked by the Chicago Evening Post in reference to its own "Sox," and perhaps it is as well to reflect its question with the understanding that its publication here has reference to Mr. Darby O'Brien's aggregation of talent and not to that conducted by Signor Duffy:

> It may be too early to think of it. The weather may be too cold, the season too young. It may be too cruel to mention it. The feelings of those involved may be too tender, their inspiration too fragile.
> Yet we have to begin some time. We may postpone the day for a while, but we cannot postpone it forever.
> And now seems a good time. For by making the historic question in years gone by men have accomplished good results that have amazed even prophets like the Hon. Hugh Fullerton. Therefore, solemnly, seriously, sonorously, we would ask:
> "What is the matter with the Sox?"

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

OLD FASHIONED HOME IS BECOMING OBSOLETE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In your open court column appeared an article in the Thursday issue in regard to the conditions of the American homes which he wants some one to answer. I'm away from home in body, fatigued both in body and mind and yet will try to start the ball rolling. Home is a very delicate subject to touch upon and the most sacred place on earth. Home always rings in my ears as a sweet music and although absent from home in body a great deal, nevertheless I am always home in mind and spirit. Home and family are my only pride. Home is what we make it. Home is where the loved ones are. Home is where your heart is. The secret of the home is pure love. Time nor space will not allow me to go into details as books would be required to do that. In the first place I agree with him that conditions are a great deal different from what they were some years ago. Homes have never been perfect and never will be. Out of the many causes why the homes are not what they should and ought to be, is in my estimation, that the world is getting too wise and independent and they shut God out from the very beginning. We all agree that God is love, and the only source for true love both physically as well as spiritually. Home without God is not a home, but a mere place of abode. It is true that the nations is built on the home and the home is the foundation of a nation. If the nation is built on the homes and the homes the foundations of the nations the great question for us to answer it this: "What are we as individuals building on. What is our foundation?" Some might say knowledge, but knowledge without God is mere vanity. If we as individuals can sing out of our hearts: "On Christ the solid rock I stand all other ground is sinking sand," then we have a solid foundation to build on.

Home is not a place any more than a hut; home is not dependent on riches but on pure love. How many, do you suppose, Mr. Editor in our days stop to realize what a home really is before they engage on the matrimonial journey? I am almost tempted to say that the majority do not marry for love, when I say love I mean love that never dies. The word love has been misused so much and so often that few realize what pure genuine love is. It is not with love as with beauty—only skin deep. The true test of love is not gifts but sacrifice. I don't like to be pessimistic, but I do not want to be a hypocrit. "I know thy works, that thou are neither cold nor not: I would that thou wert cold or hot. So because thou art lukewarm, and neither hot nor cold, I will spew thee out of my mouth. Because thou sayest, I'm rich, and have gotten riches, and have need of nothing, and knowest not that thou are the wretched one and miserable and poor and blind and naked." Rev. iii., 15-16-17.

That passage can be applied to all those who feel that they can do without God in their homes. True love destroys the idols. The idols in the homes are many. Nowadays everything imaginable can be found to draw the attraction from the home. Those few who raise a big family of one or two you will find the mother and father with children in their arms hustling for the theaters to complete their course in "Learning How to Live," which they started in on in their engagement days. The man is busy to keep up with clubs and lodges and the mother has all kinds of societies to attend so really home will be a strange place, not home but a shelter or abode. In this way we are drifting farther and farther from the good, old home at the firesides. Church people even have their card parties in between.

Yes, we certainly live too fast, so fast even that it has been predicted that in ten years it will be as much of a disgrace to raise a large family as to be a confirmed drunkard. With such ideas of home and home life is it any wonder if, as alluded by the questioner, that we are on a decline? The animal nature is growing in appetites of all kinds so much so that "dogs and cats" are taking the place in the home of a sweet baby.

ANTON GRONSETH.

Hibbing, May 20.

When the World Was Young.

Kansas City Star: It must have been great to live in the spacious days of Elizabeth, when the world was just awaking, when men were discovering that they had a right to live their lives their own way without the shackles of authority about them, when they were rioting in the new-found possibilities of the English language, prodigal in puns and metaphors and epithets, gentlemen unafraid! Every fresh presentation of Shakespeare shocks the audience into recollection of that dawn when to be alive was bliss, but to be young was very heaven. Was ever such exuberance in the use of words? In "Romeo and Juliet:"

> Stands tiptoe on the misty mountain tops.
> How silver-sweet sound lovers' tongues by night,
> Like softest music to attending ears!
> Dreams, which are the children of an idle brain.
> That which we call a rose
> By any other name would smell as sweet.

And in the other plays a multitude of wonderful lines of striking epithets and lovely melody:

> After life's fitful fever he sleeps well.
> Shining morning face.
> Out of the jaws of death.
> To unpathed waters, undreamed shores.
> This royal throne of kings, this sceptered isle.
> Tomorrow and tomorrow and tomorrow,
> Creeps in this petty pace from day to day
> To the last syllable of recorded time.
> Under the shade of melancholy boughs
> We are such stuff
> As dreams are made on; and our little life
> Is rounded with a sleep.

The plays are full of them, to the infinite wonder of most of us who read or hear Shakespeare infrequently, and in the intervals get a vague notion that Kipling, with his "smoking seas," and "far-flung battle line," was the inventor of the use of striking epithets in English literature.

Things Get Better.

New York Press: In spite of all the confusions and thwarting of life, the habits and resiliences and the counter-strokes of fate, it is manifest that, in the long run, human life becomes broader than it was, gentler than it was, finer and deeper. On the whole—and nowadays almost steadily—things get better. This is a secular amelioration of life, and it is brought about by good will working through the efforts of men.

My Unknown Love.

I used to meet her in the park,
Behind a prancing pair,
While this poor heart went pit-a-pat,
To see a form so fair.

I grew to know her lovely eyes,
Her cheeks that flush and pale.
But who can see a maiden's blush
Beneath an auto veil?

In winter, she's an Eskimo
In heavy furs arrayed;
In summer, she is nothing but
A goggled mummy-maid.

And so my heart has ceased to throb
At sound of horn or bell;
It might be Angelina;
If it were, I could not tell.

AMONG LOBSTER PALACES.

Julian Street in Everybody's Magazine: On the steps of the hotel my friend the Tenderloin archaeologist halted me, while he cast a ruminative, fishy eye over the riotous triangle of asphalt which marks the crossing of Broadway and Seventh avenue.

"The historical name of it," he said, "is Longacre square. George Washington stopped at the old Longacre farmhouse which used to stand here. But what does the Tenderloin care for history? It remembers nothing but the last theatrical divorce, $10,000 dinner, or New Year's eve headache. When that newspaper skyscraper was built, they changed the name to Times square. That's the official name. But the only official things that count in this part of town are traffic policemen and head waiters. So the Tenderloin has rechristened its capital again; now it is 'Eating House square.'"

The revolving glass doors of the hotel were spinning like millwheels under the pressure of a steady stream of people, flowing in from the twenty theaters of the neighborhood. We followed them down the corridor toward the large supper room, whence came mellow light and gay music. About the wide doorway of this room stood a knot of twenty or thirty men and women, all in evening dress and eager to get in—a comic sort of bread line, held back by a plush rope and a young head waiter, who, St. Peter like, examined the candidates with a critical eye and looked them up in a tome containing the names of those who had reserved tables in advance. The head waiter's book is the social register of the Tenderloin.

Watching the sifting process, we saw a couple elbow their way through the crowd. The man's eye caught that of the head waiter. He raised two fingers.

The head waiter bowed, with: "Ah, good evening, Mr. Feldman." He did not look up Mr. Feldman in his book, but said to an assistant: "Table twenty-six for Mr. Feldman," and hastily unhooked the rope.

Mr. Feldman passed in. Behind him trailed a lady wearing staccato scents and an alarmingly diminuendo dress. Instinctively you knew she had a little, yipping, woolly dog in a flat somewhere not very far away; also plenty of siphons on the ice, and books which were not by Meredith or Henry James.

Clearly, in Mr. Feldman we had seen a man who really knew the ropes. He was not made of common clay, but to all appearances, of pate do foie gras and truffles. He never had to reserve tables in advance. No matter what a crush there was, he always sailed majestically in and found a place. If the regular tables were occupied, a special one was carried in and laid for him.

The "Mr. Feldman" kind of a man distributes largess with a plump and lavish hand. He has cocktails named for him, drinks vintage champagnes, sends for the head waiter, calls him Max or Louis, dresses him down, and gives him a $20 bill. "Mr. Feldman" does not pay spot cash in the lobster palaces. He merely tips his waiter with a bill and signs his name across the check. Check signing is one of the most impressive rites of the Tenderloin. It signifies not only that "Mr. Feldman" runs an account and settles by the month, but that he always has aisle seats, down in front, for the first night of each new "girl show," and can play on credit in the roulette "clubs." So it is natural, that, as "Mr. Feldman," with a superbly unconscious air, signs and rises from the table, people gaze at him in awe and whisper: "Who is that?"

"Mr. Feldman" is sometimes young but usually he is middle-aged and just a little bald. His complexion is of either a pasty cream color, or an apoplectic purple, shading off to a lighter tone about the prominently upholstered neck. There are deep wrinkles beside the nose, fleshy pouches beneath the eyes, diamonds on the fingers, and very fancy buttons on the evening waistcoat. The whole is mounted upon creaky legs.

While "Mr. Feldman" lives, he lives very high, and when he comes to die, he does it so quickly that he actually interrupts himself in the midst of ordering another bottle. His color changes. If he was purple, he turns mauve; if cream-colored, a lovely shade of pale green. An attentive waiter catches him as he starts to flop over on the wine coolers. He has stopped ordering, so his friends know he must be dead.

Obituaries in the next day's papers refer to him as a "prominent clubman" or a "well-known man about town," and like as not, mention a hitherto (and hereafter) unheard-of wife, who lives in New Rochelle or Flushing. Several friends go out there to the funeral, but not one single head waiter. The friends think it would be nice to sing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" with the service. On the way back to New York they "roast" the widow for not providing drinks. Then, with a pleasant sense of duty done, they return to the lobster palaces. By night the Tenderloin has forgotten "Mr. Feldman" as completely as it has forgotten the old Longacre farm. If people should trouble to investigate the matter further—which no one ever does—they might find that "Mr. Feldman" left, besides the trailing lady, the widow, and the waistcoat buttons, six children and a mortgage.

APPRECIATING DULUTH.

Crookston Rural and Urban Progress: Northwestern Minnesota considers it a great honor to be the host to such an important gathering as will assemble in Crookston on June 1, 2 and 3, and the boosting that has been in evidence in all sections greatly appreciated. Duluth business men, Duluth interests and Duluth papers have made a record in this respect which is wholly out of the ordinary and commonplace and has set an example of real boosting which can with advantage be copied in other sections of the state. The boosting has not been alone for the success of the principles for which the Northern Minnesota Development association stands, but has been to make the convention to be held in a city hundreds of miles away, in the western portion of a territory of which it, Duluth, is the eastern point, a record breaking success. Its boosting has not been perfunctory, as is generally the case under such circumstances, but it has been genuine and enthusiastic and Rural and Urban Progress desires to impress upon every resident and every interest in Northern Minnesota that a service has been rendered which places the entire section under the greatest obligations to the metropolis of Northern Minnesota. There can be no doubt but that Duluth is destined to become one of the great cities of the country for in addition to her advantageous location, her great natural resources, she has citizens with the proper breadth of vision and broadness of sympathy. With the same spirit manifested in the coming convention as has prevailed not alone in Duluth, but throughout the entire thirty counties for the past few weeks, there is no question but that the greatest good will come to Northern Minnesota.

Mixed.

Within my earthly temple there's a crowd;
There's one of us that's humble, one that's proud.
There's one that's broken-hearted for his sins,
And one who, unrepentant, sits and grins.

There's one that loves his neighbor as himself,
And one who cares for naught but fame and pelf;
From much corroding care I should be free,
If once I could determine which is me.

—Edward Sandford Martin.

Lumber in Norway.

Nebraska State Journal: The Norwegian law requires that when a lumberman cuts down a tree he shall plant one to take its place. The penalty for a violation of this law is a fine for the first offense, imprisonment for the second, and retirement from the lumber business for the third. Compared with these regulations, the American program of conservation seems but the first step in effective forestry.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1890.

At the city council meeting last night, Mayor Davis announced the appointment of C. E. Shannon as railroad commissioner. An ordinance granting a franchise for a district telegraph service to H. C. Hope was passed. Capt. Miller was appointed harbor master at a salary of $100 a month during navigation.

A car of lumber appeared in the St. Paul & Duluth yards this morning consigned by the Howe Lumber company of Tower to the Webster Manufacturing company of South Saginaw, Mich. This is a rather curious example of the demand for Minnesota pine from the heart of the once great lumber district of Michigan.

President Videtto of the North western Loan & Investment company of Washington arrived in the city last evening. Mr. Videtto has been hard at work for the past month arranging an excursion of Washington and Baltimore business men to Duluth.

D. H. Stephenson, Frank Burke, Jr., and John Wangenstein were admitted to membership at the chamber of commerce meeting this morning. An excursion to the United States will be undertaken by representative iron men of Great Britain and Germany this summer. There will be at least 200 in the party and Col. W. H. H. Stowell suggested that the chamber invite them to visit Duluth and the Vermilion range. John Birkenbine, the Philadelphia expert, has recommended that the visitors come to Duluth. The matter was referred to the committee on mining.

Mrs. J. B. Culver and Miss Ray are now in Switzerland, where they will spend the summer, going to Paris for the winter.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Good Doctrine.

Princeton Union: There is no question that more vitally affects the people of Minnesota at the present time than that of bettering our public highways. People may honestly differ on moral and social questions but all are agreed that the improvement of our public roads is an imperative necessity. Liberal state aid for roads does not mean an increased state tax rate. With proper management a 1-mill state tax could be imposed for road and bridge purposes and the aggregate rate of taxation for state purposes need not be increased.

Slow in Waking Up.

Thief River Fall News: The cost of living is not advancing in England, because the consumers are getting their food from the producers without permitting middlemen to dip in with both hands. There is possibility that the American consumers will some day wake up, but their alarm clock seems to have been set for a late hour.

The Treadmill.

Two Harbors Journal-News: Nearly everyone of us is figuring on having a fine time just ahead when we get all fixed, and this vision is just ahead of us when we fall asleep. To live in the now and enjoy the present is the work of a philosopher.

As Bede Views It.

J. Adam Bede in Pine City Pioneer: There is no danger of Uncle Joe Cannon retiring under fire. He comes from the state that furnished the man who proposed "to fight it out on this line if it takes all summer," and he says that the right way to be happy is to "just keep on keepin' on."

It Is Bound to Win.

Little Falls Herald: The house of representatives of Massachusetts voted in favor of election of United States senators by the people. The idea is rapidly gaining its way. We hope Minnesota will fall in line at the next legislative session.

It Is Not His Way.

Winona Independent: President Taft has appointed Theodore Roosevelt special ambassador to represent the United States at the funeral of Edward VII. Roosevelt replied with a single word, "accept." Why is Teddy so laconic?

The Answer.

St. Cloud Times: Will the Democratic state convention adopt a county option plank? Respectfully referred to the esteemed St. Cloud Times for an answer.—Sauk Center Herald.

No, sir. Neither will the Republican convention.

Good Idea.

Albert Lea Tribune: Let every man become a commission on high cost of living for himself and cut out the things he buys merely because his neighbors pay good money for them.

That's Placing It Rightly.

Virginia Enterprise: In speaking with a gentleman from "across the border" the other day we learned many points on the cost of living and clothing one's self in Canada, and the points were extremely favorable to a cheaper life on the Canadian side. We can scarce bring ourself to the belief, however, that it is the imaginary line that follows the course of the raging Rainy that makes a $15 suit in Canada cost $25 on this side. It looks more reasonable to place the fault on "the best tariff ever."

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: Too many idealists are shy of ideas.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: You can generally tell the family a man hasn't by the clubs he has.

When a girl is marrying a man it's a sign she makes him think he's doing it.

It takes a baby in the house to let the head of it know what he doesn't amount to.

When a woman gets so fat she can stick in the bath tub, it's a great pride to her to think what a good figure she would have if she wasn't.

How He Did It.

Short Stories: A lawyer once asked a man who had at various times sat on several juries:

"Who influenced you most — the lawyers, the witnesses, or the judge?" He expected to get some useful and interesting information from so experienced a juryman. This was the man's reply:

"I'll tell yer, sir, 'ow I makes up my mind. I'm a plain man, and a reasonin' man, and I ain't influenced by anything the lawyers say; no, nor by what the judge says. I just looks at the man in the docks and I says: 'If he ain't done nothing, why's he there?' And I brings 'em all in guilty."

The Strength of Resistance.

John Oliver Hobbs: There is perhaps no strength so great and abiding as that which follows from a resisted temptation. Every dangerous allurement is like an enchanted monster, which, being conquered, loses all his venom and changes at once into a king of great treasure, eager to make requital.

The Seven Ages of Baseball.

All the world's a ball field,
And all the men upon it merely players;
They have their innings and their goings out;
And one man in his time makes many plays,
At bat and on the diamond. At first the Kidlet,
Biffing the ball about the vacant lots,
And then the "slime-pro" with fierce ambition
Some day to be as great as Honus Wagner
And draw big coin. And then the Minor—
The Minor Leaguer—soon by scout discovered,
Bought, and given a try-out. Then the Major—
The Major Leaguer—idol of the bleachers,
Quick on base, snappy and sure in fielding,
Seeking the slugger's reputation
E'en against three-fingered Brown.
Then—pouf!—benchwarming!
His leg goes bad, his arm or eye or something.
He bats 'em out before the game, and coaches,
In sweater clad, at first or third. The papers
All fear he "can't come back." The sixth age shifts
To Minor Leagues again and there he is,
He says he's just as good as e'er he was,
But even here too fast's the company
For his bad leg or arm; his manly voice,
Turning again towards childish treble, blames
It on the umpire. Last scene of all,
That ends this strange eventful history,
Is Bush League hopelessness and sure oblivion,
Sans speed, sans arm, sans eye, sans everything!

Johnny's Watch.

May Lippincott's: Johnny's aunt gave him a bright and shiny watch for his birthday, and the boy's satisfaction was unbounded. A couple of weeks later he remarked very dolefully that the watch wasn't keeping good time.

"It must be wound very carefully every night before you go to bed," his aunt told him.

"Oh, I never knew that," said the boy. "Now I s'pose I've just gone and ruined it."

"Whey, when have you been winding it?"

"The first thing every morning," answered the boy sorrowfully.

Soldiers.

Life: If it is necessary to maintain a standing army, why not pay the soldiers good wages and have them do useful work when not drilling?

A short time each day would certainly be enough for drilling; the rest of the time let them be employed on work of national importance—conservation and reclamation projects, improvements of landways and waterways, etc. This would make of them intelligent, efficient, patriotic citizens instead of the paid idlers they are now.

PULPIT AND PLATFORM

CONGREGATION SOBS AS BISHOP SAYS FAREWELL

Affecting Scene When Bishop Corbett Preaches Last Sermon Here.

Brings Twenty-One Years of Service to a Close.

While not only women and children but strong men as well wept audibly, Rt. Rev. Timothy Corbett, who was consecrated bishop of Crookston last week, yesterday morning bade farewell to the Cathedral parish and the people among whom he labored for nearly twenty-one years. His voice choking with emotion, Bishop Corbett spoke but a few minutes, but he gave in that few minutes an expression of affection that could not have held more sincerity had he spoken an hour.

It was an affecting scene. Standing in the pulpit in the robes of his episcopal office, Bishop Corbett spoke with all the fire and vigor that for years were displayed in his tireless efforts in building up the parish and in pointing out to his people the way to a life of righteousness and an eternal reward in heaven. In plain language, that was the more expressive for its very simplicity, he bade farewell to his people, pledging them a lifelong place in his heart and his prayers, and bespeaking from them the same.

While the bishop gave verbal expression to his emotions, the congregation gave an unusual manifestation of affection. As Bishop Corbett entered the pulpit, a great hush fell over the congregation. At first only the voice of the preacher broke the silence, but gradually and with increasing volume, another sound arose and it threatened to drown out the voice of the bishop. Bishop Corbett said in the beginning of his talk that it was a family parting. Those of the family who are to remain in Duluth made no efforts to conceal the grief they felt. Men, women and children sobbed without restraint, and the bishop's voice faltered as he said the last words of farewell and left the pulpit.

The farewell followed Bishop Corbett's first pontifical high mass, which was celebrated with all the pomp and ceremony with which the Catholic church surrounds the sacrifice. Long before the hour set for the service, the great auditorium of the cathedral was crowded. Pews in the galleries and on the main floor were filled, and people stood in every available place. The rear of the church was crowded with people, who stood during the long service.

There was an undercurrent of sadness running through the congregation. A great parting was at hand—a parting of ties that were stronger than those of mere friendship between men. On the altar, where he had officiated as pastor for over a score of years, Bishop Corbett stood as a prelate of the church, elevated in recognition of valiant service. To him the mitre and crosier meant new obligations and new opportunities for serving his God, and to his people, who looked on in silent sadness, they meant the loss of a pastor and a friend they had learned to love through long association—a departure which they were forced to face to satisfy the ends of God and the church.

Adviser for Years.

Bishop Corbett had stood among them as a pastor among his flock for a score of years. He had led them away from the rocks of spiritual destruction and had pointed out to them the way to salvation. He had baptized many of them, had married others, had officiated at the funerals of their loved ones, had served as a friend and counsellor in times of need. At times he had used what might have seemed to them harsh measures, but they realized that he had acted for their good and that when his batteries had been turned upon them he had been doing his duty as he saw it.

When brought face to face with the parting, they broke down. They had come to consider Father Corbett and their parish as inseparable. Only such a situation as that yesterday could bring out the depth of their affection for him.

The mass itself was an impressive ceremony. The altar was decorated with flowers. The choir was augmented by an orchestra. The boys' choir chanted the responses. The new bishop officiated in his vestments of white. He was attended by Rev. P. Lydon and Rev. John Bagley as deacons. Father Wurm, who is to be pastor of the cathedral parish at Crookston, was assistant priest. Rev. J. Limmer and Rev. E. Lemire, who were Bishop Corbett's assistants at the local parish during recent years, were masters of ceremony. Rev. E. Croisier was also present.

At the conclusion of the mass, Bishop Corbett entered the pulpit.

"I am not going to deliver a sermon this morning," he said. "This is to be a talk—a family talk between priest and people. For twenty-one years we have been together, struggling in building up this parish and serving God. Twenty-one years of strong union! Twenty-one years of strong love! Twenty-one years of strong labors! Twenty-one years of strong financing! Twenty-one years of strong struggling! You learn to love the people with whom you struggle. The strongest ties formed on earth are those formed between men in struggling and in suffering.

"This is the saddest day of my life. When I kissed my mother goodbye and left for France to study many years ago, it was a sad day. When I left my country to cross the ocean to a foreign land, it was a sad day. When Bishop McGolrick left me in France, I cried for a mile on the road back to the college. But this day, on which I separate myself from the people of Duluth and this parish is the saddest day of my life. Go where I may, I will never meet such kindness, such generosity, such loyalty to church and religion as I have known here.

"I tried to have you pin your faith on Jesus Christ. I tried to have you base your religion on Him. I stood like the prophet of old and pointed out the way to salvavtion and, God help the man, who puts a blot on this parish.

"Shall I mention names today? Shall I name those who valiantly assisted me—who stood by me and helped me? It would take too long. You younger people do not know what we went through. You new parishioners do not know what we suffered. This was my first parish. No doubt I made mistakes, but they were mistakes prompted by my zeal and a desire to help you. I have been anxious to help you and our bishop.

"There is no parish in the United States that can be compared to this parish. I base my statement on the word of the apostolic delegate, bishops and others who have had opportunity to observe. God has blessed you for your generosity. God has blessed you because you have faith. No parish has such people as the cathedral parish of Duluth. I will never meet such people again.

Must Build Anew.

"I must build up from the bottom again. It is hard on me to begin the work once more. But we are soldiers and must go where we are called. Six months ago there were rumors in the air. I tried to head off anything that would separate me from the people of Duluth, but I was unsuccessful, and I must leave you.

"You will keep your old faith. You will keep your old generosity. You will stand by the church and help it in its work. I can never give my heart to another people like I have given it to you. I have never gone on the altar to offer mass but I have mentioned your temporal and spiritual progress in my prayers. At Crookston, I will never offer a mass without remembering you.

"You have been kind to me. What could I have done without you? If a man wants to preach, he must have an audience. If he wants to build, he must have the co-operation of the people. You say to me, 'Father, you did so much.' But I could do nothing without the aid of the people. You helped me. You seconded my efforts. I have never asked for one single thing but you gave it to me. Here we stand today with property valued at about $400,000, the result of our efforts. You are only $5,000 in debt on the new building as far as we have gone. What a record for generosity!

"You have gone to the sacraments. You have assisted at mass. We have had hard times in Duluth. Some people did not understand us. We have had times when the public press poured forth its vilifications. There have been times when I have had to defy the police and take hold with force to put down demonstrations at this corner. I have done my duty as I saw it, fearing neither devil nor man, and I have conquered.

"I am leaving you and this may be the last time I shall talk to you. There is no set of people in Duluth to compare with you. There is no set of people in Duluth better off financially, morally or intellectually than these people of my parish. You are my parish. I will claim you until I go down in the grave and I defy any man to say the contrary.

"It breaks my heart to leave that old bishop over there. I served him as a boy. In introducing me at St. Paul, he said, 'If you know how it feels for a man to lose his right arm, you know my condition.' Love your bishop, my people, and help him. Help your priests and I will love you the more. Don't let that spirit go down that we built up together. Keep it up and some day we will meet again in the eternal kingdom of God. I love you, my people. My heart breaks to leave you. Keep up your good work. Stand for your church and stand up for Jesus Christ.

"It is hard to say farewell. It breaks my heart. Nevertheless, I am doing God's will. I am going as a minister of God to build up a new diocese for other men. I will not see the work half completed and when my bones are mouldering in the grave another generation will enjoy the fruits of my work. I must begin again and build up. Direct your prayers to Jesus Christ for me. Think of me and pray for me, as I will think of you and pray for you."

This evening at Sacred Heart auditorium, Bishop Corbett will be tendered a reception by his friends and parishioners. There will be a musical program and Francis J. Dacey will deliver the address to the bishop. The reception will be informal in its nature and it is expected a large crowd will gather to offer their congratulations and good wishes to the new prelate.

EXERCISES AT SUNDAY SCHOOLS

"World's Sunday School Day" Observed By Protestant Churches.

In conformity with the programs sent out by the International Sunday School association, "A World's Sunday School Day" was celebrated yesterday in nearly all the Protestant Sunday schools of the city.

The services were simple and included the singing of hymns and the reading of familiar passages from the Scriptures.

In some of the Sunday schools the day was not observed, as the programs did not arrive in time or were sent to the wrong address.

RATIONAL FAITH IS POSSIBLE

Rev. Gebauer Says Test of Reason May Be Applied to All Doctrines.

"Trust and Doubt" was the object of the sermon preached by Rev George R. Gebauer at the First Unitarian church, corner First street and Eighth avenue east yesterday. He said in part: "We all know the story about the Indian prince, who by no manner of argument could be persuaded to believe that water in northern latitudes would become solid in winter. To rationally believe a thing we must be able to bring it into accord with a past experience or with our reason, and basic beliefs, such as were deeply implanted in us in our early childhood. It is for this reason that otherwise equally able minds differ so much in their religious beliefs.

"So most systems of belief are plausible, if only we can accept the premises But if this be true where is absolute truth? Well absolute truth, whatever that may be, is certainly not for a mind that is not absolute. For a fragmentary reason must get on with fragments of truth. We get about as much of it as we need, as much as we are able to make our own, and what we get, becomes ours not by mere faith, but by a faith tempered and qualified by doubt. There is so much superstition in the world, because we were handed so many things as true, before we were able to test their rationalness. But true doubt, which rests upon the desire to have truth, tests all things and magnifies rational faith possible. It is a mistaken notion to hold that ready belief is the mark of the simple and virtuous mind. Much oftener it is the ignorant mind, oftener still the sluggish spirit and reason. It is the fearful soul, which is ever afraid of what is new. On the other the true sceptic is at the same time eager for faith, faithful.

"Many of us are fully as proud of their doubt, as of their faith, but is it an honest, faithful doubt? If our brother loves and believes in the things of old, because they were given him in his early days, we often believe things, because they appeal to our pride, our selfiove and self conceit."

Big Sandstone Quarries.

The world's largest sandstone quarries are located in Ohio, a few miles to the south of Lake Erie. From these quarries also come vast quantities of our whetstones and grindstones. The purity and healthful qualities of Golden Grain Belt beer make it the ideal home beverage. It is made from the best of nature's products and should go into the home as a health maker. TALK ABOUT RELIEF FUND auditorium of the $1,000,000-pier, Sunday afternoon to attend the mass meeting for labor, the greatest popular meeting of the Presbyterian general assembly.

Nagel Failed to Appear.

Charles E. Nagel, secretary of commerce and labor, did not appear to deliver his scheduled address on the conservation of natural resources. A slight illness was given as the reason for his non-appearance, by Congressman Bennett of New York, who declared that he was speaking for the cabinet officer when he said that the national turmoil over conservation of forests and national reservations is not nearly as important as the conservation of human life throughout the country.

Congressman Bennett. hinted that "the coming report of the commission on immigration, which has been studying conditions in American factories, is likely to create a sentiment in the nature of a sensation in the number of preventable deaths caused in factories."

Rev. Charles Stelzle, superintendent of the department of commerce and labor of the Presbyterian church, made the principal address of the meeting, attacking present industrial and social conditions among the working classes.

Talks of Working Day.

"The present working day, from a psychological standpoint, is too long," continued Rev. Sterlzle. "It keeps the majority of men and women in a constant state of overwork, it leads to the craving of means for deadening fatigue and induces drunkenness and other excesses. The real justification for a shorter working day is found in the interests of the race. It is the business of the church to help remedy this situation. We should talk less about building up the church and more about building up the people."

Officials of the Atlantic City Central Labor union led a delegation of 2,000 mechanics and laborers who attended the meeting.

CLOUDY

Yesterday was bright and clear, although there was a chilly touch in the air. Last evening was beautiful, but this morning opened cold and raw, with a heavy fog hanging over the city. The weather man promises continued cloudy weather and probably frost tonight.

Fair weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:22 and it will set at 7:46, giving fifteen hours and twenty-four minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Disturbances central over Michigan and Manitoba caused light to heavy rains in the Red river, the lower Missouri, Mississippi and Ohio valleys, the lake region, South Atlantic and gulf states during Sunday or last night. Temperatures are moderate except cool near Lake Superior and over Alberta and Saskatchewan. A high pressure area overlying those two provinces is responsible for lower temperature in that section. Clear weather is the rule over the Rocky mountain region and eastern slopes."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, May 23.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Tuesday:

Upper Michigan — Showers tonight; Tuesday partly cloudy.

Iowa — Fair tonight and Tuesday; cooler tonight in extreme east portion; frost tonight in lowlands.

Montana—Fair tonight and Tuesday.

WEST END

PIONEER IS SUMMONED

E. G. Swanstrom Passes Away After Illness of Three Years.

Had Been a Resident of Duluth for Fifty-Four Years.

Emanuel G. Swanstrom, one of the earliest settlers of Duluth, and, in former years, prominent in Republican state politics, died yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at his late home, 2118 West First street, following an illness of three years. He was 72 years old.

Surviving him are a widow, four sons and two daughters. The sons are: Charles W. Swanstrom, deputy grain inspector of 3920 West Eighth street; Adolph F. Swanstrom of 15 North Twenty-first avenue west; Emanuel A. Swanstrom of 2308 West Second street; and Walter A. Swanstrom. Mrs. Joseph C. Helm of 2420 East Fourth street and Mrs. Thomas A. Merritt of 2426 East Fourth street are daughters.

Mr. Swanstrom was born in Carlshamn, Sweden, in 1838, and came to this country in 1854. For two years he lived in Chisago county, and in 1856 he came to Duluth and settled in Oneota, which was the only settlement of any consequence at the Head of the Lakes. He worked in the sawmills at Oneota and in the adjacent woods.

In a few years he opened a general store at 1 Garfield avenue. He sold out this business in 1890. In 1873 and 1874 he was in the state legislature as a representative from this district. He also served in the state senate during the years 1878-79. In county politics he was also prominent, holding minor offices. For thirteen years he was county commissioner.

During the administration of President Arthur, Mr. Swanstrom received the appointment as receiver of the United States land office. He served in this capacity for three and a half years, and in 1890 he was spoken of among Republicans for the office of state treasurer, and just missed getting the nomination. He had also been mentioned several times for other state offices, and was considered in his day as one of the strongest Republicans in this part of the state.

The funeral will held from the residence tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, with interment at Forest Hill cemetery. Rev. W. E. Harmann will officiate.

TEACH YOUNG THE CURSE OF DRINK

Never Mind the "Old Toper" Says Pastor in His Address.

That the real work for temperance reformers consisted in creating a strong sentiment against the use of liquor among the young rather than trying to win over the "old topers," was the keynote of a temperance address given at the big mass meeting of Scandinavian congregations at the West end by Rev. Edward Erickson, pastor of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church. The other speaker was Rev. C. O. G. Olson, pastor of Bethany Swedish Lutheran church. The affair was held at the Sweish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street, yesterday afternoon.

Rev. Mr. Erickson said in part:

"The church may not be able to do much with the old topers but can begin with the children and create a strong sentiment in the hearts of the rising generation against the whisky curse.

"The saloon and whisky dispensers are the greatest law breakers, and law breakers that are not punished.

"If punishment is to be inflicted, the church must do it.

"It is the moderate drinker that is in the greatest danger because he is creating an appetite which will sooner or later ruin him. The saloon knows this and is anxious to encourage him. The different cures for drink do not take away the appetite, but the power of God will. If the church does not drive the saloon out of the land the saloon will drive the church out. It is not enough to pray but also to vote the way we pray."

Rev. Mr. Olson of Bethany church pointed out how "the drink demon" had a powerful hold in the larger cities. In Chicago alone, he said, there are 8,000 licensed saloons.

The meeting yesterday is the first of a series that will be held.

MISSIONARY LECTURES ON CHINA'S AWAKENING.

Rev. H. J. Bon Qualen gave an address on "A Wonderful Awakening in China" last evening before a large audience at the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street. He was a former missionary in China for eighteen years. His first work in this connection was done in 1887. Rev. Mr. Bon Qualen will return to China to live next October.

New Baseball Team.

Johnson-Anderson.

The marriage of Miss Ellen Johnson to William J. Anderson was solemnized yesterday afternoon at the residence of the officiating clergyman, Rev. W. E. Harmann, pastor St. Peter's Swedish Episcopal church, at his residence, 113 North Twenty-eighth avenue west. The young couple will make their home at Twenty-ninth avenue west and Michigan street.

West End Shortrails.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Bergum of 119 North Twenty-third avenue west returned last evening from a visit at the Twin Cities.

Rev. Swaney Nelson, pastor of the First Swedish Baptist church, will attend the annual convention of the St. Louis County Sunday School association, which will be held at Hibbing tomorrow and Wednesday.

Miss Amanda Fredet of Princeton, Minn., is a guest at the home of her uncle, William L. Bernard, of 212 Exeter street.

George M. Jensen of 114 North Twenty-first avenue west has returned from a fishing trip at Boulder Lake.

The Dorcas society of Bethany Swedish Lutheran church will be entertained Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. P. A. Elmquist of 1212 East Fifth street.

Mrs. E. L. Gibbs of 423 Eighth avenue west will be hostess to members of the Ladies' Guild of the St. Luke's Episcopal church at her home Friday afternoon.

The Luther League of Bethany Swedish Lutheran church will hold its regular meeting Thursday evening at the church, Twenty-third avenue West and Third street.

The Ladies' Guild of St. Peter's Swedish Episcopal church will be entertained Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs Wiberg of 115 Twenty-second avenue West.

The Foreign Missionary Society of Bethany Swedish Lutheran church will meet Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Palmquist at the home of Prof. and Mrs. A. F. Lundholm of 2510 West Third street.

JUGGLING OF PAPERS HAS INVOLVED FIRM OF GRAIN MERCHANTS

been so manipulated as to make possible the heavy loans from the banks upon the bills as security.

Receipts Not Taken Up.

The man whose duty it is said to have been to take up the warehouse receipts when the grain was actually delivered by the railroad company, it is alleged, did not do so, and hence the genuine bills were used over again.

President Frederick A. Mead of the First National bank said today his bank holds $77,200 of the Durant & Elmore paper bearing the personal indorsement of Messrs. Durant, Elmore and Oliver and secured by original bill of lading drafts deposited as collateral security for the loans. The company, he said, had been gradually withdrawing its business from the bank for some time past.

Careful investigation led him to believe that the bank would be amply protected from any loss.

"Up to the Railroads."

"I do not believe the banks will lose any money," said Mr. Mead. "They will hold the railroads responsible. We look to the railroads to take the initiative."

The Durant & Elmore company is understood to have grain in Oneonta and in Boston valued at about $100,000 and considerable additional grain in transit from the West. The company also owns the business of the Oneonta Milling company. Edward A. Durant, one of the firm, is said to have agreed, if necessary, to turn over to the creditors of the company all the property he possesses.

Some time ago Henry C. Palmer, freight agent of the Delaware & Hudson in this city, was dismissed from the company's employ and a few weeks later left for Chicago, where, it was said, he had entered the employ of Durant & Elmore.

Flyer's Lights Over Springfield.

Springfield, Ohio, May 23.—Residents of this city returning home from church last night were greatly surprised to see flying overhead some great air craft carrying a bright red light. The craft was so far above their heads that they could not distinguish it, but the whirr of an engine could be heard. It was believed to have been one of the Wright brothers' machines.

Negro Saved From Mob.

Montgomery, Ala., May 23.—Crouched in the tonneau of Mayor Gunler's automobile and protected by policemen with drawn revolvers, Sam Meadows, a negro, was rushed at express speed through a suburban mob last evening and hurried to the Montgomery jail. The negro was charged with insulting white women.

Ruth Bryan Owen in Mexico.

Mexico City, Mex., May 23.—Lieut. R. A Owen of the English army with his wife, who was Ruth Bryan Leavitt, slipped quietly into this city last night en route to Jamaica on their wedding tour. They were not accompanied by Mrs. Owen's children.

FIRST GAME FOR INDIANS

Red Wing Breaks Long Losing Streak By Beating Sox.

Slow Playing By Duluth Infield Responsible for Defeat.

Red Wing, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Red Wing won its first game of the season yesterday, defeating the Duluth White Sox by the score of 4 to 3. Though Thorsen was not hit hard at any stage of the contest, hits by the locals and slow playing on the part of the Duluth infield in the first and eighth innings, permitted the winning scores that made victory possible.

But four hits, three of them of the scratch variety, were gathered off the delivery of Thorsen. Slow work on the part of the Duluth infield permitted Kelly to steal home, while at other times the infield played stupid baseball.

O'Brien protested the game in the second inning, but later withdrew his protest when Duluth went into the lead.

Bennett was driven from the hill in the third inning. Fautsch succeeded Bennett and held the Sox safe the rest of the game. Score: R. H. E.

DUNBAR'S PITCHING WINS FOR WAUSAU.

La Crosse, Wis., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dunbar of Wausau held the locals to five scattered hits yesterday, the Lumberjacks taking the game from the Outcasts by the score of 4 to 0.

Wittaker was hit hard in three innings when hits meant runs. Errors behind him counted in the run getting. Heavy grounds made fast playing difficult.

Catcher Zalusky and Pitcher Sporer have reported to the local team. Hayes, a new shortstop, is expected to report tomorrow. Score: R. H. E.

WINONA TAKES PITCHERS' BATTLE FROM SUPERIOR.

Winona, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—In a pitchers' battle between Baillies and Clausen, the former won out, holding Superior to four hits and the Pirates defeating Superior by the score of 3 to 1.

Baillies kept the four hits of his opponents scattered, only one of the quarter of safe ones being of the true blue variety. The Pirates got to Clausen for seven hits, bunching hits in the first and third innings.

McNutt's misjudgment of a fly in the fourth inning, allowed the visitors their unearned score. Aside from this one score, the visitors were never dangerous.

O'Dea was fined $70 for wrangling with Arundel. The Superior manager claimed that Landry held a fly ball long enough to have the runner declared out, while the umpire ruled that the fielder dropped the ball and that the runner was safe. The fine began at $5 and mounted up to near the century mark. The police escorted O'Dea from the field. Score: R. H. E.

SAINTS DROP TWO GAMES TO BREWERS.

St. Paul, Minn., May 23.—Milwaukee shut St. Paul out in both games yesterday afternoon, the first, 4 to 0, and the second, which went twelve innings, 3 to 0. In the first game Schardt held St. Paul to one scratch hit. In the second game three hits, a base on balls and an error gave Milwaukee the game in the twelfth inning. The Washington school field and track team easily won the seventh interscholastic athletic meet Saturday afternoon, scoring 70½ points to 41½ for the Adams team, the nearest competitor. By the victory the Washington team won the permanent possession of The Herald cup, having won the trophy three times.

Roger Whiteside of the winning team was the individual star of the meet, scoring 23 points and winning the medal offered by the Kelley Hardware company for the winner of the greatest number of points.

The meet was well attended by teachers and students of the different schools and each winner was enthusiastically cheered. The records were all good and some city interscholastic records were broken.

The Washington school won the championship in both the lightweight and heavyweight divisions, the Jefferson midgets finished first in their division and the honors in the middleweight class went to the Adams school. Douglas McKay was the star of the midget division, Ray Larson in the lightweight, Oscar Benson in the middleweight and Roger Whiteside in the heavyweight.

AS SEEN FROM THE SIDE LINES

(BY BRUCE.)

Better Land Savage.

In the event of the racing officials of the Minnesota State fair failing to secure the appearance of the speedy Savage horses for the 1910 fair, these same officials may find that they have cut off a large source of revenue from the grand stand and the big track.

In the past a lot of people have each year paid their good money to see Dan Patch, the greatest pacer of all time, go against the record held these many years by the horse that the people of the Northwest have begun to look upon as a Minnesota horse.

Col. M. W. Savage has added other greater horses to his stables. He has at the present time the greatest collection of pacers owned by any man in the entire country. It is stated that the colonel has received offers from many fairs and racing associations, bidding for the appearance of these animals. If the story sent from Minneapolis bears the stamp of truth, as yet the officials of the state fair have failed to attempt to book any of the Savage horses for exhibition purposes.

A story has been sent from Minneapolis, stating that there is a rumor that Col. Savage will hold races on his farm the same week that the fair is in progress. That story is very probably overdrawn. The point of the whole matter is that the fair people would be lacking in the proper spirit did they fail to have the Savage horses at the state fair.

Col. Savage has done much for horse racing interests in this state. His efforts have been along clean lines. He has done much to advertise Minnesota, through his bringing to this state Dan Patch, Minor Heir, George Gano, Hedgewood Boy and others of his string. He is entitled to consideration at the hands of the men who are framing the program of the state fair.

The horses that are in the Savage stables can properly be said to be Minnesota horses. If Minnesota has the best pacers in the world, it would look awfully queer from the outside should the management of the fair fail to secure the services of the best horses in the country, when these horses were housed but a very short distance from the fair grounds.

There may be some inaccuracies in the story sent from Minneapolis. The fair management may be negotiating for the appearance of the Savage string. But there is truth in the statement that horsemen and lovers of horseflesh are anxious to see the famous pacers in the Savage string, and in the event they were not shown at the state fair, there would be a large number of out-of-town visitors who would visit the Savage farm during state fair week simply for the purpose of getting a look at the famous sulky squad.

Packey Is Popular.

In the very 'eart of dear old England, the bloomin' British have made Packey McFarland, the curly headed youth from the Chicago stock yards, the favorite over Freddy Welsh.

Something in the work of the Chicago boy must have impressed the conservative British very strongly, for in the land of the succulent roast beef yare, this Welsh boy is a pugilistic idol.

'Ere's 'oping, 'cousin dear, that the American wins the event and adds the American brand of supremacy to the list of victories we have won in recent years on British soil. There is the list of Olympian victories, and the worst blow of all to your pride, the victory at cricket.

Let Packey win and add just one more to the list we are having enlarged for future reference.

Let's Have Hope.

No, this does not refer to the base ball team—the crew is under consideration. What an excellent showing it made yesterday morning.

The first and second crews were sent over the course, and on the row back to the boat house the members of the first crew showed the best form of the present season—in fact, the first indication of good.

Back and legs were used for what nature intended them. The men pulled the stroke through and got more of a reach. The crew the present season will reach further than the junior crews of the past two seasons. The men have been coached on the reach since they began to get anything like form, and yesterday the effect of this coaching was made apparent.

There is a lot of honor ahead of the present crew, if the men will work. There is so much work ahead of the boys, that at last when in the boat they have begun to take the work as seriously as it deserves to be taken.

Duluth has a royal chance for victory. A win at Kenora means that the crew will undoubtedly be taken to Washington to compete in the national. St. Catherines may also be included. A win at Kenora and a good showing at Washington would mean a great thing for the Duluth Boat club. The present boat should be capable of winning at Kenora and making a great showing at the capitol. Whether it does or not, is in a great degree up to the men.

So far the spirit shown has been of the best. The men have been faithful in rowing in all kinds of weather. Very few of the men have cut practice. From now on the crew is expected to show marked progress. It is up to the men to improve to the extent where they will compose the fastest crew ever sent from the Head of the Lakes.

Hard Luck Games.

Though, patient fan, the Duluth base ball team is not playing the best game in the world, you will kindly notice how many games they have lost to date by the score of just one point behind. They have lost five of such games.

Al Cummings is due to join the team today at Eau Claire. Dauss is also due to work in one of the Eau Claire series. If Eau Claire makes it three straight from us, there will indeed be wailing and gnashing of teeth in the home of the Sox.

ELEVEN STATE RECORDS ESTABLISHED AT MEETING.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fargo had everything its own way in the eighth annual interschoolastic field and track meet, which came to a close Saturday night. Grand Forks finished a poor second, while the other teams were strung out. The Fargo men were exceptionally strong in every department and their showing was the very best possible.

In the half-mile relay race the Ellendale team tok first. Grand Forks also securing second in that event. Fargo was a strong bidder for first place in the last lap when Merrit Kimball was running for that school, but he stumbled and fell.

During the meet eleven new state records were established.

LJUNGSTROM WINS TWO RACES FROM HAYES.

Ottawa, Can., May 23.—J. B. Hayes was yesterday beaten by Ljungstrom in a five-mile race, by five yards. The time was 28 minutes. Yesterday Ljungstrom beat Hayes in a fifteen-mile race by 120 yards, in 1:30:55.

Cloquet High Wins.

Clouquet, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local high school base ball team defeated the team representing the Aitkin high school in the game played here Saturday, by a score of 12 to 3. The game was well played up to the seventh inning, the score then being 1 to 1.

AROUND THE CIRCUIT

What a spendthrift this Artie O'Dea of Superior is getting to be! He has spent $95 in the last few days—and what has he received in return for it? Nothing but a very good dressing down from the umpires.

It seems that Arthuh has had the wrong impression of the league. You see he was not with us last year—up in the Canadian bushes, where they do pretty much as they please, and where they stood around and looked resigned when the Big Chief O'Dea looked fierce.

Well, it would look to the unbiased as if Arthuh, dear boy, had started something like that in the Minny league ballwick. The first rampage was stopped, or checked somewhat, after Arthuh had contributed $25 toward the cost of living of the league. That was very kind of Arthuh, and for which action the board of directors will undoubtedly offer thanks at the next annual meeting.

But the fine of $25 sat lightly on the conscience of Arthuh. Yesterday came the real splurge—when coin was litterally slug to all corners of the diamond. The Superior chief was fined $70 in real money, and the fine will have to be paid, too, before the leader of the Grumblers can accompany his team into the park.

They are going to enforce discipline the present season, it would seem, even if the ball players have to spend a lot of money. Think of the good time Arthuh could have had in Duluth with that money.

Wonder if the loss of a few games gives Joshua Safford frigidness of the toes. He is on the still hunt for players. If the reports from the German territory are correct. Silent Joe has signed "Lefty" Sporer, the gent who used to throw in the old Northern. There is a catcher also who is given a funny name in the press reports. This receiver might be either Joe or Jack Zalusky, brothers, who have played professional baseball for a number of years in the Northwest.

The first two games lost after a prolonged winning streak give the fans heartache. After you have lost a number in a monotonous row, you get used to it. Honestly, Joe, cheer up and throw out your chest. We have the habit and we are in a position to advise bravery and patience.

Getting down to figures, we might have won every game on the present trip, save the one we lost by the dismal score of 14 to 0. But then the "might" in the present is as a mantle, covering a multitude of baseball sins. Most of the defeats on the present trip have been games lost just by one score. The team started bad last season, even worse than it has been going the present spring, so there is some small cause for consolation. With one or two more players, the team should be good.

Clemens, centerfielder of the Grumblers, has been playing swell ball since joining the malcontents. His hitting has been a feature of the games played on the trip and his fielding stunts have also earned him a high place in the estimation of the fans around the circuit. Two more outfielders like Clemens has shown himself so far, would make the Superior garden tenders about the sweetest in the league. Landry or McGraw do not appear to be the equal of the new man.

Helping hands have already been stretched out in the direction of Mique Malloy, the pilot of the hapless Red Wing Indians. Harry McKee, said to be one of the starts of the Winona pitching staff—said to be—has been turned over to the Red Wing Indians. If all the other teams lend some player to the Indians, Malloy may have a baseball team before the season is much older.

However, the Red Wing management is on the trail of players, and if Malloy cannot deliver the goods the management of the team will be turned over to some who can make a better showing.

Bancroft is playing a mighty sugared game for the Grumblers. The playing of the kid in the Winona series has been sweet and childlike in its goodliness. Both Bancroft and Clemers figured in the downfall of the Pirates—Bancroft by his great infield defense and Clemens by his stellar work in the garden. If the Superior team only had Koepping to work with Banny, what a combination the club would have. This world is a most uncertain place.

So far the Red Wing papers have been very kind to their team. The two victories over the Duluth champions have been very encouraging. However, one cannot but help thinking of the innermost thoughts of William Beach Smith, who is writing of the team. William's sage advice has undoubtedly assisted the team much.

So far the present season no third baseman has shown the form of departed Breen. Both Goodman of the Winona Pirates and Caldwell of the Grumblers are playing nice games. If Caldwell maintains his present gait Eau Claire may yet regret the fact that the boy was allowed to get away. This, too, despite the nice things that have been said about Moore, the man playing the difficult corner for Tommy Schoonhoven.

Looks like Solbrae has replaced Joe Curtis at first on the Winona team. The fielding of the former Northern leaguer has been the feature of several of the games played by the Pirates recently. Curtis is probably not the fielder of the new man, but there is the question as to whether Solbraa can hit as effectively as old Joe.

Some are asking, thusly—If the old men under the guiding and venerable wing of Jack Corrigan can play as fast as they have been playing in the cold and clammy weather, what will they do when the warm and tender sun, beating down from a clear and cloudless sky, puts new life into the ancient muscles of the Corrigan hired men? That is the real question that takes precedent over the tariff, down Wausau way. It even has the right of way over the serious problem of the cost of living.

WITH THE AMATEURS

The strong Fitwells of this city tied in a ten-inning contest with the Allouez team yesterday, the score standing 2 to 2 when the game was called in the tenth inning.

The game was fast throughout and many fielding features marked the contest. The players of the Fitwells claim that the rough work of the crowd and the players of the Allouez team was the direct cause of the calling off of the game.

According to the statement of Manager Sears of the Fitwell team the crowd threw stones and in every way tried to spoil the chances of the Duluth players. The police interfered and the Duluth players decided that they were rather tired of that sort of playing.

Talbot for the Fitwells struck out seventeen men and allowed but five scattered hits. One of the features of the game was a double play pulled off by Young, L. Johnson and H. Johnson. In the fifth, with two out and three Allouez players on the bases, H. Johnson at second made a great spear of a liner, saving the Duluth team from defeat.

WESTERN COLLEGE TRACK MEETS

Chicago, May 23.—The Univversity of Wisconsin defeated the University of Chicago by the score of 80 to 46 in their annual dual track and field meet on Marshall Field Saturday. Chicago was in the lead only once during the afternoon and that was when Straube won a 100-yard dash, first event. Wisconsin jumped into the lead when Dohmen won the mile run and never was headed.

Chicago fell down in events where it was expected to score heavily, while Wisconsin ran past expectations and steadily increased its lead. The defeat of Crawley in high hurdles and Stoppiet in the two-mile run were the heavies blows sustained by the losers.

Dohmen and Davenport Star.

Dohmen for Wisconsin and Davenport for Chicago, were the individual stars of the meet.

New Western Records.

St. Louis, Mo., May 23.—Lee J. Talbot of the Kansas City Athletic club made three new records in the western division amateur union and field meet here Saturday afternoon. The three he smashed were the discuss, 128 feet and 2 inches, heaved a 16-pound shot 45 feet and 4 inches, and threw the 16-pound hammer 162 feet 7½ inches.

Through Talbot's work the Kansas Athletic club scored 56 points and took first place and Missouri finished with 40 points.

Chicago School Wins.

Champaign, Ill., May 23.—University high school of Chicago won the annual state interscholastic meet at the University of Illinois Saturday. Milford was second and Hyde Park high school, Chicago, third.

Byrd of Milford established a new world's interscholastic record with the discus which he hurled 139 feet, 5 inches, breaking his own mark made a week ago. Yates of Galesburg made a new record of 2:01 1-5 in the half mile and Berry of Beardstown, a new record of 166 feet 9 1-4 inches in the hammer throw.

Kansas State Wins.

Columbia, Mo., May 23.—In the track meet Saturday Kansas State university defeated Missouri State university for the first time in the history of the track meets between the two universities. Kansas scored 56½; Missouri, 53½ points.

Sarlhom Wins.

Terre Haute, Ind., May 23.—The Indiana Collegiate Athletic league annual track meet held on the Rose Polytechnic Athletic field Saturday solved itself into a struggle between Earlham and Wabash with the former winning out 43 to 41 points.

JEFF BOXES NINE ROUNDS

Ben Lomond, Cal., May 23.—In the presence of fifty members of the Olympic club and a number of prominent San Francisco sporting men, Jeffries gave the best boxing exhibition of his present session yesterday morning. The fighter went through nine fast rounds of sparring with his brother Jack, Joe Choynski and Bob Armstrong, and at the finish there was not a man among the spectators who did not express the opinion that Jeffries was in excellent condition. Chief of Police Martin of San Francisco saw the work-out and is highly enthusiastic over Jeffries' condition.

The fighter followed the glove work with shadow boxing, rope skipping and two fast games of handball. This was followed by five miles on the road and an hour's row on the river.

Big Crowd See Johnson.

San Francisco, Cal., May 23.—Jack Johnson did his boxing at his beach quarters yesterday afternoon before just as big crowds as on opening day and if anything the colored champion had a faster work-out.

George Cotton and Marty Cutler, who worked with him, were in far better trim than a week ago and made a better showing. The negro warmed well to his work and insisted on boxing four rounds with each. He was anxious to find out from the newspaper critics present how they liked his work and particularly wanted to know if they considered him fast. Cotton was sent back to the camp with his mouth bleeding. After a punch to the stomach in the fourth round, Cutler, compialned of being sick and stalled until George Little called time.

In addition to his boxing, the bag punching and tossing the medicine ball about, Johnson introduced some new exercises with the pulley weights. All told he was in the gymnasium about an hour. Following the work-out, he weighed in the presence of a newspaper crowd and tipped the scales at 218¾ pounds. A week ago today he weighed 224 pounds. There is no longer any suggestion of too much stomach.

CLOQUET DEFEATED BY MOOSE LAKERS.

Cloquet, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Cloquet met its fourth straight defeat at the hands of the Moose Lake aggregation, which won by a score of 6 to 3. All the scoring was done in the first three innings of play, after which the game was fast and somewhat of a pitchers' battle. The score: R. H. E.
Moose Lake 3 1 2 0 0 0 0 0 0—6 6 2
Cloquet ....1 0 2 0 0 0 0 0 0—3 7 5
Batteries: Felgin and Nevers; Carlson and Loisel. Umpire, McGregor.

A baseball meeting will be held in the city hall Tuesday evening for the purpose of choosing a new manager, E. S. Schlebe having resigned, and also to reorganize the team.

GRAND FORKS PICKETS VICTORS OVER CROOKSTON.

East Grand Forks, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—After leading up to the eighth inning, Crookston yesterday afternoon took a bad slump and by the time the smoke cleared away the Grand Forks Picketts had run in a total of seven runs, winning the game by a score of 9 to 4. Four hits, one base on balls, poor judgment in handling infield grounders and two errors resulted in the seven runs in the eighth inning. Score: R. H. E.
Grand Forks...0 0 0 0 0 0 2 2 0 0—4 5 9
Crookston .....2 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 7 0—9 7 2

FIVE CHAMPIONS ARE DEFEATED IN NEW YORK.

New York, May 23.—Five athletic champions went down to defeat yesterday in the games of the Vendome Athletic club at Newark, N. J. Robert F. Green of the New York Athletic club, hurled the discus two inches farther than the best mark, 133 feet. Melvin Sheppard finished fourth in a 300-yard handicapp and Harry Gissing, his rival, fifth.

John Flanagan hurled the hammer more than 169 feet, but was beaten by Simon Gillis of the New York Athletic club.

MORE PINKHAM CURES

Added to the Long List due to This Famous Remedy.

Oronogo, Mo.—"I was simply a nervous wreck. I could not walk across the floor without my heart fluttering and I could not even receive a letter. Every month I had such a bearing down sensation, as if the lower parts would fall out. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done my nerves a great deal of good and has also relieved the bearing down. I recommended it to some friends and two of them have been greatly benefited by it."—Mrs. MAE MCKNIGHT, Oronogo, Mo.

Another Grateful Woman.

St. Louis, Mo.—"I was bothered terribly with a female weakness and had backache, bearing down pains and pains in lower parts. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound regularly and used the Sanative Wash and now I have no more troubles that way."—Mrs. AL. HERZOG, 5722 Prescott Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has cured many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, indigestion, dizziness, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result is worth millions to many suffering women.

DULUTH and SUPERIOR

SERIOUS CONFLICTS AT IRISH MEETINGS.

Cork, Ireland, May 23.—The presence here Sunday of rival Irish factions, in spite of elaborate police precautions, led to serious conflicts, following demonstrations which were addressed by John F. Redmond, leader of the Irish Parliamentary party, John Dillon and William O'Brien. Many persons were injured, including Daniel D. Sheehan, M. P. for Cork, some of whom were taken to the infirmary.

S. S. S. FOR BLOOD DISEASE

S. S. S. is a real cure for Contagious Blood Poison because it is a real blood purifier. We all realize that this disease is a specific blood infection of the most powerful nature, the virus of which so thoroughly poisons the corpuscles of the circulation that its symptoms are manifested over almost the entire body. First comes a tiny sore or pimple, then the mouth and throat ulcerate, the glands in the groin swell, the hair begins to fall out, skin diseases break out on the body, sores and ulcers appear, and even the bones ache with rheumatic pains. It is reasonable to believe that in a blood poison so powerful as this that only a blood purifier can have any permanent good effect. S. S. S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers; it goes into the circulation and by thoroughly cleansing the blood of every particle of the insidious virus makes a permanent and lasting cure of Contagious Blood Poison. It does not hide or cover up the disease in the system but it entirely removes the last trace of its destructive germs. If you are suffering with this disease S. S. S. will cure you because it will cleanse your blood and enrich its health-promoting corpuscles. S. S. S. is made entirely of healing, cleansing roots, herbs and barks, and is a medicine so absolutely safe and certain in its results, that everyone may cure themselves at home, and be assured the cure will be permanent and lasting. Home Treatment book containing much valuable information for successful treatment, sent free to all who write.

There will be a large attendance from Duluth at the annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic at Minneapolis June 14.

All the officers and post officers of the two local posts will attend as delegates from the Zenith City.

Bodies who are affiliated with the Grand Army of the Republic will also send delegates. Among the bodies of this kind are: The Women's Relief Corps, Garfield Circle No. 4, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic. The latter society has named the following delegates: Mrs. Elenor Pike, Mrs. Mary Dacy, alternate; Mrs. Susan Irvin, Miss Nellie Orton, alternate; Mrs. Luella Robinson, Mrs. Merrill, alternate.

The national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic will be held at Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 19 to 24.

LIFE-TIME'S SAVINGS STOLEN DURING SLEEP.

Newark, N. J., May 23.—While Samuel Vogel and his wife of Newark, N. J., slept soundly, burglars entered their home and stole a handbag containing jewelry worth $10,000 from under the pillow beneath Mrs. Vogel's head, and $600 in cash from her husband's pockets. The pair did not discover their loss until they woke. Vogel, who is a middleaged shopkeeper, had put the savings of a lifetime into djamonds.

Tonic Kills Children.

Elizabeth, N. J., May 23.—Playing house, while mother went to market, Louise Crouch, 6 years old, and her brother, Johnnie, the younger child, went to the ice chest and drank freely from a bottle of tonic compound, which they had seen their parents use. Both died in convulsions today.

HUDSON PARK IS NOT YET ASSURED

New York Legislature Is Slow in Acting on Gift of Mrs. Harriman.

Albany, N. Y., May 23.—Governor Hughes announced to the legislature in January that Mrs. F. H. Harriman, in accordance with the wishes of her late husband, had offered the state a 10,000-acre tract of land at Arden for a state park and $1,000,000 with which to acquire and improve adjacent land so that the park might have a river frontage. Five months have passed, however, and the final week of the session finds the legislators still undecided as to the acceptance of the gift.

Coincident with the announcement of the Harriman gift, the governor made public other gifts, designed to enable the state to establish a park along the Hudson river readily accessible to those living in the congested quarters of New York city. These offers, from John D. Rockefeller, J. Pierpont Morgan, Mrs. Russell Sage, Helen Gould, William K. Vanderbilt, E. H. Gary and others, totaling $1,522,000, were secured through the activity of the Palisades Interstate Park commission, and were contingent upon the state's appropriating $256,000 for the acquirement of lands and the building of roads, and the abandoning of the Bear Mountain site for the new state prison.

Lion Fondles a Child.

In Pittsburg a savage lion fondled the hand that a child thrust into his cage. Danger to a child is sometimes great when least regarded. Often it comes through Colds, Croup, and Whooping Cough. They slay thousands that Dr. King's New Discovvery could have saved. "A few doses cured our baby of a very bad case of Croup," writes Mrs. George B. Davis, of Flat Rock, N. C. "We always give it to him when he takes cold. Its a wonderful medicine for babies." Best for Cougas, Colds, La Grippe, Asthma, Hemorrhages, Weak Lungs. 50c. $1. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by all druggists.

CLEMENCY BY KING GEORGE

New Ruler Remits Short Sentences and Reduces Long Ones in Kingdom.

London, May 23.—King George has commenced his reign with an act of clemency, granting remission of short sentences and reduction of others throughout the kingdom, those including the army and navy. He has also issued a touching letter "to my people," expressing grateful appreciation of the affection and loving devotion the nation has shown in the face of "a sorrow so sudden unlooked for that it might well have been overwhelming."

"But the sentiment it has invoked," continues the king, "has made me realize that it is a loss common to me and my people. They share it with me; I do not stand alone. With such thoughts I take courage and hopefully look to the future, strong in my faith in God, trusting my people and cherishing the laws and constitution of my beloved country."

COAL CLAIMS MUST WAIT.

Cunningham Affair Has Long Course in Land Office.

Washington, May 23.—The Cunningham coal claims in Alaska, which sprang into national notice as the basis of the breach between the forest service and the interior department that finally resulted in the Ballinger-Pinchot congressional investigation, cannot be taken up by the general land office for decision as to their validity for several weeks. Hearing on the subject of their legality was concluded and thirty-three claims were placed in their regular order in the general land office for consideration as to whether patents should be issued. The claims having precedence, it is estimated, will be cleared out of the way in the course of one or two months.

The record of the Cunningham entries includes a voluminous amount of testimony which was heard in various cities from the Atlantic to the Pacific before a special commissioner designated by the interior department, and after it has been reached, will require some time for a careful examination.

It is generally understood that attorneys for the entrymen will apply for permission to make an oral argument before Commissioner Dennett. This request, Mr. Dennett says, will be granted if it is made.

TWO DROP DEAD WHEN COMET IS IN SIGHT.

Talaiadeega, Ala., May 23.—The appearance of the comet last evening caused intense excitement here. Congregations of several churches left their pews and hundreds of persons stood excited in the square and gazed at the comet.

Miss Ruth Jordan, daughter of a farmer living two miles from here, was called to the door of her home to see the comet and immediately fell dead, physicians assigning heart failure as the cause. An unknown negro on the depot platform was shown the comet and instantly dropped dead.

DRAGS WOULD-BE RESCUER TO DEATH WITH HIMSELF.

Lakeville, Mass., May 23.—Two lives were lost in Lake Assawampsett Sunday, when John J. Gallagher, a Boston telegraph operator, went down carrying with him in a frenzied grasp, Adam Bopp, a Middleboro shoemaker, who was trying to save him. Bopp was 19 years old. Gallagher, who was slightly crippled, was out alone in a rowboat, when suddenly he shouted loudly for help and jumped overboard. Bopp, who was in another boat, leaped to Gallagher's aid, but the drowning man gripped him by the neck and they went to the bottom together.

KERENS TO LIVE IN ROTHSCHILD PALACE.

Vienna, May 23.—In acquiring a lease of olowerat palace, Richard C. Kerens, the American ambssador, will be more sumptuously housed than any former representative in this country. The palace was built by Baron Albert Rothschild for his son, Baron Oscar Rothschild, who committed suicide last July because of an alleged love affair with a Chicago girl. The palace has spacious state epartments and occupies a commanding situation.

EDWARD A GREAT PEACEMAKER

Grand Forks Clergyman Lauds King in a Duluth Sermon.

Rev. F. M. McCoy of Grand Forks, N. D., characterized King Edward VII as a lover of all classes and the great peacemaker of his day, in an address delivered last night at the First Methodist church. The speaker said that it was for these qualities that Edward will long be remembered.

The speaker said that it was fitting that a close bond of sympathy be evidenced between America and England by such tokens as memorial services being held in this country on the death of Queen Victoria and also her son, King Edward.

Mr. McCoy said in part:

"The estimate our country places on a monarch is not based upon the royal robes and splendid tinsel, but upon the man himself. Edward VII was 'every inch a king.' The estimate goes farther than that. It is not only on a ruler's manhood, but is based also on the condition of his country at his time and the influences under which he lived and reigned. To the extent that his rule fits into the plans of the Ruler of the Universe it is good.

"The policy of a nation is not now contained within its borders in this enlightened Twentieth century. Individuals cannot live unto thmselves and nations cannot. If Edward VII had been on the throne instead of George III, America might now be held in the British empire. In a decade frought with military perils he held peace and I know of but one American, John Hay, who can be ranked with him in this respect. Americans need a baptism of the spirit of King Edward and there should be more rejoicing over the erection of a university than over the launching of a dreadnought. The king's shortcomings were due to his surroundings and he will be remembered as fitting in with the modern idea of things."

SUMMER HOMES ON THE ISLANDS

Twin City People Have Colony on One of Apostle Group.

A few years ago when Duluthians visited St. Paul and Minneapolis and mentioned the "lake trip," an expression so common in Duluth, the Twin City folks did not know what was meant.

Now it is different. In addition to taking the lake trip as often as they can, many St. Paul and Minneapolis people are building summer homes on Madeline island, one of the Apostle group.

The natural beauty of the various spots along Lake Superior has appealed to the down-state people and many are following the action of their neighbors who last year built summer homes at the various points.

C. D. O'Brien, a St. Paul attorney, has established a fine summer home on Madeline island. J. P. C. Hagen, a Saintly City commission merchant, has decided to build also. Last week Mr. Hagen made a trip to the island and purchased ground for his new summer home, work on which will begin at once.

BATTLE FLAGS ARE GIVEN TO CHURCH.

New York, May 23.—Four battle flags and a banner, torn and powder-stained, that went to the front with the Sixty-seventh regiment of New York volunteers in 1861, were returned to Plymouth church, Brooklyn, last night by the regiment. They will be hung furled in cases along the walls of the church.

On the third Sunday of May, 1861, the flags were presented to the regiment by Henry Ward Beecher, who preached to the text, "For a banner shall be given thee," from the sixty-first psalm. Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, in accepting the banners last night, preached on this, the third Sunday of May, forty-nine years later, from the same text.

RUSSIA AND JAPAN HOLD NEGOTIATIONS.

St. Petersburg, May 23.—Negotiations between Russia and Japan with reference to an agreement on the question of the Far East, in spite of denials on both sides, have now assumed definite form. While it is impossible to obtain information on the details of the plan, there is reason to believe that Japan is seeking to negotiate a concention on broader lines than Russia now expected within a month.

OLD LETTER CARRIER ADMITS ROBBING MAIL.

Chicago, May 23.—Albert C. Gordon, for nineteen years a Chicago mail carrier, was arrested Sunday by order of Postoffice Inspector James E. Stuart, who says Gordon has confessed to robbing the mails for four years. Complaints from all over the country during the last four years of the loss of money from registered letters had baffled the officials.

REV. HOLMES FLAYS REPUBLICAN PARTY.

Boston, Mann., May 23.—Flaying the Republican party for "surrendering to the money power," Rev. John Haynes Holmes of New York, speaking at the Unitarian Fellowship for Social Justice meeting here last night, declared that "The G. O. P. is now a party of neither morals nor ideals. The party that boasted of a Sumner and a Seward in its cabinet, now has a Ballinger and a Wickersham."

Will Fly in Omaha.

Omaha, Neb., May 23.—Announcement is made that this city is to have an aviation meet of five days, beginning July 9. A telegram from Glenn H. Curtiss, the aviator, indicates that terms offered by the Aero club of Nebraska have been accepted and that either Curtiss, Charles Hamilton or C. J. Mars will make flights on each of the five days.

WHEAT HAS A DECLINE

Bears Have Things Their Own Way in American Markets.

Flax Market Quiet and Prices Show Little Change.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 23.—Wheat declined in all American markets today. The slump was most severe in New York and Chicago. Winnipeg was excessively weak and the slump carried July to 92¾c or nearly 1c lower than this market. At 92¾c Winnipeg is out of line for export business. Chicago May lost 2½c, July 1¾c, September ¼@⅜c. Minneapolis May lost 1¼c, July 1⅛@¼c, September ⅝c. New York May lost 3½c, July 2c, September 1⅞c. Winnipeg May lost 2⅛@¼c, July 2⅛c, September 2⅛c. Kansas City July lost 1½@⅝c, September 1⅜@½c. St. Louis May declined 2⅜c, July 1¼@⅝c and September 1¼c. The cash markets were exceedingly weak. With about 90 cars of wheat estimated for tomorrow at Chicago and about 400,000 bu in transit from Duluth to Chicago, the leading cash holder, it appears, will have more trouble.

May wheat lost ⅞c here, July declined 1⅛c and September lost ⅝c. May opened at $1.07⅜ sold up to $1.08⅛ and down to $1.07½, closing $1.07⅝ bid. July sold at $1.07¾, $1.07⅞, $1.07, $1.07½, $1.06⅞, $1.07⅛ and at the close was $1.07⅛. September opened at 98⅝c, sold at 97½@98c, 97⅝c, 97⅝c and closed 97⅝c bid.

Flax was dull and strong. May opened at $2.14 asked, sold at $2.13 and $2.16, closing at $2.16 bid. July opened with offers of $2.06, sold at $2.04, $2.04½, $2.04, $2.04⅜ and closed $2.04½. September opened at $1.71 asked, sold at $1.70 and $1.69 and closed at $1.70½. October was offered at $1.63 at the opening and sold at $1.62½, $1.64, $1.63½ and closed at $1.63½.

Durum continued sick and closed 1½c off. Cash wheat was ½c over July, with the mills paying ½c over. Oats closed ⅝c off; rye and barley were unchanged.

Wheat values churned up and down today, fluctuations being violent. The bears attacked the market at the outstart and all opposition temporarily was swept away. Heavy liquidation and the continued assault by the bears caused values to crumble. Toward noon the shorts began to cover and values rallied sharply. The market sold off again but sustained a partial recovery when the shorts covered. A large lot of short wheat was covered today and the market consequently is in a weaker position technically. Toward the close the market was sick with values depressed.

Cables were exceedingly weak. Liverpool closed 2@2⅜c lower. The world's shipments while smaller than last week were larger than were expected. The visible decrease was smaller than last week. In the face of these factors the opening of American markets was from ⅜c to ½c under Saturday's close. Professional sentiment was bearish. It was reported that the leading cash holder was experiencing difficulty in financing his May deal and the bears jumped onto the market. The faintness of the cash position was indicated by the initial slump in the Chicago May option which declined 3½c from Saturday's close before mid-day. The short sellers were forced to take a lot of wheat, however, and when they began to cover the market rallied quickly although only partially. Toward the close values declined again. The struggle was "nip and tuck" with the undertone weak and the odds in favor of the bears.

About 440,000 bu of spring wheat left this port yesterday for Chicago, making a total of about 1,400,000 bu to leave the Head of the Lakes for the Windy City. Shipments to Chicago have been about cleaned up unless, of course, some more stuff is worked. Announcement of these facts added to the discomfiture of the leading cash holder and gave the bears courage to press their campaign.

Reports of the Hessian fly, rust and other unfavorable crop conditions were forgotten in the rush of messages telling of favorable weather in the wheat belt. Rains in Indiana, Ohio and Illinois helped to put a blanket on the massages concerning insects and rust. Warmer weather and clear skies in the Canadian wheat belt and most of the North and South Dakota were considered extremely favorable for the growing plant and the bulls had no arguments upon which to base. They resorted to muscle occasionally, the buying being chiefly in the July and the September option, the bulls being confined to the latter. Their efforts were ineffectual, however, the chief support coming intermittently from shorts.

The condition of the growing plant in Kansas is excellent and many people believe the crop will be an average yield. The Kansas plant has a habit of making a stronger finish than is generally conceded to it earlier in the plant season. It seems that it will duplicate some of its past performances this year. As a whole the winter wheat is in an encouraging state.

Wheat receipts at primary points are larger than last year and the visible supply in this country lacks only about 4,000,000 bu of being as large as the visible at this time last year. But conditions do not jibe with this situation, however. Offerings have been comparatively light considering the high price of the May option. The bears have been getting all the wheat obtainable to deliver rather than take chances of buying the May option in a market in which the cash holdings are concentrated. They made an exception to this rule today, however, but the condition under which they covered heavily may be only temporary as the May situation is still puzzling to traders. The leading holder is carrying everything offered and until today reports indicated that he was having clear sailing.

Broomhall cabled: Wheat opened weak and ⅜@⅞d lower, being influenced by weakness of American cables on Saturday and the favorable American weather. Following the opening the market developed further pronounced selling pressure, and values lost an additional ⅞@1⅛d. This selling was due to general realizing, stimulated by pressure to sell Manitoba and La Plata parcels, which are offered lower. Buenos Ayres future market was weak on Saturday, with offerings liberal. There is a very poor inquiry for both parcels and cargoes, with very heavy offerings of Australian wheat. Mark lane was weak and generally 9d to 1s lower, and spot markets here were weak. There is a pronounced feeling of bearishness everywhere and continental markets are all weak, due to a belief of liberal supplies for the remainder of the season, stimulated largely by the favorable European crop news.

At midday the market was demoralized and very weak, with values 1¾@2⅛d lower than Saturday. Corn unquoted.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Chicago, May 23.—Big selling by a leading bear operator here demoralized wheat prices today. There was also much liquidation, and simultaneously shorts were covering on a large scale. A decided break in values at Liverpool emphasized the bearish feeling. Prominent bulls changed their attitude to the extent of admitting openly that hopes for an upturn were now based only on a belief in a serious shortage of the winter crop with no reference to the product of the spring wheat country. The bears maintained that continued buying on a wide scale would be necessary to maintain prices, and that in the end an export level would be inevitable. The opening was both weak and irregular, ranging from ½ to 2c lower, the latter for the May delivery. September started ⅝@¾c to ⅞@1c down at 98⅛ to 98½c, touched 98c, and rallied to 98⅝c

Under hammering by pit traders, however, September again declined, going to 97⅞c. May, which broke 4c, fluctuated rather wildly until local longs came to the rescue. The close was steady, with September at 98@98⅛c, a net decline of 1@1⅛c. May finished at $1.08, a loss of 2½c.

Corn started easier on scattered commission and pit selling, but later received some support from the chief seller of wheat. September showed a loss of ⅛c to ⅜c in first transactions, selling at 60½c to 60¾c. A rally to 61c followed.

The market, after touching 61⅛c for September, weakened with wheat. The close was steady at 60⅞c, the same as the final figures of Saturday.

Oats were easier on general unloading by longs. September opened ⅛c off at 38c, and declined to 37⅞c.

The provision market was a trifle weak early for lard and pork, but firmer for ribs. Later a fair demand developed for the first-named articles. There was a small net advance. Opening prices for September were: Pork, $12.32½ to $12.40. Lard, $12.42½: ribs. $22.60 to $22.65; Ship-

New York Grain.

New York, May 23.—Close: Wheat—May, $1.11; July, $1.07; September, $1.03½.

Corn—May, 69c; June, 68⅝c; July, 68⅝c.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 23.—Early today May sold down to 4c below Saturday's closing price. This added to a sharp break in foreign markets made July opened 7⅞c and closed 1⅛@⅜c below the opening. May closed 1¼c lower and September 2c lower. Crop reports from the Northwest were excellent and weather conditions were almost ideal. Local elevator stocks decreased 225,000 bushels for two days. Minneapolis today received 399 cars of wheat against 272 cars a year ago; Duluth 16 cars against 5 cars and Winnipeg 171 cars against 40 cars. May opened $1.07⅜; high, $1.07⅜; low, $1.06¾; closed, $1.06⅞. July opened $1.06¾@1.06⅝; high, $1.06¾; low, $1.05⅞; closed, $1.06¾@1.06½. September opened 96¾c; high, 97⅜c; low, 96½c; closed, 96⅞c.

Cash wheat was steady although an easier undertone was apparent. Choice grades met with strong demand, but some of the poorer variety were slow. No. 1 northern sold for 1 to 3 above the July option. Closing prices; No. 1 northern, $1.07⅛@1.09½; to arrive, $1.07½@1.09½. No. 2 northern, $1.05½@1.07½; to arirve, $1.05⅛@1.07½; No. 3 wheat, $1.02½@1.04½. No. 3 yellow corn, 56@56½c; No. 3 white oats, 37⅛@38¼c; No. 2 rye, 70@72c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,948 tons. There was no change in the situation today. Bran in 100-pound sacks, $18.00 @18.25.

Flour—The demand was fair, according to the big mills; while the smaller operators said there was almost no inquiry, to say anything of actual sales. Prices were unchanged. Shipments, 50,316 bbls. First patents in wood f. o. b. Minneapolis, $5.30@5.50; second patents, $5.10@5.30; first clears, $4.15@4.25; second clears, $2.90 @3.20.

Flax—Receipts, 19 cars; year ago, 3; shipments, 1. Demand continued strong for spot flaxseed at 2½c under the Duluth May option and to arrive at the even July price. Offerings were more liberal. Closing, $2.13½.

Barley—Receipts, 71 cars; year ago, 29; shipments, 51. A slightly easier tone ruled in barley today on account of the more liberal offerings. Receipts were mostly feeding grades. Prices were quoted ½@1c lower. Closing range, 52@61c.

Liverpool Grain.

Liverpool, May 23.—Closing: Wheat—Spot dull; No. 2 rd western winter no stock; futures weak; May, 6s 8¼d; July, 6s 8⅝d; October, 6s 9¾d. Corn—Spot quiet; old American mixed, 5s 7½d; new kiln dried, 5s 5½d; via Galveston, 5s 6½d; futures dull; July, 5s.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Large Purchases of Steel Have Temporary Sustaining Effect.

New York, May 23.—There was a considerable volume of orders for execution in the opening stock market today, but the price movement was narrow and irregular. Realizing sales had set in in the London market on the earlier advance there before business began here. A rise of a point in Missouri Pacific was the only conspicuous change in the active list. Lake Erie & Western preferred sold at a decline of 1¾.

Large purchases of United States Steel sustained the market for a while, but active selling later of the copper stocks and certain railroad issues undermined the list and prices went down. Union Pacific - Reading, New York Central, Rock Island, Amalgamated Copper, Anaconda Copper, American Smelting, Consolidated Gas and Virginia-Carolina Chemical sold a point below Saturday's closing.

Tendency of prices had no other explanation than the desire of professional holders to realize. The demand for stocks from the country proved scanty and insufficient to absorb the realizing except at concessions. Additional losses of a point in prices were St. Paul, Northern Pacific, Central Leather, Colorado Fuel and Pacific Mail. At a recovery of a fraction the market became stagnant Bonds were irregular.

The tone of the market became firmer, Reading and Union Pacific making up about all of their early loss and the Gould group selling higher. Missouri Pacific extended its advance to 1⅝, and St. Louis Southwestern preferred and Texas & Pacific also rose 1.

Prices went off again to about the low level. The Western railroad and copper stocks lacked effective support. Amalgamated Copper, Rock Island preferred and international paper preferred yielded 1½ and Southern Pacific, Great Northern ore certificates and Tennessee Copper 1. Chicago Union Traction preferred stamped fell 2¼ to 7½.

The market closed weak and dull. Prices wavered somewhat uncertainly, but were sent lower before the end of the day. Business was on a small scale, but with an increase as prices declined. Union Pacific, Reading, Southern Pacific and Amlgamated Copper fell 2 to 2¼, American Smelting 1⅞ and Baltimore & Ohio, Atchison Canadian Pacific, Atlantic Coast Line, United States Steel, People's Gas and Utah Copper 1 or more.

COPPER STOCK BROKERS.

404 West First Street, Commercial Building.

MONDAY, MAY 23, 1910.

Butte-Baliaklava has made good, both from mine and market point of view. Do you remember my old advertisements about this mine? Show me if you can where my judgment was wrong. Show now if you can, why Butte-Alex Scott with as big a mine as either the Baliaklava or Tuolumne is not the best purchase on the board. The Scott mine will make the people interested in it over $2,000,000 and the beauty of it is this one has only a little time to go. Inside of the next thirty days fortunes will be made in Butte-Alex Scott stock. It is truly a big mine and located where it is almost sure to go into the big copper merger at a big price. It is does not it still remains a big dividend proposition equal to the Tuolumne or Baliaklava mines. Our shaft will be at the 1,600-foot level tomorrow, which gives us the deepest independent mine on Butte hill. This stock is worth $40 a share.

TO DISCUSS NEW KENWOOD ROAD

Tomorrow night at the Polish school at Fourth avenue east and Fourth street, there will be a meeting of the taxpayers of the First and Second wards for the purpose of discussing the proposed new route over the hills to Kenwood.

The new route has been surveyed and is said to be the easiest way of getting out in the country yet proposed. The grade is said to be but 5½ per cent. If built, the new road will also be the route of the proposed street car line to Kenwood.

The county board has already appropriated $2,000 toward the road and Commissioner John Tischer thinks that if the people show that they want the road there will be no trouble in getting a larger donation.

In addition to the First and Second ward residents there will, it is expected, be a large number of the farmers from over the hill present, as they are much interested in an easier grade to the country.

Announcement!

We beg to announce that Mr. A. L. Warner has taken charge as Manager of our Duluth office, No. 328 West Superior street. We are equipped to give the very best of service, being members of Boston and New York stock exchanges and members of all important grain exchanges, with private wires to all markets.

We wish to thank our friends for their patronage in the past and trust they will continue to favor us under Mr. Warner's management.

Butte-Ballaklava, Calumet & Sonora and Shattuck have made fortunes for people in Duluth. Many of you did not get in on any of the above, and therefore I recommend the purchase to you of Butte-Alex Scott, located on Butte Hill shaft, 1,600 feet deep, tomorrow. Great ore bodies have been opened on the 1,400-foot level, from which heavy shipments will go forward daily, as soon as the station is cut on the 1,600-foot level. Today this mine is an equal to either the Tuloumne or Ballaklava mines. When the other two deep levels have been opened up we should have a much bigger and richer mine than either. The Scott mine does not have to be considered second to either of them, for with only one hundred thousand shares issued, you can expect big dividends on every share. The High Ore, 3,000 feet deep at one end, and the Great Leonard, 2,700 feet deep at the other, gives you an idea what can be expected from the same vein system on Scott ground. The others are selling for eleven times as much money, and to tell you the truth, Scott should be the best purchase, property for property. The Little Annie claim belongs to the Butte-Alex-Scott Company—on it we have 1,500 feet of the Rainbow ledge, which is 200 feet wide in places. The Scott owns 25 acres of land in Butte. The surface plant as shown above has been replaced by one of the best in Butte.

MANY PEOPLE SEEK HOMES

Large Sale of Lots in Loeb's Addition to Lakeside.

Homeseekers were out in force yesterday. All day, Lakeside and Woodland cars carried hundreds of people going to the popular suburbs to look over lots offered for sale.

At Lakeside, Loeb's addition to Lakeside went on the market Saturday afternoon. Quite a number of people visited the new addition Saturday afternoon, but the big crowd was on hand yesterday. The ground was literally black with people going over every foot of the ground, sizing up locations of lots and conferring with the agents of the L. S. & S. Loeb company, who were on the ground.

Quite a number of lots were sold yesterday, the easy payment plan prevailing The sale will be continued until all of the 350 lots have been sold.

J. B. Greenfield & Co. had a busy day at Lakeside yesterday, also. A number of people were out to inspect some of the lots recently placed on the market by the firm and several selections were made.

The visitors to Woodland were nearly all bound for Homecroft Park to get into the final rush for the few remaining lots in that district of garden tracts. All day, agents of W. M. Prindle & Co. were on hand to show visitors over the ground and quote prices on the lots remaing to be sold. The tract has been pretty well sold out as a result of yesterday's operations and but fourteen or fifteen lots remain.

Every fine Sunday from now on, homeseekers will be out in force. The man who buys a lot without seeing it is not acting fairly by himself. Many prospective purchasers are not able to spare the time to see a lot any day but Sunday and real estate dealers must expect that fact and show property on Sunday. The demand for good residence property is insistent and the Sunday visiting is expected to stimulate sales greatly.

ORGANIZATION TO BE PERMANENT

Laymen Will Continue Their Efforts on Behalf of Missions.

At a meeting of the co-operative committee of the Duluth Laymen's Missionary Movement association it was decided to make the organization permanent to carry on a continuous program, having for its object the encouragement of giving for missionary work. The meeting was held at the Y. M. C. A. Existing committees will continue to serve.

President Watson S. Moore and Executive Snell were authorized to make all arrangements for a banquet some time in June for the 400 members of the co-operative committee. Later a banquet for Duluth men in general will be held.

Local churches have pledged to give $17,802.92 this year for missions, as compared with contributions of $6,855.09 last year, and the work of redeeming the pledges is progressing satisfactorily.

ENTIRE RIVER WAS BLOCKED

Nearly 100 Lake Boats Are Tied Up at the Soo.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—From 9 o'clock Sunday night until 1 o'clock this morning the entire St. Mary's river was blocked. In the rock cut at the West Neebish channel was the steamer Ketchum. In Mud lake, near the dark hole, was the steamer Bope. The Bope was finally released by a tug being used at Sailors' Encampment to guide boats past the dangerous turn. She was undamaged.

This morning it was estimated that 100 boats are blockaded in Hay lake and Mud lake, above and below Sailors' Encampment. During the day it is planned to allow none but downbound vessels to pass, and after dusk none but upbound. It was thought this morning that Hay lake would be cleared of downbound vessels by noon. There is half a day's delay on an average to boats going either way.

Capt. James Reid of Sarnia will rush pontoons to the scene of the Ketchum wreck immediately, and start the work of raising her. Engineers will make no estimate as to how long it will take to raise the vessel.

While tugging in an effort to pull the Ketchum's bow around, thus making a narrow channel, yesterday the tug Boynton crashed into the rock curbing on the side, smashed her rudder, and had to go into drydock. This morning cables are being fastened under the bow, after a tug again endeavored to pull the bow around.

M. PAPOT GIVES THIRD LECTURE

Says Napoleon Was Both a Great Egotist and a Great Genius.

M. Benedict Papot described the chaotic condition of French society in his lecture at the high school Saturday night, the third in a series of six on the literature and civilization of the French. In his next lecture he will discuss the period of restoration.

The French revolution, said M. Papot, was the result of the application of scientific and philosophic principles evolved during the eighteenth century. Some were concerned with the fundamental rights of man and with personal liberty. France learned, however, that men could not be governed solely by legal tenets, that the submission of a people to laws depended to a large extent on the force or show of force displayed in enforcing the laws.

The speaker told how the control of government passed suddenly into the hands of the "people," how the lands were taken from the church and the nobility and bestowed upon the peasantry and the lower classes. Land, the basis of wealth, being then concentrated in the hands of the workers, France entered upon an era of prosperity.

M. Papot discussed the personality of Napoleon Bonaparte, calling him one of the greatest egotists and geniuses in history. He termed Chateaubriand as the Napoleon of literature of that period and related how a new literature was born and romanticism came into being.

IRON AND STEEL REVIEW

New York, May 23.—Concession by blast furnace interests brought out heavy inquiries for pig iron in all sections last week and resulted in the placing of larger contracts than during any week since the first of the year. Aggregate sales were close to 100,000 tons. In the Central West some additional sales of Bessemer were made between $16 and $16.25 at the furnace and basic sales in lots of 50,000 tons each aggregated about 150,000 tons at $15 valley furnaces. Several sales of malleable Bessemer were made at lake points at about $16.25 delivered. Some large tonnages of foundry iron, as well as numerous small lots are still pending in the East. Sales generally were made at minimum prices.

Steel mills are much encouraged by the placing of larger orders for railroad cars and locomotives. Since the first of the month car orders have aggregated 24,000 and together with locomotive calls for 300,000 tons. Orders for 10,000 steel under-frames were placed in the Chicago territory to cover part of the Harriman order, and these alone require about 30,000 tons of steel. Contracts are still pending for about 16,000 cars. Orders were placed for eighty-two locomotives and the Baltimore & Ohio has an inquiry out for eighty more. Rail and bridge orders were light.

Additional heavy contracts were placed for soft steel bars by agricultural machinery manufacturers and car builders, the Carnegie mill capacity being sold up to the end of the year.

New contracts for buildings call for about 20,000 tons of fabricated steel and between 40,000 and 50,000 tons more will be closed before the end of the month.

Gas at Donnybrook, N. D.

Donnybrook, N. D., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—A strong flow of gas has been secured on the J. J. Egger farm, near here. Men were engaged in digging a well when the find was made at a depth of 180 feet. Since the discovery the flow has been increasing in strength, and it is believed that there is little doubt of the find being exploited with profit to the city. Thorough examinations will be made to determine upon the value of the gas for commercial purposes.

North Dakota Editors Meet.

Williston, N. D., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—This city is preparing for the entertainment of the annual meeting of the North Dakota Editorial association, which will be held in this city in the latter part of July. Committees on reception, invitations, entertainment, finance, etc., have already been named.

Scarcely a Dozen Lots Left in Homecroft Park! If You Want One See Us Today!

Your Last Chance to get a splendid tract of land in Homecroft Park is now before you!

What are you going to do about it?

If you're wise, you'll come and see us today—pay one dollar and secure one of the few remaining tracts.

If you want a self-supporting home—buy in Homecroft Park! One of our acre-tracts of stoneless, coal-black loam will raise sufficient garden-truck to pay more than 100 per cent per annum on your investment!

If you want a country home—buy in Homecroft Park! Outside of the smoke, dust and noise of the city, yet within easy reach of the car line in the low-tax district, in the direct path of the city's growth—so that your property will double in value every year, while you enjoy it!

If you want a profitable investment—buy in Homecroft Park! Where taxes are low so that you can afford to hold the property for a while. A few blocks from car line and all city improvements, right in the path of urgent development. A few years will see Homecroft platted into 25-foot lots and sold piecemeal at a dozen times the price we now ask!

Your acre-tract will make twelve 25-foot lots and is yours if you decide today—for One Dollar Down and the balance (from $200) in little weekly sums of a dollar or so—whatever you can afford. No interest at any time—all profits go to you! SEE US TODAY!

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

MUCH STATE LAND BOUGHT

Crookston, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—State Auditor Iverson spent Saturday evening in the city en route to St. Paul, after spending some time conducting land sales in Clearwater, Kittson, Marshall, Roseau and Red Lake counties, in which a total of 23,330 acres of land were sold at good prices.

Auditor Iverson says the most significant part of the sales was the large proportion of buyers from outside the state, men of means and practical farmers.

They, in turn, will bring others from the particular localities in which they reside, and the result will be a very substantial addition to the population of this section. All will be producers, not making purchases for speculation purposes. This is shown from the many inquiries local land agents have received of late from men who made purchases of state lands, or who contemplated doing so, and who wanted to get prices on adjoining lands. Ever since early spring the land men have been busier than for several years past showing available lands.

Settle Unseeded Land.

After seeding operations have been finished for barley and late grains, there will be little land fit for cultivation that will not be seeded wholly or in part. This will give this section a better appearance than for many years past.

For the last three years the greatest change in the methods of farming has become apparent. Systematic rotation, the general use of manure spreaders, the greater amount of land devoted to corn and potato raising, or other cleaning crops, has demonstrated clearly what can be done. The stream of emigration to Canada has been stayed to a considerable extent, and scores of land owners in the Red River valley and Northern Minnesota generally have discovered that they have better markets, immensely greater educational and other advantages, and better land back in Minnesota; and scores of instances have been recorded where they have pieced up on their Canadian land after raising a crop or two and returned here, leaving their land there as a speculation, and are willing to sell at any time.

FOR ADVANCEMENT OF THIS SECTION

Crookston, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The program for the meeting of the Northern Minnesota Development association to be held here June 2 and 3, indicates that the splendid work for the development of Minnesota started at the initial meeting at Bemidji will be carried along by the several hundred delegates expected to attend. The thirty counties represented in the original call have been organized and interest in the meeting is growing daily. The speakers will include many men prominent in Minnesota. Among the out-of-state speakers will be Bernhardt Bvegild, professor of the Royal Danish Agricultural college at Copenhagen, who speaks Thursday, June 2, on "Co-operation for the Development of Northern Minnesota," and Willis M. Hays, assistant secretary of agriculture, at Washington, who speaks Friday, June 3, on "Country Life."

To Begin With Smoker.

Delegates are expected to arrive Wednesday, June 1, and will be formally welcomed by a smoker at the Commercial clubrooms at 8:30. The business of the meeting will begin Thursday morning, June 2, the balance of the program for the session following.

"The Fair," J. M. Underwood, president Minnesota State Agricultural society.

The meeting will conclude with an automobile ride about the city for the delegates.

SANDSTONE LIKED IT.

Sandstone, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The class play "Farm Folks," presented by the high school seniors at Larson's opera house, was a decided success, the total receipts being $140. A matinee was also given for the benefit of the children and those who could not conveniently attend the evening performance, which had been rehearsed thoroughly. Those taking part were: Perry Dean, Arthur Swanson, Harry Ford, Edward Rankin, Egleton Robey, Margaret Scott, Violet Lynds, Florence Webb, Hilma Efram, Serene Bissett and Annie McArdle. The Sandstone orchestra furnished some excellent selections between acts.

The baccalaureate sermon will be delivered by Rev. W. S. Middlemass in Larson Bros.' opera house next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The commencement exercises will be held there also, and Prof. A. E. Jenks of the University of Minnesota will deliver the address at 8 p. m. Friday, June 3. Miss Hilma Efram is the valedictorian, and Miss Serene Bissett the salutatorian. The graduating class consists of five girls and one boy: Margaret Scott, Violet Lynds, Hilma Efram, Serene Bissett, Annie McArdle and Harry Ford.

BURY POPULAR MAN.

Calumet, Mich., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Impressive was the tribute paid here yesterday afternoon to Frank J. Soddy, one of the popular young men of the community who died suddenly Friday morning, after a few hours' illness, aged 27. The funeral was held from the home at 2 o'clock, Rev. Mandus Barrett, pastor of the Red Jacket church, officiating, and the Elks, Knights of Pythias and Dokays participating.

His mother, an uncle, Thomas Penhall, and three cousins, Thomas, Walter and Clyde Penhall, an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. William Treswratha and other relatives survive, including Thomas Soddy, master mechanic of the Calumet & Hecla Mining company. Interment was made in Lake View cemetery.

OLD EXPRESS MESSENGER.

Brainerd, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Edward K. Mitchell of Minneapolis, aged 55 years, died of cancer, May 20, at the Northern Pacific sanitarium. His sister, Miss Nellie Fisher, was in constant attendance at his bedside.

Ashland, Wis., May 23.—Richard B. Bates, ex-bank examiner at large, under Cleveland and McKinley, who died in Milwaukee, Thursday, aged 66, and was buried in Racine, was formerly cashier of the Ashland National bank.

HILL TO SEND MONEY.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. E. P. Robertson, president of Wesley college, has received word from James J. Hill that his offer of a subscription of $25,000 for the Wesley college still holds good, and that a check will be forthcoming within a few days. This makes up a total endowment fund of $150,000, $80,000 of which was conditional upon securing the Hill offer, made two years ago.

NORTHWOOD GIRL FIRST

Grand Forks, N. D., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the final declamation contest of the North Dakota high schools, held Saturday evening, the first place for girls was awarded to Inga Leine of Northwood, while second place went to Ruth Werner of Jamestown.

In the boys' contest, first place was awarded to George Engstrom of Grand Forks, with second place being taken by H. A. Warner of Westhope. There were six competitors all told, Elsie Van Camp and Thomas Ball, both of St. Thomas, being the other two.

MISSING WOODSMAN'S BODY HAS BEEN FOUND.

Ontonagon, Mich., May 23.—The body of John Murray, who has been missing from the Greenwood lumber camps for about three weeks, was found Thursday afternoon in the woods by workmen.

It is thought that Murray had wandered into the woods and either got lost or had down intoxicated and died. Murray is quite well known around here, having worked in the upper Michigan woods for years, but has only worked here about two years, previous to that he worked at the Sagola Lumber camps. He was about 40 years of age and was unmarried.

Passenger Robs Stage Driver.

Viroqua, Wis., May 23.—Guy McDowell, a stage driver of this city, was held up by a supposed passenger in a secluded spot along his route.

The passenger, who gave his name as Goode, went through McDowell's pockets, and made his escape.

The sheriff was notified, but has been unable to trace the robber's movements.

Kenosha—Rev. N. Fred Clark of Neenah, missionary for the Baptist church in Wisconsin and widely known as an organizer of congregations, died at the Pennoyer sanitarium in this city Friday night at the age of 50 years.

COPPERS HAVE A WEAK SESSION

The copper market opened weak and after a slight advance values declined on moderate profit-taking. The professional element was bearish and stocks were sold freely until around noon, when values firmed on short covering. Toward the slose the market was sick and and values reached the low points of the day.

Trading was influenced to some extent by the weakness in London. General conditions are not especially bearish, but the professional element dominated the market as it has for several months and it decreed that values should decline.

On the local exchange trading was moderate. The specialties acted well. The rest of the list was moderately strong. Butte-Ballaklava easily was the feature. Dividend rumors stimulated buying and the stock quickly advanced. The opening sale was at $13.25 and the stock went to $13.87½ to $14 and then quickly to $15 and $15.12½. Offerings were scarce and bidders were forced to raise quotations constantly in order to draw out offerings. The Scotts acted well, the part paid selling at $3 and $2.87½ to $3 and then at $3.06¼. The full paid sold at $6.12½ to $6.50.

Cactus sold well on reports that six faces are being worked at the property and all are in ore. The Photo shaft is down 541 feet and is still in upper carbonates which were encountered at 530 feet. Some of the ore has assayed as high as 15 per cent. Cactus sold at $3.25; Denn-Arizona at $2.87½ to $3; Giroux at $7.75; North Butte at $24.25; Red Warrior at $2.06¼; Shattuck at $29.62½; Butte & Superior at $1.81¼ to $1.87½; Calumet & Corbin at 64c, 66c and 65c; St. Mary's at 18c; Vermillion at $2.75; North American at $2.81¼, and Amazon-Montana at $2.75.

OBITUARY

Capt. George W. Ruggles, known to railroad men throughout the country as the inventor of a rotary snow plow, and to sportsmen as the inventor of notable improvements in the methods of construction of canoes, is dead at his home in Charlotte village, near Rochester, N. Y.

Dr. D. Mayer of Charleston, who during the McKinley administration was consul general to the Argentine Republic, died at a hospital in Cincinnati, Ohio, early today.

Augustine L. Revere, great grandson of Paul Revere, and said to have been the last direct descendant of the revolutionary hero, died at his home in Morrison, N. J., May 30.

Louis Noll, a pioneer merchant and banker, is dead at Waterford, Wis., after a short illness. He was 76 years old, and started in business in Waterford in 1861.

James T. Swearingen, 85 years old, sole surviving member of the jury in the Armstrong murder trial, made famous by Abraham Lincoln, who as attorney for the defendant produced an almanac showing that the night of the murder was not moonlight, as witnesses had sworn, is dead at his residence, 3451 Thirty-ninth avenue south, Minneapolis.

Mr. Swearingen was born in Kentucky and lived for forty years in Fairmont, where he conducted a hotel. From Fairmont he went to Eldora, Iowa, where he lived twelve years.

The Armstrong trial was one of the most famous murder cases in legal history. The chief witness for the prosecution swore that he saw Armstrong strike the fatal blow. Lincoln, as Armstrong's attorney, showed by use of an almanac that the night was dark and that it would have been impossible for anybody to see the blow struck. The trial took place fifty-three years ago and lasted three days. Armstrong was acquitted.

Mr. Swearingen is survived by his wife and four children, J. T. Swearingen, Fairmont; C. W. Swearingen, Seattle; Mrs. Rose Allen, Fairmont, and Mrs. Jesse Balcom, Minneapolis.

Miss Corrinn Shattuck of Boston, Mass., whose heroism in Armenia during the massacres of 1895 attracted much attention, died Sunday in Dorchester, Mass. Miss Shattuck contracted consumption as the result of her labors as a missionary. In 1895 Miss Shattuck withstood a Turkish mob that sought to break up her school and slaughter her puplis. Her defiance of the mob was successful and her pupils were saved. She had been in Turkey since 1873.

POCKETS OF DEAD MAN RIFLED?

Did some one rifle the pockets of John W. Toy while he was lying dead on a bed in a lodging house on Michigan street, near Lake avenue?

His two brothers, Charles H. and Thomas J. Toy, are suspicious that such was the case. He was found dead in bed a week ago Sunday with 15 cents in his trousers. The day before he had expressed his intention of going on a week's fishing trip to Hayward, Wis. They state that he always remarked that no matter where he died he would always have enough money for a decent burial. To this they add the fact that no one would contemplate an excursion such as he had planned, with only 15 cents. He was found dead in bed by some of the boarders, it is said, and a post mortem examination showed that his end was due to natural causes, which eliminated any possibility of foul play or suicide. The brothers state that he was home the last time about six years ago, but that they had not heard from him directly since. He had family troubles, and left his wife, who is now living in Minneapolis, about twelve years ago. Besides his widow, he is survived by four children—three daughters and a son. The body was taken in charge by Flood & Horgan, undertakers, a week ago, at the direction of the coroner. It was thought at that time that the county would be obliged to pay the expenses, but since that time diligent inquiry has revealed the fact that he came from a good family. The brothers will give him a proper burial. They investigated the case this morning, but despite the fact that they are convinced he had money, they have been unable to locate it. They secured the assistance of the police, but the search was fruitless.

TUG CIRCLE HAS BEEN RELEASED.

Advices received at the United States government engineer's office this morning stated that the tug Circle, which has been on the rocks north of Portage Lake harbor for the last few weeks, has been released and towed inside the harbor for repairs.

The tug Circle is owned by the government. The accident was believed to be more serious than it turned out, as it has been reported here that the damage to the boat is but slight.

Including the cost of getting the tug off the rocks and inside the harbor, it is estimated that the damage will amount to $1,200.

NEW STACKS FOR BAR LIBRARY

The metal stacks or shelves for the bar library have arrived and are being set up in the east room on the fifth floor of the courthouse.

The law books will soon be moved from the Torrey building, the present location of the library to the new quarters in the courthouse.

The removal was discussed for some time. Some of the attorneys were in favor of the move and others were not. It was finally decided to use the quarters offered by the county.

Miss Hicks, who has been librarian for some time past, will be in charge of the books when they are finally installed which will be by the first of the month.

The room was lighted up for the first time Saturday night and many people stopped to admire the queer effect of the lights on the stone grills. The grill work on the fifth floor was a pet scheme of Architect Burnham's.

SUPERIOR

THREE CORNERED FIGHT BREWING

An interesting three-cornered fight seems to be brewing betwen the Northern Pacific, the Soo, and property owners along the abandoned right-of-way used about ten years ago as a branch line from Pokegama Bay Junction to Pokegama bay, a distance of three miles.

Recently the Northern Pacific road put a crew of men to work relaying track over the once abandoned right-of-way. This is meeting with the disapproval of property owners, who contend that the abandoned right-of-way reverts back to the abutting property.

It is understood that the property owners will seek an injunction preventing the operations from being carried on any further until the railroad shows that it has the right to build the line without first buying back the old right-of-way from the property owners.

C. E. Wales, an agent of the Soo line, who owns much of the property through which the right-of-way runs, it has also been learned that the Soo road has made several surveys in this section and it is probable that improvements may be made by the Soo line at the Pokegama bay.

Northern Pacific engineers at Superior say that the work was ordered a short time ago by the officials from St. Paul. The property is now looked upon as valuable and to hold it, the railroad is relaying its tracks, it is thought.

The spur was once used when the Mitchell & McClure Lumber company was operating on Pokegama bay.

WITH THE AMATEURS.

Maroons Take Two Games—Other Games on the Diamond.

The Maroons yesterday chalked up two victories to their credit. The Terminal Switchmen were downed, 10 to 2, in a one-sided game and the Billings Park All Stars were handed the short end of a 12 to 3 score.

The Nelson Dewey high school worked out a victory over the Normal school in a baseball game yesterday. The score was 7 to 1 and the game was one of the most exciting in the interscholastic series.

By a score of 15 to 3, the New Era Business college aggregation defeated a team representing the Pittsburg Coal company at Hammond Park Saturday.

The Tower Clothing company Juniors Saturday morning defeated the Rossiter Kids, 5 to 6, and in the afternoon took a victory from the Athletic Tigers, 5 to 6. By a 16 to 12 score yesterday morning the Towers defeated the Bachelors. During the afternoon they annexed the scalps of the Hickory Hardware outfit by a 18 to 6 score.

The Cubs won yesterday from the Treadwell Juniors in a seven-inning contest played at the Normal school grounds. The score was 7 to 6.

The Stein club ball team defeated the Stags, 6 to 4, in an extra inning game at the league park yesterday morning.

Yesterday afternoon O'Brien's Colts won from the Bee Hives, 10 to 8, at the normal school grounds.

The Merry Maidens were defeated by the Crescents, 8 to 6, yesterday afternoon.

FORMER WEIGHMASTER IS DEAD IN CANADA.

Word was received yesterday at Superior of the death by scalding of E. F. Nelson, former chief weighmaster of the Wisconsin Grain and Warehouse commission, at Lethbridge, Alberta, last week. The funeral was held yesterday at Hallock, Minn. Since resigning his position at Superior eighteen months ago, Mr. Nelson had been traveling superintendent of the Peavy elevators

Competition for Business Grows Keener Every Year!

This makes it important to advertisers to be sure and use the right newspaper in going after business. It is certainly a time for concentration, a time when every dollar expended should go straight to the mark. The Herald is absolutely the one best newspaper in Duluth. It reaches all classes of people, rich and poor and at a time when they can consider the advertisements. Any advertiser who is not getting his share of business or who feels that he is losing ground, should not

TWENTY-EIGHTH YEAR. LAST EDITION. TUESDAY, MAY 24, 1910. TWO CENTS.

BIG RAISE IN RATES ON FREIGHT TO THIS CITY IS ANNOUNCED

Sugar and Coffee Schedules From East to Northwest to Go Up.

Increases Amount to From 16 to 44 Per Cent on Those Goods.

New Advance Is the Most Notable Made in Many Years.

Washington, May 24.—A sharp increase in rail and sea freights on sugar and coffee from Atlantic seaboard points to destinations in the Western Trunk Line territory was announced yesterday by the filing of tariffs with the interstate commerce commission, making increases on those commodities ranging from 16 per cent to 44 per cent.

The tariffs were filed by Mr. Hosmer, as agent of the Western Trunk Line association, and will become effective June 30, 1910. The increased rates will apply to coffee and sugar in car loads moving from New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Boston to Duluth, St. Paul and Minneapolis, Minn., and Kansas City, Mo., and Omaha, Neb. The common points of those cities take the same rates.

Higher Rates to Duluth.

From New York to Duluth an advance on sugar is made from 36 to 42 cents per 100 pounds, 17 per cent, and on coffee from 31 to 42 cents, 36 per cent.

From New York to St. Paul and Minneapolis sugar is advanced 17 per cent and coffee 27 per cent. From New York to Kansas City and Omaha sugar is advanced 30 per cent and coffee 39 per cent. From Baltimore to Kansas City and Omaha the advance on both sugar and coffee is 39 per cent. From Philadelphia to those points the advance on both sugar and coffee is 39 per cent.

From Boston to Duluth the advance on sugar is 16 per cent and on coffee 25 per cent. From Boston to St. Paul and Minneapolis the increase on sugar is 24 per cent and on coffee 26 per cent. From Boston to Kansas City and Omaha the increase is 30 per cent on sugar and 34 per cent on coffee.

Most Far-Reaching in Years.

These rates are effective on all the Eastern lines as well as on those of the Western Trunk Line association. The advance is the most notable and far-reaching increase in freight rates made for several years, as it particularly affects two commodities which enter into every household in the land.

ELECTRIC LIGHT MEN IN ST. LOUIS

National Meeting Will Be Followed By Big Feature Exhibit.

St. Louis, Mo., May 24.—The National Electric Light association convened here this morning with 3,000 registered delegates in attendance. Mayor F. H. Kreisman welcomed the association on behalf of the city. President Frank W. Frueauff of Denver delivered his annual address, in which he reviewed the growth of the association. The initial session was given over to the reports of various committees.

Thomas A. Edison, who was expected to be a notable figure at the sessions, has sent word he cannot be present.

After the convention adjourns on Friday the electrical exhibition will begin. This is to be one of the great features of the meeting.

LOUISIANA KEEN AFTER BIG EXPO.

Will Raise $5,000,000 If New Orleans Gets Panama Celebration.

New Orleans, May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Louisiana legislature, by a practically unanimous vote, has adopted an amendment to the Constitution providing for a special tax that will produce $5,000,000 for the World's Panama exposition in 1915, if held in New Orleans. The legislature, headed by the governor leaves tonight for Washington to urge congress to act at once in the selection of a site. New Orleans is only four and a half days travel by steamer from Panama and in the two days it can be reached from any section of the Union east of the Rocky mountains.

"LORD'S" ASHES ARE CLAIMED BY NOBODY.

Washington, May 24.—The ashes of Sidney Lascelles, alias "Lord Beresford," whose body was cremated here last week, remain unclaimed at the crematory as did his body after death for many years at Asheville, N. C. The undertaker who cremated the body said today that no one had claimed the ashes and that he did not know who would or when; that he had been paid for the work and would keep the dust in a metallic case until someone called for it.

HIS MACHINE TRAVELS BY AIR, LAND OR WATER

JOHN STRUYK.

New York, May 24.—John Struyk, an expert sailor, has invented a machine which he says will eclipse that of the Wrights. He calls it a "ship-o-plane" and claims that it will fly through the air, sail on the water or run on the land. He has combined the tail of a porpoise with the wings of an albatross on the hull of a boat on wheels.

RIOTS MARK MINE STRIKE

Foreigners in Pittston District in Fight With Constabulary.

Walkout Is Spreading Though Not Approved By National Union.

Scranton, Pa., May 24.—A riot broke out among striking miners at No. 14 colliery of the Pennsylvania Coal company, near Pittston, today, following an attempt of a posse of state police, headed by Sergeant Henning, to disperse a crowd of Italians who threatened others when a work train reached the colliery.

One foreigner—Peter Sura—was so severely clubbed by state policemen that he may die.

State Trooper Jasper Oftedach was caught under his horse, which was felled by a blow on the head, and he was clubbed before others drove off his assailants.

When the riot finally was quelled, another one broke out at the Ewen colliery, a mile away, but the rioters there dispersed when troopers arrived.

Strike Not Approved.

The strike spread today to the Butler, the Hillside and Central collieries of the Pennsylvania Coal company, leaving only the Barnum mine of that company in the Pittston district at work. Already 10,000 mine workers are involved, the trouble beginning several days ago with the men striking at No. 9 colliery because of alleged excessive dockage and short weight.

The board of conciliation of the United Mine Workers, at a session yesterday, disapproved the strike. It is claimed the strikers are mostly non-union men, and therefore not amenable to union authority.

EARL OF STAMFORD DEAD IN LONDON

Liberal Unionist Member of Peers Passes Away at Sixty Years of Age.

London, May 24.—The earl of Stamford died today. He was born in St. John's, Nfld., April 18, 1850, a son of Rev. William Grey and Harriet, daughter of Rev. Francis Henry White. In 1895 he married Elizabeth Louisa Penelope, daughter of Rev. C. Theobold, rector of Lasham, Hants. A son, Lord Grey Groby, and daughter, Lady Jane, survive.

In politics the earl was an Liberal-Unionist. His home was Dunham-Massey hall, near Altrincham in Cheshire. He was at one time professor of classics and philosophy at Codrington college of Barbados.

TWO DIE IN FIRE IN HOTEL IN ILLINOIS.

Galesburg, Ill., May 24.—John Jacobs of Galesburg and Bud Miller of Monmouth were killed early today in a fire that destroyed the City hotel of Monmouth. Edward Calhoun of Galesburg was severely injured by leaping from a second-story window of the structure.

Other guests had narrow escapes, but it is believed all are accounted for. The body of Jacobs was found beside a broken lamp that is supposed to have exploded and caused the fire.

TALK ABOUT ASSEMBLY

Presbyterians Discuss Question of Number of Delegates.

Minnesotan on Committee to Hear Charges in Heresy Case.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 24.—The question whether the representation in the general assembly shall be reduced was taken up today by the Presbyterian commissioners, the matter having been postponed from yesterday. It is generally agreed among the leaders in the assembly that the representation should be reduced, but there is a wide difference of opinion as to the metheds of reduction.

The report of the board of missions for freedmen which is on the program for the day, expresses gratification that the receipts of the board for the last year are the largest in its history. The total receipts were $207,799, an increase of $22,285 over the previous year.

Funds as Recommended.

If the report of the executive commission is adopted the assembly will appropriate more than $2,500,000 for the boards and permanent agencies. The appropriations recommended are as follows:

Foreign missions, $1,166,382; home missions, $703,167; Freedmen, $159,679; Sunday school work, $154,158; ministerial relief, $123,597; church erection, $76,612; education, $64,457; college

JORDAN RATES MONIED MEN

Classes Rockefeller Above Harriman in Talk on Wealth of Nations.

Palo Alto, Cal., May 24.—In President David Star Jordan's address to the graduating class at Leland Stanford university, the subject of which was "The Wealth of Nations," reference was made to the lives of E. H. Harriman and other great financiers in drawing the lesson that men's success in life is not measured by what he does for himself, but rather by what he does for humanity.

"In those matters in which the permanent wealth of nations is concerned, in the long future of mental and spiritual development, the name of Harriman," said Dr. Jordan, "finds no place."

"The name of Newcomb in the same connection will stand in larger letters among those who, by life and influence, have made this world a broader and a better one, or who have helped us to see better what a broad and beautiful world this really is."

Continuing, he said:

"The name of Rockefeller will not suggest Standard Oil or the association of monopolies. The Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research represents one of the widest and most far-reaching uses to which any man's money can ever be put."

STEAMER FRANK H. GOODYEAR IS SUNK AND EIGHTEEN LIVES LOST IN CRASH

WILL REPRESENT AMERICA BEFORE THE HAGUE COURT

—Copyrighted by George Grantham Bain.

New York, May 24.—Senator Elihu Root sailed for The Hague Saturday, to represent the United States government at The Hague arbitration court, which is expected to come to some conclusion concerning the Newfoundland fisheries boundaries. Senator Root stated that this matter had been a perplexing one for 120 years. He said he expected to see Col. Roosevelt in Europe. Other counsellors assisting Mr. Root and who sailed with him were: George L. Turner of Spokane; Samuel J. Elder of Boston and Charles B. Warren of Detroit.

HELLO GIRLS GET SICK ON ICE CREAM

Chief Operator and Two Others at Wichita May Not Recover.

Wichita, Kan., May 24.—The office of the Missouri & Kansas Telephone company in this city, as converted into a temporary hospital last night when eight of the company's operators became violently ill after eating ice cream purchased at a nearby confectionary shop. Physicians pronounced it ptomaine poisoning. Three of the patients, including the chief operator, may not recover.

RAILWAY MAIL CLERKS TALK OF ROAD PERILS.

Kansas City, Mo., May 24.—A resolution, requesting the proper authorities to prohibit the railroads from using wooden mail cars between locomotives and steel cars, was the principal business to be disposed of when the eighteenth annual convention of the Railway Mail Clerks' Association of America met here today.

COWNIE ACCUSED BY THE GOVERNOR

Carroll Says He Allowed Immoralities in State School for Girls.

Des Moines, Ia., May 24.—Governor B. F. Caroll, in a statement issued today, avers that John Cownie, resigned member of the state board of control, permitted immoral conditions to prevail at the Mitchelville girls' industrial school under the former superintendent; that he purchased goods for state institutions without asking bids as the statutes require, and that he shipped fifty-five tuberculous cattle to Omaha, in violation of the federal statutes, costing the state $252 to settle with the Cudahy Packing company.

AMERICANS SHARE IN CHINESE RAILWAY LOAN.

Paris, May 24.—The Hankow-Sze-Chuen railway loan agreement was signed today. The signers are representatives of financial groups of the United States, France, Great Britain and Germany. The agreement provides for a loan to the Chinese government of $30,000,000 for railroad construction.

BOMB MEANT FOR THE KING

Madrid Police Secure Change of Plans for Alfonso's Return.

South American Who Hurled Explosive Is Himself Hurt By It.

Madrid, May 24.—Following a night of search and inquiry, the police believe today that a bomb exploded last night was intended for King Alfonso. The explosive was hurled at the monument erected to the victims of the attempt against his majesty on his wedding day, May 31, 1906, but the authorities think that the original intention of the anarchists was to strike down the king upon his arrival at the railway station on his return from London.

As a result of this conviction, the plans for King Alfonso's return have been changed and it is now arranged for him to enter the city by automobile.

The bomb thrower, who was wounded by his own weapon, proves to have been a South American.

Anxiety is always felt for King Alfonso when he leaves the capital, and the affair of last night has increased the nervousness of the police authorities.

ROOSEVELT MEETS THE QUEEN MOTHER

Lord Strathcona Also Is Received By the English Dowager.

London, May 24.—Queen Alexandra received Mr. Roosevelt at Buckingham palace today. The two had a long chat, during which her majesty took occasion personally to tell the former president how much she appreciated the sympathy exhibited for her in America at the time of her bereavement.

Subsequently the queen mother received Lord Strathcona, high commissioner of Canada, whom she asked to convey to the people of Canada an expression of her gratitude for their love and sympathy.

MURPHY'S TRIAL BEGINS IN ST. PAUL

Former Captain of Volunteers of America Accused of Embezzlement.

St. Paul, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Tim Murphy, former captain of the St. Paul post of the Volunteers of America, commenced his fight this morning for liberation from the county jail. His trial began before Judge Hallam in the criminal branch of district court on an indictment alleging embezzlement of $1,250 of the receipts of the tag day campaign, March 17, in the interest of a proposed working girls' home.

COLLISION IN HEAVY FOG

Steel Monster Rammed By the James B. Wood on Lake Huron.

Big Craft Breaks and Goes Down in Forty Fathoms.

Only Few, Including Capt. Heminger, Are Saved From Death.

Port Huron, Mich., May 24.—The big steel steamer Frank H. Goodyear, operated by Mitchell & Co., lies in forty fathoms of water in Lake Huron, about thirty-five miles off Point Aux Barques, and probably eighteen of its seamen have met watery graves, following a collision between that vessel and the steamer James B. Wood, another steel boat, belonging to the Gilchrist Transportation company.

The collision occurred about 6 a. m. Monday in a heavy fog which overhung the lake. When the two steamers came together the crew of the Goodyear, which is reported to have been struck amidships, had only time to seize life preservers, and only a few could jump overboard before the boat began to fill with water.

Many In Messroom.

The cook had just sounded the second call for breakfast, and many were in the messroom. All rushed on deck as the boat began to sink. Some jumped into the water, and managed to get out of reach of the suction from the boat, which was fast filling. The water poured into the hold so fast that the heavy hatches were forced from their frames by the pressure from underneath, and shot into the air in every direction, and, falling, spread

TWO SCORE HURT IN ST. PAUL CARS

Explosions and Collision Result in Panic on Hamline Line.

St. Paul, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—More than thirty-five passengers were injured at Wabash and Exchange street this morning when a Hamline-Union Depot car crashed into an interurban car.

The accident followed two explosions in the Hamline-Union Depot car, which set the passengers in a wild panic.

Every window in the rear car was shattered, and many were painfully cut trying to climb through the broken panes before the motorman opened the gates. Most of the injured were in this car.

MARRIED MEN IN FAVOR AS JURORS

Doxey Murder Case Talesmen Are Examined at St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., May 24.—An effort to fill a panel of forty-seven men, of whom twenty-two were chosen yesterday, is being made at the second day's session of the trial of Mrs. Dora B. Doxey, accused of poisoning William J. Erder, a postal clerk.

What appeared to be the purpose of both the state and the defense to place married men between the ages of 25 and 45 was apparent from the line of questions propounded.

The first questions asked during the examination were: "Are you married?" and "How old are you?" If the prospective juror confessed to being more than 45 years old an effort immediately was made to disqualify him.

Mrs. Doxey's sister and aged father took seats immediately behind the accused today.

CHINESE BURN PART OF TOWN

General Unrest and Anti-Foreign Sentiment Are Spreading.

Shanghai, May 24.—Native riots occurred at Chuanchia, thirty miles northwest of Changsha, last Saturday. A considerable portion of the city was burned. The Lutheran church was destroyed by fire.

The general unrest and anti-foreign sentiment are spreading.

INDIAN DEAD, AGED 106.

Joseph Bushey, First Minnesota Indian to Be Converted, Called.

Houghton, Mich., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Capt. Joseph Bushey, the oldest Indian resident of Northern Michigan, is dead at the Baraga mission, east of this city. Bushey was born on the Fond du Lac reservation in 1804, making him 106 years old. At an early age he and Henry Blackfoot were taken by Jesuit missionaries to Mackinac Island. He was one of the first Minnesota Indians to be converted and for many years he assisted in the mission work. He was a leader among the Indians who sought him for his honest advice. The old man is survived by his wife, with whom he resided on Silver creek the past fifty years or more.

Spanish War Veterans Consider Holding Separate Observance of Memorial Day.

Say They Have Been Slighted By Committee in Charge.

The spirit of insurgency theratens to disturb the plans of Duluth for its observance of Memorial day.

Members of McEwen camp, United Spanish War Veterans, feeling that they have been slighted by the old soldiers, may have a Memorial day program of their own, separate and distinct from that in which the Civil War Veterans, the Sons of Veterans and the Citizens' staff will participate.

There will be an open meeting of the camp in Memorial hall, in the court house, Friday evening, when the question probably will come up for discussion, unless it has been disposed of before that time. Commander Walter B. Butchart of the local Spanish War Veterans expects to call a meeting of the committee having in charge the post's arrangements late today, when the situation will be discussed and some plan of action may be determined upon. It is realized that this is a late day to make complete arrangements for a separate observance of the day and that project may be abandoned.

The cause of all the trouble is the failure of those having charge of the assignment of visitors to the schools Friday to name any members of the United Spanish War Veterans' camp for this honorary service, the younger men feel that a slight has been put upon them and they are disposed to hold the members of Culver post, G. A. R., responsible for it. They say that during all the rest of the year the older soldiers do not hesitate to call upon them for any service that may be required, but when Memorial day approaches the younger men are quietly relegated to the rear.

Last year the Spanish War Veterans held their own exercises and decorated the graves of their own comrade dead, having nothing to do with the program of the G. A. R. The sentiment seems to favor a similar procedure this year, if arrangements can be made in time.

Comamnder Butchart of McEwen camp is sorry that the present circumstances have arisen.

Younger Men Feel Slighted.

"We understood that the Grand Army veterans desired that we should participate in their exercises this year," said Mr. Butchart, "and we had planned to do so. The boys feel that it is not quite fair to ignore our organization in this way, and I will consult with the members of the Memorial day committee as to what course we had better pursue. Until then it is quite useless to discuss what may be done. The subject probably will be discussed in some form at Friday night's meeting in Memorial hall."

Thomas P. McGuire, formerly a member of the national council of administration of the United Spanish War Veterans, who formerly lived in St. Paul and is now a resident of Duluth, speaking of the methods adopted at the state capital, said:

"In St. Paul there is a close association between the older and younger veterans in the observance of the day. The G. A. R. men are getting old and feeble, many of them, and they welcome the assistance and co-operation of the younger men. It will not be long before practically all of the military features of Memorial day observance will devolve upon the Spanish war veterans, and it seems to me that they should now be given the recognition that is their due. Nothing can detract from the glories that cluster about the banners of the G. A. R., and whatever part the younger veterans take in the exercises can have no influence on the popular acclaim of the soldiers of '61."

Past Commanders Theodore Simons, M. J. Murray and Joseph B. Gibson of McEwen camp have expressed themselves as being in accord with the members of the camp who have spoken in criticism of the Memorial day arrangements. Except for the school visitors feature, there is no particular fault found with the program for the Memorial day proper, which will be Monday.

The Citizens' staff has given no evidence of an intention to reply to the statements of the McEwen camp members, and one or two members of the Citizens' staff who were approached this morning, said that they did not care to reply to what they called the ungenerous attitude of the Spanish War veterans, as it would simply mar the spirit of the day.

The Citizens' staff has offered to supply carriages and autos for the accommodation of veterans who may be too feeble to march in the parade, and the offer has been indignantly refused, the veterans sturdily declaring that so long as Memorial day parades are a feature of the exercises, they will march.

AMATEUR CHEF'S TALENTS WASTED

For the first time in his existence Capt. Alexander McDougall has discovered that all mankind is not fond of oatmeal, the national Scotch dish.

The astounding discovery, at least astounding to the captain, was made while the captain was fighting fire on the Brule recently.

Capt. McDougall had a party of the natives of sunny Italy under him. They had gone to bed for the night tired and worn with the strenuous fire fighting of the day. They would be very hungry in the morning, thought the good-hearted captain, and he rose early in the morning to personally attend to their breakfast.

He prepared them a large and steaming pot of porridge, taking personal pride in the knowledge that he could prepare the morning dish as few other men could.

When all was ready he called the drowsy men to the morning meal.

Imagine the surprise of the captain when he discovered that not one of the company of Italians would so much as touch the Scotch porridge.

It is said that Capt. McDougall scratched his head in deep perplexity. He has been wondering, too, ever since how anyone could refuse steaming hot porridge for breakfast. Some of the captain's friends, upon hearing the story, suggested that the captain might balk at spaghetti for breakfast.

WITHOUT PREJUDICE.

Mayor Coughlin of Fall River, speaking at a recent banquet, told a story about an old Fall River abolitionist.

"The old boy," said Mayor Coughlin, "went to the theater in Boston one night and saw 'Othello.' His knowledge of the Bard of Avon was limited; he had no idea that the hero of the piece was a white man blackened up.

"'Well, after the play was over, a friend asked him what he thought of the actors. He cleared his throat and answered deliberately:

"'Wall, layin' all sectional prejudices aside, and puttin' out of the question and partiality I may have for the race as such—durned if I don't think the nigger held his own with any on 'em.'"

QUAIL IN LOUISIANA.

New Orleans Times-Democrat: Quail are increasing throughout the state. The quantities in Louisiana this year are said to be larger than in any other year as far back as the memory of those qualified to know extends. Officials and allies of the state game commission say the increase is one of the first fruits of the game protection system.

Frank M. Miller, president of the commission, said: "There is no question but that the great increase in these birds is due to proper protection. Last March a closed season was declared, and from then until November the law was strictly enforced. As a result an enormous number of these young fowls bred during March and April, and what is more extraordinary, a second setting was hatched during the fall along about September. Observers of the habits of our native game will testify that it is a unique occurrence."

SOO GRADE WORK IS BEING PUSHED

Kennedy Mine at Cuyuna Stock Piling Preparatory to Shipping.

Brainerd, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Grading outfit No. 4, of the Soo line, has been removed from Deerwood to Staples. This camp, known as McMeneny's, is equipped with a big 3-yard shovel and uses horses instead of dinkey engines to haul the dirt from the shovel. Dan Reid is the engineer on this shovel. This camp will work towards Brainerd from Staples.

Camp No. 1 is hustling between Cuyuna and Deerwood.

Camp No. 2 is grading one-quarter of a mile this side of Cuyuna. They have a lot of fills to contend with.

The ballasting on the Soo line is reported to have progressed to a point about a mile from Deerwood.

The Kennedy mine is getting out a big stockpile and shipping will commence before June 1, if the Soo is ballasted to Cuyuna before that date.

BIG ELECTRIC LOCOMOTIVES.

Electric locomotives are now shuttling trains back and forth through the two-mile tunnel of the Great Northern railroad which pierces the Cascade mountains about a hundred miles east of Seattle. The locomotives were built by the general Electric company at Schenectady, N. Y., weigh 230,000 pounds each, develop more than 2,000 continuous horse power, and are capable of delivering a traction effort of 80,000 pounds, says the New York Sun.

The use of electric locomotives eliminates the smoke and gases which frequently overpowered engineers and trainmen, imperilled the lives of passengers and delayed traffic. The big electrics are capable of hauling the heaviest trains, steam locomotives and all, up the steep grades, which was impossible for steam locomotives except those of the largest kind.

The electrical equipment represents the best practice and the latest development of electrical engineering. The Wenatchee river has been harnessed about thirty miles south of the tunnel, where 12,000 electrical horse power is generated by the falling water. The largest pipe line in the Northwest carries the water from the dam to the power house two miles below and 210 feet nearer sea level, where the turbines change the energy into electricity, which is transmitted at 33,000 volts to the tunnel.

On the descending grade the motors will become generators and return electrical energy to the line to assist other trains climbing the hill on the other side of the tunnel. This is the first time this feature has ever been successfully applied to railroad work in America.

SWEET AND PROFITABLE.

Forbes Robertson, the English actor, motored on a beautiful afternoon through the suburbs of New York.

Forbes Robertson's host lamented the advertisements which concealed the landscape. A majestic rock was covered with a red-and-white pill proclamation. A pastoral valley was crowded with blue and green signboards. Even the sparkling blue of the autumnal sky was sullied by toy balloons proclaiming the incomparable merit of a 10-cent tea.

"Sweet," said Forbes Robertson, embracing the scene with a wave of his hand—"sweet are the uses of advertisement."

A CANNIBAL BISHOP.

Tit Bits: The queen of Denmark once paid a visit to the Danish colony of Iceland, where the good old bishop exerted himself to the utmost to show her everything that was worth seeing. The queen paid many compliments to her host, and having learned that he was a family man graciously inquired how many children he had.

It happens that the Danish word for children is almost identical in sound with the Icelandic word for sheep, and the worthy bishop promptly answered, "Two hundred." "Two hundred!" cried the queen. "How can you possibly maintain such a number?"

"Easily enough, please your majesty," replied the prelate with a cheerful smile. "In summer I turn them out upon the hill to grass and when the winter comes I kill and eat them."

KING'S DEATH MARS VISIT

Roosevelt's Entertainment in Berlin Is Curtailed By Fate.

Ex-President Nevertheless Is Accorded Special Honor While There.

Berlin, May 10.—Theodore Roosevelt's tour of Europe has suffered an anti-climax through the death of King Edward. His meeting with the kaiser, his entertainment at the royal palace here, his greeting by the citizens of Germany's capital were to have been the most significant features of his triumphal march through Europe. The kaiser and our ex-president have been compared for many years. In strenuosity, in impetuousness, in contempt for obstacles, in sentiment, in ideals, they were thought to be so much alike that Roosevelt has often been spoken of as "Unser Kaiser" and the Kaiser as the "Roosevelt of Germany." There have been those who (in all pleasantry of course) debated how long it would be after their meeting before Mr. Roosevelt would be found in front of the palace and the kaiser leaning from an upper window, exchanging epithets.

But, pleasantries aside, it was the general belief that Mr. Roosevelt was more interested in his meeting with Emperor William than in any other of his visits to the crowned heads of Europe. They had exchanged many courtesies—beginning with the launching of the yacht Meteor, when Prince Henry, representing his imperial brother, brought messages of friendship from him to Roosevelt. Our ex-president was known to be a great admirer of the kaiser and the kaiser was said to admire equally Mr. Roosevelt.

Royal Entertainment Prepared.

The entertainment prepared for the ex-president was that which is usually given only to royalty. When I spoke to a German in Norway about King Haakon's meeting Mr. Roosevelt at the station he said:

"Yes, but the kaiser will not meet him in Berlin."

Yet that is just what the kaiser had planned to do. He was to be at the Stettiner Bahnhoff at 9 o'clock this morning to welcome Mr. Roosevelt and to take him in his automobile to the Schloss. There Mr. Roosevelt and his family were to remain for three days as the guest of the emperor. They were to be dined and taken to Potsdam to see the historic palaces of that beautiful city, and taken to military reviews.

And hardly had the program for these festlichkeite been made public than the whole world was thrown into mourning by the death of King Edward.

Mr. Roosevelt was in Stockholm when the news came. He had been received in the Swedish capital by the crown prince, entertained at the royal palace and taken to the exercise grounds, to Skansen, that remarkable open air museum of Swedish life and history, and dined and feted. Incidentally, he had caught a cold and the death of the king of England must have made his illness seem doubly serious.

Made Big Changes.

As soon as the death of King Edward was known at Berlin, David Jayne Hill, our ambassador, got into communication with the foreign office to see what modification would be necessary in the plans for Mr. Roosevelt's entertainment. It was evident that all formal festivities must be abandoned by the court. But until the return of the kaiser from Wiesbaden it was not definitely announced what would be done. It was assumed that the funeral of King Edward would be held ten days or more after his death, following the precedent in the case of Queen Victoria. And this would leave Mr. Roosevelt free to remain in Berlin five days as he had planned to do. When this was definitely known, it was decided that he should be entertained at the American embassy and not at the palace, and that the informal receptions arranged by Mr. Hill should be given; that he should meet the kaiser informally at luncheon and that he should attend a review. But the entertainment at the palace, the dinner at the embassy (where the kaiser was to be a guest), and all public demonstrations were abandoned.

Theodore Roosevelt, citizen of the United States, is being entertained in Berlin, therefore, like the distinguished citizen of any other country and not (as planned) he were the guest the head of some royal family. Undoubtedly this has been a great disappointment to him. If he had planned to visit Germany before going to Scandinavia things would have happened otherwise.

From Sweden to Germany.

Mr. Roosevelt's trip from Sweden to Germany was made in a special car of the German railway attached to the train which leaves Stockholm in the morning and is ferried from Trelleborg to Sassintz at night. Germany has been cultivating close relations with Scandinavia in recent years. Formerly passengers traveling between the countries crossed between Sassintz and Trelleborg on a dinky little steamship, leaving their train on one side and taking another train on the other. Now two fine transfer steamers ply between Sassintz and Trelleborg and the entire train is ferried across, making travel between Berlin and the capitals of the three Scandinavian countries possible without the change of cars.

The kaiser and the king of Sweden assisted in the inauguration of this line, which has increased travel between the countries greatly and has enhanced Germany's influence in Norway, Sweden and Denmark. German business, too, has developed in those countries, and Germans, in association with American capital, are now electrifying the railroads of Norway. A big "Norwegian Travel Bureau" occupies a conspicuous corner on Unter den Linden in Berlin and a "Swedish Travel Bureau" has been opened on the same street.

The extension of Germany's interests abroad is a matter in which the German government moves systematically. In fact the German government, in one of its aspects, is a big commercial institution with the kaiser as general manager and press agent. We have a great deal to learn from the Germans in the matter of extending foreign trade and influence. And I commend that subject to our department of commerce for further investigation. Secretary Nagel could learn a great deal by coming to Berlin.

Some Royal Observances.

Mr. Roosevelt's train was due at the Stettiner bankhof or Stettin railway station in Berlin at eight minutes past 9 o'clock this morning. Preparations to receive him were those which are made for royalty. The royal waiting room at the station had been thrown open. This is a large square room furnished in bird's-eye maple, with chairs of wicker upholstered in light-colored chintz. On the walls are portraits of German royalty. A large brass screen at one side of the room bears the cypher of the emperor.

Adjoining this room is a dainty little dressing room. These rooms, though prepared for Mr. Roosevelt's reception, were not used by him. The stairway leading to the station platform was carpeted in crimson and bordered with blossoming plants. On each side of the doorway on the platform were large green plants. Before the doorway was a square of figured carpet.

A little before 9 o'clock the station employes began to lay the royal crimson carpet before the doorway to the end of the platform. They laid it with an exactness which would have done credit to a builder. It was in two pieces. When the first had been stretched half way down the platform the second was unrolled. Then two men adjusted the joint exactly and stood on the carpet while the men at the other end pulled it smooth and straight.

The Royal Carpet.

After this a dienstfrau with a broom went over it from end to end. No tiny bit of fluff escaped her notice. She swept it as clean as a new pin. But while she was working at one end vandal feet had left marks on the other. Her eagle-eye caught them and she uttered an "Ach, Gott," as she began to ply her broom again.

One hears ejaculations like this in Germany so frequently that they have no flavor of irreverence. In fact, in the phrase-book the English equivalent of "Ach, lieve Gott" is "Oh, dear me."

Station officials were rushing around giving orders. A large corps of police kept at the end of the platform a very considerable crowd which had gathered to witness the arrival of the distinguished guest. Porters brought from its sacred resting place the board covered with crimson carpet which is used when royalty leaves its private car.

And so when the train from Stockholm pulled into the station at exactly eight minutes past 9 o'clock, everything moved like clockwork. The imperial crimson board was quickly laid in place. Mr. Roosevelt passed safely over it to be greeted by Ambassador Hill, Secretary Laughlin and Third Secretary Scholle. The distinguished members of the American colony who had been invited to take part in the reception stood in a little group on the platform and were introduced while the man with the moving picture machine ground out yards of film. Seth Low, who is a visitor in Berlin, greeted the ex-president. Then Mr. Roosevelt was escorted over the crimson carpet to the station oxit and down the crimson carpeted stairs.

At the outer door a closed automobile was waiting. A large detachment of police was holding back a great crowd which, in spite of the steady downpour of rain, had been waiting nearly an hour for Mr. Roosevelt's arrival. There was a storm of "hurrahs"—good American cheers—as he stopped for a moment in the doorway.

Moved by Crowd's Greeting.

The crowd saw a familiar face, somewhat worn with weariness and illness, a black silk hat wound with a broad band of crepe, a black overcoat with a band of crepe on the left arm. Mr. Roosevelt looked out over the crowd, visibly affected by its enthusiasm. Then he entered his automobile and, protected by the police, was driven rapidly away.

As I left I saw three carriages marked with the imperial coat of arms being urged at top speed toward the station. In the front carriage was an officer in light blue army cape looking eagerly out of the window. The aide-de-camp appointed by the kaiser to meet our ex-president had apparently over-slept and was just too late to greet the distinguished guest.

Mr. Roosevelt was taken directly to the embassy. It is a large dwelling on the Bismarckstrasse facing the Konigsplatz. It is within sight of the palace—like the dwelling which Ambassador Tower occupied during his stay in Berlin.

It will be recalled that the kaiser was so pleased with Mr. Tower's lavish entertainings that he sent word through his ambassador to our government that he would be grateful if Mr. Hill's appointment were cancelled and Mr. Tower retained. Mr. Hill's dwelling is well adapted to entertaining and by this time the kaiser no doubt has discovered that Mr. Hill possesses fully as many of the social graces as his wealthy predecessor.

This afternoon Mr. Roosevelt went by special train to Potsdam to meet the emperor and to be his guest at luncheon. This meeting was wholly informal.

Tomorrow Mr. Roosevelt is to be taken to a military review. On the following day, he will deliver his address at the University. Friday evening the members of the American colony will meet him at the ambassador's. Sunday he will start for London.

NOT WHAT HE MEANT.

Capt. Bradley S. Osbon, the famous sailor, said in New York, in the course of a vigorous defense of Dr. Cook:

"Peary, in criticising Cook, only criticised himself. He was like the old uncle at the Zoo.

"An old uncle stood in the Zoo monkey-house. He watched the monkeys' antics with stern disapproval. A doctor at his side laughed and said to him:

"'Uncle, they seem almost human, don't they?'

"The old man, with a look of disgust, answered coldly:

"'Human? Why, they ain't no more human than I am.'

ART EXHIBIT SURPASSES ANYTHING SEEN IN WEST

Duluthians Have Rare Opportunity to View Beautiful Paintings.

Several Canvasses From Yerkes Collection---One Genuine Whistler.

Pictures valued at several hundred thousand dollars will be exhibited to the public tonight in rooms on the fifth and third floors of the courthouse under the auspices of the Duluth Art association. The display probably surpasses any similar exhibition eyer held in the Northwest or West and has been excelled in those regions only by the exhibit at the World's fair at St. Louis. The Rt. Rev. James McGolrick, Catholic bishop of Duluth, will speak briefly tonight before the public views the pictures. The exhibit will be opened to the public from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m., beginning with tomorrow.

Workmen were engaged today in hanging the canvasses and arranging the galleries. On the fifth floor the principal gallery is devoted to pictures owned in Duluth. The gallery is hung in yellow and the color scheme, which was an experiment, proved satisfactory. The pictures will be shown under artificial light. In a room adjoining the north corridor, leading from the main gallery, is the display of Moulton & Ricketts of Chicago and Milwaukee, in charge of Raymond Wyer, who also is a writer for the Fine Arts Journal of Chicago; J. W. Young and Mr. Batts. On the third floor in courtroom No. 5 is the display of Rhinehart's galleries of Chicago, Milwaukee, New York and Paris, in charge of Joseph L. Gunsaulus and E. H. Johnson. C. C. Rosenkranz of Duluth is the director of the exhibit. Duluth dealers represented are J. H. Edwards & Co., and Engels & Co. Their pictures are hung with the Duluth display.

BISHOP JAMES McGOLRICK.

From Yerkes Collection.

In the Duluth exhibit are many canvases of high intrinsic value. Three, which were recently purchased from the famous Yerkes gallery, New York, by Thomas F. Cole, are valued at between $40,000 and $50,000. Several are worth from $20,000 to $25,000. The visiting dealers have some canvases which alone are valued at $50,000. The art treasures are guarded by militiamen, and they will be assisted by detectives and police officers when the galleries are crowded.

In the north end of the Duluth gallery are hung canvases by two Duluth painters—C. C. Rosencranz and David Ericsson. A splendid canvas, "Maternity," by Ericsson, shows the wise men from the East bearing gifts to the young Christ. The scheme is bold and the idea lofty. "In the Sunlight" is a combined figure and landscape effect, of brilliant coloring. Mr. Ericsson is represented both by landscapes and figures, while Mr. Rosencranz has displayed chiefly landscapes, the tonal effect of which are pronounced. A striking picture is "Smoky Bay." The artist obtained his conception from St. Louis bay, and the picture shows a thin mantle of fog and smoke clinging to the water. In the vague distance loom the gaunt outlines of the elevators and uncertain extent of shore.

Half Are American.

About half of the pictures in the Duluth gallery are representative of the American school and the remainder of the foreign school of landscape effects. A vigorous canvas is from the brush of Albert L. Grote. It shows the Arizona desert, the sweep of the hot sands overhung with dissolving cloud masses. A prominent place is given a small whistler. It is the only whistler in the exhibit and displays the restless sea with sailing barques in the dim distance and figures in the foreground. There are two canvases by Childe Hassam, perhaps the only other representative of the impressionistic school in the exhibit. One shows an old white church in the pale moonlight. The dark ivy, clinging to the wall, seems a part of it. A great tree looms large in the foreground. Reserved in coloring, it is one of the most striking canvases in in the Duluth gallery. The other Hassam depicts a sea and the shore.

A prominent place is given a canvas by E. W. Benson. It took the Corcoran silver medal and the C. G. Glover prize at the exhibit of contemporary American paintings at the Corcoran galleries in Washington, D. C., several years ago. Another attractive picture is a Daubiginy landscape. Several fine paintings at the south end of the gallery belong to A. L. Warner of Duluth. They include two landscapes by Inness and a Charlay which depicts the evening prayer before the humble meal in the peasant's cottage. The idea is appealing and is reverently and effectively done. A bold, dashing Remington with a wealth of color is near by and across the aisle are several notable examples of the French school from Ziems. The Belgium school is represented by Detaille with a military scene. In the foreground is soldier typical of the Belgium fighting man. In the middle distance is the figure of Napoleon and to the left is a group of French officers. A Brunir in warm colors and a wealth of description completes the group of three which until recently belonged to the Yerkes collection.

The Duluth Gallery.

The Duluth gallery includes two Eatons. A small Ranger landscape of the American school undoubtedly will be greatly admired. A landscape by Knight shows a heavily shaded stream shrouded in the descending shadows of approaching night. In the distance is a gorgeous riot of colors and cloud effects, the aftermath of the sunset. "The Return of the Cows" by Guignard, is a canvas of distinction. It is typical of the French school and shows the animals retreating from the open meadow to the shaded recesses in the vague distance, suggestive of cool retreats and rest. The bronze department was not in place this morning, but there were a few striking figures unpacked and nearby were some quaint conceits and heroic carvings from Japan and the Far East.

In the room on the fifth floor occupied by Moulton & Ricketts, the Dutch and Barbizon schools are featured. Joseph Isreals, the father of the modern Dutch movement, is represented by a canvas, "Children of the Sea Shore," valued at $50,000. The figures are full of life. The composition is flung across the canvas in a curve, each note correctly struck. The color tone is distinctive of Isreals' later period. A green Inness landscape is nearby and on the other hand is a beautiful little Turner done in his classic period. It shows "The Bay of Naples." Thomas Moran's "Grand Canyon of the Colorado" is vivid in coloring. Mr. Moran's work strikes a national note, and this picture is one of the best examples of his art. A picture by W. T. Richards, America's greatest marine artist, is "Rockbound Coast." Repeated striking incidents make this canvas remarkable. A. William Keith shows the dark edge of a great forest. It is a masterful creation daringly executed. A canvas by A. H. Wyant from the Hurley collection shows a landscape effect. Wyant ranks with Inness as a landscape painter. A Rousseaut landscape is typical of the work of this greatest representative of the Barbizon school. "Chaos of Day" is a wonderful example of the art of Jules Breton. The Dutch school is also represented by Kever, who, although a young man, ranks with Peters. The canvas displays a crying baby and a woman leaning over the quaint old cradle. The woman is said to typify the artist's wife. The interior scene is picturesque. The incident is trifling, but it is full of human interest for it re-echoes situations common to hovel and palace.

In courtroom No. 5 is the exhibit by Reinhardt's galleries. The modern Dutch, Barbizon, early English and early French schools are represented as well as individual canvases indicative of the best modern art in nearly all countries. Joseph Ball's Paris exposition picture, "Lace Makers," showing the interior of a French house in which Brittainy girls are weaving the famous Brittainy lace. It is a delightful picture with a wealth of colors striking in their contrasts. Two canvases are by Charles Jacque, the famous painter of sheep. One is an interior and the other an exterior. The refined tones of darkness are easily solved and the gray coloring of the sheep is never monotous. Attention to detail is indicated by the illuminated dusty ray in the canvas, "Sheepfold."

Anton Schreyer, who found inspiration among the Arabs is represented by "The Sheik," from the collection of Senator McMillan of Michigan. It is vigorous in its firmness of touch and solidity of execution. "Maternal Happiness," by Isreals and Antoine Mauve's "The Flock," are two notable canvases. Mauve is a stickler for detail and "The Flock" is a splendid example of his work. His tints are delicate and his creations are tender and refined in color. "Before the Bath," by Bouguereau is a strong canvas in figure. The flesh tints are especially remarkable.

What Everybody Wants.

How to Keep Your Complexion Young

(From the New York Herald.)

"Age-marks—whether due to passing years, or premature and undeserved—show first in the complexion," said Mme. D'Mille. "Keep the complexion young and you will never look old' before your time—and truly every woman can be fair at forty if so she wills.

"The coarse and dark skin, the spots and blotches, the unwelcome crows' feet, the loose skin, the stray hairs—any and all of these blemishes that so mar the appearance can be prevented (or, if already present, diminished) by simple home treatment.

"You soon find a wonderful improvement in your complexion if you dissolve a small, original package of mayatone in eight ounces of witch hazel and massage the face, arms and neck with this solution once a day. The skin recovers the lovely and soft tints of youth, becomes free from spot or blemish and the growth of fuzzy hair is prevented. No, you need never use powder again, nor any cosmetic."

MY SYSTEM

Of treating sensitive teeth includes numerous appliances and many remedies, some one of which is applicable to any case. Painless operations on teeth depend largely on the man who uses the instrument. If he is careless, irritable or unsympathetic, he will inflict pain frequently, no matter what methods are at hand to avoid it. Patience and gentleness, therefore, are as important as skill and science in dentistry. We give special care and time to nervous and sensitive patients.

GETS RUSSIAN POSITION.

Wilkin County, Minn., Boy to Demonstrate Farming Machinery.

Moorhead, Minn., May 24.—James T. Bilsborrow, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bilsborrow of Wilkin county, has been selected by the Russian government to demonstrate the efficient workings of American machinery on Russian farms.

James Bilsborrow formerly was a student at the Moorhead normal school from which institution he graduated. He has been attending the State Agricultural school at St. Anthony Park, St. Paul, and it was through the recommendation of the experimental station there that he secured the position. He will occupy an official position under the Russian government. He sails on the steamer Mauretania, of the Cunard line, on June 1.

KAISER MAY HEAD NEW "EDWARD PEACE LEAGUE."

London, May 24.—A proposal to inaugurate a world-wide peace movement bearing the name of the late King Edward was made by Sir William Mather at a meeting of the peace society today. The suggestion met with prompt approval. It was intimated that Emperor William might take the leadership.

DOCTOR BRACKEN IS VERY ILL OF FEVER.

St. Paul, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. H. M. Bracken, secretary of the state board of health, who is ill of typoid fever at the Northwestern hospital in Minneapolis, is not yet out of danger, according to reports received at his office at the capitol. It will require a week or ten days more for the fever to run its course.

Peace Near For Liberia.

Washington, May 24.—The chiefs of the wild tribes on the borders of Liberia are signing the oath of allegiance and the trouble that has existed for some time with these turbulent people seems to be at an end.

PAPER WILL BE PUBLISHED HERE

Duluth Pastor Will Be Editor of Church Publication.

Rev. Matt Effelstrom of Worcester, Mass., who last week accepted a call to become the pastor of Ebenezer Finnish Baptist church at West Duluth, has also been elected editor of the "Finnish Mission Post," the official organ of the Finnish Baptist churches of America.

The paper will be published monthly in this city after September, when Rev. Mr. Effelstrom will take charge of his work here. Heretofore, it has been published at Worcester, Mass., but since West Duluth has been made the headquarters of the national society, it will be put out here.

The closing sessions of the ninth annual convention of the Finnish Baptist Mission Union of America were held Sunday evening at Wasa hall, 5117 Ramsey street, which is used by the congregation of the Ebenezer Baptist church as house of worship.

Rev. Mr. Effelstrom was elected editor of the monthly publication and it was decided to change the place of publication. The officers elected for the ensuing year were as follows: Dr. A. M. Wickstrom of Chicago, president; Gust Mattson of West Duluth, vice president; Rev. A. Stormans of Chicago, secretary and John Fagenstrom of Duluth, treasurer.

The purpose of the recent convention is to better organize the Finnish Baptist churches in this country and to send out missionaries and help establish and support churches. The society thus far has met with success in this undertaking. Fourteen churches have been founded recently and twelve new pastors have been installed.

The organization is working in copartnership with the American Baptist Homes Mission and Publication society.

IT GOT THE TRADE.

In the Chicago Press club an advertising agent complained of a bad day.

"Ah," he said, "if I only had a proprietor who'd back me up the way Opie Read used to back up the Traveler's men!

"When Read established his brilliant Arkansas Traveler," the agent went on, "he took an interest in all departments of the paper. One afternoon he lunched with his advertising manager, and on the way back from lunch the manager, as he pointed to a Little Rock druggist's shop, said:

"'There's a man I'd give anything to get an ad out of!'

"Read looked through the window into the shop. A farmer was talking doubtfully to the druggist—a bald farmer, who held a $3 bottle of hair restorer in his hand.

"'I'll get your ad, for you,' said Read to his manager, and stalked into the place and took off his hat.

"Now, Read has, as all the world of letters knows, a magnificent head of hair. Shaking out its thick, rich masses, he said to the druggist warmly:

"'There, sir, look at that! That is what you've done for me! To think that three months ago I was as bald as an egg!'

"The druggist looked confused, but the farmer said eagerly:

"'What did you take for it friend?'

"'What did I take?' thundered Read, running his fingers through his great mane proudly. 'What did I take? Why, sir, I took six dozen bottles of that incomparable mixture that you now hold in your hand.'

"Well, of course, the farmer bought a dozen bottles then and there. As for the druggist, when he found out later who Read was, he said to the Traveler's agent:

"'Put me down for a regular half-column display from now on till further notice.'"

HARD TO HIDE.

Elihu Root, at the annual dinner of the International Young Men's Christian association in New York last month, said that evil courses were more difficult to conceal than man generally believed.

"Take the case," said Mr. Root, "of old John Bodewin. John was a lawyer's confidential clerk, and he had the pernicious habit of going to a neighboring saloon every morning at 11 and taking a small glass of whisky. He was not proud of this habit; hence, after the whisky, he always took a clove.

"But one morning it happened that there were no cloves on the bar, and John, having considered the matter, swallowed a small raw onion from the free lunch tray. That would destroy the tell-tale whisky odor, no doubt, as well as the clove had always done; and so thinking, he returned to his desk.

"It was a double desk. At it he and his employer sat face to face. John, on his return, was soon aware that his employer noticed something. The man's nostril quivered, he sniffed; and, finally, with a grimace of disgust, he broke out:

"'Look here, John, I've stood whisky and clove for nineteen years, but I draw the line at whisky and onion.'"

A BAD CASE.

Explorer Amundsen, on his arrival in New York, said he believed in Dr. Cook.

"The suspicions of some people in this matter," said the Danish traveler at a dinner in New York, "seem to me almost as excessive and groundless as the nervousness of a Copenhagen man's wife.

"'My wife,' this man said to me, 'is very nervous, especially at night. She used to have a terrible nervous attack every time she heard a noise downstairs, thinking it was burglars; but I assured her that it couldn't be burglars, because they are always careful never to make any noise.'

"'That silenced her, eh?'

"'Not at all. Now she gets nervous whenever she doesn't hear any noise.'"

"LAPSUS LINGUAE."

At a Hudson-Fulton luncheon in New York, Dr. Henry A. Morse, the well known Lutheran delegate from Manchester, recounted a number of amusing pulpit experiences.

"I know a young divine," he said, "who, wishing to impress upon his congregation the beauty of a child's upturned face, said: 'Ah, dear friends, what is more beautiful than the face of an upturned child?'

"Another divine illustrated the absurdity of talking in prayer, instead of humbly reverently beseeching, when he said; "'Paradoxleal, O Lord, as it may seem to Thee, it is nevertheless true that' and so on.

"A third divine, in a funeral oration over a young girl, had his audience bathed in tears. In conclusion, he said: 'Finally, brethren, may the bereaved father find consolation for the untimely death of his only daughter'—and here, remembering there were other daughters, the fruits of a second marriage, he added hastily: 'I mean, of course, by his first wife.'"

FORESTALLED.

William A. Pinkerton, the head of the famous detective agency, was talking in Chicago about the interesting statistics of his recently published report.

"Yes, it is true," Mr. Pinkerton said, "that we catch the criminal more frequently than we used to. It is true, too, that knowing the criminal's ways, we forestall him—we take preventive measures that reduce crime enormously.

"We are like," he resumed, "the Delmas deacon. This deacon was passing the collection plate one Sunday morning. When he came to a certain penurious Delmas citizen, he noticed that the man extended toward the plate, not a hand with a coin displayed between finger and thumb, but a tightly-closed fist.

"The deacon frowned at the fist, and jerked the plate back from it.

"'Give it to me, Mr. Keene,' he whispered audibly. 'One has just come off my vest.'"

A HUMILIATING ERROR.

Mrs. Pankhurst, the leader of the English suffragettes, said at a recent luncheon at the Colony club in New York:

"And the women were mistaken, and their mistake was humiliating. It reminds me of a Savoy supper.

"Supping at the Savoy after the theater were a man, his wife, and a small party. The wife, while a course of lamb chops was being served, spied a friend in the alcove overlooking the Thames, and went to speak to her a moment, the two tables not being more than six or seven yards apart.

"While the wife stood talking animatedly to her friend, the waiter at her husband's table removed his lamb chop before he had finished it. When he noticed this, he exclaimed in a loud voice:

"'Goodness! where's my lamb?'

"His wife heard him above the noise of the restaurant, and, smiling at him sweetly, she called:

"'Here I am, darling!'"

DRUGS CAUSE OF DOWNFALL

Young Ely Physician Is Sent to State Hospital for Insane.

Promising Career Blighted By Slavery to Deadly Stimulants.

Over indulgence in morhpine and cocaine were responsible for the mental breakdown of Dr. Karl Sunell, a young Ely physician. Yesterday he was examined as to his sanity in probate court by Doctors John Jackola and Hovde. He was found to be insane and was ordered committed to the state hospital for the insane at Fergus Falls.

In a class of 180 at Heidleberg, Germany, Sunell stood highest, winning a gold medal.

"I am a wreck," he wailed yesterday while being examined. "I have not had an injection for fourteen hours and I take four each day. I am willing to answer your questions but my memory falls without the drug. Give me just one injection and I will feel stronger."

The Ely man was a pitiful sight as he sat half asleep and half awake in his chair. He trembled as though he feared that he was to be hurt and his hands would not keep still.

He told the examining board that he used cocaine and morphine in quantities of about fifteen drams a day. He begged for an injection and the tears rolled down his cheek when he saw that he could not have the drug.

He was returned to the county jail where he will be kept until he can be taken to Fergus Falls. He is but 36 years old.

A wealthy citizen of Finland took a liking to the doctor whom he met abroad some months ago and offered to assist him to a great career in medicine if he would get cured of the drug habit and stay cured. During the last year he is said to have sent the Ely man $3,000, with a promise to make it $10,000 each year if he could quit the use of drugs.

Dr. Sunell says that he was cured once but that worry over his sister brought him back to the use of drugs. Yesterday he was picked up by the police on account of his queer actions.

About three months ago he took a course of treatment at one of the Minneapolis hospitals and was discharged as cured.

STIFF FINE FOR AUTO OWNER

Joseph G. Harrison Pays $100 for Exceeding Speed Limit.

Joseph G. Harrison was fined $100 in police court yesterday afternoon for speeding his automobile on Superior street near the intersection of Third avenue west, last Wednesday evening.

The weather was threatening and Mr. Harrison was pushing the car ahead to escape being caught in the storm. The street, he claimed, was deserted at the time. The warrant was sworn out by Patrolman Jesse, who was stationed on that crossing at that time.

Judge Windom stated in passing sentence that had any one happened in front of the machine it would have been impossible to stop the car as the pavements were wet and slippery. The court said that the conditions were somewhat similar to those the afternoon Mrs. Hannah Monroe was killed near Lake avenue and First street.

Cairo, Ill., May 24.—The cases of the twelve leading citizens who were indicted on a charge of leading a mob against the jail in February have been continued until the July term of court.

RAPID CURES OF ECZEMA

All Skin Troubles Yield Readily to This New Healing Agent.

In stopping the itching attending eczema, or any itching skin disease, with first application, poslam, the new skin remedy, at once eases all physical distress and proves its wonderful healing properties. It is safe to say that poslam has cured more skin diseases than any remedy ever offered for these ills. The very worst cases of eczema, as well as acne, psoriasis, herpes, tetter, piles, salt rheum, rash, crusted humors, scaly scalp and every form of itch yield to it readily. Blemishes, such as pimples, red noses, muddy and inflamed skin disappear almost immediately when poslam is applied, the complexion being cleared over night.

Every druggist keeps both the 50-cent size (for minor troubles) and the $2 jar, and either of these may be obtained at the Lyceum Pharmacy and W. A. Abbett's in Duluth, and the A. E. Holmberg Drug Co., in Superior, as well as other reliable drug stores.

But no one is even asked to purchase poslam without first obtaining a sample package, which will be sent by mail, free of charge, upon request, by the Emergency Laboratories, No. 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York city.

board, $60,371; temperance, $17,768.

The decision to try the New York Presbytery on charges of heresy because of the granting to Messrs. Black, Steen and Finch of preaching orders after the young men had refused to accept in full the beliefs of the church, has been announced by the judicial committee.

Will Try Heresy Case.

The committee, headed by Rev. E. D. Warfield, president of Lafayette college, presented a report in which it declared the belief "that the minority members of the New York Presbytery had established a prima-facie case of heresy and the matter has now been referred to the judicial commission of the assembly, who will hear witnesses and report their findings for final action by the assembly."

W. H. Landon of California, W. K. Spencer of Michigan, Jesse C. Bruce of Pennsylvania, Charles T. Thompson of Minnesota and J. Y. Hamilton of Illinois, were elected members of the judicial commission to take the places of members whose terms expired with the present meeting.

STEAMER FRANK H. GOODYEAR IS SUNK

injury and death among the terrified crew and passengers.

With his infant child in his arms, Steward Bassett had almost reached safety in one of the lifeboats when one of the tumbling hatches hurled the baby from his arms. The little one fell into the water and was drowned despite the frantic efforts of its father to recover it.

Suddenly the Goodyear parted in the center, and with a sound which could be heard above the whistling of the Wood, sank out of sight, carrying with it all but five of its crew.

The bow of the Wood was stove in, but she rested on her bulkhead, and although some water flowed into the hold, she was kept afloat through the efforts of the pumps.

Tried to Rescue Victims.

Following the accident, Capt. Gibson of the Wood ordered the lifeboats lowered and gave the crew instructions to make every possible effort to save any of the sailors of the sinking steamer.

Within a short time the yawl boat was brought alongside the Wood and Capt. Heminger, Steward Frank Bassett, Mrs. Emma Bassett, Frank Mollick and George Grant were taken aboard, all in an exhausted condition, caused by their exertions to save themselves and the length of time they were in the water.

For more than seven hours the Wood remained at anchor near the scene of the collision, the captain hoping that he would be able to save some more of the crew of the Goodyear. When the fog rose there was nothing in sight, and as his boat was damaged and in danger of sinking also, Capt. Gibson returned to this port, arriving here today.

Upon the arrival of the Wood at this port the captain notified his office of the collision and tied up at the Grand Trunk docks. Capt. Heminger of the ill-fated steamer also notified the owners of the Goodyear of the accident and received orders to bring the survivors of the crew to Cleveland.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 24.—The steel steamer Frank H. Goodyear, which was sunk in a collision with the steamer James B. Wood, and several members of her crew reported lost, was owned by the Buffalo & Susquehanna Transportation company of Buffalo, but was operated by Mitchell & Co. of this city. The boat was fully insured. The Goodyear was 436 feet over all and of 3,438 net tonnage. She was built in 1902 at Lorain, Ohio. Usually the boat carried a crew of twenty-three men. Capt. F. R. Heminger of Bellevue, Ohio, was in charge.

The James B. Wood is owned by the Gilchrist Transportation company of this city. She was a steel steamer of 5,744 net tons and 514 feet long.

The Wood was bound down the lakes, light. The Goodyear was going up.

Shipped Men in Chicago.

Chicago, May 24.—The Goodyear called at South Chicago about two months ago and at that time shipped the following seamen: Frank Smith, aged 24 years, 3937 East Sixty-fourth street, Cleveland; Frank Molik, fireman, South Chicago; B. Aiubajwski, fireman, South Chicago; Stanley Hadwick, deck hand, Manchester, Ind; John Gray, deck hand, Michigan City, Ind.; Frank Janvowicz, deckhand, 185 East Ninety-fifth street, Chicago.

CALLED TO FAR WEST TO MASTER TIME LOCK.

Watertown, Wis., May 24.—Otto Biefeld, a machinist and expert locksmith of this city, received a telegram from Salem, Or., asking him to go there to open a time lock which so far has baffled all the experts on the Pacific coast. Biefeld started on Sunday.

A few years ago he was called to New York to open a time lock in a Wall street banking house, which had foiled the efforts of the experts in that city. The lock was opened in twenty minutes.

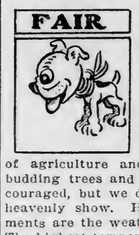
Hurricane ..... 65 and above
H. W. RICHARDSON, Local Forecaster.



This is getting monotonous. We wanted to see the comet and the eclipse of the moon last night, but the weather man put the planetary system's double bill in the shade by sending along a thick blanket of clouds and a pouring rain.

We're all in favor of agriculture and want to see the budding trees and shooting plants encouraged, but we did want to see that heavenly show. However, disappointments are the weather man's specialty. The highest temperature yesterday was 42 deg., which is some chilly, even for Duluth.

The sun rose this morning at 4:21 and it will set at 7:47, giving fifteen hours and twenty-six minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"A low pressure area central this morning over Lake Superior caused light to heavy rains during the past twenty-four hours from the Red river and Mississippi valleys eastward to including the Atlantic seaboard. Another disturbance is developing in North Pacific districts, the principal result thus far being an increase in warmth over Alberta and thence southward over the plateau region. A ridge of high pressure that extends from Saskatchewan southward to Kansas is attended by slightly cooler and clearing weather, which latter condition should reach the Head of the Lakes late this afternoon or during tonight."

General Forecasts.

Upper lakes: moderate west to northwest winds; fair tonight and Wednesday except showers tonight on southern Huron.

Chicago, May 24.—Forecasts for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Wednesday

Upper Michigan—Partly cloudy tonight; Wednesday fair.

Wisconsin and Minnesota—Fair tonight and Wednesday; not much change in temperature; frost tonight in moorlands.

North and South Dakota—Fair tonight and Wednesday; warmer in west and central portions tonight.

Montana—Partly cloudy tonight and Wednesday; warmer in east portion tonight.

Iowa—Fair tonight and Wednesday; not much change in temperature.

WEST END

FOUR SONS AS PALLBEARERS

Funeral of E. G. Swanstrom Is Held From West End Home.

With his four sons as pall bearers, the funeral of Emanuel G. Swanstrom, 72 years old, who died Sunday, was held this afternoon from the family residence, 2118 West First street, with interment at Forest Hill cemetery. Rev. W. E. Harmann of St. Luke's Episcopal church officiated.

Besides his four sons, his two sons-in-law also acted as pall bearers. The sons are: Charles W.; Adolph F.; Emanuel A.; and Walter A. Swanstrom. The sons-in-law are: Joseph Helm and Thomas Merritt.

The honorary pall bearers were: Judge J. D. Ensign, N. B. Merritt, R. N. Marble, Charles A. Haines, Edward Swenson, Alfred Merritt, W. E. Richardson and R. B. Stewart.

Besides a widow and six children, Mr. Swanstrom leaves a brother, A. F. Swanstrom of 2532 West First street, and a sister, Mrs. Sophia Selander, living in Sweden. Ten grandchildren survive him. He was one of the earliest settlers of the city, and was once prominent in Republican politics in Minnesota.

SOCIALISTS WILL MEET.

Harold Hanson, Former Norwegian Editor, to Deliver Lecture Here.

Harold Hanson, former asssitant editor of the Social Democrat, published at Christiania, Norway, will lecture this evening before the members of the Scandinavian Socialist club of the West end. The affair will be held at Sloan's hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street.

The subject for the lecture is announced as "From the Capitalists' to the Socialists' System." Following his address, speeches will be given by local members, and a musical program will be rendered. Refreshments will be served during the evening.

A national conference of Scandinavian Socialists will be held in the near future at Chicaga, and it is probable that the local organization may choose delegates this evening.

PLAN PICNICS FOR MEMORIAL DAY.

The "Teens," a club of fourteen girls of the First Norwegian Danish M. E. church of the West end, have novel plans for spending Memorial day.

A picnic has been planned for the occasion, and it is probable that a fishing trip will be taken. In the afternoon the party will be entertained at the farm of Oscar Christianson and Torrey Joregsnon at Hermantown.

Other clubs and social organizations at the West end are planning similar picnics for the week end. One club has made plans to spend Sunday and the holiday at Boulder Lake on a fishing jaunt.

Farewell Party.

Miss Lou Potters, who has made her home with her uncle, George Jule of the United States block, West end, for the last three years, was given a farewell surprise party last evening by twenty of her friends.

Tomorrow she will leave for Minneapolis, where she will join her father, who is on his way to Florida, where they will make their future home. A number of the young women of the Central Baptist church last evening presented Miss Potters with a handsome gold pin.

"Cafe Chantant."

The Young Ladies' Sodality of the St. Clement's Catholic church will conduct a "Cafe Chantant" this evening at the hall, Twenty-first avenue west and Third street. Thirty-six young women will take part. A good program, in which two sketches will be features, will be rendered, and refreshments will be served.

West End Shortrails.

Miss Mayme Kennedy of Eighteenth avenue west and Third street returned yesterday from a year's visit in the West.

Franklin Brown of 4201 West Sixth street, who has been working at McKinley, Minn., has returned for a visit with West end friends.

Rev. Edward Stromberg left this morning for Hibbing, where he will attend the annual convention of the St. Louis County Sunday School association as a delegate from the First Swedish M. E. church.

The choir of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church will meet Thursday evening for rehearsal.

The Young People's Society of the Swedish Mission church will hold its regular meeting this evening at the church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street.

Mrs. Berglet Anderson of 2216 West Eighth street will entertain tomorrow afternoon for the Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. church.

The Sunday school teachers and officers of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church will meet in regular monthly session this evening at the church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street.

Miss Edith Miller left this morning for Hibbing to attend the annual convention of the St. Louis Sunday School association in two days' session there.

The Epworth League Sewing Circle of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church will hold a home cooking sale Saturday at J. J. Moe & Sons company store, Twenty-first avenue west and Superior street.

WANT RECEIVER FOR MOTOR SCALES COMPANY.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 24.—Suits for a receiver for the American Motor Car Sales Company of New York, which controls the sales of the output of the Overland and Marion Automobile Companies of this city and the Toledo Motor Company of Toledo, Ohio, and is the majority stockholder in them, have been filed in the federal and county courts here. An accounting of the funds of the several companies is demanded of the president, John N. Willys.

T. P. C. Forbes, Jr., who filed suit in the county court alleged that Willy's residence is Indianapolis, while H. F. Campbell, who sues in the federal court, states that Willys lives in Ohio. Both plaintiffs are stockholders in the companies.

Forbes declares in his complaint that Willys lives in Ohio. Both plaintiffs are stockholders in the companies.

Forbes declares in his complaint that Willys has taken to himself the affairs of the companies and last year converted $150,000 of their profits to salary for himself. Four thousand automobiles were sold by the companies at a profit of $400,000, in 1909, Forbes alleges.

TWO SISTERS DIE IN FLAMES; TWO ARE SAFE.

Palmyria, Mich., May 24.—Evelyn, the 3-year-old daughter of Dr. Charles G. Lehmann, and her sister, Lizzie Lehmann, 29 years old, who was an invalid, were burned to death in a fire that destroyed Dr. Lehmann's residence. A 6-year-old daughter named Ruth escaped from the burning house and managed to drag to safety the unconscious form of her sister, Gladys, aged 7.

FIRES DURING 1909.

St. Paul, Minn., May 24.—There were 6,168 fires in Minnesota during 1909, according to the third annual report of State Fire Marshal Edward Peterson. Of this number 863 were in the Twin Cities, 231 in St. Paul and 542 in Minneapolis. Duluth had 156 fires. The total loss during the year, including the conflagration at Chisholm in 1908, was $14,000,000. Defective flues caused 105 fires, the greatest number from any one cause, and children playing with matches caused forty-eight fires.

Fifty-one fires were investigated by Fire Marshal Peterson. Upon evidence obtained in the investigation, fourteen persons were arrested and charged with the crime of arson. Three were released without a preliminary hearing, six were bound over to the grand jury and no indictments returned, three were released at the preliminary hearing, one person was indicted and convicted of arson in the first degree, another is under indictment, but a fugitive from justice, and one is still on bail. He was indicted in 1908.

The expenses for maintaining the office of the fire marshal during 1909 amounted to $5,995.21.

INEBRIATES' FARM FOR TOO GAY NEW YORKERS.

New York, May 24.—The inebriates' farm is in sight for New Yorkers who fail to limit their indulgence to one spree per year. Mayor Gaynor has signed the bill recently passed by the legislature authorizing the city to establish an institution for their detention and treatment. Only Governor Hughes' signature is now needed to make the measure a law.

MARRIES THE WOMAN IN SPITE OF HIS SON.

Chicago, May 24.—W. D. Boyce, wealthy publisher and paper manufacturer, was married to Miss Virginia Lee in the suburb of Oak Park, near here, yesterday. It had previously been arranged to hold the wedding on June 1. Boyce was attacked and beaten last Thursday night at a lake front hotel by his son, Benjamin Boyce, who was later arrested by the police. Young Boyce is said to have objected to his father's marriage to Miss Lee.

No Travel for Advertising.

Lincoln, Neb., May 24.—The supreme court of Nebraska declares that railroads of the state cannot legally contract to pay for newspaper advertising by giving transportation.

Four Park Bills Passed.

Albany, N. Y., May 24.—Four of the bills providing for the acceptance by the state of the gift of land and money from Mrs. E. H. Harriman and others for the purpose of extending the Palisades park along the west bank of the Hudson river to Newburgh, passed the senate last night.

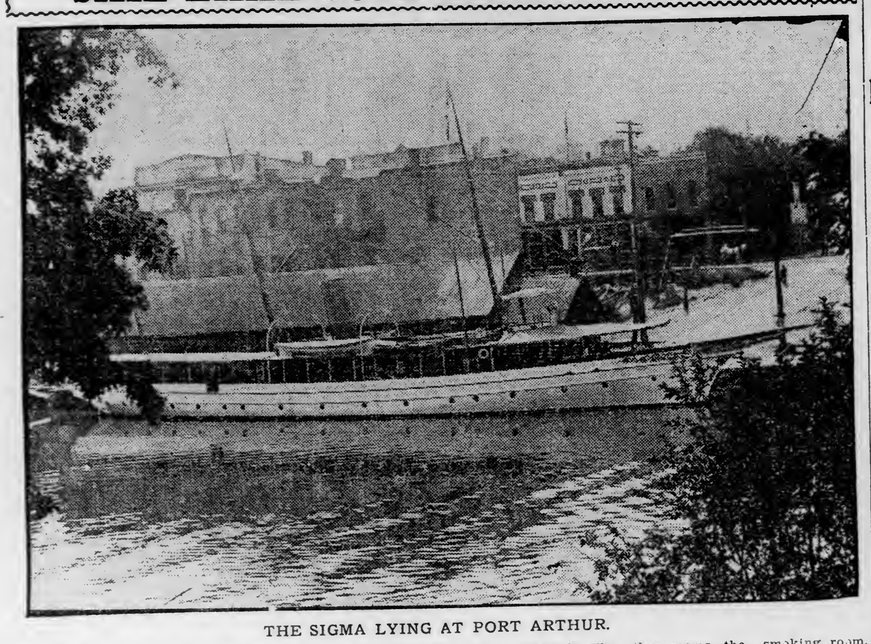
FINE NEW PLEASURE YACHT WILL SAIL LAKE SUPERIOR THIS SUMMER



THE SIGMA LYING AT PORT ARTHUR.

What is said to be the second finest yacht on the Great Lakes, the Sigma, owned by William Scott, James Whalen and a syndicate of Fort William parties, was recently brought up the lakes by Capt. C. O. Flynn of this city.

The boat was built at Toledo and is 153 feet in length and 22 feet of beam. The interior is finished in mahogany. The boat is equipped throughout with electricity which is furnished by its own dynamo. The dining room is 14 by 18 feet and is palatial in its fittings. The other rooms, the smoking room, cabin and state rooms are all in keeping with the beautiful interior decoration of the dining room.

It is said the Sigma was brought to Port Arthur for the purpose of showing visitors the views of the region around the ports of Fort William and Port Arthur.

DETROIT MEN ARE COMING

Party of Jobbers From Michigan City on Junket to Duluth.

Novel Plan to Provide Telephone Service for the Passengers.

A party of Detroit business men will come to Duluth, some time this spring, on the new Anchor line steamer Octorara. The steamer is due to make its first trip to the Head of the Lakes within the next two weeks, if the plans of the officials of the line do not miscarry.

An excursion to the Head of the Lakes of a large party of Detroit wholesale men has been arranged for. One of the features of the trip will be a direct telephone connection between the vessel and all of the ports at which the vessel stops. The telephones will be immediately connected with a telephone at the port, which will give a connection with the rooms of the passengers.

As soon as it is learned here just what time the Octorara will leave the lower lakes for Duluth, arrangements will be made for a general reception in honor of the first trip up the lakes of the big vessel.

Just what these festivities will be, has not been decided upon as yet. The Octorara will make regular trips to Duluth during the summer.

GRAIN CARGOES ARE SCARCE

Vessel agents handling grain here state that there is very little demand for grain charters. The rate at the present time is quoted at 1½ cents, with little grain going down the lakes at that price.

At this time last year the rate was precisely the same, with more demand for charters. At the office of D. T. Helm this morning it was stated that there was little or no indication that there would be an immediate increase in the demand for boats.

Reports from Cleveland have it that there is an increasing demand for grain charters here. A few cargoes have gone down the lake recently, but these do not indicate, according to vessel agents handling grain, that there is any steady movement at the present time. A goodly amount of grain is being taken out by the Canadian boats from Port Arthur and Fort William.

New Tug Arrives.

The new tug John A. Meyer brought here for the use of the Barnett & Record company, was tied up at the Fifth avenue wharf this morning. The new tug has been purchased by the Duluth contractors for use in the wrecking and dredging business. The tug has been named after John A. Meyer, who has charge of the firm's business at this point. The tug will be placed in commission today.

J. H. NORTON FILES AGAIN

County Attorney Will Seek Republican Nomination for Third Term.

Policy of Office Has Been to Reform as Well as Prosecute.

County Attorney John H. Norton filed this morning with the county auditor for re-election to the position he now holds.

There were a number of Duluthians present at the time the filing was made and Mr. Norton was assured of much good support during the coming campaign.

During Mr. Norton's term of office he has, with the co-operation of the district court judges, put into vogue a parole system that is working out well.

There are a great number on parole at the present time and they seem to be "making good." Mr. Norton thinks that if a man has it in him to reform, he is of much more use free than in prison.

Deserters—men who have deserted their families and have shown a disposition to shirk their duty—are given special attention by the county attorney's office. In the majority of cases they have been made to see the error of their ways.

During the last three years there have been in district court something like thirty murder trials. But few of the cases have been lost.

The first white slave cases ever tried in St. Louis county were put on during Mr. Norton's term. Where there has been any evidence these cases have been worked up. Only one of them was lost.

Mr. Norton is assisted in the work of prosecuting for the state by Warren E. Greene and James P. Boyle.

In speaking of his candidacy this morning Mr. Norton said:

"I have devoted all my time to the office I hold. I am proud of the record made and I know that while I have made some enemies, the majority feel that my work has been well done. I have been assured of the support of a great many and I want to say that I will do my best to protect the interests of the people all the time. No case is too small for our attention. That is all I have to say. I stand on my record."

None Saved by Siemens.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., May 24.—The steamer Siemens passed Detour this morning and did not report any survivors of the wrecked steamer Goodyear. It is believed certain she would have reported them had any survivors been aboard.

FARGO UNITED STATES COURT IS IN SESSION.

Fargo, N. D., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Amidon called a term of the United States court to order here this morning. There are many litigants and witnesses in the city as both the criminal and the civil calendars are lengthy. It is expected the term will be one of the longest held in recent years.

Fugitive Taken at Hancock.

Hancock, Mich. May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Emil Shadewik, a fugitive from Republic, has been captured here. Shadewik is charged with robbing a Republic man of $350. The money was missing when Shadewik was captured. He said he had had a fine time.

Fargo Telephone Improvements.

Fargo, N. D., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Improvements are to be made in the Northwestern Telephone company's plant here as a result of the visit of officials of the American Telephone company, who included this point in their tour of five northwestern states.

Fargo's Busy Week.

Fargo, N. D., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The week of June 20 to 25 will be a busy one in Fargo as there will be sessions of the state good roads convention, which will be attended by representatives from all over the state and a state meeting of the American Society of Equity to take up the terminal elevator question.

Will Wash Greenbacks.

Washington, May 24.—Secretary MacVeagh has ordered the purchase of a machine to laundry United States notes, which, it is estimated if put into general use at all the sub-treasuries, will save the government $1,000,000 a year. Experiments in washing and ironing notes have been conducted for some time at the bureau of engraving and printing.

Will Test Stock Law.

Washington, May 24.—The department of agriculture, it was announced today, has determined to institute a number of test cases and secure rulings from the federal courts with relation to space that must be afforded animals in cars in transit from one state to another.

Fort Berthold Bill Passed.

Washington, May 24.—The house bill authorizing the sale of the surplus lands in the Fort Berthold Indian reservation in North Dakota, was passed by the senate yesterday. The bill was slightly amended and will have to go to a conference before being sent to the president for his signature.

To Reopen Houghton Office.

Houghton, Mich., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Houghton office of the state geological survey, which has been closed for more than a year, is to be reopened in the very near future, according to State Supt. of Public Instruction Luther L. Wright, who visited the Michigan College of Mines here this week. A local man is to be placed in charge of the office. There is much speculation as to who will get the post, which is a good one.

BUY WHOLE SECTION.

Fairmont, Minn., Men Heavy Purchasers in Carlton County.

Carlton, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Clayson and Byron St. John of Fairmont, Minn., purchased an entire section of state land at the sale conducted here yesterday of Carlon county lands by State Auditor Iverson.

The land is section 36, 46-18. The Martin county brothers said that their intention is to improve the land at once and will convert it into a large farm and stock it with the very best blooded stock.

Mr. Iverson disposed of 1,700 acres of land at the sale yesterday at an average price of $6 per acre. Included in the sales were six forty-acre tracts at $12 per acre.

PUSHED TO HIS FATE.

Copper Country Man Believed to Have Been Killed.

Calumet, Mich., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The authorities are investigating the death of Erick Woutilla, aged 24, who was found in the third level of the Mesnard shaft of the Quincy mine yesterday afternoon with his skull crushed. It is believed he was literally pushed to his death by a drunken companion Sunday, the body not being found until his disappearance aroused suspicion. It is expected arrests will result from the investigation.

KING GEORGE ISSUES ADDRESS TO COLONIES.

London, May 24.—On the occasion of the anniversary of Empire day, King George has issued two gracious messages to the colonies and India, somewhat similar in style to the massage which he addressed to the nation. In both he refers to his previous tours through the respective dominions, promises to follow in his father's footsteps, and uphold constitutional government, safeguard the liberties of the colonial empire and devote himself to the well-being of the Indian people.

With reference to the rumors that it is the intention of the queen-mother Alexandra in the future to reside in Denmark, a court circular announces that Alexandra will always look upon England as her home.

PRINTERS' UNION HAS RE-ELECTED OFFICERS.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 24.—Reports from 577 of the approximately 700 unions of the International Typographical union, indicate that with possibly one exception all the national officers have been re-elected. The exception is F. D. Hennessy of Los Angeles, the totals showing that Michael Powell of Ottawa, Can., is leading by several hundred majority in the race for trusteeship of the Union Printers' home at Colorado Springs. Unless the 100 unions, which have not reported, change the ballot materially, the officers chosen are as follows:

President, James M. Lynch, Syracuse, N. Y.; first vice president, George A. Tracy, San Francisco; secretary, J. W. Hayes, Minneapolis.

Delegates to the American Federation of Labor will attend the meeting to be held at St. Louis in November.

WILL RIDE WITH THE ROUGH RIDERS IN JUNE.

New York, May 24.—The Roosevelt reception committee received word that the three living honorary members of the Roosevelt Rough Riders association will ride with the Rough Riders during the parade on June 18. They are Lieut. Gen. S. B. Young, U. S. A., retired, of Washington; Brig. Gen. Samuel S. Sumner, U. S. A., retired, Syracuse, N. Y., and Brig. Gen. Charles Cooper of Philadelphia. Rev. Henry Brown, the "Fighting Chaplain" of the regiment, also has written that he will come from Panama, where he is now stationed.

The Rough Riders are the only organization that will be in line, the parade having been curtailed recently to consist of only Col. Roosevelt's carriage, the reception committee in carriages, and the Rough Riders.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

CROOKSTON GETS READY

Polk County Metropolis Is Preparing for Next Week's Big Meet.

Special Street Decorations and Plans for Caring for Big Crowd.

Crookston, Minn., May 24.—The finishing touches are being put to the final preparations for the summer meeting of the Northern Minnesota Development association here June 1, 2, and 3 and every effort will be made to give the visitors a welcome commensurate with the importance of the movement for the better development of the northern portion of the state. Preparations are being made for the reception and entertainment of 1,000 visitors and it is believed with even fair weather conditions fully that number will be here.

Commendable interest is being taken in even the smaller villages, and where no Comercial clubs exist, meetings have been called for the purpose of seeing that each place is fully represented.

There is a feeling of optimism prevailing throughout this section of the state and a general impression that the psychological moment has arrived to get together and make the best of the splendid opportunities presented.

Crookston to Spruce Up.

Crookston will not be lacking in evidences of welcome. The streets will be illuminated by hundreds of additional lights. The business section will be decorated as never before, the preparations for Memorial day serving a double purpose and will remain both in the downtown and residence districts until after the convention is over. Thousands of flags have been ordered and from every residence from one to a dozen flags will be unfurled.

That there will be politicians here in abundance, embracing the opportunity presented to meet the leading men of the northern and central portions of the state is also a foregone conclusion and quarters have already been secured by many of them. While politics will not be allowed to interfere with the real purpose of the convention in the least, still a most excellent opportunity will be afforded to get a good idea of how things are drifting.

ROCK IS WEDGED BETWEEN RAILS

Dastardly Attempt to Wreck Winnipeg Flyer Fortunately Frustrated.

Thief River Falls, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—An attempt was made last Saturday night to wreck the Winnipeg flyer on the Soo at a small station named Halma near this city. A party of young people on their way to a wedding on passing over the crossing discovered a large rock wedged between the rails near the crossing. As the train was due in not over ten minutes the men of the party hustled the rock out of the way just in time to save the train. At this point the river runs near the track, and had the train struck the rock there is no doubt but a serious and fatal accident would have been the result.

The fresh tracks of a man were discovered in the soft soil leading away from the scene of the attempted wreck and the railway detectives are engaged on the case in an endeavor to discover the culprit.

PAUL FOURNIER GIVEN LIBERTY

Third Trial of Man Accused of Beltrami County Murder Ends Case.

Aitkin, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Paul Fournier walked from the district court room here yesterday afternoon a free man, having been given a clean bill of health by the twelve men who heard the evidence that sought to hold him guilty for the murder of Aagot Dahl, near Quering, Beltrami county, in 1904. A verdict was returned acquitting Fournier after the jury deliberated less than half an hour. The little Frenchman who has been in custody for six years, two of which he spent in the state penitentiary under a life sentence after being convicted in Beltrami county for the murder of the father of Aagot Dahl, and the balance in the county jails of Beltrami and Crow Wing county, was naturally jubilant over the outcome and was profuse in his thanks to the jury, the judge and everybody connected with the case.

Those who followed the third trial say that the jury could not have done otherwise under the showing made, the witnesses for the state having been more or less impeached. Fournier was heartily congratulated on the outcome of the trial. The three trials of the case have cost Beltrami county a pretty figure and the public is still in the dark as to who committed the dastardly crime in Beltrami county six years ago, when a father and his daughter were murdered.

FOR FALLING HAIR

Inexpensive and Good Remedy That Nourishes Hair Roots.

The man or woman whose hair is becoming thin and "straggly" and falls out every time it is combed or brushed can make at home a hair tonic that will nourish and strengthen the dying follicles.

Just get from your druggist one ounce of beta quinol and one-half pint alcohol, take home and mix with one-half pint warm water. Some mix the ounce of beta quinol with a pint of bay rum. Either recipe will prove beneficial to the hair, for it is the beta quinol that puts the hair in healthy condition and keeps it so.

The care of the hair deserves as much attention as the care of the teeth. Beta quinol prevents dandruff. Use this tonic every other day until the hair and scalp are in satisfactory condition, then twice a week, and your hair will remain long, abundant and glossy.

HOLDS THE RECORD FOR LONG SERVICE

Frank Bell, Twenty-Nine Years Depot Agent at Crookston, Promoted.

Crookston, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—After twenty-nine years of continuous service as agent for the Great Northern and during that period having been in charge of but two stations, Barnesville and Crookston, Frank D. Bell will be checked out of the office here as agent this week. He will then begin his duties as station inspector, to which he was appointed for the northern division of the Great Northern.

Mr. Bell came to the Great Northern from the Michigan Central twenty-nine years ago, and for two weeks was in the office of the superintendent at Fergus Falls. A vacancy occurred at Barnesville and he was named as temporary agent there till a successor could be secured, and it was just seventeen years before the Great Northern could secure a successor to their liking, Mr. Bell being transferred to Crookston and has been agent here ever since, twelve years.

Agent J. P. McConnell, who has been located in the Great Northern office at Warren will be Mr. Bell's successor, but the new agent for Warren has not yet been made public here.

Mr. Bell is said to hold the record on the entire system for length of service as agent with only one transfer during the entire period. He is a leading citizen, a Knight Templar and Elk, and had served as city comptroller.

BETTER METHODS HELPING FARMERS

Increased Acreage and Advanced Crops Result Around Minot, N. D.

Minot, N. D., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.) — Improved farming methods adopted by the farmers in this section are responsible for the fact that the work is much further advanced than in years gone by.

Another effect of the advanced methods will be an increase in the acreage, conservative estimates placing the increase at between 25 and 30 per cent over last year. Farms of 400 to 800 acres of wheat are common in this section, whereas only a few years ago they were practically an unknown quantity.

The gasoline engine plow has been a potent factor in the new conditions. These plows do such an immense amount of work as compared with the old methods that the operation of greatly larger farms is made possible with the same number of men. There are also other improvements that have helped the farmer and are giving him a better opportunity of doing his work in a hurry during the seasons when there is greatest need for rapid work.

WIND AND SNOW BRAKE

Being Planted at Lankin, N. D., in Shape of Trees.

Lankin, N. D., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—By the planting of two solid rows of golden willows along the north side of this city, Lankin will soon have a very effectual wind and snow break. The work was done under the direction of the Lankin Industrial club, which was given assistance by the Soo railroad.

The trees will act both as protection and in the general plan beautification that is being carried out.

HANDY WITH HIS PEN.

Red Lake County Young Man Admits He Did Wrong.

Thief River Falls, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Carl Swanson, a young man who makes his home with Ole Peterson of Hazel, just south of this city, was arrested by Sheriff Nelson, charged with forging three checks for $5 each. The checks were drawn on the Merchants Bank of St. Hilaire, and the name of Andrew Hostekind, a Rocksbury town farmer, was forged to the checks. One of the checks was cashed by Joe Giller in this city and the other two were cashed at St. Hilaire. The young man admitted his crime before Judge Bishop and was remanded to the district court judge, who immediately sent him to St. Cloud on a reformatory sentence. He claims that he found the blank check book and was drunk when he committed the offense.

RED RIVER PIONEER VICTIM OF APOPLEXY.

Fairmount, N. D., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Robert Sansburn, residing four miles east of this city, died very suddenly of apoplexy at the home of his daughter. He had been ill for a short time with pneumonia, but his condition was not serious until the stroke of apoplexy was suffered. He was 68 years old and a pioneer of this section of the Red river valley.

ENDERLIN, N. D., MAN FOOLED HIS FRIENDS.

Enderlin, N. D., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Paul C. Engle of this city and Miss Anna S. Dukes of Indiana, have been married for a year, but it was not until this week that his friends here were made aware of the fact. The wedding occurred at Fargo in June, 1909, but the bride went back to her hold home in Indiana to teach school for a year as she had already entered in an agreement to do so. In the meantime Mr. Engle returned here and lately purchased a home, furnishing it and making ready for the arrival of his wife. Even then the secret was kept, only the arrival of announcement cards from Indiana bearing the good news.

WANTED IN ILLINOIS ON ABANDONMENT CHARGE.

Almont, N. D., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charged with wife and child abandonment, Wilbert Rupert was placed under arrest here, and on a requisition by Governor Deneen of Illinois he will be returned to his old home in Illinois to face the accusation. Rupert is only 23 and has lived here several months with his mother.

DEPOSITORS MAY NOT LOSE MONEY

Bowesmont, N. D., Bank Difficulty May Be Straightened Out.

Pembina, N. D., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Such satisfactory settlements having been made with reference to certain affairs of the Bowesmont state bank recently closed, that it now appears evident that the depositors will not lose out. There is a possibility of also steps being taken for the withdrawal of the charge that has been placed against Ralph C. Sowle, the former cashier.

Several supposed valueless assets of the institution has been realized upon, and it is these that have made the conditions for a satisfactory settlement of the affairs so bright. Mr. Sowle at present makes his headquarters in Grand Forks and is confident that everything will come out all right. He is a former resident of Minneapolis.

SHEVLIN CHILD IS BURNED TO DEATH

Boy Playing With Matches Loses Life, Much Property Destroyed.

Bagley, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Playing with matches in a bedroom of his home over Olla Olson's saloon at Shevlin about 8:30 Saturday morning, Frank Julin's 3-year-old son started a fire that claimed his life, destroyed the saloon building, an adjoining restaurant and the adjoining West hotel livery barn, according to information brought here.

Smoke coming from the room in which the boy had been left alone attracted attention to the place. The bedding was on fire and the boy died. Efforts to stop the progress of the flames proved futile before the property mentioned was destroyed. The boy's father was absent from home at the time.

VILLAGE BUYS HEARSE.

Fairchild, Wis., May 24.—To prevent its being sold to out-of-town parties the village board has voted to purchase the only hearse in town of the N. Marte estate. The hearse will be rented out by the village for funeral purposes.

BANK FOR NEW TOWN.

Enterprising North Dakotans to Head the Institution.

New Rockford, N. D., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative farmers and business men have combined in the organization of a new bank in Brantford township, to be located on the site that has been picked by the Great Northern railroad for a town on its new Ayr to Surrey line.

The stockholders are all residents of Foster and McHenry county. They have incorporated with a capital stock of $15,000 under the name of the Farmers and Merchants' bank. E. R. Davidson of New Rockford, is the president, while H. B. Johnson and W. J. Morrison are vice presidents.

EAST GRAND FORKS TO PROPERLY OBSERVE FOURTH

East Grand Forks, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—For the monster Fourth of July celebration that will be held in this city prominent speakers have been invited. Among those who have been asked to come are Governor A. O. Eberhart, Congressman Steenerson and Martin O'Brien of Crookston. A fund of about $2,000 has been raised to care for the expenses of the celebration.

DULUTHIANS TAKE PART

In Institution of Brainerd Knights of Columbus Council.

Brainerd, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—A delegation of Duluth Knights of Columbus figured prominently here Sunday in the institution of a council of the order with nearly 100 charter members. Degree teams from Duluth, Superior and St. Cloud exemplified the degree work.

District Deputy Leo W. Ball of Duluth headed the Duluth delegation, which included: E. F. Wharton, A. D. Linneman, H. W. Odney, George S. Roose, E. J. Kenny, J. H. McDevett, D F. McKenna and M. J. Hogan. At the banquet in the evening H. P. Dunn was the toastmaster. There were plates for 200. Speakers were John Nightingale of Minneapolis. Leo A. Ball of Duluth, Father Smiers of Aitkin, Father O'Mahoney of Brainerd, John Cullen of Minneapolis, Paul Ahles of St. Cloud, J. W. Kenney of Duluth and J. C. O'Keefe of Minneapolis.

IF WOMEN ONLY KNEW

What a Heap of Happiness It Would Bring to Duluth Homes.

Hard to do housework with an aching back.

Brings you hours of misery at leisure or at work.

If women only knew the cause—that

Backache pains come from sick kidneys,

'Twould save much needless woe.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys,

Duluth people endorse this:

Mrs. W. F. Humerichous, 109 Twenty-seventh Ave., Duluth, Minn., says: "For several years I was afflicted with kidney trouble and the medicines I tried did not help me. My back often ached severely and if I stooped, dizzy spells seized me. After I had taken the contents of one box of Doan's Kidney Pills, I felt so much better that I procured a further supply. I am now free from backache and feel better in every way. I do not hesitate to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills in return for the good they did me."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Another Red River Trip.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Another steamboat will make the trip on the Red river from Grand Forks to Winnipeg this year, as the owners of the Alberta at Winnipeg have decided to send the boat here, leaving Winnipeg on June 4. This is about the same day as the steamer Grand Forks should start on the return trip from Winnipeg, as it is scheduled to leave Grand Forks on June 2.

Engineers' Auxiliary Elects.

Detroit, Mich., May 24.—The election of grand officers of the Women's auxiliary of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers in convention here, resulted as follows: Mrs. W. A. Murdock, Chicago, re-elected grand president, the ballot being made unanimous; Mrs. J. E. Fairhead, Covington, Ky., re-elected grand chaplain; Mrs. J. G. Bailey, Buffalo, grand treasurer; Mrs. E. A. Button, Detroit, was elected grand guide.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Kermit, N. D., Undismayed by the fact that their elevator property was recently destroyed by fire, the farmers of this district have decided to rebuild immediately. The fire was of incendiary origin but up to the present time the perpetrators of the crime have not been discovered.

Grand Forks, N. D., Another fraternity house will soon be erected at the state university, members of the Beta Zeta chapter of the Sigma Chi laying plans to that end. They will secure a site adjacent to the university campus and will put up a splendid building.

Berthold, N. D., Using her own skirts which she wrapped about the body of the little 2-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Luke, Miss Jennie Anderson, a domestic, saved the little one from death when its clothing became ignited from a bonfire.

Grand Forks, N. D.—The Red River Valley Brick corporation has started burning a kiln of some 250,000 brick, which will be ready for delivery about May 30, after which it is expected that the brick shortage, which has caused considerable inconvenience this spring, will be remedied.

Minot, N. D.—Ralph L. Heustis and Miss Olive McCutcheon, two popular young people, were quietly married at the M. E. parsonage last week by Rev. F. S. Hollett. Miss McCutcheon, whose parents live at Yellow Grass Can., has been making her home in this city for several months. Mr. Heustis is connected with the electric light plant.

Dickinson, N. D.—Relatives of Albert Tuma, the tinner, whose body was found floating in the reservoir west of the city, took the body back to La Crosse, Wis., for burial. The autopsy indicated that the man did not drown, but there are no marks of violence on the body.

Fargo, N. D.—Two hundred lives were lost in a fire at the corner of Fourth avenue and Seventeenth street south Saturday. The victims were chickens belonging to Mrs. John Isaacson, who was seriously burned about the face in trying to save her henhouse. The fire started from an incubator lamp.

Milner, N. D.—Nicola Iozzo, an Italian laborer employed by the Northern Pacific upon the grade through Storm lake, died here very suddenly as the result of what is believed to be ptomaine poisoning. He was 26 years of age. Iozzo rose early and partook of a light breakfast of bread and milk, dying soon afterward.

Fargo, N. D.—Ole O. Turblaa, the Norwegian who died at one of the local hospitals last week, was of a saving disposition. He left an estate valued at about $6,000, which he had saved from his labor. Five thousand dollars of this amount was in the hands of his friend, T. L. Ringham, at his former home at Northwood, Iowa, and $800 of the amount was in one of the Fargo banks.

Towner, N. D.—A deal has been closed by J. L. Killian of the News and Stockman of this place, by which he disposed of his newspaper plant. Fred B. Haines is the new proprietor and editor. For some years he was deputy county treasurer, and for the last year he has held the position of assistant county superintendent. He will take possession immediately.

Lead, S. D.—Within two months of the death of his daughter, Samuel Schuster of Central City, a pioneer, passed away at St. Joseph's hospital, Deadwood, following an operation for intestinal trouble. Mr. Schuster was 61 years of age, and had resided in Central City for over a quarter of a century. He is survived by his widow, two daughters and a son.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Deer River—Frank Miller and wife of Duluth spent last week at their summer home at Bowstring. They returned Saturday quite satisfied with the outing considering the mixed weather of the week, leaving for Duluth.

Moorhead—Ella C. Magnuson, wife of W. G. Magnuson swore out a warrant for the arrest of her husband, charging that on March 20 he committed the crime of forgery in attaching her name to a mortgage upon lots 11 and 12, block 99, in the city of Moorhead. Magnuson was placed under arrest by Chief of Police P. E. Malvey.

St. Peter—Wesley Todd, a patient, committed from Hennepin county to the St. Peter state hospital for the insane, committed suicide Friday by cutting his throat. Todd was a patient employed in the mattress factory, and was not known to have suicidal mania.

Brainerd—An innocent little brooder stationed in a granry caused a $1,500 fire loss on the farm of the late J. R. Britton Friday night. The granary and its contents which included a corn shredder, mower and much valuable grain and other articles was totally destroyed. There was no insurance.

Stillwater—Charles Koppens was smothered to death Saturday near Arcola. He was about 25 years old, single and his home is at East Moline, Ill. He was one of a crew of fifty men on the night crew of the List & Gifford Construction company that is doing grading on the Soo line cut-off near where the big bridge is to cross the St. Croix and was caught by a cave-in.

Badger—T. Tostenson of Duluth, a schoolmate and friend of A. Lieberg was here recently looking over the community with the intention to locate.

Crookston—The school board has thus far engaged thirty-five of the corps of teachers who will be in charge of the various schools in Crookston next year. Of the fourteen employed the past week, twelve are new teachers.

Aitkin—The dates for holding the state championship shoot here have been changed from July 11 and 12 to the 12th and 13th in order to accommodate the sportsmen who visit the Fargo tournament, the dates for the latter being July 10 and 11.

Rochester—J. B. Kendall is entitled to recover damages in the sum of $8,436.91 from the Northwestern company for the loss by fire of his brickyard at Byron. The jury in the United States court at Winona decided upon that verdict.

Wadena—The seventh annual convention of the Sixth District Minnesota Bankers' association will meet in this city June 7 and 8. It is expected a large gathering will be present, and many interesting subjects pertaining to the development of the state's resources will be discussed.

Little Falls—A deal is being made by which the Little Falls House is to be transferred from Peter Klewel to Joseph Medved. Mr. Klewel, who has had charge of the hotel and sample room on Broadway for nearly two years, expects to withdraw from the business but to remain in the city.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Houghton — Russell Campbell, fireman from the steamer Taylor, who was arrested Wednesday night on a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm, was bound over to the circuit court and held in default of bail. He is the man charged with striking a girl on the street Wednesday.

Hancock—The members of Hancock council, Knights of Columbus and St. Bernard's court, Catholic Order of Foresters received holy communion at 8 o'clock mass at St. Joseph's church Sunday. A class of forty children of the parish received first communion at this service.

L'Anse—A wonderful transformation has been made in the local cemetery by Mike Hook, sexton. The underbrush which had grown up in various parts of the cemetery, has all been cut and burned, graves have been fixed up and monuments which have fallen down and broken have been repaired. Those having relatives and friends in our city of the dead have lent assistance in this good work.

Houghton—The remains of the late W. G. McGee, father of Charles J. McGee of Houghton, who died at Oconto, Wis., Friday evening last, arrived in Houghton on the Northwestern train Monday morning at 9:10. The funeral was in charge of Houghton lodge, F. & A.

Escanaba — Elaborate arrangements are being made by the members of the Nook de Noc Gun club for the second annual shooting tournament of the organization to be held at the Wells grounds on May 30.

Rockland —The remains of Gustave Kaiser, the aged Rockland resident, who hanged himself Tuesday morning, presumably through fear of Halley's comet, were interred at Rockland Sunday morning. All of his children were present.

Houghton — A miner employed at the Superior Saturday met death in a particularly distressing manner. He was struck by falling rock and one arm was almost torn entirely from his body. One leg was also badly mangled.

Laurium — A very pretty church wedding was that Saturday evening at the Swedish Mission church, when Miss Jennie Cecelia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Anderson of Laurium was wedded to Rev. Samuel Hogander of Butte, Mont. The ceremony took place at 7:30, Rev. A. J. Peterson officiating.

Calumet — The class day exercises for the 1910 graduating class of Sacred Heart high school will be held in the high school auditorium on June 14 and the program for the event has already been arranged. The commencement exercises will be held on June 21.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Fox Lake—J. C. Williams and John Roger have opened a cement block factory here and have secured the contract for furnishing blocks for the new city hall.

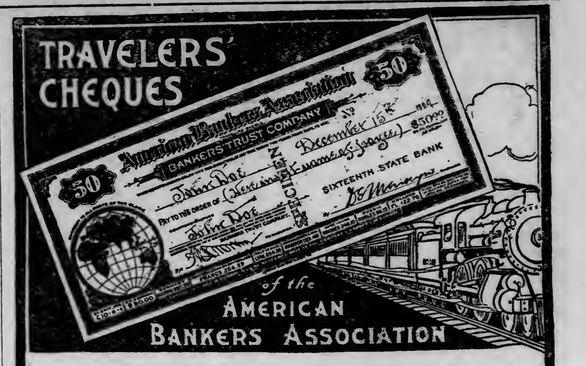
Ashland—Arrangements have been completed for a new industry which will employ about fifty men. The mill of M. J. Bell of Bellwood will be moved to Ashland and will occupy the old Durfee mill site.

Manitowoc—Carlos Estrada, a Cuban, has been inspecting the city in the interests of a Chicago company with a view to locating a $300,000 factory for the manufacture of a new fireproofing material.

Grand Rapids—The Grand Rapids Street Railway company is preparing to build an amusement hall and picnic park near Nekoosa. The place is expected to be ready for use by July 1.

Milwaukee—The spectacular features of the big Pythian conclave to be held here on Aug. 1 to 10 will be used to advantage by makers of moving picture films, who are preparing to photograph the parades and drills for exhibition purposes.

La Crosse—Frank Bigelow an early resident and leading fuel dealer for many years, was buried here Monday. Mr. Bigelow died after a brief illness with pneumonia. He was 70 years of age and served in the Civil war.



All the great Railroads, Steamship Lines, Hotels, Etc., of the world honor and accept the "A. B. A." TRAVELERS' CHEQUES. Very easy to negotiate, because self-identifying. Not available to finder or thief, in case of loss or theft. Convenient denominations.

Fitger's Beer

Best by 25 Years' Test — Have a Case Sent Home

Fitger Brewing Co., DULUTH, MINN.

In commenting on a report made public by a Special Government Commission, "The Hospital," London, in an editorial, May 1, 1909, says:

"When a man drinks good beer he drinks and eats at the same time, just as when he eats a bowl of soup. We hope the number of beer drinkers will increase considerably, as the result of the researches of our Commission, and we hold the view that it would be infinitely better for the well-being of the people, as a whole, if they were to select beer as their habitual drink. If the worth of food is measured by its calorimetric value, the fact is, that a glass of good beer is approximately as nourishing as a glass of milk, or a quart of good beer is equivalent to a quarter of a pound of beef, and it is often far more efficacious in the treatment of insomnia than drugs, due to the hypnotic principle contained in hops."

CONCERNING WOMAN.

The members of the gymnasium class of young business women of the Young Women's Christian association, taught by Miss Smith, entertained the evening class, that has been under the instruction of Miss Case, at an informal frolic and party last evening at the gymnasium. The members enjoyed the affair. The formal exhibition of the year will be held tomorrow evening at the gymnasium of the Young Men's Christian association. Last evening the members of Miss Smith's class presented her with a bar pin with a pearl setting.

Both Miss Smith and Miss Case will leave the first of the month for their homes. Miss Smith will go to Waltham, Mass., to spend the summer at her home, and Miss Case will go from here to Altoona for a visit. Both the young women will be engaged in school work next year, and will not return to Duluth.

The gymnasium classes will be closed during the summer; the swimming pool will be closed during the month of June, but during July and August Miss Lelia Soule will arrive from Oak Park, Ill., to be in charge of the swimming classes for the summer.

In the autumn the local association will have several new workers, a general secretary having to be chosen during the summer, and a new physical director. The board hopes to engage a Bible secretary by that time.

FORMAL OPENING

Of Art Exhibit to Be Brilliant Event.

The social eventof the week will be the formal opening this evening of the art exhibit, which will be held at the courthouse for the next two weeks. A special program has been arranged for the opening night, and at 8 o'clock the president of the Duluth Art association, Bishop McGolrick, will speak a few words of welcome to the guests of the association and formally declare the exhibit open. During the evening Flaaten's orchestra will play, and punch will be served during the evening.

The members of the Art association will be the hosts and the members of the Saturday club have been invited to assist. The elevators at the courthouse will be running, and a large and representative gathering of Duluth people is assured for this evening.

LIST TO CLOSE

For Advance Subscription to Symphony Concerts.

Tomorrow is the last day that advance subscriptions can be received for the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra concerts. H. W. Reyner can be reached by the old 'phone, to whom all orders must be given to secure reduction in rates. The plan of seats will open for sale at the Lyceum theater Friday morning to subscribers, and Saturday the sale will open to the general public. The subscription this year has broken all records, and the concerts will have brilliant audiences at every performance.

LABEL LEAGUE

Is Subject of Organizer's Address.

Col. R. A. Pratt, special organizer for the Women's International Union Label League of Chicago was the speaker last evening at the meeting of the Women's Union Label League. Dr. Mary McCoy presided and the speaker of the evening spoke of the aims and powers of the league:

"The chief objects of the organization," said Col. Pratt, "are to promote the sale and consumption of union made products, regardless of craft or calling, to be helpful in advancing the sale of goods made in sanitary work shops, to secure better wages and shorter hours for women who may work at trades not yet organized, and to be helpful in building and strengthening all labor and industrial organizations.

"If you believe in maintaining reasonable hours for the workers in the factory, if you believe in keeping the little children in schools and playgrounds and thus developing a more sturdy race of men and women, instead of having them competing with adults in the shops, under conditions that stunt the growth, often lower the standard of morality and frequently result in premature deaths, do your share towards maintaining the union."

Judge McDonald, who has recently returned from Alaska spoke interestingly of his trip.

Palestine Assembly.

The members of the Palestine assembly will entertain at the last party of the season Thursday evening of this week. The affair will be given at the ballroom of the Masonic temple. La Brosse's orchestra will play, and the committees in charge of the affair will be: Executive committee, Hugh J. McClearn, G. A. Taylor, J. E. MacGregor, H. L. Joyce and C. R. Pattinson; reception committee, H. L. Dresser, A. D. Goodman, John E. McLean, E. Le Duc and Fred Reynolds; floor committee, B. P. Neff, George Burns, A. J. Frey, Frank E. Zimmerman and P. N. Dennis.

Missionary Society.

The Missionary societies of the First Methodist church will meet for the May thimble bee tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Watson S. Moore of 1829 East First street. Three short papers on Immigration will be read, "Aliens and Americans" will be the subject of a paper by Mrs. L. A. Larson; "The McCrun Coke Missions," by Mrs. J. E. Goodman and "The High Water Mark," by Mrs. M. J. Kriedler.

Home Wedding.

The wedding of Miss Hattie Edwards of Oconto, Wis., and Ira Lewis Mead of this city took place last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mathews of West Duluth. The wedding service was read by the Rev. Collier of Holy Apostles' church. Mr. Mead and his bride will be at home in Duluth.

Church Society.

The Missionary Society of the First Baptist church will meet tomorrow afternoon with Mrs. E. C. Little of 127 Forty-third avenue east. "Ecuador," the Home of the Religious Despots," will be the subject of study. Mrs. W. W. Billson will present a report of the national missionary meeting held at Chicago. The members are requested to take the Lakeside car that leaves Third avenue west at 2 o'clock.

Personal Mention.

Mrs. R. E. Denfeld, who has been visiting in the South and East, will return next week to her home in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Wright of 1108 East Third street, had as their guest Mrs. Wright's brother, Harvey Strassburger of Milwaukee, who will leave this evening for his home.

Miss Elizabeth Rosto of 14 East Second street, left yesterday to sail soon for Europe. She will visit her parents near Trondhjem, Norway, and other places in Europe.

Miss Carrie B. Russell is the guest of friends in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Alstead are spending a week in Minneapolis.

Mrs. D. M. Butterfield is seriously ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William S. Hatley of 407 West Fifth street.

TRY THIS DINNER

Venetian Soup.

One cupful each of celery, carrots, turnips, onions and leeks, cut fine and fried brown in butter. When brown add enough soup stock to cover and boil until the mixture is a thick paste. Then add enough stock to make the desired quantity of soup, boil up once, season and serve.

Fish—Carbonade of Halibut.

Skin the halibut and cut into large cubes. Dip into melted butter seasoned with salt, pepper and onion juice, then into beaten egg, then in crumbs. Put into a buttered paper over a pan of hot water and bake for 15 minutes in hot oven. Turn out and serve with any preferred sauce.

Russian Salad.

Mix one cup each of diced carrots, turnips and potatoes with an equal quantity of cooked peas and beans and diced cooked meats. Add two tablespoons of caviar of ham, one tablespon of parsley, one dozen stoned olives and grated onion to season. Add either shredded lettuce or celery and serve with mayonnaise.

Dessert—Stuffed Prunes.

Steam until tender but not broken one-half pound of prunes. Then pit and fill the cavities with choped nuts, raisins or dates. Return the liquor drained from the fruit to the fire, bring to a boil and stir in one-half box of gelatine dissolved in one-fourth cup of cold water. Pour this around prunes, then stand in a cold place to harden. Serve with sweetened cream.

NEW TEA ROOMS OF PANTON & WHITE COMPANY FILL A LONG FELT WANT

A GLIMPSE AT THE NEW PANTON & WHITE TEA ROOMS.

The tearooms of the Panton & White establishment had a brilliant opening tdoay, in spite of the gloom of the weather, and many Duluth people were entertained delightfully at this newest departure of the firm.

Perhaps, because of the dull greyness of the day, the tearooms, and the waiting and writing rooms leading to them, seemed more than usually glowing and attractive, although the scheme of decorating and furnishing has been chosen to please and invite on a perfect day. From the elevator at the fourth floor the guest turns to the waiting and writing rooms, furnished in woodwork and furniture in dull, dark mahogany. Writing tables, a few magazines, a few well-selected pictures and soft lights make a delightful waiting room for a few minutes' rest before luncheon or while waiting for friends. This room, which is, in part, the corridor leading to the entrance to the luncheonrooms at the rear, is commodious, and today extra tables were laid there to accommodate the many guests.

Double doors of well-spaced panes lead to the central room of the trio of luncheon rooms. Immediately before the entrance in the dining room is a life-sized copy of "Hebe" in soft, ivory-toned plaster. The room is paneled in broad panels in birch, toned to a delicate and most pleasing soft, silvery grey. Joining the panels of wood are half-inch strips of steel, which are stained a dull blue, which harmonizes most attractively with the grey finish of the wood and brings out blue and violet lights in the wood itself. Above the paneling the walls are a deep, ivory tone. Ferns are placed about the room in small ivory-colored urns, and the curtains at the windows and at the doors leading to the other rooms are of dull blue cloth in the coarse home-spun weave.

A Smoking Room.

This room, the first of the suite, is reserved for men and their guests, and smoking will be permitted here. The room leading from this to the left of the entrance will be reserved for women and children, and leading from it toward the rear is a committee room in the same attractive furnishings, which will accommodate forty guests and is especially designed for club luncheons and committee meetings and has been most courtcously placed at the disposal of the women of the city by the firm for committee meetings and such business whether anything is ordered or not.

The furniture chosen is well designed, of straight lines and comfortable. The wood is of the silvery-toned birch like the woodwork. The chairs have been especially designed for the firm and are in a conventional design of gray and green with a fine line of orange that is an accenting note that gives character to the china. Colonial glass in particularly pleasing shapes is used.

The room to the right o- the entrance will be reserved for men after today. In this room the decorations are of a bit sturdier tone. The woodwork is in a brown, a most pleasing and soft tone and the furniture corresponds. The walls above the wood paneling are of the deep ivory tone and the theme of the room is carried out further in the shining brass of the jardinieres that hold the ferns. A mission clock in brown adds another business like touch that will appeal to men. A few semi-private booths that are especially conducive to business conferences are arranged and this room is destined to become very popular with the men of the city. Its sacred precincts were invaded today by women, but only that the large number of guests might accommodated. After today this room will have for its motto that of the cigar of fame, "I am for men."

The centerpieces on the tables were delicate sprays of blossoms that deceived many guests so life-like were they. The rooms made a delightful showing when the guests for luncheon were all seated.

The Kitchens a delight.

It seems a pity that every guest today could not have seen the kitchens for they are such as to delight the heart of every housekeeper and every would be housekeeper. They are white, pure glistening, shining white with touches of blue. The walls are covered with cloth that can be washed like tile. The design is a white background with fine lines of blue in large by the firm for committee meetings and check. The dishes are white or of soft blue enamel ware. The refrigerators are white tile on the outside and opalescent glass within. The Panton & White lunch rooms will serve pure foods so far as the packers and manufacturers will allow, but there won't be any doubt about clean foods, for they will take care of that themselves. Scrupulous, insistent, compelling cleanliness will be the particular feature and no one who has had a glimpse of that thoroughly modern and really beautiful kitchen can doubt it. The chief in charge is from the Union club of Chicago. The manager is Mrs. Van Ham.

Nearly four hundred guests were served today. Luncheons at noon and afternoon tea will be the daily program and Saturday evenings a table d'hote dinner will be served and will be made a special weekly feature of the lunch rooms. Today's menu was as follows:

Fruit Cocktail
Consomme Julienne
California Ripe Olives Radishes
Queen Olives Cucumbers
Roe Shad
Roast Turkey with Dressing
Giblet Gravy Cranberry Sauce
Asparagus on Toast Mashed Potatoes
Stuffed Tomatoes
Salad
Strawberry Ice Cream Assorted Cakes
Coffee

The firm takes pardonable pride in the fact that the installing of the lunch rooms was done throughout, with the exception of the carpentry, through the departments of their own institution.

DONT'S FOR THE THIN GIRL

By POLLY PAGET.

Don't walk until you are dead tired—overwalking will make you haggard.

Don't wear black; black has a tendency to make any one look slender. Light clothes are the most becoming.

Don't wear stripes; checks, plaids and horizontal effects are better for thin women. They should strive for becoming, deceiving effects, if they study art in dressing at all.

Don't forget that a well-rounded figure makes you look younger, and is considered a mark of beauty. The starchy foods, massage, moderate exercise, rest and sleep will produce this.

Don't wear a large, broad-brimmed hat; it looks out of proportion, especially as the face of a slender girl is usually small. A moderate-sized or small hat will be found much better.

Don't fail to have your gowns made with an eye to hiding the fact that you are too slender. Full skirts, fancy fronts and bouffant effects are the most becoming.

Don't fail to look dainty—slender women can always do that, and the most delightful word that can be applied to a woman is the word "dainty." A woman may be stylish well-dressed, good-looking, and half a hundred other things without any considerable amount of trouble; but to live up to the requirements of the word "dainty" means something more. It means muslins uncrumpled, ruffles fresh from laundering, laces unspotted from the world and everything else. It means water and soap in abundance, together with unceasing care. But it is worth it.

IF YOU DON'T MARRY

By VIRGINIA HARLAN.

If you don't marry there are sure to be certain people who will say that it is because you can't. This may or may not be true, but in either case it is not woth while to contradict it too vehemently, or they will think their suspicions are confirmed.

It is not reflection upon any woman never to have had a proposal. It is no sign of failure on your part if you remain "miss" to the end of the chapter. Everyone knows that there are not enough men to go round, and everyone can see that it is not by any means always the prettiest or the nicest, or even the most suitable girl, who is led first to the altar.

Personally, I think it is far more often the girl who is in no way remarkable. She is not extremely pretty or extremely plain. She is not preeminently suited to the role of wife, mother or housekeeper. She has no extraordinary claims to any kind of distinction. She is, more often that not, "the sort of girl you see in dozens," as a man expressed it the other day.

The average man appears to want the same sort of wife that his friends have taken.

Perhaps he feels that there is more "risk" in marrying a girl who is in any way remarkable than in taking for his wife one who is, so to speak, "stock size" in mind and character.

There is a popular idea among men that the "stock size" girl is easily satisfied, and the motion strongly appeals to the rather unromantic man of the day. But, in point of fact, there is no rule in these things.

If, from any cause whatever, the lot of the unwedded falls to your share, the thing to do is to make a point of accepting the fact gracefully.

One sees on every side "unappropriated blessings" who are really almost more appropriated than many wives and mothers one meets. They have made a place for themselves in hearts innumerable, and have earned themselves a welcome wherever they go. They are guide, philosopher and friend to the young, a very pleasant help in time of trouble to the middle-aged and a stream of sunshine to the old.

This is what unmarried women should be. Marriage sometimes narrows one's sphere, for the home life is so absorbing that there is little time for anything else.

But the unmarried woman has a boundless horizon, and may, if she will, make her spinsterhood a boon and blessing to many.

The instinct for motherhood need not remain entirely unsatisfied. The "old maid" who keeps her heart young and her sympathies green may always have the patter of little feet about her, may ever find little hands to place themselves confidingly in hers and little tired heads to rest contentedly on her breast.

And children of larger growth will come to her for sympathy and advice. No one can truthfully say that such a woman does not justify her existence, and none can regard her unmated condition as a confession of unattractiveness—if she takes care to remain attractive.

FASHION FADS

Japanese Batavia cloth is favored as a material for outing hats.

The new parasol handles are mounted with the heads of roosters and other feathered creatures carved in wood, ivory or dull metal. The handles are long, several inches in fact, longer than those used last season.

Separate flounces of percaline, sateen or silk are made ready to button on the petticoat.

Overblouses of cream-colored scrim are fashionable. They are made with three-quarter length sleeves and a square neck, a guimpe of all-over ecru net being worn with them.

In green, blue and white, a piece of printed chameleon foulard is one of the best expressions of the season's changeable silk. The green and blue forms a shaded background, and the vests dot printed over this shadow surface gives an impression of an equal division of the three-color notes.

Color is everywhere this season, not in single tints, but in rich schemes expressed in combinations into which the utmost skill has been thrown to provide varied and subtle devices. The woman who dares to use color in this lavish way must be careful to remember that shades are usually pastel, and that whenever anything brilliant is ventured upon it is sure to be softened by one of the exquisitely transparent fabrics that give chameleon effects.

THE EVENING STORY

BRINGING HIM TO THE POINT

By Mabel Hunt.

In the ball room the orchestra was playing the last dance. I stood with Alice.

One of her little, soft hands lay, like a white rose, on the stonework. I took it. She drew it from me.

"Mustn't?"

"No!"

'But tonight—my last night in America."

She flung back her pretty head.

"I came out here to tell you something realy important."

"Ah!"

'You don't seem particularly excited."

"You wanted to come out here."

"I know," she retorted; "but you might express a little more interest. We're old friends—"

"We've known one another quite three months."

"Don't be foolish!"

"But—"

'I was going to say," Alice continued, "when you interrupted me—"

"I—"

She stopped me with a glance.

"I am engaged to be married," she said.

Suddenly it seemed as though my heart stood still.

"I'm glad," I said at last.

"You're not."

I pulled myself together.

I am, honestly!" I exclaimed, more convincingly. "To whom?"

"To Mr. Cobb."

"Old Cobb!" I gasped.

"Mr. Cobb would sound better," she said.

"That old horror—"

"How dare you!"

I apologized.

"I thought that you, an old friend, would be glad to know."

I grinned.

"Something to cheer me on in Japan," I essayed, with biting sarcasm. She taped the stonework with her fan.

"I thought you'd be glad."

"Glad!" I burst out, flinging restraint to the four winds, "glad that you are giving yourself to an old mummy like Cobb! It's horrible! Why, it's pitiable!"

"Oh, how can you!"

"He's fifty!"

"He's old enough to know his own mind."

"When a woman is beaten in an argument she invariably drags in the personal," I told her.

"And a man, when beaten in an argument, invariably loses his temper," she insinuated.

"He's unspeakably vulgar."

Alice winced.

I sighed.

"He thinks Byron 'silly,' and Keates 'downright daft,'" I ventured again.

"I'll lead him up."

I reflected.

"A man never takes on the atmosphere above him," I propounded.

There was a silence. Alice is no philosopher.

"He is worth hundreds of thousands, and lunches."

"I admire economy at a quick-lunch counter," I added.

Alice simply cannot leave personal allusions out of discussions.

"There is a vast difference between economy and parsimony," said I, returning to the attack.

"At all events," sighed Alice, "I admire him immensely. I have only known him three weeks, and he has proposed."

"You admire that!" I ejaculated.

"I like determination."

"But—"

"I admire a man who is not afraid to speak."

A multitude of thoughts ran through my mind.

A man cannot speak sometimes," I said.

"Exactly."

"Oh, there are a hundred reasons," I burst out, "why a fellow with any feeling can't tell a girl that he loves her."

"Tell me one."

I laughed.

"Well, if a girl's rich—unconsciously, unreasonably rich, and a man's poor—commonly, stupidly poor—what right has he to—oh, don't!" I broke of. It was Alice's turn to laugh.

"I wouldn't think much of a man who allowed mere money to stand in the way of his love," she announced

I saw a great light. I took her hand again.

"Alice, I love you—I love you utterly!" I cried. "Oh, if you only knew how! I never knew that gods made anything so beautiful until I met you. Oh, don't laugh. If you could only see your beautiful self; if you could only see that wonderful light in your eyes as I see it, the red fire in your hair which sets my whole heart mad with love! Oh, I love you so unspeakably, and yet tomorrow—" I stopped, ashamed, for the thought of Cobb came back to me.

"I—I'm sorry," I murmured.

But she was crying gently to herself, and, by and by, laughing, sobbing, her eyes a world of heavenly tenderness, she came into my arms.

And then, still half laughing, half sobbing, she said:

"Oh, you stupid, silly boy. Did you imagine that I would let you go away like this? Did you really think I could lose you because of your absurd pride? Haven't I done my best for weeks to make you see? Haven't I done all a girl can do in common decency? Haven't I done just a tiny bit more? As though my money made any difference! You must take me with you."

I stood amazed.

"How did you know that I loved you?"

And Alice still laughs over that question.

FARM AND GARDEN

The Culture of Celery.

Some people appear to hold the mistaken notion that celery is not a busy man's crop, but the whole of the cultural points are comprised in sowing, planting and earthing up, and the first of these details shall occupy us this week.

The finest heads are produced from the sowings made in February in heat and planted out towards the close of May; and those young seedlings can be purchased very cheaply from the nursery man. However, good heads can be secured from sowing on a sunny border. Rich soil should be placed in the seed bed, and the seeds must not be buried deeply; thin out as soon as large enough to handle to four inches apart, and the young stuff will be ready for bedding out in July. A crop for cooking during the winter is to be secured from sowing the first week in May.

Cultivation of Beets.

Beets are easy to cultivate and may be sown at this season. Young roots are much appreciated, and a portion of both crops may be lifted as soon as sizeable; while some growers sow a month or six weeks after the orthodox period on purpose to give the plants a shorter growing season, in which case smaller beet roots naturally result. Like all tap-rooted subjects recently manured land is the reverse of conductive to straight rooting, and the ground must be worked at least to the depth which the long, tapering ends of the root stems will extend. Should the soil be poor, artificial fertilization can be resorted to after the crop is up; and there is no objection to digging in decayed vegetable matter or, better still, leaf mould.

Care of the Parsnip Bed.

As soon as parsnip seed has germinated and the plants appear above ground, the soil between the rows should be loosened with a hoe, to aerate it and destroy seedling weeds. Thin out to three or four inches, leaving about three or four together, chopping out the rest with the hoe. The strongest growing one can afterwards be retained. Loosen the soil occasionally.

THE HOUSEHOLD

Bran Trees for Wet Shoes.

Shoes that have become wet may be prevented from cracking by being stuffed with old well-fitting stockings full of bran. Fill the stockings far enough up for the bran to come above the shoe tops. When the shoes are damp warm the bran-filled stocking, and, after taking off the shoes, insert the bran trees. Place the boots away from the fire, but not in a very cold place. After the bran trees have been used dry them thoroughly by placing them on a warm place near the kitchen fire.

Removing Grease Spots From Books.

To remove grease spots from a book, gently warm the greased or spotted parts of the paper, and then gently press upon it pieces of blotting paper, one after another, so as to absorb as much of the grease as possible. Have ready some fine, clear, essential oil of turpentine, heated almost to a boiling state. Warm the greased leaf a little and then, with a soft clean brush, apply the heated turpentine to both sides of the spotted part. By repeating this application the grease will be extracted, with another brush dipped in rectified spirit of wine, go over the place and the grease will no longer appear. Neither will the paper be discolored.

Fixing Up Last Season's Suit.

It is a good plan to have one's last season's suit brought up to date by just a few changes before being sent to the cleaners. If new material is added to the skirt then all may be cleaned at the same time, as every suit takes on a slightly different appearance after a trip to dry cleaners.

Cause of Spotted Mirrors.

Mirrors should never be hung in the sunshine or in a strong light or they will speedily become spotted.

THE NEW PUBLIC AFFAIRS COMMITTEE.

The new public affairs committee of the Duluth Commercial club began its year's service last evening in a way that promises well for the civic activities of the year. In the first place it chose wisely when it selected W. A. McGonagle to be its chairman. Though the committee is large and representative, its chairmanship calls for peculiar qualities of initiative, courage, industry and ability, and all of these the committee will find in its chairman.

In the second place, its brief survey of the situation showed on the part of its members a comprehensive grasp of the needs of Duluth, of the work that is to be done, and of the results that are in reach, that proved its mettle and indicated its capacity.

Duluth has been on the verge of greatness for years. The only reason it has not gone beyond the verge is that it has not taken the step needed to put it over the line. It has stood on the brink of the pool like a timid bather, while Seattle, Portland, Des Moines, St. Paul, Minneapolis and a host of other joyous swimmers have cried out: "Come on in; the water's fine!"

Now, however, Duluth has taken the plunge. In the past year more has been done to seize for Duluth that which rightfully belongs to it than in any five-year period of its past. The work was well begun by the public affairs committee whose year has lately closed, and that work will be taken up by the new committee and pushed with ardor and enthusiasm.

It is a great game Duluth is playing, and the stakes are great. There is pleasure in it and profit in it for all and for each. It calls for team play and for individual play—above all for team play. The public affairs committee is the field team upon which Duluth depends to win its battle. There is work for all, but the initiative and the leadership are with the public affairs committee.

There is so much to do for Duluth, and the achievements in sight are so tangible and so valuable, that every citizen should glory in the doing. Near-by soil must be settled, the growth of Northern Minnesota must be fostered in every way possible, the legislature must be induced to perform the state's duty toward the idle acres of the northern two-thirds of the state, the common interests of all sections of the north must be made a rallying point for all the people of the north, railroad service must be improved not only for Duluth but for other sections of Northern Minnesota, Duluth must take care that its interests on the Great Lakes are conserved by preventing monopoly of lake facilities, dock property must be acquired by Duluth so that independent shipping may have a place to load and unload its cargoes, the markets of the city must be kept free and open so that the producers of Northern Minnesota and the consumers of Duluth may traffic to their mutual profit.

It is a big program, and its carrying out calls for a broad public spirit, an enlightened self-interest which clearly sees the inseparable relationship between the prosperity of the community and the prosperity of each individual, an active and aggressive energy which brooks no denial, and an indomitable insistence which refuses to recognize defeat.

There is a work to do, and there are men to do it. The objectives are clearer than they ever have been before, and methods are plainly defined. Duluthians have it in their power to give the country an object lesson in city-making, so that instead of Duluth sitting by and witnessing how other cities do it, other cities will stand in amazement and watch how Duluth does it.

Duluth has followed long enough. It should lead, and it shall lead.

THE WORKER'S LAW SHACKLES.

You have heard of cases where workmen were hurt, and when they went to court with their request for compensation for their injuries, their cases were thrown out by the judges because, forsooth, it was not the employers who were at fault, but fellow servants of the injured workmen, or the injured men themselves. Such cases have been common in this country, even though they overlook altogether the fact that though the injured workman is not responsible for the character of his fellow-employes or for the working conditions, the employer is responsible.

These are the infamous rules of contributory negligence, "fellow servant" and "assumption of risk," which have wrought more injustice in this country than any other encrusted tradition of the law.

A writer in McClure's Magazine tells how some of these unjust precedents got into the body of the law. In 1836 one Priestley sued his employer, Fowler, in England for damages on account of an injury received in an accident to a van owned by the defendant, and on which the plaintiff was riding.

"'Servant' Priestley," says the McClure's article, "argued that 'master' Fowler was the owner of the van, and that it was his legal obligation to maintain it in good repair. He also claimed that his 'fellow servant,' the driver of the vehicle, had no right to overload it and thus further endanger his life and limb; and that Fowler, as the 'master' of this negligent 'fellow servant,' was, under the good old common law version that a principal can be held responsible for the acts of an agent, directly answerable for his injuries. The Lincolnshire Assize, like many of our lower courts, supported this argument and awarded Priestley damages of one hundred pounds.

"And now 'master' Fowler, like his corporation successors today, appealed the case, ultimately taking it to the court of exchequer. Here their bewigged lordships solemnly took away from Priestley his hundred pounds. He had asserted that his standing in the case was virtually that of an injured coach passenger, whose payment of a certain sum for being carried necessarily implied a contract that he should be carried safely. No, no; not at all, said the law lords. The coach passenger has no means of knowing that the coach is not safely built and that it is not competently handled. But 'servant' Priestley has clearly had every opportunity to learn whether the van was in good condition. The fact that, in spite of his opportunity of learning the untrustworthiness of the vehicle, he still consented to ride upon it, constituted contributory negligence on his part and precluded any recovery of damages."

Though this decision has long since been repudiated in England, it is, according to this authority, at the bottom of a great part of the delay and injustice which injured workmen encounter in the courts of this country. Repudiated in the country from which we borrowed it, it is still powerful in this country, though it is breaking down, and in some states one or all of these unjust doctrines have been restricted or repealed.

The time is coming when the employer will be compelled by law to assume the burden of risk of employment, and when injured workmen will get just compensation without being rebuffed by these bench-made infamies of the law.

THE ORATOR.

At a banquet the other evening William J. Bryan took mild offense because one of the speakers, no doubt intending a compliment, said of him that "from the tip of his eloquent tongue he has plucked three presidential nominations."

When Mr. Bryan's turn came, he said: "It was not fair to say that I have won three presidential nominations with my tongue, or to intimate that whatever prominence I have attained has been by speech. Whatever I have is not individual, but is reflexive, and has come to me because of the things I have advocated. The things I have stood for have not died, and there are a great many people who believe that I believe what I say."

While it would flatter a great many people beyond expression to call them orators, nobody who has studied history and attempted to measure the effect of mere oratory upon public thought will wonder at Mr. Bryan's irritation. The orator has his uses, but he is valuable chiefly as a showpiece. Seldom have great statesmen been orators as the word is commonly understood. C. A. Towne, whose meteoric and checkered political career is notable more for "what might have been" than for what he has achieved, is probably a more consummate orator than Mr. Bryan. There have been a few great men who were great orators, but it was not their oratory that made them great.

However, there is another side. History undoubtedly will record the fact that it was his famous "cross of gold" speech that made Mr. Bryan the Democratic candidate for president in 1896. Yet that was as far as mere oratory could carry him. The effect of oratory is prompt, but not lasting. The oratory of that "cross of gold and crown of thorns" speech turned a convention upside down, and it was the fortune of the orator that action was taken before its effect had passed away. But mere oratory could not keep Mr. Brayn in the place he has occupied in the hearts of millions of citizens ever since. And yet without the faculty of putting his thoughts into direct, lucid and convincing language, Mr. Bryan might never have been heard of outside the boundaries of his home community. There, his personal influence would always have been an effective power. But thousands of men might think the same thoughts and never be heard of because they lack Mr. Bryan's facility of putting thoughts into words.

Many an orator can sway an audience at will a few days before election, and yet make hardly a vote for election day. Oratory is too often more a matter of sound than of sense, of polished and striking phrase rather than of original and compelling thought, of meretricious adornment rather than of deep thinking. Under its spell, men cease to analyze; but when they take out of their gilt wrappings the ideas that the orator has given them and subject these ideas to the analysis of cold thought, they are astonished to find how cheap and superficial and unsound they often are.

A real thinker, who imposes upon his own ideas the test of common sense and cool judgment, and who has merely the faculty of expressing in plain, simple, direct language those ideas which survive the test, has more real influence than any mere orator. Oratory merely concerns the manner of an address; it is the matter of an address that counts in the end.

Mr. Bryan may be forgiven, then, for refusing to admit that oratory is his stock in trade. He was nearer right in locating the source of his strength than his thoughtless admirer when he said that "there are a great many people who believe that I believe what I say." His reputation for sincerity and patriotism is worth very much more to him than his oratory.

A VERY POOR SHOW.

With all due respect to Mr. Halley and his comet, and to the astronomers who have succeeded Hailey in comet forecasting, the comet show thus far is very disappointing. A few people saw the comet Sunday evening, and they were disappointed. A great many people expected to see it last night, and the clouds prevented. The clouds, too, cut off an interesting eclipse of the moon which was predicted for last evening. Comet "A 1910", which appeared unheralded a few months ago, gave a very respectable and reliable show, but Halley's comet isn't up to the advance notices.

However, perhaps it is as well that the show wasn't better in Duluth than it was. Down in Talaiadeega, Alabama, according to press dispatches from that community, a girl was called to the door of her home and fell dead when she gazed upon the comet. A negro on the depot platform was shown the comet, and he instantly dropped dead. If looking at the comet is so exciting as all that, probably it is just as well that the weather man broke up the show in Duluth.

Though the comet is getting away from the earth as fast as it can, it should be visible on a few more evenings if the skies are clear. As the moon, whose glow is an old but nevertheless agreeable spectacle, insists on keeping in the center of the stage, and is doing its best to outshine the wanderer from afar, there is little probability that the show will be up to anybody's expectations.

The Moose Lake Star Gazette says Alfred Austin is the Secretary Ballinger of the British literary world. Bad things have been said about Ballinger, but doesn't this come under the head of cruel and unusual punishment?

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 200 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

BOSSISM IN THE LUMBER CAMPS AND ELSEWHERE.

To the editor of The Herald:

Why do some men treat the right of suffrage with seeming indifference? Is it not a privilege that one should feel proud of? In exercising this right we did in shaping the destiny of our country for good or evil. No one will dispute this fact. In nearly every country a property qualification is required, but in this country any one that knows enough to get to the polls, whether he can read or write or is dumb as an ox, can vote. Well then, if the election laws are so liberal that they require no test of intelligence or other qualification except citizenship, is it not the part of wisdom for each voter to use the privilege with his best mature judgment? One's vote should not be bought and sold like so much junk or old rags or bartered away for a drink of whisky.

In the sheriff contest in Itasca county two years ago, the evidence disclosed that several hundred illegal votes were cast. The non-resident or camp votes were invariably controlled by the employer. It was the duty of the foremain over the different crews to see to it that the men voted all one way, and from the way the vote ran these foremen delivered the goods. In every contested precinct where camps were located, every vote was cast for Taft, for president. On being questioned as to how it came they voted for Mr. Taft the answer was that the foreman told them to vote that way. When it came to prove up the legal vote of the settlers, that vote was about equally divided between the candidates, indicating this vote had not been tampered with. Now think of it: the contractor who employed the men, the foreman and the election board and the men themselves all knew this vote was illegal. Several hundred non-residents were allowed to vote but not to vote as they pleased.

The same methods practiced in these contested precincts of Itasca county was the general rule all over the country. Wherever a large number of men were employed they were either bought or coerced to vote the Republican ticket. Perhaps in the south where the Democrats are entrenched in power the same methods are employed, but its a wrong principal and extremely dangerous to the future well-being of the republic.

When the leaders of a political party will go out and tell the people that if a certain party is elected all labor will be fully employed and we will be immune against a panic. On the other hand if this party should fail, all future orders for goods would be cancelled, contracts for logging and railroad construction would all depend upon the result. Men in the shops would be told that if the result of the election was favorable, all would be well, the shop would not shut down.

Now if one would stop to think it over in the same light he would look at any other proposition, the final analysis would leave the party making such claims in the lurch. An unselfish, unprejudiced, patriotic citizen would come to the conclusion that, if after a half a century of unobstructed rule of the Republican party, we find ourselves up against a condition whereby the country would go to the bow wows if said party was turned out of power. The sooner such a party was eliminated the better it would be for the country. They would not want to transmit such an unwholesome and dangerous situation to posterity. It is an indictment against a Republican farm government if it has come to such a pass that every four years, when a president is to be elected, we are threatened with bankruptcy and starvation. It would be better to not have an election.

That such a state of affairs exists is the fault of the voters themselves. When a political party is so completely wedded to corporate interest that it will allow such interests to dictate the candidates and the party policy, and when a blind man can see it, then why don't the voters rise up like patriots and vote such party out of existence. I would like to see the voters of the eighth Congressional district be independent enough in November to give a merited rebuke to the G. O. P. Let reform in politics, like charity, start at home. I hope there will be a proper answer this fall. The boss when he comes around with a sort of a ground hog smile on his face and says, "Now, boys, we will give you a half day lay off to go and vote, your time will go on, of course we expect you to help Mr. Blank out."

Are the workingmen under any obligations to their employer or Mr. Blank? Is there any reason why they must step up and vote for Mr. Blank, other than a careless indifference or perhaps under a delusion that Blank would give them a longer job? I want to see bossism, whetener it be in the lumber camp or the mining camp, or at the county seat or state capitol, or in the senate and house at Washington, eliminated. We will never get an honest expression of the voters nor a just administration of public affairs until the voters set their foot down on the neck of the boss.

KROMBACK.

Milaca, Minn., May 18.

Speaking of Divorce.

W. D. Howells in Harper's Magazine: "Love is the caprice of chance encounter, the result of propinquity, the invention of poets and novelists, the superstition of the victims, the unscrupulous make-believe of the witnesses. As an impulse it quickly wears itself out in marriage, and makes way for divorce. In this country nine-tenths of the marriages are love matches. The old motives which delay and prevent marriage in other countries, aristocratic countries, like questions of rank and descent, even of money, do not exist. Yet this is the land of unhappy unions beyond all other lands, the very home of divorce. The conditions of marriage are ideally favorable according to the opinions of its friends, who are all more or less active in bottling husbands and wives up in its felicity, and preventing their escape through divorce. Now, I am an enemy of divorce, too; but I would have it begin before marriage.

"Rather paradoxical again?" the bachelor alone had the hardihood to suggest.

"Not at all. I am quite literal. I would have it begin with the engagement. I would have the betrothed—the mistress and the lover—come before the magistrate or the minister, and declare their motives in wishing to marry, and then I would have him reason with them, and represent that they were acting emotionally in obedience to a passion which must soon spend itself, or a fancy which they would quickly find illusory. If they agreed with him well and good; if not, he should dismiss them to their homes, for say three months to think it over. Then he should summon them again, and again reason with them, and dismiss them as before, if they continued obstinate. After three months more, he should call them before him and reason with them for the last time. If they persisted in spite of everything, he should marry them, and let them take the consequences. But if these consequences were too dire, I would not forbid them the hope of relief. I haven't thought the matter out very clearly, yet, but there are one or two causes for divorce which I would admit—causes going down into the very nature of things—the nature of men and women. Incompatibility of temperament ought always to be very seriously considered as a cause.

"And, above all," and here the speaker swept the board with his eye, "difference of sex."

The Commander-in-Chief.

Everybody's: "What distinguished foreigner assisted the colonies in the American revolution?" asked an Ohio teacher.

"God," answered Tommy promptly.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Any Way, So He Goes Out.

Ortonville Herald Star: If the investigation should find that Secretary Ballinger didn't do it but that the good of the service demanded his dismissal it would just about suit the country.

None So Daring.

Perham Enterprise: The Fergus Falls Journal remarks that while nearly everyone predicts Governor Eberhart's nomination, few go so far as to predict his election.

Correct.

Le Sueur News: Dolliver and Cummins, two United States Republican senators, think President Taft a child of delusions and snares. Correct. Go to the head of the class.

That's How to Be Re-elected.

J. Adam Bede in Pine City Pioneer: Don't you think you are getting a little bit tired of the man who is a Republican in Minnesota before election and a Democrat in Washington during his term of office?

The People Demand Results.

Little Falls Herald: Senator Dolliver, a great Republican orator, said that his party was in the control of an iron-clad organization of selfish interests, and that the same interests were powerful in the Democratic party. We think he told the truth, but we hope he was mistaken when he said no relief could come from the Democratic party. Relief can come if the Democratic masses do their duty. We think they will, because for years they have been willing to do so. If not, then a party where democratic Democrats and Democratic Republicans can get together, will arise.

But Will It?

Sauk Rapids Sentinel-Free Press: Senators Cummins and Dolliver don't go behind anybody's barn to tell the Republicans of Iowa what they think of the Taft-Aldrich-Payne tariff bill and it's likely the Hawkeye state convention of the g. o. p. will express sentiments anent that measure in language substantially the same in meaning as used by the two senators. The Minnesota state convention will find itself in select company if it tells the world its honest opinion on that tariff business.

Chloroform the Barnacles.

Royalton Banner: There are about a dozen spineless, old-line Republicans in this state upon whom the theory of Dr. Osler could be worked with benefit. They have outlived their usefulness, but, unfortunately, retain enough power to embarrass those of a younger generation who are capable of taking up the party work successfully. They do not belong to the real Republicans, and they know not of the change that has taken place.

Much Need of Defense.

Grand Rapids Herald-Review: Mr. President Taft defended Ballinger and now he is defending himself, while our own Knute is defending the defendants. That investigation of the affairs of Ballinger and Pinchot begins to listen like a farce. There'll be nothing to it so far as investigation goes. It is a committee appointed to acquit the secretary of the interior and vindicate the administration.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Nowadays poets seem to be able to do most anything but write poetry.

A powerful stimulant of conceit is to be an only child with a fond mother.

If a man could find as many excuses for going to church as for taking a drink he would be mighty pious.

The oftener a man's wife stops him from making a fool investment the more he wants her to think what good judgment he has.

A girl has so many different ways of flirting with a man that she can't tell them all herself, and often she thinks it's real when it's just one of them.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: Even a short man may have his long suit.

It's better to be correct than it is to be corrected.

How far can you get from home before you become a stranger?

Whisky and love never affect two men in exactly the same way.

At this stage of the game the hog pen is mightier than the sword.

The doctor who speaks but one language may understand many tongues.

Lot's wife may have looked back—and then again she may have talked back.

And sometimes a girl thinks she has lost her heart when it is only her appetite.

After a man gets on the shady side of 40 he decides that he'd rather be rich than handsome.

A man can always find an excuse for doing things he wants to do that he knows he shouldn't do.

The mothers of some girls must have short memories, or else they were so good when young that they didn't need watching.

The Reformers.

Does it make you mad when you read about
Some poor, starved devil who flickered out,
Because he had never a decent chance
In the tanged meshes of circumstance?
If it makes you burn like the fire of sin,
Brother, you're fit for the ranks—fall in!

Does it make you rage when you come to learn
Of a clean-souled woman who could not earn
Enough to live, and who fought, but fell
In the cruel struggle and went to hell?
Does it make you seethe with an anger hot?
Brother, we welcome you—share our lot!

Whoever has blood that will flood his face
At the sight of the Beast in the holy place,
Whoever has rage for the tyrant's might,
For the powers that prey in the day and night,
Whoever has hate for the ravening brute
That strips the tree of its goodly fruit,
Whoever knows wrath at the sight of pain,
Of needless sorrow and needless gain,
Whoever knows bitterness, shame and gall
At the thought of the trampled ones doomed to fall;
He is a brother-in-blood we know,
With brain afire and with heart a-glow;
By the light in his eyes we sense our kin—
Brother, you battle with us—fall in!

—Berton Braley in La Follette's.

Joe Cannon, Relic.

New York Evening Post: The headlines refer to Uncle Joe's periodic exercises in vituperation as vigorous onslaughts, challenges, defiances, grillings, and other terms descriptive of strenuous conduct in the face of an enemy. For ourselves, we find in the speaker's bi-weekly tirades the unmistakable signs of old age. Uncle Joe is old, fearfully old; not so much in the way of years as in the impression he conveys of beliefs and habits of thought and modes of argument and manners of speech that are all dead or dying. It is almost pathetic to hear him sound the battle-cry of party as it used to be sounded thirty years ago. It is almost like a voice from the tomb to have the name Populist flung forth as a name of damning confusion. There is the musty smell of ivy and old about Mr. Cannon's unparalleled prosperity that stretches from the Gulf of Mexico to the forty-ninth degree of latitude. There is the dim echo of bygone days in Uncle Joe's sneers at the college professors. Poor old man of Danville! He has lived to see the Populist, the college professor, and the Mugwump cut the ground from under his feet, and he knows it not.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

•••Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Sanford will leave in a few days on a six weeks' trip to Alaska.

•••H. B. Hendricks, a prominent merchant of Lisbon, N. D., is in the city with the purpose of locating permanently.

•••Mrs. Dr. Whistler and child of Calumet, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Panton for several weeks, have returned to their home.

•••Mrs. J. O. Milne arrived this mornings from Crookston and will remain in the city several weeks, the guest of Mrs. Jacob Laux. Ex-Senator Milne, her husband, is on The Herald staff.

•••Articles of incorporation of the Duluth Transfer Railway company have been filed with the secretary of state. Its object is the construction of a railway to start at Duluth and extend in a southwesterly direction by way of West Duluth and Spirit Lake to a point near the village of Fond du Lac, with wharves, warehouses, telegraph lines, etc. The capital stock is $500,000, and the incorporators are Omar H. Simonds, Mathew B. Harrison, Charles E. Lovett and Daniel H. Merritt, all of Duluth. The line will run along the shore past Rice's Point and near the probable location of future manufactories between the point and Oneota, and it is expected to build several miles of track this year. The plan is to furnish transfer facilities to these industries with all the railroads and docks in the city.

•••Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Miller and family are expected back next week from a years' stay in Germany and other European countries. Most of their time was spent at Coblentz. They are not all in love with the old country as a place of residence.

•••Miss Florence Bowen has gone to Chicago, where she will spend several weeks visiting friends.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Washington Star: "We must go to some quiet, inexpensive place next summer," said the man who worries.

"Great heavens," exclaimed the wife, "don't talk so gruesomely! You know that there are no longer any quiet or inexpensive places except cemeteries."

Washington Star: "I saw that member of the legislature taking notes," said the observant statesman.

"Very foolish of him," replied the conscienceless schemer. "It isn't safe to handle anything but cash."

Dealer (with bull terrier)—Not a good watch dog! Why, bless your heart, it was only last week that this very animal held a burglar down by the throat and beat his brains out with his tail.

Punch: Student—I want some information about the bronzes. I suppose I had better write to the keeper?

Attendant—Yes, miss; or you might see him verbally!

Toledo Blade: "Your store is no good, sir! I asked for lace curtains last week and I couldn't get 'em."

"Indeed?"

"Yes. And I asked for silk socks yesterday, and couldn't get 'em."

"That's strange."

"And today I ask for credit, and can't get even that. Is this a regular store, or what?"

Philadelphia Record: "One-half of the world doesn't know how the other half lives," quoted the Philadelphia woman.

"On her alimony," replied the other woman, who had just returned from Reno.

Washington Star: "Doctor, I'm all run down and extremely nervous. Can you save me?"

"Surely, my friend, surely. Yours is a common ailment just now. You are simply reading more baseball news than you can assimilate.

Cleveland Leader: "He treats me like a fool!"

"Why, I didn't know he knew you!"

St. Paul Dispatch: Judge—Prisoner, are you guilty or not guilty?

Prisoner—Let my lawyer plead not guilty for me, judge; I ain't got the nerve!

Puck: "Is he really a good husband to her?"

"Rather—he lets her read the sporting page first."

Blunder Upon Blunder.

New York World: When Mr. Taft was a judge of the United States circuit court he allowed no subordinate of litigation to prepare tentative opinions for him.

He permitted no lawyer to antedate briefs in order to meet the claims of opposing counsel.

He heard all the arguments himself; he read the briefs himself; he decided the case himself, and the decision was the decision of Taft, judge. It was nobody else's decision.

The public rightfully assumed that this was the way Mr. Taft acted in the Ballinger case, too; that the president sat as a judge; that he carefully weighed all the evidence both against and for the secretary of the interior, and that when he exonerated Mr. Ballinger he was deciding as an impartial judge, uninfluenced by anything except the cold, remorseless facts.

The country can no longer believe that this was Mr. Taft's attitude. In permitting Attorney General Wickersham to tamper with the date of a written opinion, and in allowing the assistant attorney general for the interior department to prepare a memorandum to help the president in framing his decision, Mr. Taft divested himself of his function as a judge and must now be included among the attorneys for the defense.

Senator Dolliver in his speech at Des Moines the other day described the president as "a good man surrounded by people who know exactly what they want." This is the view the country is beginning to take of him, and it is cereain to be strengthened by his conduct in the Ballinger case. The public will place less and less reliance hereafter upon the president's judgment. It will be less and less confident that his opinions are his own, arrixved at independently by a judicial determination of the evidence. This is unfortunate from every point of view.

If there is to be a further enlargement of the president's cabinet, as many persons have urged we should like to suggest a department of common sense in charge of a competent secretary who could always be trusted to act as a disinterested adviser to the chief magistrate.

POLITICS.

Robert Hunter in Chicago Daily Socialist: There is a regular old-time governor in the state of Indiana, who not long ago delivered himself of the following epigrams:

"We have exploited this republic until exploitations will soon become explosions," he said. "We must get business out of politics and must take politics out of business.

"This must be done quietly, soberly, discreetly at the ballot box, or there will come an hour when the toiling millions of America, not willing to wait for an election, will accomplish by force that which should be accomplished by law.

"We are beginning to find out that we are living in a land where men do other men.

"The Golden Rule has been superseded by the rule of gold; the commandment, 'Thou shalt not steal,' by 'Thou shalt not be convicted.' Success has usurped the throne of oonscience and failure is our only crime.

"The dcahs of high finance smile gladly on the common people, and as they ask, 'Is it well with thee today, my brither?' deftly insert their knives into the fifth rib of humanity.

"Not what we ought to have, but what we want, is the distorted rule of life.

"Conscience has become the vermiform appendix of high finance."

Now, that is the doctrine I used to hear as a child in dear old Indiana.

It is the doctrine that used to fire the soul of my dear old father.

It is the doctrine that old Dan Vorhees used to talk—before he got a seat in the senate and made himself secure with the railroads.

It was the doctrine of John E. Lamb before he became a corporaion lawyer and went to congress.

And how my father used to work to elect men to office who held this view! And then how he used to work to get them out of office after they were in.

Those were great days in old Indiana!

First my good Democratic father formed a "Vorhees club."

He then went about spending good money advertising Daniel until the people fell on their faces and worshipped Daniel.

And then Daniel went to Washington—and came back changed.

But father was game and he set out spending good money forming anti-Vorhees clubs for the purpose of pulling Daniel down again.

The hopes of the populace rested in John and he went to congress, a fire eater, utter just such words as the above.

But he, too, came back from Washington changed and then father formed the "anti-Lamb kickers" to pull John down again.

The idea in that day—as it was in the generation before and in the generation before that—was to get "business out of politics and politics out of business."

And the funny thing about it all was they always put a corporation lawyer, whose livelihood depended on business into the office to get politics out of business.

And you see the Golden Rule has no yellow dog fund and the rule of gold has.

Things to Be Desired.

Life: A firecrackerless Fourth.
Advertisementless scenery.
Cigarbuttless men in cars.
Smokeless motor cars.
Suffragetteless women.
Noiseless ministers.
Lieless newspapers.
Salaciousless novels.
A Cannonless congress.

And a few more:
Servantproblemless homes.
Softcoalsmokeless smokestacks.
Graftless politicians.
And tailless comets.

ON THE IRON RANGES

CHISHOLM HAS LOTS OF FIRES

Several of Late, Including One Monday Night, Have Suspicious Look.

Chisholm, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Is Chisholm infested by a band of fire bugs or were the unusual number of fires in this locality in the past few days of accidental origin? constitutes questions everyone here is cogitating over.

About 1 a. m. Sunday five shacks at the Winston-Dear stripping, in the Monroe Location, about two and one-half miles from town, caught fire, just how is not known, and were destroyed at a nominal loss.

Early yesterday morning a dwelling on Chestnut street owned by Joe Jeieski and occupied by Mrs. Cary, a widow, was damaged considerably before the firemen extinguished the blaze. The loss on the furniture was about $200 with $500 insurance, while the house was damaged about $150.

About 10 o'clock last night a bunk house belonging to some Montenegrins between Chisholm and the Monroe Location was burned. An hour later, or about 11 o'clock, fire was discovered in the People's hall on Lake street, which did about $300 damage before it was extinguished. The fire chief thinks the latter fire was of incendiary origin and is making a rigid investigation.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MEETING STARTS

Second Annual St. Louis County Convention in Session at Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Incoming trains last night and this morning brought many Sunday school people here from various parts of St. Louis county to attend the second annual convention of the St. Louis County Sunday School association which began at 1 p. m. today. L. D. Cooper presiding with a song service conducted by Rev. J. F. Packard of Hibbing.

During the morning the visitors were registered and assigned stopping quarters by the various committees. The attendance promises to be large while the interest in the work will be keen from beginning to end.

A feature of the convention will be the house to house canvas of the city to be made to learn the church affiliations or predilections of every resident of Hibbing. Eighty volunteers will make the canvas and report the result to the pastors of the different churches.

SALACIOUS CASE ON.

Damage Suit of Larsen Against Thiel in Virginia Court.

Virginia, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The salacious damage suit of Dan Larson against Carl Thiel of Hibbing, in which the plaintiff seeks to recover a large amount for the alleged alienation of the affections of his wife, which was tried at Hibbing and resulted in a mistrial, is again on trial in the district court. Judge Cant is presiding.

ACCIDENTAL DROWNING WAS FATE OF CAPSTICK

Eveleth,Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Chief of Police Nicholas Kent, Alderman Jacob S. Saari, ex-Alderman Edward J. Millette, William Emory, John J. Farley and Albert Rohrer, the coroner's jury that looked into the death of William Capstick, who was drowned Sunday, after listening to the testimony of Jack Anderson, the only eye-witness, and John P. N. Ward and Ike Mill, who accompanied Capstick to the lake, returned a verdict of accidental drowning.

Jack Anderson, who was in the wagon-box boat with Capstick, testified that the deceased jumped out of the boat without a warning and, as Capstick was heavily clothed, he was unable to be saved.

The boat, in reality, is a small wagon box six feet long and three feet wide, capable of supporting but one medium-sized man. Anderson remained in the boat after Capstick had jumped, but later left and swam to shore to inform the other members of the fishing party of the accident.

J. P. N. Ward and Ike Hill, who were members of the fishing party which left the city early Sunday morning shortly after midnight, testified that Capstick was in a sober, healthy condition at the time he left the fatal fishing expedition. As Capstick was in a normal frame of mind the claim that he jumped into the water to drown is scouted and entirely disbelieved by the authorities.

The funeral of the deceased will be held under the direction of the Odd Fellows at the Methodist church with Rev. R. C. Johnson officiating. The Red Men, Odd Fellows, Maccabees, Rebeckahs and Eagle organizations, of which the deceased was a prominent member, will be present and accompany the body to Virgina, where the burial ceremonies will be held.

SALOONKEEPERS DENIED LICENSE

Notorious Mike & Hill Place of Two Harbors is Closed.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a regular meeting of the city council last night four saloonkeepers appeared in answer to summons. Mike & Hill, Finlander saloonkeepers, had their license revoked for selling liquors to minors and running a disorderly place. There have been two fights there recently.

The license committee that looked into the charge against the Mike & Hill saloon, reported as follows to the council:

"Your committee does not believe that Mr. Hill is a fit and proper person to conduct a saloon. This opinion is based upon the evidence of several minors who testified that they had purchased liquor at the saloon now conducted by Mike & Hill, of which the applicant is a member. Also from evidence presented by the chief of police that he found a woman in the saloon in an intoxicated condition and drinking beer at the bar. And the committee further recommends that the license now held by Mike & Hill be revoked, to take immediate effect."

The recommendations of the committee were adopted and Mr. Hill was refused a license and the Mike & Hill license was taken up by the chief of police and the place closed at 10 o'clock last night.

The council will investigate further the charges against C. W. Shoop, Gust Jackson and John Swanson of "tilting the lid."

FATALLY CRUSHED UNDER LUMBER LOAD

Two Harbors, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Last evening about 6:30, Engineer William Cogley, an old Iron Range employe was killed and Switchtender F. W. Engels seriously injured by a load of lumber falling on them.

A switch engine while passing over the "diamonds," where Engel was throwing switches, dropped a car of lumber over the rails. Cogley had just put his train of ore in the yards and while waiting for the switchmen to put the car of lumber back on the track, had walked over and was standing near the car. The stakes on the lumber car broke, leaving the load fall, striking Cogley and Engels. Cogley was killed and Engels had three ribs broken and was injured internally. Engels has a wife and son on a farm near Detroit, Mich., and they have been notified.

William Cogley is survived by a wife and five children living in the city. He was a member of the local B. of L. E.

SANE CELEBRATION IS PLANNED IN VIRGINIA.

Virginia, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—A splendid celebration of the Fourth, yet a sane one, is the object to be attained by this committee named by the Commercial club last night to prepare for the event: John A. Kennedy, Elias Walsh and H. J. Seigel.

Andrew Hankinson, R. C. Pickering and A. B. Coats were appointed a committee to raise money to place a first-class baseball team in the field. A. E. Bickford and Martin Nelson were named on a committee to raise funds for supporting the splendid brass band of thirty-five pieces.

Two delegates to next week's meeting of the Northern Minnesota Development association, at Crookston, will be named by the president of the club as the members last night expressed themselves in favor of being well represented at that gathering.

Itasca Republican Convention.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Itasca County Republican committee has fixed the date for holding the Republican county convention for Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock, June 17. This convention will elect ten delegates to the state convention which is to be held in St. Paul on June 21. The primaries throughout the county will be held on June 14.

WILL DEDICATE CHURCH, SUNDAY

Notable Exercises at Holy Family Church, Eveleth, on May 29.

Eveleth, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Father Bilban of Holy Family church, the Catholic Foresters' societies, and all the members of the Holy Family church, are making elaborate preparations for the dedication of the church next Sunday.

Arrangements have been made with the Iron Range officials whereby a special train will leave Ely Sunday, 7 a. m. and gather passengers at Tower, Soudan, Biwabik, McKinley, Pettit, Aurora, Nashwauk, all bound for Eveleth. The same special will leave Eveleth Sunday evening, and will stop at all the cities along the road's line. Many will also attend from Duluth, the Michigan ranges, and other points in this state.

Elaborate preparations are also being made for the care and entertainment of the visitors. The seven local Austrian lodges have already engaged Vail, Elk, Walonlahde, Stipetih and Urania halls, at where special programs will be rendered and refreshments served. The Slavonia lodge of Chisholm, will also be here and will present a few Austrians dramas, and musical programs.

The dedicatory ceremonies will be held from 10:30 a. m. to 12 a. m., and from 7:30 in the evening to 9 p. m. In the afternoon the church will be open for inspection.

Bishops to Take Part.

Bishop McGolrick of Duluth, Bishop Frobec of St. Cloud, and Rev. F. Solikar of the St. Paul seminary will be among the principal speakers, and the blessing ceremonies will be conducted by Bishop Frobec.

Father Bilban, pastor of the church, and who was instrumental in having the local edifice erected, will also speak. Vocal music will be furnished by home talent, while the Fayal location band will be present to furnish the instrumental music, and many orchestras from this city and the surrounding towns will entertain at the many halls hired.

TACONITE BRIEFS.

Taconite, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sunday was an ideal day for playing ball and the junior ball team certainly used the day, winning from the Marble Juniors, 6 to 5. This was the fifth victorious game in succession for the season, so the Taconite Juniors are still holding the first place on the Western Mesaba range. The next game will be played in Taconite against the Nashwauk Junior team.

The Taconite Regulars beat the Marble Regulars at Marble yesterday. The score was 15 to 19.

Miss Dennis and Fred Brown went to Pengilla Sunday, where they joined a picnic party from Hibbing.

Roy Sheppard and Ernest Hislop went fishing to Swan River and brought back about fifty pounds of fish in a few hours Sunday.

Hibbing Offender Brought Here.

Hibbing, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—M. Jacob Saddler, arrested Saturday for disorderly conduct on the streets in Hibbing, appeared before Judge Thomas F. Brady in the municipal court Monday and was fined $25.75 or twenty-five days in the county jail at Duluth. Saddler was unable to pay his fine and was taken to Duluth Tuesday morning. Steve Grat, who was also arraigned in the municipal court Monday morning on the charge of disorderly conduct, was fined $30 and costs. 'Grat paid the fine.

Two Pugs Matched.

Eveleth, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Leo Meyers, manager of Nicholas Constantine, a local pug, has signed articles with "Scraps" Costello of Duluth for a fifteen round encounter, to be held on the range May 27.

Dad Palmer Hurt.

Eveleth, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. E. Palmer, better known as "Dad," for many years employed as a printer on the ranges, and erstwhile of the Grand Rapids shops, yesterday signalized his entrance in the local field by accidentally smashing one of his fingers while operating a job press.

Saloon Money Box Robbed.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Entering through a rear window after breaking the glass, a burglar helped himself to the contents of the cash drawer in Cal Gillman's saloon on Kindred avenue Sunday evening, getting away with $13.75. The burglar taking a long pole turned off the electric light behind the bar, leading the proprietor to believe the thief was familiar with the place. Marshal McCormick hopes to make an arrest today in the case.

GIRL ATTEMPTS TO END HER LIFE

Man Knocks Bottle of Acid From Mabel Smith's Hand.

"Do you know where mamma is?" said Mabel Smith to L. Rupert as she raised a bottle of diluted carbolic acid to her lips in a room in the Lowell block, First avenue east and Superior street, about 11 o'clock last night, in an unsuccessful attempt to commit suicide.

Rupert knocked the poison from her hand and summoned Dr. W. P. Abbott who succeeded in resuscitating her. He stated that had the acid not contained glycerine and been in a mild form the girl would have died before help could have reached her.

Miss Smith resigned her position at the Delicatesen restaurant Monday evening, preparatory to a trip to Minneapolis. It is said that she and another girl had planned to work their way together to the Pacific coast.

It was stated this morning that family troubles were worrying her. It is said that she has a husband, although she was known as Miss Smith, and that she decided to take her own life when he told her that she couldn't get a divorce. The allegation is that she wants to marry another man.

ARE POPULAR WITH TRAVELERS

Cheques of American Bankers' Association Rapidly Coming Into Use.

Officials of local banks declare that the "cheques"—they spell them as the French would—of the American Bankers' association have sprung into instant popularity. At the present time the cheques are being sold to the public by 1,773 different banks, and as a number of these institutions have branches the total number of offices selling the cheques at the present time is considerably in excess of 2,000.

In order to supply the demand from banks 1,700,000 cheques have been manufactured and 1,276,000 cheques have been printed with the names of issuing banks. On Jan. 1, 1910, there had been sold by the banks of the United States $3,383,000, and the Bankers' Trust company of New York on that date had cashed $2,866,000. From the first day the cheques were available for sale to the public they have been proven to be exceedingly popular, and the demand for them has steadily increased since the establishment of the system.

Arrangements have been made with the principal railroads of the United States to have the cheques accepted by their ticket agents in payment of tickets. All the steamship lines leaving New York have agreed to authorize their pursers to accept cheques in payment of bills incurred on steamers. Special arrangements have as well been made with pursers of steamships taking curcular tours to cash association cheques, as well as accept them in payment of bills. In such cases tourists living upon the steamers find such service of great value. Great numbers of cheques have been redeemed which have been so cashed. Steamship companies in other parts of the world have also agreed to accept the cheques, and such service is being extended as rapidly as is found necessary.

One special feature in the travelers' cheque of the American Bankers' Association which is of enormous benefit to tourists, and which does not exist in any other travelers' cheque issued, lies in the arrangement in the contract between the Trust company and the American Bankers' association, under which remittances for travelers' cheques are held as trust funds under the laws of the state of New York to meet the particular cheques for which they were remitted.

SEIDEL TALKS TO PREACHERS

Milwaukee Mayor Gets Into Verbal Clash With the Pastors.

Milwaukee, May 24.—"While you are fighting for some theological dogma, our boys and girls are going to hell," declared Mayor Seidel, in an address before the Milwaukee ministerial association, at the Y. M. C. A. building yesterday.

"There was a verbal battle and some sharp repartee. During the discussion and immediately after. Mayor Seidel had remarked that while a boy is offered a baseball ticket, he will shun the saloons. One of the ministers declared that he wouldn't trust his boy to attend a baseball game for the very reason that intoxicants were sold on the baseball grounds.

"They'll manage to drink somehow," declared the minister.

"Then it is up to you," replied the Mayor, "to cultivate and develop a better taste."

Wants Schools Opened.

Mayor Seidel suggested that the ministers co-operate with the school board in an attempt to have the schoolhouse doors thrown wide open to the children for social purposes. One of the ministers declared there was no need of trying to give the boys good wholesome amusements when the nickle theaters down town catered to their baser passions.

"The thing for us to do then is to compete with the nickle theaters," replied the Mayor. "Have a moving picture machine right in the school house."

"Some Rotten Politician."

As the meeting was about to adjourn, Rev. Mr. Hedland arose and said:

"Mayor Seidel, you advocate fresh air. Well, you ought to smell the sewer up in my neighborhood, it is awful," and he shook his head in disgust.

"Some rotten politician is to blame for that," replied Mayor Seidel.

AKELEY CHAUTAUQUA.

Plans Made for Several Notable Events During Summer.

Akeley, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Akeley Chautauqua association has decided to hold a six days' chautauqua, instead of three as previously announced. The dates will be July 12 to 17.

The first day will be given over to the Upper Mississippi Medical society, and it is intended to hold a "tuberculosis meeting." Experts on the subject have consented to take part in the program.

One day will be known as "Woman's day," and the local branch of the Federation of Women's Clubs is endeavoring to have a special convention of the state clubs called to convene at Akeley for the occasion. Prominent educators have accepted an invitation to be present.

If congress adjourns in time Congressman C. A. Lindbergh will deliver lectures, one of which will be on "The Panama Canal," which will be illustrated by the latest views thrown on canvass by an up-to-date picture machine. It is not improbable that United States Senator Moses E. Clapp will deliver a lecture.

THREE GIRLS DROWN WHEN BOAT CAPSIZES.

Huron, S. D., May 24.—Lydia, aged 9 years, and Lella, aged 16, daughters of Charles H. Bonsteel of this city, and Jessie Broe, aged 15, living with her parents on a farm near Lake Byron, were drowned in Lake Byron Sunday afternoon while boating.

They were in a metallic boat. When about forty rods from the shore they attempted to change places. The boat tilted, and all of them were plunged into the water.

CANCER CLAIMS PRIEST.

St. Cloud, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—High mass of requiem was said here this morning for Rev. Father Peter Couley, who died Sunday night at a local hospital from cancer.

Father Couley was born in Ireland in 1855. He came to this country when a young man and was first associated with the St. Paul diocese. Four years ago he was made pastor of the St. Wendel church, 16 miles west of this city, and he has been there ever since. He is survived by one brother, Patrick Couley of St. Paul.

OLD CON GAME WORKED AGAIN

Swindle Directed at Relatives of Dead or Married People Is Unearthed.

Chicago, May 24.—Leon Kewney, said to be a member of a well-to-do Indiana family and related to the nobility of Germany, is under arrest here on the charge of operating an extensive confidence scheme. The police say he confessed and implicated two other men, who are being sought.

Sorrowing relatives of the dead were the particular prey of the alleged swindlers, but sometimes newly-wedded persons were defrauded. Business was done under the name of the Itoline company, and all transactions were based on death and marriage notices appearing in out-of-town newspapers. The "company" owned a supply of cheap jewelry. These articles, in neatly addressed packages, were sent to the dead of other cities, always "collect." The deliveries were so timed as to reach the house when the bereavement was at its height, after the day of the funeral, and the first thought of the survivors was that there was some sentimental value between the article and the decedent. The bill, ranging from $5 to $20, was gladly paid without the contents being examined.

Worked on Newly-Weds.

In the case of newly-married persons, the impression was that it was a present from somebody who forgot to pay for the goods, and the bill was usually paid.

A federal agent was sent here from Washington to work on the case. Detectives found a letter in which the executors of James A. McClurg, who died recently at Denver, sent the "company" a check for $12 in payment for spectacles. The business was widespread and all the big transportation companies hold packages returned from Omaha, Denver, St. Louis and a number of other cities.

Kewney is a man of 50. He says his sister married a count of Hamburg, Germany.

Names Wisconsin Delegates.

Madison, Wis., May 23.—Governor Davidson has appointed as Wisconsin delegates to the national convention of insurance accidents and workingmen's compensation conference to be held June 10 and 11 in Chicago, A. W. Sanborn of Ashland, E. T. Fairchild of Milwaukee, John J. Blaine of Boscobel, George Brew of Milwaukee, Wallace Ingalls of Racine, Walter D. Eagan of Superior, Clarence Culbertson of Stanley and Paul J. Watrous of Milwaukee.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

A LINIMENT FOR EXTERNAL USE.

One of the most valuable qualities of Mother's Friend is that it safe-guards the future health of the mother. It is a liniment to be applied externally to the body, the use of which lubricates the muscles and tendons, softens the glands and ducts, prevents lumps forming in the breasts, and relieves the pain, nervousness, nausea, and other troubles from which so many expectant mothers suffer. When Mother's Friend is used regularly it fits and prepares the system for an easy and natural consummation of the term. Women who massage with this great liniment are always saved much suffering when baby comes, and recover more quickly, and without ill effects. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for our free book for expectant mothers.

WHEEL TAX INTRODUCED

Ordinance Is Given Its First Reading Before City Council.

Bakers' Ordinance Also Presented---Fire Department Auto Purchased.

WHAT THE COUNCIL DID.

Received the Wheelage tax ordinance.
Heard first reading of baker's ordinance.
Allowed firemen one day off in seven before Oct. 1, if the fire board thinks it has the necessary cash.
Directed enforcement of sprinkling ordinance.
Authorized fire board to advertise for bids for automobile for Chief Randall.
Put the extension of garbage collection up to the conference committee.
Allowed Comptroller $150 instead of $100 with which to attend the comptrollers' national convention at New York.

The new wheelage tax was introduced at the council meeting last evening for the first reading. The schedule provides for a tax ranging from $2.50 for single rigs to $35 for the big automobile trucks.

The tax was authorized at the last city election in the form of a charter amendment. The money must be used exclusively for maintaining the streets.

The complete schedule is as follows:

Class A—One-horse vehicle	$ 2.50
Class B—Two-horse vehicle	5.00
Class C—Three-horse vehicle	15.00
Class D—Four-horse vehicle	25.00
Class E—Six or more horse vehicle	35.00
Class F—Motor bicycle	3.00
Class G—Mofor tricycle	3.00
Class H—Motor autos with seats for one or two	12.00
Class I—Motor autos with seats for more than two	20.00
Class J—Auto trucks, coaches and buses	30.00
Class K—Auto light delivery wagons	15.00

The bakery ordinance was introduced by the committee which has had it under consideration for several weeks. The draft is practically the same as the original offered by Health Commissioner Webster, except that the regulation as to the distance barns must be placed is removed. The ordinance provides that none of the men in the shop must sleep in the places where bread or other food stuffs are baked; that the loaves must be wrapped individually, and that every sanitary precaution possible must be taken. It is similar to the ordinance in force in Winnipeg, upon which it was largely based.

The aldermen voted to give the firemen one day off in every seven before Oct. 1 if the funds are available, in the opinion of the fire board. In any event, the resolution is so framed that the day-off-a-week schedule will begin Oct. 1 at the latest.

The city fathers wrangled some time over the proposition. Alderman Shartel was rather nettled over the fact that the commissioners had not given sufficient consideration to the council. He declared that they looked for an automobile for the chief before they took the men into consideration, a principle which he thought to be wrong. Others said that the principle of one day off each week had already been established, and that there was nothing to be gained by getting the ill-will of the board.

The council authorized the fire commissioners to advertise for bids for the new automobile for Chief Randall of the fire department. The cost is not to exceed $2,000. An amendment was offered to make it mandatory that the machine should be provided with fire apparatus, but it did not receive a second.

Following the communication of the mayor, relative to the extension of the street car tracks in the Second ward, above Fourth street, the city engineer was directed to prepare estimates of the cost of grading Sixth avenue east between Fifth and Seventh street and Ninth street between Seventh and Fourteenth avenues. The mayor stated that in order to get the extension it would be necessary for the property owners to do their share in the way of improving the streets and avenues in that locality.

West Duluth residents sent in a communication commending the action of the council in refusing to grant a saloon license at 306 Central avenue. The signers expressed the hope that it would be turned down again, should another similar application be made in the future.

The saloon license of F. W. Miller at 1 East Superior street was granted by a vote of 12 to 4. Action upon the license was postponed a week ago.

The appropriation for W. S. McCormick, city comptroller, was raised from $100 to $150. The cash is to pay his expenses to the national convention of city comptrollers at New York next month. The comptroller sent in a statement showing that the lowest possible cost of the trip would be $139, which did not allow for any other than absolutely necessary expenditures.

The health commissioner was directed to report upon the condition of the city ambulance at West Duluth and make recommendations as to the repairs which are necessary to put it in good shape.

The legal department was directed to enforce the provisions of the sprinkling ordinance, compelling the street car company to keep the dust down between its tracks in all parts of the city. Several weeks ago the company signified its willingness to pay a proportionate part of the cost on those streets upon which it has tracks.

The extension of the garbage question was foisted on the shoulders of the next conference committee, with the recommendation that provision be made for it when the levy is made in the fall. The committee reported that it would cost from $10,000 to $12,000 to extend the collection to all parts of the city and that the city hasn't the money at this time.

Washington, May 23.— With June 1 almost in sight, congressional visitors at the White House today began to discuss the prospects of adjournment. Legislation is in such condition that no one seems to know when congress will adjourn.

GIVES NAVY $134,000,000

Senate Passes Bill That Provides for Two Big Fighters.

Light Thrown on Spanish War and Cleveland Administration Incident.

Washington, May 24.—The senate yesterday passed the naval appropriation bill, carrying an appropriation of almost $134,000,000. It was before the senate for two days, the debate being confined almost exclusively to the battleship question.

The naval increase for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1911, provided by the bill, is as follows:

Two first-class battleships, to cost not exceeding $6,000,000 each, and when equipped with armor and armament, about $12,500,000 each.

Two fleet colliers, to cost not exceeding $1,000,000 each.

Five submarine boats, to cost not exceeding a total of $2,500,000.

Six torpedo boat destroyers, to cost not exceeding $750,000 each.

The house bill provided for only four submarines and no torpedo boat destroyers.

The senate also added a provision that not more than one of the battleships should be built by the same company. The provision inserted in the house, requiring that the battleships and fleet colliers should be built under the "eight-hour" law, was retained by the senate.

Light on Spanish War.

In the closing hour of the debate Senator Depew said that popular demand had forced the war with Spain on the country, and that President McKinley had been opposed to it. He said, also, that as favorable terms could have been obtained from Spain without as were obtained with war. He said President McKinley had not been a strong enough personality to resist the popular will.

Mr. Depew also related some history concerning the Venezuelan episode of the first Cleveland administration.

"An intimate friend of mine, who was also an intimate friend of Lord Salisbury, then the British prime minister," he said, "told me that when the president's message was promulgated Lord Salisbury said to him: 'I believe that on account of the rancor coming down from the Revolutionary war and accentuated by certain occurrences in the Civil war, America means to have a war with Great Britain at some time, and I believe now is the best time, when America has no navy.'

Near War With England.

"The view of the prime minister was over-ruled by Queen Victoria, but if Lord Salisbury had had the powers possessed by some of the English prime ministers, the issue certainly would have been tried out."

Mr. Depew used the last incident to enforce an argument in favor of a strong navy and for the present authorization of two new battleships of the dreadnaught type.

Mr. Heyburn expressed the opinion that there should be a continued increase of the navy until the completion of the Panama canal.

The Democrats voting for two battleships were: Clarke of Arkansas, McInery of Louisiana and Taylor. The Republicans voting for one battleship were: Bristow, Burton, Clapp, Crawford, Cummins, Dixon, Dolliver, Hale, La Follette and Page.

SON OF AMOS J. SNELL DIES IN ROOMING HOUSE.

Chicago, May 23.—Albert J. Snell, son of the millionaire, Amos J. Snell, whose murder here in 1888 created a widespread sensation, was found dead in bed in a cheap rooming house here today. He was 50 years of age. He inherited a fortune from his father and is said to have set a fast pace while the money lasted. He drifted steadily downward of late years and for several years he had made a hand to mouth living running errands on the docks.

CONVINCING CURE OF SKIN TORTURE

Slight Red Eruption Grew to be Terrible — Sleepless Nights and Restless Days Made Life a Burden —Was Completely Discouraged.

CUTICURA CURED AFTER 16 YEARS OF SUFFERING

"For sixteen long years I have been suffering with a bad case of skin disease. While a child there broke out a red sore on the legs just in back of my knees, caused by a tight, colored garter. At first it seemed to be a slight affair but gradually it waxed from bad to worse, and at last I saw I had a bad skin disease. I tried many house remedies and also many widely known doctors in different cities but to no satisfactory result. The plague bothered me more in warm weather than in winter and being on my leg joints it made it impossible for me to walk, and I was forced to stay indoors in the warmest weather.

"My hopes of recovery were by this time spent. Sleepless nights and restless days made life an unbearable burden. At last I was advised to try the Cuticura Remedies and I did not need more than a trial to convince me that I was on the road of success this time. I bought two sets of the Cuticura Remedies (Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills) and after these were gone I was a different man entirely. The Cuticura Remedies certainly did a great deal for me, as it changed my whole career from bad to good. I am now the happiest man that there is at least one true cure for skin diseases. Leonard A. Hawtof, 11 Nostrand Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., July 30 and Aug. 8, 1909."

Rest and peace fall upon distracted households when Cuticura enters. All that the fondest of mothers desires for the alleviation of her skin-tortured and disfigured children is to be found in warm baths with Cuticura Soap and gentle anointings with Cuticura Ointment. Guaranteed absolutely pure and may be used from the hour of birth.

Cuticura Soap (25c.), Ointment (50c.), Resolvent (50c.) and Chocolate Coated Pills (25c.), are sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., 137 Columbus Ave., Boston.

HETTY GREEN HAS GOT TO PAY $569

Safe Deposit Company Gets What She Says Is Her First Loss By Jury.

New York, May 24.—"Jurymen always have been good to me; I never have lost a case," remarked Mrs. Hetty Green yesterday as she smilingly expressed her satisfaction with the jury selected to try the suit of a safe deposit company against her for $550.

However true at the time she made it, the statement did not hold good for long, for the woman frequently referred to as the richest in the world, had the experience of losing a case at the hands of that very jury. After a brief trial, the jury brought in a verdict against Mrs. Green for the amount claimed by a safe deposit company—$550 with $19 interest, a total of $569. The company sued for five years' storage of books and records of the estate of her father.

OLD COUNTY SUIT FINALLY ADJUSTED

Relic of North Dakota Territorial Legislation Is Disposed of.

Steele, N. D., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the payment by Kidder county to Burleigh county of $4,633.76, one of the oldest cases in the state has finally been settled. This case has been up in various forms ever since statehood, and was the outgrowth of political dealings in one of the early territorial councils. By one of the deals made in the early days, the strip of land comprising several townships along the western boundary line of Kidder county was included in this county. Later claims were made that this land belonged to Burleigh county, but though the matter was in court and finally in the legislative assembly, nothing definite came till a judgment was secured by Burleigh county against Kidder county.

By this judgment, Kidder county was compelled to pay Burleigh county the taxes collected, etc., and that has just been done, thus bringing the action to a close.

SMALL BEER GLASS A FRAUD.

Nebraska Saloon Keeper Who Uses New Fangled Glasses Fined $10.

Seeley, Neb., May 24.—Judge Wilson of the local court has held that the selling of beer from a short measure is as much of an offense as selling short weight coffee, sugar or any other commodity. The plaintiff was Harry Simpson, who caused the arrest of Ben Monaghan, a saloon keeper.

All over Nebrsaka the recognized capacity of a beer glass is one pint and the price 5 cents. As an innovation, Monaghan got some glasses that were one gill short of a pint, but represented to his customers that owing to their thinness their holding capacity was the same as those formerly used.

Simpson protested but was laughed at. Angry, he obtained a warrant for the arrest of Monaghan, who was taken before Judge Wilson. The court held that selling beer from a short measure was a misdemeanor, the same as it would be to sell a peck of apples from a measure with a false bottom. Monaghan was fined $10. He has resumed the use of the larger glasses.

Lumber Business in Norway.

The Norwegian law requires that when a lumberman cuts down a tree he shall plant one to take its place. The penalty for a violation of this law is a fine for the first offense, and imprisonment for the second. Many people keep up their vim during the summer days by taking regularly at meal time a glass of Golden Grain Belt beer. It steadies the nerves and relieves you of that fatigued feeling. POSTER MEN PLAN BAN ON TIGHTS

Secretary of Association Says Line Will Be Drawn as to Pictures.

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 24.—"The abbreviated skirts and tights must go from the billboards. We'll go further than that—we will not print anything that a reputable newspaper or magazine would reject."

This was the declaration here yesterday of Clarence E. Runey, secretary of the International Poster Printers' Association of the United States and Canada. He made it just before delegates to the fourth annual convention gathered in their first session, and several of them corroborated Mr. Runey's statement of the main purpose of the meeting.

Besides "cleaning up" the show and medical posters, the convention will endeavor to classify the credit of shows and showmen in this country and Canada. The object is to eliminate from the credit lists the "fly-by-night," who frequently leave the printer sighing for the money due him for "three sheets" or "dodgers."

CLOUDS OBSCURE PHENOMENA

Comet and Eclipse of the Moon Are Not Visible in Duluth.

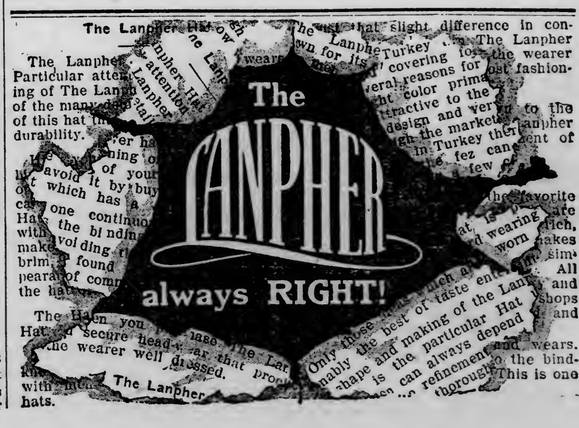
The moon was in eclipse last night and so was Duluth. It was cloudy here and folks were unable to get a glimpse either of Mr. Halley's comet or Luna as she hid her face behind the earth's shadow.

Halley's comet was billed as one of the big attractions last night. Of course the eclipse was a head-liner too, but then one can see an eclipse almost any year while Haley's heavenly visitor ambles along only once in every seventy-five years.

While the moon was in eclipse it had been expected that the rapidly disappearing comet could be viewed to advantage. The show was declared off, however, and rain checks were given.

Negro Mills Are Success.

Durham, N. C., May 24.—Haing started up under most promising conditions, the Durham Textile mills, the only negro hosiery mill in North Carolina, has met with such success that it has doubled its capacity and working quarters, and within a month will have in operation a number of new machines.



WOMAN'S GENTLE NATURE CALLS FOR GENTLE TREATMENT

Delicately formed and gently reared, women will find, in all the seasons of their lives, as maidens, wives or mothers, that the one simple, wholesome remedy which acts gently and pleasantly and naturally, and which may be used with truly beneficial effects, under any conditions, when the system needs a laxative, is—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna. It is well known to be a simple combination of the laxative and carminative principles of plants with pleasant aromatic liquids, which are agreeable and refreshing to the taste and acceptable to the system when its gentle cleansing is desired.

Only those who buy the genuine Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna can hope to get its beneficial effects, and as a guarantee of the excellence of the remedy, the full name of the company—California Fig Syrup Co.—is printed on the front of every package, and without it any preparation offered as Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is fraudulent and should be declined. To those who know the quality of this excellent laxative, the offer of any substitute, when Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is called for, is always resented by a transfer of patronage to some first-class drug establishment, where they do not recommend, nor sell false brands, nor imitation remedies. The genuine article may be bought of all reliable druggists everywhere; one size only. Regular price 50 cents per bottle. Get a bottle today to have in the house when needed.

RECEIVED BY NEW BISHOP

Nearly 2,000 Former Parishioners Shake Bishop Corbett's Hand.

Purse of $5,000 is Presented By Men of Cathedral Parish.

For an hour last night Rt. Rev. Timothy Corbett, the new bishop of Crookston, and Rt. Rev. James McGolrick, bishop of Duluth, stood on the stage of the Cathedral auditorium and shook hands with nearly 2,000 of Bishop Corbett's former parishioners, who passed across the stage to greet him.

The reception followed a program of music and speeches and the presentation to Bishop Corbett by the men of the parish of a purse of $5,000.

There were no tears shed last night. Having unburdened his heart to his people in the Cathedral the day before, Bishop Corbett took the optimistic view last night. His response to the address delivered on behalf of the people of the parish by Francis J. Dacey, sparkled with wit, and as he had moved his congregation to tears Sunday, he moved his audience to laughter last night.

The large hall was well filled by 8 o'clock, when the musical program began. T. J. Monahan and Henry Turrish escorted Bishop Corbett and Bishop McGolrick from the episcopal residence to the auditorium and the audience arose and gave the prelates an ovation as they proceeded down the aisle.

On the stage while the bishops were receiving were: Henry Turrish, T. J. Monahan, F. L. Ryan, R. F. Forrestal, J. W. Sheridan, M. J. Stack, Frank O'Donnell and T. E. Blanche.

Henry Turrish was chairman of the general committee, which arranged for the reception, and M. C. Hollhan was secretary.

Address to Bishop.

Mr. Dacey, in addressing Bishop Corbett on behalf of the people of the parish, said:

"You are not leaving us to go into retirement or to a well-earned rest, but to a more exalted position that has been forced upon you, not only in recognition of your arduous service in the cause of our holy church, but as a more difficult labor still in God's vineyard than any that you have endured in the past and for which only one of your ability and fortitude dare be chosen.

"You will be sadly missed in Duluth for many years to come. Our dearly beloved bishop will miss you as a father who has lost the son upon whom he leaned, the son who had smoothed away for him the troubles of life, who was his constant companion and confidante, whose courage never failed, whose young strength and brave heart had conquered for him in many an otherwise hopeless fight and upon whose shoulders he had hoped to lean as the weakness of advancing years might begin to creep upon him.

"The priests of the diocese, most of whom have been under your direction, will miss the wise guide, the kindly counsellor, the exemplar of all that was best in teaching the dogma, and carrying out the ritual and ceremonial of holy church in the noblest and most splendid manner.

"The men and the women of the parish will miss the voice that never failed to tell them where their duty lay, where dangers lurked, the voice that always in joy and sorrow like the warning voice of old Cato among the Romans pleaded with them to remember the real purpose of life and resist its temptations.

"The poor will miss you. You gave all you had, you deprived yourself of every pleasure and even of many of the necessaries of life that they might be comforted in a material way, but you gave them immeasurably more in courage and hope and strength to face again the hard struggles of life.

"With all our regret at losing you there is mingled the pride that you have been selected from among us; that you have been our pastor and our friend; that you are going to a broader field where you will be perhaps freer to work out in your own way, in your own time and according to the dictates of your own high sense of duty, the many difficult problems of one who has been elevated to your exalted station."

Bishop Corbett's Response.

Bishop Corbett responded briefly, telling of some of the humorous situations arising since the announcement of his election and the forms of congratulation and condolence offered him. He assured the people that he would be only 350 miles away and that he would visit them often.

"I am surprised," said Bishop Corbett, "that after twenty-one years of hard talk, of keeping you down to the grinding stone, of striking evil right between the two eyes—I am surprised that you don't say, 'He's gone and may he never return.' I sincerely thank you for all your expressions of kindness and had I stood at the back door of the vatican and heard my name mentioned for Crookston, I would have said, 'Leave me in Duluth.'

"We learn to love each other in trials and sorrows and as I said before, there is no better way of cementing friendship than by suffering, bleeding and working together in one common cause.

"You have given me credit, but you are all wrong, for when I would get up in the church and preach fearlessly, only for that kind, loving and gentle father, your good bishop, I would be up near the north pole preaching to the Eskimos.

"You have been kind to me. You bore with me. This was my first parish. I was inexperienced, and in young men, zeal often carries them away. I defy anybody to show a parish in the United States that got such strong, severe treatment as you got and stood the test as well.

"Before you ever asw me, a delegation went to the archbishop and asked for a quick, rapid priest. He sent me here and after the second Sunday I appeared in the old church, one old fellow said as he was leaving, 'Well, by gobs, the archbishop gave us what we asked for.'"

Bishop Corbett spoke of his new sea and the difficulties he would encounter there. He told of the condolences offered him by the other new bishops, but he said he didn't let them think they had been given better territories. "I actually made them jealous," he said. "I told them they would see two great developments in this province of St. Paul. One would be a cardinal at St. Paul and the other would be a new archdiocese. Keep your eye on budding Crookston!"

Bishop Corbett assured his hearers that they would meet again. He said he would visit them often and that he would expect to see many of them at Crookston to visit him. He expressed his sorrow at leaving, but said it was made less keen by knowledge that he would not be far away and would be able to visit his old parish from time ti time.

Bishop McGolrick Speaks.

Bishop McGolrick spoke briefly on the work of a bishop. He said the bishop leads a lonely life, on a pedestal in a certain sense and not brought into close contact with the people. He expressed his happiness that, having known Bishop Corbett as a boy and having watched his progress, he had seen him elevated to the episcopal office. He said that Bishop Corbett had been a great help to him in the administration of the affairs of the diocese and he will miss him. But Bishop Corbett will not withdraw entirely from Duluth. "He will visit us often and keep in close touch with the affairs of this parish, which will always hold a place in his affections," said the bishop.

Several selections were rendered by the Crusaders' orchestra and the glee club of the cathedral school.

NO FUNDS FOR TARIFF BOARD

House Drops $250,000 Provision on Point of Order.

Washington, May 24.—In the house yesterday the proposed appropriation of $250,000, as recommended by the president, was stricken from the bill on a point of order made by Mr. Fitzgerald of New York, and decided by Representative Mann of Illinois, who was in the chair. In order to accomplish practically the same purpose in a different way, Chairman Tawney of the appropriations committee offered an amendment appropriating the same amount of money, but leaving out all reference to the tariff board. He hoped in this manner to bring the amendment within the house rules. Mr. Fitzgerald, however, made a point of order against the new provision, and this was pending when the house adjourned.

GOOD BILL HOLDS BOARDS AT BIJOU

New Vaudeville Program Pleases Large Audience of First Nighters.

The dancing of George Devoy and the Dayton sisters last night "brought down the house' at the opening performance of the week's new vaudeville bill at the Bijou. Their dancing is about as fine as has been seen in Duluth for some time. The usual run of "jiggers" gets tiresome, be they ever so clever, but this dancing stunt is odd, and funny besides. Devoy is a natural clown. He doesn't talk. He don't need to. He is tall and gaunt and good natured. The girls do an old-fashioned dance stunt that is a knockout. They can dance in an up-to-date manner, too, and the audience seemed to like their looks.

The program this week, which is good all the way through, opens with moving pictures, which are more than ordinarily entertaining.

The Scott brothers are "celebrated," says the program. They must be, for who could forget their loop the loop act once it has been seen? Braced against one another, head to head, they do a human loop the loop that for originality would be hard to beat. They also juggle one another about as though it were the easiest thing in the world, but it isn't.

Beulah Dallas sings coon songs. She has a good voice and she knows how to use it.

Estelle Wordette and company have a playlet, "A Honeymoon in the Catskills." The piece amuses. Thomas Russell, who assists Miss Wordette in making fun, has a good voice, which he uses during the course of the act, singing "Beautiful Garden of Roses."

James B. Adams is singing "When the Sun Goes Down," this week.

The "Great Albini" does tricks with cards and trunks and other mysterious things. He has a trick of bringing forth a beautiful young woman from different articles that look to be empty. Miss Bessie Allen assists him in the act. Albini puzzled last night's audience.

The bill ends with the usual moving pictures.

HYPNOTIST AT LYCEUM.

Herbert L. Flint Opens Week's Engagement of Mystifying Work.

Herbert L. Flint opened a week's engagement at the Lyceum last night. Mr. Flint is one of the best known hypnotists in the world and the display of his talents last night was highly interesting both to the curious minded and those scientifically inclined.

Some "subjects" are easier than others and with those who yield readily to Mr. Flint's influence he performs some wonderful deeds which combine to make a mystifying and attractive performance. He is assisted by a young woman who is his best "subject."

Prof. Flint will be at the Lyceum the remainder of the week.

Chamberlain's Liniment.

This is a new preparation and a good one. It is especially valuable as a cure for chronic and muscular rheumatism, and for the relief from pain which it affords in acute inflammatory rheumatism. Those who have used it have invariably spoken of it in the highest terms of praise. Lame back, lame shoulder and a stiff neck are due to rheumatism of the muscles, usually brought on by exposure to cold or damp, and are quickly cured by applying this liniment freely and massaging the effected parts. Soreness of the muscles, whether induced by violent exercise or injury, is allayed by this liniment. For sale by all druggists.

Can you beat this? Every lady attending a performance of the Flint Entertainers will be presented with a handsome souvenir spoon free.

ANTI-SHIP SUBSIDY MEN "IGNORANT ASSES."

Washington, May 24.—"An ignorant ass, an unprincipled demagogue or the paid hireling of baleful influence," is the way William P. Hackney of Winfield, Kan., who testified before the house ship subsidy committee, characterizes "every man in these United States who opposes the principle of ship subsidy."

The statement was made in a pamphlet on the rise and fall of the merchant marine which Hackney wrote and circulated and sent to members of congress, newspapers and others "to jerk them loose and set them to thinking," as he expressed it.

COMPARES GEN. LEE AND BENEDICT ARNOLD.

Freeport, Ill., May 24.—Inveighing against the placing of the statue of Gen. Robert E. Lee in the Hall of Fame in Washington, Col. Jasper T. Darling, past commander of Columbia post, G. A. R., Chicago, last night addressed the initial camp fire of the forty-fourth state encampment of the Illinois Grand Army of the Republic. He compared Robert E. Lee with Benedict Arnold and prophesied that acceptance of the statue of the Confederate leader would be a step toward pensioning Confederate soldiers and opening the way to the federal government's assuming the burden of Confederate war bonds.

HOSTLER PROVES HE IS HEIR TO $25,000 ESTATE.

Worcester, Mass., May 24.—Although he had not seen his sister, who supposed him dead, for thirty-eight years, William Venna, a hostler of San Mateo, Cal., was able to prove himself the only heir to her $25,000 estate, and Judge William T. Forbes of the probate court has allowed his claim. The estate was that of Mrs. Jennie S. Miller of Athol, who died on July 2, 1908, leaving no known heirs.

ANGELS TAKE FIRST GAME

Duluth Drops Well-Played Contest By Score of 2 to 0.

Morrow, Marion and Dauss Pitch Great Ball---Festivities Precede Game.

Eau Claire, Wis., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eau Claire celebrated the opening of the season here by defeating the champion White Sox yesterday by the score of 2 to 0. The game was close and exciting all the way through, Morrow, Marion and Dauss all working well in the box.

The occasion of the opening of the 1910 season was made a gala day here. Business was suspended for the afternoon and business men and their employes attended the game in great numbers. It is estimated that there were over 2,000 people at the game.

Headed by the Wisconsin State band and President John A. Elliott of the Minnesota - Wisconsin league, the players and a number of citizens paraded the down-town section of the city. Automobiles were pressed into service and the players and many of the fans rode in autos in the grounds.

John B. Fleming, the first commission plan mayor of Eau Claire and also a former director of the local club, pitched the first ball of the season, also making a neat little speech. Other speakers paid their respects to the opening of the season.

Eau Claire's first run came in the fifth as a result of squeeze play, Benrud coming in on the play. The muff of a thrown ball by Gillis allowed Breyette to score from second in the eighth.

While Morrow pitched great baseball, he was also given support that at times bordered on the sensational. Several of the Sox were robbed of hits by great plays on the part of the Eau Claire infield. A great throw by Carter from right field prevented a fourth score. The work of the visiting team was first-class and the champions made a good impression in their first local game of the present season.

The Boosters' club gave both teams a banquet after the game at the Masonic temple. President Elliott was a guest of the club. Mayor Fleming presided.

DESPISED RED WING DEFEATS HAUGHTY PIRATES.

Winona, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herad.)—Winona was defeated by Red Wing yesterday by the score of 10 to 8. Errors and slow playing resolved the game into a farce. Red Wing sent two pitchers to the mound and Winona used three hurlers during the afternoon.

Both sides hit freely and hits were intermingled with errors, Winona being the worst offender in this regard. The game was slow and uninteresting. The score:

GRUMBLERS LOSE OPENING GAME WITH WAUSAU.

Wausau, Wis., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Superior lost the opener to the Lumberjacks by the score of 4 to 2. Lakoff won the game by a safe drive through the infield in the sixth, sending two runs over the plate. Errors on the part of Clemens counted in the run getting, two fumbles allowing runners to get on, who scored later. The game was well played throughout. The score:

DOCTORS DROP CLOSE GAME TO OUTCASTS.

Rochester, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—La Crosse won the first game of the local series here yesterday by the close score of 3 to 2. Both McNeill and Watson were in good form and kept the hits widely scattered. Errors behind McNeill were costly and resulted in the loss of the game. Watson was steady throughout and received good support. The score:

The Marquette team shut out Ishpeming at the fair grounds in the former city, Saturday. Score 3 to 0.

SCRATCHES NUMEROUS AT CHURCHILL DOWNS.

Louisville, Ky., May 24.—Although the track was fair at the Downs yesterday afternoon, scratches were numerous and several events were robbed of contenders which appeared to have chances of winning.

The feature of the card was the running of the handicap in the fourth at six furlongs, in which Dr. Waldo Briggs was returned the winner in front of Early Tide, the latter appearing to be pinched off near the wire, but the claim of foul being denied by the judges. Eye White, which had been used up in the pace, was third.

BILLY MADDEN AND AL BENEDICT ARRESTED.

New York, May 24.—Billy Madden, the well-known handler of pugilists, and Al Benedict, a middleweight fighter, whom he manages, were arrested yesterday in Brooklyn on bench warrants charging them with aiding and abetting a prize fight. The warrant grew out of the fight May 2, when Benedict got a bad beating from Jack (Twin) Sullivan at the Marathon Athletic club. Both Madden and Benedict were released on $500 bail.

MAKING HARD FIGHT FOR PENNANT IN THE DULUTH-SUPERIOR LEAGUE

THE BINGHAM TEAM OF SUPERIOR.

AROUND THE CIRCUIT

It is continuance of the rather hard luck trail of the Sox that "Slats" Morrow should be in such good form for the game against the O'Brienites. Until his last two games the tall and ungainly youth has been wild and erratic. However, he has struck his stride for the time being at least, and when the tall sycamore is right there are few pitchers in this league who have anything better on the horsehide.

He has a good fast ball and curves that make the rhythmic twists of a Salome dancer look like the shortest distance between two given points.

Marlon really worked on the hill for the first time the present season. The big fellow's arm has not been right, and it is very doubtful if it is right at the present time. Down St. Louis way they tried to get the rube to pitch in the manner of Christy Mathewson, who uses the overhand delivery. Don Autumn protested, but Big Chief Brennahan insisted. The result has been a very sore arm for the tall boy. O'Brien is hoping that Marion's arm will quickly round to, as we will need Donald in to upward climb to the percentage top.

In a letter from Darby O'Brien, he informs the sporting editor of The Herald that as yet Marion and Dauss are not in shape, and that the bulk of the work has fallen on the shoulders of Klingebiel. With decent support Klingebiel would have won the majority of his games, at that.

O'Brien is by no means without hope or in the least discouraged. He stated that he would have his team up and fighting with the leaders in a very short time. With Marion, Dauss and Cummings working right, Duluth will be a very hard team to defeat.

They are naturally much elated over the showing Superior has made on the road. The time to shout and make the dance of the Merry Widow look like a Virginia reel on a rough and uneven pine porch, is at hand, dear, for the time may come when the capricious capers will be danced to a funeral dirge. However, some one said that repentence is physical reaction. Wait until the Grumblers begin to slip, just a wee bit, and we will have the repentence all right, all right.

Has anybody seen Dunbar? The twirler for the Wausau outfit is pitching just about as healthy ball as any dweller in the league. If Lakeoff gets his old form back and Dunbar keeps up his present stride, Carl Bond will have the Gold Dust Twins, when it comes to cleaning the opposition. Dunbar gave La Crosse such an excellent scrubbing the other day, that the scribes down that way are wondering until the present time how he accomplished the trick with such neatness and dispatch.

So far the attendance in the Minny league has been far ahead of that of last season. There is more enthusiasm in all of the down state towns. Superior is sure to give its team a right royal welcome upon the return from the trip. Even though the team has not been doing so well on the trip, the indications here are that the Duluth fans will turn out in a great crowd Thursday and give the team the encouragement that will help a lot at the present time.

Speaking from the territory of quiet, a certain Superior scribe intimates that the press workers upon this side of the bay will let loose some knocks in the near future. There is no need for that. A monopoly upon knocking has been secured by the Grumbleville wiseacre, and he is perfectly capable of doing enough hammer wielding for the entire Head of the Lakes region.

Wausau's playing the present season has been a surprise to the sharps around the circuit. It was generally predicted and believed that the team would be stronger than the aggregation of last season, but it was not thought that the team would make the early season showing that it has to date. The good playing may not last; but so far the form shown by the Lumberjacks entitled that team to serious consideration with the rest of the teams of the league in the pennant race.

Some of the old umpire wrangling has already started. Arundel has "got in bad" at La Crosse and as the result of a dispute with First Baseman Ward, a riot nearly ensued. John Elliott knows as well as any one else, perhaps better, that the success and permanency of the Minny league depends upoh enforcing discipline. Therefore he should not stand for any of the muckerism that has shown in faint traces thus early in the season. The work of Ward and O'Dea would be crushed out with the heavy hand of discipline, for it must be remembered that many fans were driven from the park last season because of the wrangle that in some instances became a part of the matinee.

The preesnt series is the first glimpse that Wausau has had of Minny league ball. The team has returned from the road and opened the series with Superior. La Crosse has hit the road and opened a series with Rochester. The Winona papers are predicting that their team will jump into the lead, now that they have opened a series with Red Wing and Rochester and La Crosse are fighting a hard series. The predictions of the Winona dopesters went wrong right at the start, for yesterday despised Red Wing threw the hooks of defeat in the haughty Pirates. Wausau began its home series well, taking the first from Superior.

The fun will start the present week when the teams of the other end of the circuit take to the road. Rochester will be yanked away from the fireside and will open the season here Thursday, followed by Red Wing, Winona and La Crosse, after which the Sox jump to Wausau and then play a series with Superior at Superior. Then the Grumblers come over here for the first clash on the local grounds.

• • •

A better idea of the true strength of the various teams of the league will be gained after the visit here of the teams that are at the present cutting out the running in the league.

• • •

A. W. Kuehnow has decided to give Lyle Pettijohn, captain of the university baseball team, a trial at first after the close of college. The youngster has made a great record as a sticker on the college team. Kuehnow and O'Brien are looking for stickers, and if the young college man lives up to his reputation here he will prove a valuable addition to the team.

As yet Slattery, the man tagged for first base, has failed to put in an appearance. Kuehnow was talking yesterday over the long distance with Darby, who stated that he expected to have the team going fine just as soon as Dauss and Marlon rounded to.

MAY RESORT TO COURTS

Church Federation Is Determined to Stop Jeffries-Johnson Fight.

San Francisco, Cal., May 24.—A committee representing the San Francisco Church federation and the Pastor's union will attend the meeting today of the police committee of the board of supervisors at which action is expected to be taken on Promoters Rickard and Gleason's petition to hold the Jeffries-Johnson fight here July 4. The churchmen say they will make a determined effort to have the application turned down.

This step in the crusade being waged by the anti-fight forces was determined upon last night at a conference in the Hamilton Square Baptist church. J. E. White, attorney for the church federation, submitted a report or the investigation he has made concerning the conditions which have made it possible for the promoters to arrange for the contest. He suggested in the event of the crusade failing to find support from the proper authorities that legal measures be taken to thwart the staging of the fight in this city.

Road Work Great Help.

Jack Johnson is greatly pleased by the weight reducing results of his daily road work and he says he intends to stick to that form of exercise.

The negro champion, who has taken much interest in the comet, last night entertained a party of star gazers at his training quarters, but was disappointed by the heavy fog that veiled the sky.

Taking Things Easy.

Ben Lomond, Cal., May 24.—Jim Jeffries gave it out yesterday that he intended to take things easy this week. According to his announcement only the lightest kind of exercise will be indulged in. Road work accompanied by sprinting will be kept up regularly, but it is thought likely that the big fighter will have little to do with the gloves until Jim Corbett arrives next week.

The report that Corbett will not have his quarters at the camp here is denied by Jeffries' training companions. It is said that accommodations are now being prepared for "Pompadour Jim" and that there was no likelihood of a friction between Corbett and any other member of the camp.

News from the city that Jack Johnson may be a spectator at Jeffries' boxing tournament in San Francisco next Friday night has stirred considerable interest here but the camp is not inclined to take Johnson's reported intention seriously. All, however, are anxious for the negro to be on hand. They assert that it would have a discouraging effect on Johnson for him to see how fast the former champion is in his work.

Gotch to Join Camp.

Ben Lomond, Cal., May 24.—Frank Gotch, champion wrestler of the world will join the Jeffries staff of trainers not later than June 5, according to telegraphic advices received from the wrestler yesterday.

Gotch wired he would start West immediately after his match with Zbyszko and this should land him at Ben Lomond not later than June 5. He will be the last of the additions to the Jeffries training camp.

DARBY IS CHEERFUL

Irish Orator Says Team Will Be With Leaders Soon.

Pitchers Out of Condition and Team Weak at Short and First.

Darby O'Brien drops a line from Red Wing just before the team left there for Eau Claire, stating that the team is weak at shortstop and first base and that as soon as these weak places in the first defense are plugged up the team will be strong.

Slattery has failed to put in an appearance with the club as yet. There was a misunderstanding over the transportation supposed to be sent the player and it may be that he has not received it as yet. His presence is needed on the team, for as yet Gillis has failed to show the goods.

Darby states that Marlon and Dauss are in bad shape and also adds that too much work has been thrown on the shoulders of Thorsen and Klingebiel, especially at this time of the year.

The leader of the Sox ruefully adds that he should have won every game but the 14 to 0 contest, but for errors on the part of the men he has been compelled to experiment with on the trip.

The Irish Orator brings his letter to a cheery close, however, by stating that Duluth will have a winning club, with two men he is trying to get at the present time.

At the present time O'Brien is in sore straits for a shortstop. None of the players tried so far have proved anywhere up to the Minny league standard. McCrone is also sorely missed at first. If the deal is closed for Lyle Pettijohn and the youngster proves as good as it is generally believed he is, his presence on the team will at least plug up the vacancy at first and will add hitting strength to the team.

Woods has played well in the few games he had been with the Sox. Sweeney is going well at third and the outfield, with the exception of right field, where there may be a change, is playing good baseball. Neelon is covering all sorts of ground and Taylor is meeting the ball squarely.

Duluth will be up with the leaders, there is little doubt. Aside from the wobbly playing of some of the experiments, the team has played good baseball on the trip. The game yesterday, for instance, was a hard one to lose, one that the Sox played well to win.

Both Kuehnow and O'Brien will do everything in their power to strengthen the team at any cost and there is every confidence that the good playing of the team in the near future will make the fans forget the early season's poor start.

Cummings will probably be the selection for the opening game Thursday. The local boy is reported to be in very good condition and should be ready to go in and pitch winning ball. Dauss is rounding to, so that he can take his regular turn in the box. With Dauss and Cummings in shape, Duluth will have four pitchers to work regularly, not counting on Marlon.

The fans throughout the city are preparing to give the team the right kind of a welcome Thursday afternoon.

AS SEEN FROM THE SIDE LINES

(BY BRUCE.)

Whose Fault, Really?

Various well-known writers upon sport throughout the country are speculating upon the future of the fight game. Many of these writers are prophesying that the Jeffries-Johnson fight, if it comes off, will be the last big heavyweight fight in the United States.

Some of these writers are attributing the death of the game to the agitation of the reformers. They believe the protests of ministers, various reform and civic societies, and from citizens in general, will result in the future prohibition of big world's champion finish fights.

Looking over the situation carefully, it would seem that there is another angle to the storm of protest that has been raised against the game—a condition of corruption that lies within the fight game itself, and not from without.

Stop and think over the big fights of comparatively recent date, and recall how many of them have left a suspicion of fake in the minds of the spectators. Some of the most enthusiastic followers of the sport have been disgusted, and have even joined the anvil chorus—simply because they have ceased to believe in the honesty of the sport.

We have only to turn to the Papke-Thomas fight. On the Pacific coast they are crying loudly and persistently that the fight was a frame, a frame of the most bungling and clumsy devising.

Looking beneath the surface of the game, it will almost invariably be found that the gamblers, the sure-thing men, are at the bottom of the corruption and stigma that has attached itself to the fight business.

It is said that the California bookmakers had a pile of golden money wagered on the chances of Thomas to remain until the fifteenth round. Not at all sure that the veteran native son could perform this somewhat difficult feat, it is openly charged that the gamblers got to Papke and hired that pride of Kewanee, Ill., to stall until they had won their money.

After the expiration of the fifteenth round Papke went in and won as he pleased, it is charged in San Francisco. It is charged that Papke did a very amateurish piece of work—so bungling, in fact, that the spectators yelled in derision at various stages of the fight.

Then we have only to think of the evident frame in the Ketchel-Langford fight. That fight disgusted the fight patrons of Philadelphia, and reports from that city state that they do not care much whether the game continues or not.

Out on the coast, too, they are getting tired of the bunco game the fighters and managers have been handing out. They have charged that the Moran-McCarthy fight—the fight in which the little Irishman met his death—was a fixed deal, one in which McCarthy was permitted to stay a certain number of rounds.

Going further back, it is generally believed that grinning Jack Johnson permitted Stanley Ketchell to stay twelve rounds. One time, one San Francisco sporting editor charges, Johnson hit Ketchel harder than he intended and was obliged to pick Ketchel bodily off the floor of the ring, much as an anxious mother might snatch her fallen baby, and hold the middleweight champion close to his black breast, while Steve recuperated.

With suspicions filling the very atmosphere of the prize ring, does it seem to you strange that there should be a reaction against the game, that is really not a bad game when conducted on the square?

Does it really seem strange that mayors and boards of police commissioners of various cities have declared against the fight game?

Does it seem remarkably out of the ordinary that there should be a growing disgust with the game, as it is conducted at the present time?

Going back over the history of athletics, it is noted that the same spirit of reform has made itself manifest in various sports of the day.

Most striking stands the game of football—not so much in the reformation of the rules as the ethical spirit of the game.

There was the dear, old golden age of football, when any husky young man, be he from the farm or the foundry, was welcomed into the colleges of the country, and hugged close to the bosom of the fount of learning just so long as he displayed a knowledge of how to tear off consistent five-yard gains.

Then came the reaction. Now if a player keeps up in his studies, he is considered a cry remarkable young man—that is, if he is a regular member of the football team. The spirit of refor i sa broad and comprehensive one one that is meddling in everything, including prize fights and crap games—not to mention the tariff.

Therefore, are the ministers entirely to blame?. They are emphatically not.

Avaricious managers and sure thing men are really the creatures who are killing the game. They have insufficient brains, as a rule, to look further ahead than tomorrow. They are thinking of the box office statement; beyond that their vision fails to extend.

How to swell the funds of the house and how to make some dirty money on the side, are often the only aims of the men mixed in sports. They have descended to cheap and tawdry methods, and now that the pendulum of reform has swung around to the fighting game, these men are willing to believe that it is the ministers that are really and wholly responsible for the agitation that has cropped up against the game.

It has been the exposing of the fakes in the newspapers that has soured and disgusted the public. To place the statement, "He was a fellow who fought on the level," over the grave of a departed knight of the knuckles is to pay that man a most unusual respect. There are few in the game today who have earned the right to have that epitaph.

And yet there are some people who are so utterly lacking in imagination and perception that they fail to understand why there is a wholesome hue and cry against the game.

Larry to the Fore.

You admirers of Ty Cobb and John Henus Wagner, have you noticed the way Napoleon Lajoie is sweetly swatting the little leather ball that is manufactured in various large centers of this country?

The tall and speedy Frenchman is hitting them safe three and four times a game. The lead of managing such an ornery team as the Naps, having been removed from his bread, not to mention gracefully sloping shoulders, Lajoie is coming back as one of the greatest hitters of the game.

If the tall man can maintain anything approaching his present gait, he will lead the American league batters and will receive that nice automobile as a reward.

FIGHTERS TOO ROUGH AND BOUT IS STOPPED.

Glenns Falls, N. Y., May 24.—The scheduled ten-round bout between Bill Hurley and Dixie Kid was stopped last night by the police in the eighth round because of the rough tactics indulged in by both.

During mix-ups both men were hurled among the spectators four different times and when the end came only two ring posts were standing.

NEW PUBLIC AFFAIRS COMMITTEE ORGANIZED

W. A. McGonagle Is Chosen Chairman to Succeed T. W. Hugo.

New Members Take Up the City's Work With Enthusiasm.

At the annual meeting of the public affairs committee held at the Commercial club last evening W. A. McGonagle was chosen chairman by acclamation. T. W. Hugo, who has been chairman of this committee since its organization, is now serving on the advisory committee, having been removed from the position at his own request.

Julius H. Barnes is vice chairman, E. P. Towne is treasurer and H. V. Eva is secretary.

The meeting was largely attended and was a most enthusiastic gathering. Several members of the committee were called on for short talks and a number of them responded.

They spoke of what had been done and what there was still to do. They touched upon Duluth's greatness, present and future. They gave their ideas on almost every subject that is of material interest to every loyal Duluthian.

Dock Property Needed.

The members of the committee and others present were not afraid to applaud and the remarks of the several speakers, though short, were enthusiastically received.

Mayor Cullum told of how the city stood in need of dock property and remarked that if the city was not handicapped in a great number of ways it would now be possible to secure enough dockage to make the future safe.

"There is too much red tape connected with our city," said the mayor "Duluth needs dock property. Any man with large real estate interests would be insuring his interests to invest in dock property—property that would later be taken off his hands by the city. One man told me that he would turn over $10,000 for such a project if I would guarantee that the city would take it off his hands through a bolding company, with interest for the time that it was held. With the co-operation of this committee the project should be carried through. This committee can use me in almost any way for the good of the city. I am here to be used and I like to think that my efforts help. The city administration stands for the good of the city and to do what the city wants done. We have much big work to do and we must do it well and in time. We have the nerve to do all these things that should be done and will help in every way possible if you have the nerve to back me up." The mayors' remarks were heartily received.

Farming Not Forgotten.

Northern Minnesota farming was not forgotten. Several speakers touched on this subject. The market garden idea was spoken of enthusiastically. The Crookston meeting was talked up and Chairman McGonagle urged that there be a large attendance from Duluth. The need of the right spirit was urged—the spirit that the delegates to the Bemidji convention carried. Not that of asking anything for Duluth, but the spirit of working for the good of all Northern Minnesota. "When the delegates from Duluth went to Bemidji," said one speaker, "everybody wanted to know what these follows from Duluth were after. They must be after something or they never would have come was the popular belief. When the Duluth men did not ask for anything and showed their willingness to support anything that was for the general good of Northern Minnesota, the outsiders got a different idea of the attitude of the Duluth men."

The value of this spirit was urged. It is believed that the Crookston meeting will be the largest and best of its kind that has ever been held in this part of the state.

The City Charter.

The reconstruction of the city charter was discussed. It was agreed that the charter must be made over to insure the proper growth of the city. The importance of binding the settlers to Duluth and the plans for making the city attractive were the subject of other stirring talks.

Watson S. Moore told the assembled committee that the city council is with them in every move for a bigger, better, more glorious Duluth. He said that the situation in Duluth is now most peculiar. He stated that $500,000 worth of improvements are being held up in spite of the fact that citizens are ready, willing and even anxious to pay their assessments in advance. This condition, he said, was because the city had outgrown its charter.

C. P. Craig talked of the great wealth poured into St. Paul and Minneapolis annually as a result of the great farming activity in the southern and western countries. He said that Northern Minnesota was more productive acre for acre than the country surrounding the Twin Cities. He said that when the farming country here finally gets settled up and the farmers flood the local market with their produce, Duluth will have an advantage over either of the older Minnesota cities.

Henry Nolte talked of free dockage at Duluth and its importance; C. T. Fitzsimmons told how anxious Michigan street was to handle local produce; John J. Williams told how important was the settlement and cultivation of the land immediately about Duluth; David Williams said that although a newcomer he was willing to use either a pick or a shovel and dig in with the rest of the boosters; and C. S. Mitchell again advocated his pet idea of having a man who would teach the farmers how to farm this northern land and to work with them in the solving of their problems.

Others gave brief talks. Everybody had something to say, and said it briefly and to the point and he meeting was as interesting as it was enthusiastic.

C. A. Luster of the Commercial club, presided at the meeting. He called attention to the formation of an advisory board both for the club and the public affairs committee.

Mr. McGonagle, who was elected chairman, pledged himself to his best efforts to promote the welfare of the committee, the club, and Duluth.

Sub-committees will be announced in short time.

WANT WOMEN TO TALK IN CHURCH

Some Southern Presbyterian Delegates Champion Cause of the Sex.

Lewisburg, W. Va., May 24.—At first the general assembly of the Southern Presbyterian church was inclined to give scant consideration to the overture of the Lafayette church of New Orleans for information as to whether the church will maintain its position in opposition to women's addressing gatherings in which both men and women were assembled. Now it has become a serious question.

The advocates of women claim the Presbyterians are regarded as being behind the times. They are not inclined to be belligerent, however.

The special committee of the general assembly of the Southern Presbyterian church today reached a decision adverse to the Sinnott complaint against the Northern Alabama Presbytery for approving the prohibition amendment advocated in the political campaign.

BROWNE DISCARDS HIS DIAMOND PIN

Alleged Briber of Illinois Legislators Shuns Prominence in Court.

Chicago, May 24.—The motion entered several days ago to quash the bribery indictment against State Representative Lee O'Neil Browne, was vacated by the defense when it came up for argument today and a new motion immediately entered.

Browne, leader of the Democratic minority at Springfield, and alleged to have distributed money in $1,000 lots to secure the election of William Lorimer to the United States senate, was noticed as having discarded the sparkling diamond pin which usually lends distinction to his cravat, in favor of an amethyst. At first, instead of sitting with his counsel, he sought seclusion behind the bar enclosure, where he was invisible to the body of spectators. Later, upon the appearance of Judge McSurely, he joined the lawyers. The court room was crowded.

CHICAGO FOREMAN IS DEAD OF HIS WOUNDS.

Chicago, May 24.—John Roach, foreman of the repair shop of the board of education, died today as the result of a bullet wound inflicted by Joseph La Blanc in a quarrel last Friday. After shooting Roach, La Blanc shot himself; and William Roach, brother of the foreman, fired two more shots into his body.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

Albert Kaiser of Bagley, who is a candidate for the Republican nomination for state treasurer, and the man who, it is believed, will prove the most formidable opponent of Walter J. Smith —simply because of geographical considerations—is being made the object of spirited attacks in his own bailiwick, the Ninth congressional district. Bagley is the county seat of Clearwater county, which adjoins Beltrami county, of which Bemidji is the seat. Mr. Kaiser owns or controls the Bemidji Pioneer.

Al Kaiser Has Some Troubles

The Beltrami county convention is to be held at Bemidji June 17, and it is alleged that an attempt will be made to railroad a delegation through that Kaiser can use as trading stock in the state convention, some even going so far as to say that the county has been promised him neatly done up for vest pocket transportation. Vigorous efforts are being made to arouse the people of the county to an appreciation of the situation as it is said to exist, and the prospect seems to be that Mr. Kaiser will have trouble to enlist the support of the county in his behalf.

Another feature of the Kaiser campaign relates to the Crookston convention of the Northern Minnesota Development association. It is said that his strongest supporters are planning to make that meeting serve the purpose of advancing his cause. Men who are heart and soul bound up in the work of this association are giving expression to their impatience with any attempt to make the gathering a convenience for politically ambitious persons, and the Roseau Region seems to speak for that element when it says:

"There will be men at that meeting whose sole purpose for identifying themselves with the association is to promote their own personal ambition and if they do not possess enough sense to suppress their personal interests, the convention, in order to do the work properly that it has been called to perform, will have to rebuke them. We do not believe that Kaiser is a party to this intention, but he is in the hands of unscrupulous friends, whom he will have to warn lest their activity in his behalf revert disastrously on his candidacy."

The Akeley Herald-Tribune is grooming a dark horse for the nomination for treasurer in the person of "Billy" Taber of Hubbard county. The Park Rapids Clipper seconds the motion. Hubbard county is in the northern part of the Sixth district. The suggestion of Taber for the nomination, the Herald-Tribune says, is justified by the fact that Hubbard county was loyal to Dunn, Cole and Jacobson, and by reason of these errors is entitled to some consolation. Strangely enough, Mr. Taber, like all the other candidates for treasurer, is a banker.

The Warren Register suggests that the Republican state convention can save itself from the infliction of a set speech by the temporary chairman if it will select that dignitary itself instead of having him picked and primed in advance.

Several days ago there appeared in this column a few paragraphs about the selection of a Democratic candidate for governor of the very great and good state of Minnesota. It was suggested that the candidate will be nominated after and not before the state convention is called to order. That holds, of course, but it is probable that he will be selected before that time. As the Hallock Enterprise remarks: "John Lind, and nothing less, goes with the Democrats who have the best interests of the party at heart as a whole in the state. With Hammond running to succeed himself in congress and John Lind for governor, Democracy has a couple of sure winners." The Red Lake Falls Gazette comes along with this: "The Little Falls Herald is correct in prophesying that when county after county shows up in the Democratic state convention instructed for Lind for governor, what the leaders think or do will be immaterial."

John Lind and the Governorship.

"The Democrats of the state of Minnesota and we believe many thousands of Republicans also, want John Lind for governor. They want him because they knew him to be able, patriotic and honest. He was a wise and fearless governor, and would be again. He is probably the one man in Minnesota who is of the stature of a statesman. Few will deny that Minnesota deserves her best as chief magistrate, and that John Lind is the man.

"And yet, with this universal demand, with the general agreement that this gifted son of the North Star state should be nominated as the Democratic standard bearer, there is fear in some quarters that it is not to be, John Lind has served his state well, has made sacrifices for her, and yet we believe that he would not fail to respond to the cry that comes from the hearts of the people. Why should there be uncertainty at all?

"Certain reports are in circulation, we hope without foundation, that some Democratic leaders would rather have some one else for governor than John Lind. Of course, if this is true, they would not openly dare to defy the wish of the people, but there are many ways in which skillful and astute politicians may labor to disregard the people's will and escape the charge. Rumors of many kinds are put in circulation. We hear that Lind will accept the nomination then that he won't; we learn that he would make an admirable president of the university (which is true), etc., anything to create a doubt as to whether Lind will really accede to the popular will. The men who it is claimed are behind these moves are not novices in politics, and we do not question their honesty, although the "interests" could not ask for a better thing than to keep John Lind out of the governor's chair.

"There are several men in the Democratic ranks, indeed many, who would make splendid governors, and yet, under the circumstances of the present, none approach John Lind in availability or in prospects of success.

"And then, any man who achieves the nomination through the denial of the people's desire, will enter the race with a handicap that would defeat an archangel.

"There isn't need of Democrats writing to John Lind and asking him to be a candidate. He must know what the feelings of the people are. But there is need of seeing that county conventions instruct their delegates for John Lind, no matter what rumors may be circulated, or what leaders, real or alleged, may think or do."

The McIntosh Times naively remarks: "As far as we are able to judge from rumors, reports and newspapers, Eberhart seems to be leading in the race for the Republican nomination for governor!"

* * *

S. Y. Gordon, candidate for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor, publishes in his paper, the Browns Valley Inter-Lake Tribune, an editorial on Minnesota's state land policy that seems to hit the nail on the head with commendable force. Discussing the problem of getting settlers onto the unoccupied northern lands, Mr. Gordon refers to Judge Stanton's recent Koochiching address, and says that if the state expects to have these vacant lands settled by bona fide farmers, it must adopt a more liberal policy. He says:

On Settling The Northern Lands.

"The state should be willing to do its fair share of building roads, drainage of lowlands and making public improvements, instead of depending entirely on the poor homesteaders to do it all and the state profit thereby. Judge Stanton in his address said that one suggestion that contained much merit is to place large quantities of state swamp lands upon the market at frequent intervals, to be sold to actual bona fide settlers only, and to be so generous with the timber contained thereon as to amount to an inducement for its purchase and settlement.

"This plan could be adopted as to both school and swamp lands without the necessity of a Constitutional amendment. This, together with a liberal state policy to aid in the construction of roads, would no doubt go a long way towards solving the problem of development and settlement in Northern Minnesota, and not only the people living in the sparsely settled counties would obtain relief and the benefit they are entitled to as citizens of this great and rich state, but the state itself would in the end reap a greater benefit and profit from the sale of its remaining lands which would be made valuable by improvements and the influx of settlers.

"This is certainly a question worthy of the thoughtful and earnest consideration of the people of the entire state. It's plainly evident that Northern Minnesota is not being settled up and developed under the present policy nor is there any reason to believe that it will be if the policy is maintained. To find a remedy and apply it is the duty of the people of the state working through the legislature and we believe it can be done without the state making any sacrifice or impairing in any manner the future of its school fund, and in a way that prove of greater benefit to the state and all concerned than under the policy now pursued."

The St. Paul Dispatch says:

"Walter J. Smith of Eveleth, who wants the state treasurership, made a trip through the Second district last week.

"The Second is in the enviable position of having no candidate for the job Mr. Smith seeks. Therefore it is the battlefield, and each of the half dozen men after the nomination declares he has it won.

"Mr. Smith doesn't permit bodily weariness to lay its depressing hand on his spiritual exuberance. As a result his weeks of campaigning are spreading the lines of his smile, and he is the impersonation of optimism. 'It's too early to boast,' he said yesterday, 'and I'm satisfied. I have a chance. People are treating me right. In the southwestern corner of the state they welcome me with open arms. I don't ask more than that.'"

FLICKERTAIL POLITICS

With John Burke's nomination petition being widely circulated and county organizations being perfected throughout the state the Democrats of North Dakota are now in the game for keeps. Gov. Walsh, Pierce, Botineau, Towner, Williams, Mountrailli, Richland, Stark and a number of other counties the organizations have been brought up to date and made effective campaign forces. James P. Lamb of Michigan will act as assistant chairman of the state committee.

When Governor Burke's nomination petition appeared here also came out the petitions of Frank C. Lish of Dickinson for lieutenant governor and Miss Bessie M. Kane of Minot for superintendent of public instruction. Mr. Lish takes the place of John Bruegger of Williston on the ticket as tentatively proposed last month. At that time no one was selected to run for superintendent.

The Reporter, published at Minot, where Gov. C. A. Johnson lives, says that if Johnson is nominated for governor by the Republicans, Burke will beat him by 20,000. The Reporter supported Johnson when he was the nominee two years ago, but has repented and now declares that its townsman is a weak sister.

With Alex McKenzie in the saddle that tops the elephant, and with Forbes and Chamberlain acting as manager-sendents, the Republicans are making strenuous efforts to woo and win back the insurgent vote, but apparently with no success. It is said that agents of the Republican boss who were sent out through the state to size things up, have brought back word to Aleck that insurgents are thicker than ever, and that Democrats are making their presence felt in districts where heretofore they have been practically unknown.

A feature of the situation relative to the senatorial campaign is presented in the activities in the state of two employes of the federal government who, it is claimed, should be at the national capital. They are not working in the interest of Marshal and Gronna. Maj. Hamilton, assistant sergeant-at-arms of the senate, and Mr. Van Horn, who is another federal employe whose work is at Washington, have opened headquarters for Senator McCumber at Fargo. This use of government employes for the furtherance of personal political ambition is being made the subject of caustic comment throughout the state. Another graduate of the University of Minnesota is forging to the front in Flickertail political affairs. He is George H. Stone of Mott, Hettinger county, stalwart candidate for commissioner of insurance. He is 27 years old and holds office as county attorney. He is one of the few aspirants for state office from the west part of the state and, not being very closely identified with the reactionary wing of the party, may make a strong showing in the primaries.

John Flittie, who was North Dakota's first secretary of state and has been a consistent follower of the old-line leaders, has announced that he is a candidate for state auditor.

MISSOURI VALLEY MEN PROTEST RATES.

Omaha, Neb., May 24.—A meeting of the Missouri valley shippers, as individuals, was held here today to protest against the proposed advance of freight rates, as scheduled by the railroads, to the interstate commerce commission, affecting commodities to Missouri river points. Several Missouri river cities were represented at the meeting, which was open to the public. All the railroads with Eastern connections were represented.

Estrada Forced to Defensive.

Washington, May 24.—A brief telegram has been received at the state department from Consul Moffatt at Bluefields, dated yesterday evening, in which he states that Gen. Lala's forces were then attacking the Estrada army entrenched back of the city.

POSTCARDS FOR SALE AT ALL NEWSTANDS.

WANTS OFFICE FOR FIFTY-THIRD YEAR.

Durham, N. C., May 24.—After having served in office continuously for fifty-two years, John Laws of Orange county, at the age of 85, again is in the field as a candidate for re-election for register of deeds. He is declared to be the oldest office holder in point of service in the United States, and during his long term has weathered many a political upheaval. It is not doubted that he will come out victorious at this, his latest battle at the polls.

The veteran office holder saw service in the Mexican war, was a friend of Andrew Johnson and knew President Polk personally. Except that Laws does not drink water straight, but mixes it with milk, lemon juice and other ingredients of soft beverages, he is without eccentricities.

Whooping Cough.

This is a more dangerous disease than is generally presumed. It will be a surprise to many to learn that more deaths result from it than from scarlet fever. Pneumonia often results from it. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been used in many epidemics of whooping cough, and always with the best results. Delbert McKeig of Harlan, Iowa, says of it: "My boy took whooping cough when 9 months old. He had it in the winter. I got a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy which proved good. I cannot recommend it too highly." For sale by all druggists.

PINCHOT COMING JUNE 11.

May Deliver Address in St. Paul on That Date.

St. Paul, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—A telegram was received today by Hugh T. Halbert, president of the Roosevelt club, from Thomas R. Shipp in Washington stating that Gifford Pinchot was expected to return to Washington from Europe next week and that Mr. Pinchot would probably deliver his long-deferred address to the Roosevelt club June 11 if that date was acceptable.

POPE RECEIVES PETER'S PENCE FROM GREEN BAY.

Rome, May 24.—The pope today received in private audience the Rt. Rev. Joseph J. Fox, bishop of Green Bay, Wis., who was accompanied by Rev. B. Traudt, chancellor and secretary of the diocese of Milwaukee. Bishop Fox presented the report of his diocese together with the Peter's pence, the pope expressing his thanks and congratulations at the work of the bishop and clergy. The pointiff inquired of Chancellor Traudt regarding the Most Rev. Sebastian G. Messmer, archbishop of Milwaukee.

No Work on Demonstration Farm.

East Grand Forks, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—No work will be done on the demonstration farm recently purchased near this city this year, it having been decided to allow a year to lapse before it would be taken up in regular form. It was so late in the season before the plans could be mapped out that it has been deemed advisable now to attempt the work this year.

Woman Minister Weds.

Deering, N. D., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Deering's woman pastor, Miss S. Abbie Chapin, has fallen a victim of cupid's darts and was united at Minot in marriage to James G. Guyton, a business man of this place.

Mrs Guyton has been pastor of the Congregational church in Deering for some time past, and it is understood that she will continue to act in that capacity.

SAMARITANS SELECT DELEGATE TO DULUTH.

Calumet, Mich., May 24.—The Michigan state convention of the grand lodge of the order of Good Samaritans, of which John Christie of Duluth is imperial good samaritan, and H. G. Henderson of Duluth is deputy imperial good samaritan, met in Laurium and named W. G. Mitchell of Hancock as the state delegate to the imperial convention to be held at Duluth on June 7.

Verdict Against Phone Company.

Ada, Minn., May 24.—After having been out all night, the jury in the case of Hans Holden vs. Gary Telephono company, brought in a verdict of $500 for Holden. Holden was injured two years ago while doing some repair work on the defective line, a pole breaking and throwing Holden to the ground, a distance of several feet.

"UNLOADED" GUN GOES OFF, KILLING ANOTHER BOY.

Red Wing, Minn., May 24.—Robert Nelson, 13 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Nelson, was shot and instantly killed by Walter Nelson aged 15 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nelson, at the Olin farm in Burnside, Sunday. In a playful manner and not knowing the gun was loaded, the Nelson boy pointed the weapon at his boy companion and pulled the trigger. A charge of shot tore away the breast above the heart and the little fellow fell dead.

Peru Accepts Mediation.

Washington, May 24.—The government of Peru has formally accepted without reserve the mediation of the United States, Brazil and Argentina in the boundary dispute between Peru and Ecuador.

WEATHER FORECAST: For Duluth, Superior and vicinity, including the Mesaba and Vermilion iron ranges: Fair tonight and Wednesday; probably frost tonight; moderate winds.

LATEST ARRIVALS: Carhartt Overalls. Light weight wool Underwear. Porous Knit Underwear. More clothes from Stein-Bloch. Straw Hats. Barker Collars.

This being the last week of May, and reading about the hot weather in London, we'd like to talk to you about straw hats. But what's the use while people walk by our office window with their coat collars turned up.

You may have thought you could get through this season without a new Spring overcoat but as you need one here nearly all the time when a heavy coat is not in order, we'd advise you to come in and look at the fine coats we have for sale.

Others from $10 to $40, or you may prefer to buy a modern Raincoat, which will serve you as a Spring Coat as well. $8 to $35.

HEIKE IS NOT THROUGH YET

Government's Full Hand in Sugar Fraud Trial Not Shown.

Witness Shows False Weights Directed Against Steamship Companies.

New York, May 24.—Although the government's star witness, Oliver Spitzer, the former dockmaster who walked out of the Atlanta penitentiary, where he had been sent after bossing for years the sugar weighing frauds on the Williamsburg docks, had a most interesting story to tell yesterday, it is not mainly on his evidence that the government relies in its effort to convict Charles R. Heike, the American Sugar Refining company's secretary, of a part in the conspiracy fraud.

His testimony rather had to do with James F. Bendernagel, the refinery cashier, and Ernest F. Gerbracht, the superintendent, both of whom are on trial with Heike, together with three other former employes of the company.

Hand Not All Shown.

The government, it is believed, has not yet shown its full hand against Heike, who is the "highest up" man so far prosecuted.

As Edward Whalley took the stand to testify for the government at the opening of the session today, the president of the American Sugar Refining company, Washington B. Thomas, and one of the trust's directors, Dr. Samuel B. Hooker of Philadelphia, sat in court behind Heike and listened to Whalley's testimony.

Whalley is a special treasury agent who was with the other investigators, Parr and Breznski, when the famous raid on the sugar docks were made in 1907 and the fraudulent weighing devices were discovered. Whalley was on the stand only a few minutes and was not cross-examined.

The government's contention that the city weigher's weights were employed in the commercial calculations of the trust and these of the government weighers made use of only for payment of duties was backed up by John A. Thompson, for the last thirty-five years a bookkeeper in the company's Wall street offices.

George H. Becker, a clerk in the Wall street office under Mr. Leroy, whom Spitzer yesterday testified he had told of the frauds that were going on at the Williamsburg docks, was next on the stand.

Becker testified just before the noon recess that the sugar trust used the government weights quite often on which to pay the freight charges, but the shipowners became aware of the fact and the practice was stopped.

This was the first testimony introduced tending to show that the alleged frauds in underweighing were not directed solely against the government.

The one best bet—Souvenir spoon presented to every lady attending the Lyceum this week.

COPPERS STRONG BUT ERRATIC

Good Undertone to Market and Prices Are Firm at Close.

The copper market was strong today although slightly erratic. The undertone was good and the highest prices of the day were registered shortly before the close. The attitude of the leading professional interests was favorable. The feeling of caution appears to have vanished and there is a disposition to look for a moderate improvement in the market. The agricultural outlook is brighter, unhealthy banking conditions are being eradicated and the approach of the end of the session of congress is regarded with a feeling of relief.

Prices of commodities are declining and the pressure of the high cost of living is not so insistent. Labor troubles are being smoothed over and the outlook for the summer is peaceful. Railroads have obtained increases in freight rates in many parts of the country which should correspondingly boost earnings.

The feature of today's market was Butte & Ballaklava. It was bought heavily in the East and 950 shares changed hands on the local exchange. The opening sale in the East was at $15.25. The stock sold up to $17.62½ and off to $17.25 on profit taking at the close. Here the high price was $18. The opening sale was at $15 and the stock advanced quickly to $18, declined to $15.62½ and rallied to $17.50, the closing sale. The Butte Ballaklava has opened up its rich ore on the 700 level, a continuation of the copper glance which was opened on the levels below. The company has a large tonnage blocked out. The last eleven cars sent to the smelter averaged nearly 12 per cent copper, with 15 ounces of silver to the ton. The silver and gold content pays for all of the operating expenses.

The part paid Scott sold at $3.12½ to $3, and the full paid at $6.50, $6.62½ and back to $6.50. Copper Queen sold at 21c; Denn at $3; Live Oak at $19.87½ to $20.50; Shattuck at $29.12½, $29.50 and $29.37½; Butte & Superior at $1.37½, $1.93¾ and $1.75; Calumet & Montana at $1.25; Carman at 31c; Calumet & Corbin at 64c; Tuolumne at $3.68¾; Amazon at $2.50 and $2.56¼.

Amalgamated sold at $70.50 to $71.37½ and off to $71. Steel common at $32.50 to $84.37½ to $84.25; Butte Coalition at $20.50; Calumet & Arizona at $65 to $64 to $65; North Butte at $33.25 to $34 to $33.75; Superior & Pittsburg at $12; Giroux at $7.75 to $8; Greene at $8.62½ to $8.50.

CHURCH SOCIETY ORDERED TO PAY

Former Inmate of Catholic Home Wins Suit for $4,000.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 24.—Judgment of $4,000 against the Good Shepherd society, a Roman Catholic sisterhood that maintains a charitable home in this city, was granted today by a jury in the county circuit court in favor of Mrs. Mamie Smith, who alleged that she was imprisoned against her will in the institution for six years, during which time, she complained, she was forced to work in an unsanitary laundry. As Mamie Sullivan she was placed in the home by her father. She ran away at the end of six years and was married.

Attorneys for the defendants announced they would ask for a new trial on the allegation that a woman friend of Mrs. Smith had influenced two of the jurors.

PROMINENT ONES BURIED.

Well-Known Copper Country Men Are Borne to Graves.

Houghton, Mich., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The late W. J. McGee of Oconto, Wis., father of Charles J. McGee of this city, was interred at Forest Hill cemetary Monday. The Houghton blue lodge of Masons had charge of the funeral. The funeral of the late W. S. Cleaves of Ripley, across Portage from Houghton, one of the richest and most influential residents of the county when he died, took place in Hancock Sunday afternoon in charge of Hancock lodge of Elks. The funeral of Francis J. Soddy, the prominent young speculator and capitalist who died at Red Jacket, this county, last Thursday, took place Sunday.

He was given sixty days straight in the county jail without the option of a fine. The Davis woman, arrested at the same time, was fined $25 and costs or thirty days in the county jail. She didn't have the money and went over the hill.

Collision Narrowly Averted.
Spectators held their breaths last evening at First avenue west and Second street when a big automobile truck belonging to the Lathhead Drug company narrowly escaped a collision with an East Fourth street car. The truck was coming down the hill at a fair rate of speed and the driver, being unable to see around the corner, had to stop almost instantaneously. The stop was made so suddenly that it temporarily put the car out of business. The motorman applied his brakes and when both were stopped the front of the truck was against the side of the street car.

TAWNEY SUBMITS AMENDMENTS

Washington, May 24. — Chairman Tawney's amendment, appropriating $250,000 to permit the president to obtain information bearing on the tariff, was today decided by Representative Mann of Illinois, in the chair, to be out of order.

Chairman Tawney offered still another amendment appropriating $250,000 to enable the president to gather tariff information to guide him in enforcing the tariff law, which the chair declared to be in order.

Compromise in Senate.

In connection with the proposition to require the advance approval by the interstate commerce commission of railroad rate increases, a compromise, requiring the commission to pass on rates within six months, was sprung in the senate this afternoon.

Most regular Republicans and Democrats and several "insurgents" were favorable.

SAYS HE IS ONLY WASHINGTON HEIR

Ohio Man Says He Wants That $305,000 All for Himself.

London, May 24.—Publication of the fact that congress might pay the claims of heirs of George Washington, who contended that $305,000 worth of land was taken from them without warrant of law, has brought out a new claimant to dispute their rights.

George M. Roberts of Wellsville, Ohio, has written a letter to Representative Roberts of Massachusetts, chairman of the house committee on private land claims, asserting that he the only real live heir to those long forgotten of George Washington, and that he wants the whole $305,000 for himself. He says he will fully establish his claim just as soon as he recovers the original documents carried to England by John Paul Jones. Mr. Roberts' letter follows:

"Observing that your committee is about to award the $305,000 to the supposed heirs of George Washington, I forbid any such proceedings, for I am the only heir to that land, and I will prove it when I get the original papers from England—the papers that John Paul Jones took in the Rover on his first trip.

"I write this as a warning to you, so that you will not spend the people's money unnecessarily."

MORE THAN 1,000 IN REGICIDE PLOT

Confession of Ramieres Is Looked Into By Lisbon Authorities.

Lisbon, May 24.—The government is awaiting the completion of the investigation of the statements made by an anarchist named Ramieres before taking action against those named as the conspirators in the assassination of King Carlos and Crown Prince Luis in 1908. Ramieres escaped to Brazil following the assassinations, but was recently arrested and brought back here. Subsequently he made a confession and gave to the police the names of 1,148 persons, including several prominent in politics, who he said shared in the conspiracy.

According to Ramieres those selected for the killing were divided into four groups and placed at as many points along the route of the royal carriages, in order that if any one group failed the others would be prepared to execute the plot.

SAY PROHIBITION WAVE IS RECEDING

Wholesale Liquor Dealers Meet and Talk of Interests of Trade.

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 24.—Confident that the prohibition wave is receding 500 delegates to the fifteenth annual convention of the National Wholesale Liquor Dealers' association began a three-days' session here today.

United action against prohibitory and local option laws and enactment of statutes providing for moderate licenses for and strict regulation of liquor selling were advocated at the opening session as the keynote.

Secretary Debar told the convention that it should advocate universal license and regulatory laws.

"The American public is weary of the contentions of extremists regarding the liquor problem," he said. "The moment is opportune for us to get a solution which can be had only in license, regulation and control.

"We should hold that the granting of a license to retail liquor dealers must be based entirely upon the character of the individual and that the amount of the license fee should be moderate.

"An excessive license fee is always a premium offered for law-breaking."

TO TEST JUDGESHIP LAW.

Question of Rotation of Names on Ballots Knotty One.

Bismarck, N. D., May 24.—Another action will probably be brought before the supreme court in the near future to test the phases of the non-partisan judgeship law.

The new law was passed at the last session of the legislature and will govern the selection of supreme court judges for the first time at the coming primary and election.

The questions to be determined are as to whether there are six or three candidates to be nominated at the primaries and whether the names shall be rotated or shall appear on all the ballots in the same order. There is no provision of this special law for the rotation of names, but this, it would seem, would be governed by the general provision for the rotation of names where there is more than one candidate to be elected to an office of this kind.

If the names were not rotated, but appeared in alphabetical order, the first three or four names appearing on the primary ballot would, it is thought, have the advantage to the number of several thousand votes.

If the action is brought, three district judges will have to be called to sit as members of the court, since three judges of the court are candidates for nomination at the primaries, Judges Fisk, Carmody and Ellsworth.

RAILROADS

BIG INTEREST IN NEW HAVEN SOLD

Pennsylvania Railroad Is Said to Have Made the Purchase.

Philadelphia, May 24.—The North American today announces that the Pennsylvania railroad now owns an important stock interest in the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad. The story says:

"News that the Pennsylvania railroad has quietly acquired an important stock interest in the New Haven, developed yesterday as an explanation for the sale by the company of $11,000,000 of equipment trust 4 per cent certificates to a Philadelphia and New York banking syndicate, headed by Edward B. Smith & Co., of this city. The question had arisen as to why the Pennsylvania, presumably very rich in cash, should have sold bonds now.

"Jointly the Pennsylvania and the New Haven, at an estimated cost of $14,000,000 will build a great railroad bridge across the East river at Hell Gate. This will give through tracks between New England and the West and South in connection with the Pennsylvania's New York tunnel terminal to be opened this summer.

CANADIAN NORTHERN WILL EXTEND SYSTEM.

Portal, N. D., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Doubt as to the intentions of the Canadian Northern Railroad company in extending their line to Poral seems to have been done away with by an announcement received here that the line will be run from North Portal to Melville and on to Hudson Bay Junction. This will form a splendid wheat line and make Melville, Can., an important railroad center.

THROUGH SERVICE TO PACIFIC COAST.

At the Duluth office of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway it is announced that through passenger service between the Twin Cities and Seattle will be placed in operation just as soon as the complete equipment for the line is secured.

At the present time new steel passenger cars are being purchased by the company, with a view of placing this equipment in service on the new line.

SOO OFFICES WILL BE MOVED JULY 1.

Announcement was made today of the moving on the first of July of the city freight and passenger office of the Soo line from the present location in the Lyceum building to the new Soo passenger station.

The new office will be located on the Superior street side of the new station, and will be one of the finest ticket offices in the city.

Just when the through passenger service of the Soo will be inaugurated between Duluth and Chicago is not known by the local representatives of the line. The new station here is expected to be completed by the first of July, when it is generally believed the new through service will be inaugurated.

Northern Pacific's Mandan Plans.

Mandan, N. D., May 24.—The Northern Pacific railroad is contemplating quite extensive improvements here, one of which is the establishment of a $60,000 power and lighting plant. The construction of a new depot, costing upwards of $50,000 is also considered.

TO SUPERVISE WORK.

A. B. Rider Will Look After Brainerd Federal Building.

Brainerd, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. B. Rider has been delegated by the treasury department to supervise the construction of the new federal building here and has arrived on the job. Mr. Rider has been at Alexandria, where has been supervising the construction of the new federal building which is not yet completed and until it is finished he will have charge of the work on both jobs. The Alexandria building is practically similar to the one under course of erection here and it will be but a short time until it is ready for occupancy. Mr. Miller, the contractor, is in the city and material is being hauled to the site at the corner of Sixth and Maple streets.

Minnesotas in Washington.

Washington, May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—F. Sederberg, his wife and daughter of Braham, Minn., are in Washington today en route to New York, from which port they sail for Europe the latter part of the week.

John A. Datsell of Morton, Minn., is in Washington on business before the Indian bureau.

RENEWS ACQUAINTANCE WITH HALLEY'S COMET.

Washington, May 24.—Senator Stephenson of Wisconsin saw Halley's comet last night for the second time in his life, having witnessed it in Maine seventy-five years ago, when he was only 6 years old.

Through the big 26-inch telescope at the United States naval observatory, President Taft last night for the first time saw Halley's comet. Having kept in close touch with the movements of the heavenly visitor, the president was much interested in observing it, although on account of the clouds and haze not much of the tail was visible. President Taft showed more interest in Jupiter, the moon and some of the other heavenly bodies than in the comet. In his party were Mrs. Taft, Charles P. Taft, John Hays Hammond and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence R. Edwards.

TWO MORE TRIPS FOR TAFT DUE NEXT WEEK.

Washington, May 24.—President Taft is to make two short trips out of Washington next week. He will leave here Sunday night, May 29, to review the big Memorial day parade in New York during the forenoon of the 30th. He will return to Washington that afternoon.

The president will leave again on June 2 to attend the exercises that afternoon at Byrn Mawr school at Bryn Mawr, Pa., where his daughter is a student. From Bryn Mawr the president will go to Ada, Ohio, where he makes a noonday address June 3. The evening of June 3, M. Taft will be in Detroit, Mich. On June 4 the president will make a short visit to Jackson and Monroe, Mich. He will be back in Washington the evening of June 5.

WHEAT HAS WEAK TONE

Bears Continue Their Attacks and Force the Price Down.

Declines in All American Markets---Flax Dull But Stronger.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 24.—Wheat declined today in all markets. The bears continued their attacks and were successful, although for a short time after the opening values advanced on short covering and moderate buying in the deferred months by bulls. A flood of cash wheat continues to pour into Chicago. The cargo of 270,000 bu worked here after the close yesterday will leave this port tomorrow. A vessel is now loading. About 680,000 bu besides the one indicated are now in transit.

May opened late at $1.07 and advanced to $1.08⅛ bid, declined to $1.07 asked and closed $1.07¼ bid. July opened $1.07⅛ asked, sold at $1.07½, $1.07¼, $1.07⅝, $1.07, $1.07⅛, $1.06½, $1.06⅝, $1.06¼ and closed $1.06¾ bid. September opened 97⅞c, sold at 98¼c, 97¾c, 96¾c, 97c, 96½c, 97¼c and closed 97¼c bid.

Flax was dull and stronger. May opened at $2.16, sold at $2.17 and $2.20, closing $2.20 bid. July opened late at $2.04½ bid, advanced to $2.06 bid and closed $2.06 bid. October opened at $1.70½ asked and sold at $1.72 and closed at $1.71½. September opened $1.63½ nominal, sold at $1.64 and at the close was offered at $1.64½.

Cash closed ½c over July, oats closed ⅜c off, rye and barley were unchanged and durum was ⅝c up.

The efforts of the bears to break up the position of the leading long holder and generally to destroy the bulwarks of the bulls continued today with success. A cargo of 273,000 bu of No. 1 northern was worked here yesterday for Chicago and the announcement today at the opening added to the discomfiture of the long element. Crop conditions are more favorable and the bulls did not have much ground upon which to stand. The short interest had been fairly well covered and the market technically was in a position to be sold heavily. It was. There was considerable short selling and the leading bears pounded the market. The effect was heightened by considerable liquidation.

About 1,750,000 bu of No. 1 northern has been bought in this market for delivery on Chicago May contracts and the leading long will have a cumbersome "corpse to dispose of. His surplus may be unloaded without much loss if the milling demand improves, but if the country is dependent upon its export business to care for its surplus prices eventually must decline and many traders think the leading holder will be forced to take a heavy loss.

Wheat prices are much lower than this time last year but are still out of line so that export business is impossible. Last year there was a scarcity. This year there is wheat in abundance. Reserves which a year ago were exhausted have been replenished.

The entire wheat trade of the world has been unable to readjust itself in the past twelve months, but the closest students of economical conditions believe that grain prices are too high and that commercial conditions are gradually readjusting themselves to the legitimate situation. With the United States selling upward of $150,000,000 of securities abroad instead of exporting flour cereals and provisions and keeping up its purchases of merchandise and the luxuries abroad, the country is fast building up a business situation that is far from healthy and which cannot but help in forcing a readjustment in time, unless there is a great shortage in the wheat crop in this country, which will bring supplies down to an entirely domestic basis or a better foreign demand for grain. It is admitted that the United States is close to the first named period, but is not there yet, and cannot afford to export gold to pay interest on the millions of dollars of bonds sold abroad, and hold its surplus of grain and continue at a high stage of prosperity.

Chicago Examiner: J. Ogden Armour, by emulating the example of his father, the late P. D. Armour, in the latter's famous deal with Joseph Leiter, has saved himself from heavy loss in his 5,000,000-bushel speculation in May wheat.

Twelve years ago Mr. Armour, the elder, smashed Leiter's attempted corner in wheat, caused the utter collapse of his deal, brought upon him a loss of $15,000,000 and drove him forever from the wheat pit by bringing millions of bushels of the great food staples to Chicago from Duluth in a fleet of steam freighters that rammed their way through the ice of Lake Superior. Leiter had supposed this feat impossible.

Mr. Armour, the younger, fighting a duel in the pit with Theodore H. Waterman, the millionaire speculator of Albany, N. Y., who is now operating a corner in the May cereal, has staved off defeat by a similar maneuver. The Armour Grain company now has on route from Duluth huge cargoes of wheat for delivery to Waterman on or before May 31, the last day for filling the contracts.

Owing to the difference in season it is not necessary for the Armour vessels this time to cut their way through ice; but according to the gossip on the Board of Trade Mr. Waterman is as much surprised, if not much chagrined, by Armour's success in accumulating the actual grain for delivery as was young Leiter.

Months ago the Armour Grain company sold 5,000,000 bushels of May wheat short. Waterman bought it. The Armour concern figured that the price, ranging from $1.07 to $1.13 was too high. Waterman considered that it was too low. As it has turned out the price did not go very far either up or down, but Waterman, by buying all the wheat in sight, hoped to "squeeze" the Armour interests good and hard at the end of the month. The price on Saturday was around $1.11.

Waterman did not expect that Armour would or could bring the wheat here and looked forward to making a private settlement on his own terms.

A. J. Lichstern has appeared in the deal on the short side, but in board of trade circles it is said his interest is small as compared with Armour's.

J. Ogden Armour, well satisfied with the prospects for filling his wheat contracts, sailed on the Mauretania on its last trip to Liverpool.

Waterman, who has negotiated five big successful deals on the Chicago board, is the new "wheat king." When May deliveries are made it is declared he will have one of the tightest corners on May wheat ever known. Already he is receiving threatening letters saying he will be "blown up" if the price is increased.

Julius H. Barnes recalled that yesterday No. 1 durum was worth 82c and a year ago he paid $1.17 a bu for durum for export. "And," he said, "we are still out of line."

John Barrett calls attention to the fact that Budapest wheat is about 40c lower than a year ago, indicating the vast difference in the situation abroad this spring and a year ago. Other continental markets are about as far out of line as are the United Kingdom markets, and with prices below Canadian wheat levels and Winnipeg way below, the United States, figures the hopelessness of any export business is apparent.

Broomhall Cabled—"Wheat market opened under pressure of heavy offerings and with the demand poor, general free liquidation occurred, this selling was due to weakness in America and the break in Winnipeg and prices were ⅝d to ⅞d lower. Followinfi opening there was further pressure and prices declined an additional ¼ to ⅜. Cargoes were freely offered at 3 to 6d decline and spot markets were weak under pressure of free offerings and generally 2d lower. European crop advices continue favorable and both India and Australia are offering new crop wheat at a decline, and European visible showed an increase against a liberal decrease last week. These influenced, however, were offset by some heavy buying and prices reacted ¼d to 1½d. At midday undertone was very firm with improved demand for parcels and covering by shorts and were ¼d to 1¼d up from opening and ¼d lower to ½d higher than yesterday, with principal support in October. Corn weak and after opening ½d lower, further declined ½. Selling due to larger La Plata offerings, weakness in spot and poor demand. European visible this week 86,620,000 vs. 86,532,000 last week, increase 88,000; last week there was a decrease of 1,613,000 and last year decrease, 100,000 when total amounted to 64,000,000.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Chicago, May 24.—It was like a wait between the acts today in the wheat market. There was a little selling by the operators who were conspicuous on that side of trading yesterday, but not enough to seem hardly more than an echo. The buying was scattered and came chiefly from commission houses. Bears continued to urge purchases wheat on an export basis but seemed to fear that after the severe declines of the last few days the bull leaders had reached a position where stubborn fighting might be expected. Weather and cable advices were both bearish. Neither, however, were radically so. Prices started ¼c lower to ½c higher, the latter for May. September opened ⅛c off to ¼c up at 98⅛@98¾c, and kept narrowly within that range but finally touched 97⅞c. May was more erratic, and on light trading rose 1½c to $1.09½, dropping back to $1.09.

Scavy selling, much of it supposed to be for a big Southwestern long, turned the market sharply downward. A sudden rally was caused by the purchase of a million bushel by a local short. The close, however, was easy, with September at 97¼c, a net decline of ⅞c.

Fair weather made corn easier. Local pit traders were selling, scattered commission houses buying. September opened ⅛@¼c lower at 60⅝@60¾c and declined to 60⅜c.

Because of country sales increasing, the market had caution to go down. The close was easy with September at 59¾c a net loss of 1⅛c.

Oats inclined to weakness because of general miscellaneous selling. September was unchanged to 1c down. The first transactions at 37½@37⅝c and fell to 37⅜@37½c.

On a few purchases by packers, lard and ribs advanced a trifle to $12.50 and $12.42½, respectively for September. Pork weakened 5c to $22.65 for September in consequence of a recession in quotations for hogs.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

July Wheat Goes to New Low Figure for Present Movement.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 24.—Wheat early today was easier and July sold down to $1.05¾, the lowest price on this downward movement. Just before the close there was a sharp rally and the close prices were ⅜@½c above yesterday. Trading in the local pit was of small volume. A decline in foreign markets puts the domestic wheat still farther away from an export level. Local elevator stocks decreased 350,000 bu for three days. Wheat and flour shipments so far this week were 62,101 bu in excess of the wheat receipts. Minneapolis received 58 cars against 139 cars a year ago, Duluth 25 cars against 7 cars, Winnipeg 238 cars against 54 cars. May opened $1.07½; high, $1.07⅞; low, $1.06⅝; close, $1.07⅞. July opened $1.06⅝; high, $1.07¼; low, $1.05¾; closed, $1.06⅜@1.06⅞. September closed 97c; high, 97⅜@½c; low, $95⅝@¾c; close, 96⅜c.

Cash wheat was slightly firmer today on account of the light offerings. Demand was strong, especially for choice grades and elevator stocks continued to be drawn upon. No. 1 northern today sold for 1@3½c above the July option. Closing prices: No. 1 northern, $1.08@1.10¾; to arrive, $1.07⅞@1.09¾; No. 2 northern, $1.06@1.08¾; to arrive, $1.05⅞@1.07⅞; No. 3 wheat, $1.03@1.05; No. 3 yellow corn, 55½@56c; No. 3 white oats, 36¾@37¾c; No. 2 rye, 70@72½c. Flax receipts, 3 cars; year ago, 4; shipments, 11. The market was nominal today on account of lack of offerings. Spot continued to be quoted at 2½c under the Duluth May and to arrive the even July. Closing price, $2.17½; to arrive, $2.06.

Barley—Receipts, 16 cars; year ago, 21; shipments, 40. Malting barley was steady today on account of very light offerings. Feeding grades were 1c easier. Closing range, 51@61c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,484 tons. There was no quotable change in the market today. Bran in 100-pound sacks, $18@18.25.

The flour market continued dull and steady. Demand was generally considered slow, although some big mills reported a fair business. Shipments showed a slight increase and prices held firm. Shipments today, 44,522 bbl. First patents in wood f. o. b. Minneapolis, $5.30@5.50; second patents, $5.10@5.30; first clears, $4.15@4.25; second clears, $2.90@3.20.

Treasury Statement.

Washington, May 24.—The condition of the treasury at the begining of business today was as follows:

Trust Funds—Gold coin, $855,839,869; silver dollars, $490,078,000; silver dollars of 1890, $3,718,000; silver certificates outstanding, $490,078,000.

General Fund—Standard silver dollars in general fund, $2,014,148; current liabilities, $99,097,878; working balance in treasury offices, $18,342,464; in banks to credit of treasurer of the United States, $38,319,621; subsidjary silver coin, $21,368,707; minor coin, $1,328,884; total balance in general fund, $81,189,478.

Cotton Market.

New York, May 24.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 5@9 points under scattering liquidation and local bear pressure, inspired by indifferent cables and better weather reports. The bull leaders gave the old crop considerable support, causing a rally of several points on the deposition, but later months remained barely steady, and later sagged off slightly owing to the prospects for clear weather in the South and moderate selling, apparently for both short and long accounts.

Futures closed barely steady; closing bids: May, 14.94; June, 14.94; July, 14.96; August, 14.73; September, 13.58; October, 12.78; November, 12.67; December, 12.60; January, 12.56; March, 12.61.

Spot closed quiet, 5 points decline; middling uplands, 15.35; middling gulf, 15.60; sales, 1,114 bales.

DULLNESS IN STOCKS

Desultory Rise in Prices Due to Covering of Shorts.

Life Leaves Trading at Advances and Close Nearly Stagnant.

New York, May 24.—A fall of ½ point in Anaconda and Utah Copper represented the maximum changes shown by opening prices of active stocks today. These were mostly declines but all were trivial and business was unimportant. Kansas City Southern preferred sold at a decline of 1¾.

Fluctuations were restricted to very narrow fractions. The tone of the market was at first firm, and there was a slight advance over the opening figures. Reading improved ¾, but met stock after it crossed 165 and lost its advantage. International Harvester gained 1¾. Northwestern declined 1 point and Chicago Union Traction preferred stamped 2.

The morning's desultory rise in prices was partly due to covering of shorts put out yesterday. Less importance was attached to the receivership for the Chicago Railways company. Sterling exchange was slightly easier. Consolidated Gas moved up 1½, Ontario & Western and American Smelting 1½, and Reading, Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific and United States Steel 1. The life went out of the trading at the higher prices. American Express sold at 250, compared with the previous sale at 280 in April. Bonds were steady.

The market closed nearly stagnant. The Pacific group was strong, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and Canadian Pacific each showing 1⅜ to 1⅝ over last night and St. Paul 1. La Clede Gas gained 1⅜, American Hide & Leather preferred 1¼ and Amalgamated 1. Prices elsewhere were firmly held, but were little changed. Kansas City Southern declined 1⅝ and the general list yielded slightly at the last.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.

Default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage executed by Ira Beldin and Etta E. Beldin, his wife, mortgagors, to Editha M. McEwen and Thomas Murray Quick, mortgagees, bearing date the 21st day of February, 1908, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for St. Louis County, Minnesota, on the 24th day of February, 1908, at 3:15 p. m., in Book 219 of Mortgages on page 221, which said mortgage, together with the indebtedness thereby secured, was assigned to D. L. Tyler, who is now the owner thereof, by said Editha M. McEwen and Thomas Murray Quick by written assignment dated the 22nd day of April, 1910, and recorded in the office of said Register of Deeds in and for said St. Louis County, Minnesota, on the 29th day of April, 1910, in Book 188 of Mortgages on page 450.

Said default consists in the nonpayment of Four Hundred Dollars ($400.00), the principal sum named in the note referred to in said mortgage and secured thereby, together with Seventy Dollars and seventy-five cents ($70.75) interest thereon computed to the day of this notice, and in the non-payment of the taxes on the premises described in said mortgage, before the same became delinquent, amounting to the sum of Fourteen Dollars and ninety-five cents ($14.95), which sum has been paid by said mortgagees and in the failure to keep the buildings on said premises insured according to the terms of said mortgage, which has been done by said mortgagees, for the sum of Twelve Dollars and ninety cents ($12.90) which sums have become a lien on said premises and a part of the debt secured by said mortgage by the terms thereof.

By reason of said default the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage.

There is claimed to be due and is due upon said mortgage at the date of this notice the sum of Four Hundred Ninety-eight Dollars and sixty cents ($498.60), including said taxes and insurance.

The property described in said mortgage and thereby mortgaged is situated in St. Louis county, Minnesota, and is as follows: Lot numbered Six (6) in Block Two (2), First addition to Proctorknott, according to the plat thereof on file and of record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said St. Louis county, Minnesota.

NOW THEN NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That under the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statutes in such case made and provided, said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises above described, which sale will be made at public auction to the highest bidder at the front door of the Sheriff's office in the County Court House in Duluth, St. Louis county, Minnesota, on the 30th day of June, 1910, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day to satisfy the amount due on said mortgage, including the said amounts paid by said mortgagees for taxes and insurance and additional taxes, if any on said property and Twenty-five Dollars ($25.00) attorney's fees as limited by statute instead of Fifty Dollars ($50.00) as provided by said mortgage, together with the costs and disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of said sale as provided by law.

Dated May 9, 1910.

D. L. TYLER, Owner of Mortgage.

E. J. KENNY, Attorney for Owner of Mortgage.

Duluth Evening Herald, May 10, 17, 24, 31, June 7 and 14, 1910.

Office of the Board of Fire Commissioners, City of Duluth, May 24, 1910.

Sealed bids will be received by the Board of Fire Commissioners in and for the Corporation of the City of Duluth, Minnesota, at their office in said City, Room 31, City Hall, up to 3 o'clock P. M., May 27, 1910, for supplying one automobile for the use of the Fire Department. No bid shall exceed Two Thousand Dollars ($2,000.00). Proposals shall be for a machine of not less than forty-horse power, and to be equipped according to requirements now on file in the office of the chief of the Fire Department. A certified check for ten per cent of the sum bid, payable to the order of the Treasurer of the City of Duluth, must accompany each bid.

The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Board of Fire Commissioners of the City of Duluth.

By J. H. McCALL, Secretary.

D. E. H., May 24, 25 and 26, 1910. D 687.

SUGAR TRUST RECORDS NOT TO BE FOUND

Probable Action of Government Is Basis of Much Speculation.

Bookkeeper of American Company Recalled to the Stand.

Expert From Refinery Tells About Loss in Weight During Processes.

New York, May 25.—There was no little speculation today over the probable attitude of the government toward the problem presented by the mysterious disappearance of numerous sugar trust books and records. The defense has agreed to accept the figures prepared by government experts regarding sugar weights in the time covered by the records in the missing volumes, but tnere is no way of reconstructing the vanished letter-copying books of the period, containing the correspondence which passed between the refinery docks and the head offices of the company. Search for these records, it was intimated, had been abandoned.

Spitzer Due for Quiz.

Oliver Spitzer, the former dock superintendent of the American Sugar Refining company, who walked out of the Atlanta penitentiary with a pardon from President Taft to testify for the government in the sugar conspiracy cases, was expected again today to be the chief witness at the trial of Secretary Charles R. Heike of the American Sugar Refining company and five former subordinates.

Today had been set for the cross-examination of Spitzer by the defense. It was hinted that Spitzer knew more about the alleged ramifications of the dock under-weighing frauds through

FIVE BROKERS GO TO CELLS

Ohio Men Surrender to Marshal and Begin Their Sentences.

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 25.—Louis W. Foster, Ed Whall, Walter Campbell, J. M. Scott and Arthur W. Baldwin, the five members of the O'Dell Brokerage company, who were sentenced to jail on charges of using the mails for bucket shop operations, surrendered to United States Marshal Eugene Lewis today. They were taken to the county jails in Dayton and Troy, Ohio.

BACK TO CELL AFTER DECADE

St. Louis Police Are Bringing M. B. Bates Back From England.

New York, May 25.—Nine years after his escape from a prison in Missouri, M. B. Bates was brought back to this country on his way to St. Louis, arriving here today on the steamship Carmania from Liverpool, in charge of two St. Louis police officers.

Bates, whose home was in St. Louis, Mo., was serving a sentence of twelve years for robbery when he broke jail. The Missouri authorities heard of his arrest in England for robbery and officers were sent to bring him back on the expiration of his sentence.

MORTON MEMORIAL BILL IS REPORTED TO SENATE.

Washington, May 25.—Senator Burkett's bill for the establishment of an institution of agriculture and forestry at Nebraska City, Neb., as a memorial to the late J. Sterling Morton, formerly secretary of agriculture, was today reported by the senate committee on agriculture, of which Senator Dolliver is chairman.

SEE MURDER TRIAL OF HUSBAND AND FATHER

MRS. WILLIAM SEYLER AND HER DAUGHTER BESSIE.

SEYLER SOON TO HEAR FATE

Alleged Murderer of Jane Adams Takes Stand as Witness.

Women Flock to Courtroom to Hear His Story of the Affair.

May's Landing, N. J., May 25.—Before nightfall William Seyler of Atlantic City, N. J., probably will know whether he is doomed to die in the electric chair for murdering Jane Adams, the 17-year-old girl whom, the commonwealth charges, he threw from the $1,000,000 pier of Atlantic City into the sea.

The trial began on Monday and the state made quick work in completing its case. After endeavoring to prove to the jury that the girl was killed by Seyler while defending her honor, the state rested its case yesterday and the defense immediately opened. Seyler is expected to take the stand today and the final addresses of the attorneys will follow.

The theory of the defense is that Jane Adams, who was on the pier with her sister, William Seyler and his brother, Orvis, fell into the sea accidentally.

Women Flock to Courtroom.

In anticipation of Seyler's taking the stand, the courtroom was crowded to its capacity when the trial opened today. Many of the spectators were women.

SUPPER IS LATE, SO HE BEATS WIFE

Woman Dies and Chicago Man Is to Be Charged With Murder.

Chicago, May 25.—Because she did not have supper ready for her husband, Mrs. Frank Lewandowski is dead and her husband will be charged with murder, according to the police. Mrs. Lewandowski died today and the police say her death was due to a beating given her by her husband Monday night when he came home and found his supper not ready. Mrs. Lewandowski's face and body were bruised and she suffered internal injuries, according to the hospital physicians.

INFANT ELECTION FIGHT RENEWED

Southern Presbyterians Hear Proposals for Two Changes.

Lewisburg, W. Va., May 25.—After standing for two centuries and a half as a doctrine of the church, the "elect infant" clause of the confession of faith of the Southern Presbyterian church came up for revision today in the general assembly, in session here. The church is divided into several parties on the question and the fight for and against it has been waged for years.

At the last assembly an ad interim committee, headed by Dr. A. M. Fraser, was appointed to propose to this assembly a proper wording of the proposed amendment. It will be up today.

The ad interim committee reported its first recommendation as a foot note, reading: "This paragraph (the elect infant clause) cannot, by a fair interpretation of the language, be construed as teaching that any of those who die in infancy are lost, and it is not the belief of the Presbyterian church in the United States that any infants dying in infancy are lost."

Second Choice Proposed.

As second choice the committee recommended that the present clause be superseded by the following:

"Of those whom God hath given to the Lord Jesus to be His seed, such as are incapable of being outwardly called by the ministry of the word, are regenerated and saved by Christ, through the Spirit, Who worketh when, and where, and how He pleaseth."

This was drawn to protect the doctrine of election, to avoid implying that any dying infants are lost, and to preserve the theoretical style of the confession.

MORMONISM GETS SCORED

Presbyterians Hear Report of Board of Home Mission Work.

Indian Converts and Work in Alaska Told of at Assembly.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 25.—Home missions, their work and needs, was the principal topic at today's session of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church now in session in this city.

The board of home missions in its report stated that the total receipts for the year were $1,108,343.65. The board reported progress in nearly every field, and in discussing Mormonism said:

"This problem abides and has lost none of its perplexities. As a system it still has all the ugly marks of sin. Those who know it best and meet it daily on the field think it resembles Mohammedanism in its subtlety and sensuality. Yet there are indications that God is honoring the work of the church in this hard field. Men and women have come out of Mormonism into the light and liberty of the sons of God."

On Indian Missions.

Speaking of Indian missions the report says:

"With only 300,540 Indians in the United States exclusive of Alaska, there is a larger per cent of heathen, unenlightened by the gospel among this people than among any other element of American population."

The report says that the estimated adherents of the Presbyterian faith among the Indians are 18,000 and that not a people in the world is more de-

NO STATE LAW TO CONVICT BROWNE

Claim Is Made By the Defense in Lorimer Election Case.

Chicago, May 25.—W. S. Forrest, counsel for Lee O'Neil Browne, who is on trial on the charge of bribing State Representative C. A. White to vote for William Lorimer, continued his argument in favor of quashing the indictment today.

It was understood that State's Attorney Wayman would make the answering argument and that it would not last more than an hour. Attaches of Mr. Wayman's office are quoted as saying that the state's attorney had a wealth of legal decisions to back his arguments against Mr. Forrest's motion.

That there is no Illinois statute regulating the election of United States senators, and therefore, no law violation if Lee O'Neil Browne, as is charged, paid Representative White to vote for William Lorimer, is Attorney W. S. Forrest's contention.

FAMOUS INN BURNS DOWN

Hotel Champlain and Annex Are Destroyed By Flames.

One Life May Have Been Lost in Fire---Is Widely Known Place.

Albany, N. Y., May 25.—The Hotel Champlain at Bluff Point, N. Y., on Lake Champlain, was destroyed by fire today.

It had not been opened for the summer season as yet so there were no guests in the house. It was one of the largest and finest hotels in Northern New York.

The fire broke out shortly before 2 o'clock this morning and although the fire department at Plattsburg, three miles away, was summoned, it was unable to cope with the flames, which soon destroyed the immense hotel and annex

The cause of the fire has not yet been ascertained. The hotel was owned by the Delaware & Hudson Railway company.

Sixty in the Building.

The hotel was to have been opened for the summer season on June 25 and there were about sixty employes in the building when the fire was discovered. It started in the central part of the main structure on one of the upper floors and spread quickly. The occupants of the building were aroused and escaped in safety. Although all of those in the hotel were thought to have escaped the flames, an electrician named Herbert was later repotred as missing and have lost his life.

IS AFRAID DOCTOR MIGHT BE HANGED

Judge Says Sympathy Was Reason for Denying Cleminson Retrial.

Chicago, May 25.—Motion for a new trial for Dr. Huldane Cleminson, convicted of the murder of his wife, was overruled by Judge Brurely today. A motion in arrest of judgment was granted and sentence deferred to allow an appeal.

Among other reasons for denying a new trial, the court gave his sympathy for the prisoner as one, declaring that a new trial jury might hang him.

Dr Cleminson's mother, attired in deep black, rushed to her son and threw her arms about his neck when the court gave his ruling on the defenses' motion. The prisoner's father remained in his seat, seemingly overwhelmed.

Dr. Cleminson is alleged to have killed his wife by means of chloroform The evidence against him was circumstantial. He based hope of a new trial on evidence of a new witness, Mrs Anna Schmidt, who is said to be prepared to swear that the doctor was in his office with her nearly all night the night on which the alleged murder was committed.

FIX FATE OF POSTAL BILL

House Republicans Will Caucus on Savings Bank Plan.

Less Than a Dozen Are Expected to Stay Out of Conference.

Washington, May 25.—The caucus of the Republican members of the house on the subject of the postal savings banks bill will be held tonight in the chamber of the house of represetnatives at 8 o'clock. Not all of the members of the majority party will attend, but the exact number that will purposely absent themselves to prevent their being bound by the action taken tonight is unknown.

Less than a dozen, all "insurgents," so far as is known, have declined to sign the call for the caucus. About 170 names were signed to the petition, out of a total Republican membership of 217, but a large number are absent from the city who would have attached their names to the call had they been in Washington.

Will Decide House Action.

The action to be taken at tonight's caucus on the postal savings bank is expected to be decisive as far as the house is concerned. The bill introduced by Representative Gardner of New Jersey, which is the product of the Republican members of the committee on postoffices and post roads,

SAN FRANCISCO MAY LOSE WATER RIGHTS

Government Would Withdraw Permit Regarding the Hetch-Hetchy.

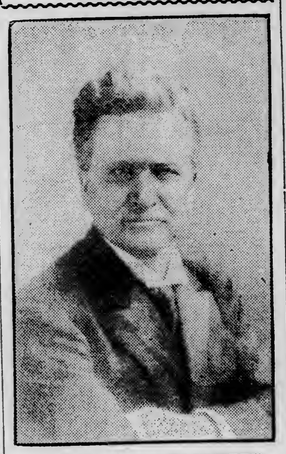
Washington, May 25.—Hetch-Hetchy valley in the Yosemite National park, as related to the water supply of San Francisco, was the topic of interest at the interior department today, where Secretary Ballinger held a hearing on the question of revoking a permit granted the city some time ago by Secretary Garfield authorizing the contingent use of the Hetch-Hetchy valley as a source of water supply. By the terms of the permit, San Francisco would be able to draw a water supply from the Hetch-Hetchy whenever the demands of the city exceeded the capacity of the Lake Eleanor, developed to its fullest extent.

The geological survey has reported to the secretary that Lake Eleanor is ample to meet the needs of the city, and San Francisco has filed a brief setting forth an opposite position.

The hearing which began today will last probably two or three days, during which representatives for and against the revocation of the permit will present their arguments.

LA FOLLETTE ROASTS RAILROAD LAWS AND RULES IN THE SENATE

DENOUNCES RAILROAD LAWS IN THE SENATE



ROBERT M. LA FOLLETTE, Senator From Wisconsin.

Declares Fight Against Extortion By Traffic Men Has Failed.

Commerce Commission Work Is Rated as Mere Child's Play.

Wisconsin Senator Quotes Rates From Duluth East as Unjust.

Washington, May 25.—"There is not one line in the statutes to give to the people reasonable railroad rates," declared Senator La Follette in the senate today. "All that has been accomplished," he said, "is to afford a means of giving equal rates to shippers."

The interest of the shipper was by no means the interest of the general public, he asserted. He declared the people generally were as much entitled to protection as the shippers. Forty years ago the fight was begun with that end in view, he said, and it was as much a fight against extortion as against discrimination, but in the former respect there has been an utter failure.

For Cummins' Amendment.

With a huge chart to show the relative importance of the various railroad "groups," the Wisconsin senator spoke in support of the Cummins amendment to the railroad bill, requiring the prior approval by the interstate commerce

BIG DRYDOCK GOING DOWN

Dewey Is Sinking With Valve Operating Machinery Disabled.

Has Been Under Charge of Japanese Workmen at Manila.

Manila, May 25.—The huge floating drydock Dewey, which was towed here from the United States at great expense, is sinking and will be entirely submerged before tomorrow morning. Repeated rumors are to the effect that the difficulty was caused by deliberate actions on the part of station employes, who are Japanese, though no official charge to that effect has been made and the theory is in fact scouted by the authorities. Such examination as it has been possible to make thus far shows that the electrical machinery which operates the valves has been badly damaged in some manner.

The experts declare that the great floating dock will be saved despite its submergence.

The port side, including the pumps, was submerged today and partly resting on the bottom. The starboard was still exposed but was settling slowly. It is doubtful whether the starboard pumps alone could avail much, meantime the tug Piscataqua was waiting to assist when the sea was calmer.

WOULD EXTEND THE CRETAN ASSEMBLY

France and England Make Proposal to Russia and Italy.

Paris, May 25.—France and Great Britain today submitted to the governments of Russia and Italy, the other two protecting powers, a proposition to invite Crete to admit Mussulman deputies to the Cretan assembly and thus restore the status quo of prior to 1908.

According to this plan, which it is believed Russia and Italy will accept, Crete would retain its autonomy under the suzerainty of Turkey.

The proposal was the result of conferences held between Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, and M. Pinchon, the French foreign minister, during the latter's stay in London as the representative of France at the funeral of King Edward.

Congressman Cook Seriously Ill.

Philadelphia, May 25.—Congressman Joel Cook of this city is critically ill and fears for his recovery are entertained. Mr. Cook, who has been prominently identified with the commercial interests of Philadelphia, is 68 years old.

Boston, Mass., May 25.—Reports of the officers were read at the annual business meeting of the American Unitarian association in Tremont temple today, the third day of the eighty-fifth anniversary week of the association.

German Cruiser Is Speedy.

Kiel, May 25.—The German navy's newest 19,000-ton cruiser, Von der Tann, developed a speed of twenty-eight knots an hour in a trial run from the mouth of the Elbe yesterday. The vessel was launched at Hamburg March 19, 1909.

MRS. ROOSEVELT PALACE GUEST

Visits There in Response to Suggestion of the Queen Mother.

London, May 25.—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt visited Buckingham palace today and had a long chat with Alexandra, the queen mother.

The call was made at the suggestion of her majesty, who, when she received Mr. Roosevelt yesterday, expressed the hope that she might see the former president's wife.

ATTACK PACKING TRUST ON JUNE 7

Garven Will Ask Court to Order Dissolution of the Charters.

Trenton, N. J., May 25.—Notice has been filed in the New Jersey supreme court by Prosecutor Garven of Hudson county, that he will apply to the court on June 7 for an order dissolving the charters of Armour & Co., Morris & Co., Swift & Co., and the National Packing company.

FOR DULUTH'S NEW BUILDING

Congress Will Put $595,000 in Omnibus Public Building Bill.

Washington, May 25.—The omnibus public building bill which will authorize the erection of buildings in some instances and the purchase of sites in others of Northwestern cities, is rapidly nearing completion. It will be reported to the house early in June. In a statement made public yesterday, the house committee points out that sites or buildings have been asked for Northwestern cities as follows:

Minnesota — Bemidji, Moorhead, Little Falls, Anoka, St. Peter; Hastings, Faribault, Owatonna, Lake City and Montevideo.

North Dakota—Valley City, Williston, Dickinson, Jamestown and Mandan.

South Dakota — Rapid City, Brookings and Sioux Falls.

Representative Nye has asked that the committee increase the limit for the proposed Minneapolis postoffice building from $500,000 to $750,000. An appropriation of $595,000 for a new public building at Duluth is urged by Representative Miller. Both of these items will be incorporated in the bill. Just what other Minnesota cities will be recognized is not known, but the indications are that the state will be well cared for.

It has been practically decided that each of the Dakotas shall be given two buildings.

The house leaders are in no hurry with the omnibus public building bill. It will be reported early in June, but the chances are that it will not be taken up for passage until a week or so before adjournment. When it was first decided that such a bill should be passed word was given that expenditures on this account should not exceed $10,000,000. The probabilities are that appropriations this session for public buildings will approximate $15,000,000.

LIQUOR MEN HEAR OF MODEL LICENSE

Committee Reports on Resolutions and Work Made at Meeting.

Cincinnati, O., May 25.—Exposositions of model license systems and reviews of conditions in various states were heard by the convention of the National Wholesale Liquor Dealers' association today. The morning session was devoted to addresses, but after luncheon there were reports from the committee on resolutions and by L. H. Gibson of Cincinnati on the publicity bureau of the organization and W. E. Hull of Peoria, Ill., on the protective bureau.

The principal addresses of the morning session were by T. M. Gilmore, president of the National Model License league, and Percy Andrea of Cincinnati, chairman of the committee which recently completed a survey of the results of local option in Ohio.

PROMISING PROPERTY

Idaho-Duluth to Commence Active Development Work—President Lanyon Takes Charge of Work.

The preliminary work preparatory to the commencement of active development work on the property of Idaho-Duluth Development company is progressing very satisfactorily. The work will be under the direct supervision of Capt. James H. Lanyon, who is a practical and successful man of many years' experience. The fact that Capt. Lanyon takes active charge of the work was very gratifying news to the stockholders, as this means the development work will be pushed and every dollar will be spent where it will get the best result. The property of the Idaho-Duluth Development company is looked upon by mining men as very promising. The rich outcroppings of copper and gold ores on the veins and lodes, which are plainly traceable on this property, would indicate that they are reasonably certain of opening up a good producing mine. It has been an open secret among the mining men for many years that the "Hill" on the Middle Fork of Wimpey creek was highly mineralized and second to none in richness and quantity, and all that was necessary to make the Lemhi county, Idaho, camp famous was transportation. The Gillmore & Pittsburg railroad has removed this disadvantage and is now in operation; it will be interesting to watch the growth and development of this new camp. The Idaho-Duluth Development company is destined to stand at the head of the list in opening up this great undeveloped district. The Idaho-Duluth Development company is incorporated with a capital stock of $500,000.00 divided into 500,000 shares of the par value of $1.00 per share, of which 300,000 shares have been set aside for treasury stock. This company offers the investors an unusual opportunity to participate in its profits. The board of directors has set aside a limited amount of the treasury stock to be sold at 50 cents per share for development purposes. After this stock has been subscribed for, the treasury stock will be advanced to $1.00 per share. Stock can be had by applying to any of the officers or by writing to or calling at the company's office, 419 Lonsdale building, Duluth, Minn.

STAND NOT APPROVED

Members of Camp McEwen Not in Sympathy With Commander.

Satisfied That Spanish War Veterans Were Not Intentionally Slighted.

That the members of Camp McEwen, Spanish-American war veterans do not back up the sentiment of the commander, Walter Butchart in regard to the Memorial day observances with the G. A. R., seems evident from an interview given today by M. J. Murray, Joseph B. Gibson and Theodore L. Simon, three prominent members of the local organization, whose names were mentioned yesterday in connection with an interview from Walter Butchart, commander of Camp McEwen.

The statement from Messrs' Murray, Gibson and Simon is as follows:

"Referring to the article in yesterday's Herald, under the caption 'May Refuse to Take Part,' in which our names were used, we wish to state emphatically that we did not give out an interview, or authorize one on the subject in any way.

"Although our organization has for the past three Memorial days been overlooked, apparently, we believe that it was due to oversight rather than intention.

"We do not approve of the sentiment expressed in the Butchart interview.

"We have, as an organization, been shown many courtesies by the G. A. R. and have been assisted by them in many ways, and our object is to help them and work with them rather than mar their enjoyment of Memorial day.

"We also believe that the Citizens' staff has done a great work and that it should be commended by all citizens.

"We are satisfied that the fact we have been somewhat overlooked during the past three years in Memorial day plans is due to oversight, and that it may be, in part, our fault.

"We do not wish the G. A. R., the public or the Citizens' staff to think that we favor any discordant note that would in any way mar the spirit of the day.

OBITUARY

Franklin Clement Robinson, a leading chemist and health authority, died at Portland, Me., May 20, of Bright's diseases. Prof. Robinson was born in 1852, was graduated from Bowdoin college in 1873 and for two years studied chemistry at Harvard. He was professor of chemistry at Bowdoin, and state assayer. He was formerly president of the American Public Health association and was an author of several standard text books.

Judge John Kelley, Jr., is dead at his home at Menomonie, Wis., after an illness of two months. He was born in Canada, was 63 years of age, and had resided at Menomonie since boyhood. He had served as register of deeds of Dunn county, also as county judge, for a number of years. For the last two years he had been deputy United States marshal, in charge of the office at Madison.

The deceased is survived by a widow, two sons, John W. of Pittsburg and James of Seattle, two daughters, Miss Lilian Kelley of Menomonie and Mrs. C. T. Bundy of Eau Claire.

Mrs. Lucy E. Linebarger, aged 73 years, widow of the late Rev. Dr. Linebarger of the Methodist Episcopal church of Illinois, died at the home of her son in Milwaukee, Wis., May 25, of general debility. Mrs. Linebarger was the third white child born in Milwaukee.

MORE LAND FOR NORTHLAND CLUB

Forty Acres Adjoining Present Grounds Will Probably Be Purchased.

The Northland Country club will probably purchase from Thomas F. Cole forty acres adjoining the present grounds of the club, Mr. Cole's proposition to sell the property having been accepted by the board of directors of the club. A meeting of the club members will be held Tuesday evening, June 2, to vote on the proposition.

The land is described as the northeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section 12, range 50, township 14, and Mr. Cole proposes to sell it to the club for $24,000. The board of directors have accepted the proposition subject to the approval of the club and it is expected that approval will be given at the meeting next week.

The forty acres adjoins the present property of the club and will give the club plenty of room for expansion. It has been growing constantly and the necessity of more room, with permanent possession assured, has been felt for some time

WOMAN'S SCREAM GETS THUG INTO THE LOCKUP.

Chicago, May 24.—One scream, voiced by Miss Mamie McGurty, an elevated railroad cashier, a second before she was knocked unconscious at her post here, resulted in the capture of a brutal robber. Two city detectives heard the girl's scream and saw Harry Livingston run from the station. He was captured after a lively fight. Miss McGurty's condition is critical.

AITKIN COUNTY STATE LANDS HAVE DEMAND.

Aitkin, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—State Auditor Iverson conducted a very successful sale of state lands here yesterday, several thousand acres being sold, some going as high as $17 per acre. Before leaving Mr. Iverson said state land sales so far this spring amounted to 65,000 acres as compared with 34,000 last year.

Is Declared Insane.
For the third time in his life John Knutsen was ordered to the state hospital for the insane after an examination as to his sanity by Dr. S. H. Boyer and Dr. A. C. Taylor. Knutsen has refused to work for some time. He thinks it is the duty of his wife to support the family. Three years ago he was committed to Fergus Falls. A short time after he was released he was sent back and this makes the third time he has made the journey.

Tax Paid in This County.
The inheritance tax is always paid in Duluth, according to Judge Middlecoff, notwithstanding the fact that Attorney General George T. Simpson says that there is no provision for enforcement and that he believes thousands escape without paying it. Many thousands of dollars are annually paid into the probate court. The money is turned over to the state.

Annual Meeting.
The annual meeting of the board of directors of the Duluth Y. M. C. A. will be held tonight in the directors' room at the association building.

A Temporary Walk Only.
A temporary board walk is being constructed from the end of the concrete walk on the Fifth avenue side of the federal building to the front door of the new courthouse. The board walk will be replaced by a concrete walk in the course of the improvement of the courthouse grounds.

Fugitive Is Captured.
Jacob Jackson, who ran away from the chain gang about a week ago, was arrested at his home on St. Croix avenue last evening by Patrolman Pete Barber. Jackson is the man who stole some flat irons from the Northern Pacific warehouse at the foot of Seventh avenue west some time ago. Christmas he got into the toils by pilfering toys from some of the department stores.

Pleads Guilty to Assault.
Harley W. Brigham, manager of the Interstate Mercantile company, pleaded guilty to assault in the third degree in police court yesterday afternoon and was fined $9.74. The warrant was swarn out by John Larson of 628 Twenty-first avenue west. It seems that Larson bought a wringer from the company and that he and Brigham got into an altercation when the latter called to make a collection.

Alumni Entertainment.
The Emerson School Alumni association of the West end have prepared a vaudeville program in eight acts which will be given at the school tomorrow evening. Those who will take part have rehearsed for the past two weeks. The second annual banquet has been postponed from June 3 to June 8.

Republicans Will Meet.
A meeting of the Second Ward Republican club will be held this evening at the Polish hall, Fourth avenue east and Fourth street. H. J. McClearn will be the principal speaker.

Sergeant's Name Helps.
When one is arrested it is sometimes a good move to appropriate the name of the policeman who made the arrest. John Kenna was brought into the police station yesterday afternoon by Sergeant John Kenna. This morning he admitted that he had been under the influence. The judge looked at the name and then at the prisoner. "Suspended sentence," was the verdict. "Father John," as the sergeant is often called, was nonplussed for a minute when the prisoner gave his name, but the prisoner swore he was telling the truth.

TALK ABOUT CRIMINOLOGY

Charities and Corrections Delegates Hear About Methods.

B. B. Burritt Criticises Penal Treatment for Drunkenness.

St. Louis, Mo., May 25.—Settlement problems, criminology, legal treatment of public intoxication and records of child-helping agencies were discussed at the several sectional meetings of the National Conference of Charities and Corrections this morning. Edward D. Solenberger of Philadelphia, led the discussion at the children's section meeting.

Among the speakers at the other sections were: Prof. Maurice Parmelee of the University of Kansas, Prof. Carl Kelsey, University of Pennsylvania, and Robert A. Woods of Boston.

Discussing a scientific basis for the treatment of problems of criminology and penology, Prof. Parmelee said that with the aid of science we shall soon be able to individualize the treatment of the criminal and to apply such forces in each case as will counteract the tendency toward crime manifested in the individual.

Studies in Criminology.
The speaker urged that all persons who have anything to do with crime, whether they be legislators, judges, lawyers, probation officers, police officials, or prison administrators, should possess some knowledge of anthropology, biology, pathology, psychology and sociology.

Excessive use of alcohol was charged with one-third of the insane dependents, between 30 and 40 per cent of all epileptic cases, and from 40 to 50 per cent of all cases of imbecility in the United States by Bailey B. Burritt, assistant secretary of the State Charities Aid Association of New York, in an address before the conference this morning. Mr. Burritt also stated that 60 per cent of the total number of arrests in the state of Massachusetts for the year 1908 were due to public intoxication.

"The almost universal practice of treating drunkenness solely as a penal problem with no medical aspect, and of fining persons convicted of public intoxication a small amount and sentencing them to imprisonment from three to ten days is of no use whatever, either so far as the individual or as society is concerned," said Mr. Burritt.

"The problem should be treated," he concluded, "as a medical problem with penal aspects, rather than a penal problem with no medical aspects."

Jane Addams Retires.
Homer Folks of New York was named to succeed Miss Jane Addams of Hull House, Chicago, as president of the conference by the committee on organization last night.

MANY HURRY TO PAY TAXES

People Anxious to Avoid Penalty, Rush to Treasurer's Office.

Mail Goes Unopened While Clerks Sign Receipts for Callers.

So great is the rush at the county treasurer's office at the courthouse by people who are anxious to pay the first half of their 1909 real estate taxes that the mail received each day is filed away to be investigated when the rush is over.

All day long for many days the long counter in the treasurer's office has been lined with taxpayers.

Notwithstanding the fact that seven extra men have been put to work during the rush and at the present time sixteen clerks are employed, every man is working at top speed and the people cannot be accommodated as soon as they appear.

The taxes to be collected amount to $4,506,503.42. It is not expected that the full amount will be collected, but over $4,000,000 will be handed across the county treasurer's counter.

The first half of the taxes have been coming in since the first of January when they were first due. The big rush started only about two weeks ago, however. All the first half must be paid before June 1, or 10 per cent will be added to the amount.

The last part of the taxes will be paid between June 1 and Nov. 1.

The work this year is ahead of that of last year. Last year up to this time, 18,748 persons had visited the treasurer's office and deposited the first of their taxes. This year, 20,631 have paid up to this time.

TAG DAY FOR THE BETHEL

Saturday, July 16, a tag day for the Bethel work, planned some time ago but postponed on account of the announcement of the tag day for the St. Mary's hospital, will be held.

During the panic of 1907 the Bethel was called upon to such an extent that a deficit of $1,500 was accumulated. It has never been wiped out and the tag day is designed to raise enough money to wipe out that deficit and to take care of other current expenses of the Bethel work.

The money will go to assist the Bethel, the Branch Bethel, the Bethel rescue home and the outside charities of the Bethel society.

Mr. Scott is lessee and manager of the Minneapolis and St. Paul Metropolitan theaters and first vice president of the United States Display Advertisement company, of which Mr. Sherer is secretary. C. A. Marshall of Duluth is president and treasurer, and Leon Eberhart manager.

MARINE NEWS

THE FIRST TOURISTS

Saronic Arrives With Passengers From the Lower Lakes.

Vessel Agents Are Looking Forward to a Banner Season.

Vessel agents here today stated that the present season would, if present indications are to be relied upon, be the biggest season in so far as passenger traffic is concerned, that has ever been known at the Head of the Lakes.

The Saronic arrived this morning with some passengers, and from now on until the close of navigation the vessel men here believe the passenger business of the vessels making the Head of the Lakes will show a large increase over the figures of last year.

There will be a very heavy travel from the West to the East the present season, and reports from abroad state that there will be a very heavy tourist travel from England.

Vessel men in Duluth say that the present season there has been a very heavy inquiry concerning rates, etc, from people in the West, who are planning to go East. Many of these people go East by the lake and rail route.

The new and splendid Octorara will make Duluth the present season, and will be a notable addition to the list of fine passenger boats that are making Duluth. The Anchor line agent here is sanguine over the outlook for the passenger business. Other line agents here also believe that there will be a general increase in travel over the country, and that Duluth will get its share.

SIEMENS WITHIN A MILE OF WRECK.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., May 25.—An interview with Capt. William McElroy, of the up-bound steamer William Siemens shows that the Siemens was within a mile of Monday's fatal collision on Lake Huron when eighteen lives were lost with the steamer Frank H. Goodyear and that the Siemen witnessed the rescue of the five survivors by the crew of the steamer Wood. Some hope was entertained yesterday that the Siemens might have picked up additional survivors but this hope proved to be unfounded.

ON THE TRAIL OF THE COMET

(By J. H. Darling.)

Yesterday, Halley's comet was observed for fifteen minutes early in the evening, from 8:40 to 8:55.

As seen with the naked eye or with the aid of a field glass it was of about the same brightness and general appearance as when last seen in Duluth, on Sunday night, but when viewed through a 3½-inch telescope I noticed a marked change in the appearance of the head. The nucleus was more contracted or condensed into a bright star-like object than before, and the coma or nebulous envelope appeared to be mostly on the side of the neucleus towards the sun. No tail was visible. Unfortunately clouds covered the sky before the best time in the evening for seeing had arrived.

MOUSE RAISED UPROAR IN HOTEL

There was a furore of excitement in the lobby of the Spalding hotel last evening when a small animal appeared and dared the assembled populace to exterminate it. This animal was, for a while, a mouse. It isn't a mouse now. It's dead.

The rodent made its appearance without holding a coming-out party.

There was a scurrying and a hurrying, but for a time there was no disposition to harm anything but the intruder. As the excitement heightened, however, the throng of lobby habitues became possessed of the idea that the way to kill a mouse is to break furniture. Then "The Desk" got busy and, by superb generalship, succeeded in elliminating that mouse.

"The Desk" said that there was no particular enmity against the mouse, but when the brute climbed the chandelier and began to "eat the currents off the electric light wire," it went too far, and won't go any farther.

Conference at Valley City.

Valley City, N. D., May 25.—The annual conference of the Free Lutheran church, which will attract between five hundred and six hundred delegates, will be held here June 8 to 14, according to an announcement by the local pastor, L. CHANCELLOR IS HONORED

Local Lodge Members Are Hosts to Grand Lodge Officers.

Grand Chancellor James A. Wharton of the Minnesota lodge of Knights of Pythias was the guest of honor of the North Star lodge last evening in the K. P. hall. Visitors from the ranges and other parts of the state were present. John H. Norton presided.

James L. Cromwell, past grand chancellor of Minnesota, represented the supreme lodge. He told of the accomplishments of the order in this state and the benefits accruing from a membership in Pythianism. The last grand lodge, he said, had the biggest representation in its history. The standard of membership, he declared, is constantly seeking a higher plane. He said a duty rested on the North Star lodge to assist in making the administration of Mr. Wharton a success.

The history of the Pythian Veterans, an organization of which the membership is limited to Pythians of twenty years standing, was related by George E. Storms, former president of the Veterans. He said that a local branch of the association may be organized.

A. M. Fenton has been a member of the D. O. K. K. since 1888, and he knows something about it. He told the Pythians about it last night and paid a tribute to Mr. Wharton.

F. L. Young made an eloquent talk on Pythianism and its teachings. Mr. Young is past grand chancellor. He eulogized Mr. Wharton and told of his advancement in the order.

When Mr. Wharton began speaking he was given "grand honors" and was greeted with cheering. For sixteen or seventeen years, he said, he had served his apprenticeship in the order and had tried to live up to the teachings and the philosophy upon which the order was founded. He described the tenets of Pythianism and thanked his fellow members for the honor they had given him.

B. F. Fowler of Two Harbors and other visiting Pythians spoke. Louis Dworshak sang a solo and Edgar J. Rowley gave an instrumental solo. A smoker and luncheon followed.

TAUNTS TAWNEY ON TAFT'S TRIP

Macon of Arkansas Flares Up During Discussion in the House.

Washington, May 25.—"The president was never called upon to go to my district to save my scalp," angrily shouted Mr. Macon of Arkansas in the house yesterday when Mr. Tawney of Minnesota taunted him with having recently gone home because he was afraid his constituency would not send him back to congress. He referred to President Taft's Western trip and his visit to Winona, the home of Mr. Tawney, to make a political speech designed to aid the Minnesota member in his campaign.

Although Mr. Macon's time had expired and he had been informed of the fact by Mr. Mann of Illinois, who occupied the chair, his wrath had been aroused to such a pitch that he would not take his seat until warned that the sergeant-at-arms would compel him to be in order.

Tawney Did Not Reply.

Mr. Tawney said that in view of Mr. Macon's "great indignation," he would not say anything in reply.

The heated colloquy between the two members occurred in connection with the discussion of an amendment to the sundry civil bill to appropriate $100,000 to defray the expenses of the board to modernize methods in the executive departments. It was killed by a point of order made by Mr. Macon.

It was at this juncture that Mr. Tawney addressed several pointed shafts at Mr. Macon because of his trip home to repair his political fences.

WOODMEN DRILL WITH SOLDIERS

Company A and Degree Team Meet in Competitive Military Maneuvers.

Even if the Modern Woodmen degree team had the more fancy stunts and drilled in a perfect manner, the large crowd in attendance at the Armory last evening showed its sympathy to be with Company A, which appeared in a competitive drill against the Woodmen team.

The Woodmen drilled for fifteen minutes. The team was composed of two squads. With their shining axes and their green suits with scarlet trimmings they presented a splendid appearance.

The boys of Company A also looked good to the assembled spectators for they were accorded round after round of stirring applause. They were composed of four squads. Drilling in open and extended order formed a part of their maneuvers. They also did a firing exercise with their rifles, blank cartridges being used.

An enjoyable dance, which lasted until midnight followed the exhibition.

TWO MEN ROB POKER PARTY OF ABOUT $2,000.

Salt Lake City, Utah, May 25.—Two masked men held up a poker party composed of sixteen individuals yesterday and levied a contribution of $1,000 in cash and about an qual amount of diamonds and other jewelry. The proprietor of the place made a movement toward summoning help, and was knocked down with a revolver by one of the robbers.

RUMOR THAT DIAZ IS DEAD MEETS DENIAL.

City of Mexico, Mex., May 25.—Official and emphatic denial of a report that appeared to have gained currency in the United States to the effect that President Diaz was dead, was given here last night. Minister of Foreign Relations Crew was authority for the statement that not only was there no foundation for the rumor, but that the president was in excellent health. Other government officials gave similar denials.

WEST END

OPERATOR SAVED CHILD'S LIFE

Had it not been for the quick action of Peter Mireau, of 2832 West Fifth street, an operator in the employ of the Western Union Telegraph company, who snatched a 3-year-old baby girl from in front of a team of horses yesterday afternoon, Esther, the little daughter of Edward J. Gilbert of 1802 West Superior street, might have been crushed to death under the horses' hoofs.

The little tot was playing in the street. A wagon loaded with sand approached her without her seeing it. Mr. Moreau who was passing at the time, noticed the predicament of the child and shouting to the driver, he grabbed up the girl just as one of the horses' feet struck her a glancing blow. He was hit with the neckyoke on the shoulder.

Both injuries were slight. The affair occurred about 5 o'clock. The name of the driver was not learned.

Trevironus-Butchart.

The wedding of Miss Laura Trevironus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Trevironus of 2722 West Second street, to A. F. Butchart will take place tomorrow evening at the home of the bride's parents in the West end.

After the ceremony they will take a short wedding trip to the Twin Cities and Chicago, after which they will make their home at the West end. Miss Trevironus has been employed until recently at the J. J. Moe & Sons' company store. The groom is a salesman for a local wholesale house.

Rev. J. W. Loughridge, pastor of Central Baptist church, will officiate at the wedding.

"Cafe Chantant."

The "Cafe Chantant," which has been planned by the young ladies of the St. Clement's Catholic church, will be given this evening at the hall, Twenty-first avenue west and Third street. Thirty-six young women will take part. Two sketches will be given, "The Bachelor's Dream," and "The Wrong Box."

West End Shortrails.

George Potter of Minneapolis is visiting at the home of his uncle, George Jute of the United States block, West end.

Rudolph Anderson has gone to Saskatchewan, Can., where he will take up a claim.

The Scandinavian Socialist club held a meeting last evening at Sloan's hall. A good program was given.

The Foreign Missionary Society of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church was entertained this afternoon by Mrs. Palmquist at the home of A. F. Lundholm, 2510 West Third street.

Mrs. Wiberg of 115 Twenty-second avenue west will entertain tomorrow afternoon for the Ladies' Guild of St. Luke's Episcopal church.

The Dorcas society of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church will meet tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. F. Elmquist of 1212 East First street.

Mrs. Edward Erickson, wife of the pastor of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, residing at 2510 West Second street, will leave tomorrow for Minneapolis where she will visit with former West end people. She will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dahl, who have a cottage at Lake Minnetonka. The Dahl family recently moved to Minneapolis from Duluth.

BIG GOLD MINE TO BE OPERATED

Conrad Says Famous Property Will No Longer Remain Idle.

Helena, Mont., May 25.—W. G. Conrad, the heaviest stockholder in the Spring Hill Mining company, announces that the mine, which is noted as a gold producer, will either be sold and operated by a large company, or operated by the present company in the near future. The company, because of inability to secure water, had to tram its ores over a mountain and treat them in a rented mill, which makes great inroads in its profits. W. L. Creedon, an expert, has completed an examination of the property in behalf of an Eastern syndicate, and the assumption is that this concern has an option on a nearby water right, or that Conrad has secured this and is offering both propositions. At any rate, Conrad declares the mine will be sold or operated by himself.

A splendid strike is reported in the Little Giant mine, Hassel district, Broadwater county, about thirty miles east of Helena. The property is owned by men headed by Frank Whitehead. Samples of the ore show that native gold fairly permeates them. Two well-defined veins of more than mediocre size have been encountered.

Encouraging reports come from Georgetown, where the Montana mine has joined the list of regular producers. Ore shipments are being made to the East Helena smelter.

The American Smelting & Refining company has secured a thirty-day extension of its option on the Southern Cross, and experts are engaged in checking work. These proved, the bond will be taken up beyond peradventure. This mine is owned by the Frank estate and Former Senator Mantle, and is a noted gold producer.

Visions of the early days are recalled by the experience of a Helena fisherman, who, while traveling along the banks of the Ten Mile cree., south of the city, last Sunday, picked up a gold nugget which weighs a trifle more than $5. The find was made near the mouth of Grizzly gulch and not far from where Montana's largest gold nugget was picked up in the sixties. Although others have searched the sands there, they were rewarded with no such luck.

After patiently developing a lead for two years, George Rogers has been rewarded with pay ore in his claim five miles south of Helena, in Dry gulch. So satisfactory is the showing that Rogers has let the contract for a stamp mill. The ore is free milling and panning tests show that it will yield a handsome profit.

Ore running 100 ounces of silver to the ton, with some zinc values has been found by Peter Solad in his property near Rimini.

TO ST. PAUL AND RETURN IN AUTOMOBILE.

According to Postmaster Guy A. Eaton's speedometer, it is 184 miles from the Spalding hotel in Duluth to the St. Paul in St. Paul.

That is one of the facts learned by the party the commodore took to St. Paul and Minneapolis in his touring car Sunday. The party returned to Duluth yesterday. Another thing the tourists learned is that at Fort Snelling the sentries are on duty for a purpose. It was very foggy when the Eaton car invaded the precincts of the fort and the light gleaming ahead did not reveal the form of the sentry until the machine was almost upon him.

"Who goes there?" shouted the sentry, and the members of the auto party felt a desire to shrink in obscurity, but Commodore Eaton's military training came to the rescue, and there were no anxious results from the encounter. The autoists convinced the sentry they were not members of an Indian war party, saluted, and proceeded on their way, honking.

In the party were: David R. Black, Mart Adson, E. O. Perry and Fred Engels. This was Mr. Perry's first visit to the Twin Cities, and according to his companions he took advantage of the opportunity to tell those he met there that Duluth will be one of the leading cities of the world within a short time, and that Duluth, in point of population, is destined to be the greatest city in Minnesota.

The trip was enjoyed very much by the Duluthians, who met with no unpleasant experience than the absence of sunshine The rain didn't bother them, and the car plowed through the mud without any trouble.

SPEAKS AT HIGH SCHOOL.

J. W. Young Talks on Proper Interpretation of Works of Art.

J. W. Young of Chicago, who is one of the lecturers at the art exhibit of the Duluth Art association made a short talk to the high school students this morning in the high school auditorium.

Mr. Young told the students much to help them better understand the pictures at the exhibit. He said a picture should appeal to one's emotions. He said a picture that tells a story is not the type of picture for a student to study for this story could have been told more easily in writing. A picture, which appeals to one's emotions; representing something which would only be told on the canvas is the truly great piece of art, he said, and he told the pupils to look for these and not for the names and prices on the pictures.

This is a rare opportunity for the students, he said, as they have but little opportunity to study art. He will make arrangements with Mr. Buck for as many of the high school boys as wish to do so, to accompany him on a visit to the exhibit and he will explain the pictures to them.

Tomorrow night Mr. Young will lecture at the high school auditorium in the interest of the art association. Mr. Buck urged as many of the students as possible to attend.

BUSINESS TO BE SUSPENDED IN HONOR OF SOLDIER DEAD

Big Stores and Wholesale Houses to Close Doors Memorial Day.

Appropriate Exercises Will Be Held in Schools Friday.

Nearly all the stores in the city will close Monday, May 30, in order that the employes may take part in the observance of Memorial day.

Business on Superior street will be practically at a standstill, and everybody will join in paying respect to the memory of the soldiers who are gone, and in making the living veterans feel that they and their services performed so long ago are remembered and appreciated.

Several of the wholesale houses have announced that they would be closed Decoration day, and even a great number of the grocery and meat stores located about the city will close Saturday night to remain closed until Tuesday morning.

That the Grand Army men appreciate the action of the stores in closing is a certainty. They have been working for some time in this direction, that the observance of the day might be universal throughout the city. Some of the stores have closed in past years, but many more will close this year.

Exercises at Schools.

At the several schools of the city there will be appropriate Memorial day exercises Friday afternoon.

At the Central high school the program will take place during the chapel hour, which is shortly after 9 o'clock. A. F. M. Custance has arranged a special musical program and the choir will sing appropriate songs. The exercises will be followed by short talks by the old soldiers and the members of the Citizens' staff who will be in attendance.

The exercises at the grade schools will be under the supervision of the principals, and will take place in nearly all the schools at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

For some weeks past the teachers in the various buildings have been telling the children of Memorial day, its meaning and stories connected with it. This has been done by suggesting books to be read, by drawings on the blackboard and by other means.

In the grade schools the exercises will consist of songs, recitations, original orations and will close with talks by members of the Grand Army of the Republic and the sounding of taps.

In a number of the schools, several of the grades from the fourth up, will hold their exercises together. In other schools each grade will have independent exercises.

The rooms have been decorated with flags and old muskets have in a number of instances been secured for the purpose of decoration.

There will be flag drills and at some of the schools, exercises will be held about the flag pole, which stands on each school ground.

At the high school, Charles E. Holt, D. W. Scott, M. W. Bates and M. C. Palmer, members of the Grand Army of the Republic will be the principal speakers.

Program at Ely School.

The program to be held at the Ely school, which is typical of those at all the schools, follows:

Invocation ..... Rev. D. W. Lynch.
Song—"Holy, Holy, Holy" ..... Eighth grade pupils.
Recitation—"An Incident of the War" ..... George Rathbun.
Song—"Memorial Day" ..... Three girls.
Recitation—"Grand Army Boys" .... Harvey Wollan.
Song—"Soldier Boy" ..... Twelve boys.
Recitation—"Sword of Bunker Hill" Helen Ash.
Piano duet ..... Pearl Holmes and Annie Blakney.
Recitation—"Old Times" ..... Clarence Jacobson.
Song—"The Soldier Boys" ..... Chorus of girls.
Recitation—"The Flag of '76" ..... Lilian Ramstad.
Flag drill ..... Fourth grade pupils.
Song—"Our Flag" ..... Eighth grade pupils.
Song—"America" ..... School.
Song—"Taps" ..... Fourth grade pupils.

Visitors to Schools.

Due to a misunderstanding a full list of the Grand Army men who are to speak at the public schools Friday afternoon was not published when the list appeared in The Herald Monday evening. The additional list, the Grand Army men being members of Culver post, follows:

HERE FIXING HIS FENCES

State Development and Reapportionment Are His Chief Arguments.

Dr. A. B. Cole, who is one of the five candidates for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor, is in Duluth today calling on his friends and spreading the gospel of state development and reapportionment.

Four years ago, Dr. Cole's brother, the late A. L. Cole, was a candidate for governor, being nominated on the Republican ticket to run against the late John A. Johnson. His platform at that time is practically the same as the one on which Dr. Cole is basing his candidacy for the nomination for lieutenant governor. The late Mr. Cole was the father of the conservation movement in Minnesota, but when he was active in that cause it was called state development. He also was a staunch advocate of reapportionment.

These are the cardinal points in Dr. Cole's argument. He holds that the interests of the Twin Cities and Duluth are identical with those of Northern Minnesota and that the development of this part of the state is essential to the continued prosperity and growth of the cities. The southern part of the state, he says, is commercially tributary to Chicago and intermediate Eastern jobbing and manufacturing centers while all of the northern part of the state is tributary to Duluth and the Twin Cities.

Drainage and similar public works are advocated by Dr. Cole for the betterment of opportunities in the southern part of the state. He would overlook no chance to improve Minnesota conditions, without regard to sectionalism. This is his platform.

Dr. Cole devoted his time while in the city to making calls on business men and politicians of the city. Senator George A. Laybourn was his host.

RAILROADS

SUNDAY NIGHT TRAIN SERVICE ON THE M. & I.

Bemidji, Minn., May 25. — Sunday night trains in both directions between International Falls, Bemidji and Twin Cities have been ordered by the Minnesota & International Railway company, and will be installed commencing next Sunday. G. A. Walker, local agent for the Minnesota & International recognized the need of additional train service on Sunday between the "Falls" and Minneapolis and it is largely through his persistent effort in the interest of the company that the Minnesota & International has decided to establish a new train.

RAPID WORK GRADING STANLEY-MONTROSE LINE.

Montrose, N. D., May 25.—Rapid work is being done by the graders who are engaged on the Stanley-Montrose line of the Great Northern, and within a very short time it is anticipated that the trains will be running into Montrose. A major portion of the grading has already been completed, the crews being within a few miles of this city. No steel has yet been laid, but a great deal of material has arrived at Stanley and work will start soon. The line is about eighty miles long.

Hear Railroads' Side.

Chicago, May 25.—The railroads have begun their side of the story before the federal board of arbitration here which is to settle the wage dispute between 27,000 enginemen and forty-seven railroads west of Chicago. Superintendent of Motive Power Speedy of the Southern Pacific railroad, was the first witness.

INSANITY CAUSED BY DESERTION

Anna S. Wood's Mind Unbalanced By Worrying Over Husband's Flight.

Anna S. Wood, 37 years old, will have an examination as to her sanity in probate court this afternoon.

Mrs. Wood, according to the information of insanity filed with the clerk of the probate court, goes out on the street and picks up whatever she can find and takes it home. Rubbish of all kinds she carries for miles, thinking that it will be of some use to her.

She is also said to be very filthy, and refuses to work, according to the information filed against her.

Her present condition is said to be the result of being deserted by her husband. She thought of this matter a great deal, and finally "got religion."

E. R. Scribner of Tower will also be examined as to his sanity this afternoon.

LAUGHS WHEN KNOCKED DOWN BY AUTOMOBILE.

At least one man in Duluth doesn't seem to mind being hit by an automobile. His name was not learned. He stepped in front of a machine at Lake avenue and Superior street about 11 o'clock last night and was bowled over. He plicked himself up with a laugh and went on down the street eating peanuts. Another similar accident from the same location was reported to the police this morning, but it is thought that it was the same case. In both instances it was stated that the driver had the car, which bore a number showing that it was not owned in Duluth, under perfect control. Otherwise it is stated that the victim would have been seriously hurt, if not killed.

BEEF TRUST MEN ATTACK CHARGES

Skirmish in War on Packing Combine Is Fought in Chicago.

Chicago, May 25.—The first skirmish in the government's attack on the so-called beef trust before Judge Landis in the United States district court began here today, when counsel for the National Packing company and its ten subsidiary concerns assailed the validity of the indictments charging a combination in restraint of trade.

The defendants were represented by Attorneys Ralph Crewes, George T. Buckingham and Joseph H. Defrees; the government by District Attorney Edwin W. Sims, Special Assistant District Attorney James H. Wilkerson, Assistant District Attorney Elwood Godman and Assistant to the Attorney General Oliver E. Pagin. In his argument Mr. Buckingham alleged:

"First—That the indictment does not go into particulars sufficiently.

"Second—That it does not charge a crime, nor cite facts constituting a crime.

"Third—That if there was a crime, the statute of limitations (three years) had run against it.

"Fourth — That the indictment charges no interstate commerce transactions.

"Fifth—That no place in which the combination operated or had existed is alleged.

"Sixth—It is a combination which is illegal, not its acts."

WOMAN SUES FOR DAMAGES

Niza Gorse Says Husband's Death Was Caused By Company's Negligence.

Nisa Gorse, as administratrix of the estate of her husband, Matt Gorse, has brought suit against the Oliver Iron Mining company for $5,000. It is alleged that Gorse lost his life in the Sibley mine, near Ely, while in the employ of the company.

Gorse, she states in her complaint, was employed in the capacity of a carpenter, doing repair work. Oct. 12, 1909, it is alleged, the walls of a part of the mine where he was working caved in, and he was buried beneath the earth and timbers.

The widow claims that the company was negligent in that they did not furnish him a safe place in which to work.

MINNESOTA PEOPLE AT NATION'S CAPITAL

Washington, May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—F. Sederberg and wife and daughter of Bruham, Minn., and John A. Wedurn and Gustaf Miller of Goodhue were at the state department this morning to secure their passports for an extended European trip. They left Washington today for New York, from which port they will sail on the Cedric for Liverpool.

Representative Miller this morning escorted Rev. Mr. Stevenson and wife of Park Rapids, Minn., to the White House and presented them to President Taft.

Thomas Godfrey of Hibbing, Minn., who has been in Washington several days, left for home today.

HALLEY'S COMET SPLITTING UP?

Astronomer Says Parts of it Are Separated 3,000 Miles.

Chicago, May 25.—Division of Halley's comet's head is reported from Arizona this morning, but was not detected by observers here last night.

"What we did see," said Prof. Edwin B. Frost of Yerkes observatory, "was that the head was much brighter than it had been, and there was cyanogen gas in the tail, along with ordinary hydro-carbons. If the head is divided as reported, it will probably show in photographs which we took last night, but which have not been developed."

The report of the division came from Tucson, Ariz. Dr. A. F. Douglas of the University of Arizona declares he observed two parts to the head of the comet, and he predicts the ultimate destruction of the astral wanderer. He said his computation indicated that the bright part of the head was about 3,000 miles ahead of the other part.

Mr. Douglas calls attention to the fact that the comet of 1882 divided into four parts and entirely disappeared.

Dr. Bracken Quite Ill.

St. Paul, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. H. M. Bracken, secretary of the state board of health, who is ill of typhoid fever at the Northwestern hospital in Minneapolis, is not yet out of danger, according to reports received at his office at the Capitol.

It will require a week or ten days more for the fever to run its course.

Spooner Athletes Elect.

Spooner, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Spooner Athletic association has elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, O. H. Dierckx; vice president, F. Koefod; secretary, M. D. Weeks; treasurer, O. Flatner.

Spooner boasts of one of the best equipped baseball parks in Northern Minnesota.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank I. Breeze have issued invitations for the wedding reception for their daughter, Miss Rachael Marion MacLaren and William Liddell Mackay of this city which will take place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Breeze at 1013 East Second street, Wednesday evening, June 8. The ceremony will take place before the immediate friends. The bride will be attended by Miss Mabel Mackay of St. Paul, sister of the bridegroom, and the groomsman will be Mr. Rhinebolt of St. Paul. The ceremony will be followed by the reception.

Mr. Mackay and his bride will leave for a wedding trip and will be at home in this city after their return.

Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Kincaid of 102 South Fourteenth avenue east were hosts at a bridge party last evening in compliment to Miss MacLaren and Mr. Mackay. The game was played at six tables. Tomorrow afternoon Mrs. Arthur Barnes will entertain at cards at her home at Lester Park in honor of Miss MacLaren and Friday evening Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Cheney will entertain at their home, 1222 East Second street.

DULUTH GUEST

Is Honored at Delta Gamma Reception.

The following item from the Minneapolis Journal will be of interest to many Duluthians:

"Members of the Lambda Nu, alumnae chapter of Delta Gamma, were at home this afternoon at the chapter house, 1911 Sixth street southeast, in honor of Mrs. E. McMaster Pennock, nee Tennant, a Delta Gamma bride of May 14, and her sister, Mrs. Charles E. Adams of Duluth. Receiving with Mrs. Pennock and Mrs. Adams were their mother, Mrs. G. H. Tennant; Mrs. M. D. Purdy, Miss Ada Comstock, Miss Gratia Countryman and Miss Laura Henry. The hours were from 3 to 6 and 125 members of Delta Gamma called, including both alumnae and girls from the active chapter in the Twin Cities.

"Ferns and palms were arranged through the rooms in bower effect and in the dining room yellow roses, the sorority flower, were heaped in a mound on the tea table. Serving in the dining room were Mrs. Grosvenor Cross, Mrs. Samuel L. Sewall, Mrs. G. B. Frankforter, Mrs. G. W. Buffington, Mrs. John Irwin and Miss Katrina Strohmeier. A group of girls from the active chapter assisted. A short musical program was given."

MANY LECTURES

To Be Presented By Prof. Maria Sanford.

Duluthians will be interested in the commencement lectures which will be delivered by Prof. Maria Sanford during the June exercises in the various schools of the state. Prof. Sanford has received many requests to deliver the address at schools and she has accepted the following engagements:

Sunday, May 29, at Cambridge, baccalaureate address at the high school, commencement; Monday, May 30, Memorial day address at the state university; June 2, Blooming Prairie; June 3, Sauk Center; June 4, Kasson; June 5, Hopkins; June 6, Mantorville; June 7, Arlington; June 8, Cannon Falls, June 9, Stillwater, private school.

"AMERICAN ART"

To Be Subject of Illustrated Lecture.

"American Art for Americans and Why," will be the subject of a lecture tomorrow evening at the assembly hall of the high school by J. W. Young of Chicago, art critic and lecturer. The talk will be illustrated by a fine collection of scioptican slides made by color photography, that promise to be of unusual interest. Mr. Young has 150 slides that are representative of the best of American art of this and the last generation. He is the first man in America to make color slides from paintings, and the process, which has only been completed within the last few years, is a most interesting one.

"Telling the people what to like in art is like telling a girl the kind of man she ought to marry. You can advise and point out in both cases, but you can't reach the ultimate in either one," said Mr. Young this morning.

CHARMING MEMBER OF THE MULTIMILLIONAIRE COLONY

MRS. JOSEPH P. GRACE.

Mrs. Joseph P. Grace is the wife of the multimillionaire son of the late William R. Grace, twice mayor of New York city. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blair Macdonald of the millionaire colony of Westbury, Long Island. They formerly lived in Chicago. Mr. Grace is an active young business man of the metropolis. He is a nephew of Michael P. Grace of "Battle Abbey," England, whose daughters are called "The Three Graces." One of them married Lord Donoughmore.

"I freely give my tribute to the old masters, but I maintain that 100 specimens taken from any two countries of Europe by the painters of today and compared with 100 canvases from the best of our American painters that we'll come out ahead every time. The old painters who brought the teachings of the Bible to the people thought their paintings on the walls of the churches served art well, but I think landscape is the greater art, and the American artist of today is going out to nature in America, receiving the greater impulse and doing the best work.

Mr. Young has selected his pictures well, and, as he modestly says, "Whether the people like to hear me talk or care for my views on American art or not, they will enjoy the slides, I know."

The lecture will be given at 8 o'clock in the evening at the assembly hall of the schools, and the exhibit will be closed during the lecture.

It is Mr. Young who has given the etching by Innes to the art association to be offered as a prize for the best article on "What an Art Association Can Do for Duluth" or "Should We Study the Art and Artists of Our Own Country Rather Than Those of Other Countries."

EVENING RECEPTION.

Mr. and Mrs. Washburn to Receive Students.

The first of the commencement festivities of graduation week at the Duluth Normal school will be the evening reception Friday evening of this week, at which Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Washburn will be hosts at their home at Hunter's Park. Mr. Washburn is the resident director of the school and with Mrs. Washburn entertains the graduating class each year.

The members of the faculty will also be entertained and the guests will be received from 8 to 11 o'clock Friday evening.

The alumnae banquet will be held Saturday evening at Washburn hall. The faculty will be guests of the members.

W. R. C. Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Women's Relief Corps will be held tomorrow at Memorial hall in the courthouse. A large attendance of the members is desired, as the final arrangements for the dinner to be served on Memorial day are to be made.

Eastern Star.

The regular meeting of the Zenith chapter No. 25 of the Order of the Eastern Star will be held Friday evening of this week at the lodge room in the Masonic Temple. The meeting will open promptly at 7 o'clock instead of the usual hour, 8 o'clock, and the opening ceremonies will be followed immediately by the initiatory work.

To Study Abroad.

Miss Alice Sjoselius, the young Duluth soprano, will leave next week for the East to sail soon for Europe to spend the summer in Sweden. In the autumn Miss Sjoselius will go to Berlin to continue her vocal study under teachers there.

LA LIBERTY-WHITE.

Simple Wedding Service at Church Parsonage.

The wedding of Mrs. Margaret Henderson La Liberty of this city and George F. White of Superior took place yesterday afternoon at the parsonage of St. Matthew's German Lutheran church. The service was read by the pastor, the Rev. Hermann Drews. The attendants were Mr and Mrs. Elchen. After the ceremony a luncheon was served at the Spalding. Mr. and Mrs. White left for a wedding trip and they will return to Superior, where they will be at home after July 1 at 2101 Tower avenue.

ART EXHIBIT.

Hundreds of Duluthians Visit the Picture Show.

The formal opening of the art exhibit arranged under the auspices of the Duluth Art association, which was held last evening was a decided and most encouraging success and several hundred Duluthians called at the courthouse to enjoy and appreciate the offering of the association. About the value of the exhibit there is no question and the two weeks during which it will be on display free to the people of the city will undoubtedly prove of great educational value and give much real pleasure.

The president of the association, Bishop McGolrick, formally opened the picture show with a short address to the members and their guests. The aims of the society were explained and the guests were invited to become members of the association.

"I hope that the time will soon come," said the bishop, "when we will have an art museum here in Duluth, and I hope that every one here will joint the art association. A better exhibition than we have here now could not be found anywhere, for each of the pictures is well worthy of study in itself."

The loan exhibit, which is composed of originals owned by Duluthians, makes an interesting and valuable showing and the pictures displayed by the local dealers are well selected and among the most valuable of the exhibit. The only example at the exhibit of the work of James McNeil Whistler is shown by the Engel's company and in this collection are also shown a portrait from the brush of Sir Joshua Reynolds, painted in 1756; "Springtime," by Ridgeway Knight; a "Venetian Scene," by Ziem, and others.

The splendid showing of the works of David Ericson, in whom Duluthians are particularly interested, are displayed by the firm of J. H. Edwards and others from their collection are worthy of the interested attention which they are demanding. The presence of Mr. Ericson after a two years' absence in Paris is of particular interest and his new canvassers are attracting much attention.

C. C. Rosenkranz, the local artist, is director of the exhibit.

In connection with the exhibition, which will be open each day from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m., there will be a lecture tomorrow evening at the high school assembly hall on "American Art for Americans and Why," by J. W. Young of Chicago.

The exhibit is free to the public and every one is invited to attend at the hours most convenient and it is hoped by the officers and directors of the association that people will make several visits to the galleries during the two weeks.

OUR OWN AND OTHER PEOPLE'S CHILDREN

By HARRIET PRESCOTT SPOFFORD.

It is easy to love our own children; but somehow it does not seem to easy with other people's children; and they are not half so charming in the assertion of their wills when they dispute the seat or the book with us, while politeness to their elders makes it rather difficult for us to assert our wills; and they are subjects of no delightful awe and mystery at all when they are tumbling all over us with sticky fingers and daubed faces; when they burst into our sleeping rooms in the morning; when they insist on crowding into the carriage when it is already full; when they set up a bawl in the middle of an interesting conversation, and instead of being scooped up and swept out of the room are expostulated with; when they disturb the peace of breakfast, dinner and tea; when everything is interrupted by the demanding of these cherubs, and everything is so in abeyance to their wishes that elderly people seem to have no rights in the world at all, and the while pleasure of one's visit to the parents, or the parent's visit to one's self, is destroyed by their presence and behavior, till we are inclined to believe that the correct definition of the word cherub is that other word imp.

Of course parents owe an undisputed duty to their children, and it is necessary that the little things should be made happy; that their proper pleasures should be unrestricted; that their questions should be answered; that they should not be grieved or outraged; that their lives should be one long remembrance of happiness as far as their parents can make them so.

But these same people own, also, an undisputed duty to their guests, when they have guests, and if they can not perform it they certainly should not put themselves in the way of failing in it by having guests; and it is just as right that the guests should not be grieved and outraged as that the children should not be.

Only those people do that which is either agreeable or decent who regard their guests as wards, for the time being, if not actively to be made happy, yet to be allowed to be happy if they will, and who take into consideration whether or not these persons who are thus at their mercy can be happy with other people's children tyrannizing over them, in the manner that one may so frequently see them do.

It would seem that plain, common sense must teach people that their children are not as lovesome to all the world as to themselves; and that even if others find them very attractive, yet they may weary of what the natural tides of flesh and blood make it impossible that they themselves should ever weary; and that it is to be taken for granted that certain things are disagreeable, and that it is not to be left to the guests to complain, or else pretend politely that it is all as it should be when trodden and trampled on by a parcel of little people without fear of man.

One, indeed, may be as fond of children as the next one, but it is always to be understood that that means children in the right place, and, where the guest is concerned, the right place is never the first place. And if we happen to be the guest of the occasion how swiftly our thoughts run, and how much to the purpose!

TRY THIS DINNER

Codfish Soup.

Boil a pound of fresh codfish free from skin and bones, and chop it fine. Return to the water in which it was boiled. Blend one tablespoonful of butter and one of flour, and add a cup of cold milk. Mix with the fish and stock. Just before serving add two hard-boiled eggs, finely chopped.

Vegetables—Macaroni au Gratin.

Cook half a pound of macaroni, broken pieces, in boiling salted water till tender, adding one tablespoonful of butter in a saucepan, put in the cooked macaroni, add salt, pepper, a good dash of paprika, grate of nutmeg, and moisten with one gill of good white sauce.

Mix carefully so as not to break the macaroni, and add one heaping tablespoonful of grated cheese.

Pile this neatly in a buttered gratin dish, pour over a little more white sauce, then sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese and fine bread crumbs. Pour over two tablespoonfuls of melted butter and bake in a hot oven for ten minutes. Serve hot.

Meat—Roast Lamb a la Bretagne.

Remove the bone from a leg of lamb and stuff the cavity with bread crumbs, seasoning with minced parsley, marjoram, chopped onion and the beaten yolk of an egg. Cook it for an hour and a half, having first pricked the skin and rubbed it with garlic. Baste with the drippings, adding a little stock if necessary. Serve with lima beans seasoned and mashed.

Dessert—Apple Custard.

Steam two large tart apples that have been peeled and cored. Rub them through a sieve and add one cupful of milk, two teaspoonfuls of butter, one-quarter of a cupful of sugar and the yolks of four eggs. Turn the mixture into baking cups, stand them in hot water and bake about twenty minutes. When they come from the oven pile the beaten white of an egg on top of each cup, sprinkle with powdered sugar and place in the oven to brown slightly. Serve cold.

THE EVENING STORY

TWO PLOTS THAT FAILED

By Jessie Lane.

"You look very ferocious, Peggy; what is the matter?" asked Daphne St. Clair, as she walked into her cousin's room one hot July afternoon.

"It is enough to make anyone savage. I have just received a letter from Aunt Mary. Listen to this," and Lady Peggy Vane took up the letter she had been reading:

"My Dear Peggy:—You have often heard me speak of Sir Richard Darroll and his friend, Mr. Tremayne. They were here to dinner the other evening, and Sir Richard was complaining that there was no fishing around about. I remember you saying what good sport there was in the river that runs through the grounds of Elmcourt.

"I have taken the liberty, my dear Peggy, of asking your mother to invite them to stay for a short time; but the reason for my writing to you is to mention that Richard is a great favorite of mine, and I should like you to be nice to him. He would soon fall a victim to your charms, and to see you married would be my greatest desire gratified. With fond love, your affectionate aunt, MARY VANE."

"Well, I don't think you need look so mad, dear; you have not seen the man yet," said Daphne.

"I happen to know what Aunt Mary is," responded Lady Peggy. "It means that I must marry Sir Richard or my allowance will be cut off. You know mother and I would be pretty badly off if it were not for auntie."

"I have a plan Peggy," and her cousin's eyes were full of laughter; "it will be lovely if you only consent. I have often wondered what it would be like to be Lady Peggy Vane."

"You mean—oh, tell me," cried Lady Peggy, seizing Daphne's arm, "you mean we will change round; you will be me, and I will be you?"

"You have guessed right."

A week later the two girls sat in Lady Peggy's bedroom, discussing the two men who had arrived that evening. Each admitted that their plot was working out very satisfactorily.

The next day dawned beautiful and fair, and the girls started for the river with Sir Richard and Bob Tremayne as soon as breakfast was over.

Somehow or other they paired off, and Bob Tremayne found himself by Lady Peggy's side, while Sir Richard had stopped to admire the view with Daphne.

"The countess has a fine place here, Miss St. Clair," said Bob, eyeing Peggy out of the corner of his eye.

"Yes, it is beautiful; and over there is the tennis lawn. We might have a set this afternoon. Peggy and I get so tired of playing a single-handed game," and Lady Peggy could hardly refrain from laughing when she thought of their deception.

It was not an easy matter as the days passed to keep their little farce.

Over and over again the countess made mistakes, but all seemed to pass off without being noticed.

One day, after the young men had been at Elmcourt about a fortnight, the "bomb" fell, as Lady Peggy explained to her aunt some time afterwards.

They were out driving in the beautiful motor Sir Richard Darroll had brought with him.

She was sitting in front with Bob Tremayne, who was driving.

"Go faster, Mr. Tremayne; go as fast as you can," she said, looking up into his brown eyes.

"If I do, I shall exceed the speed limit and get fined; but here goes," and he touched some handle and the car shot forward with still greater speed.

On they went for some distance, and then to their surprise they saw in front a policeman rise from the bushes, waving his arms.

Tremayne pulled up almost at once. "You were exceeding the limit," said the man in blue, as he came towards them.

"Yes, I'm afraid I was," returned Tremayne unconcernedly.

"It was all my fault; I told him to drive faster," interrupted Lady Peggy, getting frightened.

The policeman smiled and pulled out his book.

"I must have the gentleman's name and address," he said.

"Oh, I say!" said Sir Richard, jumping up. "We were not going so fast as all that."

"Yes, I think we were," said Tremayne; "perhaps you were too occupied to notice," and there was just the trace of a smile round the corners of his mouth.

"Will you give me your name, please, sir?" said the policeman, looking at Tremayne.

For a moment, he hesitated, then, turning to the man, he said: "My name is Sir Richard Darroll, and I am staying at Elmcourt."

The policeman looked surprised, but scribbled it down in his notebook.

The motor passed on up the country lane and stopped at a farm house, where they descended for tea.

It was not until they had finished and were wandering round the garden before returning that Lady Peggy mentioned anything about the episode, then as they were strolling down a sidewalk she turned to her companion, saying:

"What made you give Sir Richard's name to the policeman?"

Tremayne started, and stopping in the middle of the path, said: "I am afraid I must confess something to you, and I'm sure I don't know what you will think of me, but the truth is, I am Sir Richard Darroll, Miss St. Clair."

The blood slowly rose to Peggy's face.

"You!—Sir Richard! I don't understand!"

"Forgive me, but I did not mean to deceive you all along; but may I tell you that before I left to come here, Miss Vane made it clear that she wanted to marry her niece, Lady Peggy. I had no idea of doing any such thing. In fact, I am in love with some one else."

Lady Peggy's face whitened. Oh! how mad she has been, how utterly mad. So she was in love with somebody else, and he was Sir Richard. But he had taken her hand. He was saying something. What was it?

"Daphne, darling! Daphne, it is you I love, dear; you I want. Won't you speak to me dear? Don't turn your face from me, darling?"

"But—I am not—oh, how shall I tell you—I am not Daphne."

"Not Daphne?" said Sir Richard, in blank amazement. "Why, what do you mean?"

Lady Peggy smiled gaily up at him.

"You see, I don't want to marry Sir Richard either, so Daphne and I exchanged names."

"But you do now, don't you, Daph—Peggy, I mean."

"I don't know. You see, you have been saying all the nice things to Daphne," said Peggy, with a little pout.

"But it is you I want, yourself; the name does not matter a little bit; say you will marry me after all, sweetheart," and Sir Richard held out his arms.

That autumn saw a double wedding, and Miss Vane's special wish gratified.

YOUNG MEN AND MAIDENS

By MISS EXPERIENCE.

Are Bachelors Afraid?

It is rumored that chaperones are coming in. And one hears that it is the men who are starting the reform for—one hesitates to say it—for their own protection and as a means of allaying their nervous fears.

It seems that the chaperoning system existing in other countries has caught their attention, and pleases them greatly. They are under the impression that the men instituted it, and they feel it is a thing they have been wanting for years.

Not Worth Worrying About.

"A man asked me to take a walk with him, then did not turn up, and wrote an excuse. This happened twice," Nellie D. writes: "After six months he took me to the theater and for three months we went together. Then he never turned up again. He told a friend he didn't know what was the matter."

Well, Nellie, he must be rather dense, or else he thinks he can treat a girl as he likes, and she will not resent it. So cool a lover is not one you need mind giving up. He would not make a very devoted husband. It isn't worth while to bring him back.

Another One, Just as Bad.

"For four years," Bertha M. says, "Harry and I have been sweethearts and for two years we have been engaged. We love each other so much!

"Before we met he had gambled, but faithfully promised to give it up. Now he wrote lately to say he had broken this promise and dared not ask me to forgive. I wrote and said we all failed sometimes, and I would forgive, but have never had a line from him since."

It looks as if he wants it ended, and that this was only his excuse. If so, he has behaved so badly to you that you oughtn't to find it very hard to give him up and forget him, which seems to be what he wants. It is a very unhappy story.

THE SWEET GOOD NIGHT

By ETHEL MARION.

He said "Good-night!" and he held her hand
In a hesitating way.
And he hoped her eyes would understand
What his lips refused to say.

He held her hand, and he murmured low:
"I'm sorry to go like this,
It seems so frightfully cold, you know,
This mister of ours, and miss."

"I thought, perhaps"—and he paused to note
If she seemed inclined to frown,
But the light in her eyes his heart-strings smote,
As she blushingly looked down.

She said no word, but she picked up a speck
Of dust from his coat lapel,
Such a small, such a wee little tiny fleck;
'Twas a wonder she saw so well!

And it brought her face so very near
In that dim uncertain light,
That the thought unspoken was made quite clear,
And I know 'twas a sweet "Good-night!"

Dry Cleaning and Dyeing

TO WOMEN:

Shirt Waists have become thoroughly established as an indispensable feature of feminine attire. Their daintiness, whether in linen, silk, wool or cotton, makes them easy victims to the washboard or the alkalies to which they are submitted in every laundry.

Through our methods they are cleansed, deodorized, renovated, freshened and made as sweet and dainty as when they were first worn and without the slightest wear and tear on the fabrics.

This means much, especially to the business woman, who is obliged to maintain a proper appearance under most trying conditions. We exercise just as much care and expertness in handling these small details as if they were of much larger proportions. You will find our services, in this respect, a money-saver worth serious consideration.

TO MEN:

A suit of clothes which has become soiled, covered with grease spots and stains, and seems to have lost its usefulness forever, can, by our dry cleaning process, with a little tailor work, be made as good as new. We employ only expert pressers and tailors in this department, so that we can assure patrons the best results.

This service covers all classes and grades of men's suitings, including evening dress, white vests in pique, cotton and duck, and fancy vests made from silk and other materials. The man of taste and fashion will appreciate how much we can accomplish for him, and how much unnecessary outlay we can save.

We can also take your neckties and gloves and produce good results. Is this not better than casting them away when they have by no means outlived their usefulness? These are suggestions which every well-groomed man can afford to follow.

FOR THE HOUSEHOLD

We shall be glad to call for your draperies, rugs, portieres, curtains, tapestries and everything pertaining to your house, that you wish to have cleaned or dyed.

Don't loose sight of the fact that our process destroys every germ or microbe and restores everything to a perfectly sanitary condition. Let us give you an estimate whilst you are doing your spring cleaning.

We have the best Dry Cleaning and Dyeing establishment in Duluth—or, for that matter, in the Northwest.

TWO HUNDRED FARMERS WANT ACCESS TO THE CITY

Rousing Meeting of Citizens and Settlers Interested in New Road.

About Only Feasible Route Now Is Through West Duluth.

The members of the Central Hillside Improvement club urged immediate action for the opening and grading of the Farrell and Sundby roads at the most rousing meeting of the year in the Polish school house at Fourth avenue east and Fourth street last night.

"About the only thing that the farmers can haul over the hill now is a keg of beer," declared one of those present, "and most of the time they have a hard job getting that up."

The gathering was unusually large and enthusiastic. In addition to a large representation from the club membership, about 200 farmers whose land is tributary to the roads and who are vitally interested in the proposition were present. Several of them expressed themselves emphatically upon the proposition, asserting that it is high time the road was put in such shape that it can be used to advantage. As it now is the majority of them are obliged to go by way of West Duluth if they wish to bring a load of produce to the city or take back any quantity of goods.

Resolution Passed.

The sentiment of the meeting is contained in the following resolution, which passed unanimously:

"Resolved, by mass meeting of the residents of the hillside and farmers from Hermantown, Rice Lake and Gnesen, that the most important work to be done this year by the county commissioners and city council of the building of a low grade roadway to the top of the hill, and the opening up of the Sundby and Farrell roads to the farming country beyond and we urge Mr. Tischer to appropriate $5,000 for the Farrell road this year, and urge Mr. Frazer to appropriate $5,000 this year for the Sundby road, and urge Mr. Cummings and Mr. Overton, the other commissioners from Duluth to help build these two roads, in every way possible, as it benefits the farmers more than anything else can, and we urge the city to arrange this season to get a low grade roadway up to Eleventh street and Ninth avenue east."

The Proposed Road.

The proposed Farrell road begins at the intersection of Seventh avenue east and Eleventh street, runs a block west, then north half a block and around the side of the hill to the boulevard, whence it follows the Howard Gnesen road to the bridge near the Sisters' farm and runs over in a westerly direction to the poor farm.

Its construction to the boulevard will eliminate the necessity of building the Sundby road to that point, cutting out the heaviest part of the construction work. The Sundby road can be continued up the gulch from the boulevard to a connection with the Swan Lake road. It is proposed to make the road thirty-three feet with a gravel bed, the material for which can be picked up in the locality which will be tapped by the road.

Those who have studied the proposition say that the biggest obstacle is the construction of the first mile out of the city limits. This is due largely to the fact that in that neighborhood there are no residents or farmers who are particularly interested in its construction and that for that place the cost is much heavier than elsewhere. Some assistance has been secured from the county commissioners and the city council, but more is needed and the members of the club and the farmers determined last night to get what they are after.

John Gonska said that it is high time that the citizens are getting together on the hillside to demand the improvements which are justly due them. He added that it is unpleasant to "kick," but that that seems to be the only way they can get results.

Alderman Charles Hector explained that the city is willing to do all in its power to put the road through. He recognized that the grade is most favorable and that the improvement is needed the worst way. But he explained that the finances of the city are too limited to assume as much of the burden as would be desirable. He was sure that the city council would go as far as it could in the matter.

County Commissioner John Tischer said that it is the only feasible route to travel over the hill adding that no one was more anxious than himself to have it go through in the shortest possible time. He also touched upon the improvements which will be necessary in the city limits before the road can be of fullest service.

N. J. Upham reported that the real estate exchange and the Commercial club are much interested in getting a road with a maximum grade of 5 per cent over the hill.

The members of the committee, consisting of John Gonska, John Tischer, Bert Farrell, C. E Evans and C. O. Sundby went over the route of the proposed improvements this morning. They will probably make a report at the next meeting of the club.

Another feature brought up was the possibility an easy grade will open up for the use of manure and other fertilizing material. With an easy grade it can be brought to the top of the hill, where it can be taken away by the farmers to restore their lands.

The Richardson & Day company, real estate dealers, said that they will be willing to replat Chamber's division to conform to the route of the Farrell road.

Piano Removal Sale

The completion of our new quarters has been delayed and we will continue the slaughter on piano prices for a few days, as we have several carloads of pianos in transit for our new store. POLITICAL BEES SWARM IN ST. PAUL FOR A FEW HOURS

State Capital Is Scene of Impromptu State G. O. P. Meeting.

Candidates Shy at Each Other and Then Rush Back to the Fields.

St. Paul, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Merchants hotel held a Republican state convention last night. The place was alive with candidates. They came from all sections of the state and for every job from lieutenant governor to clerk of the supreme court.

Just why they were all here at this time no one could or would say.

Ole Canestory of Elbow Lake, former member of the senate, was among the first to arrive. Dr. A. B. Cole of Fergus Falls, candidate for nomination as lieutenant governor, was a close second. Then John Schutz of Marshall drifted in and after that they came in flocks.

Before the night was old some of them left. Among the first to go was Dr. A. B. Cole, who received a hurry call from Duluth. It was gossiped in the lobby afterwards that he was going to head off the boom for D. M. Neill, who is soon to take up his residence in Duluth and may contest with Cole for the nomination.

Willcuts to Cedar Rapids.

Lee Willcuts of Duluth got away early this morning, heading for Cedar Rapids. Willcuts had little to say about the situation, but is sanguine of Republican success. He refused to discuss the contests.

R. J. Wells of Breckenridge was another early leaver. He said he was going home.

There was much talk of deals and combines, and every one seemed to be a bit suspicious of every one else.

"Carl and Gates and Wells are here to put up a job," said one candidate who felt as though he had been left out.

He referred to M. S. Carl of Clay City, candidate for the Republican nomination as state treasurer; Dr. J. A. Gates of Kenyon, candidate for the Republican nomination as lieutenant governor, and R. J. Wells, who is trying to snatch the laurels from S. G. Iverson. All three denied the allegation.

Suspicions Find Voice.

"Andy Stephens, A. Kaiser and Ed Smith are here to fix things up," was another accusation which was as strenuously denied as the first.

Kaiser reached the city this morning and was greeted by Senator Stephens of Crookston, who came down yesterday to meet Mrs. Stephens, who returned from the meeting of club women at Cincinnati. Senator Stephens declared there was no particular significance to be attached to his presence in St. Paul at this time.

Every candidate is optimistic, and all predict a sweeping Republican victory. Opponents like M. S. Carl and Walter Smith, Dr. Gates and Dr. Cole, R. J. Wells, A. W. Thompson and Sam Iverson apparently take no cognizance of the fact that "the other fellow" is at work and also confident.

"I've got the thing cinched," would go as an accurate general interview with each of them.

BARBER IS "TOO STRICT"

West Enders Claim That Is Cause of Officer's Transfer.

Mayor Says Enemies of Officer Had Nothing to Do With It.

Many residents of the West end are protesting against the transfer of Police Sergeant E. H. Barber to West Duluth.

They state that they are of the so-called "law abiding" class, or the "better element," and claim that the other faction has desired his removal from that section for some time. The reason they give for the opposition is that Sergeant Barber is too "strict." They assert that this is not pleasing to those who wish to violate the ordinance and statutes.

They also state that Sergeant Barber is the best officer they have ever had in that vicinity. They declare that he has done a vast amount of good by being on the job all the time and has therefore made some bitter enemies.

Mayor Cullum denies that any protests against Sergeant Barber have had any effect in the decision to make the transfer. He explains that the shift is in keeping with many other transfers which will be made in the police department June 1. At that time he says a considerable number of changes will be made in the districts, adding that they have no special significance but are similar to those which are made in the department from time to time.

Lieut. Wilcox will remain at West Duluth in charge of the station and it is expected that Lieut. Drennan will stay in the West end. Practically all the changes will be confined to the patrolmen and the sergeants.

Several residents of the West end held an informal meeting at Twenty-third avenue west and Third street last night. The decided that they did not want Sergeant Barber removed and a move was started to circulate a petition asking Mayor Cullum to allow the sergeant to remain at the West end. One of those interested stated today that he had seen the mayor and had been informed that the signing of such petition would not alter the program that has been arranged.

FIRST PANEL READY IN THE DOXEY CASE.

St. Louis, May 25.—Attorneys for Mrs. Dora E. Doxey, accused of poisoning William J. Erder, today are engaged in choosing from the special panel of forty-seven men, obtained yesterday in Judge Grimms court, twelve men who will be acceptable to them to hear the evidence for and against her. The testimony is expected to be reached at tomorrow's session, today being a recess in the case.

ELECTRICIANS TALK ON TECHNICAL THEMES.

St. Louis, May 25.—Technical discussions occupied the attention of the delegates to the National Electric Light convention at the second day's session today. W. W. Freeman of Brooklyn, first vice president of the association, was chairman of the first technical session; John F. Gilchrist of Chicago, second vice-president, presided over the first accounting session, while President Frank W. Frueauff of Denver performed a similar duty at the first commercial meeting.

THE PEOPLE WANT LIND.

There seems to be some inexplicable doubt about whether John Lind, a former governor of this state and one of its first citizens, is going to be nominated for governor by the Democratic state convention when it meets in Minneapolis in July.

There ought to be no doubt whatever about it.

It is true that Mr. Lind is in no sense a candidate for the office. It is undoubtedly true that his nomination and election would not be in accord with his personal desires.

But it is also true beyond any doubt whatever that the people of Minnesota, without any regard to differences of partisanship or section, want John Lind to be nominated for governor by the Democratic party. In his own party the choice is unanimous. Outside of his party the independent voters who have learned to choose the better man whatever his party label unanimously call for his nomination. Even beyond that, among those who are steadfast Republicans, there are thousands who, in the interest of the state and of good government, hope that he will be nominated because they want the governorship to go into good hands.

This is true in all parts of the state. In each one of the eighty-five counties of Minnesota the demand is that John Lind shall be nominated. The unanimity of that demand is a rare compliment. It is one that comes to few men in any state. It is a high tribute to the ability and citizenship of the man it honors. It is a testimonial that neither he nor the leaders of his party can afford to ignore.

In the face of such a demand as this, Mr. Lind's personal inclinations must give way to duty. That he does not care to be elected governor does not abate the ardor of those who wish him to be elected governor. It may even be that it increases that ardor, for the people often tire of those who constantly importune them for office, and prefer to fill their high places with men whose calibre is such that they need not seek office for livelihood, notoriety or temporary eminence.

There is no doubt about the demand. It is for John Lind. The people want him to be the Democratic candidate, and if he becomes the Democratic candidate they will make him governor, putting him back in the place he filled with great credit to himself and to the state ten years ago.

There are other men in the Democratic party who would make good candidates. There are other Democrats who would make good governors. There are other men who could be elected on the Democratic ticket. But neither these facts nor the fact that John Lind prefers to evade rather than to seek the office have any influence with the people. They want Mr. Lind, and they demand his nomination.

In such circumstances, it is the plain duty of the Democratic party to nominate Mr. Lind for governor. In such circumstances, it is the plain duty of Mr. Lind to accept the nomination. The state needs him, the people demand him.

"WHEN THE DEVIL WAS SICK."

Congressman Tawney, alacritous choreboy for Speaker Cannon and sycophantic supporter of Cannonism, wants to go before his constituents for re-election this fall with the bauble of a tariff commission to dangle before their eyes, in the hope that it will blind them to his treachery to the people.

It is not enough to take Cannon's evil power away from him. It is not enough, even, to defeat him for the speakership. To complete the job and to make it worth while, it is necessary to clean out of congress the nest of supporters that forms the organization in control of the house of representatives, and that has made Cannon and Cannonism what they are. Among those who warm that nest, though by no means chief among them, is Tawney. His state is insurgent. It is against the things Tawney stands for and the principles he upholds. Unless the people of his district are radically different from the people of the rest of the state, Tawney has earned, by his abject toadyism to Cannonism, a crushing defeat.

Having neglected the interests of his constituents in his scramble for personal glory at whatever cost of principle, Mr. Tawney now realizes that there is a rebuke in store for him. Hence his eleventh-hour championship of a tariff commission. The powers that rule congress need Tawney in their business, and it may be that they will give him a tariff commission in the hope that it will induce the people of his district to re-elect him.

This country needs a tariff commission. It needs to have the tariff taken not only out of politics, but out of the reach of that unconscionable greed which has been chiefly instrumental in framing it in the past. If the protective doctrine is to stand in spite of the wretched abuses that have been perpetrated in its name, it is necessary that it be applied scientifically; and a tariff commission is needed so to apply it. Such a tariff commission should ascertain the cost of production in this country and abroad, and regulate the tariff according to that difference and not according to the greed and effrontery of protected interests. It should frame the tariff in accordance with the best interests of all the people. Industries promising growth should be given such protection as they need so long as they need it, and they should have no more protection than that nor keep it longer than that.

But what can be expected of a tariff commission created to help back to congress a man whose influence always has gone to the service of those who were seeking to tax the people for their personal profit? What faith can be placed in a tariff commission plan which is merely a political device to save the political fortunes of a man whose service is to the system whose prosperity is the people's unprosperity?

In the first place, the tariff commission plan proposed by Tawney is wholly inadequate. It is not the tariff commission plan demanded by honest business interests, and it is not the tariff commission plan that the country needs. In the second place, it is not offered in good faith, but partly to delay further action on the tariff and partly to give Jim Tawney an excuse for asking re-election from a constituency which he has used as a stepping-block to a place of power in the system which rules the country to its hurt.

POLITICS AT CROOKSTON.

It has been reported from one or two sources that the Crookston convention of the Northern Minnesota Development association will be used to further the political fortunes of certain candidates for state office.

Not the slightest credence should be given to this sort of talk.

The meetings of the Northern Minnesota Development association are for business. Politics, except as political action is necessary to gain the ends for which the association was formed, is absolutely barred. Every member of the association realizes that it would be fatal to let designing politicians use for selfish purposes the machinery assembled for the common good of all sections of Northern Minnesota. Every member of the association would hotly resent any such attempt.

The politicians will be at Crookston, and if they behave themselves they will be welcome. They were at Bemidji, too, as thick as flies about a clot of molasses. They tried, there, to make use of the meeting to advance their own political fortunes. Without exception, they failed, most conspicuously. Their principle center of attack was the resolutions committee, and right bravely did the members of that committee repel their insidious advances. Every resolution proposed was examined up one side and down the other, around the outside and through the middle, to see if it contained any political bombs; and the merest suspicion of political purpose was enough to condemn it.

The politicians will be at Crookston, more numerous and more avid than they were at Bemidji, because the political season is further advanced and there are more of them in the field. But there will be added safety in this increase in numbers. Not only will the disinterested members of the convention watch them, but they will watch each other.

While the politicians will be welcomed, and their professions of friendliness to Northern Minnesota will be heard with interest, any politician who has the effrontery to attempt to turn the convention to his personal advantage will regret it as long as he lives.

The business before that convention is too broadly important and too deeply vital, and the interests of the delegates will be too keen and earnest to make it possible for either sectional or personal considerations to interfere. There will be no politics at Crookston—except in the hotel lobbies—but that form of politics which is public business, and which has closer association with broad statesmanship than it has with personal greed for office.

THE WHEELAGE TAX.

Streets are for the use of vehicles, and while the owners of property fronting upon the streets pay for the cost of paving, it is right that the vehicles which use them shall pay a reasonable charge for that use. Hence the ordinance now before the city council providing for a wheelage tax which runs from $2.50 a year for one-horse vehicles up to $30 a year for large auto trucks and $35 a year for vehicles drawn by six horses or more.

It is right, too, that the money thus raised by the city shall go into a street maintenance fund, something the city has needed for a long time. It is notorious that street maintenance has been neglected in Duluth, owing to the pressure exerted in behalf of needed new improvements, which have consumed all available funds. Only by creating a special fund for street maintenance will this necessary work be cared for properly. The importance of prompt and thorough attention to street repairs is indicated by the fact that experts estimate that it prolongs the life of the average pavement three to four times.

The taxes provided by the pending ordinance do not seem too high. Perhaps owners of vehicles are appalled by them. If so, they will be heard from. It is said, however, that the figures are about the same as those used in other communities that have the wheelage tax.

If there is anything wrong with the ordinance, it should be brought out by discussion. The principle upon which the ordinance is based is absolutely right.

The man who compared Lee and Arnold got his name in the paper, and did Lee no harm. Everybody satisfied.

If by any chance La Follette should be Taft's successor in the White House we predict that Uncle Ike's $1,000 cow will give sour milk.

"Cemetery socials" in Minnesota and "municipal hearses" in Wisconsin are novelties of the news yesterday. "Married in the Morgue" and "Wooed at the Undertaker's" next?

THE STATE LANDS IN KOOCHICHING COUNTY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

There has been much said of late, and considerable agitation at present, up in this northern country regarding the putting on the market of a larger quantity of agricultural land, the agitators claiming that the present method of selling state land is driving the actual settlers out of the country. Now, let us see if this is true, and if so, and there can be some safe and sane method decided upon by the legislature, perhaps it would be well to do so.

But, my dear people, go slow; think, even if it does make you tired; don't be too hasty. The most of the state timber and many of the natural resources have been held too cheap. Think well before recommending the enacting of a law to dispose of any more of the state timber lands to persons not interested in the future welfare of the state.

Please look up the original and present agitators, and see what this business. Try to ascertain whether or not they are especially interested in the future welfare of the state and the people, who might want to live here when they are gone to Canada or elsewhere, or are they just here to grab what they can, and then go West and start up again in the same business, or go into some other speculation with the people, gotten out of some of the good chances they were given here?

The writer is very familiar with the past and present conditions up in this northern country, and feels that he knows what he is talking about and can satisfy the most sceptical that the most of the talk about the state auditor purposely trying to keep the state lands out of the market is political antagonism and rot, and coming from men that have had some of their plans thwarted by the state auditor, where they have tried to assist some pretended settler to contest the state on a piece of spruce swamp land too wet for agricultural purposes. I am sorry to say a few succeeded, and have been and are now cutting and selling timber from land that it is, and will be for years, impossible to farm. It is the writer's opinion that most of these lands will revert to the government when cut over. Mr. Editor, I would like to call your attention to the fact that there is plenty of high and dry land up in this country, and plenty of it close to railroads, that can be purchased cheaply. Why doesn't some one who wants land so much buy it? I will advise you: They are cut-over lands. These farmers up here want timber lands. They are timber farmers.

About 70 per cent of the once-upon-a-time settlers that were up in this neck of the woods have either cut and sold their timber, or have disposed of it in some way, and have left their claims; and the remaining few will soon have to do the same unless they can induce the state to sell them some more land that has timber on, so they can farm.

It is true there are a very few settlers living on land where they are pretty well surrounded by state land where they are pretty well surrounded by state land, and it is difficult for them to get enough settlers in the town to organize; but would it make the conditions any better to put up a piece of wet state land for sale close to them, and then let some lumber company bid it in for timber? Show me a residence on state land between International Falls and Bemidji that was not built by some railroad or lumber company before the purchase of the same. With all the talking that is being done, why doesn't some one of the wise ones suggest some method of selling the state land, or don't they want any method—just sell it and let any one buy it?

It is the writer's opinion that great care should be taken if any method is adopted different from the one now in action, and I would suggest a homestead method, allowing the settler to cut and sell timber only as he wanted to clear the land. Of course, this would be a slow method for the lumbermen to get the timber, but a sure way to protect the state and settler.

Yours truly, JAMES H. WHITE.

International Falls, Minn, May 23.

To a Daisy.

Are You a Murderer?

Thomas Dreier in June Nautilus: That sounds hard doesn't it? But are you? You deny it. You are sure that you are not a murderer. It rouses your anger to even have one think it necessary to ask you such a foolish question.

But listen to this: A while ago I received from a little 15-year-old girl who lives out West, a letter in which she told me of the ill-health of her mother.

"She is getting better every day, but she would get better faster if the fool women that came in did not always tell her that she 'looks like a ghost,' or 'you look like a dead person.' Mrs. Notham came in yesterday and told her she was looking fine and that one could see that the walks in the open air were doing her a world of good. After Mrs. Notham left, mother sang and laughed and acted better than she had for weeks."

The thing that first interested me in this letter was the unconscious grasping of the psychological truism that thoughts are things and that negative thoughts produce negative effects, while positive thoughts produce positive effects.

This woman after a visit from the negative variety becomes more ill. But when a positive visitor that radiates health, good cheer, vim, vigor, energy comes around, she brightens up and laughs and sings.

And so I ask: Are you a murderer? Do you go about helping folks toward the grave, or do you help them, to more life? Do you radiate cheer, optimism, inspiration, hopefulness? Do you make folks long to see you, to talk with you, to watch your smile? Do you send desirable thought chemicals into the mental retorts of those with whom you work or play?

And what kind of thoughts are you giving yourself?

It is only by giving yourself good thoughts that you can give good thoughts to others.

Become a creator of more health, or more life. You can.

Rights.

Life: The American people undoubtedly are entitled to a great many rights, and, if the truth were known, it would show these rights to be worth having.

But the trouble with these rights is they are that they are never around when they are needed. They are either in cold storage or in safe deposit boxes or in ligitation or in some ward heeler's vest pocket.

Inaccessible rights are worse than no rights at all.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: The dickens about a man deep in debt is his one idea seems to be to get in deeper.

When a woman is a scold it's a sign her husband probably would be if she wasn't.

It's so easy for a girl to get a man to make love to her that he thinks he's a wonder at it.

What makes a man mad about being sick is how much sicker his wife does not appreciate he is.

A woman guards old love letters a man wrote her more jealously than jewels; he prizes an old baseball bat a good deal more than hers to him.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

A Diagnosis.

Rush City Post: It is not the insurgents that endanger the Republican party, but the things that make them insurgents.

Getting Wise.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: Bob Dunn is accumulating some political wisdom. He don't want the Republican gubernatorial nomination this year, because he's pretty sure that John Lind will lead the Democrats, and Bob's made a trip or two up Salt creek and don't want any more.

A Greek With Gifts.

Northfield News: Congressman Tawney has become the ardent if somewhat belated champion of a tariff commission. One is inclined, however, to beware of the Greeks bearing gifts. Unless men are sent to congress who, unlike Mr. Tawney, prefer to represent the people rather than the beneficiaries of the tariff, all the commissions in the world couldn't induce them to make a radical reduction in such articles of common consumption as it is to the interests of protective industries to exclude from our markets.

Right You Are.

Albert Lea Standard: Taft insists on emphasizing his importance of party solidarity, party service and his position as president of the Republican party. It would be a mighty good thing to have a president of the United States and of all the people, and some day, as sure as you live, we will have such.

Roosevelt's Greatest Mistake.

Anoka Union (Rep.): Taft and his policies are becoming more and more unpopular, and the people refuse to become comforted.

Nor Is Taft.

Litchfield Independent: Taft's friends says he is all right at heart, but that he gets his advice from wrong sources. Probably correct. Morgan, Aldrich, Hale, Cannon, Guggenheim, Ballinger and Wickersham are eminent specialists, but they are not close to the common people.

A Lovely Mess.

Winona Independent: It's a truly lovely mess that Taft, Ballinger et al have got themselves into. As a usual thing it is best to so act that it will not be necessary to cover any tracks. Some one just mean enough may come along and uncover them.

They Will, Yet.

Albert Lea Standard: Why, oh why, cannot the people who believe in and want good government, cast aside party prejudice, get together and compel the plutocrats and political pirates to flock by themselves?

A Kick Coming.

Anoka Union: When such men as Reese and Smith can dictate the policies and the nominations for the Republican party it is time to kick.

Suppression.

Collier's: Mr. Ballinger's character has been so conclusively demonstrated that it is hardly worth inflicting more evidence on a public which has its mind made up about this weak and discredited official. It is more important to understand the system of which he happens to be the storm center. The president of the United States was called upon by the senate to deliver all documents upon which he founded his letter exculpating Ballinger and dismissing Glavis. He furnished in response, a long opinion by the attorney-general. This opinion was not written until two months later, and then the date was altered in order to fit the trick. The president did not furnish the document which he founded his opinion, a statement by Lawley, which was essentially identical with the president's letter. We intimated on Oct. 30 that Lawley might have written the substance of the president's letter, but we never expected to have Mr. Taft definitely deceive the senate on that subject.

Ballinger, on July 25, 1909, told Schwartz to consult Frank Hitchcock about appointments of new special agents, who were to be exempted from the civil service rules because they were supposed to require special qualifications.

"Mr. Brandeis—Did you * * * find any acts of congress which gave supervisory power in appointments in the interior department to the postmaster-general?

"Secretary Ballinger—No, sir; and I did not have to look to find any such power.

"Mr. Brandeis—Then this was not one of the instances where a scrupulous regard for the law required a reversal of the Garfield policy?"

Just after Guggenheim accepted the Cunninghan option—which was shortly after Ballinger drew the affidavit saying there was no Guggenheim contract—Miles C. Moore, a Cunningham claimant, went to Washington and told Ballinger to get busy. When the president finally untook to settle the controversy on Sept. 16, a certain epistle was indited:

"Mr. Brandeis—I want to call your attention to the letter of Miles C. Moore, which, I think, Mr. Chairman, has not yet been put in the record, and I want to have it introduced now (reading): 'Chicago, Sept. 16, 1909'—that was the date the president's letter, exonerating you, was published. (The letter is as follows.)

"'Congress Hotel Company, Chicago, Sept. 16, 1909.—Dear Ballinger: Accept my congratulations. The president has just passed by my window, and the assembled multitude is giving a tumultuous welcome. I like him better since reading the morning paper.

"'A telegram which I think you should see is enclosed. Please return it to me at Walla Walla. "I note with pleasure that the '''snake killing''' has begun. Very sincerely,

MILES C. MOORE.'

"Mr. Secretary, you testified that you had a mere casual acquaintance with Governor Moore. Does not that seem presumptuously intimate for a mere casual acquaintance?"

Now let us follow the Guggenheim business a little further:

"The White House, Washington, May 15, 1909.—My Dear Mr. Secretary: The president is very desirous of getting John F. Vivian of Colorado a place paying $3,000 or more. Senator Guggenheim has spoken to the president several times about Mr. Vivian. Will you be good enough to advise the president if there is under your department any such place to which Mr. Vivian could be appointed? The president earnestly hopes that something can be found for Mr. Vivian immediately. Very truly yours,

"FRED W. CARPENTER,
"Secretary to the President."

"Denver, Colo., May 18, 1909.—Hon. R. A. Ballinger, Secretary of the Interior, Washington, D. C.: Guggenheim has wired concerning appointment reclamation service. Would it be possible to make salary $1,000, with headquarters Denver? If so, will come to Washington for conference.

"JOHN W. VIVIAN."

Reformed Too Soon.

Newark Star: An eminent speaker at the Congregationalist meeting in the First Congregationalist church, East Orange, was telling the other day a Westerner's opinion of the East.

"This man," said the speaker, "was a prominent churchman and had occasion to visit New York, where he remained for a few days. In writing of his experiences to his wife in the West he said: 'New York is a great city, but I do wish I had come here before I was converted.'"

New York World: "Mr. Douglas," said President Buchanan, "I desire you to remember that no Democrat ever yet differed from an administration of his choice without being crushed. Beware of the fate of Tallmadge and Rives!"

"Mr. President," replied the senator from Illinois, "I wish you to remember that Gen. Jackson is dead."

Each number will be interspersed with historical talks, making them most instructive.

The first trial run of the Duluth & Winnipeg passenger train was made yesterday, and both engine and cars gave satisfaction. The rolling stock consisted of a baggage and two passenger cars.

A. M. Miller has decided to erect a first-class theater at the corner of Superior street and Fifth avenue west that will cost $300,000 or more. O. G. Traphagen is the architect, and is now at work on plans which will be finished within six weeks. The building, which will also contain many offices and several stores, will have a frontage of 125 feet on Superior street and 140 feet on the avenue. It will be fireproof in every sense of the word. The theater plans call for a seating capacity of 1,800. Manager George B. Haycock of the Temple has secured a ten-years' lease of the house, and expects to open it by January, 1891, with the Bostonians or some equally good opera company for a week's engagement.

Mr. Hitchcock's Power.

Harper's Weekly: We call the president's power of appointment nominal because it is nominal. There are some 59,000 postoffices in this country, and it is a sheer physical impossibility for any president, with all his other duties, to investigate for himself the applications for a tithe of them. Of those of the lower grade, and of those in the railway division, a part are under the civil service rules. Of the rest, more than half are regularly turned over to senators and representatives belonging to the party in power. But there remain a great number—they must be nearly a third of all those in the presidential class—to be disposed of by Mr. Hitchcock and his referees. Mr. Hitchcock, moreover, is not merely postmaster general. He is the political manager of the administration. Nothing within the entire range of the federal appointing power seems to be entirely outside his jurisdiction. The political power which this young man now exercises is therefore enormous; so enormous that it must be reckoned a factor of the first importance in the political life of this country. On the way in which he exercises his power depends in large measure the composition of the next Republican national convention and its choice for the presidency; for the Southern machines, which he controls, usually name nearly a third of the delegates to such conventions. He holds in his hands the ends of a thousand political wires, running to every part of the country. There is hardly a man or a cause in national politics that he cannot materially help or hurt. And the country knows no more about Hitchcock's own views and animus than it does about those of the obscurist postmaster under him! Mr. Hitchcock has never been submitted to the country or any part of it for its approval. He is a product of the departmental life of Washington, D. C.

Wind on the Rye.

There is green on the hill, there is gold on the river,
And the wind on the rye sets my spirit a-quiver

And the joy of the world in my spirit is springing!

ARE FALLING INTO LINE

West Duluthians Enthusiastic Over Fourth of July Plans.

Committee at Work Raising Money for the Celebration.

The Fourth of July celebration at West Duluth now seems a certainty.

The business men's committee, organized yesterday at a meeting at the West Duluth Commercial club rooms, met this morning at the office of L. A. Barnes, Woodward block, and made arrangements to canvass the merchants of West Duluth for subscriptions for the fund.

The committee comprises the following: Ed Warner, chairman; L. A. Barnes, Henry Butler, A. L. Stevenson, Lee Hannot, A. L. Murray and Joseph Chestock. Some of the members were out this morning and an encouraging outlook is reported, as about $100 has been pledged already.

The celebration will cost about $500. A fund of $136 was left over from the affair held ten years ago, and this will apply. It is planned to ask the merchants, restaurant men, candy stand proprietors and saloon keepers for the balance. If they show a disposition to contribute liberally the success of the venture is assured.

Not until it has been definitely decided that the celebration will take place, will any arrangements for the affair be completed. A permanent arrangement committee will then be selected to go ahead and make tentative plans for the observance.

If the celebration takes place, the day will be ushered in by a salute of twenty-one guns. At 9 o'clock there will be a big parade in which all business interests in the western part of the city will be represented. Bands will play and the march will be one of the features of the day.

In the afternoon, there will be speaking. The Declaration of Independence will be read and according to those enthusiastic over the project, there will be a speaker of national prominence as orator of the day. It has been suggested that a United States senator or congressman be invited.

The latter part of the afternoon and evening will be spent in athletic sports and there will also be dancing at a pavilion which is planned to build for the purpose. According to present plans, the celebration will be worked out along the old-fashioned lines. Fireworks will be a feature of the evening program.

POISONED BY PIECE OF CANDY

Miss Esther Murray Taken Seriously Ill After Eating Sweet.

Poisoned by candy, Miss Esther Murray, the 20-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Murray of 428 North Fifty-seventh avenue west, West Duluth, is seriously ill at the family residence today.

Miss Murray is a stenographer in the employ of Dunning & Dunning, with offices in the new Alworth building. Monday afternoon she was given a piece of candy by a friend. After eating it she felt ill, she said, and in a few minutes she was taken very sick.

Alone in the office she fell unconscious on the floor, where she was picked up a half hour later by one of her employers. She was revived but was still suffering and she was taken to her home at once.

Miss Murray was very sick yesterday and today her condition is also serious. Attending physicians are of the opinion that she had been poisoned. She remembers eating nothing except the candy during the afternoon.

LONGFELLOW ALUMNI TO ARRANGE BANQUET.

The Longfellow School Alumni association will meet Friday evening at the school building to make preparations for the annual banquet which will be held June 10.

The affair is held yearly in honor of the June graduating class from the Longfellow grades. Members of the out-going class and the faculty are invited guests.

VAUDEVILLE HOUSE FOR WEST DULUTH.

West Duluth will have a vaudeville theater this summer.

Raymond Bros. of Oneota have leased a portion of the old Kreidler block with a twenty-five foot frontage on Central avenue and are spending about $5,500 remodeling it for a playhouse. The theater will be ready about June 15.

The building is to be finished in colonial style and will take the name "Colonial." It will be equipped with every modern convenience in the way of ventilation, chairs, etc. The managers are making arrangements now for booking with the Sullivan & Considine circuit.

Until the vaudeville is introduced, it will be a motion picture house.

MAY SECURE STATE TUBERCULOSIS EXHIBIT.

At a meeting Friday evening, the West Duluth Commercial club may make arrangements to secure an exhibit furnished by the Minnesota association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis.

L. A. Barnes, president of the club, today stated that the club could get the exhibit provided the expenses of transportation were paid.

The exhibit includes photographs of specimens showing the progress made by the tuberculosis germs in the various stages of the disease, and the methods used in fighting the disease. The exhibit will be for the public and will probably be here for a week.

TEAMSTERS AROUSE IRE OF COMMISSIONER BECKS.

Teamsters at West Duluth are altogether too careless, according to Joseph Becks, street commissioner in the Eighth ward.

The woodhaulers allow slabs to fall from their loads and along the main thoroughfares, the street is often strewed with sticks.

Automobilists and others who have occasion to use the roads, are continually complaining of this and unless teamsters are more careful in the future, Street Commissioner Becks threatens arrest.

ARE LOOKING FOR STOLEN CURRENCY.

The West Duluth police have been notified to be on the lookout for certain paper money which was stolen recently from the First National bank at Syracuse, N. Y.

A number of $5 bills, numbered from 2643 to 2101 inclusive, of the series E 3795 of 1902, bearing a picture of Benjamin Harrison and dated Feb. 25, 1903, is missing.

Set Date for Banquet.

The annual banquet of the Irving School Alumni association will be held at the schoolhouse Friday evening, June 17.

This was decided upon last evening at a meeting of the arrangements committee at the home of Leon Iltis, 223 North Fifty-fourth avenue west.

The following committees will assist the general committee: Arrangements, Miss Kate Dunleavy, Miss Eva Ketchum and Clifton Holmes; tickets and program, George Deatherage, Miss Eva Ketchum and Leon Iltis; decorations, Miss Jennie Boudin, Miss Olive Clark and James Bothwell.

Notice Public.

The article that appeared in the News Tribune this morning in the "Caught on the Run" column in reference to a morgue at West Duluth is an unqualified lie of the basest kind, as far as my place is concerned.

The person responsible for the article has small consideration for the sacredness of the dead, or he would never have allowed his wit to become so sullied. I will give a reward of $20 to any one who can prove that anything of the kind ever happened at my place.

West Duluth Briefs.

A daughter was born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brouillette of 6117 Nashau street. Mr. Brouillette is an officer on the West Duluth police force.

Mrs. Minnie Carey and family of West Duluth left yesterday for Spokane Falls, Wash., where they will make their future home. Mrs. Carey is a daughter of Capt. J. W. Mann.

Miss Anna Methiod, who has been ill at her home in West Duluth for the past few days, is reported as recovering.

George Govette of North Fifty-eighth avenue west, employed at the railroad shops at Proctor, who fell and badly injured his knee while alighting from a locomotive, is able to be out again.

The funeral of Louis Besson, 66 years old, who died yesterday, will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock from the St. James' Catholic church, with burial at Calvary cemetery. Mr. Besson died at the home of his sister, Mrs. Rose Gosselin, of 216 North Sixty-fourth avenue west.

Rev. J. A. Bjerke, pastor of Our Savior's Norwegian Lutheran church, will conduct services Friday evening at Proctor. The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Baren.

CANADIAN FISH STORIES.

Commissioner George M. Bowers of the bureau of fisheries said recently in Washington of the black bass that he is sending to South Africa at the request of Col. Roosevelt:

"These fish will do well, but no miracles are to be expected of them. Many persons seem to think that our bureau is as miraculous in all its works as—well, as the Canadian salmon.

"Two Canadians were boasting.

"'Where I come from,' said the first, 'we have a salmon river that rises in some boiling springs. As the salmon climb up the river they gradually get acclimated to the heat of the water, and don't mind it. In fact, when we fish in the highest reaches of the stream, we catch our salmon ready boiled.'

"'I don't doubt that,' said the second Canadian, calmly. 'Down my way, there's a curious salmon river, too. It rises in some tin mines. As the fish work up, they meet the suspended ore in gradually increasing quantities. They get quite mineralized if they keep on upstream, so that, if we fish at the head of the river, we catch our salmon ready tinned, and all we have to do is to pack and ship them to market.'" are a blessing to the vast army of people who live in rural districts, and such standard medicines as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which has stood the test of time, growing in popularity and favor every year, will continue to be the safeguard of American women for all diseases peculiar to their sex.

SUPERIOR

"MADAME GAIN" BUYS LESLIE HOTEL CORNER.

Marie Le Flohic, better known as "Madame Gain," who is under indictment in Duluth in connection with the alleged operation of an immoral house, has purchased the Leslie hotel and five lots at the northwest corner of John avenue and North Eighth street.

The consideration was not named, but it is understood that it was in the neighborhood of $12,000. The purchase is subject to a lease of five years on the property by A. E. Hamilton, who is now conducting it, as a modern hotel.

Saloonist Is Fined.

Valentine Maniak, a Superior saloonkeeper, who celebrated his election as president of the Polish society by inviting a few friends to his saloon the first Sunday in the month of May, was yesterday fined $50 and costs on a charge of selling liquor on Sunday.

Estill Gives Address.

Thomas Estill, commissioner of the Salvation Army, was the principal speaker last evening at a large gathering held under the auspices of the local branch of the army at the Sons of Norway hall. He spoke on "Aggressive Christianity." Col. Stephen Marshall of Minneapolis presided at the meeting.

Large Crowd Expected.

Mayor Crumpton today issued a proclamation asking that the business interests of the city give their employes a half holiday tomorrow in order to welcome home the baseball team. The largest crowd that ever witnessed a ball game at Superior is expected to turn out for the opening contest.

Paving Matters Discussed.

At the council meeting last evening property owners along Belknap street, which was ordered paved with brick at the last meeting, protested against the brick pavement and asked the council to rescind its former action. By a 11 to 7 vote a resolution to reconsider the matter was lost.

New Wholesale House.

Henry C. Onsgard, formerly with the Gibson Barber Supply company of Duluth, will open the Twin Ports Barber Supply company in Superior. Superior has never had an institution of this kind. Mr. Onsgard has two other young men associated with him in the business.

NO FELINE PROCLIVITIES.

Senator Depew was asked by a reporter, as he was having his luggage examined last month, if he had brought any stories from Europe.

"Well, in the smoke room of the ship I heard an interesting thing about a Montanan in Chester. Chester, you know, is walled. Its wide walls, on which you could drive a horse, are famous. You can circle the town on them.

"But the Montanan knew nothing about Chester. He had only arrived in Liverpool that afternoon. And as soon as he finished his quint dinner, he said to the waiter in the quaint Chester inn:

"'What is the best way for me to amuse myself here for an hour or two before bedtime?'

"'Well, sir,' said the waiter, 'it's a fine evening, the moon is full, and I think you'd find a stroll on the walls most enjoyable.'

"The Montanan, ignorant of the popular promenade upon the wide walls of Chester, thought he was being guyed. He frowned at the waiter and said bitterly:

"'What do you take me for? A tom cat?'"

TO ESCAPE THE LAUGH.

Loie Fuller, the noted dancer, told at a luncheon at the Plaza a story about her class of dancing children.

"I gave the children a Christmas party last year," she said, "and when the pudding came on I said to them:

"'I have put in this pudding a coin, a little china doll and a button. Whoever gets the coin will be rich. Whoever gets the doll will be married before the year is out. But whoever gets the button will be an old maid.'

"Well, the pudding disappeared rapidly, and the little girls soon found the coin and the china doll. But the button did not turn up. No one got the button. This amazed me.

"That night I said to my favorite little girl, as we sat alone by the fire in my room:

"'I can't understand what became of the button. I put it in the pudding myself.'

"'I'll tell you,' the little girl confessed, turning rosy with confusion. 'I dot the button. But I didn't want everybody to laugh at me—tho I thwallowed it.'"

ELEVEN LONESOME CHIPS.

Today there are only eleven vessels engaged in foreign trade that fly the American flag, says the North American Review. The American Line, between New York and Southampton, the St. Paul, St. Louis, Philadelphia and New York, the last two being British built. The Great Northern Steamship company, operating between Seattle and the Orient, has the Minnesota. The Pacific Mail Steamship company has the China, Korea, Siberia, Manchuria and Mongolia. The International Mercantile Marine company (Boston and Antwerp) has the Samland.

These eleven vessels have a total tonnage of 130,166 tons. England has 11,517 vessels with a tonnage of 18,320,685 and Germany has 2,094 with a total of 4,110,562 tons.

ROCKWELL'S REASONS

Why it is cheaper to buy in West Duluth

LESSON 1

The rent problem is solved for the West Duluth merchant. Uptown stores would pay a rental of from $500 to $1,000 a month for a store equal to ours. We pay about a tenth of the larger sum. When you shop uptown you help pay that extra rent of from $400 to $900 a month.

We invite you to look at our ladies' waists, for just one example of what this rental item means to the shopper. We have a line of ladies' waists from $1 up that cannot be duplicated uptown for twice the price.

Friday is bargain day every week at the new store; watch for it.

Note—We will pay car fare of uptown purchasers.

Wonderful Values in Felt and Hair Mattresses

All Pure, Clean, Sanitary Bedding

Here are two of the best values ever offered—these Mattresses are made up specially for us from selected material—covered with extra good ticking and sold at a price that cannot be duplicated—as long as this stock lasts we offer these values.

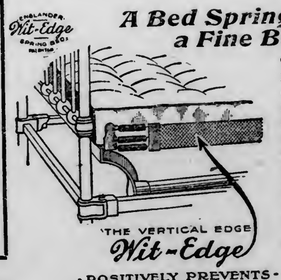
Fancy Art Tick, Elastic Felt Mattress—In Two Parts..... $8.75

Compare this Mattress with any $15.00 Mattress you will find in the ordinary store. It is a full 40-pound mattress, covered in a new pattern, handsome art tick, specially selected for strength and durability—made up in two parts for easy handling and filled with genuine elastic felt, which goes through a special felting process to weave and knit the cotton fibre together into one sheet of uniform thickness. These sheets are laid one upon another until the required thickness is attained—then compressed to a fraction of their original thickness thus giving you a soft, springy, elastic felt mattress. These Mattresses are carefully tufted and stitched—specially fine values at $8.75.

Sanitary, Full Weight, All Hair Mattresses at..... $18.75

These are full 40-pound Mattresses, filled with a good grade of specially sterilized hair—pure and clean—they are covered in an extra heavy dust-proof tick of pleasing pattern and durable color—all our own make and absolutely guaranteed. You could not possibly buy such a mattress in the ordinary store for less than $25.00.

A Bed Spring Equal to a Fine Box Spring



The only place in Duluth where you can buy the famous Wit-Edge Springs—made to last a lifetime—a spring that will not sag or get out of shape — has raised edge to keep mattress in shape and keep it from slipping. A clean, sanitary, comfortable spring. We have them in several styles not high-priced.

Our new Parlor Goods are arriving every day—we have a fine new line of Oak and Mahogany Suites—in the very latest designs. Here is a three-piece oak suite—a settee, arm chair and side chair—with leather upholstered, spring seat—a suite you would ordinarily pay $25.00 for in leather—we offer an exceptional bargain in this neatly designed suite—it is well finished and well made.

Low Prices Here Don't Mean You Must Pay Cash

In some stores you have to pay spot cash for anything that looks like a bargain, but you don't here. We are glad to give you low, easy, liberal terms at cash prices. It pays to trade here.

GOLD DUST is better than soap and elbow grease for pots and pans. It digs deep into cracks and corners and sterilizes everything it touches

There is nothing about the kitchen which collects so much dirt, grease and grime as pots and pans; and there is nothing that will clean them so quickly, easily and thoroughly as GOLD DUST.

GOLD DUST cleanses until the last evidence of dirt has gone, and removes every trace of germ life.

You are probably not aware that pots and pans which are used constantly contain hidden nests of little wigglers—germs of putrefaction and decay. GOLD DUST removes these, because it sterilizes as well as cleans, and leaves your utensils clean, pure, wholesome, safe.

GOLD DUST will work wonders in cleansing and polishing milk cans, pails, bottles and dairy utensils, pots, pans and kettles.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

Judge Jaques was walking along Superior street last evening when a man stepped out of the St Louis hotel and grabbed him by the arm. "Judge," he said, "I want you to meet a couple of friends of mine. They've been wanting to get acquainted with you ever since you said you would run for congress. And, by the way, I'm a pretty good Republican, but it's a cinch I'll vote for you." The judge went in to meet the "couple of friends" and found them to number six. He shook hands all around and was assured by each of the men he met that he would get his vote.

Jaques Has Support Of Republicans.

Just that sort of thing is becoming a common experience with Judge Jaques.

Charles d'Autremont, Jr., talked the other day about Judge Jaques' candidacy for congress. He said, among other things complimentary to the judge: "I have known him for many years. He is a very good man, perfectly honest and upright, and a man of ability. He is a lifelong and consistent Democrat, too.

Not alone in Duluth is Mr. Jaques' candidacy being boosted, but all through the district favorable comment is cropping out. The Red Lake Falls Gazette says:

"Judge Alfred Jaques, one of the big lawyers and a thoroughly representative citizen of Duluth, has filed for the Democratic nomination for congress in the Eighth district. Mr. Jaques promises to insurge at Washington just as freely as in Minnesota. In this year of political unrest it would be no surprise if he takes the scalp of the present congressman."

The following from the Hibbing Mesaba Ore is characteristic of the range feeling on the congressional issue, so far as it has come to the surface:

"There's the bare possibility, you know, that Democratic Candidate Jaques will be able to defeat Congressman Miller next fall—providing, of course, that the Ajax of the Golden Rod Belt is not laid away in the meantime. It would be a political loss to the Republicans, but a distinct gain to the people—that is, if Mr. Jaques didn't get cold feet like Mr. Miller did—for the reason that they would have a congressman they could put their finger on and be reasonably sure he was there. Don't look so bad, either."

Says the St. Cloud Times: "The Democrats of the state are practically unanimous for Lind, and they should nominate him, as they did John A. Johnson two years ago, even if he objects. If there are any 'leaders' who do not favor this they are not leaders but kickers."

• • •

The latest story relating to the coming battle for county offices in St. Louis county is to the effect that John R Melning of Duluth will not file for the Republican nomination for sheriff, but will be a candidate for election after the primaries. His method will be to batten down the hatches of his ship of ambition and let the ante-primary campaign rage as it will. Then he will get busy and circulate a petition as an independent candidate and go against the winner of the primary fight for the job.

Melning to Try New Wrinkle.

It has been popularly "doped out" that William J. Bates will be the Republican nominee. Charles Jesmore of Eveleth is expected to be the Democratic candidate. With Melning in the field as an independent, there is every promise of a lively fight for the office.

Jesmore cutting quite as wide a swath as any of the others. Melning has fought against Bates for the nomination several times and has proved a capable even though an unsuccessful campaigner. Sheriff Bates can be depended upon not to doze when the battle is on, so all in all lovers of a good fight may look forward with confidence to seeing a pretty scrap.

Of course, the "dope" may be wrong. Maybe Bates will not be renominated, but at this great distance most people who talk politics seem to see Bates nosing out ahead in the race for the nomination.

John T. Armstead has been a candidate for the Republican nomination a number of times and he may decide to try it again.

• • •

Elmer Adams has a penchant for doing the unexpected thing. In his Fergus Falls Journal he protests against the effort to supplant A. D. Brown as chairman of the Republican state central committee. "Col. Brown is putting in his whole time at it and with Governor Eberhart as the nominee for governor, Col. Brown is the logical man for chairman," says the Journal. The talk of Senator Ed Smith of Minneapolis for state chairman continues to be seasonable gossip, but nothing more.

• • •

The Bemidji Pioneer, which is controlled by Albert Kalser of Bagley, candidate for state treasurer, shows evidence that the Kalser people are genuinely alarmed at the progress made by Walter J. Smith as a candidate for the Republican nomination for that office. It has been denied that Bemidji recently had a narrow escape from destruction by forest fire, but apparently the Pioneer has some knowledge of back-firing. The Bemidji paper says that Hibbing is expected to lead forth a dark horse candidate for lieutenant governor soon. Hibbing being a range town, as is Eveleth, and Bemidji being a Northern Minnesota town, the scheme is transparent. If the Kalser people can get some one in Hibbing to come out as a candidate for lieutenant governor, to make a real fight or merely to pose, Smith's chances will be injured, in theory, at least.

Scheme to Hurt Smith's Chances.

Speaking of the lieutenant governorship, the Cannon Falls Beacon makes a plea for the nomination of Sam Y. Gordon, whom the Beacon designates the newspaper men's candidate. The Beacon says that the last state convention turned down the man urged by the editors for railroad and warehouse commissioner and instead of nominating John H. Grass selected Judge Mills. It's time now for the Republican bosses to pay some heed to the wishes of others than these same bosses, in the opinion of the Beacon, or the result is likely to be disastrous to the whole ticket.

The best man suggested for lieutenant governor on the Republican ticket to date, however, is Bob Dunn. How's that for a battle cry—"Rah for Eberhart and Dunn! And what a battle it would be, right within the happy family.

The indications are that Governor Eberhart will be nominated, "but there is nothing certain except death and taxes," remarks Bob Dunn, with an introductory remark to the effect that the Princeton Union does its knocking before and not after the convention.

FIREWORKS IMPORTED

Northland Club Will Bring Some Fancy Novelties From Germany.

Two Carloads of Red Fire on Way From East.

Duluth's last "unsafe and insane" Fourth will be the "riproaring-est" ever.

The indications are that the last "crazy" celebration of Independence day will break all records for noise and gay lights. The farewell will be most fitting, judging from the quantities and character of the supplies that are being received by the local dealers.

Several of the clubs and organizations of the city will have individual displays, which for beauty will open the eyes of local residents. Probably the leader will be that of the Northland Country club. The fireworks are being imported direct from Germany for the club by the Kelley Hardware company and are said to be far ahead of anything of the kind ever shown in Duluth.

Many of the pieces are costly as well as unique. The "cascade waterfall" will be an eye-opener. Resembling a fountain of burning lights, the fires are accompanied by fifty loud detonations. The "fan palm" with the reversing suns will be unusually pretty. Floating stars with bombs exploding in the air, many cases of assorted garden fireworks and Roman candles and rockets in abundance will complete the display.

The same firm will probably get the largest single shipment of "red fire" at the Head of the Lakes. Two carloads of the stuff is now on the way from New York and preparations are being made for its storage in a corrugated iron building on the shore of the lake at the foot of Second avenue east.

C. N. Ziegler, who has charge of this branch of the work, states that he is glad this is to be the last job of the kind he will have to superintend. "Zig" says it's the most ticklish proposition he ever ran up against. The shipment includes varieties of all kinds and colors, but no cannon cracker over the three-inch limit fixed by the state law.

The "kids" will have a chance to revel in all the glories of the "Glorious Fourth." They'll be able to get "willow trees," "Jew streamers," "electric showers," "para rockets," "palmetto trees," "Girondalas," "Japanese day shells," "wizard candles," "serpents" to twist and sputter all over the sidewalk, "snake nests," "mandarins," and with the small effort of using a match, will have an opportunity to start "merry widows" to dancing for them.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SESSIONS CLOSE

Resolutions Include Purpose of Evangelization in Catholic Countries.

Washington, May 25.—Children took the principal part in the closing session last night of the sixth convention of the World's Sunday School association. The central thought of the meeting was, as one speaker expressed it, that "the only way to bring about the evangelization of the world in this or any other generation was through the teaching of Christ to the children in the Sunday school."

Dressed in costumes of most of the nations of the world and carrying the flags of those countries, preceded by the "Conquest Flag," which bears a cross and the words "By This Sign Conquer," a long line of children filled the front of the big platform and later marched through the aisles of the immense hall, singing.

An International Meeting.

International in almost every respect, was the closing meeting. There were speakers from India, Japan, Korea and other foreign countries; the decorations were flags of the nations; and an immense map of the world, with an electric cross over it, covered the wall at the back of the platform. England and America clasped hands in the speakers' rostrum, when the retiring president of the association, Rev. Dr Meyer of London, stood by the side of the new president, Dr. George W. Bailey of Philadelphia.

The next convention will meet in Geneva, Switzerland, in 1913. The month and date will be determined later by the executive committee.

Evangelize Catholic Countries.

The committee on resolutions presented a report which was unanimously adopted, declaring for a campaign of evangelization in the Roman Catholic countries; for civic purity; for universal peace; and expressing the conviction that Sunday schools are responsible for the wave of prohibition which has swept some parts of the country.

PRESIDENT IS CAUGHT IN STORM

Taft and Sherman See Washington Team Win From Tigers.

Washinton, D. C, May 25.— President Taft and Vice President Sherman braved the lowering clouds yesterday afternoon and went out to the American league ball park to see Washington beat the Detroit Tigers in a spectacular game which ended in a minature cloudburst. It was in the sixth inning that the storm broke. Black clouds were swirling overhead as Washington went to bat in the last half of the sixth, two runs behind. There was an accompaniment of lightning and thunder but above the roar of the coming storm and in the dim light, which filtered through the thick canopy of clouds, the raps of the local batsmen sounded as sweet music to the throng of enthusiasts which overflowed the bleachers and grandstand.

Although the president went out primarily to see "Ty" Cobb play in centerfield for the visitors, he joined in the enthusiasm when Washington sent the tying and the winning runs over the plate. Finally the rain came and it fell in a torrent that soon turned the base lines into canals and the low spots of the outer field into deep lakes.

The president was sitting in one of the uncovered boxes, when the storm broke. He waited for a few minutes and then, hearing that the game had been called "for keeps," he hurried to his automobile and drove back to the White House, in the midst of the downpour.

With the president's party were Charles P. Taft, the reputed owner of the Chicago National league team; Secretary of the Treasury, MacVeagh; Assistant Secretary Hilles, John Hays Hammond and Capt. Archibald W. Butt.

"Ty" Cobb has been greatly admired by the president for some time. The player met the president first at his home in Augusta when Mr Taft was wintering there prior to his inauguration. Cobb called at the capitol yesterday and created something of a sensation. He visited both the senate and house cloak rooms and was introduced to many of the lawmakers. He and Vice President Sherman, who is a "dyed-in-the-wool" fan and rarely misses a game, talked baseball for a long while.

Can you beat this? Every lady attending a performance of the Flint entertainers will be presented with a handsome souvenir spoon free.

TWENTY-FOUR ARE LOST WITH BOAT

Steamer Is Sunk By German Bark in the English Channel.

Cowes, Isle of Wight, May 25.—Twenty-four persons were drowned as a result of a collision yesterday between the steamer Skerryvore and the German bark J. C. Vennen in the English channel. The Skerryvore sank. Only one of the steamer's crew was rescued.

Sole Survivor Tells Story.

Southampton, May 25.—The German bark J. C. Vinnen, which was in collision with the steamer Skerryvore, has arrived here with the sole survivor, who says that the crew numbered twenty-five men. He and the majority of the others were in their bunks at the time of the collision. The crash awoke him, but the boilers exploded and the vessel sank before boats could be cut away. He clung to the wreckage and became unconscious.

The Skerryvore had a cargo of iron ore. The Vinnen's bows were badly damaged.

WISCONSIN COW WILL GO TO WHITE HOUSE.

Chicago, May 25.—Wisconsin has achieved the distinction of supplying a successor to "Mooley," the cow which, until it was killed in an accident recently, supplied milk and butter for President Taft and his family at the White House.

Senator Isaac Stephenson of the Badger State is the donor of the new cow, and the managers of the Stephenson stock farm at Somers, Kenosha county, Wis., are in a state of elation and excitement as a result.

"Pick out the best bred cow in the herd and the one most satisfactory for all purposes," was the order of Senator Stephenson to Manager James H. Torrey of the stock farm.

Hence "Pauline Wayne," granddaughter of the great "Gertrude Wayne," has been selected to be the official presidential cow, and will be browsing on the greensward near the White House within two months.

As cows go 'Pauline Wayne" is an aristocrat of the first water. She is of the purest Holstein blood represented among the herds of the United States and is valued at $1,000.

DICKINSON'S DEATH CAUSED BY FUMES

Experiment in Laboratory Has Fatal Effect on Capitalist.

New York, May 25.—That Charles Couter Dickinson, organizer and former president of the Carnegie Trust company, who died in St. Luke's hospital yesterday succumbed to congestion of the lungs caused by the inhalation of a mysterious noxious gas in the laboratory of Dr. F. N. Lange at Scranton, Pa., on May 16, developed last night. V. V. Hedgepoth of Scranton, vice president of the Tippecanoe Insurance company, at whose instance Mr. Dickinson went to witness an experiment in the laboratory, was also seriously affected by the gas, as well as the experimenter, Dr. Lange. Both are reported ill, but will probably recover.

S C. Dickinson, a brother of Charles C. Dickinson, gave out first news of the mysterious tragedy. He was in an adjoining room when the others were stricken, and was unaffected. He does not know the nature of the experiment, or exactly why his brother went to witness it, and the character of the ingredients is so baffling that two of New York's most eminent physicians, Doctors Janway and Delafield could not account for the effect on Mr. Dickinson's lungs.

The jolly prince of funmakers—Flints are presenting at Lyceum to every lady, a beautiful silver souvenir spoon.

SHIPPERS TO FIGHT RATES

Commerce Commission and Courts to Be Appealed To.

F. A. Patrick of Duluth on Committee Picked at Omaha.

Omaha, Neb., May 25.—Prompt and vigorous action to prevent the putting into effect of the increased freight rates proposed by Western railroads as scheduled to the interstate commerce commission was decided upon by the meeting of representatives of the shippers' interests in the trade of the Missouri river territory here yesterday. Prominent business men of the cities in the territory were present, as well as some from the East.

W. P. Trickett of the Minneapolis Traffic association declared the proposed raise in freight rates is not necessitated by the increased expenses of the railroads, but by the desire of their owners for excessive profits. He asserted the traffic officials of the different roads had no knowledge of the proposed changes until notified from New York that they had been made.

Adopt Elgotter's Plan.

A committee of one from each organization of shippers in the cities represented was instructed to carry out a plan outlined by Charles Elgotter for the Omaha traffic bureau, who outlined two methods which he said were open to the shippers in their efforts to prevent the proposed rate increase. Both of which he declared should be adopted. The attorney general of the United States should be asked to proceed against the roads which joined in the new schedule under the anti-trust law, he said. At the same time, application for relief should be made to the interstate commerce commission, and pending its investigation of the reasonableness of the rates, an injunction should be secured from the district court to prevent the rates being put into effect June 1 as scheduled.

Patrick on Committee.

The committee was announced as follows: Kansas City, W. R. Richards; Sioux City, W. S. Knapp; Chicago, W. J. Evans; Minneapolis and St. Paul, George H. Partridge and F. S. Poole; Washington, W. J. Sittiman; St. Joseph, Mo., H. D. Drake; Milwaukee, Charles Zielke; Lincoln, Neb., W. Z. Selilk; Duluth, F. A. Patrick; Leavenworth, N. J. Todd; Omaha, A. C. Smith.

This committee is authorized to increase its own membership. It has full power to take such action as is necessary.

HOUSE VOTES TARIFF FUND

Tawney Amendment Is Adopted on Strictly Party Lines.

Washington, May 25.—In the house a Tawney amendment to the sundry civil bill was adopted by a strict party vote of 110 to 83, appropriating $250,000 to enable the president to obtain information as to costs of production abroad as would be necessary for an enforcement of the tariff law. Nearly the whole session was devoted to points of order against amendments proposed to accomplish this purpose.

By a vote of 84 to 106 the house rejected an amendment by Mr. Fitzgerald reducing this allowance for obtaining the information, to $75,000.

Mr. Tawney so worded his amendment as to make it apply only to information necessary for the enforcement of the tariff law.

A brief debate preceded the decision ruling out a previous amendment in which Mr. Tawney accused the Democrats of desiring to be in ignorance of the facts about the tariff.

Accuses the Democrats.

"They don't want to know the truth about the difference of cost here and abroad," he declared. "They as vigorously oppose this amendment as they did the provision authorizing the collecting of the facts for the use of the president alone."

"All that talk is folderol" interposed Minority Leader Champ Clark. "We have contended that this commission to gather tariff facts should be elected by congress so that it would not be purely a partisan performance, and it ought at all times to be under the control of congress."

Lion Fondles a Child.

In Pittsburg a savage lion fondled the hand that a child thrust into his cage. Danger to a child is sometimes great when least regarded. Often it comes through Colds, Croup, and Whooping Cough. They slay thousands that Dr. King's New Discovvery could have saved. "A few doses cured our baby of a very bad case of Croup," writes Mrs. George B. Davis, of Flat Rock, N. C. "We always give it to him when he takes cold. Its a wonderful medicine for babies." Best for Cougas, Colds, La Grippe, Asthma, Hemorrhages, Weak Lungs. 50c. $1. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by all druggists.

SAYS WAR WAS BLOW TO McKINLEY

Former Private Secretary of Ohioan Sustains Story Told By Depew.

Columbus, Ohio, May 25.—The declaration by Senator Depew in the Senate Monday that President McKinley was forced by the people into the war with Spain is corroborated by James Boyle, who, when McKinley was governor of Ohio, was his private secretary and who, under McKinley's national administration, was consul to Liverpool. Boyle says:

"I know that every word of what Senator Depew said is true. After McKinley's second election I met him at a dinner in Canton.

"He said to me that the war with Spain was wholly unnecessary; that it would not have occurred but for some hot-heads, high in influence in congress, and the yellow press. He said that he had stood out against it with all his strength, and was finally swept away with the popular sentiment for war.

Settlement Under Way.

"He told me that negotiations were well advanced for a settlement of the Cuban matter, with all that Cuba could ask, and would have been brought to a successful conclusion, no doubt, if the war clamor could have been withstood a little longer.

"I asked him," said Mr. Boyle, "what the negotiations contemplated, and he replied, without going into details, that it would have given Cuba at least the fullest degree of home rule.

"The president told me that the knowledge that the war could have been prevented and he had not succeeded in doing it, was the greatest sorrow of his life."

CROP WEATHER SUMMARY.

Bad Week for Corn But Other Lines Fared Better.

Washington, May 25.—Unfavorable weather in the great corn-growing states, generally satisfactory conditions over the entire cotton belt, satisfactory progress in vegetable growth, and the usual farm work in the Atlantic coast states, generally favorable weather over the districts from the Rocky mountains westward, but very dry weather in California, Arizona, portions of New Mexico and Western Texas, is the summary of the weather for the last week.

"The week, as a whole, was decidedly unfavorable over the great corn-growing states. Much cold, rainy weather interfered with the preparation of the soil, and the continued cold retarded germination of the seed and the growth of germination. Frosts occurred over many portions of these states, also, but without material damage. Over the states farther north, also including the spring wheat region, the weather was unfavorable. Frosts and freezing weather continued, and lack of precipitation over the more northerly and westerly portions of the district prevented the satisfactory progress of vegetation.

"Over the more eastern districts, including the upper lake region, the good rains occurred, extinguishing the forest fires that had prevailed in Wisconsin and the Upper Michigan peninsula."

MONEY FOR COLLEGES.

Education Board Distributes $700,000 More of Funds.

New York, May 25.—Appropriations of more than $700,000 were made yesterday by the general education board for the endowment of work of various colleges and for agricultural work in the South. The appropriation to colleges are:

WISCONSIN TO BE BENEFITED

Large Amount Expected to Be Collected From Transfer Tax.

Madison, Wis., May 25.—First Assistant Attorney General A. C. Titus, who has just returned from trip to Washington and New York, is elated over the prospects of collecting a large amount of inheritance or transfer tax for Wisconsin from the estates of non-resident decedents in New York and elsewhere who died possessed of stock in Wisconsin corporations.

Attorney General Gilbert and Mr. Titus have given considerable attention to this matter during the last year, and are satisfied that the inheritance tax will produce much greater return to the state from this source than was ever dreamed of by members of the legislature in enacting the act. The act places a tax on all property passing by will or by operation of the interstate laws.

This is held not to apply to foreign real estate, but it does apply to stock in foreign corporations held by resident decedents and to stock in domestic corporations, even when held by non-resident decedents. Domestic corporations are forbidden to transfer such stock except by consent of the attorney general.

As a result, the attorney general's office is besieged by requests for the transfer of such stock.

Mr. Titus thinks that the state will probably in the near future receive upward of $1,000,000 from his source, and it will be a continuing revenue.

The late John S. Kennedy of New York died possessed of 160,000 shares of Northern Pacific stock. The Northern Pacific is a Wisconsin corporation, and this stock being worth $148 per share at the time of his death, alone held a tax of $500,000, or upward.

The estate of E. H. Harriman should also pay a large tax to this state, but Mr. Titus is not prepared to make any report thereon at present.

NEW HOUGHTON LODGE HOME

Odd Fellows Will Erect Temple Costing $30,000.

Houghton, Mich., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Plans for the new $30,00 temple for the Odd Fellows in Houghton have been completed and the contract for the erection of the building will be let shortly. Bids are now being asked. The building will be 50 by 90 feet, three stories and a mezzanine floor. It will be constructed of chocolate Brazil brick. The first two floors will be used for business purposes. Baer Bros. propose to erect a large business block at Red Jacket this summer. The first floor will be occupied by the Calumet postoffice, in all likelihood, unless the despaired of federal building materializes.

Another Degree for Taft.

Washington, May 25.—President Taft is to receive on June 18, the honorary degree of jurisprudence from the College of St. Thomas at Villa Nova, Pa., and will attend commencement exercises of the institution that day. He also will attend on the afternoon of June 18, the commencement exercises of Lincoln college, a negro institution. On June 22 he will attend the commencement exercises at Yale university.

MONKEY EATS HIS TAIL.

If He Keeps on Nibbling, Will Finally Lose It All.

New York, May 25.—A correspondent who keeps pets had some trouble with a Nigerian monkey, which in the last month has nibbled an inch off its tail. Now, instead of having twelve kinks in it, the tail has only eleven.

The owner asks pathetically for a cure that will stop his pet from devouring its tail kink by kink; otherwise, the poor thing will have no tail left at all eventually. Zoo officials, however, can throw no light on the matter, but a real expert solved the mystery.

"A monkey eats its tail," were his pathetic words, "because it suffers from chilblains." He had a Soudanese monkey (so he said) that had chilblains in his tail every winter, and used to nibble off the kinks, and the cure he recommended was "Pitch—just ordinary pitch," dabbed judiciously on the end.

Get this! A unique souvenir spoon to every lady attending the Lyceum this week.

SOAPSTONE FIBRES.

The discovery of a few years ago that fused quartz can be drawn into exceedingly fine fibres, which are superior to all others for many laboratory purposes, has been followed by a similar experiment with soapstone. When highly heated, soapstone melts into a clear glass, which can be drawn into fine fibres. Lest you forget, we wish to tell you that now is the time for the daily use of a cool refreshing table beverage. There is nothing better than Golden Grain Belt beer. CLAIM UNINSPECTED MEAT WAS SHIPPED.

Hartford, Conn., May 25.—The federal grand jury sitting here has returned an indictment against the meat packing firm of Schwarzschild & Sulzberger, charging the shipping of unmarked and uninspected meat.

Do you know the news—beautiful silver spoons given away at Lyceum to each lady attending.

Lineman Given Damages.

Ironwood, Mich., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bartholomew Huber, a lineman employed by the Twin City & General Electric company of this city and Hurley, who fell from a pole on which he was working and sued the company for $10,000 has secured a verdict for $2,000 in the Gogebic county circuit court. The company will appeal.

UNREQUITED LOVE IS BLAMED FOR SUICIDE.

Bismarck, N. D., May 23.—Leaving a note that he could not live without a girl with whom he had been keeping company and who had thrown him down, Robert Lyttle, 21 years old, son of Frank E. Lyttle, living thirty miles northeast of here, returned Sunday morning from a dance, secured a shotgun and committed suicide by putting a hole in his left eye.

HOW HE CURED HIS SKIN DISEASE

About twenty years ago I began to break out with Eczema on my head, legs and arms, and commenced treatment with the local doctors, but did not get much relief. I continued to treat the disease under the direction of different physicians for two years, and at the end of that time they said the disease was chronic. I then quit them and tried various ointments, salves, lotions, etc., for another two years, but soon I was as bad off as before, so I finally decided to let medicine alone, and for twelve or thirteen years I suffered intensely from the Eczema. During the time I lost about half of my hair. At last I began S. S. S., doubtful of a cure, because the disease had run on so long, but I soon discovered that your medicine was doing me good, and continued to take it. After taking S. S. S. for awhile I was completely cured of the Eczema, not having a single spot left on my body, which before was almost completely covered with the eruption. I waited until the Spring to see if it would return, but have been no signs of it, and am satisfied the cure is permanent. It has been several years now and I do not believe I will ever have any return of the trouble.

1017 Hackberry St., Ottumwa, Iowa. F. C. NORFOLK.

What S. S. S. did for Mr. Norfolk it can do for every one who is afflicted with a Skin Disease. He is just one of the many thousands who have cured themselves by the simple process of purifying the blood and removing the cause from the circulation. We want you to be cured if you have any skin trouble, and shall endeavor in this short talk to tell you just why S. S. S. will accomplish the desired result.

The skin is composed of two distinct layers. One is known as the epidermis or outer skin, which has no fibres, and serves principally as a covering to the body. The other is known as the derma or true skin, and is composed of elastic fibres, fat tissue, glands, lymphatics, nerves, etc. The thousands of tiny veins and arteries with which this lower section is interlaced, supplies the cuticle with healthful properties from the circulation to keep the skin smooth and healthy. We can therefore readily see how necessary it is for the blood to be pure if the skin remain free from disease, and also why humors and acids in the circulation always find their way to the surface and cause skin affections.

All skin troubles are due to a humor or acid in the blood. Instead of supplying rich, nutritive properties to the cuticle, the circulation constantly deposits an acrid impurity into the sensitive fibres and tissues. This causes inflammation of the under layer of the skin which splits or breaks the thin outer tissue and causes an ulceration of the glands, producing a discharge upon the surface, in the form of Eczema, Tetter, Salt Rheum, etc. There is likewise a dry form of skin disease such as Acne, Psoriasis, etc. In these varieties the humor in the blood diseases the pores, hair follicles, etc., causing them to swell and protrude to the outer surface. Pimples, rashes, eruptions and like troubles are all due to impure blood, and only a blood purifier can cure them. Salves, washes, lotions. etc., will perhaps afford some temporary relief from the itching, and assist in keeping the skin clean, but such treatment can have no effect on the humors in the blood, and therefore never do any permanent good.

S. S. S. cures Skin diseases of every kind by neutralizing the acids and removing the humors from the blood. S. S. S. cools the acid-heated circulation, builds it up to its normal strength and thickness, multiplies its rich, nutritious corpuscles, and adds to its purity and nourishing qualities in every way. Then the skin, instead of being irritated and inflamed by fiery humors and acids, is nourished, soothed and softened by a plentiful supply of rich, pure blood. S. S. S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers and therein lies its ability to cure skin diseases. It cures Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Salt Rheum, pimples, boils, rashes and all eruptions of the cuticle. These troubles cannot remain when the cause has been removed, and S. S. S. will certainly remove the cause by purifying the blood. Book on Skin Diseases free to all who write. NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

ENEMY DOES MUCH HARM

Ottertail County Farmer Victim of Some One Having Spite.

Every Time He Leaves His Place Some Property Is Destroyed.

Fergus Falls, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—George Long, a farmer near here, is being pursued by an enemy. Mr. Long and his family had occasion to leave home some time ago and, on returning, found that 150 bushels of oats and various articles had been stolen. The next time they left the premises alone some one set fire to the barn, resulting in its total destruction, together with eight head of horses. There was no doubt about the fire having been set, as there was no fire about the place and a barn door which Mr. Long had left open was found closed and fastened when neighbors arrived.

Harness Is Cut to Pieces.

Long built a new barn and has not left the premises alone since, but last week his son was injured in a runaway, and Mr. Long had to go to town for medicine for him, leaving the boy and his mother alone. When he returned he found that some one had entered the barn and cut the harness to pieces, and had also cut up the cushions in the buggy seat and committed other acts of pure malice. Mr. Long has offered a reward of $100 for the arrest of the guilty person.

HIGH COURT WILL MEET AT BRAINERD

Minnesota Division of Foresters to Gather There Friday and Saturday.

Brainerd, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Brainerd will be the hostess of a gathering this week to the high court of Minnesota of the United Order of Foresters, which will hold its annual session in this city Friday and Saturday.

The representation is not as large as in many other orders, but about fifty delegates will be present, which, together with a number of officers and others interested, will bring about 100 visitors to the city.

This order has built up a large membership throughout this part of the country. It furnishes insurance on the national fraternal congress of rates, which is recognized by leading insurance authorities as an adequate rate.

The order has paid a number of death losses in the city.

This order is the Rock of Brainerd city bonds. There are two local courts in the city—Court Magnolia and Court Mississippi, with a membership of nearly 300.

An interesting program has been prepared for the visitors, and everything will be done by the local authorities to make the event a great success.

DANCES TO AID HER TRIBE.

Fond du Lac, Wis., May 25.—Miss Laura Minnie Cornelius, full blooded Indian princess of the Oneidas, who made her home in Fond du Lac for four years, is dancing in Europe in the primitive costume of her race with the view of raising funds with which to right the wrongs of her people and secure for them justice from the United States government.

NEW PLAYHOUSE IS FORMALLY OPENED

Thief River Falls Auditorium Has Initial Performances This Week.

Thief River Falls, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The A. B. Whitney company of Winnipeg formally opened the new city Auditorium Monday evening by the presentation of "The Royal Chef." Last night the same company presented "A Knight for a Day." The audience both evenings was a large and representative one, many from neighboring towns being present; and, despite the inclemency of the weather, the house was very well filled. Specially good seats for the opening performance were sold as high as $20, and the prices ranged from this down to $2.

The building is one of the largest and most complete playhouses in the Northwest, and can seat 1,500 people comfortably, and in a pinch would accommodate 2,000. The stage is large and fitted with every known appliance which is found in an up-to-date theater.

The building was constructed entirely by the city and the militia company, and the funds with which it was built were raised in this city and without the assistance of outside capital. Including grounds and equipment, the Auditorium cost in the neighborhood of $50,000.

PLAYS FOR THE DEAF.

Novel Theater Idea Being Developed at Delavan, Wis.

Delavan, Wis., May 25.—A "New theater" that will overshadow many others, not alone in its novelty, but in the idea of uplift, is being developed at the Wisconsin school for the deaf in this city under the personal direction of Supt. E. W. Walker. For the benefit of the deaf-mutes of Wisconsin and later those of the entire country, methods of presenting the classic and modern drama are being changed and in a short time, it is expected that the unfortunate without hearing or power of speech will be able to enjoy the stage as fully and with the same understanding of those who hear and speak.

The idea grows out of a novel theatrical performance given at the state school here some weeks ago, when Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew" was presented in the sign language by the students, assisted by instructors. The performance was so satisfactory and the idea so practicable, that it suggested the development of a new field of the drama.

MINERS ARE ARRESTED.

Alleged to Have Been Implicated in Hancock Man's Killing.

Houghton, Mich., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The sheriff and deputies have arrested Erick Karmanen and Charles Lahto, Hancock miners, in connection with the death of Erick Uriotila.

Uriotila disappeared Sunday night. His body was found Monday afternoon at the 9-foot level of the Mesnard shaft in the Quincy mine. Officers say they have evidence the men under arrest were seen with the victim shortly before he disappeared. A third man is now being sought.

MANY ARE IN MINNESOTA.

Thousands of Upper Michigan People Have Emigrated This Way.

Hancock, Mich., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—There are residing in Duluth, Minneapolis, St. Paul and throughout Northern Minnesota, in Northern Wisconsin, at Chicago and in Detroit, thousands of Northern Michigan families, as is testified to by the subscription lists of the few daily newspapers of this part of the state.

Particularly in Northern Minnesota are the settlements of Michigan people large. Hundreds of Houghton, Hancock, Calumet, Laurium, Marquette and other iron and Copper country people, formerly miners and their families, are moving to fertile Minnesota every month. The outgoing stream of agriculturalists and would-be agriculturalists from this part of the state is terrifying. Because of the high cost of living in the mining communities there are many who are seeking life on farm lands. Many are going farther into the Northwest. In Detroit there is a colony of more than 200 copper and iron country people.

SLASHES CALUMET WOMAN.

Calumet Man Cuts Widow Who Repulsed His Advances.

Calumet, Mich., May 25.—Mrs. Elma Johnson, a widow, residing at Albion, was the victim of an alleged attempt to murder Monday shortly before noon, and Solomon Johnson, aged 58, languishes in the city jail to await an examination on a charge of assault with intent to kill. The cause of the deed, according to the defendant, was refusal to marry or to consider the proposal of Johnson.

Johnson, who resides on Millionaire street, Osceola, is a widower, his wife having died about four months ago. He has four children. Mrs. Johnson is a widow and has several children in this city. The condition of Mrs. Johnson is serious. The blade of the knife entered her chest at the right side.

WASHBURN, WIS., MAN DROWNED IN SWAMP.

Washburn, Wis., May 25.—Mack Duffy, formerly a resident of this city, was drowned in a swamp near Cornucopia, in the northern end of the county. The body was found lying in a few inches of water, into which he had fallen while drunk, it is thought. A brother took the body to Crystal Falls, Mich., where interment was made.

SUPERIOR MINISTER MARRIES TWO COUPLES.

Brainerd, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. Adolph Rilppa Monday performed two marriage ceremonies here. Rev. Mr. Rilppa is the pastor of the Finnish Evangelical Lutheran church of Superior, and visits Brainerd, New York Mills and other places in the state once a month, holding services in the various churches. The young people married here were: Adolph Hendrickson and Hena Brown; Emil Lind and Amelia Glade.

SCHWITTAY WILL FIGHT TO THE HIGHEST COURT.

Marinette, Wis., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—According to rumors, the Schwittay disbarment case is likely to find its way into the supreme court. The trial will be resumed here next Tuesday, and, it is said, that in the event of an adverse decision Schwittay will appeal to the supreme court.

KILLED IN HECLA SHAFT.

Calumet, Mich., May 25.—Will Trevithrek, a sprinkler employed at No. 3 shaft, Hecla, was struck by a skip and instantly killed Monday. The deceased was aged about 58, and is survived by a family.

Ryan Going to Europe.

Butte, Mont., May 25.—Advices received here from the East are to the effect that John D. Ryan, president of the Amalgamated Copper company and A. C. Carson, a well known mining man of this city, will sail for Europe in a few days to spend the summer abroad.

SLIGHT SCRATCH FATAL.

McHenry, N. D., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Failure to give proper attention to a slight scratch on the back of the hand, which he received several weeks ago, caused the death of Ole Gunderson of this place. The scratch developed into blood poison, and two days later he died. Apparently the sore was practically healed up when the trouble started.

Governor Speaks at St. Peter.

Mankato, Minn., May 25.—Governor Eberhart yesterday voted at the first Mankato election under the commission form of government. Today the governor will speak at the commencement exercises of the Gustavus Adolphus college at St. Peter. Governor Eberhart is an alumnus of that school.

Found Dead in Hayward Barn.

Hayward, Wis., May 25.—Martin Kammers, commonly known as "Butch," was found dead in the barn of Jack Livingston, a liveryman. Kammers was a young man and had been drinking heavily and is thought to have died of alcoholism.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Hillsboro, N. D.—Hillsboro this year proposes to establish a new record in the matter of holding market days, and the Hillsboro Commercial club has already made arrangements for the first one on May 28.

Mandan, N. D.—One of the biggest jobs on the south branch of the Northern Pacific out of this city is now nearing completion. It is the construction of a bridge across Heart river. The present structure, over which construction trains are now being carried, will be replaced by a steel structure later on.

Walpeton, N. D.—The sixteenth annual convention of the Richland County Sunday School association will be held at Great Bend, June 1 and 2. Rev. W. A. Snow, the newly appointed general secretary, will make his first visit to this association at that convention.

Rolla, N. D.—Warren Elliott, aged 18 years, came near death when he was thrown from a wagon while driving in this city. He was seated on a rudely constructed seat in the front end of the wagon when the horses took fright, and in rounding a corner he was thrown out head first, being rendered unconscious.

Ellendale, N. D.—Only the fact that the drive belt was thrown out just when it was prevented Morris Saunders from losing his life in an accident at the Ellendale creamery. He was wiping a revolving shaft when the rag became caught, pulling his hand in. One finger was badly split.

Devils Lake, N. D.—Howard Whipple, a prominent young business man of Devils Lake, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. A. C. Whipple, and daughter, Josephine, who have just returned from abroad, will leave this week for Portland, Or., to make their future home. The family has disposed of much of its vast interests in Ramsey county.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Governor John Burke has accepted the invitation of the Grand Forks Commercial club to attend the Northwestern Automobile Owners' convention in this city May 31 and June 1 and 2, and in addition to attending the sessions of that organization, he will also grace the May Music Festival with his presence.

Grafton, N. D.—Sunday afternoon at Grafton the funeral of David Ingersoll, for many years a conductor with headquarters in Grand Forks, was held here and a special train in charge of W. H. McGraw carried a number of Grand Forks railroad men to this city to attend the services.

Aberdeen, S. D.—Mrs. Lydia Graham, in charge of the music department at the normal; Miss Mabel Hall, reader; Vernon Alger, violinist, and Miss Ruby Stacy, soloist, gave an entertainment Monday night in the opera house at Ipswich for the benefit of the Ipswich high school.

Devils Lake, N. D.—Dr. C. J. McGurren, who has been taking a post graduate course in surgery at the Chicago Polyclinic, during the past three months, writes a friend in this city that he had the pleasure of hearing Col. W. J. Bryan speak at the Auditorium, Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the Catholic Total Abstinance Society of America and that it was a very impressive event.

Abercrombie, N. D.—Victor Westburg, a Swedish boy 16 years old, died at St. Francis hospital, Breckenridge, Minn., from the effects of an accident. While jumping from the hay loft he got a fork handle in his abdomen. He worked for H. P. Myron of Abercrombie.

Fargo, N. D.—Carl Dean, aged 17, of Anoka, Minn., died Sunday night at the city hospital from typhoid fever after being an inmate of the institution but six days. He was taken ill at the city hall, where he had sought sleeping quarters as he was on his way from Chicago west, and had run out of money. He is described by the police to have hen a well appearing lad.

Braddock, N. D.—Jilmer Meyers, 25 years old, committed suicide last night in the Soo section house in this city by shooting himself in the abdomen with a shotgun. Meyers, who until recently was section foreman for the Soo company, had brooded over his mother's death, which followed an operation for cancer of the stomach.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

St. Cloud—The employes of the Northern Pacific Railway company in this city have organized a baseball team for the coming season and expect to meet several of the independent teams of the city.

Sauk Center—The firm of Myott & Ebert has been dissolved, Mr. Ebert retiring. Mr. Ebert will go to Montana soon, where he has a good business opening. Mr. Myott will continue the business.

Little Falls—George Peterson, at one time a member of the Peterson & Nelson grocery firm of this city, but of late in the employ of the Stacy Fruit company, working in Fargo, has been transferred to Bismarck. The transfer is in the nature of a promotion with a substantial increase in salary.

Moorhead—Arrangements for the big Fourth of July celebration are well under way, so far advanced in fact that assurance can be given that the attractions offered will be first-class in every particular. No effort will be spared to make the celebration of 1910 the biggest that Moorhead has ever had.

Brainerd—Percy W. Donovan, manager of the Longyear Exploration company here, and Miss Alice Dougan will be married in Minneapolis, June 18, at the home of the bride.

Mankato—E. D. Cornish, aged 69, an old, well known and highly respected resident of this county, died at his home about four miles west of Vernon Center early Friday morning of creeping paralysis.

Bemidji—Invitations to 250 guests for the annual junior ball in honor of the graduating class of the Bemidji high school have just been issued. The ball this year will be given Friday night, May 27, in the National Guard armory of this city.

Stillwater—Jesse Ford, a negro, who played in the prison band and participated in minstrelsy on holidays at the prison has been returned for violating his parole. He was captured in Minneapolis yesterday by Frank Fraser, a detective of St. Paul. He was under a sentence for robbery in the second degree in Minneapolis beginning Nov. 21, 1905, and was released on parole Oct. 25 last.

Mankato—Frank M. Schaefer, aged 56, a well-known county resident of the county, and retired farmer, died at his home here, Sunday afternoon, of a complication of diseases. He had been ailing for three or four years, but was not seriously affected until last November.

Bemidji—Capt. William F. Dunnington died suddenly here Saturday of heart disease. The funeral was held at his home at Redwood Falls Monday afternoon, with the Redwood commandery of Knights Templar, to which he belonged, in charge. Capt. Dunnington was born May 27, 1832, in Morgantown, Va.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Calumet—Walter Karchen died at St. Joseph's hospital Saturday evening from injuries sustained at Superior Saturday morning.

Houghton—Dr. J. C. Oakshette last week delivered a health talk before a large audience in his suite in the Leopold building. He selected as his subject, "Cases From My Note Book." The office rooms were well filled.

Hancock—William S. Rowe of this city, delegate of Qincy lodge, A. F. & A. M., to the state convention at Saginaw, left Saturday for Chicago. He will spend a few days in the city before going on to Saginaw.

Calumet—The annual meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal church will be held Thursday and Friday at the Calumet Methodist Episcopal church. Delegates from every town and city in the Copper country and several prominent church workers from the lower peninsula will be present.

Hancock—The local warehouse of the Stone-Ordean-Wells company of Duluth established here two years ago, is shortly to be discontinued, and the stock is being closed out. The branch warehouse here was located near the railroad crossing in West Hancock and has been in charge of Ira Wright as manager, who will shortly be transferred to another point probably in Montana.

Calumet—George D. Westermann, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., has made up his mind to stay in Calumet, and notified the Lansing Y. M. C. A. authorities to that effect.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Ashland—Lulu Catlaine Halvorson, infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Halvorson of 306 Thirteenth avenue east, died Monday. The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence. The Rev. Mr. Halvorson conducted the religious services.

Phillips—The jury in the case of Julia Baer against Simon Hopfinger returned a verdict in favor of Mrs. Baer for $750. Hopfinger was found guilty of an assault.

Milwaukee — Albert G. Schendel, brakeman on the Chicago and North Western, one of whose arms refused to knit after being broken in an accident on Feb. 5, 1908, was awarded a verdict of $10,000 by a jury in Judge O. T. Williams' court Monday morning.

Barron—Mrs. Charles A. Taylor of this city died in a hospital in Minneapolis following a surgical operation. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor were graduates of the state university and were married two years ago.

Marinette—While attempting to board an engine at the Bay De Noquet Lumber company's camp, Frank Sagatang, an Indian, stumbled and fell under the locomotive, receiving injuries that caused his death a few hours later at Nahma.

Madison—Prof. A. D. Conover, a member of the state board of control, and Howland Russell, a Milwaukee architect, started on Monday on a "hike" to La Crosse. They will cover a distance of 200 miles and expect to take a week for the trip. While on the way they will inspect the county insane asylums and jails along the route.

Beloit—Through the United States census bureau Mrs. Gus Rohles just discovered the whereabouts of her sister, Mrs. Katherine Blake of Ottumwa, Iowa, whom she has not seen for forty-two years. She asked census enumerators to aid her in locating her sister, and was told to write to Congressman Cooper, who sent her a list of names, and by following these she found her sister.

ANGELS WIN CLOSE GAME

Eau Claire Defeats Sox in Second Contest By Score of 3 to 2.

Klingebiel and Nicholson Have Pitchers' Battle---Both Given Good Support.

Eau Claire, Wis., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Angels took the second game of the series from the Sox yesterday afternoon by the close score of 3 to 2.

The game was a pitchers' battle between Klingebiel and Nicholson, in which honors were about evenly divided. The angels bunched hits in the sixth and seventh innings. Aside from these productive periods, Klingebiel was invincible, and the home boys could do little with his shoots.

But five hits were garnered off the delivery of the Duluth hill worker. He had speed, control and was steady at critical periods. Both of the hits that scored Eau Claire's runs came after two were out.

Altermott's long triple to deep center sent both of Duluth's runs across the pan. Taylor got on through a pass, was advanced on O'Brien's single, and both were sent across when Altermott stung the ball for all but the last base in the park.

The work of the Duluth players was fast and clean. Sweeney played a great game at third, and Gillis did some very fast fielding at the initial sack. The game was one of the best played here the present season.

LA CROSSE DEFEATED IN POORLY PLAYED GAME.

Rochester, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rochester defeated La Crosse here yesterday by the score of 13 to 7. Errors and loose fielding made the game tedious and tiresome.

"Lefty" Sporer made his Minny league debut, occupying the hurling hill for La Crosse. He was hit at times and his ragged support permitted the Doctors to score at will.

The game was featureless, save for Kernan's long home run drive.

KOEPPING WINS GAME FOR WINONA.

Winona, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Winona defeated the humble Red Wing Indians here yesterday by the score of 5 to 4. Three singles and a wild pitch scored the winning run in the seventh inning. The game was a free hitting one, Rice, McKee and Wagner receiving a rousing reception from the hitters.

Koepping proved the hero of the game, making the hit that drove the winning run across the pan. Both teams played fast ball in the field.

The score: R. H. E.

NINTH INNING RALLY WINS FOR SUPERIOR.

Wausau, Wis., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nelson weakened in the ninth inning yesterday and permitted Superior to score two runs and tie the score. Dunbar relieved the weakening Nelson and the Grumblers scored two runs off him in the tenth inning, winning from Wausau by the score of 6 to 4.

Nelson pitched a great game up to the ninth, when the Superior hitters found him without difficulty. Wausau gave Nelson poor support. Clemens of the Superior team was benched for disputing a decision. The score: R. H. E.

AROUND THE CIRCUIT

Altermott, the lad who has been playing short for Duluth, may not be the cleanest fielder in the world, judging from his work on the road, but the boy has been hitting the ball. He secured a triple yesterday, and the day before a double. A few more exhibitions like that of Altermott and the Sox would have more runs to their credit.

• • •

The Eau Claire paper has been calling the Duluth first baseman Gibbs. From the scores sent out from that town, it would seem that the first sacker's name is Gillis. So far the guardian of the flag has failed to do any heavy hitting; in fact, he has failed to show any strength whatever with the willow. He may show some improvement in this regard.

• • •

Reports from Eau Claire indicate that Al Cummings is in very good condition. He is the nominee for box work tomorrow, when the Sox will open the season with Rochester. Al is a very great favorite with the Duluth fans, and the statement that he will be in the box will be welcomed by those who are planning to attend the opening game.

• • •

The Red Wing Republican states that what the team needs most is money to purchase a few experienced pitchers. The strong box of the club, according to this paper, is nearly empty. There have been some very heavy expenses, such as the money dropped on the training trip and the erection of the new grand stand. The first victory of the season rather tickled the directors of the club, though, and some effort may be made to get the wherewithal to buy the players in question.

The writer of the yellow stuff on the Superior paper attempts to square himself for the knocking he has been doing against the league and everything in general. His method of reasoning is novel and refreshing. He says that he is not half as much against the success of the league as the league is against the success of Superior. Isn't that a fine statement for a boy over 16 to make? Some one should buy this little man a Lord Fauntleroy suit and stick a feather in his little hat.

A plea has been sent around the circuit, asking clemency and charitable thought toward the peeved pouter across the bay. In the future he will, like the gal in the song, be pitied rather than censured.

A Red Wing paper states that the team will fight on foreign soil, and adds, hopefully, that the aggregation should return with a few scalps. At the present rate of progression it is very difficult to see how they will do it.

• • •

Darby O'Brien handed out a sweet lavender line of talk to one of the Red Wing war correspondents. The taffy was rich and to the point. Darby told the press worker that Red Wing had one of the best teams in the league and would soon be fighting with the leaders. He also stated that as long as Duluth had to lose he was all powerful glad that it was Red Wing that did the percentage clipping. Good stuff, that!

In the game of Sunday the Red Wing Indians had nine stolen bases. No wonder the team defeated Duluth.

Cahill, Duchlen and Bourgeois are playing swell ball in the Wausau outfield. Old Man Cahill has been playing a very good game ever since the very first game. The cits down that way are immensely tickled with the way the team has been traveling and this pleasure has been reflected so far in the increase of the attendance over that of last season. Wausau and Rochester have proved the surprises of the league. What about Duluth? Why, it is early as yet, boy.

The man catching for La Crosse is supposed to be Jack Zalusky, the same fellow who caught for Minneapolis and St. Paul, and before that for the University of Minneapolis. At the university they registered Zalusky in the law department, because it was the easiest department to sneak into. Zalusky told some of his South Minneapolis friends that Blackstone was one of the professors in the place. And he really thought so, too.

Kline in right field for the La Crosse team is playing a great game. The German is hitting and fielding fine and his playing has been one of the features of the games played at home.

• • •

Rochester is going at a clip that is surprising all the dopesters in the league. Jack Corrigan seems to have really collected a ball team, or else the boys are playing clear ahead of their stride. The team will be here tomorrow and Duluth will have a very excellent opportunity of seeing just what Happy Jack has under contract.

• • •

Indications point to a great crowd at the opening tomorrow. Jack Corrigan is well known here and there is a great desire to put the home boys in right on their first local appearance with a league team for the present season. There are a lot of the faithful who still believe that Duluth has a good baseball team.

• • •

They are touting "Lefty" Sporer in the La Crosse papers. The pitcher used to be one of the best, back in the days of the old Northern league. If he is as good at the present time, Sporer will fool a lot of people.

• • •

Connell is playing a perfectly ladylike game at third for the Outcasts. His work this season has saved several scores for the home club and has also saved some hits being chalked against the La Crosse box workers. He is a nice chap to have on a team.

• • •

Down in La Crosse they state, with the emphasis of conviction, that there are a lot of lickings concealed beneath the blue uniforms of the Wausau Lumberjacks. This statement was made after the Wausau outfit defeated the Outcasts. Perhaps—who knows.

PRIZE FIGHT IS DEFINED

San Francisco, Cal., May 25.—The first definite move in the campaign being waged by representatives of the churches against prize-fighting in general in California and against the Jeffries-Johnson contest in particular was adopted yesterday when a delegation of prominent ministers and their legal advisers appeared before the police committee of the board of supervisors to protest against granting a permit to the Broadway Athletic club to conduct a boxing contest on July 4.

John L. Herget, formerly a middleweight prize fighter, known in the ring as "Young Mitchell," and now a city and county supervisor, sat as chairman of the committee.

A recommendation was made to the committee that a permit be granted to the Broadway club, under the auspices of which Jeffries and Johnson will fight on the national holiday.

Rev. William Rader, Rev. A. C. Bain and Attorney J. J. White, took the principal part in voicing the protest of the church people.

Chairman Herget informed the delegation that the Jeffries-Johnson fight was to be a scientific boxing exhibition and would be countenanced as such by law.

Fight Is Not a Fight.

When the ministers referred to the scheduled event as a prize fight and to Jeffries and Johnson as prize fighters, Herget objected, "Jeffries has never been in a fight in his life." Herget invited the "whole church federation to be present at the next fight."

"I think you will find that our objection to this prize fight business is more serious than you admit, Mr. Herget," declared Rev. Rader.

"Reverend, I must object to your saying that we are going to grant a permit for a prize fight. This is to be merely a boxing exhibition," said Herget.

"Is Jeffries a prize fighter or a boxer?" asked Mr. Rader.

A boxer."

"Then he is not a fighter at all."

"Not in my opinion," the chairman replied.

"And he has never fought?" the minister queries.

"He has contested," Herget ventured.

"Well, in my opinion, the affair is intended to be a prize fight, and the permit should not be granted," concluded Mr. Rader. "It certainly is not to be a picnic."

"I must disagree with you again, Reverend," said Herget. "This contest is to be conducted strictly under the Marquis of Queensberry rules; rules laid down by a gentleman and peer of England. These rules govern all boxing contests here. A prize fight is a fight with bare fists. It brings in wrestling and other things and it is some times as rough as football."

The committee then decided to recommend the granting of the permit.

Wood Wins Marathon.

Toronto, Can., May 25.—Wood of Montreal won the second Canadian Marathon derby here last night in fast time. Hans Holmes was second and Kolenainen, the Finlander, was third. St. Yves, who set the pace most of the way, finished fourth. Wood's time was 2:34:10 2-5.

DULUTH GETS SHORTSTOP

O'Brien Wires That Player Has Been Secured From Green Bay.

Rochester Coming Thursday for First Local Game of the Season.

A new shortstop, secured from the Green Bay team of the Wisconsin-Illinois league, joins the Sox today. Mr. Kuehnow was advised of the deal this morning, but was not informed as to the player's name. The telegram to the local magnate conveyed the news of the deal, and added that the new man was expected to show the real goods. The new player may be used in the game of this afternoon.

Altermott has been clouting the ball viciously and may be used in the outfield. He is also a second baseman and in case of a shift of the infield this player might be tried at the halfway station.

The first local league game of the season will be played at Athletic park tomorrow afternoon. The strong Rochester team will be the opponents of the White Sox and some very fast baseball may be expected.

Jack Corrigan, the manager of the fast-going Surgeons, is well known here, as he played upon a Duluth team at one time. There are also some players on the Rochester team that used to play in the old Northern-Copper league, and have many friends here.

Al Cummings is expected to mount the mound for the Sox. The Duluth team is "going good" at the present time, despite the string of defeats, and the boys may be expected to put up a great game on the occasion of the league opening here.

Festivities will mark the first game of the season here. The mayor will hurl the first ball of the season and will also have something to say to the fans. The city officials will be present and some of them will probably be called upon to add dignity and impressiveness to the occasion.

The parade will form at the city hall at 2 o'clock. The mayor, city officials and a large number of fans will form the procession that will parade the downtown streets. The two teams will take part in the downtown feature of the afternoon.

Indications point to a record-breaking crowd at the park tomorrow. The fans of the city realize that the team is playing good baseball, and thoroughly believe that it is but a question of time before the boys will be fighting at the top. Therefore there has been no lessening of the interest taken in the opening day.

Mr. Kuehnow has been informed that a large number of the B. P. O. E. will attend the game in a body.

The game will be called at 3:30.

AS SEEN FROM THE SIDE LINES

(BY BRUCE.)

Tomorrow afternoon the team will open the season, playing Happy Jack Corrigan's Lunatics at Athletic park.

Right at the present time the members of the team need all the encouragement the fans can give them. The best thing in the world for the team would be a large crowd at Athletic park tomorrow to give the team a good send-off.

To be sure the team has not made the record on the road that the fans or the men financially interested in the team could wish for. But, when all is said and done, the team has played better ball than its record would indicate. Every game but one on the present trip has been lost by a very close score; all but two of the games have been lost by just one score.

While the team has not played the best ball in the world, as has been pointed out before, there has been an element of hard luck attached to the getaway of the team.

Last year the team left the post to a miserable start. In mid season, almost, the team was going badly. Then it braced and played the best baseball of any team ever seen in this city.

Mr. Kuehnow has promised the fans of this city good baseball and he intends to keep his word. To those in his confidence he has stated that money will not stand in the way of a pennant-winning aggregation. If money can purchase the players necessary to win the bunting.

The season is young as yet. Duluth's splendid pitching staff has been handicapped as yet, only Dauss and Klingebiel showing even a flash of their true form. If Marion, Cummings and Thorsen round to and show the form that they have shown in the past, Duluth's climb to the top of the percentage column will be speedy.

To the credit of the fans of this city it must be said that there has been little knocking of the team. The fans of the city realize that the team is playing good baseball, and thoroughly believe that it is but a question of time before the boys will be fighting at the top. Therefore there has been no lessening of the interest taken in the opening day.

Mr. Kuehnow has been informed that a large number of the B. P. O. E. will attend the game in a body.

The game will be called at 3:30.

GRAND OPENING

—OF THE—

RATHSKELLER

Under New Management

THURSDAY, MAY 26

High Class Entertainment Will Be Featured
First Class Cafe. SAM GARFIELD, Prop

His return from England, is listening rather eagerly to the whisper of ambish.

Edward in question is no other than Eddie McGoorty, the chap who is fairly well known in these parts through his meeting with ancient Tom McCune. There is a gentle attempt being made to match Eddie and Billy Papke. It might be another case of the country boy and the city sights. The boy who tried to try out the city life in one large and long evening, came to only when restoratives were applied, and wondered in deep meditation why he didn't kind of go along, easy like, and get in close touch with the throbbing pulse of the wicked city by easier degrees.

Eddie is from that beautiful country surrounding Oshkosh, famous in verse and song. He has slipped the first success of the pugilistic punch and it may have gone to his head. If he is as wise as many people in these parts believe him to be, he will steer rather shy of this Papke person, waiting until he has further perfected his first line of defense.

Mayhap Edward will find fighting Papke vastly different than engaging in combat with Sergeant Sunshine and Petty Officer Curran, those fierce looking, but cumbersome English products.

Natural Training Methods.

Reports from Lil' Artha Johnson's ocean beach training quarters indicate that the fighter is adopting training stunts most natural to a man of his color and natural predelection.

He is chasing chickens around the backyard.

Down in Galveston, in these many years that have flitted gently past, John Artha used to chase chickens for a living. If he caught one or two, he ate; if the feathered fowl escaped the large arms of the hungry negro, his appetite grew even more surly.

Mistah Johnson is not obliged to chase chickens at the present time, in order that he may appease his large, ingrowing appetite. But just the same, one pauses in the busy scanning of the news, wondering if there is not a wild delight entering into the chasing of chickens.

One can almost imagine the eyes of the large brunette sticking out in exciting anticipation when he has the chicken in the ruck. Chasing chickens is very likely the most pleasant part of the Johnson training regime.

Hush the Tears, Child.

Reading of the defeat of our pets and prides at the hands of Thomas Heine Schoonhoven's hired men, as pictured by that prairie descriptive artist Kid Speer, hot, scalding tears were caused to course down withered cheeks. It is the saddest classic since Mrs. Southworth and Laura Jean Libbey, the author of eighty-seven novels, every one a master piece, dropped literature for workbasket.

How pathetic the whole scene must have been! The sylvan dell and the sweet kine lowing outside the ball yard fence. Our athletes smote the sweet spring earth and cried, when they realized that the game was lost. Kid Speer says they did.

If the fans could but read the agony tucked in that story of the route of the enemy, they would not have it in their hearts to be churlish, mean, cold or indifferent toward the team.

Keep it up, little one; there is nothing like going when the going is good. We will return anon.

News From the Front.

Camp Been Lemon, May 25.—(Special to Civilization.)—James J. Jeffries went fishing this afternoon. The fries were reported to be in a ferocious mood as a result. Jeff was cautioned to be careful. Halley's comet has created some very interesting discussion in the camp. Its appearance is welcomed as a source of diversion to Jeffries, for time hangs very heavy on his hands. Nat Goodwin, who used to be an actor, has been imported to assist in the preparing of Jeffries. He will recite Hamlet, as this is one of the funniest things he does. James J. Corbett, one time a famous fighter, is expected next week. He intends to get some local color, as his health has not been of the best.

DELANEY TO TRAIN JOHNSON

San Francisco, Cal., May 25.—There is joy in the Johnson camp as a result of the announcement that Billy Delaney, veteran maker of heavyweight champions, is to coach the negro for his fight with Jeffries. Johnson himself is highly elated. He figures that Delaney is the best man in the business to prepare him for the crucial battle of his career. This belief is based on the fact that not only can Delaney give him the fruits of forty years of ring experience, but that the veteran, who developed Jeffries, knows more about the retired champion than anybody else and will be able to give Johnson many priceless pointers about Jeffries' style of fighting.

The advent of Tom Flanagan into the Johnson camp is likewise a matter of great satisfaction to the negro's supporters.

Delaney broached a suggestion to Promoter Tex Rickard yesterday that finds favor with the fans. His proposal is to invite Jem Mace, the one-time champion of England, and Bill Clark, another veteran pugilist now living in St. Louis, to box three one-minute round bouts as a curtain raiser to the big fight.

Rickard welcomed Delaney's plan and will try to carry it out.

Following his conference with Johnson, Delaney took occasion to deny a report from the East that he had stated Jeffries could not get in shape for the coming fight. "I didn't say anything of the kind," Delaney declared.

Knock-Out in Seventh.

FINE SCORES MADE BY WESTERN TRAP SHOOTERS.

Des Moines, Iowa, May 25.—Notwithstanding the fact that there was an extremely high wind prevailing yesterday, several excellent scores were made by the trapshooters in the Great Western handicap tournament. Although F. G. Bills of Chicago held the high score for the day at singles, making a total of 174 out of 180, yet the work of W. R. Crosby of Fallon, Ill., in breaking 100 straight in the first five events yesterday morning, despite the fact that a high wind was blowing, was the sensation of the day.

ON THE IRON RANGES

CAPSTICK FUNERAL IS LARGE AFFAIR

Numerous Friends and Brother Lodgemen of Drowning Victim Attend.

Eveleth, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of William Capstick, the Adams stripping foreman, who was drowned Sunday while fishing in Moon lake, was held yesterday afternoon from the Methodist church. The church was filled to the door. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. E. A. Wilcox of Virginia.

Many members of the Redmen and Odd Fellow lodges, of which the deceased was a prominent member, with members of the Eagles, Rebekahs and Maccabbees, and many friends and relatives from this city and the surrounding towns followed the body to the cemetery.

The deceased was a veteran of the Spanish war, and local veterans attended the funeral. Many mining men who were associated with the deceased were also present.

Mr. Capstick was 46 years of age, coming here from the Michigan ranges ten years ago to accept the position of foreman of the Adams mine stripping. He was an enthusiastic sportsman, and a member of many local and range athletic organizations; and was well known for his hunting and fishing abilities. He was single, and is survived by his mother, Mrs. Sarah Capstick, Eveleth; a brother, Albert, Eveleth; four sisters, Mrs. M. Hayes, St. John Arizona; Mrs. Amelia Ellen, Doloton Eng.; Mrs. L. Mason, Preston, Eng.; Mrs. T. Smith, Skipton, Eng.

WATER SUPPLY IN POOR SHAPE

Virginia Council Reminded of Shortcoming in Its Plant.

Virginia, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—President A. C. Osborne gave the members of the city council something of a shock last night when he forcibly reminded them that the water supply is not in the most effective condition.

Mr. Osborne told the council that the streets and water supply are in poor condition, and that something should be done at once to remedy the condition. He said that at a fire at the South side yesterday morning the supply was so poor that the department had difficulty in making a stream, and that the streets were in such condition that the horses were almost exhausted when they reached the scene of the fire.

The council will take the matter up at once.

It was decided to make the sidewalk on Central avenue sixteen feet wide from Chestnut to Poplar streets, twelve feet from Poplar to Cedar streets, and beyond that point eight feet wide.

The matter of securing gravel from J. L. Owens, who has about sixty acres of it on the Rainy Lake road, for the purpose of grading streets where paving is not to be used, was referred to the committee on streets and alleys.

ENTERTAIN AT CARDS.

Ely Young Ladies Hostesses at a Pleasant Social Function.

Ely, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Misses Staples, Murphy, Gilham and Keeley entertained friends at the Lakeview hotel on Monday evening. Cards were played. Mrs. James Moonan carried off the honors. Miss Fannie Staples favored the ladies with two vocal solos. A delicious lunch was served in the dining room, which had been prettily arranged for the occasion. The evening was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone present.

Edish Labeau came up from Chisholm on Tuesday for a visit with relatives and friends.

W. J. Oates was called to Duluth Monday to be a witness in a case between the widow of the late George Gorse and the Oliver Mining company.

H. Hagerman was a south-bound passenger Monday morning.

John Kursman of Hibbing spent Sunday in the city visiting relatives and friends.

Mrs. Joseph Wallace, Sr., who has spent the past few months here at the home of her son, Thomas, departed for Hibbing Monday morning.

Assistant Cashier Joseph Lonegren, Jr., of the First National bank enjoyed a visit from his brother of Duluth over Sunday.

Mrs. O. W. Parker left Tuesday morning for Winona, where she will visit for a short time with her mother, when she will be met by the doctor, and together they intend to spend some time in California and Mexico.

Jack Bedford went to Duluth Monday as a witness at the land office.

William Fromhery went to Duluth Monday to make final proof on his claim.

RANGE SCHOOLS HAVING STATE EXAMINATIONS.

Eveleth, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Commencing Friday all the schools on the range will hold their state examinations, which are prepared by the state examination board and which are very essential in the university entrance requirements. The local pupils are working overtime in preparation for the exams. A student's success in the state exams will determine whether or not he will be exempt from the finals in June, and all are working to pass the state examinations, and, with a good daily average, many should manage to escape the final examinations, thereby being sure to pass their grade.

Woman's Complexion Need Never Grow Old

(From English Magazine of Travel.)

"Travelers visiting Baltimore and other cities in the United States are struck with the youthful complexions of the women. It is the same delicate and lovely tint—free from blemish—that one finds in France and Japan.

"Whether in the Orient or along the Mediterranean—or in the bustling American city—it is evident that some women know the secret of mayatone, for with the aid of this simple lotion any woman can preserve the dainty and delicate skin given her in her girlhood and halt the advance of Father Time.

The treatment is harmless and will not injure a baby's skin. Dissolve a small original package of mayatone in eight ounces of witch hazel. Massage the face, arms and neck with this solution once a day and you need never use paint or powder. It does not show upon the skin, but it removes all sorts of blemishes and prevents the growth of hair. In hot weather mayatone is doubly welcome, for it removes any shine from the skin at once, and keeps the complexion dainty and fair on the most trying days."

PREPARING FOR AITKIN MEETING

FERGUS R. ELLSWORTH.

Eveleth, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Assistant Postmaster Fergus R. Ellsworth, president of the Duluth district Epworth league, who was recently elected first lieutenant of Company F, is now completing arrangements for the Epworth league convention to be held at Aitkin.

Mr. Ellsworth is identified with the Elks and other prominent local fraternal organizations and is also an athlete. Mr. Ellsworth has been assistant postmaster for some time, and is the son of Former Postmaster Ellsworth. Mr. Ellsworth is one of the most popular young men of this city, and was recently wedded to Miss Lucas of Milwaukee.

ELY PIONEER IS BORNE TO GRAVE

Funeral of Late Joseph Seraphine, Tuesday Largely Attended.

Ely, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Joseph Seraphine, Sr., a pioneer of Ely, was held Tuesday morning from the Catholic church, Rev. Joseph F. Buh officiating. The funeral was delayed, awaiting the coming of a brother, Charles Seraphine, from Rosland, B. C., who arrived here Monday. Other relatives present at the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Locher of Ishpeming, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. George Smeltz of Ishpeming, Mrs. Louis Kaiser of Hibbing, Mrs. J. Kinsman of Buhl, Ed Locher of Hibbing. A large number accompanied the remains to their last resting place and to pay their respects to a departed friend.

BIG CAISSONS ARE UNLOADED

Will Be Placed in the Big Steel Bridge Over the Hull Mine Pit.

Hibbing, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—A large amount of steel for the steel bridge which is to be erected on First avenue on the Hull pit, has been unloaded. The cylindrical steel caissons are about thirty feet long and sixteen feet in diameter and will be filled with cement and will be used to support the bridge. The work on the cement foundations for the piers is nearly completed.

Rev. J. B. A. Idstrom of the Swedish church in this city has issued a call for a meeting of the Swedes, Danes, Norwegians and Finlanders, to be held this evening at the library. This meeting is for the purpose of assisting in the Fourth of July celebration and which will be celebrated in a good old-fashioned way.

The remains of several bodies in Hibbing's old graveyard, where the Buffalo-Susquehanna strippings are now under way, were found yesterday. The first coffin was not broken and was taken to the new cemetery at once, so that the person found is unknown. One coffin contained the remains of a lumberjack and showed that he had been buried with his working clothes. Hibbing's first graveyard was located at the east end of Superior street and was used about two years and there were but few burials, and as soon as the new cemetery was secured it was thought all the bodies were taken to the new burial grounds. It is not expected that any more bodies will be discovered as the excavation is pretty well through the old site.

The contract for a $5,000 residence for L. O. Kirby was let to Johnson-Moynihan company, and work on the building will commence at once. The residence will be two stories and will have a complete cement basement and will be located on Fourth avenue, between Lincoln and Garfield streets.

A steam shovel was put to work Tuesday morning by the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad, making a cut for the new grade for the Missabe road. The grade will run on Railroad street and will cross Superior street near the Episcopal church. Several houses have been moved from Railroad street so as to make away with this cut. This cut is near the Buffalo-Susquehanna strippings and will be about two blocks long.

Bishop and Mrs. L. M. Morrison of Duluth returned to their home last evening after spending the day attending the St. Louis County Sunday School convention.

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Hart arrived in this city Monday from Green Bay, Wis., and are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Tucker.

Judge Lekvet returned from Virginia Tuesday evening after spending the day there on business.

EVELETH HOSPITAL CHANGES.

Eveleth, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. Walter Hicks of St. Luke's hospital, Chicago and Dr. L. Harman, of the Presbyterian hospital, Chicago, have accepted positions on the More hospital staff. Dr. Brown, city health inspector and a number of the More hospital staff, has resigned, and contemplates leaving next week for Minneapolis.

Dr. W. E. Harwood, who has been absent since October, in Europe, has returned and is again head doctor at the Fabiola hospital. Dr. J. Dougherty, who has been on the More hospital staff for some time, contemplates removing some time next month to Duluth.

HAS CHILDREN IN VIRGINIA

Ex-Alderman William Collins of Negaunee Buried Tuesday Afternoon.

Negaunee, Mich., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of the late William Collins, ex-alderman from the First ward, was held yesterday afternoon from the Mitchell Methodist church and was largely attended.

The members of the Sons of St. George and Macabee societies, of which the deceased was a member, marched in a body.

Mr. Collins was 53 years of age and is survived by his widow and seven children. The latter are Mrs. W. J. Crocker and W. J. Collins of Virginia, Minn.; Mrs. James Haines of this city; Albert, Lawrence, Orville and Lillie at home.

NET REVENUE OF HIBBING GAINS

Last Week Was Most Prosperous in History of Range Village.

Hibbing, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The report of the municipal court for the week ending May 21, presented at the council meeting last night, showed a net revenue to the village of $725.85, the largest in the history.

The petition of property owners for construction of road, from Rock Lake ice company's icehouses, running in a northeasterly direction, to a point intersecting and connecting with the Chisholm road, now principally used and traveled between Hibbing and Chisholm, was refered to the committee of streets and alleys, for the purpose of investigation and to report to the council later.

The recorder was instructed to notify the Great Northern and the Duluth Mesaba & Northern Railway company of the condition of the street crossings Second and Third avenues, and ask them to stand for breakage of the fire apparatus in crossing the tracks at said streets, when making runs to fires.

The council confirmed the recommendations made by Charles McIlhargey, chief of the fire department, as to a wage scale for the members of his department.

The council accepted the bid of heating the new sub-fire station, from the school district at $200 per year. The recorder was instructed to notify the school board to that effect.

The application of Frank Ansley to transfer his liquor license to Mike Somers and application for transfer of liquor license by Julius Christenson to Satini Bros., were ordered published.

ROBBED WHILE ASLEEP.

Court Interpreter at Eveleth Has Friend Held to Grand Jury.

Eveleth, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Pasquela Spigarelli, an Italian, was arrested yesterday by Sergeant Peter Nordi, on a charge of stealing $80 from Joseph Lash, a court interpreter, while the latter was asleep in his room in the same building in which Pasquela also resided. Spigraelli was given a hearing and bound over to the grand jury under $500 bonds. He was taken to Duluth this morning.

KILLED BLASTING STUMPS.

John Hydick Settler North of Virginia Loses His Life.

Virginia, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—While blasting stumps on his homestead location, 2-63-21, last Saturday, John Hydick, aged 27, having a sister living in Minneapolis and a brother whose whereabouts are not known, was killed. The affair became known when a local undertaker was asked to take a coffin to Gheen.

One of Hydick's arms was blown off, one eye blown out and his skull badly crushed.

CHILDREN HAVE QUARREL; ONE GETS BROKEN ARM.

Eveleth, Minn., May 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles, the 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scott of the Spruce location, sustained a broken arm, when it is said, Jack, the 6-year-old son of L. Eller hurled a rock at him in anger during a quarrel.

CHANGE FOOD

And Lose That Uneasy Feeling.

A man who has always been a "skinny chap," although hardly ever ill, tells of the way he put on flesh and reduced his irritability and nervous condition.

By chance he had a taste of Grape-Nuts food at the table of a friend and enjoyed the flavour so much that he began to have it every meal. He says:

"In a short time I found myself another person, the old feeling of discontent and uneasiness left me entirely, it became a pleasure to go about my work, whereas, before, for twelve years, I had always had the feeling of being a little weary, now I soem to have a surplus of energy for everything. My weight has increased 11 pounds in 4 weeks, and I am still gaining.

"I have never been very sick, and am satisfied that if my present improvement in health continues, I shall not be.

"The change that this food has made in my life has been remarkable and so satisfactory that I am glad of the opportunity to tell you."

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

TEMPERANCE TALK DURING MORNING

Successful Conclusion of Most Successful Sunday School Meeting.

Hibbing, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The quick religious census of Hibbing is being taken this afternoon by the volunteers attending the St. Louis Sunday School association meeting here. It is conducted by Dr. R. W. Bowden.

"Temperance Teaching in the Sunday School" was the main theme of discussion at this morning's session of the meeting led by Mr. Trelstad. The convention has been a splendid success in every way and will conclude this afternoon with a religious census. There have been about forty-five delegates in attendance.

Rev. Mr. Clark of Nicollet county is loud in the praise of the attendance and general interest shown.

Dr. R. W. Bowden, president of the were inclined to criticise the growth of the county Sunday School association it should be remembered that it was but a 2-year-old. He thought its development had been surprising. Mr. Clark said that the "little child was leading them in point of number of delegates at convention and in placing important things first on the program, referring to the discussion of elimentary grades.

M. E. Pearce presided at the opening session yesterday afternoon. The word of welcome to the convention was given by Rev. Mr. Bates of the Presbyterian church of this city.

D. R. W. Bowden president of the county association substituting for Lachian McDonald, Duluth on the topic Organized Sunday School work" related the work of the St. Louis county association with its eight districts with the state association, it in turn with the other state associations in the national and with the Provincial associations of Canada and Mexico in the international and finally with those of other countries in the world's association just now having its convention in Washington.

Mrs. J. D. Morrison of Duluth said in line with the topic, "Missions in Sunday Schools," that the study of missions was a necessity to secure the interest of pupils in people outside of themselves. Any method of teaching missionary information that avoids haphazardness and is carried out is beneficial. There are bound to be results illustrated in contrast by the fact that a worm in the apple is produced by the sting of an insect when the fruit is very young.

Rev. F. L. Trelstad of Chicago, formerly pastor of the Norwegian-Danish church of Superior, gave in his usual spirited manner the ideal of conducting "The Cradle Roll."

A Touching Incident.

He emphasized the need of carrying on the visitation work after enrollment. A touching incident showing the effectiveness of visitation work was related. A visitor took interest in the baby of a saloonkeeper and gained permission to enroll it. To the exercises in the church he and his wife took the child, and the prayer of the lady who had first showed interest in it stayed by him until during the week he told his wife that he was going to quit the saloon business, and said, "How can I be a saloonkeeper and not be a stumbling block in the way of the baby? I can't do it."

A remarkable experiment bearing on the influence of the question of "Heredity and Environment" was given in the paper of Miss Florence Williams of Duluth. A number of children were transferred from their homes in Five Points, the worst slum district in New York city, to a healthy, moral environment. Only those under 2 years of age came out right.

Rev. Ralph E. Clark of St. Peter gave a very interesting talk on the teaching of children from 6 to 8 years of age. It should be understood and remembered, he said, that this is the period of physical activity, the golden memory period; everything good and bad is retained by them, with the emphasis on the bad, but it is the period of increasing spiritual capacity; a period of habit formation, which is to be influenced for the good by teaching by stories.

Tuesday Evening's Session.

At the evening session Andrew Nelson of Duluth was introduced by Dr. Bowden as the newly elected president of the association, to succeed F. N. Burrall. Mr. Nelson, in his brief impromptu speech of acceptance, said among other things: "I am a Sunday school man. I am proud of it. I wish I could give more time to it." He introduced Rev. Mr. Clark, who spoke on "The Higher Rating of St. Louis County Sunday Schools as Educational Agencies." He said that the home had given over to the Sunday school the religious intellectual training it used to do. The public school had also said to the Sunday school, "I can not supply this education in religion," this not because of lack of Christian teachers, but on account of the nature of the system. Mr. Clark said that he believed we never had teachers more conscientious and capable than now in the public schools. The fault lay in the Christian parents, who had not demanded education in the knowledge of Christian things in the schools. The task before the Sunday school is to give this education to the child. The Sunday school is the whole church studying and teaching about the winning of souls to Christ and the development of Christian character.

Mr. Trelstad spoke of higher rating as evangelistic agencies, outlining the work of winning the scholars to Jesus Christ and of keeping them active in Christian work. He spoke of how, when a sailor bound to the mast as the lookout on deck in a storm, the words of his foster mother, "God bless the sailors," helped to his conversion. So the Sunday school teacher influences the lives of the pupils for the better.

TO GIVE OPERETTA.

Hibbing School Children to Present "The National Flower."

Hibbing, Minn, May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Some seventy children of the fourth and fifth grades of the public schools will give an operetta at the high school auditorium Friday evening, entitled "The National Flower."

The boys and girls will represent flowers and the central idea of the operetta is the choosing of a national flower. It eventually devolves upon Uncle Sam to make the choice and the Minnesota flower is chosen.

The musical work of the operetta is being directed by Miss Mabel Stephan and the dramatic work is in charge of Miss St. John. These ladies had charge of the music and the dramatic work of the operetta. "The American Girl" recently given so successfully by the girls of the high school.

BRIDGE IS REPAIRED.

Missabe Structure Between Marble and Coleraine Fixed.

Marble, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Duluth Missabe & Northern bridge repairers finished their work on the bridge between here and Calumet Monday. The bridge came near collapsing the other day when a freight train passed over it. The piling shifted several inches. People who witnessed the passing of the train were sure it would never reach the other side. While repairs were in operation trains slowed down to five miles an hour in crossing it. If the collapse had taken place it would have meant a serious delay in ore shipments from the Canisteo district whereas this repairing had made it more staple than before.

JOY FOR NIMRODS.

Good Partridge Hunting Near Hibbing This Year Expected.

Hibbing, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The partridges are having the best season in years and this fall the hunters wil get the best chance for that kind of sport that they have had for some time. It has been almost eight years since the Hibbing sportsmen have had any kind of partridge shooting. The main reason for the decrease was the great spring rains and consequently the young ones have been destroyed steadily each year until their numbers have been shot to pieces.

Fred Travers, a well-known taxidermist and also a lover of the woods, has been making the rounds regularly this spring and reports that he has seen several hundreds coveys of the birds.

There was a time in Hibbing when the partridge were to be had very close to Hibbing, but owing to the inrush and building up the surrounding country it has been impossible to secure any of the birds within a reasonable distance. This year, however, the present outlook promises good sport and many of the valuable prizes will be shot down.

ADJUST FIRE LOSS.

Duluth and Minneapolis Men Settle Crookston Difficulty.

Crookston, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—After a several days' conference, A. Holmboe of this city, F. X. Gravelle of Duluth and a Minneapolis man have made a final award in the adjustment of the insurance of Kalad, whose Turkish store was gutted by fire several months ago, granted by him $7,750. He carried over $9,000 insurance, and the companies objected to making a full settlement. The settlement made appears to be satisfactory, and the decision was arrived at after much evidence had been taken. The decision is final, and no appeal to the courts can be taken.

TWO HUNDRED WAYS TO HURT MAIL CLERKS.

Kansas City, Mo., May 25.—Eighty-two mail clerks were injured last year by engines bumping into trains standing at railroad stations, according to the report of T. J. Masten, chairman of the claims committee, submitted at today's session of the annual convention of the Railway Mail Clerks' Association of America. He said the greatest number of accidents were due to collisions of trains—143. Two hundred different kinds of accidents were mentioned in the report.

Steamer Sinks at Rockland, Me.

Rockland, Me., May 25.—The passenger steamer James T. Morse, which plies between Rockland and Bar Harbor, was sunk at her berth today by the Boston-Bangor steamer Belfast. No lives were lost, but twenty-two of the crew on the Morse had a narrow escape.

HEBREWS LEGALLY IN MOSCOW ARE LISTED.

Moscow, May 25.—Official publication was made today of a list of 191 Jewish merchants of the first guild whose families are legally entitled to live in Moscow. The other Hebrew residents in the city are, in the same announcement, given one month in which to provide proofs of their right to remain in the alloted territory.

Dickinson Humane Society.

Dickinson, N. D., May 25.—(Special to the Herald.)—Humane societies are becoming very popular in North Dakota through the activity of State Officer William Blake, the eighth one to be organized within a few weeks being launched in this city. It has a membership of about one hundred already and there are splendid prospects of this being doubled within a short time. The first officers follow: President, E. J. Scharf; vice president, C. N. Barker; secretary and treasurer, Miss Mabel Cummings.

DULUTHIAN TO EXPLAIN TERMINAL GRAIN SYSTEM.

Munich, N. D., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Farmers residing in this section will hold a meeting Friday afternoon for the purpose of discussing the question of erecting an elevator. G. E. Morrison of Duluth has been invited to give an address and he will explain the workings of the system whereby they can successfully handle their own grain through the terminals.

Baudette Has Band.

Baudette, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Baudette will be furnished with excellent music during the long summer evenings. A band has been organized with Al Hoelscher as leader. The following officers were elected: President, H. Ferminick; vice president, Paul Sanderson; secretary, William Gibbson; treasurer, Leonard Larson.

Discussing Alaska, the report says: "There is really no Sabbath in Alaska, with steamers large and small calling in port, and the industries and mines running seven days in the week."

Would Meet Other Sects.

The board in conclusion asks the general assembly to consider the advisability of an approach to other leading denominations on the question of unifying interest and influence in the matter of chaplaincies in the army and navy.

The college board of the assembly has presented a report asking for a movement to raise a fund of $15,000,000 for college work to be divided between the fifty-seven colleges of the faith.

During discussion of the report of the college board, Dr. John Willis Baer, president of the Occidental College of California, created a stir by taking as his text for an address the quotation from former President Roosevelt as follows: "The one thing supremely worth having is opportunity coupled with capacity to do a thing worthy and well."

Dr. Baer was cheered when he referred to Mr. Roosevelt as "an American citizen temporarily absent from the White House."

most commanding promontory on the western shore of Lake Champlain, three miles south of Plattsburg, was famous as summer resort and was one of the show places of Northern New York. The hotel, which was first opened in 1890, was a commanding wooden structure five stories high with a capacity for housing hundreds of guests.

Surrounded by Big Park.

The grounds, consisting of several hundred acres of park, woodland and lawns, are dotted here and there with cottages and there are several miles of forest, cliff and lakeside walks and drives. A few years ago the original capacity of the hotel was nearly doubled by the erection of an annex.

Bluff Point was a favorite spot of the late President McKinley and the hotel was the summer capital of the United States at one period of his administration and was the headquarters of the New York State Lake Champlain Tercentenary commission during last summer's celebration, during which President Taft was entertained.

Vice President C. S. Sims of the Delaware & Hudson company said today that the loss amount to about $300,000. It was insured for $233,000.

will be used as a basis for party agreement on the subject. The freest discussion will be had tonight, and it is expected that the bill which the caucus will approve will differ widely from the Gardner bill as well as from the one which passed the senate some weeks ago.

There is strong opposition to both bills and wide divergence of opinion among both "regular" and "insurgent" Republicans. It was predicted that the caucus would require more than one night to decide upon a postal savings bill, but many influential Republicans believe that the business will be finished tonight.

SEYLER SOON TO HEAR FATE

officers, Seyler greeted his wife, who has stood loyally by him during his trouble. He looked worried, but when he spoke to Mrs. Seyler, who had with her her young daughter, Bessie, he smiled.

After a brief consultation with his attorney, Seyler took the stand. His story, told in a composed manner, was as follows:

"I knew Jane Adams in her lifetime. I am 28 years old. I remember the night of Feb. 4. I had not been working that day. About 7 o'clock I went after some coal. The Adamses lived a short distance from me, and we frequently visited each other. Coming back with the coal, I passed the Adams house, with Orvis Seyler and Tommy Adams.

Borrowed Half a Dollar.

"When I reached the house a child ran out and said to Orvis: 'Alice wants you.' Orvis stopped, and I went directly home. I had an engagement with a man after 7 o'clock. Before I went out I asked my wife for 50 cents, but she did not give it to me, so I went to Young's saloon and borrowed the money.

H. W. RICHARDSON, Local Forecaster.

FAIR

The weather man has come out of his grouch and the sun is shining once more. That near-north-pole touch is still in the air, and 'twould not be well for you to leave your light coat home for an evenin'. Reginald, if you would, perchance, take some fair damsel canoeing on the bay. The highest temperatures yesterday was 51 deg., while the mercury stumbled down to 34 deg. last night.

Fair weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:21 and it will set at 7:18, giving fifteen hours and twenty-seven minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richard makes the following comment on weather conditions.

"Further rains fell during Tuesday or last night in districts to the eastward of the Mississippi valley in connection with the low pressure area that in the emeantime has moved its center from Lake Superior to the lower St. Lawrence valley. The western disturbance has increased in intensity and is central over Alberta. It has caused some rain in Oregon and Washington and higher temperature over Alberta and Saskatchewan. A high pressure area over the Dakotas and Manitoba is attended by cooler and frosty weather. The barometer is rising again in Pacific Coast states.

General Forecasts.

BOY KILLED ON BIRTHDAY

Ned Abrahamson Meets Death By Falling Down Elevator Shaft.

Was Running Away From Cousins to Escape "Thumps."

Running away from his two cousins to save himself the customary fourteen thumps on the back upon the advent of his 14th birthday, Ned Abrahamson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Abrahamson, pitched into the elevator shaft of the Ashtabula flats, Fifth avenue east and Third street, and, plunging three stories downward, struck on his head on the concrete floor of the basement about 6 o'clock last evening.

The boy's skull was crushed and death resulted a few hours later. Internal injuries were also probably sustained.

Romping about in sheer excess of spirits he had gone upstairs to tell his relatives, who live on the third floor, of his birthday. As had been usual in the past the boys wanted to pound him back once for each year. While playfully trying to elude them he fell headlong over the balustrade which winds about the elevator shaft.

The unfortunate boy was found by the janitor a short time afterwards. He was carried to the apartments of his parents and Dr. C. A. Stewart summoned to attend him, but it required only a cursory examination for him to tell the grief-stricken parents that death was a matter of a few hours. He died without regaining consciousness.

The boy was a student at the Duluth Central high school and was popular with his classmates. Besides his parents he is survived by a younger sister, Esther. Mr. Abrahamson is proprietor of the Sterling Wine house, First avenue east and Superior street.

The funeral arrangements were made for this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence at the Ashtabula flats. Interment will be in the Jewish cemetery.

commission of increases in railroad rates.

"The interstate commerce commission is engaged in mere child's play," said Mr. La Follette, adding that it was so hedged about that it could not effectively deal with the problem.

"The rules of the senate seem to be so formed as to prevent one from speaking the truth. The railroads have been having their way for forty years. We have the sins of many congresses to atone for before we permit this bill to pass from our hands."

Aldrich and Elkins.

While the rate regulation provision of the president's original bill was in the public interest, Mr. La Follette said, the provision had been modified by Senators Aldrich and Elkins wholly in the interests of the railroads.

Since Jan. 1, he said, the rates on wool from St. Louis and Duluth to New York had increased 17 and 18 per cent; on grain and grain products, domestic, from St. Louis to New York, 18 per cent, and from Chicago to New York, 30 per cent; fresh meats from Missouri river points to Chicago, 16 per cent; Missouri river points to East St. Louis, 23 per cent, and the rates on horses and mules between St. Paul and La Crosse, 10 per cent.

Quotes New Rates.

Out of the multitude of rates to become effective June 1, he cited the following:

"Agriculture implements, Chicago to St. Paul, 13½ per cent; brick, St. Paul to Chicago, 15 2-3 per cent; cement, St. Paul to Chicago, 25 per cent; harness (L) St. Paul to Chicago, 15 per cent; hides, green salt, St. Paul to Chicago, 24.3 per cent; paints, Chicago to St. Paul, 15.4 per cent; wagons, Lake City, Minn., to St. Louis, 14.4 per cent; wool, St. Paul to Chicago, 15 per cent."

He contended that intead of any advance there should have been a decrease.

SUGAR TRUST RECORDS NOT TO BE FOUND

the offices of the sugar trust chiefs on Wall street than he has told.

Changes His Testimony.

Spitzer was in court when the trial was resumed. The first witness called, however, was John H. Thompson, a bookkeeper in the Wall street offices of the sugar company.

Mr. Thompson yesterday repeatedly testified that it was James F. Bendernagel, the refinery cashier, one of the defendants with Heike, who told him on one occasion that the cessation of weight discrepancies on sugar cargoes was accounted for by the fact that the government was keeping a watch on the docks. Today Thompson asked leave to correct this testimony.

"It was Spitzer who told me the docks were being watched, not Bendernagel," said Thompson.

The witness also denied calling Gerbracht, the refinery superintendent on the telephone regarding sugar weights. He also corrected his testimonyy in other details, mostly of a minor nature.

Loses Weight in Refinery.

Theodore L. Keppler, head of the sugar trust's refinery in South Boston, testified as an expert to sugar making proccesses and was led to state that raw sugar would lose in weight by being refined. It is the government's contention that more sugar was turned out of the various refineries of the trust than was shown by the government weight returns to have been received in a raw state.

Oliver Spitzer Recalled.

There was a general rustle of expectancy in the court room as Oliver Spitzer was called to the stand for cross-examination. Washington D. Thomas, president of the American Sugar Refining company, who is under subpoena to appear for the government, watched the former employe of the corporation closely as Spitzer began his testimony. Spitzer was cross-examined by Former State Senator Clarence W. Lexow.

Spitzer said that Theodore A. Havemeyer, brother of the late H. O. Havemeyer, appointed him superintendent of the Williamsburg docks. When he left Atlantic prison, Spitzer said, he had no hope of a pardon, and added:

"I left my effects in Atlanta. I came here to unburden myself of the great wrong I had done all these years. I wanted to confess all my sins before this court and tell all I knew.

Wanted to Tell All.

"I wanted to stand among my fellow men once more and tell all I should have told before. I wanted to go back to my family. I wanted to be shriven of all that cankered me those sleepless nights in Atlanta prison, where I suffered so much. I could not stand it any longer.

"I told Capt. Flynn of the secret service in Atlanta that I couldn't stand the torture; that I must tell the truth, and I would not have been behind those bars if I had taken the advice of my lawyers, Mr. MacKeller and Mr. Cochran. They told me to confess, if I had anything to confess, after my conviction last February."

Spitzer's former counsel, MacKellar and Cochran, who are now defending the ex-government checkers, Halligan and Voelker, two of the six defendants, leaned forward in their chairs listening with rapt attention to the testimony of their former client.

Spitzer said he had received the pardon in the United States district attorney's office just before he took the stand Monday morning.

No promise, he said, had been made him by Special Deputy Attorney General Stimson or anyone else connected with the government.

The Best Home Medicine

This Simple Old Country Home Remedy Cleans Up the System as Clean as a Whistle and Fills the Arteries With Rich Red Blood.

There have been hundreds of "spring medicines," "blood purifiers," "vitalizers," "nerve compounds," etc., etc., etc., etc., offered the public within the last few years. Many of these preparations have not been without some merit, perhaps, but there is after all, only one real, home spring remedy that can be depended upon as sure as the sun, every time. We have in mind the old Swedish remedy, Salubrin, which has now found its way to this country.

Salubrin is entirely unlike any other spring medicine you ever heard of. There is no mystery about it or its action. No guess work about what it does. Spring fever, that tired, lazy feeling, lack of ambition, "low" nerve force, etc., for which a spring medicine is taken, are all just the result of the accumulation of germs and toxins in the system during the cold, sluggish winter months. Salubrin is a germ killer, an anti-toxic, which is sure death to all germs, but unlike other germ destroyers it does not injure the system, being a neutral compound as far as human tissue is concerned, and a real bone and muscle builder. It drives germ out of the blood, out of the vital organs, out of every nook and corner of your whole system and makes you feel strong and good all over, because it helps nature to do her duty. Salubrin is sold by all druggists, price 50 cents per bottle. It's fine for coughs and colds and catarrh as well, because it kills the germs. If you can't find Salubrin, write us and we will tell you where to get it. Salubrin Laboratory, Dept. 26, Grand Crossing, Chicago, Ill.

GOVERNOR BURKE SPEAKS

At Ceremonies of Laying Foster County Courthouse Corner Stone.

Carrington, N .D., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The corner stone of the Foster county courthouse was laid today, with a large crowd in attendance from different sections of the county.

Governor Burke delivered the principal address of the day, and that fact was responsible for many people coming in.

The corner stone was laid by H. S. Ballard, chairman of the board of county commissioners. The new courthouse will be one of the most modern in the state.

CLOQUET BALL CLUB.

It Is Organized and Proposes to Get In the Game.

Cloquet, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a meeting of the baseball fans of this city Tuesday evening a new manager and board of directors were elected and a new impetus set to the game. Simon Loisel was elected manager, Dr. C. L. Sandstrom secretary and treasurer, E. S. Schiebe, F. D. Vibert and L. S. Patterson members of the board of directors.

It is the intention of the management to organize a new team, secure the best material possible and put out a team that makes the game here a paying proposition as well as a credit to the city.

DESERTED FROM NAVY.

Death of Anoka Boy Discloses an Unfortunate Circumstance.

Fargo, N. D., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Identity of Carl W. Dean, a youth who died a day or two ago in the county hospital of typhoid fever, has been established. His home was at Anoka, Minn.

The boy had been enlisted in the navy, but deserted.

He worked his way back to Anoka, but was so afraid of arrest he did not make any effort to see his mother and came on here.

The mother is here today for his body.

Family Thrown From Auto.

Harvey, N. D., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—While driving on the low speed over a muddy road, M. Lucas and his family suddenly found themselves in the ditch, their automobile being overturned by a culvert in bad repair. The accident happened a short distance from Minnewaukan while they were en route to their home here from Devils Lake. Mr. Lucas received several bad cuts and bruises, but otherwise was uninjured, while all the other members of the party escaped unhurt.

Noted Traveler Killed.

London, May 25.—Lieut. Boyd Alexander, the noted traveler, has been murdered by natives near Wadal, in the French Congo, it is reported at the foreign office. Lieut. Boyd Alexander, late of the Seventh battalion, British rifle brigade, retired from the army in 1907. He had led several scientific expeditions.

WAR ON CIGARETTES.

Devils Lake, N. D., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—War has been declared by the members of the Devils Lake W. C. T. U. on the cigarette. At a recent meeting they passed resolutions to conduct a vigilant campaign against the use of the "pill" by boys and since then evidence of their work has been quite noticeable. The strict enforcement of the state law is their aim and they propose prosecutions wherever necessary in order to carry out the objects of their campaign.

Missing Man's Death Natural.

Marinette, Wis., May 25.—It was decided by the coroner that Lee Winkler, whose body was found near Locals, after he had been missing from his home in Lake, for over a week, came to his death by natural causes. It is believed that his death was caused by the bursting of a blood vessel.

Brainerd Official Resigns.

Brainerd, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—William E. Corkrey of the water and light board has handed his resignation to the mayor. Pressure of other business compelled his resignation. A. C. Clausen of St. Paul, is in the city today in consultation with the board on matters relating to water power, light and water supply.

Brainerd Family's Ill Luck.

Brainerd, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Harriet Eleanor Smart, the 7-year-old daughter of County Auditor J. F. Smart and wife died Monday of an attack of measles and bronchial trouble. As Mrs. Gates, the mother of Mrs. Smart is seriously ill and their infant babe is also very sick, the funeral necessarily was private, occurring from the residence yesterday afternoon.

JUDGE DIBELL MAKES HIS MAIDEN SPEECH

Indorsement to Supreme Bench Forces Him to Platform.

Is Given Ovation By 150 Lawyers From This District.

Judge Homer B. Dibell of the Eleventh district court made a speech today, and it is not of record that he ever did it before.

But the occasion was such a one as few jurists in Minnesota have encountered in their honorable careers. Attorneys of the three counties comprising the eleventh district, St. Louis, Lake and Carlton, met in courtroom No. 1, at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon to the number of 150, and with the heartiest unanimity adopted the resolution reading as follows:

"The bar of the Eleventh judicial district, in regular session duly called and assembled, presents to the several party conventions to be held in the state of Minnesota for the year 1910, the name of the Hon. Homer B. Dibell, judge of the Eleventh judicial district, for nomination as justice of the supreme court of the state of Minnesota; and we strongly urge and recommend his nomination for the position as an able, fearless and upright judge."

After the call for the meeting had been read by the secretary, who explained that it was issued on the motion of sixteen members of the bar and that a supplemental call had been issued in the form of an invitation to all attorneys in the district, whether members or not to attend, L. C. Harris was recognized by the chair. He said that the northeastern corner of the state is entitled to and should have representation in the supreme court of the state and that the bar of the district must present as a candidate for that place a candidate who is worthy and qualified. Judge Dibell and Judge Cant, he said, had been mentioned as available for the honor, and Judge Cant had said that he would not accept the nomination. Judge Dibell was praised as a man, a lawyer and a jurist by the speaker, who then offered the resolution which was adopted by the bar association.

When Chairman Howard T. Abbott announced the result of the vote, which was unanimous, there was a thunderous roll of applause, the enthusiasm of those attending the meeting being expressed with a vehemence that would have done credit to a gathering many times as large.

Judge A. N. McGindley was recognized and spoke briefly of the fitness and qualifications of Judge Dibell for the high place for which he is proposed, and County Attorney Norton suggested that a committee be appointed to see that the object of the association in regard to the justiceship nomination is realized. Mr. Fryberger made a motion to the effect that a committee of nine be named to carry into effect the resolution adopted and action to that end was taken.

C. O. Baldwin arose to ask that Judge Dibell be produced before the meeting, and J. L. Washburn made the motion formally that five of the huskiest attorneys present should be sent for the jurist. The committee was named and sent on its mission. While the committee was absent other business was taken up by the association.

Successful in their search for the distinguished man of the hour, the committeemen returned to the court room in about half an hour with him in custody, and Mr. Baldwin, in a few happily chosen words, introduced the nominee.

Judge Dibell spoke feelingly of the action taken by the bar of the district and made a profound impression on his hearers.

"One must be stolid indeed to be unappreciative of such an expression of sentiment as has been recorded here," he said. "It is not merely an expression of personal good will or kindly feeling. Ours is a government of laws and not of men. The resolution you have adopted today has been adopted after deliberation and consideration. It is gratifying to me. As a matter of personal pride this is of more value to me than would be actual election to the office mentioned.

"It is not my notion that any one standing for judicial position should shirk work actively to further his political fortunes and I have had no part in bringing about the action taken by you today."

Government Force From the Venus Violates Its Rights.

Bluefields, Nicaraugua, May 25.—A Nicaraguan government force from the gunboat Venus today boarded and searched the American schooner Esfuerzo, flying the Stars and Stripes. The action was in defiance of a ruling from Washington that the Venus had forfeited her right of search.

Following the search the Venus and the other Nicaraguan gunboat, San Jacinto were seen approaching the Bluefields Bluff. The American gunboats Paducah and Dubuque were lying off Bluefields and it was expected here this afternoon that their commanders would take prompt action.

AGGRAVATING.

When the late Gen. Edward M. McCook lived in Pike's Peak, he once presided at a dinner in honor of a famous Indian fighter.

Mr. McCook, as he then was, concluded his introduction of the Indian fighter with the words:

"I can find but one fault wtih the colonel's methods. I allude to his well-known custom of enlisting in his regiment only bald-headed men. To aggravate the Indians' feelings so cruelly as that is carrying war too far."

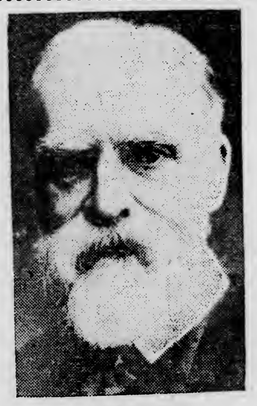
WOULD RETIRE FROM POST AT WASHINGTON



JAMES BRYCE,
British Ambassador to the United States.

New York, May 25.—Cabled advices from London state that Ambassador James Bryce has written to the foreign office, asking that he be relieved from further duty as ambassador of Great Britain at Washington as soon as possible. Mr. Bryce, according to friends, has been greatly affected by the death of King Edward, and believing that the strain of work under the new regime will tell on him, he would like to have a successor named. Mr. Bryce was born in 1838 and has been at Washington since 1907.

MILL CITY MILLS WILL RAISE WAGES

Increase in Pay Is To Be Made Because of Cost of Living.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—An increase in wages is to be granted by leading flour manufacturers of Minneapolis to the men working in their mills. The schedules are being figured out now, and will probably be effective next week. Increased cost of living is given as the reason for the contemplated advance.

The Washburn-Crosby company was the first to announce that the men in their mills were to receive a substantial increase in their pay.

"The present wage increase in the case of the Washburn-Crosby company, which is based on the principle of individual merit, will run about 8 per cent and up," says an official. "The voluntary advance at this time is all the more appreciated by the men in that the milling company is at present passing through a dull period."

ST. PAUL MAN IN CHURCH OFFICE

Charles W. Ames Is Vice President of the Unitarian Association.

Boston, Mass., May 25.—The Unitarian association today elected the following officers:

Fletcher, Jacksonville; Paul Gibson, Great Falls, Mont.; Wallace Hackett, Portsmouth, N. H.; Miss Emma C. Low, Brooklyn, and G. W. Stephenson, Montreal; secretary, Rev. Lewis G. Wilson of Cambridge; treasurer, Francis H. Lincoln, Hingham.

GOMPERS' JOB BEST ON EARTH

Head of Federation of Labor Says He Would Not Have Any Other.

Washington, May 25.—"I would rather be president of the American Federation of Labor than to hold any other office on earth," declared Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, in assuring the house committee on labor today that he had no ambition to become secretary of the proposed department of labor, the establishment of which he was urging.

"The president should have a man in his cabinet who knows labor conditions, one not necessarily risen from the ranks, but who is still in the ranks," said Mr. Gompers. "The creation of a department of labor will help to solve the greatest question of modern times—the labor question."

Secretary Morrison of the federation pointed out that 20,000,000 wage earners of the country had no direct representative in the president's cabinet.

Representative Sulzer, Democrat, of New York addressed the committee on behalf of his bill, providing for the establishment of such a cabinet department.

NEW INFIELDER SIGNED FOR SOX.

Announcement was made this afternoon by A. W. Kuehnow of the acquisition of W. F. Bannard, an infielder, secured from the Evansville, Ind., team. The player will arrive in Duluth tomorrow, it is expected, and may be tried out in the Rochester series. If the new player plays up to the form he has been touted at, he should strengthen the infield greatly.

Mr. Kuehnow also has his eye on another player, who will be secured if the team fails to show strength in the home series.

COPPERS HAVE SHARP DECLINE

Raid By Bears Sends Values Down All Through the List.

The copper market sold off today. Declines in some instances were severe. Values were depressed and the market closed weak. The action was due to a bear raid on the leaders both in the copper and the railroad markets while many industrials declined in sympathy.

The professional attitude was bearish and the market received little support. Trading here was moderate and of a good character. In the specialty market there were several moderate upturns.

Various reasons were assigned for today's decline. The insurgents, it is reported, are again in control of the house of representatives and have charge of the railroad bill. A big trust company in New York is said to be in trouble and there were other causes given for the drop.

It looked as if the action was due simply to a bear attack.

Butte-Ballaklava directors will meet next week and declare a dividend, probably on a basis of $2 a share yearly. The bulk of the stock is held in Duluth. Insiders are said to have picked up all offerings that came on the market today. Eastern people bought moderately and the demand from Boston seems to be increasing. The stock opened here with sales at $17.50, advanced to $19 and sold off to $17.75 on profit-taking. In the East the opening was at $17.50. The stock advanced to $18.25, sold off to $16.50 and at the close rallied to $16.75. Reports from the mine indicate that the ore on the 900 and 1,000-foot levels is superior to the ore on the 800-foot, where the body is thirty-four feet wide and yields copper averaging higher than 10 per cent. A large quantity of glance is of a higher grade than ever before found in the Butte district.

The part paid Scott sold at $8.12½ and the full paid at $6.87½ to $6.62½; Copper Queen at 32c and 33c; Denn at $17.50, advanced to $19 and sold off to $17.75 on profit-taking. When the Highee Iron Mining company of St. Paul advertised that it had millions of tons of iron in its land consisting of 160 acres in section 9, 56-22 on the Western Mesaba the state tax commission immediately sought information on the subject. The land is leased from the state and if any valuable ore had been discovered it was subject to taxation.

Rukard Hurd, secretary of the commission, wrote to R. B. Higbee, president of the company and candidate for governor on Hearst's Independence League ticket in 1908, asking him for definite information as to the location of the ore, the quality and the quantity.

Mr. Hurd did not secure any blue prints. He wrote the company that if its statements were true it would be liable to an assessment of at least $200,000. Hurd looked up the property on his maps and these did not disclose any valuable ore on the tract. Finally he was referred to Gary & Powers of Hibbing, mining engineers. They replied that seven borings had been made. In one hole no ore had been found, in two the ore was of such low grade that they did not bother to analyze it and in the other four they found a small formation, samples from which ranged from 30.12 to 35.52 per cent. They had not put down any more holes when Mr. Hurd last heard from them. Advertisements of recent date claim that ten holes have been put down, none more than 100 feet "every one in ore."

The Boston News Bureau says: The advance in Butte-Ballaklava to $18.37½ representing a rise of more than 100 per cent from the recent low is due to prospect of early inauguration of dividend at rate of $2 per annum. The Butte-Ballaklava company while a relatively small property comprising 6½ acres has a length of 1,600 feet east and west on the strike of the Butte ore bodies. At the present time the drifts on the 800, 900 and 1,000-foot levels are in sensational ore. In fact it is questioned if richer ore in quantity has ever been uncovered in the Butte district.

"The average mineral recoveries for the month of May will show better than 11 per cent copper and 16 ounces silver. The silver values are so high that the copper this month will probably be produced for less than nothing. In other words, the value of the silver will more than pay the cost of smelter treatment. In April the company's copper cost was a trifle less 2 cents per pound. The Butte-Ballaklava company is shipping only two cars per day and the ore loaded on these cars is not coming from the stopes as up to the present time the company has not stoped a ton of ore.

Secretary J. A. Percival, now in Boston, received a dispatch from President Nelson, now at the mine, to the effect that the same rich body of ore encountered on the three levels above mentioned has been cut on the 700-foot level, which, of course, adds immensely to the intrinsic value of the property. The vein on the 800-foot level is more than thirty feet wide.

In April Butte & Ballaklava earned $45,000 net and expects to earn $85,000 net this month. The property has been examined by some of the best engineers in the country, and the officials estimate that at the present time the company has over $2,000,000 of net value in sight. The net values on the eighth level alone are placed at $1,000,000. The property lies directly east of the North Butte and is joined by the Boston & Montana on the south and east and by the Anaconda on the north and west.

The company has already earned the funds necessary for the payment of the first quarterly dividend which will be declared around June 1 and payable probably July 1; in addition the company has a working capital of $200,000 with no debts outside of current bills.

SPRING HANDICAP AT GOLF CLUB

Much Interest Shown in Annual Contest Which Begins Saturday.

Officials of the Northland Country club state that the interest being taken in the spring handicap golf contest, which will be started next Saturday, surpasses the interest that has ever been shown in any previous early spring play at the club.

Practically every player in the club will be entered in the spring handicap. It will be an eighteen-hole qualifying round, the first sixteen players to play will be paired down until the play eliminates all but the two who have come through the play undefeated. These two players will play for first prize. The rules of the match specify that the play must be concluded prior to July 4.

On Decoration day there will be an eighteen-hole medal play contest. Prizes for both the spring handicap and the play on Decoration day will be hung up. As in the spring handicap events, great interest is being shown in the play for Decoration day.

BUILDING AND LOAN MEN MEET

Great Growth of Such Organizations Is Reported at Convention.

Charlotte, N. C., May 25.—Delegates from all corners of the Union, representing about 6,000 associations with a membership of nearly 2,000,000 and total assets of almost $800,000,000, met today in the convention of the United States League of Local Building & Loan associations. The meetings will continue throughout tomorrow.

Phenomenal growth and prosperity of the local building and loan associations of the United States were shown in the report of Secretary H. F. Cellarius, of Cincinnati, who said that the gain in assets of the building and loan associations in the country in 1909 over the previous year amounted to over $70,000,000, the largest increase in a single year in the association's history.

Over 5,000 Institutions.

"The number of these institutions now is 5,713 with 2,016,651 members and, with assets aggregating $856,232,719. This is an increase of 114 associations, 96,394 members and $72,156,966 in total assets."

In assets the report showed the greatest gains to have been made in Ohio, $14,164,077; Pennsylvania $12,589,255; New Jersey $5,269,927; Massachusetts $4,605,731, and Illinois $4,130,506.

The report showed further that the average amount due each member increased from $367.22 to $424.63, a gain of 15.6 per cent.

CHURCHMEN NOT FOND OF CANNON

Presbyterians Object to His Naming Men to Probe Liquor Traffic.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 25.—Commissioners of the Presbyterian general assembly objected today to Speaker Cannon of the house of representatives having the power of appointing the proposed federal commission for the investigation of the liquor traffic in the United States. The matter was brought out in a supplementary report on temperance which followed the main report yesterday.

Rev. H. T. Laughbaum of Oklahoma City said:

"I would be willing to have the members of the committee placed in the hands of Congressman W. S. Bennett of New York, but I am not willing to trust the speaker of the house with the appointment of the committee."

The assembly applauded the introduction of a resolution condemning the white slave traffic, introduced by Quincy Thacker of Elk Rapids, Mich. In discussing the resolution, Commissioner Thacker said:

"There should be an old-fashioned brimstone hell for those engaged in this terrible business."

Compared to Murder.

The resolution reads:

"Whereas, This assembly contemplates with abhorrence and detestation the somewhat recent exposures of the nefarious business commonly known as the 'white slave traffic.'

"Resolved, That this assembly believes that this traffic should be made a crime not less than that of murder, and a corresponding penalty attached."

The trial of the case brought against the synod of New York, charged with heresy because of its licensing of Messrs. Steen, Black and Fitch, started yesterday before the judicial commission, at the Chalfonte hotel, and is being continued today. It is expected to be finished for report tomorrow.

GIRL DEMANDS A LIFE.

Chicago, May 25.—Miss M'Cught, 21 years old, told Chief of Police Steward here that she would exact a life for a life as the result of the killing of John Dubinski, her fiance, by detectives last week.

"If you fail to make an atonement of a life for the death of John," said Miss M'Cught to the chief, "I will kill myself."

Following her interview with the chief, Miss M'Cught was led in a hysterical condition from the city hall.

Dubinski, while on the way to Miss M'Cught's home at night, was mistaken for a highwayman by three policemen garbed in citizen's clothing. The policemen commanded Dubinski to halt. Dubinski, apparently thinking the officers were thugs, ran and was shot dead.

Investigation following the shooting showed that Dubinski had just arrived in Chicago from his home in the central part of Illinois, and was driving on his way from the railroad station to Miss M'Cught's house. As yet a coroner's jury has not returned a verdict on the death.

Notice to Contractors.

Sealed bids will be received by the Board of Education of the City of Duluth, at its office in the Central High School building, up to 7 P. M. Friday, June 3rd, 1910, for the construction of an addition to the boiler house at the Central High School building, according to plans and specifications which may be obtained at the office of F. G. German, Architect, 410 Exchange Bldg., Duluth, Minn.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE—

WHEREAS, default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, which was duly executed and delivered by Amasa McComber and Emily A. McComber, his wife, and Mary E. McComber, unmarried, mortgagors, to Julia M. Landon, mortgagee, dated November first (1st), 1900, and which was duly recorded in the Register of Deeds' office for St. Louis County, Minnesota, on January eleventh (11th), 1901, at 3:00 o'clock P. M., in Book one hundred eighty (180) of Mortgages, on page four hundred ninety-nine (499); such default consisting in the non-payment of the principal sum thereby secured, with interest thereon at six per cent per annum, from May first (1st), 1909, and no part of which has ever been paid; and

WHEREAS, there is therefore claimed to be due, and there is actually due, upon said mortgage debt, at the date of this notice, the sum of three thousand one hundred eighty and 50-100 ($3,180.50) dollars, principal and interest; and

WHEREAS, said mortgage contains a power of sale in due form, which has become operative by reason of the defaults above mentioned, and no action or proceeding, at law or otherwise, has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof;

NOW, THEREFORE, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of said power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made, said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in said mortgage, being the following described tracts or parcels of land, situate in St. Louis County, Minnesota, to-wit: All of lots numbered seven (7) and eight (8), in block numbered one hundred (100), Endion Division of Duluth, according to the recorded plat thereof in the office of the Register of Deeds for St. Louis County, Minnesota; which premises will be sold by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, Minnesota, at the front door of the court house, in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on the twenty-fifth (25th) day of June, A. D. 1910, at ten (10) o'clock A. M., at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and seventy-five ($75) dollars attorney's fees, stipulated for in said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

ADVERTISEMENTS FOR PROPOSALS FOR PAVING PORTIONS OF CERTAIN STREETS AND AVENUES IN VIRGINIA, MINN.

Office of City Clerk, Virginia, Minn., May 19, 1910.

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids will be received by the City Clerk of the City of Virginia, Minnesota, at his office in the City Hall of said city until 8 o'clock P. M. of Tuesday, June 7, 1910, for the paving of the following described portions of certain streets and avenues in said city of Virginia hereinafter mentioned.

1. Sealed bids for the paving of Chestnut street in said city from the west side of Central Avenue on the east to the west side of Virginia Avenue on the west; Lake Boulevard, Wyoming Avenue and Mesaba Avenue from the north side of Chestnut Street on the south to the south side of Walnut Street on the north; Virginia Avenue, Cleveland Avenue, Wyoming Avenue and Mesaba Avenue from the south side of Chestnut street on the north to the north side of Maple Street on the south.

2. Separate sealed bids for the paving of Maple Street in the said city of Virginia, from the west side of Railroad Avenue on the east to the west side of Virginia Avenue on the west, exceptiong that portion of Maple Street crossing Central Avenue between the east and west lines of said Central Avenue.

3. Separate sealed bids for the paving of Central Avenue from the north side of Willow Street on the north to the south side of Sage Street on the south.

Sealed bids as above described may be submitted for the paving with any of the following materials, viz:

Creosoted wood block on concrete foundation.

Tarvated sand-filled macadam.

Tarvia or tarcon macadam, on concrete base.

Taroid or any other proper road tar-filled macadam.

Donnellite pavement on concrete foundation.

Bitulithic pavement on concrete foundation.

Granetoid concrete pavement, for any or all of the three above described portions of roadway to be paved.

The City Council specifically reserves the right to select kind of paving as it may desire from the bids submitted pursuant to this notice, upon each or any of the above described portions of roadway and to award the contract for paving to the lowest responsible bidder complying with the foregoing requirements for the paving or pavings so selected by the said Council, and further reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

The person, firm or company to whom is awarded the contract for the paving of any of the above described portions of roadways, shall, within five days from date of award, enter into a written contract to be prepared by the City Attorney of Virginia, Minn., for the proper and faithful performance of the paving work awarded to said person, firm or company. All of said work to be in accordance with the plans and specifications therefor now on file in the office of the said City Clerk of Virginia, Minnesota, all of the terms and conditions of which plans and specifications are hereby made a part of this notice. The successful bidder shall further furnish, at the time of the execution of said contract, a bond for the full contract price, to be approved by the City Council, for the full and faithful performance of said contract.

Every bid shall be accompanied by a regularly certified check, payable to the City Treasurer of Virginia, Minnesota, in the sum of five per cent of the amount of the bid, as a guarantee that the successful bidder will enter into a contract and furnish a bond to the City of Virginia as above designated; said check to be forfeited to said City as liquidated damages in case of failure to sign contract and furnish bond by the successful bidder.

All bids to be sealed in an envelope in such manner that the same cannot be opened without detection, to be directed to the undersigned, City Clerk of Virginia, Minnesota, and to contain a statement on the outside cover showing for what portion of work the bid is made.

All bidders shall further specify what guarantee, if any, covering stability of pavement, they will give, and whether said guarantee shall be indorsed by the furnishing of a surety bond or by giving to the City of Virginia the right to reserve two per cent of the contract price for a term of five years as set forth in the above mentioned specifications.

Said bids to conform in all respects to all terms and conditions of the City Charter relating thereto.

By order of the City Council of Virginia, Minnesota

WHEAT HAS AN ADVANCE

All Options Are Higher in the American Markets.

Flax Is Dull and Weak on Selling By the Shorts.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 25.—Nearly all wheat options advanced today. The September was the weakest comparatively. May closed ¼c up; July, ¼c up, and September, ⅛c off. May wheat closed $1.07½ nominal without being traded in. July opened at $1.06½ asked and sold at $1.06⅝, $1.06½; $1.06¾, $1.07⅛, $1.06½, $1.07¼ and closed at $1.07⅛ bid. September opened at 97c and sold at 96⅜c, 96¾c, $97⅛c, 97⅝c, 96½c, 97¼c and closed at 97¼c asked.

Flax was dull and mixed; May was firm. The deferred months were weaker on account of moderate short selling. May opened late at $2.21 and sold off 1c to yesterday's level. July opened late at $2.06, advanced 1c, declined 4c and close at $2.03. September opened with offers at $1.71½ and sold at $1.70, $1.71, $1.70¾ and closed $1.70 bid. October opened late at $1.64½ and sold off 2c, then at $1.63½, $1.62 and closed at $1.62.

Cash was quoted at ½c over July at the close; oats closed ⅝c off; rye and barley were unchanged and durum closed ¾c off.

Values opened weak on depressed cables and some liquidation. Slowly the market strengthened until it reached the levels that prevailed at the close last night. There was not much short selling and occasionally the longs purchased moderately in July and September. On the upturn offerings were scarce. There was less manipulation today than for some time. For several days there has been a well defined and somewhat successful effort on the part of the bears to depress values not only in May but also in the futures. Wheat has been sold in all markets to aid the decline in the storm center—the Chicago pit. The bears have tried to gratify the inclination of the leading cash holder to take and pay for all of the wheat that is delivered to him. They have bought heavy supplies of cash stuff at Duluth and Omaha and are rushing it to Chicago. Whether Waterman will be able to get rid of his cash wheat at a profit after the close of the month remains to be seen.

Wheat stores here will be small and many people believe that receipts from the country will not increase until prices advance. They concede that there is considerable stuff on the farms but they maintain that the holding ability of the farmer never was better and that higher prices must develop in the near future to bring out farm supplies.

On the other hand the flour situation is not improving much and some difficulty is being experienced in obtaining shipping directions. This condition would not be helped by an advance in wheat values. The cash situation was slightly firmer today. Mills offered 1c over July for choice North Dakota stuff, but there was a dearth of offerings.

After the big break values acted stubborn. The market was not oversold, however, as the heavy short covering and liquidation recently has tended to equalize the situation. There is probably a fair open interest in May, chiefly in the Chicago market. It is estimated that Waterman's holdings amount to 5,000,000 bu and that about 4,000,000 bu will be delivered, leaving a shortage of about 1,000,000 bu with a small trailing interest. This would permit of a neat squeeze if the leading holder evinced a disposition to punish the other side.

World's shipments are large. Russion offerings are increasing, Australian cargoes are more numerous, France will have a carry-over, reports from the growing plant in India and Russia are favorable and the new plant in Argentina is starting under favorable auspices. The foreign situation is distinctly bearish. The condition abroad emphasizes the difficulty confronting this county in disposing of its surplus stocks.

Crop news is optimistic and the bulls admit that the earlier sensational reports must be modified and in some instances discredited. The bulls killed the crop too soon and their only basis for their position now is the small amount of stocks that will be available in the near future in American markets, the holding disposition of the farmer and the fact that a big break in values has just transpired.

Weather in the Northwest is favorable. Temperatures are warmer and the skies are clear. It is cloudy in the Southwest with scattered rains.

Broomhall cabled: "Wheat was quiet at the start with rather steady undertone and prices unchanged. There was some little covering of shorts, induced by the late rally in America yesterday, immediately following the opening, announced selling pressure was renewed, and values declined ⅞d to 1⅛d. Selling was in the way of realizing, due to the fact of continued liberal Russian offerings, as well as an increased volume of Australian cargoes, with cargoes generally 3d to 6d lower, for which there is practicaly no demand. Reports from India and Russia continue highly favorable and France has a substantial carry over. The general situation from a supply and demand standpoint is looked upon as extremely bearish. Mark Lane continues weak and generally 3@6d lower with spot markets here weak. At midday market was weak and ⅞@1¼d lower than yesterday.

Corn is quiet and nominally unchanged. There is less pressure on La Plata parcels.

France — Leading Paris commercial newspaper, the Marche Francaise, estimates that the amount of wheat available until the end of the season, June 21, is 46,000,000 bu. Russia—Southeastern railway has ordered 2,000 new freight cars to assist in handling the new wheat. India—Latest advises give assurance of full average crops in this country. The wheat crop is estimated at 360,936,000 bu against 214,400,000 bu last year and 308,400,000 bu in 1907.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Heavy Selling All Along the Line Marks Wheat Opening.

Chicago, May 25.—Heavy selling all along the line today greeted speculators who thought that, after daily big breaks in wheat prices, the market, whatever the ultimate outcome, would at last temporarily make a rally. Adverse to this opinion was the fact that foreign news was more bearish than ever. Russia was reported as making preparation to supply 2,000 additional freight cars to help move the new crop. India sent assertions of an output of 360,000,000 bu as against 284,000,000 a year ago. American weather conditions were fine in all directions, and the crop outlook was declared to be still improving. First prices were irregular, ¼c higher to ⅞c lower. The May delivery, however, was the only one on the list showing a gain selling up to $1.08. September opened ¼@⅝c down at 96⅝@97c, and fell to 96½c. The May option quickly followed suit.

Big shorts who covered yesterday were again thought to be buying today and the market made a quick upturn to above the previous close. Sales attributed to a Southwestern long produced a reaction which, however, was short-lived. The close was firm with September at 97½c, a net gain of ¾c. May finished with an advance of 2½c compared with last night.

Corn started easier, but rebounded on getting good support from a leading local firm and from commission houses. September opened ⅛c lower at 59⅜c, and advanced to 60⅜c.

Reports of replanting in many sections were received, and prices showed increased firmness. The close was strong with September ⅞@⅞c up at 59⅜c.

Trading in oats was light. Fluctuations followed the lines taken by corn. September began ⅛@¼c off at 37⅛c, and then went to 37⅜c.

Buyers of provisions were scared away by a slump in hog prices. The opening was 7½c to 40c under the previous close, with September products at $22 to $22.20 for pork, $12.05 to $12.17½ for lard and $12.12½ for ribs. Further declines ensued.

New York, May 25.—Close: Wheat—May, $1.11¼; July, $1.06⅝; September, $1.02⅞. Corn—May, 68¾c; July, 69c; September, 68¾c.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Is Nervous But Slightly Firmer, July Closing Higher.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 25.—Wheat was nervous but slightly firmer today. The uncertainties surrounding the market, are expected to be somewhat cleared up with the expiration of the May option. July opened ½@⅝c more than yesterday's close and after fluctuating in a range of 1c from high to low, closed ⅜@⅞c above the opening. Local elevator stocks decreased 400,000 bu for four days. Minneapolis today received 137 cars of wheat against 63 cars a year ago, Duluth 17 cars against 10 cars, and Winnipeg 107 cars against 37 cars. May opened $1.07¼, high $1.08, low $1.07¼, closed $1.08. July opened $1.06¼, high $1.07¼, low $1.06¾, closed $1.07@1.07⅛. September opened 95⅞@96c, high 96¾c, low 95⅝c, closed 96¼c.

Cash wheat continued in strong demand and premiums registered an advance. No. 1 northern today sold for 1½@4c above the July option, the higher premiums being for wheat to go out. Closing prices: No. 1 northern, $1.08@1.10⅝; to arrive, $1.08¼@1.10½; No. 2 northern, $1.06⅛@1.08⅝; to arrive, $1.06⅜@1.08⅛. No. 3 wheat, $1.03⅛@1.05⅝. No. 3 yellow corn, 55½@56½c. No. 3 white oats, 36⅜@37⅝c. No. 2 rye, 70@72½c.

Flax — Receipts, 8 cars, year ago 2; shipments, 5. Demand continued strong for spot at 2½c below the Duluth May and the even July to arrive. Closing price $2.17½; to arrive, $2.03.

Barley—Receipts, 40 cars; year ago, 21; shipments, 45. Feeding barley registered another decline of 1c today while malting grades were steady. Offerings of the malting variety were scarce. Closing range, 50@61c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,296 tons. There was no quotable change in the market today. Bran in 100-pound sacks, $18@18.25.

The flour market continued in the same old rut. Demand was reported slow and in a few cases fair. Shipments were about normal and prices firm. Shipments, 45,821 bbl. First patents in wood, f. o. b. Minneapolis, $5.30@5.50; second patents, $5.10@5.30; first clears, $4.15@4.25; second clears, $2.90@3.20.

Liverpool Grain.

Liverpool, May 25.—Closing: Wheat—Spot dull; No. 2 red western winter no stock; futures weak; May, 6s 5½d; July, 6s 5¾d; October, 6s 7¾d.

Corn—Spot quiet; old American mixed., 5s 7½d; new kiln dried, 5s 5½d; via Galveston, 5s 6½d; futures quiet; July nominal; September, 4s 8¾d.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Market Closes Very Weak, at Lowest Prices of Session.

After Opening Rise, Selling Orders Are Put Out Freely.

New York, May 25.—A moderate degree of activity accompanied a comprehensive rise in the opening prices of stocks today, in which the Canadian group was quite prominent. Canadian Pacific rose 2 points, Consolidated Gas 1, and Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario & Western, New York Central and Baltimore & Ohio large fractions. Bethlehem Steel sold at a decline of 1.

Opening prices were the best, as liberal selling orders were distributed, driving down the leading stocks a good fraction below yesterday's closing. Canadian Pacific lost one-half of its advance and there were declines in Chicago Great Western preferred of 1½, Reading and American Steel Foundries of 1. International Harvester and American Hide & Leather preferred moved up a point.

The dull and sluggish action reflected the absence of general interest. The neglect was ascribed to the desire to await clearer light on general conditions. General Chemical sold at an advance of 4 points. Reading fell 1½ points; Union Pacific, 1¾ points; Brooklyn Union Gas, 1⅜ points and Southern Pacific, Amalgamated Copper, American Smelting and American Locomotive 1 point. Bonds were steady.

The market closed very weak at the lowest prices. Stocks continued to come on with disquieting effect on sentiment, causing fears of some unknown development impending. Losses in Reading reached 3½, Central Leather 3¾, Union Pacific 3⅛, Southern Pacific and American Smelting 2⅝, Amalgamated Copper 2⅜, Chicago Great Western preferred 2½, Wabash preferred, New York Central and Great Northern preferred 2¼, United States Steel 2¾, Rock Island, 2 and a number of the most active speculative stocks 1½@1¾.

The Cotton Market.

New York, May 25.—The cotton market opened steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 7 points, full response to lower cables being prevented by bull support of the old crop, and covering by yesterday's sellers. For the first few minutes prices improved, with active months selling up to a point above last night's close, but as soon as more urgent demands had been supplied, the market eased under continued liquidation and local bear pressure.

Spot, closed quiet, 5 points decline; middling uplands, 15.30; middling gulf, 15.55; sales, 7,202 bales. Futures, closed steady; closing bids: May, 15.03; June, 15.03; July, 15.06; August, 14.77; September, 13.61; October, 12.84; November, 12.72; December, 12.66; January, 12.63; March, 12.67.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE—
WHEREAS, default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, which was duly executed and delivered by Amasa McComber and Emily A. McComber, his wife, mortgagors, to Julia M. Landon, mortgagee, dated October twenty-first (21st), 1895, and which was duly recorded in the Register of Deeds' office for St. Louis County, Minnesota, on October twenty-second (22nd), 1895, at 3:50 o'clock P. M., in Book one hundred seventy-seven (177) of Mortgages, on page twenty-three (23); such default consisting in the non-payment of the principal sum thereby secured, with interest thereon at six per cent per annum, from May first (1st), 1909, and no part of which has ever been paid; and
WHEREAS, there is therefore claimed to be due, and there is actually due, upon said mortgage debt, at the date of this notice, the sum of three thousand one hundred eighty and 50-100 ($3,180.50) dollars, principal and interest; and
WHEREAS, said mortgage contains a power of sale in due form, which has become operative by reason of the defaults above mentioned, and no action or proceeding, at law or otherwise, has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof;
NOW, THEREFORE, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of said power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made, said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in said mortgage, being the following described tracts or parcels of land, situate in St. Louis County, Minnesota, to-wit: Lots numbered two (2) and fifteen (15), of Block three (3), in Helm's Addition to Duluth, according to the recorded plat thereof in the office of the Register of Deeds for St. Louis County, Minnesota; which premises will be sold by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, Minnesota, at the front door of the said county house, in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on the twenty-fifth (25th) day of June, A. D. 1910, at ten (10) o'clock A. M., at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and seventy-five ($75) dollars attorney's fees, stipulated for in said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.
Dated May 2nd, 1910.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE—
DEFAULT has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage executed by Peter Norman, widower, of Virginia, Minnesota, mortgagor, to Sattler Liquor company, a corporation, of Duluth, Minnesota, mortgagee, bearing date December 17th, 1906, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of St. Louis County, Minnesota, on the 19th day of December, 1906, at 11:45 o'clock A. M., in Book 233 of Mortgages on page 66.
Said default consists in the nonpayment of $310.93 of the principal of the note referred to in said mortgage, together with $94.63 interest thereon.
The name of said Sattler Liquor company, which is a Minnesota corporation, has been duly changed since the execution and delivery of said mortgage, to Sattler Brothers company, which is now the name of said corporation.
By reason of such default, the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise has ever been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage.
The property described in said mortgage and thereby mortgaged is the southwest quarter of the northwest quarter (SW¼ of NW¼) of Section twenty-nine (29), and the southeast quarter of the northeast quarter (SE¼ of NE¼) of Section thirty (30), all in Township fifty-seven (57) north of Range twelve (12) west of the fourth principal meridian, in St. Louis County, Minnesota, containing eighty (80) acres.
There is claimed to be due and is due upon said mortgage at the date of this notice, the sum of $405.56.
NOW THEREFORE, Notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statutes in such case made and provided, said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises above described, which sale will be made at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, at the front door of the sheriff's office in the County Court House in Duluth, St. Louis County, Minnesota, on Thursday, the 2nd day of June, 1910, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, to satisfy the amount then due on said mortgage and taxes, if any, due on said premises, and twenty-five dollars ($25.00) attorneys' fees, as stipulated in said mortgage, and the costs and disbursements allowed by law.
Dated this 18th day of April, 1910.

ASSESSMENT FOR GILBERT STREET SEWER—
Office of the Board of Public Works, City of Duluth, Minn., May 25, 1910.
Notice is hereby given that the Common Council of the City of Duluth has ordered that a sanitary sewer be constructed in Gilbert street, in said City, from Grand avenue to First street, thence in First street to the sewer at Chestnut street; and that the Board of Public Works of said city will meet at their office in the City of Duluth, on Monday, the sixth day of June, A. D. 1910, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to make an assessment of the sum of Thirty-four Hundred Eighty-two (3,482) dollars and Forty-two (42) cents upon the real estate to be benefited by such sewer, for the purpose of raising money to defray, in part, the cost of such improvement.
All lands situated in said city and to which benefits result from said improvement will be assessed in proportion, as near as may be, to the benefits resulting thereto from said improvement. All persons interested in said proceedings shall have the right to be present and be heard at said time and place in relation to the making of said assessment.
OLOF G. OLSON,
President.

LEGAL LIGHTS FROM MANY STATES GLEAM IN GOPHER CAPITOL

Attorneys General Gather in Annual Meeting of Association.

F. S. Jackson of Kansas Makes Address on Power of Government.

Would Limit Right of Federal Courts to Issue Injunctions.

St. Paul, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Attorneys general and their assistants from more than half of the states in the Union are here to attend the fourth annual convention of the National Association of Attorneys-General which opened at the state capitol today. The convention will continue through tomorrow.

Attorney General George T. Simpson of Minnesota called the convention to order at 11 o'clock and delivered the opening address, his subject being, "Removal of Cases to Which State is a Party from State to Federal Courts."

President F. S. Jackson, attorney general of Kansas, delivered his annual address, and Charles West, attorney general of Oklahoma, spoke on "The Federal Railroad Bill."

The addresses were followed by discussions. The election of officers was scheduled for late this afternoon.

Address by Jackson.

Attorney General Jackson of Kansas, in his address, argued in favor of a national democracy, which he defined as "a revivified democratic government." He defended increasing the scope and power of government in state and nation and advocated the fixing of the responsibility of the government upon the electorate. He also urged a limitation of the power of federal courts to issue injunctions. He said in part:

"How may this new or rejuvenated theory of national democracy be defined? It recognizes the justice, the increasing intelligence and ability of the American voter and demands that all possible power and responsibility be thrust upon him.

"Second, it demands that the scope and powers of government be increased. It demands, therefore, a better enforcement of our laws and by this means a destruction of unlawful privilege. It looks toward a welding into the genius

WELCOMED CONVENTION AT MINNESOTA CAPITOL

GEORGE T. SIMPSON, Attorney General for Minnesota.

NEW HONOR FOR TEDDY

Roosevelt Is Given Degree By Cambridge University, England.

Mrs. Longworth Accompanies Him From London---London Paper in Eulogy.

Cambridge, England, May 26.—Theodore Roosevelt today received from the University of Cambridge the honorary degree of doctor of laws. The ceremony was brief and shorn of much of the usual splendor, but was marked by much enthusiasm upon the part of the faculty and students, who gave their guest a splendid reception.

The conferment took place in the senate house. Ordinarily upon such occasions the hall is bright with the scarlet robes of the doctors and the gala costumes of women, but this afternoon only the recipient of the degree and the public orator, Vice-Chancellor Mason, were the pink-lined scarlet robes, while the women of the audience were in mourning gowns.

Students Shouted "Teddy!"

As Mr. Roosevelt accepted his diploma, the students who crowded the galleries shouted: "Teddy! Teddy!" and the whole audience cheered.

The old senate building was packed. The galleries were occupied by students, and, during the ceremony, they swung a Teddy bear above the center of the hall, where it dangled, to the entertainment of everybody. Mr. Roosevelt joined in the pleasantry, and as he was leaving the building, reached up and patted the toy beast with his hand.

The procession was short, but picturesque. It started from Pembroke college, where Mr. Roosevelt had luncheon, and moved slowly to the senate house. First marched two liveried mace bearers. Next came Mr. Roosevelt, in his robe and wearing a flat velvet cap upon his head. Beside him was Vice Chancellor Mason. Following the two were several professors, while two more mace bearers brought up the rear.

Proceedings in Latin.

The proceedings of conferment were in Latin. The vice chancellor delivered a laudatory address highly praising Mr. Roosevelt as a statesman, literateur, sportsman and peacemaker. As he concluded he handed Mr. Roosevelt his diploma, while the audience gave three cheers.

The audience was decidedly friendly. When the vice chancellor referred to the university's guest as "a friend of peace and a friend of the human race whose fame is attested by all Europe," there was a roar of applause from his listeners.

Following the exercises Mr. Roosevelt visited King's college and the famous chapel, after which he went to Trinity college, where he had tea with Rev. and Mrs. Butler. Later he visited the headquarters of the Cambridge Union society, of which he had been elected an honorary member. There he met some 700 under graduates.

The former president was accompanied from London by Mrs. Roosevelt and his daughter, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth. As they made their way through the narrow winding streets to the home of the great institutions, the Americans were greeted by enthusiastic crowds.

Welcomed by Dr. Mason.

Mr. Roosevelt was formally welcomed by Dr. A. J. Mason, vice chancellor of Cambridge university, with whom he had a brief chat. Then an hour was devoted to a visit to Emmanuel college, founded in 1548, and where John Harvard, the butcher's son who was to become a clergyman in the Massachusetts colony, and the first benefactor of Harvard college, was graduated in 1631.

The London Daily Telegraph, in a long editorial eulogy of Col. Roosevelt, describes him as the most powerful statesman in the English speaking world.

"Warwick of America."

"His personality," says the Telegraph, "is better known throughout the globe than any other, except the German emperor, and in some ways he is the stronger of the two, and he could, if he pleased, become the Warwick of American politics."

Among Mr. Roosevelt's callers yesterday were Lord Avebury, Rudyard Kipling and several members of the house of commons.

Man Who Gave Bond for Woman Gets Deputized and Hunts Her Down.

Washington, May 26.—With his prisoner, Miss Josephine Dennis, a gray-haired woman of 64, Deputy United States Marshal Fletcher arrived here today from Clifton, Ariz., where he arrested her a few days ago. The prisoner wore handcuffs.

On March 19 last Miss Dennis was arrested here on a charge of conducting a secret saloon and gambling house in connection with a dressmaking establishment. Fletcher, then not an officer of the law, became a bondsman in the sum of $1,500. When her case was called, however, she had disappeared. Fletcher thereupon became active, located the woman in Arizona, had himself appointed a deputy marshal, went West and arrested her as a bond jumper and fugitive. He will save $1,500.

WOMAN WIELDS THE CUSPIDOR

Drubs Thief With Rolling Pin, Too---Burglar Is Killed By Fall.

New York, May 26.—Louis Gratch, 25 years old, painter by day and burglar after dark, fell to his death from the third floor of a Delancey street house today, after entering the apartment of Mrs. Dora Gieteman, who attacked him with an iron cuspidor and a rolling pin.

An ambulance surgeon found that Gratch died of a broken neck, caused by the fall.

Gratch got into the house by climbing up the fire escape. To get to the Gieteman's bedroom he had to step across a couch on which slept Miss Lena Berkenholtz, a boarder. Gratch was searching Gieteman's clothing for money, when Mrs. Gieteman awoke suddenly and screamed.

Grabbed and Beat Him.

She leaped out of bed, and seized the man. Enraged more than frightened, Mrs. Gieteman pushed him into the kitchen, where she seized an iron cuspidor, and struck him over the head and shoulders with it.

The man broke away, and made for the parlor window. Mrs. Gieteman pursued him, and seized him by the collar, holding him until a boy boarder in the house ran up and handed her a rolling pin. With this she belabored Gratch furiously. Two or three blows were effective, and as the man's struggles were in front of the window at the side of the yard she struck him a crushing blow on the jaw. With a scream, he toppled headlong into the yard.

FINDS FAULT WITH POLICY

Tells Electric Light Men Coal Should Go Into Fertilizer.

St. Louis, Mo., May 26.—"If President Taft will call in men trained in the school of responsibility, who have carried on the development work of the country, he will find true conservtaion means something more than publicity to fictitious stories, restrictions to development, the closing of public lands to production of farm products and the petty bickering and mud-slinging of public officials," said Henry L. Doherty of New York today, in addressing the National Electric Light convention.

In an official report to President Roosevelt, Herbert Knox Smith, commissioner of corporations, charged that Doherty aimed to control the water power of the United States.

Thinks Pinchot in Error.

"I think it was a mistake for Mr. Pinchot," said the speaker, "to adopt a subterfuge to withdraw many water power sites from entry. Unfortunately, our whole conservation movement became embodied in the personality of one man, and those who could agree with his intolerable opinions have been denounced as traitors to the public cause.

"A busy public applauded the efforts of the late administration to establish a movement to conserve our natural resources and our present administration to this movement."

Doherty said the available water powers are capable of producing power in excess of the amount of power now generated either by fuel or water, and that if our public officers dealt in

AMES TRIAL TO BEGIN TUESDAY

Court-Martial Will Be Conducted Behind Closed Doors.

Manila, May 26.—The court-martial of Lieut. Col. Robert F. Ames of the Twelfth Infantry, U. S. A., will open on Tuesday next, and the proceedings will be behind closed doors. At the head of the court will be Brig. Gen. John J. Pershing, commander of Fort William McKinley, and Brig. Gen. Daniel H. Brush, commander of the department of Visayas.

Ames is charged with conduct unbecoming an officer and to the prejudice of military discipline. On the night of March 12 last he gave a dinner at his home at Fort William McKinley, his guests including Lieut. Clarence M. Janney and the latter's wife. During the evening the Janneys quarreled and the lieutenant shot and killed himself. An investigation by an army board of inquiry of the circumstances leading up to the tragedy resulted in the accusations against Ames.

Ames has been in the army for thirty-six years. He is a native of Rhode Island.

VERDICT ON HERESY DUE

Presbyterians Anxiously Wait for Report From the Trial.

Foreign Missionary Matters Are Submitted to the Assembly.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 26.—An air of suspense hangs over the session of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church today, the main topic of conversation among the commissioners being the coming verdict on the Black heresy case by the judicial commission. The high tribunal of the church is deliberating behind closed doors on evidence laid before it during the heresy trial, and it may make its report to the assembly this afternoon.

A minority of the New York presbytery is protesting to the assembly against the action of the presbytery of New York city in licensing Steen, Black and Fitch, students of the Union Theological seminary of New York, after they had admitted that they did not believe in the virgin birth of Jesus Christ, the raising of Lazarus from the tomb and certain other Biblical miracles.

Mission Report Presented.

The seventy-third annual report of the board of foreign missions was presented to the assembly today. The report covers a period of only eleven months, the assembly having instructed the board to change the date of the ending of its fiscal year from Harder Than Paulhan's Course.

An Englishman familiar with the country over which Paulhan recently made his record flight from London to Manchester, told Mr. Curtiss today that the route to New York from here is infinitely more difficult.

"Paulhan," he said, "had open country with meadows everywhere to land in. Here you have a rocky, broken country with no level heaths, and a set of air currents that are bound to be broken and baffling, because of the mountains that hem your path."

WILL REPAY MINNESOTA

Item of $37,500 Is Included in Present Sundry Civil Measure.

Federal Share of Fund for Survey in St. Louis County.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, May 26.—Hidden away in the sundry civil appropriation of consideration in congress is a provision carrying an appropriation of $100,000 for gauging the streams and determining the water supply of the United States, for the investigation of underground currents and artesian wells, and of this sum, $37,500 is due the state of Minnesota to pay the state drainage commission for surveys of this character already made under the direction of Engineer George Ralph.

It appears that the state drainage commission of Minnesota went ahead and made extensive surveys in St. Louis and other counties, the government agreeing to pay half of the expenses. When the surveys had been completed under the direction of Engineer Ralph, and approved and accepted by the geological survey, there was not money then available to reimburse Minnesota. Now, however, the state will be paid in full under the appropriation above referred to.

PASTORS' SALARIES AVERAGE $663

Report Is Made By Department of the Federal Census Bureau.

Washington, May 26.—The average annual salary of a minister of the gospel was but $663 in all denominations represented in a special report of the census of religious bodies for 1906, which is now in press preparatory to submission to Census Director Durand and Secretary Nagel of the department of commerce and labor.

The statistics, the first of the kind ever gathered by the government, were procured by W. C. Hunt, chief statistician of population in the census bureau. The figures are from the cities of the United States having a population in 1900 of 25,000 and over.

The denomnations showing the highest averages are the Unitarian, with $1,653; the Protestant Episcopal, $1,242; the general convention of the New Jerusalem, $1,233; the Jewish Congregations, $1,222; the Presbyterian, $1,177.

TWENTY-THREE MEN GO TO HORRIBLE DEATH IN LOST SUBMARINE

French Craft Is Run Down By Mail Boat in English Channel.

Crew Are Given No Chance for Life After the Accident.

Is Third Similar Accident to Occur in the French Navy.

London, May 26.—Twenty-three men—the entire crew of the French naval submarine Pluviose—went to a horrible death in the English channel this morning, when their craft was rammed and sunk by a mail boat, plying between Dover and Calais.

Not a single chance was given the doomed men to escape after the blow was struck, the submarine going down like so much waste junk, as the water began to flow into her compartments.

The names of either officers or men are not known here, and details of the maneuvers which took the small craft into those waters are also lacking. This is the third similar accident which has befallen submarines in the French service.

WHEAT DEAL ALL FIXED UP

Waterman-Lichstein Affair Is Believed to Have Been Settled.

Much Grain From Duluth Diverted to Chicago During Struggle.

Chicago, May 26.—The wheat market became demoralized today on private settlement of the May "deal," and the unloading of a huge line of the September option. May at noon had dropped 4⅜c from $1.10⅝ last night to $1.06¾. September opening at 97½@97¾c, declined to 93¾c.

It was a "deal" in May wheat, in which Theodore H. Waterman, the Albany, N. Y., miller, is said to have been the controlling "long" and A. J. Lichstein, a Chicago dealer, the most intrepid "short." It cannot be stated positively that Waterman and Lichstein were acting alone. In fact Lichstein has frequently been reported as acting for a big elevator house.

The action of the May option yes-

FLOUR BRANDS ARE DEFENDED

Millers Want Part of Charge in Bleaching Cases Dropped.

Kansas City, Mo., May 26.—Attorneys for the millers in the "bleached flour" cases filed a petition in the United States district court today to have that portion of the government's allegation charging false branding stricken out, on the grounds that even if the flour was bleached, calling this "high patent" flour does not constitute false branding. The argument on this petition will be the first step in the case when it is taken up for trial here on May 31.

HORSE TRADE TOO MUCH FOR JURORS

Verdict Is That It Is "Hoss and Hoss" and Let Each Man Pay Costs.

Bowling Green, Ky., May 26.—"We, the jury, find this is a case of 'hoss' and 'hoss'; that neither the plaintiff nor defendant is entitled to recover damages, and that each shall pay his own costs in this case expended."

"Thus read the verdict which was yesterday handed down by the jury in the circuit court here.

H. F. Richards, who had traded horses with L. M. Butler, sued him for $75, alleging breach of warrant. Introducing evidence to show that the horse was unsound and a "stump sucker," Butler set up as a counter claim that the horse he secured had fits.

SAY SCHOONER IS NOT AN AMERICAN

Navy Authorities Find Out About Boat Boarded By Nicaraguans.

Washington, May 26.—If the schooner Esfuerzo, which was searched by the Nicaraguan gunboat Venus was flying the United States flag at the time she was overhauled, as has been reported, she was carrying the Stars and Stripes without any authority, according to official advice received here.

The navy department has authentic information that the Esfuerzo is not an American schooner. She is said to have a Nicaraguan register and is entitled to fly the Nicaraguan flag. It is thought that she may be partly owned by Americans, but that in no sense entitles her to the protection of the United States as an American vessel.

Under these circumstances the American government would not be justified in taking any action whatever in her case.

FATHER RYAN HAS INDUSTRIAL PLAN

St. Paul Man Talks at Last Sessions of Charities Conference.

St. Louis, Mo., May 26.—The morning sessions of the last day of the national conference of charities and corrections were given to discussion of religion, wage standards and immigration labor. Among the speakers were Miss Lucy Wright of Boston; Robert C. Chapin of Beloit, Wis.; Rev. John A. Ryan, of St. Paul, Minn.; Miss Carolyn Van Blarcom of New York, and Dr. H. M. Post of St. Louis. The closing exercises of the conference will follow the general session tonight.

Minimum wage boards were suggested as a solution of many industrial problems by Father Ryan, professor of ethics and economics at the St. Paul seminary of St. Paul, Minn. Father Ryan seriously suggests that unless wages of the lower paid workers of the country are raised and certain parasitic industries are abandoned, the stock of American workmen will rapidly degenerate. He urged the establishment of a minimum wage, which in a given community would permit those receiving it to enjoy a standard of living which would maintain or increase their efficiency. He cited many precedents to show that it would be perfectly reasonable for legislatures to pass such legislation as would be necessary to create state boards with the administrative power of fixing a minimum wage.

LOOK UP CLAIM OF SAN FRANCISCO

Hetch-Hetchy Valley Water Question Is Held Up for One Year.

Washington, May 26.—A decision on the question of whether Hetch-Hetchy valley in the Yosemite National park is necessary to San Francisco as future sources of water supply has been postponed until May 1, 1911, in order that examination may be made into the sufficiency of other sources of water supply at the disposal of that city.

DO YOU THINK SO?

Would any man of nice discernment in the matter of clothes think of buying a suit that had just been pulled from beneath a huge pile on a table—all mussed, wrinkled and entirely uninviting?

The wildest stretch of the imagination could not make such a suit seem even presentable.

Economy? But where is the economy?

Every man should know by this time that Oak Hall QUALITY Clothes are not higher priced than the common sort, and just consider the difference in quality—style—fit—everything.

Here they are arranged on new-form hangers, in dustproof cabinets—convenient for selection and READY TO WEAR—perfect in fit and finish—you KNOW EXACTLY what you are buying.

Whatever you have made up your mind to spend—be it as little as $12 or $35—or any amount between—you are assured of this—that similar quality and style CANNOT be found elsewhere at the price asked.

It is easy to verify this. Will YOU?

DIRECTORS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

The Y. M. C. A. Has Grown Greatly During the Year Past.

The annual meeting of the board of directors of the Young Men's Christian association was held last evening at the building. The meeting was for the purpose of hearing the reports from the several departments and the discussion of routine affairs.

The report on membership was particularly encouraging, it being stated that at this time there are some 200 more members than there were at this time last year.

The report on religious work was also most gratifying, it showed many new classes formed during the year, an increase in the number attending and more than ordinary interest displayed. The Sunday meetings during the winter past, were the best and most largely attended ever held, the report stated.

Plans for the coming year were talked over. The directors hope to make it even more successful than the year past. The other business was of routine nature.

DESPONDENT OVER ILLNESS, YOUNG MAN KILLS HIMSELF

Ralph Lueck Commits Suicide at Road House on Cloquet River.

Had Never Fully Recovered From Attack of Scarlet Fever.

Despondent over his failure to fully recover from an attack of scarlet fever, which he suffered in March, and his consequent inability to work, Ralph Lueck, 22 years old, shot and killed himself at Ike Brown's stopping place on the Cloquet river, about eighteen miles from Duluth, this morning.

The young man, who has been living with his sister, Mrs. F. Y. Post, 822 East Fifth street, went to Ford's livery yesterday and engaged a rig to take him to Brown's place. On the way out, he told the driver of his illness and lack of employment, and said that he thought a few weeks out in the open would put him in good condition. The driver says the young man appeared to be greatly worried over his condition.

This morning, Lueck's sister was notified of his death by his own hand.

The young man was employed at R. R. Forward's store before being compelled to give up work on account of his illness. Since his illness, he has remained in the house worrying and his sister believes that his continued worrying unbalanced his mind and the suicide resulted.

Lueck had lived in Duluth for several years and was quite well known. He has other relatives in the city besides the sister with whom he lived. The body will be brought to Duluth today.

HOUSE CAUCUS NOT FINISHED

Postal Bank Bill Differences Are Not All Settled Yet.

Washington, May 26.—The caucus of the Republican members of the house of representatives on the subject of the postal savings bank bill, began last night in the chamber of the house, but will extend over two or three nights. Practically all of the changes considered in the bill last night related to phraseology. None of them touched upon the controversial matters connected with the disposition of deposits. The caucus will be resumed this evening.

The total number of Republican members who answered to their names at the night's session was 144 out of a total Republican membership of 217. Among the absentees were both "regulars" and "insurgents," but it was claimed that a majority of those not present had promised their support to the caucus measure so that the Republicans would be assured of a sufficient vote on the floor of the house, to pass the bill.

Insurgents Not There.

The "insurgent" members absent were Representatives Copper, Lenroot, Nelson and Carey of Wisconsin; Davis, Lindbergh and Volstead of Minnesota; Norris and Hinshaw of Nebraska; Hubbard and Woods of Iowa; Pointexter of Washington; Fowler of New Jersey and Gronna of North Dakota. Some of these members, it was stated by leaders of the "regulars," has announced that they were prepared to vote for a postal savings bill and that the "regulars" were counting on their support.

Foley Kidney Pills contain in concentrated form ingredients of established therapeutic value for the relief and cure of all kidney and bladder ailments. Sold by all druggists.

MANY SEE THE COMET.

Halley's Celestial Traveler Plainly Visible in Western Sky.

Probably for the first time, the tail of Halley's comet was really visible in Duluth last night. Many people saw the heavenly visitor, which was quite distinct in the western sky.

The comet has by no means come up to expectation, but it was more prominent last night than it has been at any time, as viewed from Duluth. It was seen at its best about 9 o'clock, the head being quite luminous and the tail extending away from it in a thin filmy line. The comet should be visible for some time in Duluth if the sky remains clear.

CROOKSTON DELEGATES SHOULD SEND IN NAMES.

Plans for the trip to Crookston of the Duluth and range people who will attend the meeting of the Northern Minnesota Development association, are practically completed. Those who intend to go, but have not notified the men in charge of arrangements, are requested to forwards their names to Major Eva, secretary of the Duluth Commercial club, so that he may know what sleeping car reservation to make. The Duluth boosters will go to Crookston on a special train, which will be used as a lodging place at that city.

LA FOLLETTE RENEWS ATTACK

Says Railroad Rates Should Have Decreased in Last Few Years.

Washington, May 26.—Resuming his speech in opposition to the railroad bill soon after the senate convened today, Senator La Follette undertook to prove that instead of rates advancing, all economic conditions demanded that they should have been materially lowered during the last few years.

In support of this contention he cited the density of traffic, the short average length of haul and the efficiency of transportation facilities, all of which, he said, had been vastly increased.

In view of the expectation that Senator La Follette would consume the larger part of the day, there was no activity in the interest of a vote on the Cummins amendment regulating rate increases by the railroads.

SHERIFF DID NOT HEAR OF FIGHT

The first Sheriff W. J. Bates knew of the Potts-Daugherty fight at Hibbing, was when informed of it by a reporter today. The sheriff says that the whole affair must have been kept very quiet for he did not hear of it. He says it is a hard matter to stop fights when they are pulled off so quietly. Sheriff Bates left for Hibbing this afternoon.

IS CANDIDATE FOR RE-ELECTION

St. Paul Friend of Northern Minnesota Visits Duluth.

George W. Rodenberg of St. Paul, representative in the legislature from the Thirty-third district, was in Duluth on a business trip today. Incidentally he said that he will be a candidate for renomination and re-election. He expects to file in the near future.

Mr. Rodenberg was one of the most consistent and effective members of the house majority in the last legislature. He is a staunch friend of Northern Minnesota and a careful and conservative legislator.

"I haven't been in Duluth since last year," said Mr. Rodenberg," and I am amazed at the improvements that have been made since then. Indeed, every time I come here I find cause for amazement at the progress the city is making.

"I have always regretted that when I first visited Duluth in 1884 I did not appreciate the advantages possessed by the city and the great future in store for it. I should have stayed here then. In the building of the steel plant west of the city, Duluth has an asset that is valuable beyond estimation, and the entire state will benefit immensely from the establishmen of the plant here. Locally, the most direct result will be the establishment of numbers of industries that use by-products of steel plants and New Duluth, in my opinion, is destined to be one of the greatest manufacturing centers in the country."

ATHLETES GATHERING AT PHILADELPHIA.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 26.—Athletes from many colleges are arriving in Philadelphia today to take part in the annual intercollegiate championships which will be held on Franklin field of the University of Pennsylvania tomorrow and Saturday. The teams from Michigan, Harvard, Yale, Cornell, Columbia, Amherst, Dartmouth, Williams, Brown and Pennsylvania state were among the arrivals. The men of Yale, Harvard and Cornell as in former years, went to suburban towns to await the call to action, while many of the other athletes journeyed to Franklin field to "look the field over."

THIRTY-FOUR LAND SEEKERS IN LINE.

The land office line now numbers 34.

The number of those who are anxious to settle on St. Louis, Carlton and Cook county land seems to grow each day.

There is but little room left for those that are to come. If the line keeps increasing during the next few days as rapidly as it has during the last, the second floor will of necessity have to be pressed into service.

Checkers are in vogue as an amusement. Several boards have been brought to the building and they are used constantly.

Two fathers wanted to send their daughters to college last fall. Both were men of modern circumstances.

"Bessie is going," said Dave. "But, how can you afford it?" Howard rejoined. "I know you haven't much more, if any, than I, and I know I can't afford to send my daughter."

"But," answered Dave, "when Bessie was a little tot, her mother and I planned to educate her. Wages were small, but we managed to put away five dollars every month in a savings bank. Are you surprised that I can afford to send her to college now?"

Many girls are now going to college on money their parents saved while they were young.

It is the best way for people of moderate circumstances to educate their children.

Railroads Raise Yard Wages.

Denver, Colo., May 26.—Representatives of fourteen railway systems of the west who met in Denver have decided to put into effect at once an increase of wages of six cents an hour for yardmen and to apply here the working rules now in effect in Chicago and eastern yards. This decision, it is presumed, will avert a threatened strike.

TO INSTRUCT DELEGATES

West Duluth Commercial Club Members Strongly Favor Reapportionment.

Would Require Every Candidate for Legislature to Pledge His Support.

An immediate reapportionment and state aid for building county roads are among the measures that the West Duluth Commercial club will instruct its delegates to advocate at the Northern Minnesota Development association June 1, 2 and 3 at Crookston.

Andrew Myles and P. H. Martin are delegates from the West Duluth club. When the club meets tomorrow evening in regular weekly session it is thought that they will receive their final instructions as to the measures likely to be considered.

Members of the West Duluth Commercial club are much interested in the work of the association and will undoubtedly urge its delegates to make a strong bid for reapportionment. It is rumored that there may be some reluctance on the part of some of the state senators to advocate reapportionment in their platforms.

The prevailing opinion among the Commercial club members at West Duluth seems to be to have the convention go on record as in favor of having every candidate for election, either for the senate or lower house, come out plainly on the matter of reapportionment.

The West Duluth delegates will also be instructed to urge a liberal policy on the part of the coming legislature in regard to making provision for state aid in the building of roads. The subject of good roads has dong been an issue with the West Duluth club and the delegates will urge the congress to take definite action.

Under the present law the state is not permitted to pay assessments for roads running through state lands and for this reason road building in St. Louis county and in the northern part of the state has had a setback. When the West Duluth club had State Auditor Samuel G. Iverson as a guest at their annual banquet he spoke in favor of state aid for county roads.

REPORT IS PREPARED.

Y. M. C. A. Directors to Consider Branch in West Duluth.

At the annual meeting of the board of directors of the Young Men's Christian association last evening, the matter of establishing a branch at West Duluth was one of the principal matters considered.

Secretary Phil Bevis, who has made a careful study of the situation at West Duluth, and who is of the opinion that there is much need of a branch in the western end of the city, stated that he had prepared a full report which will be placed in the hands of the directors.

As soon as the report is in shape copies will be distributed among the directors and after each member of the board has had an opportunity to make an individual study into the proposition, a special meeting will be called to take steps in the matter.

LITTLE GIRL DIES OF SCARLET FEVER.

Mabel M. Johnson, the 9-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl G. Johnson, died of scarlet fever at noon today at the family residence, 22 North Fifty-fourth avenue west.

The girl was the only child in the family. Her father is the proprietor of a grocery store at 111-113 Central avenue and is well known at West Duluth. The girl attended the Irving school.

The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock from the family residence with interment at Oneota cemetery. Rev. Gideon Nylander, pastor of the Third Swedish Baptist church will officiate.

TENNIS ENTHUSIASTS OF SMITHVILLE ORGANIZE.

Since a tennis club has been organized at West Duluth, Smithville young people have also caught the spirit and an active organization has been perfected there.

Alfred Quackenbush has been elected president and August Neubauer and Oscar Amundson are secretary and treasurer respectively. The club has about twenty members.

Arthur Rendstrom and Victor Dash are a committee to look up suitable grounds for a tennis court. As soon as everything is in working order tournaments will be arranged with the West Duluth club.

CHURCH MEMBERS WILL PLAY BALL.

A baseball game between men selected from the Merritt Memorial M. E. and Westminster Presbyterian churches is being arranged for next week, the date not yet having been decided.

Freeman Randall is manager of the Methodist forces and the Presbyterians are under the leadership of William Ritchie. The lineups of the teams have not yet been announced.

Will Present Play.

Under the auspices of the Epworth League of Merritt Memorial M. E. church, a number of young people of the Second Presbyterian church will present "Men, Maids and Matchmakers," a play in three acts at Merritt church, Forty-sixth avenue west and Halifax street, tomorrow evening. A good program has been arranged in connection with the entertainment.

Replace Warehouses.

The American Carbolite company, 301 South Central avenue is replacing its old warehouses with new structures. The improvement will not be a costly one as frame structures are being put up.

West Duluth Briefs.

Miss Esther Murray of 428 North Fifty-seventh avenue west, who was poisoned by candy, is reported to be recovering, at her home today.

W. H. Kiltin, a sidewalk contractor, has established an office in the Woodward block, 204 Central avenue.

James Dever, a West Duluth bricklayer, was fined $13.50 last evening in the West Duluth justice court for assaulting a fellow workman, Tuesday evening.

Martin Hanson of Merrill, Wis., was the guests of friends yesterday at West Duluth.

The funeral of Louis Besson, who died Tuesday at the home of his sister, Mrs. Rose Gosselin of 216 North Sixty-fourth avenue west was held this morning at 9 o'clock from the St. James Catholic church with burial at Calvary cemetary.

Martin J. Walsh and family of Montreal, Can., are in West Duluth. They intend to make their future home at 515 North Fifty-seventh avenue west.

F. H. Wade and a party of friends returned last evening from a fishing trip up the St. Louis river with a good catch. In the party were P. H. Wade, Arthur Jacoby, John Letka, Fred De Bore and Frank Wade, Jr.

FIRST PART OF THE HEIKE TRIAL OVER

Government Prepares to Let Defense Show Its Claims.

New York, May 26.—A halting point in the sugar conspiracy trial was due today with the resting of the government's case. Before the opening of court it was the prosecution's announced expectation to finish its presentation of evidence by noon or shortly after, the morning session to be devoted chiefly to testimony presented in a culmination of the effort to connect Secretary Charles R. Heike of the American Sugar Refining company with the underweighing frauds on the company's docks.

ALL THE ITALIAN MINERS ARRESTED

Georgia Military Officer Takes Charge of Mine Situation.

Durham, Ga., May 26.—All Italian miners at this place were arrested by soldiers this morning under orders of Capt. H. P. Miekleham of Lindale, who assumed charge of the militia on his arrival. There was no disorder while the orders of the military commander were being executed.

TAFT WILL NOT WELCOME TEDDY

He Will Be Busy Receiving an Honorary Degree on That Date.

Washington, May 26.—President Taft will not attend the homecoming celebration in honor of Theodore Roosevelt at New York June 18. The president had been urged to attend by representatives of the Republican Club of New York, who first suggested the celebration. On the day the former president sails into New York harbor, President Taft will be at Villa Nova, Pa., receiving the degree of doctor of jurisprudence from St. Thomas college.

Madison Carpenters on Strike.

Madison, Wis., May 26.—Three hundred carpenters of Madison, the full membership of the local union, went out on strike today for a minimum wage scale of $3 for an eight-hour day for trained men.

Fully $1,000,000 in building contracts is tied up as a result of the strike.

MATHILDE TOWNSENDE BECOMES MRS. GERRY.

Washington, May 26.—A distinguished company, representative of diplomatic, official and social life of the capital, witnessed the marriage at noon today of Miss Mathilde Townsend, only child of Mrs. Richard H. Townsend, to Peter Goelet Gerry, second son of Commodore and Mrs. Eldridge T. Gerry of New York. President Taft, accompanied by Mrs. Taft and his military aide, Capt. Archibald Butt, and Vice President and Mrs. Sherman, were guests.

NOTED SOLDIER HELD FOR COURT-MARTIAL.

San Francisco, Cal., May 26.—Capt. Daniel W. Hand, U. S. A., former quartermaster of the transport Sherman, who has been frequently recommended to the war department for distinguished service as a captain of field artillery in the Philippines, has been placed under arrest at the Presidio here to await trial by court-martial on the charge that he was intoxicated while on duty. No details concerning the charge have been disclosed. It is understood Capt. Hand will base his defense on the contention that he was on leave of absence at the time.

LESSON No. 2

Did you ever consider the cash proposition in buying merchandise? We sell for cash. That means we do not carry from $2,000 to $5,000 of more or less good accounts on our books. Every purchaser who pays cash helps pay the accounts of the "dead beats." You are not paying somebody else's bills at Rockwell's, and that makes your own smaller. Then cash selling means cash buying. We buy for cash and take our discounts, getting goods cheaper than merchants who take the time to pay. it helps the shopper in two ways.

Friday is bargain day at the new store. Watch for it. This Friday the bargain will be 100 pairs of boys' shoes at $1.10. Look at them in the window. They are our regular lines that sell for from $1.50 to $2.25. Some of them actually cost us more than the selling price. Saturday you will pay $1.50 to $2.25 for what are left of them. They are not a job lot, but "clean stock," sold at cost.

Note—We pay car fare of uptown purchasers.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

"A Northern Minnesota member of the last legislature is quoted in the Minneapolis Journal as having said within the week that he does not look for success in the re-apportionment fight next winter. "I don't think for a minute that those new senators from Southern Minnesota will vote to give up their jobs and cut two years from the terms for which they were elected, and the senate is so apportioned now that those fellows are in control, the quotation continues.

Takes a Gloomy Peek Into the Future.

"It's all very well to talk about the northern members getting up a filibuster, and blocking everything else till they get reapportionment. I don't have much faith in that. We talked of doing it two years ago, and we would have got a reapportionment bill then, if some of the Northern Minnesota men had stood by their guns. The trouble was they had too many other irons in the fire, and it will be just the same way again. Everybody knows that the present deal is wrong and unjust, but in my opinion we won't get anything better next winter. Not but what I will work for it ahead of everything else, if I get there, but I have seen too much of the game to expect all the northern members to work for reapportionment first and last and all the time."

The anonymous gentleman is pessimistic, but he takes the same general idea as that held by many other Northern Minnesotans, and that is, this section of the state must send men to St. Paul, who will work for reapportionment with an eye single to that good. Conditions have changed since the last session and Northern Minnesota with the help of many broad-minded friends in the middle and southern part of the state, is in a better position to get a just apportionment than it ever was before. A least, so many of those who have been in touch with affairs at St. Paul.

D. M. Neill of Red Wing is being boomed industriously in the southern part of the state for lieutenant governor and the other candidates are getting uneasy about the possibility that he will get into the field and make a characteristically strenuous fight for the place. His position as president of the Federation of Commercial clubs of the state is a factor in the situation, his activities in that office having made him known and liked in all parts of the state.

* * *

There is talk among Democrats of the legislative probabilities in the Fifty-first district, which comprises the First, Second and Fourth wards in Duluth and all of St. Louis county east of the range line, between ranges 13 and 14, and Lake and Cook counties. C. A. Congdon and George W. Buck are the present Republican representatives. Gossip has it that Edward R. Hilbenack will be urged to enter the field as a Democratic candidate.

Talk of Legislative Chances.

With the awakening of interest in local legislative chances there has come an increased volume of talk about Duluth's possible candidates for office generally, and there is much said in favor of the nomination of William McEwen for lieutenant governor on the Democratic ticket.

It is figured that this office is within the range of Democratic attainment this year. With John Lind at the head of the ticket, say the Democrats who are booming McEwen, there will certainly be a Democratic landslide, and McEwen's well known campaigning ability is counted upon to prove effective for himself as well as for the ticket at large.

William E. Lee of Long Prairie, it is announced, has decided not to permit his friends to make a fight for his nomination for governor in the Republican state convention. Opponents of Governor Eberhart are credited with having exerted all their powers of persuasion in vain, Mr. Lee considering the project a hopeless one.

* * *

Dr. A. B. Cole, candidate for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant governor, was a guest of the Second Ward Republican club last evening at its regular meeting. Dr. Cole was elected an honorary member of the club and spoke to the members about his candidacy and Minnesota Republicanism in general. He made a pleasant impression and seemed to enjoy the occasion immensely. Dr. Cole's speech was devoted largely to a consideration of state development, which has a large place in his platform as a candidate. He told of the things for which his late brother stood when he was a candidate for governor and said that those policies were his own also. Dr. Cole was emphatic in his declaration that reapportionment is necessary and must be enacted, and altogether his talk was distinctly pleasing to friends of Northern Minnesota.

Dr. Cole Attends Club Meeting.

John F. Selb, who was a member of the house from St. Paul in 1905, and who some time ago went to Montana to practice law, has returned to St. Paul and will again be a candidate for the legislature, it is said. Mr. Selb is one of the best known men in the state. He has been known as an ally of the liquor interests in legislative affairs, but it is said that he had a falling out with the managers of the brewers' political machine and has not yet made his peace with them.

* * *

Alvah Eastman has become reconciled to fate, apparently, and is persuaded that he cannot prevent, out of the kindness of his heart, the nomination of Eberhart by the Republicans. Here is what he says in his paper, the St. Cloud Journal-Press:

Eastman Can't Save Eberhart.

"It may be accepted as definitely settled that Governor Eberhart will be the nominee of the Republican party for governor of Minnesota. All the prospective candidates have declined to make the fight, and there will be no name presented to the Republican convention for the highest office in the gift of the people of this state other than that of Governor Eberhart. That being the case, it will be the part of wisdom of his friends in the convention to see that the ticket nominated will be one to strengthen the party, one that will appeal to the good judgment of the voters and that shall stand for a square deal—and that the platform adopted shall ring with true Republicanism."

J. Adam Bede's Chautauqua at Pine City will be a hummer if Jadam's invitations to speak are accepted by those to whom they have been address. Theodore Roosevelt, "Jo-uncle" Cannon, J. A. Tawney, R. M. La Follette and A. B. Cummins have been asked to make addresses. If it could be arranged to have joint debates there is a fine bunch of talent available in this list.

That the Bemidji Pioneer should do all in its power to block the road to all in its power to block the road to the state treasurer's office for Walter J. Smith is not surprising, but its devices are rather weak. The other day the Pioneer said that Hibbing will probably offer a candidate for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor, the obvious intent being to scare the Smith boosters off the track. The Pioneer quotes the Minneapolis Tribune as saying that Smith is a stray comet, and then proceeds to say that:

Another Slap at Walter J. Smith

"Walter J. Smith, announced candidate for state treasurer, is not taken seriously because, it is said, he is not in a serious mood himself. It is believed that all he wishes to do at this time is to bring his name into the limelight of state politics. Two or four years hence Smith believes that he will have smooth sailing to the state treasurer's chair. What following he may develop now he would much prefer to direct into the channels of some other north country candidate than to have the state treasurership go to a Southern Minnesota man. It is also believed that the range country will pull strong for any up-state man and that at the state convention A. Kaiser will be there with a solid following from this section."

FLICKERTAIL POLITICS

Out in Ward county a new Moses has come out the bull rushes, or is trying to come out of them. His name is Herman X. Middlebrook, he hails from Donnybrook, and he desires to occupy a seat in the American house of lords. This is his announcement of his candidacy for the senate:

"I am going in to win the race without spending any money as, like you, dear reader, I haven't any to spend. I want the young men to get busy, and the young ladies too. We are young and must stick together.

"People who do not like me may shoot of their heads, and say anything they like about me. They may even lie about me, but it's all right, I expect it, and hereby promise not to be surprised or the least bit ruffled if I find myself affectionately referred to as an expert crook or hypocrite. But nevertheless I will run—because I want to and it is not against the law. In case I am elected I will have no one but myself to blame."

With only a few days remaining in which to file petitions, the political situation in North Dakota is fast rounding out and it will very soon be known just who will be in the fight.

Two of the late important developments are the announcements of the candidacies of W. C. Gilbreath for re-election as commissioner of agriculture and labor, and of J. B. Sharpe of Kulm that he will be a candidate for lieutenant governor. C. J. Sheils will not run for lieutenant governor, but will become a candidate for re-election to the house from La Moure county. Gen. A. E. Williams of Bismarck, president of the city commission, has come out for the house of representatives, which means that if he is elected he will be a candidate for speaker also.

Another interesting announcement bearing on the organization of the assembly is that of Hugh Ryan of Grand Forks, who is out for state senator.

Sargent county Democrats have launched a complete legislative and county ticket for the election of which they will wage a strong campaign this summer. The places of state's attorney and county treasurer have been left temporarily open, but will be filled soon. The following are on the ticket; representative J. W. McPhail; auditor, R. P. Irving; sheriff, Andrew Wahlund; clerk of court, O. B. Johnson; register of deeds, Henry Deitzler; county superintendent, Tene McCarten.

While it is now apparently quite late in the season to bring out a new candidate for governor, there has been some little talk here of the possibilities of Attorney E. R. Spinkler of Minot making the race for the Republican nomination. Two years ago he run for the Republican nomination for congress, without any factional backing, and brought in a good vote, but not enough to nominate.

WOULD KILL BABES BORN DEGENERATE

New York Doctor's Attitude Applauded at Clinic in Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., May 26.—The custom of savages who destroyed infants born hopeless imbeciles was applauded yesterday at a clinic of the Detroit college of medicine alumni at St. Mary's hospital.

Among the children submitted for examination was a baby girl bearing all the stigmata of degeneration. Dr. G. R. Pisek of New York, who was conducting the clinic, excused the child's mother from the room, and then said:

"Some surgeons operate in a case like this, trephining from the front to the back of the skull to give the brain room. I have watched the results of these experiments and I am now convinced that the untutored savages were more wise than we in their treatment of such cases. They took such children and—"

The sentence was completed with a significant gesture that drew a burst of applause.

BALLINGER OPENS SEVERAL AREAS

Utah, Wyoming, Arizona and Idaho Land to Be Settled.

Washington, May 26. — Additional areas in Wyoming and Utah have been designated by the interior department for disposition under the enlarged homestead act. Approximately 36,320 acres were so designated in Wyoming, making the total amount of lands in that state which have been placed within the terms of the enlarged homestead act about 13,607,720 acres. Land in Millard and Beaver counties, Utah, aggregating approximately 84,829 acres, by this action of the department will be subject to a disposition under that act.

An erea of about 606,086 acres located in Ceitral Arizona, which was withdrawn temporarily in 1901 for forest purposes, has been restored to the public domain by the secretary of the interior. The land will become subject to homestead settlement beginning Aug. 9.

About 70,000 acres of land in Idaho, which had been reserved in connection with irrigation projects, have been restored to the public domain by the secretary of the interior. The restorations involves 31,900 acres in the Boise land district and 48,000 acres in the Blackfoot district. The lands in the former districts will be opened to settlement Aug 11 and in the latter Aug. 20.

UNIFORM LIABILITY LAW IS PLANNED.

New York, May 26.—A tentative plan for a uniform employers' liability and compensation law that all the states of the union will be asked to accept was adopted at a meeting yesterday of the committee for compensation and prevention of industrial accidents of the National Civic federation. The measure as outlined by the sub-legal committee is based largely on the English compensation law. It makes employers liable for all accidents to workmen in course of business except where an employe makes himself responsible by negligence or refusal to use safety appliances. It does away with the rule of "fellow servant liability."

ROOSEVELT, TAFT AND SHERMAN TO SPEAK.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 26.—Theodore Rosevelt will speak from the same platform with President Taft and Vice President Sherman at the meeting of the National League of Republican Clubs in New York, June 24 and 25, it is announced by a telegram from John Hays Hammond's office in New York to President Henry Davis of the Ohio Republican league. It is planned to make the New York convention the real start of the congressional campaign.

Chicago, May 26.—Organization of the American Iron, Steel & Heavy Hardware association, for the purpose of protecting trade interests and handling credits, was effected here yesterday by jobbers from all sections of the country. The next annual meeting of the organization will take place in Detroit, Mich., in May, 1911. Following are the officers of the new association:

President, F. D. Kimball, Chicago; first vice president, F. P. Sanderson, Boston; second vice president, C. P. Feath, Kansas City; secretary and treasurer, A. P. Plumb, New York; executive committee, F. F. Yarnell, Ft. Wayne, Ind.; Irving Shadbolt, Milwaukee, Wis.; F. W. A. Waterhouse, San Francisco; C. M. Roehm, Detroit; Charles C. Lewis, Springfield, Mass.; J. A. Gregg, St. Paul, Minn.

MY SYSTEM

Of treating sensitive teeth includes numerous appliances and many remedies, some one of which is applicable to any case. Painless operations on teeth depend largely on the man who uses the instrument. If he is careless, irritable or unsympathetic, he will inflict pain frequently, no matter what methods are at hand to avoid it. Patience and gentleness, therefore, are as important as skill and science in dentistry. We give special care and time to nervous and sensitive patients.

CLAIMS LINCOLN WAS TEUTONIC

German Writer Says Descent of Emancipator Is as Good as Proved.

Chicago, May 26.—Abraham Lincoln's lineage as a new theme for discussion is presented to German historians and biographers by Henry Urban, a German writer, who declares that the accepted version of the great emancipator's ancestors is erroneous. In an article in "Der Tag," Herr Urban affirms that Lincoln was not of English, but of German descent. This statement is made in a special cablegram to the Daily News from Berlin. The dispatch continues:

"Citing as evidence the results of researches conducted recently by German-American investigators, Herr Urban comes to the conclusion that it is 'as good as proved' that Lincoln was descended from a German family named Linkhorn. Abraham's grandfather, he says, bore this name, which belonged to a family of German settlers who originally lived in Pennsylvania, but removed to Virginia, finally setting up in Kentucky.

"Herr Urban notes that the discovery is especially gratifying and important just now, when Germans are awakening to a new feeling of national consciousness and are bent on claiming credit for the great men who contributed largely to America's development, but who gradually had become 'marked in history with the stamp of Anglo-Americanism.'"

MILLER GETS POSTMASTERS

Appointments for Sandstone, Hinckley, International Falls and Proctor.

Washington, May 26.—President Taft has made a large batch of postoffice appointments in congressional districts where the recommendations of congressmen made last December have been pigeonholed in the postoffice department ever since. The Eighth district of Minnesota is one of them and when Representative C. B. Miller, after waiting many weeks for his recommendation to be acted upon by Postmaster General Hitchcock called at the department, he was informed that the appointments were held up with others because Mr. Miller was an insurgent. It is learned that it was not until recently that President Taft, acting upon many urgent requests from members of congress, took up these belated appointments and sent for all the papers on file in the department.

Mr. Miller's recommendations were yesterday approved and the following appointments agreed on: Sandstone, A. S. Webb; Hinckley, W. H. Noble; International Falls, Joseph J. Lloyd; Proctor, Mrs. F. E. Wilson, wife of the present postmaster. Former Congressman Bede is credited with having opposed several of Mr. Miller's recommendations and endeavored to prevent their appointments.

Whooping Cough.

This is a more dangerous disease than is generally presumed. It will be a surprise to many to learn that more deaths result from it than from scarlet fever. Pneumonia often results from it. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been used in many epidemics of whooping cough, and always with the best results. Delbert McKeig of Harlan, Iowa, says of it: "My boy took whooping cough when 9 months old. He had it in the winter. I got a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy which proved good. I cannot recommend it too highly." For sale by all druggists.

SENATOR MOSES E. CLAPP TO ADDRESS POSTMASTERS.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator Moses E. Clapp will make the leading address before the Tri-State Postmasters' association which is to have its fifth annual meeting here June 8 and 9. M. C. Fosnes of St. Paul, inspector-in-charge, will be another speaker; also Postmaster W. D. Hale of Minneapolis. Headquarters will be at the Radisson.

EXPRESS RATES REDUCED.

Montana Railroad Commission Orders Carriers to Charge Less.

Helena, Mont., May 26.—Drastic reductions in all express rates in Montana have been ordered by the Montana railroad commission. The new rates become effective twenty days hence.

The commission holds that the rates charged for the transportation of matter by express within the state are unreasonably high and discriminate against the state as compared with the rates in effect in other states on interstate traffic.

The present rate to transport 100 pounds of merchanise, 60 cents, is reduced to 40 cents; the general merchandise rate of 50 cents is cut to the new rate, 40 cents. To transport 100 pounds of merchandise 100 miles $1.50 is charged at present; under the new rate $1 will be charged.

BALLINGER BACKER WILL QUIT SERVICE.

Chicago, May 26.—Edmund T. Perkins, engineer in charge of the Chicago bureau of the United States reclamation service and one of the chief supporters of Secretary Ballinger in the controversy with Gifford Pinchot, has announced that he will retire from public service to enter private business. Mr. Perkins informed Secretary Ballinger of his intention before leaving Washington, where he went to testify in behalf of the secretary.

Great Benefit

Always Derived from Hood's Sarsaparilla in the Spring.

Miss Sara J. Robinson, Box 830, Albion, N. Y., writes: "My father, who is a stone cutter by trade, used to feel worse in the spring of the year than when he was done work in the fall. For several years in succession he has taken several bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla in the spring, and has always derived great benefit from it."

Remember there is no real substitute for Hood's Sarsaparilla—no "just as good" preparation. Get Hood's Sarsaparilla today. In usual liquid form or tablets called Sarsatabs.

ON THE IRON RANGES

JURY AWARDS LARSON $500

Second Trial of Sensational Damage Suit Favorable to Plaintiff.

Sought Large Sum for Alleged Alienation of Wife's Affections.

Virginia, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The jury in the celebrated case of Larson against Thiel, which had been on trial since Monday morning, returned a verdict in favor of Larson awarding him the sum of $500 damages. Larson claimed that Thiel had alienated his wife's affections and broke up his home. He sued for $15,000.

The case was one of the most sensational and interesting tried in the court here on account of the parties being well known upon the range and in Duluth.

BALLASTING LINE INTO CHISHOLM

Missabe Road Is Also Building Depot and Will Soon Run Trains.

Chisholm, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Missabe railroad is ballasting the new line into this village, building the freight and passenger depots and will soon be running trains into this village. The same company has a force of men laying steel for the extension from Sherwood, on the main line twelve miles east of Hibbing, to Kinney, near Buhl.

This line will serve the Woodbridge, Whiteside, Kinney and Helmer mine and will also give Buhl and Kinney a passenger service. The grading of the line is in charge of Contractor Linquist, of Duluth, and is now nearly completed. The work of laying the steel is in charge of Roadmaster E. J. Sponberg.

WILL OPEN CHISHOLM'S NEW HOTEL VERY SOON.

Chisholm, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Preparations for the opening of the O'Neil hotel are now completed with the exception of the installation of the furniture. This has been shipped and is expected here any day, when the hotel will be opened at once.

CHISHOLM CURFEW LAW.

Youngsters Must Keep Off Streets After 9 o'Clock, P. M.

Chisholm, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Youngsters must keep off the streets after 9 p. m., as the result of the action of the council this week in enforcing an existing ordinance.

The council has also provided for numbering the business houses and dwellings of the village east and west from Central avenue.

Mike Baich applied for the opening of Maple street between Second and Third avenues and Village Attorney C. L. Knapp reported that the village must appoint a health board of three members and one of them must be a physician.

The secretary of the Firemen's Relief association reported the receipts and expenditures for the past year and the report was referred to the village attorney.

The engineer was instructed to report the expense of a sewer in Poplar street, between Second and Third avenues, at the next meeting of the council.

Use TIZ-- Smaller Feet

Sore Feet, Tender Feet and Swollen Feet Cured Every Time — TIZ Makes Sore Feet Well No Matter What Ails Them.

Every one who is troubled with sore, sweaty, or tender feet—swollen feet—smelly feet, corns, callouses or bunions can quickly make their feet well now. Here is instant relief and a lasting, permanent remedy—it's called TIZ. TIZ makes sore feet well and swollen feet are quickly reduced to their natural size. Thousands of ladies have been able to wear shoes a full size smaller with perfect comfort.

It's the only foot remedy ever made which acts on the principal of drawing out all the poisonous exudations which cause sore feet. Powders and other remedies merely clog up the pores. TIZ cleanses them out and keeps them clean. It works right off. You will feel better the very first time it's used. Use it a week and you can forget you ever had sore feet. There is nothing on earth that can compare with it. TIZ is for sale at all druggists 25 cents per box or direct if you wish from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Dept. 490, Dodge Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

VIRGINIA MAN DIES OUT WEST

W. F. Bitts Picked Up Near Sparks, Nev., Expiring in Hospital.

Salt Lake, Utah, May 26.—When an eastbound Southern Pacific train was nearing Sparks, Nev., yesterday, the engineer discovered a man some distance from the right-of-way. The train was stopped and the man taken to Sparks, where he was placed in the railroad company's hospital.

He was terribly injured internally and was unable to give an account of how the hurt had been caused. There were no external marks of violence and there was no indication that he had been struck by a train.

Cards in the pockets indicated the man's name was W. F. Bitts, and that his home was in Virginia, Minn. He died soon after he was placed in the hospital.

CENTRAL AVENUE WILL BE GRADED

Main Thoroughfare of Nashwauk Is to Be Finely Fixed.

Nashwauk, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—A small force of men is hauling dirt and leveling off the main street of the village. Grading of the streets will begin in a short time. A crew of engineers were here last week getting the grade of Central avenue, the main street. All business men on Central avenue were given notice by the village to have sewers put into their houses by June 15, and after this date the work of grading will commence.

A. G. Le Vasseur has recently completed the addition to the tailor shop owned by Peter Satovik. The building has been made much larger owing to the amount of business which has been steadily increasing in this line.

Selivkar of the St. Paul seminary, will also be present and deliver an address.

UNKNOWN MAN HAS HIS SKULL FRACTURED.

Coleraine, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Struck on the head by a cable that parted on the Missabe grade work between the washing plant and Taconite Junction yesterday one of the employes, whose name is not known sustained a fractured skull and is in the Coleraine hospital in a dying condition.

LEONIDAS SHAFT IS DOWN 175 FEET

To Be Steel Lined and One of Best on the Iron Ranges.

Eveleth, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The shaft being sunk at the Leonidas mine by the Oliver Iron Mining company has already reached a depth of 175 feet, and steady progress is being made.

The shaft will be one of the deepest on the range and will be constructed of steel material. The drills that were operating in the vicinity of the shaft found many bodies of good ore.

A boiler house has been constructed at the mine, and many men are already being employed in the vicinity of the new shaft, working on the shaft structure and at the boiler and other shops that are being operated. Fifteen dwellings have been erected at the mine and are being occupied by the men now employed in that vicinity. A fine site for a mining location has been secured in the immediate vicinity of the new mine, and in this district the new houses have been erected.

BALK AT AMOUNT ASKED.

Street Car Promoters Think Hibbing Asks Too Much.

Hibbing, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The provision in the proposed street railway franchise that will permit the building of a line between Hibbing and Alice, a distance of about two miles, requiring the promoters to deposit a cash sum of $5,000 assuring the building of the line, and $5,000 additional for three years as an evidence of good faith, will probably have to be modified before accepted. The promoters of the enterprise claim the village is asking too much and at the next meeting of the council when the franchise is expected to be adopted it is expected these terms will be modified.

The proposed franchise requires construction of the line to begin within sixty days of the granting of the franchise and the completion of one and three quarters miles of track within one year. Service is to be maintained from 5 in the morning till 11 at night, the service being hourly with the exception of from 5 to 7, morning and evening, when it is to be half hourly.

SPELLING CONTEST.

Old Fashioned Affair in Hibbing High School Friday.

Hibbing, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—An old-fashioned spelling contest will take place at the high school auditorium tomorrow night when about three spellers will be selected from the third, fourth and fifth grades. Supt. Blair will offer a $5 gold piece to the best speller. A list of words is now being prepared for the contest by Supt. Blair. Following the contest an operetta will be given by about seventy pupils of the fourth and fifth grades of the public schools entitled, "The National Flower."

McKINLEY WOMAN KILLED BY TRAIN

Mrs. Hill Cut to Pieces By Iron Range Engine and Cars.

McKinley, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—An Iron Range railroad engine and fifteen cars struck Mrs. Tina Hill, a middle-aged woman living in a shack near the village, early yesterday literally cutting her to pieces.

The badly mangled body was found some time after the unfortunate woman was struck by the train. Little is known how the woman met death, whether accidentally or intentionally. The remains were found strewn along the track about half a mile north of here yesterday morning. The deputy coroner is investigating.

Eveleth, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Homaki, a photographer employed by the mining company at the Kinney mine, and Johanna Hatabari of Eveleth were married last evening at the Finnish Lutheran Concordia church by Rev. R. C. Keramelle.

BRAKEMAN TRIES TO KILL HIMSELF

Proctor Man, Despondent at Loss of Position, Slashes His Throat.

John Murray, 47 years old, tried to take his own life by slashing his throat with a razor late yesterday in a fit of despondency over the loss of his position as brakeman for the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway.

He was found in a pool of his own blood in a woodshed at the rear of his rooming house at Proctor. An open razor was found at his side. Murray was suffering from the loss of blood, but was still alive, when M. Smith, the proprietor of the rooming house discovered him.

Dr. Joseph Specht, a local physician was called and he made a hasty examination of the wounds. Finding that the man had not severed any of the principal arteries, he sewed up the gash in the man's throat and ordered him removed to St. Mary's hospital.

At the hospital this morning it was stated that Murray had a fair chance for recovery. Murray lost his position on the railroad, it is said, because of over indulgence in liquor. For the past four years, he had been braking on a train run between Proctor and the ore docks.

Murray is said to have a wife and three children residing at Erie, Pa.

WHEAT DEAL ALL FIXED UP

terday in fluctuating erratically, closing prices being ⅜ of a cent apart at $1.10¾ to $1.10⅝, suggested that the contest was being compromised. This was seemingly confirmed today when a cargo of 670,000 bushels of No. 1 Northern wheat headed from Duluth to Chicago, presumably to be delivered to Waterman, was diverted to its natural destination, Buffalo, N. Y.

Duluth Wheat Diverted.

During the last ten days a number of heavy cargoes consigned from Duluth to Buffalo were diverted to this market in an attempt to deliver actual wheat on the contracts credited to Waterman. In this manner the price of May wheat was hammered down a few cents, but failed to demoralize the market. It was reported that shorts probably would have to settle for about 1,500,000 bushels, the difference between quantities sold and the amount which could be delivered by the end of the month.

The settlement price is not known to the general trade, but the amount involved is said not to compare with the great Patten deal of last year, nor with other famous "squeezes."

Lesser Longs Unloaded.

Lesser "longs" who trailed the bull leader in his operation unloaded today and the price during the forenoon dropped an extreme 3⅜c to $1.07½.

PAY NO TARIFF ON DEAD HORSE

House Committee Reports in Favor of Texas Show People.

Washington, May 26.—The dignified ways and means committee of the house, which deals only with the tariff and other important subjects, yesterday had to take up and consider seriously the question of a horse which had died in Texas.

Two Texas citizens imported a blooded horse for show purposes and gave bond to the federal government for the animal's return to Mexico within a year, in order to avoid paying tariff duties as imposed by the law. Unfortunately, however, the horse died, leaving the owners liable under their bond for the tariff tax.

Representative Smith of Texas introduced a bill for their relief and the ways and means committee has reported it favorably to the house.

Representative Champ Clark, the minority leader and a member of the committee, did not miss the opportunity to say that he considered the whole Payne-Aldrich tariff law "very much of a dead horse on the country."

WILL PUT WIRELESS UP ON PIKE'S PEAK.

Denver, Colo., May 26.—According to information received here, Marconi will establish a wireless station on the top of Pike's Peak, to be used as the midway transmitting and receiving point in an effort to send messages from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast. The station will be similar to the one used by Marconi at Glace Bay, Can. The construction of the station, it is said, will be commenced upon Marconi's return from Europe, for which he sailed a few days ago.

HISTORICAL SIDE OF CHURCH IS PRESENTED.

Boston, May 26.—The eighth annual meeting of the Unitarian Historical society was held in King's chapel in connection with today's sessions of the eighty-fifth anniversary week of the American Unitarian association. President Henry Edes presided. "Harvard College Fifty Years Ago and the Oldest Harvard Divinity School" was the subject of an address by Rev. Henry G. Spaulding. Reports for the year were then read and the election of officers held.

Rev. Wilson M. Backus of Minneapolis conducted the prayer service at the opening service of the association's session today in King's chapel. Several other meetings were held during the forenoon.

WEST END

PLAYGROUNDS ARE FITTED UP

Three Breathing Spots in West End Equipped for Summer Sports.

The playgrounds for children at the West end are being fitted out this week for the summer season.

There are three of these recreation spots, one on Superior street, between Eighteenth and Nineteenth avenues west, one at Lincoln park, and the other at Thirtieth avenue west and Third street. The last named was used last year for a skating rink.

The playgrounds this year will be fully equipped for athletic sports. The swings and turning poles have been installed already at the Superior street grounds and the place is a popular rendezvous for the children after school hours.

MEMORIAL DAY PROGRAMS.

West End Shortrails.

Esther G., the 12-months-old daughter of William Gillis of 219 North Twenty-seventh avenue west, died late yesterday at the family residence. The funeral was held this afternoon with interment at Calvary cemetery.

The Adams Athletic association will entertain this evening at Lincoln Park pavilion at another of the series of weekly parties. The dance hall will be decorated for the occasion and it is expected that a large crowd will attend.

Funeral services were held this morning at St. John de Baptiste church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street, for Pauline, the 6-months-old daughter of Albert Slomsky of 2924 West Huron street, who died yesterday. Burial was at the Polish cemetery.

The Luther League of Bethany Swedish Lutheran church will hold its regular meeting this evening at the church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street. A good literary and musical program has been arranged.

Rev. August Johnson, a theological student from Chicago, who will have a charge at Eveleth, Minn., this summer, will conduct services this evening at the First Swedish Baptist church, Nineteenth avenue west and First street.

The Ladies' Guild of St. Luke's Episcopal church will be entertained tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. L. Gibbs of 423 Eighth avenue west.

If you are thinking of a new hat for Decoration day we have a nice selection of ladies' and children's hats to choose from. Come early while the lot is good. Mrs. A. C. Davidson, 1814 Piedmont avenue.

Commander Julius A. Pratt Post No. 142 Dept. Ill., G. A. R.

Mr. Isaac Cook, Commander of above Post, Kewanee, Ill., writes: "For a long time I was bothered with backache and pains across my kidneys. About two months ago I started taking Foley Kidney Pills and soon saw they were doing just as claimed. I kept on taking them and now I am free from backache and the painful bladder misery is all gone. I like Foley Kidney Pills so well that I have told many of my friends and comrades about them and shall recommend them at every opportunity." Sold by all druggists.

MARY HARRIMAN BECOMES BRIDE

Simple Service Performed in Arden Church---Father's Grave Is Trimmed.

New York, May 26.—In the quiet little Episcopal church at Arden, N. Y., Miss Mary Harriman, daughter of the late railroad master and builder, Edward H. Harriman, was married today to Charles Cary Rumsey of Buffalo, a sculptor. Simplicity in the extreme marked the ceremony because of the recent death of the bride's father, who lies buried in the graveyard beside the church.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Holmes McGuinness, rector of the church; and afterward the wedding party returned to the Harriman home for the wedding breakfast. Miss Carol Harriman was maid of honor, and Lawrence D. Rumsey, brother of the bridegroom, best man; while Robert L. Gerry, who married Cornelia Harriman, gave the bride away.

Grave Was Decorated.

None but members of the Harriman and Rumsey families and a few close friends were present at the wedding. The little church was simply decorated with several stands of maidenhair ferns and wild flowers from the hills of the Harriman estate. The grave of Mr. Harriman was overlaid with a bed of spruce twigs, on which reposed a cross made of rhododendron leaves.

The greater part of the honeymoon will be spent at Arden.

Postmaster at Little Sauk.

Washington, May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Martin H. Nelson was today appointed postmaster at Little Sauk, Todd county, Minn., vice A. G. Henry, resigned. Claude C. Radabaugh was appointed rural carrier on Route No. 6 at Long Prairie, Minn.

GREEK CATHOLIC CHURCH TO BE DEDICATED SUNDAY.

Dickinson, N. D., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new Greek Catholic church, the St. Demetrius, will be dedicated next Sunday. It is located twelve miles northeast of Green River, this county, and was erected by the farmers residing in that vicinity. Bishop S. S. Ortynsky of Philadelphia, a Greek Catholic, will be present and have charge of the services.

WIND LEVELS ELEVATOR.

Steele, N. D., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—In a high wind at Crystal Springs, the new Powers elevator was demolished, while the small store building and blacksmith shop that the little town boasted were also destroyed. No one was injured. The storm came up very suddenly and that town seems to be the only place where any damage was done.

For Nervous Disorders Take Horsford's Acid Phosphate.

Especially recommended for the relief of nervous headache, exhaustion and insomnia.

ROOSEVELT WILL HAVE NO TARIFFS TO PAY.

New York, May 26.—The baggage of Theodore Roosevelt and family will enter the port of New York when he returns on June 18, free from inspection and free of duty. The treasury department is understood to have reached this decision in view of his appointment as special ambassador to represent this country at the funeral of King Edward. To all practical intents he is a returning diplomat and his effects are therefore exempt.

Is Your Porch Useless Half The Day?

Make it a CHARM and a COMFORT ALWAYS

Vudor Porch Shades

will make the sunniest, breeziest porch an inviting all-day living room, where you can read, sew, play games, or take a nap in perfect comfort. At night, a protected sleeping place for those who sleep out-of-doors in pleasant weather.

Vudor Porch Shades

shut out all sun-glare and wind, but let in ample light and air

They give the insider plenty of outlook, but the outsider gets no inlook. They really add another room to your house, as secluded and private as any and unapproached for healthful enjoyment, at a cost so low that it will surprise you.

The way Vudor Porch Shades are made, accounts for their great superiority. The slats are of tough, straight-grained wood, stained (not painted) in pleasing colors. And the warp is of seine twine, such as is used for fishing nets. They have heavy strips top and bottom, and are supplied with the best possible fixtures. They last for years and do not frazzle out at the ends, nor warp out of shape, as do the cheap bamboo screens.

Anyone who has a screw-driver can quickly put them up. They are easily raised or lowered and may be fastened at any desired height.

In Duluth we are exclusive agents for Vudor shades, and have a complete line of various colors, priced as follows:

Size 4 feet wide by 7 feet 8 inches long..$2.25
Size 6 feet wide by 7 feet 8 inches long..$3.00
Size 8 feet wide by 7 feet 8 inches long..$4.00
Size 10 feet wide by 7 feet 8 inches long..$5.50

Tea Room Hours.

Beginning today and hereafter, the regular course of business in the tea room will be as follows:

Breakfast—Served to order after 8 a. m.
Luncheon—Served a la carte, 11:30 to 2 p. m.
Afternoon Tea or Luncheon from 3 to 5 p. m.
Dinner—Every Saturday night an elaborate table d'Hote dinner will be served from 6 to 9 p. m.; price, $1.00.

Musical program will be rendered and reservations may be made in advance by phone or in person.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

THREE ARE INJURED IN STREET CAR COLLISION

Work Car Gets Beyond Control and Crashes Into Passenger Car.

Motorman Seriously Injured and Others Are Only Slightly Hurt.

ACCIDENT IN BRIEF.

What—Street car wreck.
Where—Intersection of Piedmont avenue and Garfield avenue with Superior street.
How—Work car runs away coming down Piedmont avenue hill and crashes at an angle into west bound passenger car No. 187.
When—About 6 o'clock this morning.
Injured — Motorman Edward Skinstead, a conductor and a newsboy.
Cause of runaway—Not definitely known.

Edward Skinstead, a motorman, was seriously injured and several others cut by flying glass, when a work car loaded with crushed rock ran away on the hill on Piedmont avenue and smashed through the front end of a street car going west on Superior street about 6 o'clock this morning.

That no one was killed seems a miracle. How Motorman Skinstead escaped with his life cannot be understood by the spectators. A conductor riding at the front of the passenger car on his way to work was badly bruised, and a newsboy nicknamed "Nosey," whose name is unknown, received a bad cut on the face. Their injuries were dressed by a nearby physician. The eight passengers escaped without a scratch, although every window in the car was broken to bits.

Donald Munn, who was on the front end of the work car manipulating the lever, jumped a second before the collision, getting away with some slight cuts on his hands and head.

The westbound car, No. 187, had stopped on the east crossing, as is its custom, to unload the papers which are sent out to the West end. The work car was coming down the avenue. The passenger car had just started to cross the intersection of the Piedmont avenue tracks, when it was struck. Motorman Skinstead had barely closed the gates and had the car no more than under way.

The work car plowed through the front vestibule with a terrific crash, smashing windows and wrecking the entire head end. The front of the work car was seriously damaged and half its load spilled on the pavement.

A number of workmen were sitting on the rear end of the work car. They didn't stir, although, it is believed, they saw the impending danger. The jar knocked them about without hurting them, after which they scrambled off, and immediately began to help clear away the wreckage. Motorman Skinstead was wedged in between the stove on the front platform and the partition. He couldn't move, but was extricated in a few minutes. Patrolman Root, who witnessed the accident, immediately telephoned for an ambulance, which took the injured man to St. Luke's hospital. An examination by Dr. Frank Lynam revealed a crushed hip bone, a broken nose, a cut on the head and some bad bruises. The motorman's injuries are not thought to be fatal, and his early recovery is expected.

Witnesses state that when Munn realized that the car had gotten beyond his control he sounded the whistle repeatedly in an effort to warn any car which might be approaching from either direction.

Apparently Skinstead did not hear him, for he went ahead without any attempt to stop, evidently believing that he had a clear track. The newsboy, who was cut, was standing up in the aisle of the car, and the conductor was sitting on the front seat. Had the westbound car gone ahead but a few feet more when it was struck several men would undoubtedly have been killed. No women were on board.

The cause of the work car's running away was not known by those at the scene of the accident. It is supposed, however, that the brake must have refused to work effectively, or that the load was too heavy for the brakes to hold, probably because of some defect in the braking apparatus.

The wreck caused a delay of about an hour in street car traffic. Shortly after 7 o'clock, however, practically all the debris had been removed. The street, from one side to the other, was covered with broken glass.

"GOLDEN RULE" CHIEF OUSTED

Cleveland's Famous Police Head Accused of Gross Immorality.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 26.—Chief of Police Frederick Kohler, known throughout the country as the "golden rule" chief, and lauded by Former President Roosevelt as the best chief of police in the country, has been suspended by Mayor Baehr on charges of gross immorality, habitual drunkenness and disobedience of orders.

The tentative date of Tuesday has been set for Chief Kohler's trial by the civil service commission, and statements by Kohler and his accusers point to the development of sensational testimony, which may involve many of the city's prominent men.

Mr. Kohler has intimated that he intends to fight the charges against him to a finish, and that if he is disgraced he will not be the only one to fall. He has retained one of the best known criminal lawyers in Ohio as his counsel.

Enforced "Golden Rule."

Chief Kohler joined the police force as a patrolman fourteen years ago. He was appointed chief in 1903, and since then has attracted national attention by his policy of the "golden rule." Briefly, this policy was that in the case of minor offenses, it was better to admonish the offender and persuade him to go home than to arrest. His opponents have accused him of having increased criminality by this policy.

FINDS SEYLER IS NOT GUILTY

Jury Acquits Man Accused of Murdering Jane Adams.

Mays Landing, N. J., May 26.—William Seyler, charged with the murder of Jane Adams on the $1,000,000 pier at Atlantic City last February, was acquitted last night. The jury was out a little more than five hours.

The courtroom was crowded when the jury returned at 10 o'clock, hundreds of persons from Atlantic City having waited all evening for news from the jury room.

Seyler fairly leaped at his counsel when he realized that he was again a free man. After greeting his counsel he walked over to the jurymen and shook hands with each of them, at the same time warmly expressing his thanks.

It was reported about the courthouse that the jury considered only two verdicts, first degree murder and acquittal.

ALL PEONS MUST WEAR TROUSERS

Order Goes Forth Concerning Mexican Celebration in September.

Mexico City, Mex., May 26.—The Mexican peon will have to wear pants during the great Centennial celebration here next September. The governor of the federal district has issued instructions that breeches must be worn by even the humblest of the race.

A plan for providing the peons with pants to replace the loose fitting white garments generally in evidence has been devised. If a man is too poor to buy a pair of pants he will be given employment a sufficient length of time to enable him to accumulate the required amount.

The government is anxious that everything look spick and span during celebration month and with that end in view is leaving nothing undone. Hence the interest in pants for peons.

In this tropical climate peons wear white pantaloons, loose fitting. They are far from being neat in appearance. Some of the men wear their white garments rolled up to their knees. To the tourist they appear typical, and to some perhaps, picturesque. At any rate, they have to go, at least during September.

Nature's Microscope.

Nature offers a free microscope whenever one is wanted. She has been dealing in free optical instruments and optical phenomena ever since the first dewdrop formed or the first raindrop fell earthward. But more interesting than this is the fact that Golden Grain Belt beer served regularly with your meals builds up the entire system, and especially relieves you of that fatigued feeling. Get a case and be convinced. "Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Duluth branch Minneapolis Brewing company."

EARTH SLIDE AT PANAMA.

Engineers Are Having Trouble With Big Bit of Ground.

Washington, May 26.—The engineers on the Panama canal are facing a serious situation in the handling of the "Culebra slide." The slide consists of 2,000,000 cubic yards of material which has been moving into the Culebra cut since the work of excavation was begun. The movement has been gradual, but several buildings already have been moved, owing to crumbling of the foundations, and now it is feared that the postoffice, clubhouse, hotel and several dwelling houses at Culebra will have to go. The engineers apprehend no serious loss of property or life, but what effect the slide will have on work on the canal is a matter of conjecture. A weekly inspection of all buildings on the slide has been ordered.

WILL GRADUATE FROM PENNSY

Duluth Boy Has Made Good Record During His Course.

Robert D. Smith of this city is among the students to be graduated this year from the University of Pennsylvania. Mr. Smith will take the degree of Bachelor of Science in Economics, having completed the four years course in the Wharton school of Finance and Commerce.

Entering the university from the Duluth high school, he has engaged in many collegiate activities, having been a member of the varsity track squad during his freshman year. At this time he won the indoor mile. He was also manager of the freshman track team, associate editor and later managing editor of the daily Pennsylvanian, the treasurer of his class, one of the organizers of the Wharton school honor system as well as sophomore representative upon the honor council; member of the Wharton club room committee, twice member of the Wharton executive committee, elder at the Christmas tree celebration, member of the senior debating team and secretary of the Minnesota club, and a member of the Pennsylvanian, and class constitutional committees.

Maurice d' Autremont is another Duluth boy who is likely to be heard from at Pennsylvania. He is a member of the track team, his specialty being the pole vault.

NORWAY HAVING SERIOUS FLOODS

Melting Snow Has Swollen Rivers in the Interior Districts.

Christiania, May 26.—The extraordinary heat during the spring has melted the snow on the mountains in the interior, causing a flooding of the lakes and rivers far beyond the record established in 1860. The situation at several places is critical, especially at Allestrommet, near Skedemo, where the streets are submerged to the first floors of the buildings.

M. Braenne, minister of public works, is inspecting the city in a motor boat. Floating timbers endanger the bridges over many rivers.

At Fetsund 260,000 pieces are afloat, and it is feared that the railway bridge will be damaged. The question of state assistance has been submitted to the storthing.

This is a new preparation and a good one. It is especially valuable as a cure for chronic and muscular rheumatism, and for the relief from pain which it affords in acute inflammatory rheumatism. Those who have used it have invariably spoken of it in the highest terms of praise. Lame back, lame shoulder and a stiff neck are due to rheumatism of the muscles, usually brought on by exposure to cold or damp, and are quickly cured by applying this liniment freely and massaging the effected parts. Soreness of the muscles, whether induced by violent exercise or injury, is allayed by this liniment. For sale by all druggists.

MEAD-PHILLIPS PRIMARY BILL IS UP TO HUGHES.

Albany, N. Y., May 26.—Fourteen so-called "organization" Republicans combined with an equal number of Democrats to force through the senate yesterday the Mead-Phillips primary reform bill. Twenty Republican senators and one Democrat voted against it. The bill passed the assembly last week.

If the governor vetoes the bill as predicted and the assembly rejects the Cobb bill, as seems likely, there will be no primary legislation unless it is born of an extra session.

ELIOT ATTACKS UNION METHODS

President Emeritus of Harvard Says They Degrade Men's Character.

Boston, May 26.—Labor unions degrade human character according to President (Emeritus) Charles W. Eliot of Harvard university, who spoke last night at the annual public meeting of the American Unitarian association. The meeting was held in Tremont temple in connection with the eighty-fifth annual convention of the association. Dr. Eliot's subject was "The Wise Direction of Church Activities Toward Social Welfare." His discussion was of an academic nature.

Toward the end he considered collectiveness supplanting individualism, and, declaring that the regulation of output as demanded by labor organizations illustrated an individual right supplanted, he said that labor unions, by virtue of such practices, inevitably deteriorated and degraded human character.

At the annual business session Rev. Samuel A. Eliot of Cambridge was re-elected president of the Unitarian association.

POLICEMAN FINED FOR NOT BEING GALLANT.

Chicago, May 26.—Charles B. Carney, a Chicago policeman, has been fined fifteen days' pay by the police trial board for failing to give up his seat in a street car to a woman who was standing in the aisle of the car. Carney was riding on a crowded car when a citizen asked the policeman if he would give his seat to a woman. Carney became angry and arrested the citizen on a charge of disorderly conduct.

WILL ORDERS BOY TO AVOID CAYUGA LAKE.

New York, May 26.—The will of Charles C. Dickinson, former president of the Carnegie Trust company, who died here presumably from the effects of inhaling a poisonous gas in a laboratory in Scranton, Pa., has been filed for probate. It contains a bequest of $4,000 for the education of his son Charles, at Cornell, with the strange stipulation that the son shall forfeit this allowance if he goes "to or upon Cayuga lake." The lake is used by the Cornell crews and by students for canoeing and sailing. To a nephew he leaves $2,000 for educational purposes with he same restrictions regarding Cayuga lake. The estate is valued in the usual legal term "more than $10,000."

NEW LAND BILL ABOUT READY

Administration Withdrawal Measure to Be Backed By Nelson.

Washington, May 26.—An administration bill dealing with the withdrawal of public lands has been amended by Senator Smoot, and probably will be reported from committee this week. Senator Nelson, chairman of the committee, has promised to do all he can to further prompt consideration of the bill, and it is believed it will be taken up as soon as the railway bill is out of the way. By the bill the president is authorized to withdraw temporarily from settlement, location, sale or entry any public lands and reserve them for water power sites, irrigation, classification of lands or other public purposes. Except as applies to coal, oil, gas and phosphate lands, they are to be open to occupation and purchase.

Bona fide occupants of oil or gas lands, who at the time of withdrawals are prosecuting work leading to discovery of oil or gas, are not to be affected by any such order, so long as such occupant continues in prosecution of the work.

POOR WOMAN IN OHIO CLAIMS ROYAL BLOOD.

Zanesville, Ohio, May 26.—In a little, lonely, poverty-stricken home in Woodsfield, Ohio, lives Mrs. Kate D. Ullem, who says that she is a descendant of the English royal family. The grandfather of King Edward VII and her great-grandmother, she says, were brother and sister. She claims to be a descendant of the earl of Somerset.

Mrs. Ullem is 66 years old, and is said to be in want.

Spiritwood, N. D., School.

Jamestown, N. D., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The people of Spiritwood, this county, have decided to erect a new schoolhouse and are now having plans prepared for a $10,000 structure. The building will be modern throughout, two stories high, providing class rooms and an assembly hall. Excellent heating and ventilating systems will be installed.

Kidder County Reunion.

Steele, N. D., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Kidder county old settlers will have a reunion in Steele on June 13, and preparations for the event are now being made. This reunion will be held the same day as the Northern Pacific farming instruction special stops in the city, so that there will be an added attraction. An elaborate program is being arranged.

The CANPHER

For Men who Dress "better"

CONCERNING WOMAN.

The women's clubs of the city have been requested to act as hostesses on the various days of the art exhibit being held at the courthouse this week and which will be continued next week. The exhibit is free to the public every day from 9 a. m. until 10 p. m., except this evening when it will be closed at 8 o'clock in order that everyone interested may attend the lecture at the high school by J. W. Young.

This afternoon and this evening the members of the Needlework Guild of which Mrs. Morton Miller is president, were hostesses at the exhibit.

Tomorrow afternoon and evening the Matinee Musicale of which Miss Simonds is president, will be the hostesses. Saturday the members of the Daughters of Liberty chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, of which Mrs. W. E. Richardson is regent, will be at the rooms. Sunday afternoon and evening the officers and active members of the Art Association will be the special hosts. Monday, May 30, the members of the Ladies' Literature class of which Mrs. L. W. Kline is president, have been invited to assist, Tuesday, May 31, the Bishop's club, Mrs. F. E. Kennedy, president, will be at the rooms, Wednesday, June 1, the Cecilian society, Mrs. H. C. Strong, resident, will receive, Thursday, June 2, the members of the Park Point Study class, Mrs. H. H. Phelps, president, and the Lester Park Literary club, Mrs. Helen Stewart, president, will receive, Friday, June 3, the Kenesee club members have been invited to be at the exhibit and Saturday, June 4, the Greysolon duLhut chapter of the D. A. R., will be the special hostesses.

A large number of people have become interested in the work and have become members of the Art association to encourage the work and to make possible the annual exhibit.

A GOLD SERVICE.

A Costly Wedding Gift to St. Louis Bride.

St. Louis, Mo., May 26.—Friends of Miss Elinor Wickham of St. Louis are authority for the statement that the father of her fiance, Joseph Pulitzer, Jr., has presented her with a solid gold dinner service for a wedding gift. The service is described as being extraordinarily magnificent and very beautiful, and is said to be valued at $50,000.

The marriage of Miss Wickham and Mr. Pulitzer will take place at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Edmond F. Wickham, June 1.

KNEISEL QUARTET

Will Appear Before Matinee Musicale in November.

The Kneisel quartet, probably the most noted and longest established string quartet of America, has been engaged by the board of directors of the Matinee Musicale for the first artists' concert to be given before the club at the beginning of next year. The date for the Kneisel concert will be Nov. 21. The quartet has appeared before the local society twice before, but has not been here in several years. It has completed a year of successful concerts and there is delight among the club members at the engagement of three artists for next year.

The board of the Matinee Musicale is planning the work for the next year and the other artists to be heard will be decided upon soon.

Postpone Party.

The farewell senior party which was to have been given tomorrow evening at the high school has been postponed in courtesy to Miss Margaret Taylor of the faculty whose mother died this morning. The party will probably be given two weeks from tomorrow night.

MRS. HARRISON IS NOT A SUFFRAGIST

—Copyrighted by George Grantham Bain.

MRS. BENJAMIN HARRISON.

Mrs. Benjamin Harrison of Indianapolis, widow of the former president, sailed Monday for Europe with her 13-year-old daughter, Elizabeth. She intends to remain in Europe for one year. Mrs. Harrison does not believe in votes for women—at least she is not in the slightest degree interested in the subject. Mrs. Harrison was Mary Scott Lord and married Mr. Harrison in 1896. She was born in 1856.

MRS. J. L. WASHBURN

Will Assume Presidency at June Council Meeting.

Mrs. J. L. Washburn, who has recently returned to her home in this city after spending the winter in the South, was elected president of the women's council during her absence, and she will preside for the first time at the June meeting. Mrs. Washburn was elected over her earnest protest, as she had served the council as its executive officer, and her absence from the city during the year is frequent and prolonged, but she will retain the office until the election in the autumn.

"Although the council will probably not be working actively in summer schools during the summer, I am glad to see that the school board will take up part of the work this year as its regular work and as many schools as possible will be maintained for manual training and domestic science instruction," said Mrs. Washburn this morning. "The Women's council when it undertook the work of vacation schools did not intend to keep it up permanently, but rather to point an object lesson.

"I am glad that the council has arranged to have Mrs. Caroline Crane visit here in the autumn and that work will be an important work for the council during the fall."

Mrs. Washburn was an interested attendant at the recent general federation meeting. "It was a splendid meeting, conducted in a dignified and womanly manner, and was a delight," said Mrs. Washburn, in speaking of it.

The next meeting of the Women's council will be held the first or second Friday of June.

Y. W. C. A. Exhibition.

The year's work of the gymnasium classes of the Young Women's Christian association was formally closed last evening with the gymnasium exhibition which was given at the gymnasium at the Y. M. C. A. building, before a large audience of the friends of the girls and young women who took part. The winding of the May pole and a wand drill during the evening, an American school dance, a Swedish and an Italian folk dance were graceful and pretty, and were executed with much charm by the classes. Indian club swinging, apparatus work and games, "dodge ball" and dispatch bearer, played with agility and eagerness, completed the program.

Several hundred people watched the exhibition, and were most enthusiastic over the work done under the instruction of Miss Smith and Miss Case.

Y. W. C. A. Party.

The young foreign women who have been studying English in the classes at the Young Women's Christian association will close the year's work with a party tomorrow evening at the association. About thirty-five of the members with the three instructors will be the guests at the affair.

Personal Mention.

Mr. and Mrs. Rene Hugo have returned from their wedding trip and are at home at 221 Sixth avenue west.

Miss Bertha Schmeid is visiting at Oconomowoc, Wis.

Mrs. Ruth Mallory of Portland, formerly of this city, is at the McKay hotel.

Mrs. James Wanless and children of 1616 East Superior street will leave this afternoon for a two months' visit in Canada.

Mrs. F. E. Kennedy of East Superior street is visiting at Minneapolis for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Comstock have gone to their summer home at Deerwood for the season.

Miss Edith Smith will leave next Tuesday for her home at Waltham, Mass., to spend the summer. Miss Case will leave the same day for Altoona.

Miss Ruth B. Patrick will leave the first of the week for Minneapolis for a short visit before going to her home in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Ferguson have gone to St. Paul, where they will make their home.

Mrs. F. Mondschine of 1130½ East Third street, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. B. Magoffin, at Deerwood.

TRY THIS DINNER

Panada Soup.

Peel and cut up one onion, add a stick of celery, half a turnip and half a carrot, and put them in a pint to a pint and a half of liquor in which meat has been boiled. Add one inch of one-half to two ounces of bread crusts and boil slowly for two hours. Pass the vegetables and crusts through a sieve, season with salt, pepper and a little sugar, return the liquor and boil again.

Ment—Tongue a la Royal.

Boil a fresh tongue underdone, then trim nicely and lard strips of the fat of salt pork. In the big saucepan have ready some butter, very hot. Lay the tongue in this with a small bit of onion, of carrot and a small piece of the rind of a lemon. Brown the tongue a little and add a pint of soup stock. Cover all up very tight and cook about an hour on the back of the range. Only take it out when ready to serve. Add two tablespoons of good sherry to the gravy, strain, and pour over the tongue.

Vegetables—Peas in Casserole.

Take fresh head lettuce from water, shake lightly, separate and place leaves, cut up, in casserole, put in fresh or canned peas and a few very small onions. Dot with butter and season with salt and pepper. Let cook in oven 40 minutes. There will be enough moisture from lettuce, onions and butter to prevent burning.

Dessert—Prune and Nut Jelly.

Cook soft some prunes and take out the stones from the sides without breaking them; add half the quantity of cooked figs or dates or nuts, and fill a mold; pour over barely enough warm lemon jelly to cover, and set on ice; serve with cream.

NURSERY HINTS

Gymnastics for the Baby.

Gymnastics for babies is the latest development of physical culture. Strength and good physique, as well as suppleness of limb and grace of body, are to be secured by early gymnastic training. This is not to be done in schools, or under the care of gymnastic instructors, for children of the tender age from 2 to 6 years old are to be the scholars.

A child has no fear and is easily encouraged to bold actions by the gentle guidance of father or mother, and so the little one may be cautiously and yet firmly trained to physical feats. These, while not vying in any way with the dexterity of the skilled acrobat, do much toward forming the appearance and the movements of a later years.

A variety of exercises should suggest themselves to parents, and these should include such as will tend to throwing the shoulders well back, erect carriage of the head and more free use of the left hand than prevails, even among adults.

For Baby's Crib.

A pretty blanket for the baby's crib can be made with a yard of white flannel and a yard of pale blue flannel. On the blue flannel embroider a design of forget-me-nots and the leaves in floss silk. The white flannel is embroidered with a spray of wild rose with the foliage. The two pieces are then neatly joined together and bound all around with wide blue ribbon. If liked, pink flannel may be substituted for the blue, and the flowers worked in white silk.

Child's Weight and Height.

By regularly weighing and measuring children, serious illness may often be averted, because an arrested increase in weight, or still more, the sudden loss of it, often precedes other symptoms of disease. If the loss is detected in time, and the health of the child properly attended to, the coming illness may be nipped in the bud. This is especially true of consumption.

THE DOCTOR

Cuts and Court Plaster.

Many people make the mistake of using court plaster over a cut. The plaster closes the wound prematurely, preventing the natural cleansing of the wound and the egress of any particles of dirt which may have entered. It also keeps the edge moist, encouraging the pus formation.

In the treatment of a cut do not be in too much of a hurry to stop the bleeding. Unless an artery is severed, which becomes evident by the forcible spurting of the blood, there is no need of haste. Each movement of the free bleeding aids in rendering the wound antiseptic, as the blood coming from within cleanses the wound better than any other application.

After free bleeding has been allowed for a few minutes let a stream of hot water, which has previously been boiled, run over the wound. This will cleanse the edges and check the bleeding.

Enlarged Pores and Oily Skin.

Many people complain of enlarged pores. The trouble may be due to a sluggish circulation and the blood not properly carrying off the waste matter of the body. An oily condition of the complexion may be due partly to the same reason and partly to the wrong diet. Leave off eating greasy foods, rich pastries, anything that is fried in grease, etc. Practice some good physical culture exercise and deep breathing every day. If you can arrange it join a gymnasium and take a course in physical culture. Also drink more water between meals. If the complexion is oily do not use cold creams, and with enlarged pores face powder will only clog them.

Controlling a Cough.

Constant coughing is precisely like scratching a wound on the outside of the body. So long as it is done the wound will not heal. Let a person when tempted to cough draw a long breath and hold it until it warms and soothes every air cell, and some benefit will soon be received from this process. The nitrogen acts as an anodyne to the mucous membrane, allaying the desire to cough, and giving the throat and lungs a chance to heal, at the same time a suitable medicine will aid nature in her effort to recuperate.

About Headache Powders.

Women have very little idea what danger there is in forming a habit of continually taking headache powders. They may be quite efficient at the time, but to make a continued practice of them whenever the headache appears is courting danger.

THE EVENING STORY

UNDER THE SOCIAL VENEER

By Harriet Clay.

They were sitting alone, Horace Prescott and Madeline Harvey. He was a typical college-bred young man, and she was of the class of pretty and clever young women found among the scions of families that have risen from moderate circumstances to affluence. In the music room adjoining some person was playing a piano.

"That tune sounds familiar. What is it?" the young man asked.

"What, don't you know? It's the 'Old Folks at Home!' Edith loves to play those old-fashioned melodies."

"Of course, I remember it now," he said, "but I am poor at remembering names."

"Clearly, then, the sentiment of the old air doesn't affect you. By the way, haven't you any old folks at home, Mr. Prescott?"

Already he was regretting the innocent remark that had but one aim—to pave the way to the proposal he contemplated.

"Oh, yes," he said. "Father is living up in New England, and I have a brother in California, but never hear from him."

"But surely you hear from your father?"

"Yes; sometimes, Miss Harvey. But the governor is not much of a hand—I mean, he hates letter-writing. You see, he has lived in the country ever since he retired from business and hasn't much to write about nowadays."

"Ah, but I'm sure he must be a most interesting person. Do tell me about him."

But that was farthest from Horace Prescott's wish. From his present social standpoint he regarded his father as impossible. Years ago the elder Prescott had made a fortune as a grocer. He had begun with one small shop, and soon he had branch establishments in all directions. At the age of 58 he had sold his business for a large sum to a corporation and retired to live on his fortune. But he remained the half educated, rough and ready country bred man he was when he first went into business.

To Horace all this, of course, was deplorable. On the profits of the grocery he had been sent to Harvard, educated for the bar, and was now able to live very comfortably without due anxiety about practice, but to the laddering by which he had climbed he never alluded. Sometimes, indeed, he would close his eyes and imagine that he had been spirited to these heights.

Fortunately, before he had begun to formulate a plan to direct Miss Harvey's mind from the unpleasant topic Mrs. Harvey entered the room. She passed a few words with the young pair, but her mother's eye took in what was to her a satisfactory situation, and soon she excused herself.

And before the evening ended Horace had made his proposal and had been accepted, and Mrs. Harvey had given her consent.

A few mornings later Mrs. Harvey pushed a letter across the breakfast table to Madeline with an air of disgust.

"I think your father is behaving in a perfectly preposterous fashion."

"Mother, he hasn't forbidden—"

"No; but he says he wants to see and approve Horace. He has sent an express invitation for us all to go home and bring Horace with us. It's very annoying."

Mrs. Harvey's feelings were ruffled—naturally. In the first place, their three months' visit to New York—prolific as it had been of the most splendid fruits—was to be rudely interrupted. In the second, her husband, Howard, had broken out into most surprising insurrection, and was not acting as he had been told to.

She had written home of Madeline's affair. Horace—In her vivid sense of intimacy she called him nothing but "Horace" throughout the letter—was an incarnation of all the virtues; in his sacred keeping Madeline would be safe for the rest of her days. As a mere matter of form, would Howard please write by return his consent to the engagement, that all the customary preliminaries might be in order?

And Howard—preposterous man!—had written, demanding to see Horace first. It was abominable. Not only was Howard, intentionally or not, casting doubt upon her own judgment, but it was most demeaning to Horace. Howard could not have behaved worse if he had been engaging a common gardener.

"It's the most aggravating thing that could possibly have happened, Madeline, but we must go."

"And bring father and Horace together now?"

"It is unavoidable. You know what an utterly unreasonable man your father is when he has once made up his mind."

The eventful day arrived when Mrs. Harvey and her daughter, with Horace Prescott as their guest, were speeding on a train toward the New England city where Mr. Harvey had his home and his business headquarters. He was worried, for it was where his father had established his first grocery. Madeline interrupted his evident uneasiness to his doubt of how her father would receive him.

"He's one of the best-hearted men I know. But his manner—surface manner, of course—is a little difficult. There, I'm sure you understand, dear," and she pressed his hand.

Horace smiled to himself. Madeline had thought it necessary to apologize for her father's "surface manner." It would be something more than the absence of polish that he would have to ask her to condone in his.

The train glided into the station. A motor car efficiently screened the greater part of Horace's head and face. The ride in the automobile fortunately also gave him the excuse of turning up his overcoat collar. Sharp eyes would be necessary to recognize in this young aristocrat the son of old Prescott of grocery fame.

Their way led, as Horace was afraid it would, past his father's first shop. He felt that he must look, and ventured a brief side glance. The place was very ornate now, as were all the shops blazoned with "Amalgamated Stores, Limited."

A turn to the left luckily saved him the further ordeal of passing his father's present residence. A mile farther Mrs. Harvey bent forward with a confidential air.

"We shall soon be there now. Mind, Horace mustn't expect anything very great. We're just humble people, you know."

Really, if they only knew what little need there was for giving him these little assurances!"

The trap drew up at a fairly substantial house with a large garden.

"This is it," said Mrs. Harvey treasurously.

Someone who had apparently overheard the sound of the motor car came running round from the back garden. He wore neither coat, waistcoat, nor hat, and Horace supposed from his common appearance that he was the gardener.

"Oh, Howard!" shrieked Mrs. Harvey, waving the apparition back.

"Father!" Madeline screamed.

But Howard Harvey heeded not. He clasped his wife and daughter in an affectionate embrace, and then held out his hand to Horace.

"So you're Madeline's young man, eh! Glad to meet you. Mother, you old goose, you never wrote me the young man's full name."

"Horace Prescott, father."

"What? Prescott. Not the son of old Prescott, the grocer. Well, I'll be blowed. You're the likeness of your father, Horace. Your dad's one of the finest men I ever knew, and he did me the best service of his life when he sold me all his shops and let me found the Amalgamated Stores, Ltd. And to think that his son and my daughter are going to hitch up. Well, I'll be blowed!"

VIRTUES OF THE EXCEPTIONAL HUSBAND

By KATHERINE FORREST HAMILL.

First on the list of virtues of the exceptional husband is the one giving the wife an independent income.

The rock upon which the majority of matrimonial barks are unquestionably dashed to pieces, is the one of the pocket book.

When a man stands beside a woman at the altar he repeats after the priest the words, "With all my worldly goods I thee endow," but when it comes to the matter of handing out, he backs water, and she to whom the avowal was made suffers the humiliation of having to go down upon her knees for every 5 or 10 cents she may require to meet her needs.

And the man who proves himself true blue, sticking to his bargain and apportioning regularly a generous percentage of his weekly or monthly income for her exclusive use about the disposal of which he asks no questions, thereby conceding to her that dignity which is her due, of a verity mappeth out a course that shall lead him through the safe inside water of domesticity and help him to avoid the dangerous undertow by which so many of his less far-seeing brother benedicts are swept out to the open sea of destruction.

And second on the list of virtues of the exceptional husband is—the one of making allowance.

Every house wife, whether she finds herself called upon to be her own handmaiden or blessed with the regulation corps of servants knows there are days on which even the sun itself assumes an indigo hue, nothing goes right, no matter how indefatigably she labors in her efforts to have it prove so, and the fault can in nowise be laid to her door.

She is as innocent of blame as the babe unborn.

In the words of the superstitious, fate is against her, and any charm she may exert proves equally powerless to exercise the spell, and the man who can walk through the midst of such a condition of things apparently oblivious to the fact of their being anything amiss, making allowance for whatever may be out of the ordinary, on the plea that everything pertaining to the human is liable at times to go awry.

Eating the steak charred from too hot a fire or underdone from too cold a one, with the same (to all appearances) relish he would a repast served in the most irreproachable of manners from the rarest of cuisines, wins the undying gratitude of the partner of his joys and sorrows and lays up for himself future joys upon earth which moth and rust shall not corrupt, nor thieves break through and steal.

And third on the list of virtues of the exceptional husband is—the one of giving the soft answer that turneth away wrath.

"If I'd known how horrid you could be," sobs the offended feminine representative of the marriage contract, to her equally irate spouse, "I never would have married you."

"I wish to gracious you hadn't," flashes back nine times out of the ten that ungallant worthy.

But the particular he who restrains the impulse to reply in kind, smoothing instead the ruffled plumage of miladi back into place through the medium of the soft answer that turneth away wrath—proveth himself possessed of a soundness of judgment beyond that of Soloman.

For he giveth evidence thereby that he understandeth how to manage a woman, while that wisest of all men, on every other subject under the sun, threw up his hands, it must be remembered, when it came to solving the problem of the eternal feminine.

WHEN THE TRUTH SOAKS IN

By CARA REESE.

The propaganda ought to be strong enough on the legs by this time to carry itself forward; the period of instruction is frequently productive of better results when short, sharp and decisive. It is time now to expect a "living up" to talk and teachings.

You may go the same old weary round year after year teaching ignorant mothers how to take care of their infants, or talking to the sickly about preventive means, or to the filthy, giving rules concerning cleanliness. You may keep on hammering at child labor conditions, exacting crocodile tears from parents and legislative bodies, winning the hearts and smiles of a slum populace. You may keep on demonstrating the right method of securing the most nutriment from the "county supplies" doled out in the charitable depot, or exhibit great enthusiasm concerning milk and ice on the summer play diversions, or continue conking and wheedling into the cadis of reform and righteousness; but your propaganda isn't worth a rap if it cannot as yet stand on its own legs.

Instruction has been going on long enough in some lines, it is time now for the sending forth of the equipped in mothers, invalids or hygienic representatives. It is time now to quit picturing the miseries and deformities of overworked small bodies, the low vitality and high death rate of babies, the dirty and insanitary surroundings of the heedless white plague victims. It is time now in the name of civilization to knock sense into the careless or stupid ones and insist on the lessons being learned and the teachings obeyed. A propaganda is not worth a rap when it lacks power in itself or fails in perceptible results.

It is time that some of the teaching to the same ignorant people year after year should cease and an insistence made that rules and regulations be followed or the rod brought down sharply. And the propaganda of reform ought to be strong enough on the legs by this time to carry itself along. That is, the voting "pupils" should have settled ideas and lesson or two well conned, and not be crowding about for more class room information. There has been some sharp instruction and there has been effective demonstration, some of the truth should have soaked in, enough at least to afford a working basis; hence small need of rushing now seeking any and every sort of teacher.

The propaganda should be strong enough now to carry itself without a "faculty." Moreover some of you have been students of conditions long enough, and it is time to go forth as well equipped thinkers capable of deciding along right lines. The low type mother fawns on the instructor and her gifts, but keeps on "slaughtering the innocents," the greedy "efficiency" boss listens respectfully to appeals on child labor or overwork of adults, but tightens the screws; the candidate plausible but when elected there is nothing coming to you. Think for yourself and not always go to school.

IN THE BOUDOIR

By MILDRED WYCKOFF

To Whiten the Skin.

In the use of preparations for whitening the skin there cannot be too much care taken, but in reply to Laura B and Eva T. the following recipe is offered:

Pure oxine of zinc, 1 ounce; glycerine, 1 drachm; rosewater, 4 ounces; essence of rose, 15 drops. Sift the zinc, dissolve it in just enough of the rosewater to cover it, then add the glycerine and then the remainder of the rosewater. Shake well and apply with a soft sponge or an antiseptic gauze. The face must be well wiped off before the liquid dries on it or it will be streaked.

Formin for a Curling Fluid.

"Can you suggest a good preparation to assist me in curling my hair?" asks Bessie N.

An admirable curling fluid for the hair is made of a tablespoonful of bruised quince seed to a pint of hot water. The water is poured over the seeds and the whole is allowed to stand for several hours. You can add, if desirable, a few drops of violet essence, which last will give it a dainty perfume. The hair is moistened with the fluid before curling.

How to Beautify the Eyes.

Russian women, who are noted for their beautiful eyes, relieve their weariness by bandaging them loosely with a cloth moistened with witch hazel or rosewater. The woman who wants to look her best at night removes the traces of a wearying day by lying down in a dark room for a few minutes and binding her eyes with such a bandage. The eyes brighten from the treatment like flowers freshen after a fall of dew.

An Excellent Tooth Paste.

The following is the formula for an excellent tooth paste: Orris root powder, 8 ounces; oil of cloves, 2 drachms; oil of lemon, 2 drachms; oil of rose, 30 drops. Honey enough to form paste.

Exercise to Improve the Waist.

To reduce the size of the waist, try touching the floor with the finger tips, without bending the knees. The exercise should be practised for about five minutes daily.

KITCHEN LORE

Scallops and Fried Onions.

To prepare a fine dish of scallops and onions slice as many onions as desired and put over the fire in a saucepan with melted butter. When they begin to soften add scallops that have been washed, drained, wiped dry and dredged with salt, pepper and cracker dust and cook until scallops and onions are a golden brown. Have ready finger pieces of buttered toast and arrange in parallel rows on each side of a hot platter, letting one piece overlap another. Place scallops and onions between them and serve.

Dainty Almond Cake.

An inexpensive but dainty almond cake is made with 12 ounces of sugar, half a pound of sultannas and currants mixed, 3 eggs, 4 ounces of butter, 1 ounce of almonds, 2 ounces of mixed peel. First clean the fruit, chop and peel almonds, saving a few for top of cake. Mix butter and eggs and sugar with a little milk together, add flour, fruit, etc. Beat all well together, and bake well in a moderate oven about one hour and a half.

To Make Cheese Biscuits.

Excellent cheese biscuits can be made by the following directions: Rub two tablespoonfuls of butter finely into six tablespoonfuls of flour; add three tablespoonfuls of cheese, a little salt, pepper, and grated nutmeg; mix the yolk of one egg with a very little cold water. With this make the whole thing into a firm paste, which roll out thinly and cut into small fancy-shaped biscuits. Bake lightly till a nice brown shade. The biscuits keep well and may be heated in the oven.

A Skin of Beauty is a Joy Forever.

DR. T. FELIX GOURAUD'S Oriental Cream or Magical Beautifier.

Removes Tan, Pimples, Freckles, Moth Patches, Rash and Skin Diseases, and every blemish on beauty, and defies detection. It has stood the test of 50 years, and is so harmless we taste it to be sure it is properly made. Accept no counterfeit of similar name. Dr. L. A. Sayre said to a lady of the hauton (patient): "As you ladies will use them, I recommend 'GOURAUD'S CREAM' as the least harmful of all the skin preparations." For sale by all druggists and Fancy Goods Dealers in the United States, Canada and Europe.

"DO IT FOR DULUTH."

There is good fun in a winning fight. Nobody enjoys a losing fight, even though there be dogged individuals who pretend to like it and stick to it even when defeat is inevitable.

But there is good sport and enjoyment in a winning fight, and that is the kind of fight that is before the people of Duluth in making their city what it ought to be—the metropolis not only of Northern Minnesota but of the Northwest.

Therefore, everybody who is not already in that fight should enlist. There is work to do for everybody. If you do nothing else, you can boost, and thus encourage those who are busy with the tasks that fall to their hands. If you do nothing else, you can stick up for Duluth first, last and all the time. If you do nothing else, you can help build up your city by patronizing its industries. DO IT FOR DULUTH.

It isn't necessary to make arguments about the duty of patronizing home industries. Everybody can see what it means and what it will do. Your dollar spent out of town never comes back. Your dollar spent in Duluth stays here and circulates and gets back to you. Your dollar spent in another city builds up the industries of that city. Your dollar spent in Duluth builds up the industries of this city.

When you patronize the industries of another city, you help out the payrolls of that city. Your money goes toward supporting the workingmen who support the merchants, doctors, lawyers, schools, churches, clerks, bookkeepers and salesmen of that city.

When you patronize a Duluth industry, you help out the payrolls of your own city. Your money goes toward supporting the workingmen who support the merchants, doctors, lawyers, schools, churches, clerks, bookkeepers and salesmen of this city.

Suppose you were working in a glove factory, for instance, in Duluth, and you bought a pair of gloves made in Massachusetts. Your money would go beyond recall. But if you bought a pair of gloves made in your own factory, your money would go into the till and come out in your envelope at the end of the week. Your employers, with your trade, would be that much better off, that much better able to hire more workmen, to pay better wages, to provide more chances for promotion.

If you clerked in a grocery store which was patronized by the workers in that Duluth factory, your dollar spent for a pair of Massachusetts gloves would be that much taken away from the Duluth manufacturers, that much taken out of their payrolls, that much taken out of the trade of the grocer who employs you, and therefore that much taken out of his capacity to pay you more wages and promote you.

Your dollar spent in Duluth is a dollar added to the foundation of the Greater Duluth you hope for, in your own interest as well as in your city's interest.

Your dollar spent away from Duluth is a dollar taken out of the foundation of that Greater Duluth, and a dollar added to the foundation of a Greater Brockton, a Greater Des Moines, or a Greater Minneapolis.

Consistent patronage of home industries would increase the demand for Duluth-made products so greatly as to require many times the workmen now employed in Duluth. If everybody in Duluth consistently bought Duluth products whenever possible it would add more to the industrial strength of this city than two new steel plants.

Buy Duluth-made and Duluth-handled goods. Don't send your money out of town and bid good-by to it forever; keep it at home so you can get it back. DO IT FOR DULUTH.

"THE STORY OF A TARIFF."

A book of 500 pages, well bound at the expense of the government, is going through the mails in every direction free of charge. It is entitled "The Story of a Tariff."

It is being sent out under the franks of Republican congressmen by the Republican National Congressional committee. It is not only printed and bound at government expense, but it is sent through the mails at government expense.

If it were the real story of the tariff, it would be eminently worth while for the government to print it free and distribute it free. It would be hard to imagine a better use of public money than in educating the public in the ways and means of tariff making.

But its title is a lie. It is not the story of a tariff law. It is anything but that. Every item of the real history of the protective tariff, every valuable detail of the real history of the making of the present tariff law, is omitted from it, deliberately.

Therefore its publication and transmission at the people's expense is a fraud, and the book itself is an attempt at wholesale deception.

What this book contains is a voluminous plea for the new tariff law, and for the vice-regents of Special Privilege who created that law. It is an attempt to make the people of the United States believe that this is an honest law, that it is an honest response to the public demand for tariff revision, that it is an honest carrying out of the theory of protection, and that those who made it are honest servants of the people.

The volume is made up of speeches taken from the Congressional Record; that is why it is printed and mailed free of charge. It might possibly be justified if it were a complete record of all the debates on the Aldrich-Payne-Taft tariff law, but it is not. Every word of opposition, every word of criticism, is omitted. Not a detail, not a section, not a schedule is left under the burden of attack. The attempt is to create an effect of immaculacy that not even the most brazen defender of the bill dares put into words.

Though every foot of the way was fought stubbornly by the Democrats and insurgents, and though every doubtful detail was subjected to a hot fire of debate, nothing of the fight appears in this book. No word of an insurgent or Democrat is allowed to creep into it.

It is a campaign document, based upon an absurd conception that you can fool all the people all of the time. It is a fraud upon the people because they are forced against their will to pay for its publication and transmission, and it is a fraud upon the people because it purports to be a history when it is merely a one-sided exposition which is anything but a history and anything but true.

The only redeeming feature of it is that it is so long that in all probability few or none will read it.

JUDGE HOMER B. DIBELL.

By an enthusiastically unanimous vote the St. Louis County Bar association yesterday indorsed Homer B. Dibell, judge of the Eleventh judicial district court, for a place on the supreme bench of this state.

This honor came to him unsought, and those who know the man will realize that it could come to him only in that way. There are few men less likely to push themselves forward into a place-seeking scramble, and this is due not only to his high conception of the dignity of the bench but to the admirable personal qualities that mark the man.

In presenting Judge Dibell as this county's candidate for the Republican nomination for justice of the supreme court, the bar association has chosen wisely. He would add strength to the supreme court of this state. He is a penetrating student, a profound analyst of law and justice, a keen and inflexible arbiter of causes. Above all, he is gifted with a native simplicity and shrewd common sense that fit him peculiarly, in association with his other qualities, for the place St. Louis county seeks for him. If a layman may judge of such a thing, we should say that there are few judges less firmly wedded to a conception of the law as a fixed and final entity, and fewer judges still who will be found closer to the front of that body of opinion which holds that the law was made for man, not man for the law, and which recognizes the need that the law, without taking on disorder, shall submit to its part in the evolution that is going on in the affairs of men, and not regard itself as a fixed and inexorable institution which alone is exempt from the law of progress.

Judge Dibell, if elected to the supreme court, would add strength to the bench and bring credit to his state and to the city and county which now offer his services to the state.

RAILROAD RAPACITY.

In a speech in the senate yesterday in which he pointed out that all the railroad legislation to date fails to do anything for the consumer, Senator La Follette said: "Railroad rates are not only unreasonable, but extortionate."

Now Senator La Follette is commonly called a demagogue, especially by those who are favored directly or indirectly by special privilege, and who worship the God of Things as They Are and adhere to the doctrine of "Let it alone." Judging from current use of the term, a demagogue is a man who speaks for the people; and if ever there was a time when demagogues were needed, that time is now.

But whether or not La Follette is a demagogue, and whether the word is a term of reproach or of high compliment, he spoke the truth in the sentence quoted above.

To believe that he did not speak the truth is to believe that the railroad managers of this country have not had sense enough to take advantage of their opportunities.

The railroads have been allowed to swell their capital to any proportion they pleased, and as railroads have largely been mere pawns in the Wall street game, they have pleased to swell their capitalization to proportions very large indeed. They have been allowed to make rates that would pay, upon this swollen capital, any dividends they pleased; and as large dividends help the Wall street game and fill the pockets of stockholders, they have not been modest in their demands.

There has been no check whatever upon the greed of those who fix railroad rates. Of late the nation has insisted on equality of rates between shippers, but that was only after the practice of rebating had built up mighty trusts which also are busily taxing the people what they please, protected from foreign competition by criminal tariff schedules.

The railroads have had control of the legislative and executive machinery of most states; they have had control of the organization that controls the people's congress. They have had the situation all their own way, and to a very great extent they have it all their own way at this very minute. From nowhere, except from the tongues of men called demagogues, comes a word in behalf of the consumers.

Railroad men are human, and profit is their aim. Having unchecked opportunity to fix rates as they please, is it astonishing if they have made rates "not only unreasonable but extortionate"? Wouldn't it, rather, be astonishing if they had not?

DEMOCRATIC TARIFF-MAKING.

Owatonna Journal-Chronicle: Did the Democratic party ever pass a tariff measure that was a success in any particular?

Oh, yes; many of them, before the Republican party debased the appetite of powerful interests with too liberal doses of Protection Peruna.

WARWICK ROOSEVELT.

The London Telegraph this morning said that Roosevelt is the most powerful statesman in the English-speaking world, and that "he could, if he pleased, become the Warwick of American politics."

Roosevelt as a Warwick is nothing new. He warwicked Taft into his present most uncomfortable situation, thereby making it clear that warwicking is the poorest thing Roosevelt does.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

"JEAN DULHUT" AND "DANIEL GREYSOLON."

To the Editor of The Herald:

Answering your inquiry concerning the name of our Duluth; I am of the opinion that the proper way to spell or pronounce a proper name is the way the owner or wearer of it pronounces or spells it; he ought to know more about it and has more interest in it than anybody else.

The Frenchman who first visited the section of Minnesota now known as Duluth and Fond du Lac, the man who was in the mind of those who selected the name Duluth for our city, was born in St. Germaine-en-Laye, France, on the left bank of the river Seine, a resort of the French court for a portion of the year until the time of Louis the Fourteenth. His father was one of the noblesse, or as we would call it, one of the gentry, and the family must have been such for at least 200 years or the son, Daniel de Greysolon, Sieur Dulhut, our Dulhut, could not have been a Gendarme de la Garde du Roy, the the king's body guard, as one of the qualifications for admission was, "deux cents and de noblesse."

He had Italian blood in his veins, in my opinion through his mother who according to the best accounts, was a member of the wealthy Patron family, represented in this country by an uncle of Daniel Dulhut, Jacques Patron, who furnished money for the enterprises in which Dulhut was engaged from time to time. It is not known whether or not the family was a large one, but mention is only made of a younger brother to Daniel, Claude Greysolon de la Tourette, who accompanied Daniel on more than one expedition and became a noted man, and a sister who married Louis Tayeon, Sieur de Lussigny, who was an officer in Count Frontenac's guard. This sister's name may have been Jeanne. I have not been able to discover anything for or against that, but I am prepared to say that if applied to any of the male members of the Dulhut family I have never been able to find any evidence which would warrant the use of Jean in connection therewith.

The name Jean Dulhut was suggested by the late Judge Stearns as a name for a corporation which afterwards developed into the Jean Duluth farm, of which we are all so deservedly proud and there has not been in St. Louis county a more profound student than Judge Stearns, so that we may assume that he had some reason for giving that as a name from the best information obtainable at that time, inquiry from Victor Stearns throws no light on his father's source of information, but the name Jean Duluth cannot properly be applied today to any of the male members of our Dulhut family.

The Tontis were cousins of our Dulhut; Alphonse and the more celebrated Henri de Tonti, who were sons of the Italian banker, who, in France, developed what is now known as the Tontine system of insurance. Henri de Tonti was known amongst the Indians as "The Iron Hand," because after having one of his hands blown off by a premature explosion he had an iron one fitted, always covered with a glove, which he used to apply, occasionally, to the bare skulls of his Indian friends.

Dulhut's father spelled his name Sieur du l'Hut, but where the younger man has written his name; on the bronze tablet set in the walls of the house on the southern side of Notre Dame street, at the corner of St. Sulpice, where our Dulhut lived, in the cotemporary account of Le Baron de Lahontan et Hesteche, the spelling is Dulhut. Yours. T. W. HUGO.

WHY WORKINGMEN ARE CALLED TRAMPS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In the Duluth News Tribune of May 23, 1910, appeared an article with a heading in big letters, thus: "Alms Seekers Line Sixth Avenue West," and among other things it said: "All the tramps who come to town make the viaduct their rendezvous. Every day of the week Sixth avenue is lined on both sides with the most undesirable people."

When a man reads such stuff in one of our leading papers it gives a person a cold shiver. To come out and class every man on the viaduct as tramps and undesirables seems to me to be sounding very much like Russian tactics.

The writer of these lines has been down on the viaduct on Sundays and sometimes on week days, but I have always seen workingmen there—men that do useful work for society at large. The most of them are working on the docks, loading and unloading boats down there in the harbor, and these men are making this city their home. They are making their money here and they are spending their money here. I will admit that there are some that you may call "undesirables" among them, but what of it? Who has made them such? Don't you think that the system of today has something to do with it? You call these men drunks and thugs and all such names, but you come with me out to the lumber wods and railroad camps and there see how these men are treated. I have seen camps in the woods where 125 men have to eat and sleep where there was not comfortable room for more than forty men, and the eatables in such a place your pig would not eat.

The same things exist out on the railroads. In the extra gangs I have seen as many as eighty men placed into one car, where there was not room for more than thirty. You will have to stay in your bunk when you dress and undress yourself, and then you have a boss standing over you all day telling you to hurry, and he is stealing time from you at the noon hour and the same at night. And when you can't stand it any longer you go to town and when you arrive there, what do you find? A filthy, crowded lodging house, where there is not even a lobby or a sitting room where you can sit down, except in your room, looking at the bare walls like a prisoner. And then when you go out on the streets and down on the viaduct you will be classed as a tramp and an undesirable. And a blue-coated officer appears and tells you to move on.

The saloon stands open as the only place for you, and when you go in there you are degraded—you are then a drunkard and an outcast!

Who is to blame—you or society, or the system that will allow such barbarous traffic to exist?

TOM MYHRE.

Duluth, May 25.

O, Would I Were a Boy Again.

O would I were a boy again,
When life seemed formed of sunny years,
And all the heart then knew of pain
Was kept away in transient tears,
Was kept away in transient tears,
When every tale hope whispered then,
My fancy deemed was only truth.
O would that I could know again
The happy visions of my youth.
O would I were a boy again,
When life seemed formed of sunny years,
When life seemed formed of sunny years.

'Tis vain to mourn that years have flown
How false these fairy visions were,
Or murmur that mine eyes have known
The burden of a fleeting tear,
The burden of a fleeting tear,
But still the heart will fondly cling
To hopes no longer prized as truth,
And mem'ry still delights to bring
The happy visions of my youth,
O would I were a boy again,
When life seemed formed of sunny years,
When life seemed formed of sunny years.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Thoughts and Hairpins.

St. Cloud Times: There seems to be a concerted movement among the hidebound, Aldrich-Cannon, "regular" Republican editors of the state to force Hon. Alvah Eastman out of the g. o. p. or else compel him to swallow his honest convictions and get back into the ranks of the opinionless—Ed. Smith-Dar Reese editorial crowd, who get their "views" prepaid from the state capital. Brother Alvah is "not that kind of a hair pin," in fact he has no use for hairpins—not any more than has Bob Dunn. They are as "two souls with but a single thought," when it comes to hairpins—political or otherwise. They have no use for them, and look upon them—hairpins and spineless pencil pushers—with profound contempt. In fact, Bob intimates that they are a lot of "d——d gabbling geese!"

Inconsistence.

Cass Lake Times: President Taft's insistence in demanding a tariff commission with a view to a revision "if necessary"—is to put it mildly—a slam at his insistence that the present tariff bill is the best ever passed.

An Expensive Fad.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: Don't get the walking fad. It's too expensive; it's worse than riding in street cars. Walking will make you hungry, you'll eat more, and thus add to the high cost of living.

More Inconsistency.

Albert Lea Standard: Senator Clapp is performing well as an insurgent and well knows every hypocrite and stool pidgeon of the interests, yet favors the re-election of Jim Tawney. Where, will somebody explain, is Senator Clapp really at?

Law Caused Forest Fires.

Floodwood Broadax: And now, the lumbermen claim the fires that have been raging in Northern Minnesota were due to the brush burning law. Surest thing. Never heard of a forest fire until that law went into effect.

Like the Comet's Tail.

Virginia Enterprise: The Gilbert Herald avers, in speaking of the apparent love of the range press for Congressman Miller, that "when the time arrives all the boys will line up for Miller and deliver the goods." Perhaps so, "when the time arrives." But like the tail to Halley's comet that time will forget to arrive.

A Great Enterprise.

Princeton Union: The Catholic Colonization society is doing much toward settling up Minnesota lands, and the immigrants which it is bringing here are of a very desirable class—people who are fairly well to do and experienced tillers of the soil. They will make excellent citizens and will no doubt become Americanized in short order. The colonization society is entitled to credit for its good work.

The Wind and the Moon.

Said the Wind to the Moon, "I'll blow you out;
You star
In the air
Like a ghost in a chair,
Always looking to find I am about—
I hate to be watched; I'll blow you out."

The wind blew hard, and out went the Moon,
So deep
Or a heap
Of cloudless sleep,
Down lay the Wind, and slumbered soon,
Muttering low, "I've done for that Moon."

He turned in his bed; she was there again!
On high,
In the sky,
With her ghost eye,
The Moon shone white and alive and plain;
Said the Wind, "I'll blow you out again."

The Wind blew hard, and the Moon grew dim;
"With my sledge,
And my wedge,
I have knocked off her edge!
If only I blow right fierce and grim
The creature will soon be dimmer than dim."

He blew and he blew, and she thinned to a thread:
"One puff
More's enough
To blow her to snuff!
One good puff more where the last was bred,
And glimmer, glum will go the thread."

He blew a great blast, and the thread was gone
In the air;
Nowhere
Was a moonbeam bare;
Far off and harmless the sky stars shone—
Sure and certain the moon was gone!

The Wind he took to his revels once more;
On down
In town,
Like a merry-mad clown,
He leaped and halloed with whistle and roar;
"What's that?" The glimmering thread once more.

He flew in a rage—he danced and blew;
But in vain
Was the pain
Of his bursting brain;
For still broader the moon-scrap grew,
The broader he swelled his big cheeks and blew.

Slowly she grew—till she filled the night,
And shone
On her throne
In the sky alone,
A matchless, wonderful silvery light,
Radiant and lovely, the queen of night.

Said the Wind: "What a marvel of power am I!
With my breath,
Good faith,
I blew her to death—
First blew her away right out of the sky—
Then blew her in—what strength have I?"

But the Moon she knew nothing about the affair;
For high
In the sky,
With her one white eye,
Motionless, miles above the air,
She had never heard the great Wind blare.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1890.

There is every prospect that another large sawmill will be built in Duluth. The agent of the East Saginaw firm of Sibley & Bearinger is here awaiting the arrival of Mr. Bearinger. About seven years ago the company arranged to put up a mill here, but the scheme fell through. The firm owns several hundred million feet of pine on Cranberry river, besides having other lands in Northern Minnesota. Last year the company stated it would build a mill to saw the timber and it considered Duluth the only suitable location for such mill.

It is said that a combination has been effected among mine and iron land owners, outside those connected with the Minnesota Iron company, to develop the properties. James H. James has been active in forming the organization, which proposes to build a new railroad between Duluth and the mines and construct ore docks here.

John Gilman of Worcester, Mass., has asked Secretary Thompson of the chamber of commerce to furnish a car with Duluth manufactured products, which will be exhibited in this country and Europe. A favorable report will probably be made by Committeemen Moore, Geggie and Shannon. Messrs. Munger, Thompson and Johnson have been appointed to arrange a program of entertainment for members of the National Teachers' association who will visit Duluth while the convention is meeting at St. Paul in July.

Messrs. Matchette and Heitland of Superior have resigned from the Regatta association. Dr. Conner, one of the best known and popular residents of West Superior and a man who takes great interest in the coming event, has accepted Mr. Heitland's place on the executive committee.

Mrs. E. S. Hammond has gone on a trip to Chicago.

Mrs. Church and Miss Orton, mother and cousin of B. C. Church, have arrived from Sterling Ill.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Boston Transcript: Kate—So your new hat struck Maud speechless with admiration?

Ethel—Absolutely! Why I thought she'd never get through raving over it.

Judge: "Judging from the way you play whist I would say you are a Democrat."

"Why so?"

"Because you always do the wrong thing at the right time for your opponents."

St. Louis Star: Nurse (running in excitedly)—Madam, the baby has just fallen out of the nursery window.

Stylish Mother—Horrors, and the new cement walk hasn't time to dry out yet either!

Washington Star: "So your are writing stories," said the friend.

"Not exactly," answered the cynical literateur; "I am merely furnishing a certain amount of text to keep the illustrations from running into one another."

Kansas City Times: City Editor—You say in this murder story that one bullet bored through the stomach and lodged in the bedstead.

Reporter—Yes, sir.

Editor—Well, rewrite the story and play up the board and lodging feature.

Meggendorfer Blaetter: Mother—Come, William, quick, Mina has tried to kill herself by inhaling gas!

Father—Good heavens! Think what the gas bill will be this month!

Kansas City Journal: "What do you think of this endowed theater?"

"I don't think anything about it. What we want is an endowed slaughter house."

Cleveland Leader: "I got a good oump last night," says the Philosopher of Folly." "A girl said she didn't love me enough to be a sister to me, but that she'd marry me if I liked!"

Pittsburg Post: "I hope the season won't open with a stretch of rain. That will mean a lot of postponed games."

"No matter. Postponed games mean double-headers later."

New York Sun: The Chinese wall was finished. "I do all my fence mending at one lick," announced the emperor. Thus he proved himself a statesman instead of a politician.

"Nothing in the Paper."

Kansas City Journal: The other day in a small Kansas town where lives quite a well-known editor who publishes a weekly paper, a number of men were visiting. The editor was in the group.

"How is your paper coming on?" asked one of them.

"Getting along nicely," was the reply, and with that he handed over a copy, which the group looked at and made favorable comments on.

Talk turned to newspapers in general, and one of the number, of a rather cynical turn of mind, said: "I am very fond of reading newspapers and I take several regularly. But lots of times I pick up the sheets and look 'em over, and find nothing in them. Maybe I oughtn't to say lots of times, but it is true quite frequently."

Discussion over this phase continued for a little while. The editor of the town paper was sitting back quietly and saying nothing. He reached into a drawer of his desk and pulled out a scrapbook and a box of cigars.

"I'm going to give each of you a smoke," he said. "Now torch them right away and get settled. I just want to read you something on the subject of 'Nothing in the Paper.' It was written by our old friend, Sol Miller, and it is worth while thinking about every time you throw aside a newspaper with the disdainful remark that there is nothing in it."

He opened his scrapbook and read the following, which every newspaper reader could well afford to paste into his hat: "Frequently you pick up a local paper and after glancing at it, wearily throw it aside, remarking, 'Nothing in the paper this week.' Did you ever stop to think what that phrase means? It means that in the week just passed no misfortune has befallen anyone in our community; that no fire has wiped out a neighbor's worldly goods; that the grim angel of death has crossed no threshold of a friend; that no man driven by liquor, hatred or fear has taken the life of a fellow human; that no poor devil, haunted by the past or misdeeds of some other, has crossed the great divide by his own hands. So the next time you pick up a paper that doesn't announce a tragedy, give a little thanks instead of grumbling because there is no news. Or, if you would rather, shall we dish up a choice morsel of scandal? Would your eyes grow round, and would you smack your lips with a relish if we were to write up a sensation? Well, we can do it. Shall we begin on you? Do you think 'you've got' that little secret all locked up away from everybody? Well, if you could look over the stories in the editor's little book, you would be surprised in all probability to see your name written there, and further, a story in detail which you fondly thought was all your own. Nothing in the paper? Do you long to see a procession of skeletons marching by your door? Do you court such a procession? We all have our failings and none are immune."

"I think," said one of the number, after the reading was finished, "that on next Thanksgiving day I shall just insert a little line or two of gratification because there is occasionally 'Nothing in the Paper.'"

To Her.

I've dreamed or read in some forgotten book
When our first parents, sin-bedraggled went
From their lov'd Eden out in banishment,
That, pitying Heaven granting it, they took
As a memento of that blessed spot
One choice of all its growth; and 'twas the rose
Which they of all that prodigal beauty chose.
And so would I, O Fair One, if forbidden not
That boon vouchsafed to Adam and his mate
To bear with me into life's wilderness
Some sweet remembrancer of my lost bliss
(Since frowning fate hath closed 'gainst me the gate
To thy chaste presence) beg no more or less,
But choose a rose and pluck it with a kiss.

—Homer Sigler in Appleton Press.

Giving the Snap Away.

Collier's: An unkind public takes it for granted that all "stage names" are affectation. Often these names are no more affectation than the paint that saves the player's face from looking like a death-mask before the glare of spotlights and hundreds of incandescent bulbs. Maude Adams is a better name for an actress than Maude Kiskadden; as Modjeska is better than Modrezejewska. The stage name should be easy to say, yet not unimpressive. Camille Dyhstra is profitably change to Camille D'Arville; and Edwin Smith is remembered better as Edwin Arden. Often the professional name is a simplification—as when Elsie Janis Bierbower is shortened to Elsie Janis, Charlotte Crabtree to Lotta, Charles Etrutia De Bucharde to Truly Shattuck. Once in a while a careless printer fixes the title, as is reported in the case of Ada Crehan, who was advertised as Ada Rehan, and of May Robson, who became May Robson. As an overstrong flavor of race or nationality in a name often proves a handicap, Larry Brannigan could not be censured for preferring Lawrence Barrett, or Delia Edna O'Callahan for assuming Trixie Friganza. A romantic interest might drop away from Pauline Hall if she used her real name of Pauline Fredericka Schmitgall. In a play with the atmosphere of "The Servant in the House," it is easy to see why Walter Hampden is a better man for the leading role than W. H. Dougherty. For comedy of the slap-stick sort Rogers Brothers surely sounds more successful than Gus and Max Solomon. Any name that suggests home folks, lilacs, and kitchen gardens, and the old oaken bucket, is usually deleted from theatrical poster and program. Lizzie Anna Browne must become Adelaide Neilson, John Henry Brodribb be renamed Henry Irving, Sarah Frost become Julia Marlowe, Susan Hegeman be Beatrice Cameron. Even the dancing clowns of musical comedy reject old-fashioned names—Archibald Hawkins and Henry Clay Baxter are Montgomery and Stone.

A Duluth Victory.

Western Architect: The Duluth evening Herald is congratulating that city upon what it terms a "Duluth Victory." Anticipating the passage of the postal savings bill through the house, since it has already passed the senate—where the greatest banking opposition has been offered it—that journal tells something of the history of this legislation and of how the subject has been kept before the public, agitated, and finally brought to consummation very largely through the efforts of a former Duluthian, Architect Fitzpatrick, of Washington, D. C. If Duluth and the Herald are proud of that gentleman's persistance and public spirit, certainly are we too. We know something of the discouragements and opposition that stood in his way in that splendid undertaking Postal savings is one of the best legislative acts that this or any other congress can pass. It will do more for our people than any other currency reform measure and bring them closer to the government than can any other legislation. Mr. Fitzpatrick has done wonders in originating and keeping everlastingly at many other reforms and improvements, fire-prevention, the city beautiful scheme, educational reforms, he has brought many to a head, but this last accomplishment seems the more notable because in the others he has had to overcome prejudice and apathy, while in this case there was not only all that but also the entire banking influence, the power of millions, solidly arrayed against him. Duluth and Washington, the architectural profession, should be proud of him.

Get on the Toboggan.

Joe Cannon is on the toboggan
And swiftly he makes his descent,
And loud is the cheer as he lands on his ear
Still wondering if it is meant;
The sound of insurgents insurging
Is heard through the land far and wide,
And "regulars" all hear the populace call,
"Get on the toboggan and SLIDE!"

Nelse Aldrich is worried an doubtful,
And frightened is Senator Hale,
While Crane and Depew are decidely blue,
And Tawney is fretful and pale;
They like not a journey so sudden,
They know it's a rough way to ride,
And they say "We're not well," when they hear the loud yell:
"Get on the toboggan—and SLIDE!"

Rich Privilege, pursy and swollen,
In Justice and Legalized Wrong,
They see things at night in their pitiful fright,
These powers that used to be strong;
They hear the loud rumble of thunder,
The voices that won't be denied,
For it's hard to stand pat when you hear things like that—
"Get on the toboggan—and SLIDE!"

The track is a swift and a steep one,
Oblivion's gulf is below,
And once on the way there is no place to stay—
You hardly hit once while you go.
So pile 'em all on in a hurry,
Let plenty of force be applied
With a jolt and a shove and a loud holler of
"Get on the toboggan—and SLIDE!"

Illustration.

Puck: "He bent forward over the table." Such was the line which the artist chose to illustrate with his deft pencil, and a passage more poignantly fraught with meaning were not easily to be found.

For if the man in the story had bent backward over the table his beautiful vis-a-vis would scarcely have known what to think, and the course of true love might have been entirely different.

THE MODERN JERUSALEM

Third Letter From Rev. M. S. Rice in the Holy Land.

A Drink From Lake Superior Is His Chief Desire.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Oh, for a drink of Lake Superior water! Put that in capitals. You can't make it too big. I am thirsty! I have been trying to exist on bottled water till a bottle makes me sick, and one sight of these dirty water-skins the water carriers lug about the street makes me worse than sick. When I get back where I can turn on the city water and see it run, and feel it get cold, and drink it from a big tin dipper, I think I shall make that my steady employment until in the great blessing of our home city I can drown the memory of this miserable waterless country down here.

And I am hungry, too. Oh, for a large chunk of beef! Trust or no trust, boycott or no boycott, when I get home I shall indulge in a large selection of good American corn-fed steer. Of course it is expensive; but I certainly would pay the price today if I could get to it. Please let my friends take notice, when you have me at your table, henceforth forever don't ask me to have some mutton. Oh, mutton! But I must not start a letter upon what I don't like about things here. I would never get to the story of the things that do make the endurance of unsavory things cheerfully and continuously met, year after year, by the men and the women who are interested in the great thoughts that are interesting the whole world.

The Modern Palestine.

Palestine is today, however, almost entirely covered with thick layers of Arabs and Moslems and numerous others who must be dug through before you can get to the real points of interest here. The Jews don't make much of a showing in Jerusalem. Outside the city walls some wealthy Hebrews from afar have provided some very nice quarters for poor Jews, and inside the walls a very miserable quarter of the city is occupied by most wretched remnants of the old tribes. The evidence of Judaism is, however, most pitiable. I went into one of their empty synagogues the other day, and it was poorly frescoed with indicative pictures of the long-ago, predominated by the pictures of trees beside streams of water, and in the branches of the trees were hung harps and almost every other indicative symbol of their people.

The Mohammedan is everywhere. His soldier marches with rifle in hand through the aisles of Christian churches, and is a compulsory attendant of a Christian who dares to want to walk amid the sacred memories of Mount Moriah and the famous site of the great temple of Solomon. We went over to see their great mosque the other day. When I had climbed to the edge of the temple area, and had to ask permission of the Turkish government, as a Christian, to walk about on a plot of ground throbbing with religious experiences in every place, and had to have, at a special price, a Mohammedan soldier accompany me, I confess to a feeling arising within me which must have been much like that the old crusaders felt, and I don't blame them much any more for their magnificent effort to regain the Holy City; and when they get ready to organize a new crusade I think I will raise a regiment and join them. But I went, anyhow. So many Old Testament incidents are associated here, and so many New Testament matters of importance cluster about, that it will be impossible in one letter to give them all any attention, and I will simply give you a few experiences of a Christian in a Mohammedan shrine.

As we entered the gate we were told that this was the gate through which Christ drove the money-changers from the temple. We entered it after having passed through an abandoned bazar. The Jews used to occupy it with the coffin bazar, but the Mohammedans rebelled at having Jews ever before their mosque doors, and drove them away. The Jews never enter the temple area. They are afraid they might step on the place of the holy of holies. The great mosque, often and falsely called the mosque of Omar, is properly named the Dome of the Rock, and occupies the central and interesting part of the whole site. It was probably built about 900 A. D. It is octagonal in form, the lower part of marble, and from the windows up, a blue and white tile. It is 174 feet in diameter inside. There is a splendid collection of monolith columns used in the inner construction, two great circles of them. My guide informed me with calm assurance that they were part of Solomon's temple. But he had to say something; he was drawing pay. They have all been taken from other temples, and are doubtless of Roman origin. The Mosaic work of the building is certainly a marvel of beauty. It was done by Byzanthe artists of the tenth and eleventh centuries. The great dome was erected by Hakim in 1020 A. D. to replace the original dome, which had fallen in several years before. The effects of this beautiful piece of architecture cannot be described. I will not weary you trying to do so. It towers above the so-called Holy Rock, a huge rock, rough and unhewn, 58 by 44 feet. This rock may have been the place of sacrifice in the great Jewish temple. Some things about it indicate this to be true, but the Moslems will not permit explorations about the place, and historical matters cannot be settled until this can be thoroughly done.

These people believe, or at least say, this rock covers an abyss wherein the waters of the flood can be heard. This is said to be the spot where Abraham made ready to sacrifice Isaac, and the Jews believe that when Jerusalem was destroyed Jeremiah hid the ark of the covenant beneath the rock, where it yet remains. When they showed me a marble door, covering a hole immediately under the round hole through the rock, I never wanted so much to do anything as I wanted to lift the door and head an exploration into the shut cavern.

Tradition a Fine Art.

These people have made tradition a fine art. They say the rock hovers between earth and heaven, that when Mohammed was about to leave it started to follow him, and the archangel stopped it. His finger prints are shown behind iron bars. When he touched the stone he made a hole in it. In the roof of the cavern under one corner of the rock they show a great hole made by Mohammed's head when he was there praying. There is a sharp point of projection stone at one place called the tongue of the rock, for it is said upon two different occasions to have spoken. Just permit one more incident of the extreme degree to which traditions run rife here and the splendid business sense that seems to accompany each of them, for I am impressed with the money scheme that lies in the fixing of certain spots as the points of great events. There was a characteristic old Arab kneeling on the floor, beside what seemed an object of great interest, and when he saw me he assumed the attitude of the famous spider that spake to the fly—and you know the tale. But I had read that fly story, and I have been practicing considerably while here under the inspiration of it. The confident Mohammedan explained to me, as he noticed my attention, that this nice little slab of jasper was a piece of the covering that had been on Solomon's grave. Mohammed had once driven nineteen golden nails into it, and when they were gone the end of the world would be. This business of the end of the world has made good occupation for many a wild brain. There now remain but three and one-half nails in the slab. The other holes in the rock are all empty. The manner in which they have been extracted, however, interested me. The devil is said to have gotten at the stone one day, and, before he was noticed, had dug them all out but three and a half, when the archangel stopped him. Had he not been caught just as he was, it would have been all over with the world long ago. I am mighty glad he was caught at it. But I am inclined to believe had the nails been pure gold some other devil would have dug them out since that day, for I looked at them carefully, and they are mere iron nails evident now, and worn smooth and bright by devoted fingers. The Mohammedan let me feel them, and I put my finger in the all the empty holes where the devil had done his work.

After it was certain my interest was up to the productive temperature, my informant said, "Now, one franc and I will make prayer for you on the slab, and you sure go heaven." I said, "That's cheap," and, encouraged, he quickly said, "Two francs and you go very far up in heaven," and he held his capacious dirty palm out for the coin, for he has gotten used to the success of his scheme. I straightened up, put my purse back in my pocket, and said, "I tell you, my friend, I am going to risk the old Methodist route." and turned to go. You should have seen and heard him. He almost had a spasm—in fact, I should judge it was an Arab spasm. He followed me all the way across the mosque, out the door, down the steps, out to the fountain that trickles from a pipe laid at David's spring at Bethlehem. There he gave up and returned to his receipt of customs, for quite a large crowd of tourists was coming, and they are always good picking.

Oh these mosques are simply full of foolish traditions. In one mosque, also on the old temple site, are two huge pillars very close together. Anyone who has climbed between them is sure of heaven. These stone pillars are polished like glass and actually worn away by the multitudes that passed between them, until one day an anxious woman, who was built a little out of proportion for such portals, got stuck between them and only after quite serious results and, I think, having to go back and not on through, the government has stopped the practice and blocked the passage between the pillars by an iron shaft.

The Tomb of Christ.

But before I close such an imperfect letter as this let me give you briefly what at least has been a relishing experience amid so much unnatural and artificial celebrations. I refer to the modest and satisfactory feeling which came to me when permitted to enter the quiet little garden, kept by a well-educated Swedish minister, wherein is situated the garden tomb, as the so-called garden tomb of Christ. Just under the brow of what doubtless was the common place of execution of the ancient city, was found this age-long covered and neglected tomb. I believe Jesus was crucified at the place of common crucifixion and this place surely is authenticated. I will not here enter into the argument for this location, but when I stepped into this clearly unfinished grave, cut in the solid stone bluff, a grave made for a rich man, evidenced by the extra room in it, and so splendidly carrying out the story as simply recorded in the Bible narrative. When I knew that but one of the places for burial in it had ever been used and that by carefullest chemical analysis no flesh had ever mortified upon it. When I sat within it to talk over the whole wonderful story of my Lord with a quiet, thoughtful man, who with me worshipped Jesus, not any place where He had been, I confess to a perfectly satisfied mind that this grave at least fulfills all the conditions of the great story.

But after all, what Jerusalem needs is not discovery of places. She suffers from that most seriously today. The world apart from contact with the things which were part of the great religious enactment has a finer sense of the religious truth of it all by far, than have these to whom the things themselves yet remaining have become so very precious, and I am profoundly glad that our Lord did not actually leave anything for men to become confused with. He has rubbed out His footprints and left not so much as a bit of written parchment, in order that men should worship Him and not the things with which He wrought.

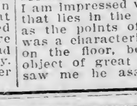
H. W. RICHARDSON, Local Forecaster.



The weather man certainly is doing the handsome thing by those who want to attend the first big annual fnueral of grandmothers today. Some people had the temerity to wear straw hats again yesterday but some people will wear straw hats in winter. Nobody can complain of weather conditions just at present and the weather man may safely walk down the street without a body guard.

Threatening weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:20, and it will set at 7:49, giving fifteen hours and twenty-nine minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the past twenty-four hours rains have fallen over Alberta, Oregon, Washington, Montana, Northern Utah Western South Dakota. North Atlantic states and scattered portions of the Lake region due to disturbances central over Northern Alberta, Texas, and the New England coast respectively. Temperatures have risen somewhat over Saskatchewan, Manitoba, and the Dakotas, but a high pressure condition off the California coast is causing a turn to cooler throughout the plateau region and extreme Northwest. The barometer is also high over Lake Superior, resulting in some frost last night over portions of Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois and Michigan."

General Forecasts.

Upper Lakes: Light to moderate northeast to north winds; fair tonight and Friday.

Chicago, May 26.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Friday:

Upper Michigan—Fair tonight and Friday; slightly warmer Friday in west portion.

Wisconsin—Fair tonight and Friday; slightly warmer tonight with light frost in lowlands.

Minnesota—Fair and slightly warmer; Friday increasing cloudiness.

Iowa—Fair in east, probably showers in west portion tonight or Friday; slightly warmer tonight.

South Dakota—Showers tonight or Friday; warmer in east portion tonight.

Montana—Fair tonight and Friday; cooler in east portion tonight.

North Dakota—Showers tonight or Friday.

LEGAL LIGHTS FROM MANY STATES GLEAM IN GOPHER CAPITAL of government of the well-authenticated principles of political science and the adoption of measures to make these effective in city, state and national government, without unnecessary delays."

Federal Court Power.

The speaker predicted that unless the power of the federal courts to annul state laws is limited, the power of democracy in this country will demand limited terms for federal judges and their selection in some manner other than by appointment. On this point Attorney General Jackson said:

"Let it be conceded, for the time being, that these same courts have taken the Kernel out of the eleventh amendment, which prohibits suits against states, and left but the shell, in sustaining suits against officers, through whom the states must act. We must still remember that the latest and most mandatory opinion of the supreme court enjoins upon courts the duty of using their power only to prevent clear and positive wrongs.

"If the courts shall not heed this warning, it would be a justified irony of fate if, revivified and orderly, the giant democracy should arise as he is now arising in Great Britain to protest against the veto of the lords, and here in America strike down life terms for federal courts and the apointment of judges by executive power.

"The interference with the operation of state courts by the federal courts is a great public wrong. It is illegal and unfounded in justice and equity as well as unconstitutional."

facts rather than fiction, this situation should be apparent to them."

Use Coal for Fertilizer.

He advocated turning coal into nitrogenous fertilizer and using it to enrich the land instead of wasting it in developing power.

The Mississippi river had its inning today at the convention. John Hunter of St. Louis told the delegates there were great possibilities in the Father of Waters.

Cleveland delegates are waging an active campaign for the 1911 convention. Frank M. Tait of Dayton, Ohio, was chairman of the power transmission session, at which Henry L. Doherty of New York delivered his address on "The Public and the Water Powers."

Dr. Charles P. Steinmetz of Schenectady, N. Y., read a paper on "High Potential Line Phenomena."

Among the speakers at the sectional meetings were: T. I. Jones of Brooklyn; C. N. Stannard of Dener; Herman Russell of Rochester, N. Y.; Douglass Burnett of Baltimore, and A. L. Holmes of New York.

ACTRESS TELLS HOW YOUTH IS PRESERVED

(From New York Theatrical News.)

One of America's leading actresses—who for thirty years has stood in the front rank of her profession, and who still plays young girls' parts in a manner to cause our fathers to say: "She doesn't look a day older now than when I first saw her,"—recently told an interviewer how she retained her beauty.

"I never use paint, powder or other cosmetc, except on the stage. I attribute my complexion today to the use of mayatone, the only thing I know that preserves a woman's complexion in its natural daintiness. I buy an original package of mayatone from my druggist and dissolve it in eight ounces of witch hazel to make a solution with which to massage my face, arms and neck daily.

"I have been on the stage more years than I care to tell, but you see my skin is not coarse nor saggy. Mayatone keeps my face free from pimples, blotches and blemishes and prevents the growth of downy hair that annoys so many women. This treatment is not harsh—indeed, it is absolutely harmless and I would advise any woman not satisfied with her complexion to try mayatone. It certainly does wonders for me."

April 30 to March 31. The receipts received by the board for the eleven months are as follows:

As compared for the full period last year:

From May 1, 1909, to March 31, 1910, [illegible] from May 1, 1908, to May 1, 1909, $1,526,859.

The losses of missionaries on the field by death and resignation, the report says, numbered twenty. The number of new missionaries sent out was fifty-three, a net gain of thirty-three, or a total enrollment of 979 missionaries.

The total membership in the churches connected with the missions, according to the report, is 101,044. The native force numbers 4,382, while the native contributions on the field amounted to $116,293.

These figures, the report adds, are not quite complete. With a full statement of receipts the total amount would probably not be far from $450,000, "a vast sum," the report says, "when the average wage in non-Christian lands is taken into consideration."

Clash on Resolution.

Rev. D. H. Sharp of Redbluff, Cal., said while discussing resolution:

"I know some excellent Presbyterian ministers and laymen who drink wine and they are as good as we are."

There was a chorus of "no" from the commissioners, followed by hissing.

"Well, anyway," Dr. Sharp said, "they would not hiss a man who has courage enough to stand in the open and give his opinion."

The Rev. J. W. McGowan of Montana, asked what was the limitation on sales of books by the bookstores conducted by the church. He concluded by saying:

"I would rather teach my boy, if I had one, to drink beer or whisky, than let him read some of the books sold."

Drowns in Little Water.

SWITCH ENGINE HITS CAR.

Ishpeming Street Car Demolished, Occupants Having Narrow Escape.

Ishpeming, Mich., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the Marquette County Gas & Electric company's large street cars was completely wrecked Tuesday on the crossing at the top of the hill on Pine street, opposite the Oliver Iron Mining company's laboratory. The car was struck by the Oliver company's No. 2 switch engine, which turned over on its side and was thrown against a telephone pole. The roof of the car was caved in and the trucks were torn off, while all of the glass in the windows and doors were shattered.

Besides the motorman and conductor there were five passengers, three women, a man and a boy, and one of the women held a 6-week-old baby in her lap. Although the car was thrown some fifteen feet from the track and overturned, all of the passengers, as well as the motorman and conductor, escaped practically unhurt.

BADGER SHERIFF IS HOST TO PRISONER.

Denver, Colo., May 26.—A pleasure trip through the mountains marked J. B. Huntley's first day in the custody of a Wisconsin sheriff, who arrived here yesterday to take Huntley back to the Badger state, where he is wanted on an assault charge.

Sheriff Johnson, the officer in question, eager to see the mountains while he had an opportunity, but puzzled to know what to do with Huntley, solved the problem by taking his prisoner along as his guest.

BURIED AT ISHPEMING.

Old Copper Country Resident Laid to Rest Thursday.

Ishpeming, Mich., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Mrs. Mary Warne, an old resident of the Copper country, who died here Tuesday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Priscilla Hawke, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. C. L. Adams officiating, interment being in the local cemetery.

The deceased was 83 years of age, and she had been a resident of the Copper country for about thirty-five years, living practically all of the time at Hurontown, Houghton and Hancock. Three years ago she moved to Ishpeming to live with her daughter. Her husband died in the Copper country about nine years ago. Besides Mrs. Hawke, two sons survive.

Governor Appoints Judge.

St. Paul, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—John F. Wrabek has been appointed municipal judge at New Prague, by Governor A. O. Eberhart. A vacancy was caused in the office by the death of Judge John Waseck. Another vacancy exists at Shakopee, as the municipal judge there moved to South Dakota, but without resigning.

A SKETCH OF JUDGE STEARNS

Drawing of Pioneer Jurist Will Hang in Bar Library.

At the meeting of the Eleventh Judicial District Bar association in the courthouse yesterday it was announced that the annual meeting of the association will be held on the first Tuesday in July.

A committee was appointed to secure possession of a sketch of Judge Stearns, one of the first jurists to preside on the bench in this district. When it is secured, the sketch, a piece of pen and ink work, will be hung in the law library in the county courthouse.

Judge Jaques, called upon for information on the subject, said that the board of governors of the state bar association, of which he is a member, will meet in St. Paul next Saturday and set the date for the meeting of the state bar association. The state meeting probably will be held after the Republican state convention has been held.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

A LINIMENT FOR EXTERNAL USE.

Cheerfulness and a bright disposition during the months before baby comes, are among the greatest blessings a mother can bestow upon the little life about to begin. Her happiness and physical comfort will largely govern the proper development of the health and nature of the child. Mother's Friend contributes much to the mother's happiness and health by the relief and mental comfort it affords. It is a liniment composed of penetrating oils and medicines which lubricate the muscles and tendons of the body, soothe the swollen mammary glands, cause a gradual expansion of the skin and tissues, and aid in the relief of nausea. The regular use of Mother's Friend greatly lessens the pain and danger when baby comes, and assures a quick and natural recovery for the mother. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. THE BRADFIELD CO., ATLANTA, GA.

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

WRITTEN FOR THE HERALD BY REV. J. S. KIRTLEY, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: MAY 29. Matt. xiv, 13-21, xv, 29-39: Multitudes Fed.

THE CONNECTION.

Here are accounts of two occasions, when Christ fed the multitudes. We shall not study the first, only the latter occasion, as the two are quite similar. The first was shortly after the murder of John the Baptist by Herod. The admirers of John were ready for revenge and the multitudes, following Jesus, were ready for a revolt against Roman rule, if only some one would lead them. They wanted Jesus to do it. He goes into retirement, but they follow. When they are hungry, He feeds them and testing their devotion, He shows them that they are following Him with hopes of material benefits—bread and fish and an earthly kingdom free from foreign tyranny and built with earthly power and splendor. They are soon disillusioned and leave Him.

Then the Master retires from Jewish territory and devotes Himself to careful training of the twelve. The curing of the Syro-Phenician woman's daughter is the great event of that tour. Now He is back in Galilee and His miracles of curing and feeding the multitudes are resumed.

THE LESSON.

I.

Curing the People. 29-31.

"And Jesus departed thence and came nigh unto the sea of Galilee; and He went up into the mountain, and sat there. And there came unto Him great multitudes, having with them the lame, blind, dumb, maimed and many others, and they cast them down at His feet; and He healed them; insomuch that the multitude wondered, when the saw the dumb speaking, the maimed whole, and the lame walking, and the blind seeing; and they glorified the God of Israel."

1. MIND CURE.—"And sat there." That pictures Him as a teacher. We must not forget that His ministry was chiefly to the souls of people, and, as a consequence, to their bodies. The disease of the soul was, and is, sin in all its protean and polluting phases. To cure the soul of sin is His business among us. To get men thinking aright about their God and their fellow men was to get them to feeling aright. That means cleansed hearts. That requires His truth and His love. So there He sat pouring the streams of rich truth, shot through with cleansing love, right into their lives.

2. BODY CURE.—And that, too. It has been so from that time till today. Some say that the healing arts practiced by physicians, surgeons and trained nurses are a complete interpretation of Christ's teachings and a full obedience to the command to "heal the sick." They are certainly doing wonders for sufferers. Others say that Jesus still wants to heal diseases directly and when His people recognize that desire of His and trust Him, the cures come. Possibly He wants to do it in both ways. But He healed them when He was in His earthly life. The people brought them with great haste, as we now hurry with our sick to skilled physicians, and as we would hastily seek Him if He were here again. Almost all kinds of infirmities are mentioned in those who were brought to Him. He wrought the cures always with a view to spiritual health as well.

II.

Feeding the People. 32-39.

"And Jesus called unto Him His disciples and said, I have compassion on the multitude, because they continue with me now three days and have nothing to eat; and I would not send them away fasting, lest haply they faint on the way. And the disciples said unto Him, Whence should we have so many loaves in a desert place as to fill so great a multitude? And Jesus said unto them, How many loaves have ye? And they said, Seven, and a few small fishes. And He commanded the multitude to sit down on the ground; and He took the seven loaves and the fishes, and He gave thanks and brake, and gave to the disciples, and the disciples to the multitudes. And they all ate and were filled; and they took up that which remained over of the broken pieces, seven baskets full. And they that did eat were four thousand men, besides women and children. And He sent away the multitudes, and entered into the boat, and came into the borders of Magadan."

1. COMPASSION—That is the way Jesus felt when He saw how hungry they were, after their three days of intense attention to Him, when the food they may have brought was all gone. He suffered with them; that is what the word means. To relieve them was to relieve Himself. It would be perilous to send them away over the hills to their distant homes. So He feeds them.

2. LAWS—As in the feeding of the 5,000 a short while before, He follows a strikingly wise course and illustrates the true laws of service. His intense interest leads Him to feed them—the law of sympathy. He makes use of the small resources they already have—the law of continuity, as Phillips Brooks has well phrased it. He commands the multitudes to sit down, in an expectant mood—the law of subjective co-operation. He has them arranged for convenience—the law of order. He preceded the multiplication of the food with the giving of thanks—the law of gratitude, rational, vital gratitude. He preceded it also with prayer, for the prayer was in the thanks—the law of the reception of the divine energy. He made use of the disciples—the law of co-operation, for He does what is possible through His people, always. He had the disciples serve the world—the law of ministry, for He bestows His blessings on us, not that we shall use them as weapons with which to rule the world, but as instruments with which to serve. When they were all supplied He bade them save the fragments—the law of economy.

3. CONFIDENCE.—We are impressed with the quiet confidence His own disciples were coming to have in His power and His wisdom. They never ask Him to perform a miracle, they only wait. It was only a few weeks before, they said about the loaves and fishes which the lad had: "what are these among so many?" Now it is the same question. They had not forgotten, they simply left it with Him Their content in leaving it with Him is a lesson for us in these times of varied interests and acutely felt needs. Perhaps that demoniac, from whom He had cast a legion of devils, gave Jesus and His disciples special welcome to fais community again and gave special assistance, in feeding the people. He presented a very striking contrast with his former appearance, a wild uncontrollable madman.

4. HUNGER.—Their hearts were hungry and there is no hunger so biting and so devitalizing. That is the hunger that is always, day and night, appealing to the glorified and sympathetic Christ. Two anomalies attract our attention and distress us—one, that people have this hunger, with all the restlessness and discontent resulting from it, and know not what it is, in fact do not try to identify and diagnose the ailment; the other, that they will not come to Jesus that they may eat and be content.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

Here the healing power streams forth from Him in a blessed volume, because though outside the strict lines of Palestine, He is in a dense population of Jews mingled with a fair proportion of Greeks. When they come to be thankful it is to the God of Israel and Israel is mentioned both by the Greeks and by the Jews, who, amid the heathen, had come to see their God dimly and confusedly. In this case the healing accomplished its purpose of bringing them to a spiritual appreciation of Him as the source of all power and the Savior of men. The miracles werenot His mission. They were only a sign of it. These people followed the sign and found the God of Israel.—James.

We are to put what little we have into His gracious hands, and when we have surrendered all, He who multiplied the five loaves and two fishes to such extent as to feed the hungry thousands in the wilderness, will so bless our scanty resources that multitudes more than we ever dreamed of shall be helped and made happy through us for time and for eternity. And oh, the surprises of eternity! When the Lord shall cause a panorama of the beneficent results of their life work to pass before His people, many of whom died lamenting that they had lived to so little purpose, and gazing upon that panorama shall exclaim in adoring words, "Lord, whence."—Henson.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1. Does popular enthusiasm, always and of necessity, have a perilous element in it?

2. What are the hungers of the human heart, which Jesus cannot satisfy?

3. How and when is it possible for us to do the impossible?

4. What are the wastes, going on among us, through not gathering up the fragments?

5. If the former demoniac helped to get up this reception for Christ, on His return, what lesson has it for us?

DRILL HOLE NOW IN ORE

Marquette & Vermilion Company May Decide to Sink Shaft Soon.

Great Activity at All Properties on the Vermilion Range.

The third diamond drill hole on the property of the Marquette & Vermilion Iron company is down sixty-three feet, and fifty-one feet of that depth is in ore.

The formation cut by Hole No. 2 and the showing made by Hole No. 3 are so favorable and satisfactory that the company is seriously considering the advisability of sinking a shaft. It is very probable that a second drill will be installed very soon, whether a shaft is started or not.

Thomas Moe, who has charge of the work on the Marquette & Vermilion Iron company's ground for Moe Bros. of Virginia, the contractors, has moved his family over to the scene of his labors on the southwest quarter of section 19, 62-14, so as to be constantly on the job. He is in high feather over the results obtained.

The foregoing is the substance of information brought down from the Vermilion Iron range by Richard J. Ryan and John L. Morrison, who are heavily interested in the operations of the Marquette & Vermilion Iron company.

"We spent two long, busy and most interesting days on the Vermilion range," said Mr. Morrison to The Herald. "We went to Ely, saw everything possible around there, and then drove over the county road from Tower to Ely by team, and taking in the more important enterprises tributary to that route. I can recommend our course to any who wish a quick, comprehensive and interesting inspection of mining and exploration work on Minnesota's pioneer range.

"At Ely we found the best hotel accommodations and excellent livery teams. When the county road is fully and properly repaired, I expect to see our plan a most popular one for inspecting the range.

At Section 30.

"We drove out to Section 30 and were deeply interested in what we were able to see during a brief visit. The railroad has been completed to the property and in a very few days the tracks will be right up to a creditable and rapidly growing dump of high grade ore.

"As has been published previously, Section 30 has sold 50,000 tons of ore for delivery this season and Messrs. St. Clair and Merritt have hopes of shipping 100,000 tons before the season closes, and 300,000 tons next year.

"The old power plant is inadequate and a new one, larger and of greater capacity, is being installed. The building rests on heavy concrete foundations and some of the machinery is in place. Other parts of the plant are on the ground and still others will arrive soon.

"Some expensive and substantial residence buildings are being erected and there is a bigger supply of mining timber on hand than at the Pioneer mines at Ely.

"We called on Capt. Brown who has charge of the work on the Lot 4, the northwest corner of section 30, 63-11, and who has been there since last February. A good wagon road is being constructed to this property and considerable test-pitting has been done. The old shaft is being unwatered and a diamond drill will explore the ground from the bottom of that. This property also is known as the "Dave Adams homestead." Substantial camp buildings have been erected. Among those interested in this enterprise by the Section Thirty Exploration company are Capt. James Bale, William J. Wallace and Kenneth McDonald. Robert B. Whiteside owns the fee.

"Of course it was most interesting to view the huge plants, stockpiles and other features of the Pioneer, Zenith, Sibley and Savoy mines but they are too well known to need description.

The Old Chandler.

"Capt. Kent, in behalf of an enterprising company, backed by Ely and Virginia men, is reopening the old Chandler mine. He is erecting a power plant of good capacity and repairing shaft No. 3. He has sunk pits, run drifts and done other work that shows up shipping ore. Some months ago, Capt. Kent expressed the opinion that at least 4,000,000 tons of excellent ore exists in it and can be raised profitable from this old mine once abandoned by the United States Steel corporation as worked out.

"West of the Chandler is the Lockhart mine, belonging to John Semer of Escanaba, Mich., who secured the fee only after heavy litigation and who, over twenty years ago, secured $25,000 from the Minnesota Iron company for an option for a lease. At that time thirty feet of ore were cut, but no effort was made to block out or mine ore.

"Work so far has been done with a windlass. It is reported that John C. McGreevy and Thomas J. Walsh are back of this exploration enterprise.

"We did not have time to visit the Anderson and Lucky Boy mines, southwest and tributary to Ely, under option by E. C. Kennedy. It was reported in Ely that forty feet of ore have been cut on the Lucky Boy, and great hopes are entertained for that property by those back of it. The Lucky Boy is in section 5, 62-12, and the Anderson property is north of it.

"A couple of weeks ago it was erroneously reported that work had ceased on the "Chicken Ranch," or Erickson property, under option to E. C. Kennedy. We saw one drill at work and were informed that a second one was in operation. Although it has been reported that ore has been struck by a drill on this land, we had neither time nor opportunity to secure direct and authoritative information. This property is in section 1, 62-13.

The Poirier Property.

"John Helmer has a drill at work in the hollow, just below the county wagon road, on the old Poirier property—section 1, 62-13. The drill men said that the hole was down 103 feet, but they shied at stating anything definitely as to results. Water for the drill is being taken from an old pit on the land of John Donovan nearby. The Poirier property now belongs to Robert B. Whiteside.

"Just before reaching Robinson lake we encountered an engineering crew busily engaged in laying out a branch of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad. We secured a very reliable tip that construction work will begin very soon. Some say that this extension will go to Burnside lake, and others maintain that it will be constructed to the Fagan and Norris lands in sections 32 and 33, 63-13, near Wolfe lake.

"One of the most interesting properties on the entire Vermilion range is the Macomber mine, on the north side of Armstrong lake. The county road runs between the shaft on one side and a dump of extremely high-grade ore on the other side.

"Many years ago a shaft about 114 feet deep was put down and an unusually rich ore body was lost. Since then the shaft has been pumped out but no serious search was made for the ore body.

"Some weeks ago, George A. St. Clair, the wizard of the Minnesota Iron ranges, secured an option on this property. He has unwatered the old shaft and re-timbered it. For many months I have not seen as finely timbered a shaft as that at the Macomber There is a substantial head frame, good camp buildings and the location is more like a place for a summer outing than for mining iron ore.

"Mr. St. Clair believes that he can find that lost ore body. As a first step, a cross-cut has been started from near the bottom of the shaft, northward, and every old timer on the Vermilion range will await the results with deep interest.

"There is a zone of Soudan formation through this property that is most massive, striking and prominent. It and accompanying rocks form a splendid example of the Archaen formation in which every producing mine on the Vermilion range has been found thus far. The ore on the old dump is worth going many miles to see.

"The next property tributary to the county road route is the Alois Ebner property, belonging to the Central Vermilion Iron company. Capt. William Besson is in charge of exploration work and he has made a creditable record thus far. Some very substantial camp buildings have been erected on a most pleasing spot. A fine team of horses has been purchased and machinery is being made for shaft sinking. The boiler is finished and the hoist will be ready soon.

Started a Shaft.

"Capt. Besson has put down a large number of test pits and has started a shaft. It had reached a depth of twenty feet when we were there. Those responsible for this enterprise are much pleased with the showing made thus far and are very sanguine as to the outcome.

"After leaving the Central Vermilion property the county road is in poor repair for about five miles. A crew is engaged on road work under the supervision of John Densmore of Ely and, in a couple of months, should finish the task.

"If I were asked for suggestions I would urge that men be sent over the bad portion of the road to fill up holes here and there in bridges and corduroy. Some places are rather dangerous but could be put in passable shape in a very few days' time at nominal cost. It would be very unsafe to try to drive over that portion of the road after dark. When the work under way is entirely completed, an automobile will be able to make quick time between Tower and Ely.

"If one of so humble a position as I in this community may be permitted to 'talk out in meetin'' I wish to express the opinion that the board of commissioners for St. Louis county should not wait one single minute to increase the appropriation for the repair of the Tower-Ely road, if the appropriation already made is not ample beyond all doubt.

Marquette & Vermilion.

"I already have mentioned the Marquette & Vermilion property. As The Herald has published in the past, the first hole on that property was lost by the drilling contractors. The second hole, drilled on an angle, cut all the different rocks that accompany a body of commercial ore and a real iron mine. My associates are very hopeful as to the outcome. Hole No. 3, now down over fifty feet in ore is being drilled vertically. From this property the works at the Minnesota mine, at Soudan, can be easily seen. The county road cuts right through the land and it can be easily reached either from Tower or Murray station.

"At Tower we found the hotels filled with people busily engaged in talking iron. Dell Hobbes of Cedar Island Lake property fame, was on deck when we arrived and, before he left town, he closed a deal for the Grierson land, lying in section 34, west of the Rice Bay property and east of Pine Island.

"The shaft at the Rice Bay mine is down over fifty feet. Albert Kitto has charge of the shaft work. Good camps and a steam power plant have been provided. The showing thus far is reported as most excellent.

"Messrs. Lewis, Cardle, Merrill and associates are installing a steam power plant on Pine Island. They expect to connect up the machinery next week. During this work shaft-sinking has been held in abeyance.

"Thomas J. Walsh and several lieutenants were found in Tower when we arrived, and in most excellent spirits. Mr. Walsh stated that affairs at the Vermilion Steel & Iron and the Extension, in sections 4 and 5, 62-14, could not be in better shape. Drill cores two feet long, composed of clean ore, are being taken from the work on the Extension. The big machinery plant is being installed. Such machinery as was not taken in before Lake Vermilion broke up has been taken in by boat.

The North American.

"At the North American mine, near Tower Junction, all is activity. The big boilers have been set and bricked in. The engine and air compressor are being installed. The tall smoke stack is up. The power plant building is being enclosed rapidly. Drilling is being prosecuted still on the property.

"The big concrete shaft is under way. This work has been made necessary by water, quicksand and soft ground. It will be a great piece of work and the first of the kind on this range. The walls will be three feet thick and reinforced each way with steel.

"Mr. Walsh is most sanguine as to the outcome on the North American. In the presence of several he said:

"'We have nothing to sell, and invite any and all to visit the property and see with their own eyes. We have some wonderful conditions there, and if I told the real facts and features, but few would believe me. There are at least six mines in St. Louis county that are worth $75,000,000, but I wish to say that the North American will make a bigger mine than any of them.'

"Mr. Walsh also stated that over 700 people have come from the outside to see the properties in which he is interested.

"On the Roy mine work is being prosecuted in a crosscut. Manager McGreevy says that the mine is looking fine and that he is getting ore just like that in the Champion mine on the Marquette range. The shaft is down 120 feet.

"Drilling is in progress on the La Chance property and the Cannon Mining company out to the Nordstrom property last week, on sections 1 and 2, 61-15. The company also has a shaft down sixty feet.

"It is stated that E. C. Kennedy has secured an option on the Victor Geranson farm, four miles south of Tower, and it is understood that a drill will be put on at once.

"T. J. Walsh also is credited with having plans for the sinking of a shaft on the property of the Minnesota Steel & Iron company, south of the Roy mine."

BROOKLYN MAN CLAIMS HE IS KING OF ENGLAND.

New York, May 26.—John R. De Guelph of Brooklyn, who claims to be a son of the late Edward VII of England, sent a message to the upper and lower houses of parliament and the people of the United Kingdom and Ireland, demanding the British crown.

After expressing sorrow at the death of the king, the writer says that he, John George Edward, Rex, of Great Britain and Ireland, "the legitimate and lawful issue of the marriage of his late majesty, King Edward VII, and the first princess of Consort, was unjustly and unlawfully deprived of his birthright as the first born son of the rightful sovereign."

He also asks of parliament that the legitimacy of any and all marriages contracted by any descendant of George III shall be duly recognized and recorded in the usual manner.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

LARGE GAIN IS EXPECTED

Substantial Increase in Population in Northern Minnesota Looked for.

Thirty Counties in Development Association Have Had Very Big Growth.

Bemidji, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—A wonderful growth of population in the thirty counties which comprise the Northern Minnesota Development association will be shown by the federal census returns, according to the belief of W. R. Mackenzie, secretary of the association.

"Judging by information received from conservative and reliable sources I expect that the thirty counties will show an increase of 50 per cent over the census of 1900," said Mr. Mackenzie.

"The population of these thirty counties in 1900 was 417,313, which was a growth from the census of 1890 of 189,540, or about 85 per cent. The expansion from 1900 to 1910, although not so large, will show an approximate increase of not less than 200,000, or over 50 per cent, which will entitle our section to more consideration from the older counties in Southern Minnesota.

"Nor has this increase been confined to any one county," continued Mr. Mackenzie. "All counties in Northern Minnesota show a healthy growth, although the increase has been more marked in St. Louis, Beltrami, Cass, Itasca and other new counties."

HEFFELFINGER MUST TELL.

Failure of North Star Shoe Concern to Be Fully Probed.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. W. Heffelfinger will be required to tell the whole story of the failure of the North Star Shoe company and the insolvency of himself and Christopher B. Heffelfinger before a hundred or more creditors who are attending the meeting in the office of O. C. Merriman, referee in bankruptcy.

Jacob Newman, the Chicago attorney, who represents the Corn Exchange National bank and the commercial firm of Hathaway, Folds & Smith, and who is also attorney for the creditors' committee, will conduct the examination.

Much discontent was expressed by minor claimants who did not file their claims through the creditors' committee, and following a sharp contest over the appointment of a trustee, the meeting adjourned until afternoon. It was the undercurrent of comment in the courtroom that a slight turn of sentiment might bring the whole matter before the grand jury.

WORMS DAMAGE CROPS.

Considerable Injury Is Already Reported Around St. Cloud.

St. Cloud, Minn., May 26.—A number of the farmers in the vicinity of St. Cloud report that quite a little damage has been done to the grain by a small gray worm, the size of an ordinary grub worm. John Ferschweiler, one of the prominent farmers of the town of Le Sauk, who was in the city yesterday, reported that he had to resow with barley about half of a ten-acre tract that had been seeded to wheat.

The worms cleaned up five acres so there was scarcely a spear of wheat left. This particular plot of ground had been in timothy and was plowed last fall after harvest. Mr. Ferschweiler thinks the worms must have been in the hay field at that time. If the worm is not the ordinary grub worm it looks very much like it, but what has made it so numerous just now is not known. It is possible that they may have thrived on the long, cool spring, at least they are found as far as reported only on the low, rich land and do not appear in dry, sandy soil.

EIGHT YEARS IN PEN.

One of Wildwood Safe Robbers Found Guilty By Jury.

Stillwater, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The jury in the case of Charles D. Hall returned a verdict Tuesday of guilty as charged in the indictment, that being grand larceny in the first degree. His attorney, Charles Butts, made no remark or motion to the court after the verdict was announced. Hall was indicted for being implicated in the Wildwood safe robbery.

A sentence of eight years at hard labor in the state prison was imposed by Judge Stolberg. This followed an examination of Hall under oath, who stated that he is 40 years old, has learned no trade, had been recently engaged in soliciting advertising. He has a wife who has three children by a former husband.

MILL CITY VETS PROTEST.

Join in Chorus of Objection to Placing Lee Statue.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Veterans of the Civil war living in Minneapolis are protesting against the placing of the statue of Gen. Robert E. Lee in the Hall of Fame in Washington. No action has been taken officially by any of the corps, but the objections come from individual members of the Grand Army of the Republic.

"I regard it as a shame and disgrace to the nation for that statue to be unveiled at the capitol," said Capt. A. A. Kelly, one of the leaders of the Grand Army movement in Minneapolis.

"Such action encourages and fosters the spirit of rebellion," he continued. "It isn't because I object so strongly to Gen. Lee as a man and a Southerner, but it is the fact of the principle involved. The government appears to place its stamp of approval upon the cause he advanced, when it admits his statue to the Hall of Fame."

Capt. Kelly stated that he did not believe any reference to the statue incident would be made in the Memorial day exercises.

MAKING MONEY ON FARM.

Girl Student at Agricultural College Figures It Out.

Fargo, N. D., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—In an essay contest on the subject of "How a Farmer's Wife Can Make $40 Per Month on the Farm," Miss Bessie Lanxon of the domestic science department of the state agricultural college, Monday night won first prize, while the second prize was received by John Gieken of the agricultural department. The prizes were $25 and $15 respectively. The conditions were these: The farm was to consist of 160 acres and to be supplied with sufficient number of cows, hogs and poultry, and the wife was to so manage these as to have $40 a month left after having supplied the household, the $40 to go towards lifting a mortgage of $480 a year.

Miss Lanxon in her paper showed how it would be possible for the housewife by properly managing the cows, hogs, poultry and garden to make $827.95 and from this deduct $325 for expenses, which left $502.95 or a surplus of $22.95 above the required $480. The details were made very plain as to how this could be done, and the outline that was presented will certainly prove of great value when it is made public property.

LARGER YARDAGE AT STANLEY, N. D.

Planned By Great Northern Because of Proposed Line to Montrose.

Stanley, N. D., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Incidental to the construction of the new branch line to Montrose, the Great Northern railroad has decided to greatly improve the yardage facilities in this city. Additional ground has been secured, the depot will be moved to a point more accessible than the present location is, while a freight depot is to be erected also. The changes contemplated also provide for the removal of the several grain elevators on the right-of-way to new locations.

Only One Train Daily.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Only one train change is provided for in a new schedule which will become effective on the Great Northern next Sunday. The one change is the establishment of a combination freight and passenger service on the Lakota to Sarles branch of the Great Northern in place of the present daily passenger service. All other trains will be operated as at present.

A LARGER ARMORY

Is Assured Jamestown Through the Public Subscriptions.

Jamestown, N. D., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Assurance has finally been given the people of Jamestown that the new armory to be constructed in this city will be much larger than originally planned. This has been made possible through a campaign for subscriptions which the members of the local militia company waged successfully, being headed in their work by Mayor Blewett. Bids for the building will be called for this summer, and work started as soon as possible.

WESTERN UNION PAYS ITS TAXES UNDER PROTEST.

Madison, Wis., May 26.—State Treasurer A. H. Dahl has received from the Western Union Telegraph company $18,000 in payment of the tax levied against that corporation by the state tax commission by its recent assessment. The draft was accompanied by a letter from the attorneys of the company, Miller, Mock & Fairchild of Milwaukee, declaring that the payment was made under protest on the ground that the tax is excessive, unjust and illegal and further declaring that recovery of the excess will be sought by the corporation by all means available for that purpose.

HELD TO CIRCUIT COURT FOR MURDERING HUSBAND.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., May 26.—The hearing of Mrs. Anna Sunderland, who is charged with the murder of her husband on the night of Saturday, May 14, in this city, was held in Judge Jenkins court Monday. The defendant was bound over to circuit court for trial without bonds. The courtroom was packed with men and women, many of those who could not get in standing in the hall and on the stairway. During the morning session, William Polzin, Jefferson avenue, who was standing near the back of the room, fainted and was carried from the room.

MOHALL, N. D., RAISES MONEY TO CONTINUE LEGAL SCRAP.

Mohall, N. D., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—That Mohall is decidedly anxious to secure the establishment of Renville county is shown by the fact that at a mass meeting $300 was raised in fifteen minutes to continue the legal battle which has already been waged for some time. Mohall has put quite a bit of cash into the fight to carry the organization of the new county through.

Boy Killed Harrowing.

Wells, Minn., May 26.—Ellsworth Babcock, the 13-year-old son of Eugene Babcock, a farmer living ten miles south of Wells, met with a fatal accident Saturday afternoon. He was harrowing with a team of horses when one of the animals got a leg over the tug. While the boy was trying to extricate the tug, the horse kicked him in the stomach with both feet. He lived only a few hours.

COMMISSION ELECTION.

First of Its Kind in Minnesota Held at Mankato.

Mankato, Minn., May 26.—Mankato elected its first commission Tuesday, which will conduct the affairs of the city on the Galveston and Des Moines plan, modified to meet local needs.

Mayor A. G. Meyer was re-elected mayor by about 250 majority over ex-Mayor Charles T. Taylor, and B. Bangerter, Jr., Lawrence Henline, Robert Lamm and J. D. Hummiston were elected commissioners by large majorities.

All five were highest at the primary election last week.

Meyer's large majority is the principal surprise of the election, as it was generally felt the vote on mayor would be very close. Some 1,700 votes were cast.

PART OF JAW GONE.

Futile Attempt of Hurley, Wis., Man to Kill Himself.

Hurley, Wis., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Instead of being a corpse today as he anticipated Balben Palmerin is in a hospital here receiving treatment from a self-inflicted rifle wound with indications of recovering and going through life horribly disfigured. He had been drinking freely of late and yesterday he attempted to fire a bullet from a rifle into his head, by touching the trigger with his toe. The weapon slipped at the critical moment and instead of the bullet going into his brain it tore off one side of his jaw and physicians say he may live.

SARLES, N. D., WOMAN LOSES HER DIVORCE CASE.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Margaret Adams failed to prove to the satisfaction of the district court of Grand Forks county that her husband, Frank Adams, had treated her in a cruel and inhuman manner, so yesterday an order was handed down denying her a divorce. The case took up several days time with a great deal of evidence being introduced. The parties come from Sarles, N. D.

LUMBER PILERS QUIT.

Bayfield, Wis., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Denied an increase of wages from $2.37½ per day to $2.50, lumber pilers to the number of thirty employed by the Washburn Lumber company, struck and the plant is shut down. The proprietor who recently granted the men an increase of 12½ cents per day, says he will not grant a further increase and that the plant will remain closed before he will grant the demand.

SKELETONS IN HANCOCK CAUSE SOME EXCITEMENT.

Hancock, Mich., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—There was considerable excitement here for a time yesterday when it became known that workmen excavating for the new city reservoir exhumed nine human skeletons. Investigation disclosed that they did not tell of a crime but simply recorded the fact that a cemetery used half a century ago was being dug over.

McHenry County Fair Dates.

Granville, N. D., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dates have been fixed for the annual McHenry county fair, October 5, 6 and 7 being selected. The time selected is a great deal later than usual, but that action was taken with the belief that much better exhibits could be secured by waiting until after the fall season's work had been completed and the crop all harvested.

Suicide at Mankato.

Mankato, Minn., May 26.—J. F. McIlbenna of Chamberlain, S. D., 50 years old, committed suicide here Tuesday by taking strychnine. He was out of work and despondent.

Killed By Pile Driver.

Wahpeton, N. D., May 26.—Joseph L. Drey of Breckenridge, Minn., was killed Tuesday evening on a pile driver west of this city. He caught his foot in the wheel of the engine on the driver and was whirled and pounded to death. He leaves a wife and family.

Elks' Lodge for Bismarck.

Bismarck, N. D., May 26.—A local lodge of Elks will be installed in this city Friday, June 3. It is expected there will be a large number here on that dato and already many cities has signified intentions of sending large delegations. One of the features of the day will be a big Elks' parade.

Shot With "Unloaded" Weapon.

Marinette, Wis., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because he did not know it was loaded Clarence Oline, aged 13, shot Richard Olson, aged 18, through the left thigh, with a 22 caliber revolver. The wounded boy is at the Menominee River hospital in a critical condition.

Arson Charge Not Sustained.

Granville, N. D., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Following a thorough investigation of the charge that had been lodged against Joe Mathias, of arson, State's Attorney Donnelly of McHenry county ordered the accused discharged from custody. Mathias was arrested following a pair of fires recently in which his former employee suffered losses.

CURE YOUR KIDNEYS

Do Not Endanger Life When a Duluth Citizen Shows You the Cure.

Why will people continue to suffer the agonies of kidney complaint, backache, urinary disorders, lameness, headaches, languor, why allow themselves to become chronic invalids, when a certain cure is offered them?

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use, because it gives to the kidneys the help they need to perform their work.

If you have any, even one, of the symptoms of kidney diseases, cure yourself now, before diabetes, dropsy or Bright's disease sets in. Read this Duluth testimony:

Thomas G. Thompson, 624 W. Second St., Duluth, Minn., says: "I was in poor health for several months and suffered a great deal from pains in the small of my back. I had often heard Doan's Kidney Pills recommended as a cure for such trouble and believing that my kidneys were disordered, I decided to try this remedy. After using one box, my health improved in every way and since then I have had no need of a kidney remedy. As I have found that Doan's Kidney Pills live up to the claims made for them I do not hesitate to give them my endorsement."

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Minot, N. D.—Charged with embezzling money from the firm, of which he was formerly a partner, E. R. Boutelle of Minneapolis, who has of late been at Tolley, is being held in the county jail pending the arrival of his partner, Mr. Baker.

Fargo, N. D.—An ordinance raising the salary of the chief of police from $1,200 to $1,800 per annum; of officers from $750 to $840 to $900 the first year and $960 thereafter; of the city engineer $1,200 to $2,400 was passed on its first reading Monday evening and referred to the police committee of the council.

Bismarck, N. D.—Candidates for places on the state ticket are beginning to file their petitions with Secretary of State Blaisdell. Saturday Herman Midtbo filed his petition as a candidate for United States senator, while Andy Miller filed for attorney general. W. E. Purcell also filed as the Democratic candidate for United States senator.

Jamestown, N. D.—The little 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Allen, who lives about three miles southeast of this city, was seriously injured by a vicious cow. He was driving cows home from pasture when one turned on him, knocking him down. His face was cut and his hip and one leg were badly bruised.

Fargo, N. D.—With a record of the cleverest breed Indians in the state, Frank Gunville has been landed in the Cass county jail by Deputy United States Marshal A. E. McKay to answer in the federal court for selling liquor to Indians over two years ago. Gunville was arrested at Dunseth following his fight with state officials. He was arrested by the sheriff there after a gun battle.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Judge C. F. Templeton of the district court has left for Lake Bemidji, where he will enjoy a well earned vacation for the next two weeks. During his absence Judge W. J. Kneeshaw of Pembina, Walsh county, and Judge Charles A. Pollock of Fargo will have charge of the court business from this district.

Devils Lake, N. D.—Dr. W. D. Jones will leave early in June for St Louis, where he will attend the meeting of the American Medical association which will continue from June 7 to 10. Some of the greatest medical authorities in America, South America and Canada will be present at this meeting.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

St. Cloud—Twenty-five of the old soldiers visited the normal and took part in the Memorial day exercises held by the school. Commander Macdonald, P. B. Gorman, B. Reinhard, Charles Bell and visiting Comrade Mr. Earl of Michigan addressed the school and the student body rendered several patriotic songs, among the number being "America."

Stillwater—Deputy Coroner Humphrey, after a consultation with the county attorney, announced that no inquest will be held over the remains of Charles Koppens, the young man smothered to death Saturday morning near Arcola, in a sand bank, where the Soo line grading is in progress.

St. Cloud—Wilfred Weiler, the 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Weiler, died suddenly Tuesday, death resulting from heart trouble. The lad had not been feeling well for some time, but his condition had not been considered serious and his death came as a great shock to his parents.

Crookston—On Friday evening, May 27, just one year to a day since the first open air concert was given last spring, Director Wasshausen will begin the regular weekly band concerts this year, if the weather permits.

Moorhead—S. G. Comstock has sold to H. M. Walter six lots opposite the Normal school, at the corner of Seventh avenue south and Eleventh street. Mr. Walter will erect five houses upon these lots, four facing south on Seventh avenue and one facing west on Eleventh street. They will be attractive houses.

St. Cloud—Judge M. D. Taylor has granted an absolute divorce to Mrs. Margaret Nowack from her husband, William Nowack, and also permitting her to resume her malden name, Margareth Hohl. The couple had lived in this city since their marriage and have one child. The man is 34 years of age and the woman 30.

Little Falls—Oliver Johnson, aged 84 years, died at 8 o'clock Monday evening at his home here from paralysis. The deceased was a native son of Norway and was for years engaged in farming. He is survived by a widow and nine children. The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 from the Norwegian Lutheran church.

Fergus Falls—Judge Taylor has made an order denying a motion for a new trial in the case of the city of Fergus Falls versus the Illinois Surety company. This is the case in which the city has secured judgment for something like $10,000 on account of the failure of Contractor Ames to complete the electric light dam.

Brainerd—A train load of wreckage from the Northern Pacific freight smashup near Moose Lake last week was brought to the Brainerd shops. One of the monster "2300" engines in which the engineer and brakeman were burned up was part of the stuff. What was left of a train of freight cars, principally the trucks and a mass of twisted rods was shipped on flat cars.

Rochester—J. T. Beatty who has been employed as local editor of The Bulletin has departed for Washington, D. C. Several weeks ago, Mr. Beatty took the government examinations for work in the census department, and passed with high standings. He has since received his appointment to a position in the United States Department of agriculture.

Stillwater—Joseph J. Ott has sold his controlling interest in the St. Croix boom to D. J. McCuish, identified with the David Tozer company. The Tozer company sent the pile driver and a crew of men to the boom yesterday to make some minor repairs and have taken out some of their logs. This will enable the mill of the Tozer company to resume operations that were suspended Monday night for lack of logs.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Wausau—Judge Webb with a jury is trying in the circuit court the action of Harriet Harriman against the Northwestern Railway company for $30,000 damages for the death of her husband, Paul Harriman, an engineer who was killed on the Ashland ore dock last October.

Ashland—Nearly 100,000 tons of coal will have been discharged at Ashland by the end of the present month. This will be the record for this port. It is a fifth as much as was received at this port, all last season. Ore shipments will also nearly beat all records, being already about 400,000 tons ahead of last season.

Eau Claire—On June 1 there will be a change in the management of the Galloway hotel, H. B. Crane, for some time past manager of the Woodland hotel of Owen, Wis., assuming that responsibility. C. H. Patrie, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Patrie of the town of Seymour will take charge of the Woodland hotel.

Kenosha—Police are scouring Southern Wisconsin and Northern Illinois to secure trace of Prince, a driving horse of Senator Stephenson, which was stolen from his farm in the western part of this county.

Oshkosh—P. Pullam for several years assistant manager of the Wisconsin Electric Railway & Light company, Fond du Lac has been appointed general manager of these two affiliated companies, by the president, Clement C. Smith, Milwaukee.

Madison—The supreme court has upheld the will of James Kavanaugh of Maple Grove, which directed that his estate of $6,000 be used for the payment of Catholic masses for himself and relatives.

Stevens Point—August Arendt was fatally injured in a runaway accident and died within an hour at Mercy hospital. The horses became frightened at an automobile, plunged forward and threw him off.

Neenah—The state convention of German Lutheran churches will be held at Columbus, Wis., on June 21 to 28. On June 28, the German Lutheran Sunday schools of the Fox river valley will have a Sunday school picnic in this city.

Madison—In the case of Dell Oborn the supreme court has affirmed the judgment of the lower court, finding Oborn guilty of murder in the second degree for shooting and killing Louis Tobaltz at Amberg, Marinette county, on May 19, 1908.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Ishpeming—The commencement exercises of St. John's parochial school will be held at Ishpeming theater on the afternoon of June 22. There are eleven in this year's class. Besides the essays, there will be musical numbers, drills, etc., by the school pupils.

Marquette—Mrs. Anna Lindquist, aged 83, an old resident of Marquette, died Monday night. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Anna Kaica and Mrs. Martin Lindberg, and two sons, Peter and John. The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon.

Calumet—The board of directors of the Calumet Y. M. C. A. has made arrangements for an address by George D. McDill, international secretary of the industrial department of the Y. M. C. A. of North America, at the annual anniversary banquet Friday evening.

Calumet—Isaac A. Goldsmith, aged 58, expired at his home on Scott street Tuesday after an illness of several months. Death is attributed to stomach trouble. The deceased was born in Poland in 1852, and thirty-five years ago migrated to this country.

Hancock—The examination of Solomon Johnson, the aged Osceola resident who, it is alleged, made an unsuccessful attempt on the life of Mrs. Matilda Johnson of Alblon on Sunday morning, has been set for Tuesday morning of next week in Justice Curto's court. Bonds were fixed at $2,000.

Houghton—The Houghton County Bar association has decided to hold a banquet during the summer, and President Rees was empowered to appoint a committee to have full charge of the arrangements, including the date selection.

Calumet—G. H. Corsan, the noted swimming instructor, has notified the Y. M. C. A. authorities that he will arrive Saturday for the purpose of teaching the art of swimming to Calumet residents. The association has practically completed all arrangements for his visit. Three hundred persons have been secured to take the daily course.

Lake Linden—Emil Eugene, the 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Celestin Piche died Tuesday after a six weeks' illness with spinal meningitis. The case was one of a very peculiar nature, for when the disease first manifested itself, the victim went into a state of coma, which lasted over thirty hours and puzzled the physicians attending.

Hancock—Mystic lodge of Odd Fellows has nominated the following officers: Noble grand, Henry F. Key; vice president, Fred Merryfield; secretary, F. Williams; treasurer, David Case.

WHITE SOX IN CELLAR BUT O'BRIEN IS HOPEFUL

Irish Leader and His Team Return to Duluth for Opening.

Parade Before Game---Mayor Cullum to Pitch First Ball.

Darby O'Brien and his players reached the city this morning from Eau Claire, where the team closed the series yesterday. Dauss was sent on ahead of the rest of the team, reaching Duluth last night. He will work this afternoon instead of Cummings.

The Irish leader is not in the least discouraged. He stated today that he has a good baseball team and that he will have the Sox up with the leaders before very long.

"We have a good ball team and we will start in and win games," was the way the manager put it. "We have had some hard luck on the trip and things have broken badly. I am not making excuses, for I believe I have a good team and will be able to deliver the goods."

A. W. KUEHNOW,
Owner of the Duluth Team.

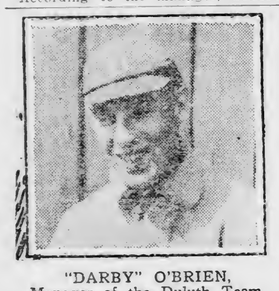
MAYOR M. B. CULLUM,
Who Will Throw the First Ball.

In the opinion of O'Brien, Eau Claire is the strongest team the Sox have played on the trip. He says Rochester is going well and the men are playing together. However, Darby believes Eau Claire has one of the strongest teams in the league—a team that will make a hard fight for the pennant.

According to the manager, Dauss's arm is coming around well. Marion is having trouble with his wing and there is grave doubt whether he will be able to use it for some time.

W. F. Barnard, the infielder, who has been secured from Evansville, Ind., is expected here on the noon train. Cummings also promised to report here today. He may arrive today or tomorrow.

There are several deals on for players. If the deals are consumated, there may be several new faces on the team. Darby said this morning that he had several good men in view, but that their names could not be given out at the present time.



"DARBY" O'BRIEN,
Manager of the Duluth Team.

With Dauss working right, O'Brien is confident that he will get the game this afternoon from the Surgeons.

Ready for Opening.

All preparations were completed early today for the opening of the 1910 Minnesota-Wisconsin league season in this city. The ushering in of the second year of the league will be celebrated with fitting ceremonies this afternoon at the ball park. The festivities at Athletic park will be preceded by a parade through the downtown business section of the city of the two teams, the mayor and city officials and some of the thirty-third degree fans.

The parade starts at the city hall promptly at 2 o'clock. The procession will be headed by the mayor and his official family, the two teams and a band. Prominent fans will be in the parade and will march through the city streets.

Mayor Cullum is slated to hurl the first ball of the afternoon. Dr. J. A. McCuen has agreed to don the mask and protector and catch the sharp-bending curves of the mayor.

In addition to his heaving the first ball across the plate, or in the general direction thereof, the mayor will have some words to say, appropriate of the occasion. The mayor is an enthusiastic fan and is also a firm believer in the good of the game.

Although the Sox come home in last place, the fans are not without hope. Beginning with this afternoon, the Sox will have every opportunity to show that they have been going at a notch below their real stride. There has been a certain element of tough luck connected with the lowly position of the Sox and there are many of the fans who hold to the opinion that from today on the rise of the Sox will be steady.

The Sox return from the first trip in last place and take on the leaders for the first home series of the season. To Duluth is given the opportunity of pulling Rochester down the percentage chute. If the team is as good as the fans believe it is, Rochester will leave Duluth with a lower rating in the baseball Bradstreets.

JACK CORRIGAN,
Manager of the Rochester Team.

Corrigan Known Here.

Jack Corrigan is very well known in this city. He has played baseball here and he has two or three men on the team who are familiar to the fans of Duluth, Stewart, one of Corrigan's catchers, played in the old Northern-Copper Country league. Other of the veterans on the Rochester team are well known to the fans.

Corrigan has a number of veterans on his team and they have cut out a fast pace from the very start of the season. There are some scribes, who have seen the team play, who are of the opinion that the Doctors have been traveling beyond their stride. This opinion may be better judged by observing the play this afternoon.

The game will start promptly at 3:30. The parade will form at 2 o'clock and there will be exercises before play is called. The indications point to a record-breaking attendance this afternoon Special street car service has been arranged for.

AS SEEN FROM THE SIDE LINES

(BY BRUCE.)

Today Is the Day.

This afternoon the strong Rochester club will meet the Sox in the first league game of the 1910 Minnesota-Wisconsin league season. The festivities this afternoon will be in keeping with the new importance of the league, which, numbering eight hustling clubs, takes rank with the fast minor leagues of this country.

The team is back from a road trip that has been anything but profitable to the standing of the team. But the season is young, and there is every belief that the boys will pull together and climb to the top of the heap. The fans have not lost heart by any means, and this afternoon there will be a rare opportunity to show that the fans are still with the team.

In the string of games that starts today the Sox will have the opportunity to show what ability the team possesses. Rochester is playing probably the best baseball in the league at the present time. Right at the start of the home series, therefore, Duluth will encounter the fastest going aggregation in the Minny circuit.

The officials here believe the Sox will take two out of the three games scheduled with the Corrigan Surgeons, and also believe that the team will begin to win games from now on. The hot weather should thaw the soreness out of the salary wings of Dauss and Marion, and if Cummings is good the present season we should have a dark of a hurling staff, for Klingebiel has already shown that he is in rare form.

It is in the power of the fans to assist a lot at the start. The team has not been playing bum baseball in the full sense of the word, and when any team is losing under similar circumstances that have surrounded the first road trip, that team does not deserve the censure of the fans.

The proper spirit has been shown by the baseball public of the city, for there has been no knocking of the team. The team will be given every opportunity to show the goods, and the men behind the team will do everything in their power to see that Duluth has a strong aggregation in the field.

Rochester is going fast, but it is believed around the circuit that the Doctors are traveling ahead of their stride. That belief remains to be proved. We believe here that the Sox have yet to show their true form. The Sox will have an excellent opportunity—in the series starting this afternoon—to cut down the percentage of the Surgeons, and also to show the form that it is expected will take them out of the basement.

About Jealous James.

A New York dispatch tells of the departure of James J. Corbett for the camp at Ben Lomond. The dispatch further adds that James will not introduce any rivalry into the dove-like peace of the Jeffries hangout.

You know that there has been a feud between the houses of Corbett and Choynski, lasting these many years. It started away back in the young days of these men when they were aspiring San Francisco pugs.

Jim's brother told Joe's brother that Corbett could knock the bean from the classic shoulders of the aggressive Choynski. Joe's brother made the retort discourteous. The vendetta was on, a fierce and deadly one, at that.

Corbett and Choynski had four fights, all because the brothers were disagreed over the fighting merits of the war heroes of the two families. The grudge has never healed.

Therefore, there is some suspicion that the two old warriors might want to settle the ancient grudge, once for all. So Corbett will not sleep nights at the camp. Perhaps peaceful and harmony-loving Jeff fears lest Joe should sneak through in the night, in the manner of Macbeth, and stick the cook knife into the venerable ribs of James J.

So Corbett will sleep ten safe miles from the camp, motoring back and forth. He avers he will not attempt to boss the camp. There is no boss at the camp. Perhaps you have probably Jeffries camp, as you have probably guessed. It is just too lovely of Jim.

'Ere Is a New 'Un.

Dear old England has trotted forth another heavyweight. He battles under the suggestive name of Bombardier Joe Mills. He has had one fight in England, and already they are considering him for a meeting with the winner of the Jeffries-Johnson fight.

Joe, bless your heart, was in the English army, the same that old Rud Kipling writes about, and beat all boxers in India. Then he left the army and came to London town in search of new laurels.

His one battle in England so impressed the English that they believe that, after all these years, the tight little isle has at last produced a real fighter. Heigh ho, perhaps. Mills is over six feet and weighs 192 pounds. How hard he will fall, eh?

The Latest Rumor.

There is a new and nasty rumor afloat regarding the Jeffries-Johnson fight. It is that it has all been "fixed" for Jeff to win in fifteen rounds, and that in consideration of a promise to permit the boiler maker to win the battle, Johnson will receive the entire purse.

The story comes via the Buffalo News route It has been given out by a theatrical press agent, who says that he knows positively that six press agents have been engaged to tour Europe ahead of the Jeffries' show.

If Jeffries wins he will make a fortune. Johnson would not be so fortunate, in case he should beat Jeffries. Jeff could afford to give the seneGambian the purse, if any agreement were entered into looking to the winning of the fight by Jeff.

This is a rumor. It is given here for what it is worth Rumors like this one do not make the fight look very good.

Racing for Artha.

Is is reported that Lil' Artha Johnson has asked the Thomas people to engage him as a racing driver, and to enter him in some of the big meets. The colored mitt dealer is reported to be dead anxious to enter one of the big automobile meets in September.

This story may be true; again it may have originated in the fertile brain of some press agent. Johnson locoed on the racing game. It is doubtful if the automobile association would permit a colored driver. Let the big fighter dream on.

Packey and Freddy.

Never within the past two decades has so great an interest been taken in a fight in England as there is being a fight in the coming clash of McFarland and Welsh. Seats are at the present time selling at $50. McFarland is reported to be in great shape. It is also said he will have no difficulty in making the weight, 133, in the afternoon.

If Packey wins, as has been pointed out before, he will be the logical opponent of Ad Wolgast. There are a lot of people who hold, not to say cherish, the opinion that the curley-headed chap is just the boy to trim the man from Michigan.

Americans will await the verdict of the fight with intense interest. The feud between Welsh and McFarland is an ancient one. Both are wonderfully clever. It should be a fight worth going miles to see.

WAVES WERE TOO HIGH FOR ROWING

Both Washington and Leland Stanford Crews Thrown Into the Water.

Seattle, Wash., May 26.—When the Leland Stanford-Washington eight-oared crews started from Leschi park in the three-mile race for the championship of the Pacific coast yesterday afternoon the north wind was kicking up waves two feet high. Before they had gone three-quarters of a mile, all of the men of both crews were in the water, the Washington shell split in two and Coxswain J. W. Roberts of Stanford narrowly escaped drowning.

The referee, A. J. Ballilet, awarded the race to Washington, as both crews had rowed more than half a mile and Washington had a lead when the catastrophe ended the race.

Stanford protested and the Washington crew replied that they would gladly row the race over again, but for their engagement in Madison, Wis., where they are to meet the Wisconsin crew June 4.

DOUGHERTY WAS KNOCKED OUT

Jimmy Potts Turned the Trick During the Nineteenth Round.

Hibbing, May 26.—Jack Dougherty of Milwaukee was knocked out in the nineteenth round of a scheduled twenty-round fight near here last night by Jimmy Potts of Minneapolis.

The bout was one of the fastest and most interesting that has been witnessed on the range this year. Both men mixed freely from the first and the footwork and blocking of Dougherty has never been equalled in an exhibition on the range. He forced the fighting much of the time in the early rounds and was clearly the favorite of the large crowd of spectators.

Up to the eighteenth the fight would have been called a draw. In this frame timekeepers were so interested in the battle that the men were permitted to fight nearly a minute and a half over the three-minute limit. Several of the spectators noticed the lapse and some one called "time." Dougherty dropped his hands to his side and Potts, following him closely, got in some punishing blows before he knew that the round was over.

Dougherty came up dazed in the nineteenth and a succession of rights and lefts to the head put him down and out. He took the count of eight only a few seconds after the round started and was counted out before the round was half over.

Young Brown and Bert Quayle, both of Hibbing, went six rounds to a draw in a preliminary, and Mike Brown and Curley Ulrich from the Head of the Lakes put on an exhibition four rounds.

REST FOLLOWS TRAINING WORK

Jack Johnson Will Engage in No More Work Until Saturday.

San Francisco, May 26.—Following his heavy training work yesterday, Jack Johnson is expected to rest today and tomorrow from ring work and there probably will be no more boxing for him until Saturday afternoon. Beginning Saturday his program calls for three days of continuous sparring.

Despite the announcement made Tuesday night that Billy Delaney had been definitely engaged to prepare Johnson for his fight with Jeffries, there is now a rumor in circulation to the effect that the veteran trainer has decided not to accept the post.

Delaney said: "I have not given out that I will take the job, nor that I will refuse it. There are a number of matters to be considered before I can decide the point finally and there is no great haste. If I do act as Johnson's adviser I won't spend all my time at his camp, though I'll be there frequently and give him the best advice I'm capable of. My personal relations with Jeffries do not enter into the question. It is simply a business proposition."

ARRANGING FOR EXHIBITION

Ben Lomond, Cal., May 26.—Arrangements for Jeffries' trip to San Francisco tomorow are engaging the champion's attention today. The big fighter says he will not leave here until after noon, arriving at the Oakland mole across the bay from San Francisco at 5:30 p. m. He plans to work as usual tomorrow morning and expects to return here early Saturday in order to get in some exercise that afternoon.

Manager Berger is going up to the city today to arrange for Jeffries' sparring exhibition there tomorrow night. Jeffries will be accompanied on his trip by his wife, his sparring partners, Joe Choyinski and Bob Armstrong, and Roger Cornell, one of his trainers.

UNIVERSITY TEAM BEATS THE ST. THOMAS PLAYERS.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—For a stinging defeat administered last week in St. Paul, the North Dakota university yesterday afternoon secured sweet revenge, downing the St. Thomas aggregation by a score of 9 to 0. At no time during the entire game did the visiting players have a look in and only once was there any danger of them scoring, that being in the ninth inning when two men were out and a man got on third. He lived briefly, the next man up being retired on a fly.

Driscoll Bested.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 26. — Pat Moore of this city had the better of the six-round fight with Jem Driscoll, the English lightweight champion, at the National Athletic club last night.

Eau Claire, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eau Claire made a clean sweep of the Duluth series by yesterday taking the third straight game from the Sox, Bob Worman holding the champions to one stingy hit and shutting them out by the score of 4 to 0.

Tom Taylor was the only man to get a hit from the benders of the Angel pitcher. Worman was in great form and the Sox were at his mercy throughout the contest.

Thorsen was on the mound for the Sox and was wild and erratic. In addition to giving three passes he made three wild pitches. The Angels had little trouble in solving the delivery of the visiting twirler, and hits came when they meant runs.

Both teams played cleanly in the field, some sensational fielding stunts being pulled off behind the two pitchers.

RED WING DEFEATS PIRATES IN LAST OF SERIES.

Winona, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Red Wing defeated Winona yesterday by the score of 2 to 1. The locals held the lead until the eighth, when Prater weakened and Red Wing's two runs were chased across the plate.

Thomas opened the game for Winona, but was wild and unsteady. Prater replaced him and was effective until the eighth inning, when the Indians got to him and scored all their runs.

Three singles, a hit batsmen, coupled with infield outs scored all of Red Wing's runs. Two passes and two errors accounted for the one run of the locals. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Red Wing	00000000 2—2	7	2
Winona	00001000 0—1	6	2

Batteries — Boyle and Hanson, Thomas; Prater and Killian.

ROCHESTER WHITEWASHES THE SLIDING OUTCASTS.

Rochester, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rochester defeated the La Crosse Outcasts by the score of 2 to 0 in the last game of the present series. Cy Young proved easy for the local hitters, while McNeil kept the hits of the Outcasts scattered. The game was called in the eighth, so that the Rochester team could catch the train for Duluth. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Rochester	0000002 x—2	4	2
La Crosse	0000000 0—0	5	0

Batteries—McNeill and Fischer; Cy Young and Zalusky.

SUPERIOR DROPS LAST GAME TO LUMBERJACKS.

Wausau, Wis., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Wausau defeated Superior by the score of 6 to 3 in the last game of the series. Baertschi opened for the visitors and was wild and unsteady. Krick replaced Baertschi and was found freely by the locals.

Schieffer was rather wild for Wausau, but proved steady at critical times.

Superior left after the game for home, where they open with Red Wing. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Wausau	10003101 0—6	7	3
Superior	10000000 2—3	6	5

Batteries — Baertschi, Krick and Schaeffer; Schieffer and Johnson.

CUBS BEAT PHILLIES AND GO INTO LEAD.

Chicago, May 26.—Chicago won its seventh successive victory and went into first place yesterday by defeating Philadelphia, 6 to 1. Cole held the losers hitless for six innings. He was wild, but received excellent support. The Philadelphia twirlers were hit hard. Archer's throwing was brilliant. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Chicago	02210010 x—6	11	1
Philadelphia	00000000 1—1	8	3

Batteries—Cole and Archer; Sparks, Mahoney, Shettler and Doolin. Umpires—Rigler and Emslie.

PIRATES DROP ANOTHER TO McGRAW'S GIANTS.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 26.—New York's defeat of Pittsburg again yesterday by a score of 4 to 3 and Chicago's victory over Philadelphia removed the champions from the league's leadership, which they had held for nearly a month. Ames held Pittsburg to four hits. Six double plays figured in the game. Score:

Pittsburg	00210000 0—3	4	0
New York	00031000 0—4	14	2

Batteries—Moore, Leever and Gibson; Ames and Meyers. Umpires—O'Day and Brennan.

FROMME'S WILDNESS DEFEATS CINCINNATI.

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 26. — Three bases on balls allowed by Fromme developed into runs for Boston yesterday and this combined with a double and a single in the sixth inning gave Boston the game, 4 to 3. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Boston	00200200 0—4	10	1
Cincinnati	00100200 0—3	8	3

Batteries—Parsons, Brown and Graham; Fromme, Rowan and McLean. Umpires—Klem and Kane.

BROOKLYN WINS LAST GAME AT ST. LOUIS.

St. Louis, Mo., May 26.—Brooklyn won the final game of the series here yesterday, 7 to 5. Rucker pitched good ball while Sallee and Backman were both hit hard. Score:

SAINTS DROP ONE TO KANSAS CITY.

St. Paul, Minn., May 26.—Although St. Paul made twice as many hits as Kansas City, Rhoades was more effective than the St. Paul pitchers with men on bases, and the misplays of the locals were largely responsible for the Kansas City 5 to 3 victory. Score:

MILLERS WIN TWO HARD FOUGHT GAMES.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 25.—Minneapolis won both games of a hard-fought double bill yesterday afternoon, and took the lead again in the association race. Ferris' home run over the right field fence was the only score of the pitchers' battle in the first game. Altrock's single and Clymer's long drive to the center field fence scored the winning run in the ninth inning of the second game, after two were out. Scores:

First game— R. H. E.

Minneapolis	00000001 x—1	6	2

CREW SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

One of the best rows of the season was gone through last night by the first eight of the boat club. The men were sent over the course and back, Coach Peyton emphasizing his demand for form. The men are gradually getting into the long reach and are pulling the stroke through better than the junior crew did at any time last season.

There are many things to encourage Peyton in the hope that at last the Duluth Boat club will send a winning crew to a Western regatta. If the crew improves consistently until the time of the regatta, there is a belief that the present junior eight will land.

The men are not putting sufficient power into the stroke as yet, but the form is much better than that displayed by the 1909 juniors. The reach is also greater and the men are shooting faster. There is still some improvement to be desired on the shoot and catch. There has been some improvement the present week, but Coach Peyton is far from satisfied as yet.

However, the crew is further advanced at the present time than any other junior crew there has ever been so early in the season. That is one of the most hopeful features of the work of the men.

Murphy Wins From Cross.

New York, May 26.—Cleverness and skilful in-fighting earned for Tommy Murphy the popular decision over Leach Cross at the Empire Athletic club last night. This was the second meeting of the lightweights, Murphy having won a former bout last year.

The fighters evened it up during the first round and Cross had the advantage in the second and third. But from the fourth on, Murphy by hard in-fighting and an occasional right and left to the jaw and heart, was easily the superior. It was a game contest throughout.

Semi-Finals.

Quincy, Mass., May 26.—The semi-finals in the Boston women's golf championships were reached at the Wollaston links today with Miss Fanny C. Osgood of the Country club meeting, Miss C. L. Morrill of Brae-Burn and Mrs. F. C. Wheeler of the Home links playing Miss K. C. Duncan of Brae-Burn.

Baseball in Kentucky.

Paducah, Ky., May 26.—The Kentucky-Indiana-Tennessee baseball season was inaugurated today, Hopkinsville opening here and Clarksville at Vincennes. Six games will be played in each city, including a double-header on Decoration day. After that date, four-game series will prevail.

ALEX SMITH COMING HERE FOR MATCH.

Word has been received by the officials of the Northland Country club stating that Alexander Smith, former golf champion, will be in the city Monday or Tuesday, and will be ready to engage in his match with W. D. Leith, professional coach of the Northland club.

WE AGAIN call your attention to the above mine for the shares in the company are selling so low that the stockholders should make over $300,000.00 inside of the next year. The Butte-Alex Scott lies directly between the High Ore and the great Leonard of the Amalgamated, and they are the biggest producers in Butte. The surrounding properties, that is the Boston & Montana end, goes into the merger at the great sum of $60,000,000.00. The Butte-Alex Scott is working part of the same vein system as the Anaconda and Boston & Montana and are taking much of their rich ore from same veins. Do you notice how correct my judgment was on Butte-Ballaklava? My friends have made millions on this mine. I now tell you that the Scott has developed into another bonanza mine, and should pay hundreds of thousands in dividends. It is the greatest buy of any stock in the United States. Show me, if you can, another on which so much money should be made. Tuolumne is selling for eleven times as much—Ballaklava for fourteen times as much—but Scott is equal to either of them, property for property. This is a chance of a lieftime for the people of Duluth. Boston will make the money if you don't. Butte Hill is the richest in the world and land is worth $1,000,000 an acre or more. Scott stock should easily be worth $40.00. Only 100,000 shares issued. The above plant has been replaced, big ore bins have been built and the massive Norberg hoist can pull ore from a depth of 3,000 feet. The 1,600-foot level has been reached and soon the Butte-Alex Scott mine will be one of the richest producers in Montana.

FAMOUS LAND CASE ENDS AFTER FIFTEEN YEARS

Both Claimants File Relinquishments on Cedar Island Claim.

Michael Cronin Then Promptly Scrips the Land Under Dispute.

The last chapter in the famous Cedar Island cases was closed yesterday, when Mrs. Malinda Tanner and Michael Cronin relinquished their claim to the lands that have been in litigation for the past fifteen years. For a brief instant the land was the property of the United States government, and then Cronin filed a soldier's additional scrip application and the land became his.

The land that both he and Mrs. Tanner have been for years fighting for consists of lots 3 and 5 of section 3, 57-17 and lot 3 of section 34, 58-17. The land is evidently the property of Cronin but there is a strong suspicion that the two were brought to terms by a large corporation which wanted the land.

The claimants appeared in person. Mrs. Tanner bent with age, the worry of the long fight, and the memory of a hard life behind the very evident years, announced that she was ready to relinquish. Cronin did the same. After both had relinquished, he filed and paid all the fees. There are no further requirements as he does not have to live on the land.

This is, perhaps, the last of the Cedar Island land cases. There are many other claimants to other lands, but their cases were settled some time ago.

The land is supposed to be very valuable. The first filing on these lands was made June 5, 1896. Clerk Charles B. King of the land office took the first filing, saw the details of the case worked out with the years and yesterday took the relinquishments which finally brought the matter to a close.

At the time the first filings were made there was no record of the land at the land office. By order of the United States court a survey was made and completed in 1905. This work was done by E. L. Faison. The plat was filed Aug. 19, 1905.

The original settlers or those who claimed to be settlers were: Arron Tanner, who has been dead for a number of years; E. L. Raab, Ephrim Trenholm, W. H. Shea, Patrick Foley, H. E Weckey and Granville A. Burns. Weckey died shortly after Tanner's death.

Since the time of the filing the number of claimants not only increased, but the cases were fought in every court. There was endless litigation and it seemed as though the records were so tangled that the cases would never be settled.

The land surrounds Cedar Island lake.

Joseph H. Vernig, a rural mail carrier at Pierz, Minn., has filed a petition in voluntary bankruptcy in United States court. He says the secured claims against him amount to $522 and unsecured claims to $2,835, a total of $3,357 liabilities, while his assets total $379.

Ordered to Pay Allmony.
John P. Melander must pay his wife $20 on the first and fifteenth of each month. Judge Dibell of the district court so ruled yesterday. He is also restrained from entering the house occupied by his wife pending final decision in a divorce action she brought against him.

Injured at Sawmill.
J. Subject, a millworker at the Mullery mill, West Duluth, today, had his foot caught in a saw and as a result, sustained a badly lacerated foot. The man was taken to St. Luke's hospital for treatment.

Bulge in Coal Caused Arrest.
Mike Kennedy was arraigned in police court this morning, charged with petty larceny. He was accused of stealing a coat from Louis Polinsky of 529 West Superior street. The proprietor noticed that he had acquired an unnatural aldermanic front when he was leaving his store, and ran after him, shouting for the police. Patrolman Walsh placed Kennedy under arrest. He entered a plea of not guilty, and his trial was set for this afternoon.

HAVE RALLY AT THE CLOSE

The copper market opened dull and moderately weak after values churned up and down in the fore part of the session the market rallied and advanced steadily to the close. There was no feature and trading was extremely light. There were few offerings and values rallied on the light buying which was without significance.

Trading here was moderate and broad. Butte-Ballakava divided honors with the Scotts as the feature of the market. The former sold at $16, $17.87½, $17, and up to $17.50. The part paid Scott sold at $3.25 to $3.18¾, and back to $3.25. The full paid sold at $7, $7.18¾ and then at $7.50.

Copper Queen sold at 32c, 34c and 33c; Live Oak at $20.25; to $20.62½; Red Warrior at $2.06¼, $2 and back to $2.06¼; Shattuck at $28.75 to $28.50; Butte & Superior at $1.87½; Carman at 83c; Keating at $1.43¾ to $1.50 and back to $1.43¾; St. Mary's at 18c; Tuolumne at $3.50; Sierra at $3; and Amazon at $3.25.

Amalgamated sold at $69.25 to $70.37½ and $70.25; Steel common at $82.37½ to $82.25 to $83.37½; Butte Coalition at $20 to $19.75 to $20; Calumet & Arizona at $63.50; Giroux was $7.75 bid; Greene $8.12½ and $8.50 bid; North Butte at $32.75, $33.25 to $33.50; Superior & Pittsburg at $12.12½; Ojibway at $8.

The Butte Ballaklava will pay a quarterly dividend of 50c on July 1. The dividend will be the first disbursement to stockholders. It is claimed that next January the stock will be placed on a basis of $4 a year.

FAIR WEATHER FOR OPENING

Beautiful weather prevails for the opening of the season of the Minny league in Duluth this afternoon. Every street car to the park was crowded with enthusiasts and others went in autos and carriages. The grand stand and bleachers were comfortably filled when Mayor Cullum pitched the first ball.

The parade, which preceded the game, was led by the Third Regiment band. The mayor, city officials, ball teams and quite a number of fans followed in carriages. Mayor Cullum pitched the first ball at the grounds.

The Herald sporting extra this evening will give the result of the game.

YOUNG FARMER KILLED.

Underwood, N. D., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Mintzer, aged 23, a farmer, was crushed to death here yesterday afternoon. He was tieing a blooded team when one of the animals kicked him, knocking him down, and continued to kick and strike him until he fell under a passing wagon and his head was crushed. He came here recently from Mansfield, Ohio.

Duluth Banks will be closed all day Monday—Decoration day.

"OPEN HOUSE" AT COURTHOUSE

County Officers Will Be "At Home" Next Wednesday Evening.

Next Wednesday, between the hours of 8 and 10 p. m., there will be open house at the new courthouse.

The art exhibit will still be in progress at that time and all citizens of Duluth are invited to inspect the new county building and also attend the art exhibit.

When the courthouse was first opened it was planned to have an "open house," but there were some delays in installing the furniture and fixtures and it had to be postponed. Wednesday evening the entire building will be illuminated from basement to the top floor and all the county officers and the clerks will be in the accustomed places.

HEALTH, VIGOR AND MANHOOD

Without health, man lacks energy, push and perseverance—all that is essential in a successful man. If you have lost yours, The Progressive Medical Association of Duluth can build it up for you again—more—if they accept your case, they will give you a Legal Guarantee to cure you! Can you ask for more?

Do not be discouraged even if your case has been given up by other physicians. Some of the most successful cures accomplished by these eminent scientists have been on men, who after months and in some cases years of drugging, and doping, have been directed to them usually by some grateful former patient.

They have dozens of such cases on record, with testimonials from hundreds of men whose ailments in many cases dated for years back, and who now are perfect examples of lusty manhood.

The wonderful dissolving process, invented and perfected by the Progressive Medical Association treats the diseases at their seat and drives them out of the system forever. The powerful medicines are not taken internally, but are applied locally to the affected parts—By Wire.

Passed May 23, 1910.
Approved May 25, 1910.

By Alderman Moore:
The city of Duluth having sold unto Joseph Roy the building heretofore known as Woodland fire hall, together with all its right and title in lots four and five, in block sixteen, in the Second Glen Avon division of Duluth, upon which said building then stood, and it having been the intention of the city to transfer unto said Roy upon a certain price paid by him all its rights to the property, including a strip of land between the westerly end lines of said lots and the center line of Rosyln avenue, whereon said lots abut; and it appearing that the portion of Roslyn avenue, including said strip had been previously vacated by the common council of the city, before the conveyance to said Roy was made, and that because of such prior vacation there is some doubt as to whether the deed given to said Roy, in fact, conveyed said strip, and it appearing that the entire balance of the portion of said Roslyn avenue so vacated is in fact owned by private individuals subject to the right of the city to construct and maintain sewers therein; and it appearing that the said Joseph Roy has transferred unto Samuel E. Matter all his right, title and interest in and to said lots and said strip, who has succeeded to all of the rights of said Roy.
Be it Resolved, That for the purpose of fully carrying out the aforesaid understanding between the city of Duluth and said Joseph Roy, and for the purpose of removing any ambiguity as regards the title of said matter in and to said strip of land, the mayor, the city clerk and city comptroller of the city of Duluth are empowered and directed to execute in behalf of said city, a quit claim deed conveying unto Samuel E. Matter said strip of land lying between the westerly end lines of said lots 4 and 5, in block 16, as originally platted and the center line of said avenue and included between the northerly side lines of said lot 4 and the southerly side lines of said lot 5, both of said side lines being produced so as to intersect with said center line of said Roslyn avenue now vacated.
Alderman Moore moved the adoption of the resolution, and it was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.
Passed May 23, 1910.
Approved May 25, 1910.

By Alderman Moore:
Resolved, That the Board of Public Works is hereby requested to form a new sprinkling district on London road, from Twenty-second avenue east to Forty-second avenue east, and to advertise for bids for sprinkling said district.

Passed May 23, 1910.
Approved May 25, 1910.

REPORTS OF STANDING COMMITTEES.
To the Common Council:
Your committee on City Property, Buildings and Markets, to which was referred estimate from the health commissioner of the cost of properly supplying his department for the collection of garbage, find that he estimates the cost of $2,367.50 for providing equipment for collection in one district, being the same district that has been collected from during the past year, and he estimates the cost of an electric truck at $3,000. If this estimate is correct it would take not less than from $10,000 to $12,000 to furnish equipment for covering the portions of the city which should unquestionably be covered. No provision was made in the last tax levy for such an expenditure, and we do not see how it is possible to provide the money necessary for such equipment during the present year. We therefore recommend the adoption of the following resolution:
JAMES A. WHARTON,
CHAS. J. HECTOR,
JOS. SHARTEL,
Committee.
Resolved, That this council finds it impracticable to extend districts in which garbage is to be collected by the city during the present year.
Resolved further, That the Conference Committee is hereby advised that provision should be made in the tax levy for the ensuing year to properly equip the health department for the collection of garbage throughout the well settled portions of the city.
Alderman Wharton moved the adoption of the resolution, and it was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.
Passed May 23, 1910.
Approved May 25, 1910.

To the Common Council:

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND AN ORDINANCE ENTITLED "AN ORDINANCE TO RESTRAIN THE RUNNING AT LARGE OF CERTAIN ANIMALS," PASSED JAN. 7, 1895, AS AMENDED.

The Common Council of the city of Duluth do ordain as follows:

Section 1. That the ordinance entitled "An ordinance to restrain the running at large of certain animals," passed Jan. 7, 1895, as amended, be hereby amended as follows:

1. That Section 3 be amended to read as follows:

Section 3. There shall be ten pound districts within the city of Duluth as follows:

The First and Second precincts of the First ward of said city shall constitute the first pound district.

The Fourth precinct of the First ward shall constitute the second pound district.

The Third, Fifth and Sixth precincts of the First ward and the Second ward of said city shall constitute the third pound district.

The Third and Fourth wards and all of the Fifth ward of said city excepting the Fifth precinct thereof shall constitute the fourth pound district.

The Sixth ward and all that part of the Seventh ward lying easterly of the center line of Twenty-sixth avenue West, and the same produced to the city limits, shall constitute the fifth pound district.

All that part of the Seventh ward lying between the center line of Twenty-sixth avenue West and the same produced to the city limits on the east and the following described line on the west, to-wit: Beginning at the center line of Forty-seventh avenue West at the southerly end thereof; thence along the center line of Forty-seventh avenue West to the center line of Norton avenue (Eighth street); thence along the center line of Norton avenue (Eighth street) to the center line of Fifty-third avenue West; thence north along the center line of Fifty-third avenue West and the same produced in a direct line to the city limits, shall constitute the sixth pound district.

All that part of the Seventh ward lying westerly of the last above described line, and all that part of the Eighth ward lying easterly of the center line of Seventy-third avenue West, and the same extended in a direct line to the city limits, shall constitute the seventh pound district.

All that part of the Eighth ward lying between the center line of Seventy-third avenue West and the same extended in a direct line to the city limits, and the westerly line of sections 4 and 9, township 48, north of range 15, west of the Fourth Principal Meridian, shall constitute the eighth pound district.

All that part of the Eighth ward lying westerly of the west line of sections 4 and 9, township 48, north of range 15, west of the Fourth Principal Meridian, shall constitute the ninth pound district.

The Fifth precinct of the Fifth ward shall constitute the tenth pound district.

2. That Section 5 of said ordinance be amended to read as follows:

Section 5. There shall be at least ten pound masters in the city of Duluth, one for each of the pound districts hereinabove provided for. The pound masters from the first, second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and tenth districts shall be appointed by the mayor, subject to the confirmation of the Common Council.

The duties of the pound masters in the eighth and ninth pound districts shall be performed by the street foremen of the aforesaid districts, or in cases of suburban portions of the city where there is no resident street foreman, by such other employe of the city as shall be designated for such purpose by the Board of Public Works, such designation to be in writing and filed with the city clerk; such street foreman or other employe to serve without additional pay.

The poundmaster from the tenth pound district shall also perform such other work, either as a special policeman or as an employe of the Board of Public Works or other department of the city, as the Common Council shall direct and at such compensation as shall be fixed for such work, under the provisions of the charter. The park policeman appointed for service at any public park in the city of Duluth may, upon request of the board of park commissioners, be appointed as a poundmaster by the mayor, subject to the approval of the Common Council; said park policeman to perform the duties of poundmaster without extra compensation from the city, and to have jurisdiction only in such public park.

Sec. 2. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and publication.

MARINE NEWS

PETER REISS ON TRIAL TRIP

New Steamer Travels Well on First Trip on Lake Superior.

The big new steamer Peter Riess, the ore carrier that was recently completed at the Superior yards, was this morning given the first trial.

The forward deck crowded with Superior people, the big vessel steamed around the harbor, coming over from the Superior slip and passing in front of the local tug office. The vesel steamed out through the canal entrance and ran some distance out into the lake.

There was no hich in the working of the engines. After getting out of the harbor the big ship traveled along at a good rate of speed. Vessel men who observed the boat from the tug office with glasses, stated that her trial trip appeared to be eminently satisfactory.

It is planned to have the big boat, one of the biggest in the lake service, take its first load of ore down in the near future.

DOCKS ARE READY TO RECEIVE COAL.

There has been no decrease in the demand for ore charters, with a slight decreaes in the amount of coal coming here. The docks are thoroughly cleaned out and are ready for a heavy amount of coal from lower lake ports.

Grain cargoes remain very scarce and there has not been very much change in the package freight situation.

OCTARARA MAY BRING DETROIT TRAVELERS.

Local agents of the Anchor line are wondering if the Octarara is going to bring a number of Detroit manufacturing men here. Detroit newspapers were authority for the statement that a large crowd of manufacturers of the City of the Straits would visit the Head of the Lakes in the new boat, while here nothing has been received in regard to the arrangement.

Definite information regarding the time of the coming of the Octarara is expected daily at the Anchor line office.

Juniata in Port.

The Juniata was in harbor this morning. The big boat is at the present time carrying package freight and some few passengers, though the regular passenger season has not started as yet. The boat will be painted and overhauled before she engages in the regular passenger service for the season.

BEARS HAVE THEIR OWN WAY IN WHEAT MARKET

Private Settlement of Chicago Deal Sends Prices Tumbling.

Future Options Feel Effect and Hit New Low Points.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 25.—The May wheat deal came to a premature end today when the leading holder and the principal short agreed to a private settlement. The basis is not known here but the price is commonly believed to be $1.05. An immense amount of September wheat was also unloaded but if any terms were reached in the September deal they had not been made public at the close today. New crop months reached the lowest levels yet attained.

The longs not included in the private settlement sold out most of if not all of their holdings, while the bears were covering after having maintained a continual assault on the market for several days. In the settlement a third cargo of wheat was diverted to Buffalo. Three cargoes since yesterday afternoon have been turned from Chicago to Buffalo. The stuff comprised No. 1 northern that had been bought by an elevator interest for delivery on Chicago May contracts.

The close of today's market witnessed demoralization. There was heavy selling in July and September wheat and the country was selling flax moderately. The durums were sick and there was heavy selling in the July July and September options.

May wheat opened late at $1.07 and sold at $1.05⅞ and closed at $1.04⅞. July opened at $1.07¼, sold at $1.06¾, $1.06⅜, $1.06⅝, $1.04¾, $1.05, $1.04¾, $1.05, $1.04¼ and closed $1.04½ b. September opened at 97¼ca, sold at 96⅝c, 97c, 96⅜c, 96⅝-½c, 95¾c, 95⅝c, 95⅝c, 94½c, 94⅞c, 94½c and closed 93¾cb. The big break came after the private settlement between the leading interests was apparent. The total loss from yesterday in May was 2⅜c, in July 3c, in September 3⅜c.

Flax was mixed. Short covering caused the current month to close strong. The country sold the futures and they closed weak. May sold at $2.21 and closed $2.21 bid. July opened with offers at $2.03 and sold to $2.04½, the close. September opened with offers at $1.70¼ and sold at $1.67, $1.68 and $1.67½ and closed $1.67 bid. October opened at $1.62 asked and sold at $1.59, closing at $1.59 bid.

Cash wheat closed ½c over July. The mills offered 1½ c over. Oats closed 1⅜c off, rye and barley were unchanged. Durum closed 2¼c off.

The May deal occupied the attention of the market today, culminating in a private settlement between the warring interests. While it was the prevailing feature, interest also was centered in the new crop months which in all markets reached the lowest levels yet sustained. The bears hammered the market unceasingly. Most of the small shorts in May have covered and the field in this option is left to the big fellows who waged war today, until the settlement. The small longs in the open are left high and dry. Trading was more active than at any time within many weeks. The market was flooded with offerings and there was not a moment when there was not a plethora of offerings in the new crop months. Under this incessant pressure the market declined sharply. At low levels there was increasing covering by shorts which caused some firmness.

The bears broke values to the lowest levels on the new crop months and sent May tumbling and then bought back their lines on a large scale but without boosting values. Some of the longs who have stoutly maintained their position for many weeks are losing heart and there was heavy liquidation. In this market outsiders sold heavily and Duluth was active in helping to send values downward in Minneapolis. There was considerable short covering and to some extent there was some evening up of trades toward the close. On the decline many new lines were put out and others were withdrawn toward the close.

The Chicago May situation attracted most interest. There is still a trailing short interest out and as cash supplies are small it is likely that the little fellow will find a dearth of offerings on the last day. The bulls have offered little support to the market in the last few days. What they will do to scattered shorts on the last day remains problematical. The leading holders have made no attempt to bid up prices, probably because the odds have been against them. By a settlement they lost a possible opportunity to send up prices in a manner similar to the memorable September deal of last year, when on the last day prices jumped 10c, faster than 1c a minute.

From this market the Armour and other interests took 1,650,000 bu of wheat to grade No. 1 northern at Chicago. The first stuff that went out seemed to consist chiefly of No. 1 hard, which was mixed with other stuff. The last consignments appeared to be wholly No. 1 northern.

May Send Grain Back.

The Duluth market is left in a peculiar position by reason of the heavy shipments of No. 1 hard and No. 1 northern to Chicago. It is not improbable that some of the stuff may find its way back again. Stores of No. 1 hard here amounted to about 547,000 bu before the Chicago shipments went out. Stores now amount to 255,000 bu. The total stores of No. 1 hard and No. 1 northern at the Head of the Lakes amount to 839,000 bu. This compares with about 4,000,000 bu of No. 1 hard and No. 1 northern here at this time last year. Stores are smaller here than for some time.

May receipts of spring wheat here excelled similar receipts in the corresponding month last year. Thus far this month receipts of spring wheat amount to 191 cars compared with 66 cars of spring wheat in May, 1909. From this time last year until Aug. 31 supplies decreased as the demand was steady. On Aug. 31 last year stores here amounted to 45,764 bu, of which 37,000 bu comprised spring wheat. This year the situation is different. There is little milling demand, no export business with the market out of line, a dead Eastern demand and the indications point to increasing supplies here in the near future.

In June last year receipts of spring wheat amounted to 67 cars, in July 188 cars and in August 400 cars. A similar increase, but greater in volume, it is believed, will be recorded here. There undoubtedly is a lot of loose stuff from the farms that will be cleared up and started to primary points in the next month as farmers will be completing their initial field work will be in a position to give their attention to their surplus after seeding and their loose supplies, which undoubtedly will be diverted to the market this idea, however, believing that this country will decline to an export basis.

A readjustment of values is under way and this is being accomplished at a loss to the leading holders. Foreign conditions are bearish and cables today closed lower. Except among a few leaders confidence on the bull side is lacking. While rallies may be due from time to time on account of over selling, there is little probability that they will be permanent.

MARKET GOSSIP

Wheat stores here decreased 750,000 bu in four days to 3,267,000 bu. Flax stores increased 19,000 bu to 95,000 bu.

A delayed Ottawa dispatch said: "Suspended animation and semi-panic are evident in the wheat section, according to Canadian exporters, on account of the breach between Western Canada wheat growers and operators and the Liverpool buyers having widened.

"A cable announcement has recently been received by leading operators of a break of 4½ cents a bushel in the price of wheat at large consuming centers. This brings the British price down to 92½ cets a bu, while Winnipeg operators demand 98 cents. Not a bushel of Canadian May wheat is moving toward the port of Montreal or any other port of shipment, and the wheat sold on April contracts is rapidly being worked off.

"Meanwhile the cables say that wheat from Russian ports is pouring into Great Britain in unprecedented volume. The supplies are unlimited, greater than are required to meet the entire demand for British consumption, and hence the break in prices. This, however, is not the most alarming feature of the situation. It has been ascertained that this disturbance in price is not caused by the light wheat of Southern Russia, shipped from the Crimea, but by heavy wheat pronounced by all experts to be equal to the best Manitoba hard, grown in Central Siberia, where millions of acres are now under cultivation and exported from Archangel. This wheat weighs from sixty-two and a half to sixty-three pounds per bushel."

Broomhall's crop summary:

United Kingdom—Outlook for the crop is improving under more favorable weather, it being warmer.

France—There has been much improvement during the past week in the crop outlook, with the weather seasonable.

Germany—Reports received regarding the growth and development on the new crop are mostly good; weather continues warm, which is favorable; offerings of native wheat are larger.

Russia—Crop outlook is generally favorable; rains have fallen in the drought districts; supplies of Nicolaeff have increased during the week, and elsewhere stocks are small.

Roumania—Crop outlook continues excellent, although there are some complaints from lodging; weather is highly favorable.

Bulgaria and Turkey—Crop conditions are good, with the weather favorable.

Austria-Hungary—New crop shows excellent condition; weather continues highly favorable.

Italy—Weather is too wet and cold to afford proper development for the new crop and some damage is reported.

Spain—Outlook for the crop is doubtful, owing to the recent cold weather.

Broomhall cabled: Wheat market displayed a firm undertone at the start ¾d to ⅞d higher, being influenced by the strength in America yesterday and the fact that Americans and Winnipeg buying in this market. There was also an improved demand for parcels, which were firmer and a better inquiry for spot, together with a sale of two Australian cargoes to the continent and prices further advanced ⅜d to ½d for distant months. Later the market was very irregular with rapid fluctuations and the tendency was lower and prices after declining ¾d, showed some steadiness at midday. Offerings at this time were larger and rather pressed for sale. Market at midday was irregular and very nervous, with prices ½d to ⅝d lower than the high of the morning and ½d to ⅝d higher than yesterday.

Corn—Steady and generally ½d higher, owing to advanced bids for La Plata parcels.

Argentine estimated shipments of wheat this week: 1,600,000 bu; previous week, 992,000 bu; last year, 1,776,000; corn, 590,000 bu; previous week, 476,000 bu; last year, 2,795,000 bu. Weather has become favorable for corn, it being clear and warm.

The Northwestern Miller says: "The Minneapolis flour output last week increased 12,480 bbl. This made the production for week ending May 21, 265,040 bbl against 252,670 in 1909 and 265,625 in 1908. The same number of mills were in operation today as last Tuesday and the output should approximate 300,000 bbl. In the corresponding week last year it was 265,935 bbl. Minneapolis and outside mills experienced a light demand for flour last week. Sales were a good deal less than output. Shipping directions came in fairly well and this explains why the mills are running as strongly as they are. Crop conditions in the Northwest continue very favorable. During the week the weather has been somewhat cloudy and showery, with comparatively low temperature at night. All grains have apparently thrived. Wheat and flax appear to be in exceptionally promising condition. While oats have also improved very materially, the crop is not in as good condition as are other grains."

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

May Wheat Breaks and Settlement Is Rumored.

Chicago, May 26.—The price of May wheat broke 2 cents a bushel today. This fact and other significant happenings led to a quite general belief that the big shorts in that option had effected a settlement here. Announcement that 670,000 bu of No. 2 northern wheat afloat from Duluth for Chicago had been ordered to Buffalo instead seemed to bear out the idea. This was said to be all the No. 1 wheat available that could possibly have been brought to Chicago from there during the remainder of this month. Heavy selling of the September delivery caused a fall of 1c in the quotations for that future. Predictions of warmer weather in the Northwest were credited with having prompted much of the selling, the theory being that too much cold has to some extent interfered with the progress of the spring crop. A huge sale of September was also made by a leading house here which has been prominent on the bull side, but which last night underwent reorganization, two of the partners retiring. The market opened unchanged to ¼c up with September at 97½c to 97¾c. That month descended almost vertically to 96½c. May, which started at $1.10½ to $1.10⅞, fell to $1.08½.

Unloading by longs continued on an extraordinary scale, and there was selling by pit traders who had been on the other side of the market early in the day. In the excitement attending the liquidation, all other influences were lost sight of. The close was weak in the extreme, with September showing a net loss of 4½c and May 5¼ to 5⅝c.

Fine weather made the corn market weak, September opened a shade lower to a shade higher at 60⅜@60½c and eased off to 60⅛@60¼c.

Selling of September corn by leading traders who were long in wheat carried down prices. The close was weak, with September 1½@1⅝c off at 58⅞c.

Commission houses were selling oats. September started a shade off to ⅛c higher at 37¼@37⅜c to 37½c, and declined to 37@37⅛c.

Provisions were firm on light offerings, higher hogs and fair call from shorts. First transactions were at 2½@12½c advance. Prices made a further gain, the September option selling at $22.20 for pork, $12.25 for lard and $12.20 for ribs.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Follows Movement in Chicago in Only Small Degree.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 26.—Liquidation in the Chicago pit set in early today, and continued throughout the entire session. Minneapolis followed the sharp decline resulting, but in only a conservative way. However, July wheat declined 2¾c from the early high price, and closed 2½c below yesterday. Local elevator stocks decreased 550,000 bu for five days. Wheat and flour shipments so far this week are 310,379 bu in excess of the wheat receipts. Minneapolis today received 141 cars of wheat, against 104 cars a year ago; Duluth 29 cars, against 2 cars; and Winnipeg 178 cars, against 27 cars. May opened $1.07¾; high, $1.07¾; closed, $1.05⅞. July opened $1.07; high, $1.07¼; low, $1.04; closed, $1.04½@1.04⅝. September opened 96¼c; high, 96¾c; low, 93c; closed 93@93⅜c.

Cash wheat was in strong demand, choice offerings met with keen competition among the local millers. No. 1 northern sold for 1½@4c above the July contract. Closing prices: No. 1 northern, $1.06@1.08⅝; to arrive, $1.05⅝@1.07¾; No. 2 northern, $1.04@1.06⅝; to arrive, $1.02⅝@1.05⅝. No. 3 wheat, $1.00@1.03. No. 3 yellow corn, 55@55½c. No. 3 white oats, 35½@36⅜c. No. 2 rye, 70@72c.

Flax—Receipts, 6 cars; year ago, 2; shipments, 7. Demand continued strong for spot flaxseed at 2½c below the Duluth May price and to arrive at the even July. Closing prices, $2.18½.

Barley—Receipts, 39 cars; year ago, 17. shipments, 32. The market was easy early and still easier later. Demand was only fair.

Timothy—Lower, but later they were 1@3c lower. Closing range, 50@60c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,701 tons. There was no change in the market today. Bran in 100-lb sacks, $18.00@18.25.

Flour—The market today was about steady. Prices were lowered on account of the decline in wheat. Some millers reported a better demand. Shipments, 54,722 bbl. First patents in wood f.o.b. Minneapolis, $5.20@5.40; second patents, $5.00@5.20; first clears, $4.05@4.15; second clears, $2.80@3.10.

New York Grain.

New York, May 26.—Close: Wheat—May, 1.08; July, $1.02⅝; September, 98⅝c. Corn—July, 67¾c; September, 67c.

Liverpool Grain.

Liverpool, May 26.—Close: Spot dull; No. 2 red western winter, no stock; futures easy; May, 6s 5¾d; July, 6s 6¾d; October, 6s 8¾d. Corn—Spot quiet; old American mixed, 5s 7¾d; new kiln dried, 5s 3¾d; via Galveston, 5s 6¼d; futures steady; July, 5s 11d; September, 4s 9¾d.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Higher Prices in London Help to Opening Recovery Here.

Refutation of Wednesday's Rumors Put End to Declines.

New York, May 26.—Higher prices for stocks in London today helped to an opening recovery here in some quarters, but other stocks were lower. The dealings were quite active at first but the activity quickly subsided. International Harvester sold at an advance of 1¾, Reading 1 and Atchison, American Smelting and Central Leather large fractions. Utah Copper fell ⅝.

Stocks that had shown some strength at the opening were sold, notably Reading, but after the important stocks had receded to about yesterday's closing, the advance was resumed with prices averaging better than at the start. Consolidated Gas and Central Leather gained 1¼ and Wabash preferred and Virginia-Carolina Chemical 1. Brooklyn Union Gas sagged 2 points.

Refutations of yesterday's alarming rumors put a stop to the falling prices. Recoveries were slight and incomplete, and the idleness of the market which followed made the speculative sentiment doubtful. Canadian Pacific rose 1, International Paper 1¾ and the preferred 2. Sloss-Sheffield declined 2⅝. The tone was heavy at noon. Bonds were steady.

The market closed firm and quiet. Prices rose an additional fraction, but slowly. The result was to place Southern Pacific 1¾ higher than last night, Louisville & Nashville 1½, Union Pacific 2, New York, Chicago and St. Louis 3, and Atchison, Atlantic Coast Line, Baltimore & Ohio, Norfolk & Western, Ontario and Western, Kansas & Texas and Northwestern 1. Toledo, St. Louis & Western declined 1¾.

EXPULSION OF JEWS IS BEGUN

St. Petersburg, May 26.—The exodus of Jewish families from Kiev has begun. The total departures from that city up to last night were 300 prescribed families belonging exclusively to the poorest classes.

The expulsion is attended with harrowing sights.

Throughout the day, a straggling train of wagons passed out of the city gates carrying the miserable household effects of the banished. All was confusion. Sobbing women clinging to their little ones and sad faced men were alike escorted outside the town limits and told to return to the places of their birth.

A different procedure is adopted toward the Jews who have some wealth. They, however, are put to great expense.

SUPERIOR

FALLING PULLEY KILLS FOREMAN

Jack Ross, 51 years old, one of the oldest foreman in the employ of Heyll & Patterson, a contracting firm, which is building a new coal dock on Connors Point for the Pittsburg & Reading Coal company, was instantly killed this morning, when a broken pulley fell and struck him.

Ross was superintending the work in charge of a crew of iron workers. Through some accident, one of the heavy pulleys gave away and dropped to the floor of the dock. Ross did not see it in time and before he could dodge, the object struck him, breaking his skull.

Ross was a widower and formerly lived in Pittsburg. He had been in the employ of the company for the past ten years. He has worked at the head of the Lakes for the past year. His body will be sent to Pittsburg, where burial will be made.

BRANDEIS DECLARES BALLINGER UNFIT TO HOLD PUBLIC TRUST

Attorney Defends Glavis, Pinchot and Kerby in His Argument.

Paints Secretary of Interior as Weakling or Even Worse.

Summing Up Before Committee Is Begun at Washington.

Washington, May 27.—In summing up the case of the so-called "prosecution," before Ballinger-Pinchot investigating committee today, Attorney Louis D. Brandeis, counsel for L. R. Glavis, declared that it had been conclusively established that Secretary Ballinger is not a man "so zealously devoted to the interests of the common people, so vigilant and resolute in resisting the insidious aggressions of the special interests, that he may be safely relied on to carry forward the broad policy of conservation of our national resources.

"That he is subject to far severer criticism we firmly believe," added Mr. Brandeis.

Mr. Brandeis spoke about two hours. He referred to Mr. Glavis as "the ideal public servant," and to Gifford Pinchot as "a man of character so high as to be even above the suspicion of self-seeking."

Defended Kerby's Action.

He vigorously defended the action of Stenographer Frederick M. Kerby in making public confidential information of the interior department bearing on the preparation of the Lawler memorandum, and said, "to criticise Kerby for this act involves a total misconception of the nature of our government."

"The secretary of the interior, the trustee for the people of the public domain, should have the ability to stand up against every one and should be vigilant," declared Mr. Brandeis. "Would anyone think of dubbing our present secretary 'Stonewall' Ballinger? Instead of being unswerving, he

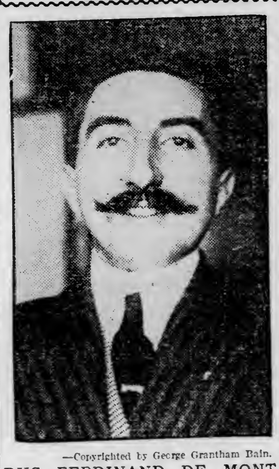
WILL HUNT MEXICAN AND CANADIAN GAME



—Copyrighted by George Grantham Bain.

DUC FERDINAND DE MONTPENSIER.

New York, May 27.—The Duc de Montpensier has arrived in New York and later will go to Mexico and Canada to hunt, both with the gun and with a cinematograph. He is more interested in his moving picture machine than in his twenty cases of sporting arms. The duke is an uncle of the king of Portugal, and an officer of the Spanish navy.

VOTE SOON IN SENATE

Railroad Bill Is Center of Much Activity By Members.

Many Amendments Are Killed in Course of the Day.

Washington, May 27.—That the senate would vote today on the new railroad bill was the expectation about the capitol this morning. There is little doubt that the measure will be passed, though probably in a form so different from that in which it was adopted by the house that an extended conference will be necessary before the two branches of congress will be able to agree on any complete draft of the measure.

Through the defeat yesterday of a number of amendments offered by "insurgent" Republicans and Democrats the way was paved for a vote today. Then it is expected the senate will adjourn until Monday, when the statehood bill probably will be made the unfinished business.

More was accomplished during the closing hours of the session today than in any one week during the three months the bill has been the pending business.

Voting Was Rapid.

When Senator La Follette concluded his two-days' speech in opposition to the bill, the voting proceeded rapidly, with the following results:

The Cummins amendment, requiring the approval of the interstate commerce commission of all increases in railroad rates before they became effective was voted down, 29 to 43; the Martin amendment, requiring the commission to reach a final decision on increases within six months, was defeated, 18 to 54; an amendment by Mr. Clarke of Arkansas, to defer increased rates until passed upon by the committee, putting them into effect after six months, pending a final decision,

DULUTH MEN WIRE MILLER

Telegraph Protests Against Proposed Increase in Freight Rates.

Congressman Says Railroads' Action Proves Value of New Bill.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, May 27.—Practically all the jobbers in Duluth have wired Congressman Miller protesting against the proposed advances in freight rates by railroad companies affecting the Northwest. Congressman Miller at once took the matter up with the attorney general to try to secure some action by him that the proposed advance might be prevented.

"This proposed increase of from 10 to 40 per cent is a positive outrage, says Mr. Miller. "It is an outrage upon the consumers of the country and upon the jobbing and retail interests. Manifestly it is to anticipate the passage of the pending railroad bill and the great value of this pending bill is revealed by this act upon the part of the railroads."

HEIKE'S MATES TO ADMIT GUILT

Three Sugar Fraud Defendants Will Plead Guilty to Charges.

New York, May 27.—Three of the defendants in the sugar underweighing conspiracy trial will plead guilty, their counsel, Henry H. Cochrane, announced today. The men are Former Assistant Dock Superintendent Harry W. Walker and two government weighers, Jean F. Voelker and James Harrigan, Jr.

Charles R. Heike yesterday heard Henry L. Stimson, for the government slowly read letters in which Heike spoke of the "liberal weights returned from the customs house." As secretary-treasurer of the American Sugar Refining company, Heike is charged with conspiracy to defraud the government of customs dues on imports of raw sugar. Five subordinates are being tried with him.

Counsel for Heike fought bitterly to bar the letters, but Judge Martin overruled the objections and they became the heart of the record.

Destroyed Some Statements.

William A. Bryan, a clerk in Heike's office, testified that in March, 1909, he destroyed a package marked "technical statements, 1906," at Heike's direction. This was four days after the termination of the goernment suit for the recovery of some $2,000,000 in duties from the company.

The government did not rest its case as had been expected.

Freak of Currents Adds New Horror to Tragedy of the Deep.

Stories of Cause of Accident to French Craft at Variance.

Calais, France, May 27.—Working desperately in response to what some of their number declared to be rapped signals from men imprisoned within the sunken submarine Pluviose, the divers about the ill-fated craft this afternoon suddenly saw the wreck lifted by the current from its resting place on the mud bed of the English channel and swept from their view. Subsequent efforts to locate the wreck have failed, and if, as was suspected, any of the twenty-seven men aboard her were alive up to this morning, there is now no possibility of their being rescued from death by suffocation in the ruined naval craft.

Hull Badly Damaged.

Reports made by the divers, who under great difficulty, attempted an examination of the wreck, indicate that the hull of the submarine was crushed in the collision.

PROBE SINKING OF THE DEWEY

Authorities Find Open Valves and Uncovered Manholes in Drydock.

Manila, May 27.—Open valves and uncovered manholes permitted the partial submersion of the United States drydock Dewey at Olongapo in Subig bay Tuesday. A board of inquiry is pursuing a rigid investigation of all the circumstances that might have a bearing on the affair.

The dock has been raised ten inches in twelve hours through the use of the starboard pumps assisted by the tugs Pocataqua and Wompatuck. Centrifugal pumps will be installed tomorrow, and it is expected that the great floating dock will be raised and restored to usefulness within a few days.

CHILD EATS CORN SOAKED IN ARSENIC.

PRESIDENT IS PAINED

Writes Letter to Tawney About Criticism of His Travel Bills.

"Suggested Reflection on Southern Hospitality" Especially Affects Him.

Washington, May 27.—President Taft today sent to Chairman Tawney of the house committee on appropriations a letter expressing deep resentment at the criticisms passed by Democrats in house debate yesterday upon the traveling expenses of the president.

The president says he is especially distressed by "suggested reflection on Southern hospitality."

The president's letter follows:

"The White House, Washington, May 27, 1910.—My dear Mr. Tawney: I am deeply grieved over the phase which the discussion of the appropriation for the traveling expenses for the president took yesterday. I think it is a legitimate argument in favor of such an appropriation that congressmen and many others press the acceptance of invitations to visit their sections and districts, because the urgency of such requests influences the opinion on the part of the people that one

COMPROMISE HERESY CASE

Presbyterians Practically Exonerate New York Synod of Charges.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 27.—The Presbyterian general assembly today practically exonerated the New York synod in the heresy case. The report of the judicial committee was a compromise.

The assembly was today torn with dissension yesterday over the efforts of Homer Castle, the recent prohibition nominee for governor of Pennsylvania, to force the convention to adopt a resolution declaring itself politically against the liquor traffic. Amid disorder lasting nearly an hour the assembly finally passed the resolution in a modified form, eliminating the political reference.

Sensational accusations against the men and women of the West in the Far East were made by Rev. Arthur J. Brown, secretary of the board of foreign missions.

"The worst men in the Far East," said Mr. Brown, "are not the natives but the dissolute white men. The name 'American girl' is today a reproach on the streets of Shanghai, as it means there 'the most beautiful prostitute.'"

Supreme Court Ruling Removes Last Hope of Freedom.

Decision of Judge Dibell Denying New Trial Is Upheld.

Has Been in County Jail for More Than Two Years.

William Schreiber must serve the sentence of life imprisonment in the state penitentiary at Stillwater imposed on him by Judge H. B. Dibell of the district court, on conviction of the murder of Frank Massapust, the supreme court today sustaining Judge Dibell's denial of a new trial.

Schreiber has been in the county jail for over two years, protesting his innocence of the charge against him, and hoping for freedom. The murder was committed Feb. 8, 1908. April 28 of the same year Schreiber was arrested. He was tried in December, 1908, and after the jury had been out forty-seven hours, a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree was returned.

Schreiber's attorneys, Ross & McKnight, made a strong fight for their client. Their first motion for a new trial was denied by Judge Dibell, and they made another motion, alleging newly discovered evidence. That motion was also denied, and Schreiber was then sentenced to life imprisonment, Judge Dibell using his discretionary power in not fixing the death penalty. The appeal to the supreme court was Schreiber's last hope, and today's decision removes that hope. Schreiber is still in the county jail here.

Following is the supreme court's syllabus in the case:

"1. In a prosecution for murder in the first degree it is held that the death of the person charged in the indictment to have been killed was sufficiently established by direct proof, within the meaning of the statutes, and that the evidence justified the jury in finding defendant guilty of the crime.

"2. No errors were committed on the trial, and the court did not abuse its discretion in denying defendant's motion for a new trial, based on the ground of newly discovered evidence."

CALLS BILL "INFERNAL"

West of Oklahoma in Tirade Against Railroad Measure.

Addresses the Meeting of Attorneys General at St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Election of officers and selection of the next convention city and report of the committee on resolutions were most important matters to come today before the National Association of Attorneys-General which is holding its meeting here. In addition there were several addresses and discussions on railroad legislation and the federal railroad bill.

Charles West, attorney-general of Oklahoma, who was to have spoken yesterday on "The Federal Railroad Bill," delivered his address today. "Railroad Rates and Powers of Railroad Commissions," was the subject of a talk by Attorney General W. T. Thompson, of Nebraska. Anti-trust legislation in its relations to the railroads also came up for discussion.

The convention will close tonight with a banquet at the St. Paul hotel, at which the attorneys general of the various states and Governor Eberhart will be the guests of honor.

Railroad Bill Flayed.

In his talk today before the association on the federal railroad bill, Charles West, attorney general of Oklahoma, made a terrific attack on some of its provisions. Talking of the proposed amendment eliminating a clause which might take from the state railway commissions all their power, he said it was "revolutionary, ill-advised and infernal."

"There is in this bill," he said, "something which caught the attention of the minority of the committee of the house, but so far as I can see from the papers has not created in the country at large the sensation it deserves. It is the proposed amendment (It is section 1 of the present interstate commerce act, which is section 6 A of house bill mentioned) in which it is proposed to omit that proviso containing this language:

"'That the provisions of this act shall not apply to the transportation of property or to the receiving, delivering, storage or handling of property wholly within one state and not shipped to or from a foreign country or from or to any state or territory aforesaid.'"

Calls It Infernal.

PERFECT RECORD WITH BIG GUNS

Navy Marksmen Score Sixteen Bulls-Eyes in Sixteen Shots.

Norfolk, Va., May 27.—A new world's record for big gun shooting, which incidentally emphasizes the superiority of United States naval marksmanship, has just been made by the new battleship South Carolina. With her forward turret 12-inch guns she made sixteen "bulls-eyes" target hits out of sixteen shots in 4 minutes and 51 seconds.

WRECK VICTIM WINS.

Given $1,380 Verdict in $10,000 Suit Against Railroad.

Fargo, N. D., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The jury in the United States court brought in a verdict of $1,380 for D. J. Cohn, who sued the Great Northern road for $10,000 for injuries received at Georgetown, Minn.

ADMITS MURDER JUST TOO SOON

Colorado Prisoner Acts on Mistaken Idea That Pardon Was Refused.

Denver, Colo, May 27.—Believing that his application for a pardon had been denied, when really it had been continued for further investigation, Moises Freyas, a Mexican serving life sentence for murder in the state penitentiary at Canon City, has sworn to an affidavit declaring he committed another murder for which Juan Duran, a fellow Mexican, is serving a sentence. The two murders, which were committed in the vicinity of Trinidad ten years ago, were closely connected.

Not until he had signed his confession to the second murder did Freyas know that his application for pardon had been received with enough favor to warrant the board of pardons in making a careful investigation of his case. The investigation will now be transferred to Duran's case.

EXPERTS FIGURE IN DOXEY TRIAL

Question of Arsenic in Medicine Is to Be Raised.

St. Louis, Mo., May 27.—That expert testimony is to play an important part in the trial of Mrs. Dora E. Doxey, charged with the murder of William J. Erder, developed during the testimony this morning.

Dr. J. A. Hartmann of the coroner's office was the first witness called when court reconvened, he having been sworn when adjournment was taken last night.

The question of whether Erder, before his death, was suffering from a malady for which arsenical compounds are used, was raised repeatedly in the cross examination of witnesses by Mrs. Doxey's attorneys today.

Mrs. Doxey paid close attention to the physician's testimony.

ALBANY STREET CARS TIED UP BY STRIKE.

Albany, N. Y., May 27.—The entire trolley system of the United Traction company in Albany was tied up this morning by a strike. The strike was declared owing to a disagreement as to the Renessalear car crews running their cars through Albany to the circus grounds.

BIG CHEMICAL PLANT IS RAZED BY FLAMES.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., May 27.—The plant of the Hooker Development company, one of the largest chemical companies in this country, was destroyed by fire early today. Loss $400,000.

HUGHES WINS ALL BUT THE PRIMARY

May Call Special Session of Legislature to Pass That Measure.

Albany, N. Y., May 27.—With visions of being called back into extra sessions because of their failure to enact such electoral reforms as are advocated by Governor Hughes, 200 tired legislators prepared to leave for their homes today.

Starting with the most sensational bribery trial in the legislative annals of the state and ending in a red hot fight over the various direct primary measures, the session which ended at noon today has been one of the most strenuous in years. As a net result Governor Hughes fails to secure his pet direct nominations scheme, but has obtained favorable legislation on all his other more important recommendations. These include the state's refusal to indorse the proposed income tax amendment to the federal constitution; a resolution calling for a general investigation of corrupt practices; the placing of telephone and telegraph companies under supervision of the public service commission; strengthening the laws against race track gambling; acceptance by the state of the Harriman park gift and the further extension of the Palisades Park system; a proposed constitutional amendment looking to the development of water power within the forest preserve; a law recognizing the principle of an employer's liability; more stringent measures for the suppression of the white slave traffic, and important reforms in the insurance and banking laws.

ROASTS CREAM CITY SOCIALISTS

Phelps-Stokes Denounces Them as Nothing But Reformers.

New York, May 27.—J. G. Phelps-Stokes, New York millionaire socialist, is not at all satisfied with the kind of Socialism which won recently in the Milwaukee municipal elections.

Speaking at the annual dinner of the Collectivist society here, last night, Mr. Phelps-Stokes said:

"It is a great grief to me to be obliged to seem to cast any reflections on the achievements of the Milwaukee comrades, but honor compels me to confess that I don't think there was any such thing as a Milwaukee 'victory.' The Milwaukee Socialists compromised with capitalists. I have read quotations from their election speeches which declared that small business men need not fear because the Social Democratic party did not object to reasonable profits.

"Is this socialism? Do men who utter such sentiments have clear visions? They are mere reformers, not Socialists at all."

State Argues Browne Case.

Chicago, May 27.—The state today presented its argument against the motion to quash the indictment of Lee O'Neil Browne, who is charged with bribing C. A. White, a state representative, to vote for William Lorimer for United States senator.

BIG INCREASE IN CANADIAN TRADE

Exports Amount to $45,000,000 More Than They Did Last Year.

Washington, May 27.—Canada is becoming one of the best customers of the United States. Exports of domestic merchandise from this country to Canada during the first ten months of the current fiscal year were greater by $45,000,000 than in the same period of the previous year, while the total increase in exports to all parts of the world during the same period was only $55,000,000.

The increase in exports to Canada was 35 per cent for the month of April, 1910, the increase over the preceding April being 47 per cent. The value of the exports to Canada during the first ten months of the present fiscal year was $174,500,000. The increase was largely in manufactured articles, although there was an increase of $2,000,000 in the coal value, as also in cotton, and an increase in wheat from 724,671 to 2,022,676 bushels.

In agricultural implements the increase was from $1,569,831 to $2,400,772, and in automobiles from $1,123,273 to $3,057,456.

Mrs. Clapp and her daughter, Miss Ella Clapp, will leave town tomorrow for their home in St. Paul, where they will be joined by Senator Clapp, after the adjournment of congress.

Heads Lincoln Institute.

Lexington, Ky., May 27.—Dr. George A. Hubbell, a former member of the faculty of Transylvania university here and now of Columbia university, New York, has been made president of the Lincoln Memorial Institute at Cumberland Gap, Tenn., succeeding William L. Stooksberry, according to an announcement made here today.

Y. M. C. A. WORK IN MINING CAMP

Frank T. Downing, for five and one-half years a department secretary in the Duluth Young Men's Christian association, is in the city for a few days visiting friends. For the past year Mr. Downing has been a student at the Y. M. C. A. training school at Chicago and next Monday he will leave for Arizona to take charge of an industrial association at the camp of the Miami Copper Mining company.

Mr. Downing has many friends in Duluth who are interested in his progress in association work. He was membership secretary of the Duluth association during the campaign for members that preceded the occupying of the new building and his efforts aided largely in building the membership up to its present substantial figures. He is a hard worker, enthusiastic and untiring and his firends look for him to make a success of his new position in the Southwest.

FRANK T. DOWNING.

The Miami Copper company has about 800 men employed in the development of its properties and a Y. M. C. A. building has recently been erected for them. Mr. Downing will be general secretary and he will work among the men, offering the social and religious opportunities of the association for the uplifting of the camp.

RESIGNATION TENDERED BY THE DANISH CABINET.

Copenhagen, May 27.—The resignation of the cabinet, whose policy of defence failed to receive support in the recent election, was placed before King Frederick by Premier Zahle today. His majesty asked that the ministers continue their duties pending the selection of their successors.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

One of the many Duluth business men who take a deep interest in the candidacy of Judge Alfred Jaques for congress is John A. Watterworth of the general contracting firm of Watterworth & Fee. "I have known Judge Jaques ever since he came to Duluth," said Mr. Watterworth. "We came here at the same time, twenty-six years ago, and I have been in close touch with the judge ever since that time. I have known him to be at all times a staunch, straight, honest man, always sincere, conscientious, faithful and dependable.

High Praise for Judge Jaques.

"It was in 1884 that we came here, he from Indiana with Mr. Hudson, and I from Canada. I had been traveling through this northern country for several months and came to locate here at the time Mr. Jaques came to hang out his shingle. Mr. Hudson was with him, and we three were thrown together in an intimate way through being boarders at the same boarding house. The friendship that had its beginning then has continued ever since, and I can say that I have not in that time had any occasion to modify my opinion of Judge Jaques as a man or my estimate of his abilities and equipment for any place of trust and responsibility.

"If the people of this district send Judge Jaques to congress they will have in the house of representatives a man who will represent them day in and day out. It is my belief that in the coming elections the Democrats will succeed in making the house of representatives a Democratic body, and conditions in the district, so far as I have observed, are favorable to Democratic success here. At any rate, the fact that Judge Jaques has consented to be the Democratic candidate insures that whatever chance there is for our party will be made the most of, for he is not only a man of exceptional fitness for the office but also has unusual ability as a campaigner.

"It is not only my hope, but my expectation that he will be elected, and that result cannot but be to the advantage to this district and is people, irrespective of party."

• • •

Concerning Representative W. S. Hammond, the Lake Crystal Union says he has made an excellent congressman. "His minority position in the house was of greatest benefit to the Second district and the state at large than if he had been on the majority side. For this reason the people should keep the different parties in control of the government about equally divided, in order that wholesome laws may be enacted."

• • •

A washington dispatch tells of a victory won by Congressman C. B. Miller over Postmaster General Hitchcock and J. Adam Bede. The story told in this dispatch is to the effect that Mr. Miller's postoffice recommendations had been held up by Hitchcock because of Miller's "insurgency," and that recently when Bede was at Washington he took the trouble to campaign against the congressman's recommendations, not offering any candidates for the postmasterships himself but endeavoring merely to make certain that Miller's selections should not be approved.

Miller Wins in Fight for Plums.

The Duluth man then went to the president and made a courteous demand for action on his recommendations, with the result that they were submitted to the senate, as follows:

A. S. Webb at Sandstone, M. H. Noble at Hinckley, Mrs. Claire Wilson at Proctor, Joseph J. Lloyd at International Falls, George L. Train at Chisholm and Harriet E. Morcom at Tower.

All these recommendations have been pending for several months, none of them less than five. At Sandstone and Chisholm the postmasters were removed, at International Falls the postmaster died last August and at Proctor the incumbent moved away. At Tower there was a reappointment, and at Hinckley the office was advanced to the presidential class Jan. 1.

"Representative Miller declares that the president made these appointments without demanding or receiving any assurance of support for pending administration measures," says the dispatch. "These are all the recommendations of presidential postmasters he has filed, and there is no doubt but that all the nominees will be confirmed."

The election of the men who will inaugurate Mankato's venture in municipal government under the commission plan has been held and the results are warrant that the city's experiment will be wisely conducted. Mayor A. G. Meyer, who has served for fourteen months as mayor under the old form of government, and who declared for the new scheme at the last election, defeated Charles T. Taylor for the office of executive by a majority of 232, and the four commission members elected received votes ranging from the total of 1,087 to that of 1,009, a difference between the highest and the lowest of only 78.

Mankato Makes Good Start.

A remarkable feature of the election is the case of Robert Lamm, who received the highest vote cast for alderman. Mr. Lamm found it necessary to leave the city on the morning after the primary election was held and he was unable to return from his business visit to Montana, so his campaign for election had to get along without his personal supervision. Mr. Lamm was in Montana when the votes were cast, but he led the commission ticket in spite of the fact of his absence throughout the campaign.

The campaign this month was livelier than that preceding the primary contest last week, and on election day the friends of the two candidates for mayor put forth every legitimate effort to land the prize for their favorite. This activity was evidenced mainly in the work of getting out the vote, carriages and autos scurrying about industriously all day, and as a result the total vote cast was 158 above that cast at the primary.

Mankato's commission is made up of these citizens: A. G. Meyer, mayor; Robert Lamm, B. Bangerter, Jr., Judson Humiston, Lawrence Henline. The members of the commission represent the city at large, ward lines having been eliminated. The mayor and one alderman live in the old fifth ward and the others are residents of the first, second and third wards.

Mr. Meyer, who is the proprietor of a marble works, is familiar with Mankato municipal affairs and is well qualified for the place to which he has been elected; Mr. Lamm is a young and popular business man, formerly a druggist and now a real estate operator; Mr. Henline is manager of a mercantile firm and president of the German-American State bank; Mr. Humiston is a comparatively recent comer to Mankato, a successful business man and an enthusiast in the cause of governmental reforms.

"What's the difference whether they belong to the Republican or the Democratic party, or to no party at all?" asks the Greenbush Tribune, noting that four two senators at Washington have been read out of the Republican party."

• • •

The Winona Independent is not one of those Southern Minnesota papers that occasionally show a disposition to make sectional warfare on the northern part of the state. The Independent says of the demand of Northern Minnesota for reapportionment:

Justice For The North.

"Northern Minnesota is hugging the delusion that the southern part of the state is opposed to a reapportionment that will be fair toward the northern half. Don't believe it, friends; don't believe it. There may be some opposition to fair play among those politicians of the southern half who have become so accustomed to wielding the big stick that they do not welcome the possibility of relinquishing their grip upon it, but the great majority of the people believe in a square deal and will see that it is made if they are shown how it may be done."

Speaking of Dr. A. B. Cole as a candidate for the Republican nomination for lieutentant governor, the Perham Bulletin says that the politicians may defeat him in the convention, "but it will injure the chances of the ticket in November." The Bulletin urges a "get together" movement and says Dr. Cole's nomination "would help as much as any one thing that could be done."

• • •

Rudolph Lee, editor of the Long Prairie Leader, is being boomed by the county optionists for the state senate, but Mr. Lee denied that he is a candidate and adds that William A. Lee likewise refuses to be a senatorial aspirant.

• • •

Senator E. E. Smith, who is being considered as a Republican state chairmanship possibility, has at last taken the required oath as lieutenant governor. When the boss of the senate fell heir to the chair on the occasion of Mr. Eberhart's elevation to the governorship, he delayed taking the oath. He did this because he preferred not to make it necessary to hold a special senatorial election in Minneapolis in the event that a special session of the legislature should be called.

Gets Better Place In Blue Book.

The oath of office was administered in Governor Eberhart's office yesterday, and when it was done, Minnesota had a lieutenant governor for the first time since Sept. 20 last. The state hasn't suffered appreciably from this cause, however, and in all probability the only result that will come from "Governor" Smith's action will be that in future blue books the Minneapolis man's name will appear in the list of Minnesota's lieutenant governors.

He has ceased to be a state senator, and if an extra session should be called the Minneapolis man would have no vote except in case of a tie. This point was settled in 1897, when Frank A. Day was ousted from his senate seat. Mr. Day became lieutenant governor in 1895 when David M. Clough succeeded Senator Nelson as governor. H. H. Dunn was elected to fill the vacancy in 1896, but Mr. Day claimed there was no vacancy. A contest was brought and Mr. Dunn was seated.

• • •

Governor Eberhart and Former Governor Lind have been invited to deliver addresses on different days at the Todd county fair at Long Prairie this fall, and the management is hopeful that they will accept. James J. Hill addressed a crowd of 6,000 people there last fall.

Splendid Budget of Saturday Specials

Come Children

Saturday is always Girls' Day at the S. & B. Co. store. There are so many Juvenile Fashions exploited these days in the Girls' Shop, that were we to mention them all you would grow weary of the reading—Random suggestions:

For a Dollar Bill there is a multitude of dresses that were made for wear and have lots of style to 'em.
Complete assortment of Percale Dresses at $2.50.
White Middy Dresses with blue kilted skirt, collar, cuffs and tie, at $3.75.

The noticeable thing about these dresses is the unfailing service they are sure to give and their cute trimmings never fail to captivate youthful eyes. The prices are in every instance most reasonable.

Juvenile Coats in Great Variety

Military Coats in red and blue, at $4.50—Coats from 4 to 18 years at $2.75 and up—Coats from 8 to 14 years, $6.50 to $18.50—Prices run up to $24.50. Materials are all of the best quality procurable at the price.

Coats—Latest Models

The day that the express man fails to show up with something new in coats is the exception. Just now prospective tourists want a good warm travelling coat—a Silk Coat, pongee or taffeta or one of the broadcloth evening wraps in summer tones—so effective over summer gowns.

Elegant Rajah Coats for travelling—full length—unlined, large buttons and large pockets, at $21.50.
Black Broadcloth Models — Half-lined, with black and white checkt silks, at $25.00.

Such a diversity of serges—in blue, that we can't begin to enumerate them all. Some half lined with foulard are $19.50.

Others—Semi-fitting, body lined with foulard—shawl collar faced with same silk, at $25.00.
Strictly Tailored Blue Serge Models with unique foulard and button treatments, at $32.50 and up.

Linen Garments

Linen Suits in tan and white—semi-fitting coat, pearl buttons, and pleated skirts, $11.50 to $18.50.
Linen Coats with the loose lines that spell coolness on a hot day—delightfully braided and trimmed, $10.75, $14.50 and up.

P. S.—While you are on the garment floor you must see the New Wash Dresses in black and white checks and ginghams with Dutch neck and short sleeves, at $6.75.

Egyptian Tissues in lavender stripes, green stripe and black and white stripe with hand embroidered and kilted skirt and side ruffle down the waist, at $9.50.

Linen One-Piece Dresses — Side-open-front from top to bottom with large pearl buttons and braided minglings that are showy and artistic—skirt tunic effect, at $15.00.

The Half Price Suit Sale Has This to Say:

Notwithstanding the fact that hundreds of Duluth women have made selections during the past ten days, we believe there are still a great many who haven't yet learned of this extraordinary Suit event. So Saturday we hope very woman in Duluth will share in the economies offered—for this is the yearly distribution of our well known Quality Suit Stocks at Half their markt prices.

(Custom Made and Summer Lines Alone Reserved.)

From the $75.00 Suits at $37.50, to the $25.00 models at $12.50—they are from the best makers in the land and are not to be compared with shoddy-looking special sale affairs—that particular women wouldn't have at any price.

What a comparison to our well known suits! Bear that in mind and you will realize the economical importance of this S. & B. Co. Mid-Season Half Price Suit Sale.

Fresh Interest in the White Sale

Because of recent shipments that should have been here last week assortments are practically as strong as at the opening of the sale.

To women who have been putting off buying their underclothes we would say prices are lower now than at any other time of the year. Look at these gowns for instance:

Regular $1.25 and $2.00 Gowns trimmed with lace and embroidery, also fine tucks, high and low neck, long and short sleeves—mades of fine and heavy muslin, at $1.00.

Other Gowns with imitation hand embroidered yokes, trimmed with dainty little lace edging, etc., regularly $2.25, at $1.50.

$2.25 and $2.75 Gowns at $2.00—You've never seen such Gowns as these before at this price.

As with the Gowns—So with the Combinations, Princess Slips, Corset Covers, Children's Underclothes and White Skirts and Drawers—all are selling at "commutation prices."

The Higher Priced Undermuslins are quoted at an additional 10 per cent off from regular sale prices NOW.

Sale of Fine Millinery

This being the first of the season, is lookt forward to eagerly by Duluth women: for there are no hats in town like S. & B. Co. models and when the call of reduced prices sounds the onset, it is always a memorable event.

Any Hat in the House, Up to $10.00, on sale Saturday at $5.00

Any Hat in the House, Up to $18.00, on sale Saturday at $10.00

(Black and white Hats alone excepted.)

SETTLER'S WIFE FOUGHT FLAMES SINGLE HANDED

Dramatic Story Told in Letter From North Shore Farmer.

The most dramatic and appealing story that has yet come out of the north woods as a result of the recent forest fires is told in a letter received by The Herald today by Carl Fridblom, a settler at Schroeder, whose farm buildings and home were wiped out by the flames.

Mr. Fridblom has been a subscriber to The Herald for some time, as he tells in his letter, and he writes to explain why he does not pay his subscription. The letter in its simple, direct style, points such a dramatic picture of the havoc wrought by the fires that it is published in full. Incidentally Mr. Fridblom has sent a receipt for the $5 he mentions, and a year's subscription in advance.

The letter follows:

To the editor of The Herald:

Some time last summer I subscribed for your paper through an agent, who traveled by here. I have received it regularly ever since. I have eagerly anticipated each mail that brought it; I have read it with interest and I have felt thankful that there was a paper so broad-minded and so full of righteousness and sense on every page, and that I had a chance to read it.

I had meant to send you $5 in payment one of these days. I had made a good winter's work which had given me enough cash to provide for my needs for a half year, to pay what little debts I had and to keep us comfortable for the time being, and we were contented and looked forward with confidence to the future. But on the 10th of this month the great backblow came.

"There was a forest fire going east of my place, let loose by a neighbor the previous day. He had three heaps of stumps on the top of a hill, which he had set his heart on having burnt that very day. The wind was high, everything was dry as powder, the sun was bright and shining—but he could wait no longer. He had waited too long already and he wanted his spring clearing done.

"So he let Beelzebub loose, and out it went over hill and dale, borne by a swift northwestern gale. It took jumps a mile long, it set everything on fire, birch trees, grass, ground and threatened the lives of man and animal. Rabbits were seen rolling out of the flames, fleeing towards the lake and the people were set busy to defend themselves against their all consuming enemy.

Temporary Security.

"The first day went by and the next day arrived, but the fire seemed to avoid my place and I could see no immediate danger so I went out on my day's work clearing out some brush on a hill near the house. Suddenly my neighbor one-half mile north of me came galloping on horseback, calling for aid to quench a fire in the edge of his clearing brought there by sparks. No smoke from it could be seen from it from my place, the wind was north west as before and the fire east of us did not go in the direction of us.

"So I started out. This was at 11:15 a. m. Now we tried to stop the fire but it went away from us, and we could do nothing more than save the buildings.

Overcome By Smoke.

"The wind had by this time changed somewhat, and I was afraid my home was in danger so I started back, but I could only proceed a few rods. The smoke was so dense in the woods, that I had to stop, and wait for a while, but finally, though the smoke was terrible, I broke my way through, and was in ten minutes at home.

And what did I see when I stepped out from the road leading into my clearing? Fire, fire, fire! My barn to my right was going up in flames; my house in front of me going up in flames the little chicken house a little further off with three setting hens in flames; forty cords of split cordwood, my spring wood, melting down to cinders, the grass and ground burning; the forest burning, east, west, north and south of me. Where was my wife? I called for her, no answer. I walked away towards the older part of the clearing where a creek crept by and the ground was moist so as not to catch afire.

All She Could Save.

There she sat, head bent, seemingly in a stupor, for she did not stir and did not seem to recognize me. When I came close up to her, she lifted her head, pointed to a small purse containing what little money we had, and said very meekly: "This is all I could save."

When I was gone, she kept on her watch all the time, put on a pair of overalls, and started to carry water, filling tubs and tanks. She did not, however, notice any smoke arise from our neighbor's place until one-half hour after I was gone. As soon as the first little cloud appeared she commenced to sprinkle water around the houses and on spots, which might catch fire and be a menace to the buildings. In vain she looked around for me or some one else to come to her aid. So she had to meet alone first the big wave flames and smoke, that came with a tremendous rush and roaring right on the barn, where twenty chickens were housed.

Fought Fire Alone.

"She had put up a ladder to go up on the roof of the barn, if necessary, and braved for a while smoke and fire trying to save the barn. But those could not be resisted, and she had to leave it to devastation.

"The first wave of fire subsided, but another was in advance, and it came on more frightful than the first one. It brought over the clearing a rain of sparks, and the smoke grew so dense that my wife was driven into the house for breath. Again she went out, standing close to the house ready with pails of water, in case some spark would light the house. Suddenly she perceived a small flame on the roof, and up she went on a ladder that stood raised against the wall, and succeeded in putting out the little flame, but then, to her indescribable horror, she heard how the fire was burning loudly between the tarpaper and the boards of the roof, forced on by the furious wind. In her fright she dropped herself down to the ground without using the ladder and rushed in, only to find fire in every corner of every room at one time. Realizing that all was lost and that another minute would entirely fill the house with smoke and fire, she dashed through to catch the small purse containing what money we had. And she had to be in such a haste in doing this that she did not find time to take a skirt to put over her overalls. Once out again, everything outside was so on fire that she stood wondering for a while if she could escape with her life, looking every way she could until she discovered that the older part of the clearing, when the smoke now and then thinned by a gust of wind, was safe.

Lasted Only an Hour.

"In less than an hour it was all over and there we stood now on the bare and burned ground without food, without clothes, without a shelter for ourselves and animals, a cow and two heifers, which were let out to save themselves as best they could.

"The cow stable was gone—my good cow stable, only a year old, built by myself and my wife without foreign aid; light and warm in winter, made large enough for eight cows. And the twenty chickens, too, were consumed by the fire. My house, two years old, comfortable and roomy and likewise altogether our own hands' work, gone! And all its contents—our good clothes, the household outfit, food and feed for ourselves and animals for one-half a year, $25 worth of goods just unpacked and, worst of all, the start towards a small chicken business that would have given us a yearly income —forty-two newly hatched chickens in a brooder and an incubator with 110 eggs; all our papers—citizenship paper, patent of the land, just received from the land office, and many others of great value to us; our books in five languages and manuscripts that cannot be restored. The fire went also over to the older part of the clearing and took the buildings—an old barn with twenty chickens and a very good hay shed, so that in all five buildings were burned.

"Most of the growing grass was also destroyed, so I am not sure that I can keep my cows through the winter. Not only that, but also their feed for the summer was spoiled, for the ground is black for miles, so they have wandered away in search of food, leaving me without the good milk and butter which I had in abundance before. And the cows are liable to be spoiled through not being milked, into the bargain.

The Ruin Complete.

"So the ruin has been made complete.

"Seven years ago I came in here and filed on this homestead. During these years my wife and I have put in all our time and all our energies in preparing a home and a livelihood. And we had just now finished the start, and felt contented and happy in the hope, that the worst hardships were over and the future settled. And now, there we are! Stripped bare like newborn children, poorer than seven years ago, when we had at least our two big trunks with good clothing, our books and a few things, dear to our hearts; porer than at the start, reduced to beggary. And in a remote, thinly populated locality—the whole town of several square miles not containing seventy-five persons.

And now also, backwards seven years, still with seven years less future and corresponding vigorous health fifty-one years seven years ago! Hod old now? And how we loved it all, loved the invigorating, fine climate, loved the nature, loved to see how the wilderness was transformed into an abode and home, loved to cut and clear and then to dig and plant! This is the second time, the fire goes over our fruit trees, now destroyed. But still we must bear in mind the story of King Alfred and the spider—and that is what we are doing—we still live.

"The purse saved contained $60, of this only $10 belonged to us, $35 belonging to a firm in Duluth for food stuffs now destroyed; $10 more for the incubator, also destroyed, and $5 ought to be for The Herald. But now, my dear Herald can you wait for yours? That is for what I owe you for the past year. For the nearest future I must renounce reading you, the needs of the stomach going before those of the brains, the needs of which latter must be considered as luxuries in a case like this.

POSTAL BANK BILL ON SNAG

House Republicans Will Have Yet Another Caucus Session.

Washington, May 27.—The Republican house caucus on the postal savings bank bill struck the expected snag last night when it reported section 9 of the Gardner bill, having to do with the disposition of the deposits of postal savings. The caucus adjourned, after three hours deliberation, until tonight.

The Gardner bill, on which the caucus was working, would permit 47½ per cent of the deposits to be withdrawn by the board of trustees and invested in government bonds or other securities; 5 per cent additional to be used as a reserve, and require the remaining 47½ per cent to be kept in the local banks in the city where the postal deposits were received.

More for Local Banks.

When this section was reached there was a flood of amendments offered by members representing various sections of the country, but all seeking to increase the amount of deposits which under the law would remain in the local banks.

Representative Vreeland offered one amendment increasing to 72½ per cent the amount which should remain in the local banks. Various other amendments proposing the retention in local banks of from 55 to 70 per cent of the deposits were rejected.

An amendment offered by Representative Kusterman of Wisconsin provided that no interest should be paid on deposits remaining uncalled for after five years, but this was rejected.

Size of Deposits.

When the proposition of limiting the total of individual deposits to $500 was reached, a number of amendments were offered by Representative Madden of Illinois, proposing to increase this amount to varying amounts up to $1,000, but all were defeated by decisive votes.

The caucus upheld the provision in the bill fixing the rate of in terest to be paid to depositors at 2 per cent, and permitting the withdrawal of deposits under regulations to be prescribed by the board of trustees.

There were less than ninety members present at the caucus.

HANECY HEARD FOR LEE BROWNE

Decision on Motion to Quash Indictment Will Be Made Wednesday.

Chicago, March 27.—The appearance of Former Judge Elbridge Hanecy with counsel for the defense, and the announcement by Presiding Judge McSurley that his decision on the motion to quash the indictment would be returned Wednesday, were the developments here yesterday in the Lee Browne alleged bribery trial. Judge McSurley also stated before he adjourned court for the day that if the motion to quash the indictment was overruled, the trial ought to commence at the latest by Monday, June 6.

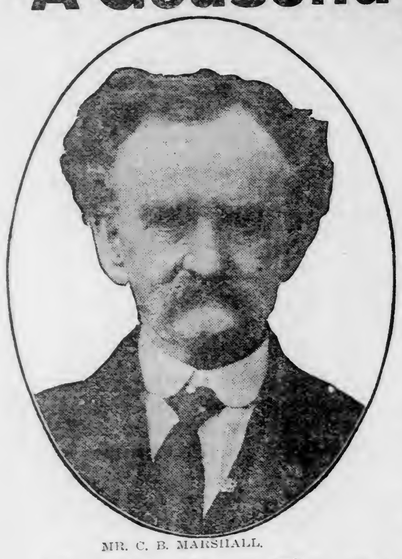
"A Godsend to Humanity"



MR. C. B. MARSHALL.

Mr. C. B. Marshall, a professional nurse, has been administering Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey to his patients for over twenty-five years and has always found it to be of great benefit to old people as a tonic stimulant and strength builder. At the present time he is using it with an old gentleman, 79 years of age, and it is restoring the old man to health, strength and vigor.

"I have used Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey 25 years or more, in cases of old age. I am a professional nurse. Just at present I am taking care of an old man 79 years of age, and am having him take your Malt. It is doing him lots of good and bringing back his good health. It has never failed to be of benefit to old people. It is a godsend to humanity. I have used it and have seen others use it, and never have seen it fail in the hundreds of cases." C. B. Marshall. Scranton, Ia.

This is but one of the thousands of letters received from doctors, ministers, nurses and all other professional people, as well as men and women in all walks of life who testify to the benefits and cures of this wonderful medicine.

When a man or woman lives to a good old age nature must be assisted in keeping the blood rich and properly circulated so that waste tissues may be repaired and muscles toned up to their best working condition.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

as a renewer of youth and tonic stimulant is one of the greatest strength-givers known to science. It is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain, great care being used to have every kernel thoroughly malted. When taken at mealtime it stimulates the mucous surfaces and little glands of the stomach to a healthy action, thereby improving the digestion and assimilation of the food and giving to the system its full proportion of nourishment. Its gentle and invigorating properties influence for good every important organ in the bdy. It makes the old feel young and keeps the young strong and vigorous. Prescribed by physicians, used in hospitals and recognized as a family medicine everywhere.

CAUTION—When you ask your druggist, grocer or dealer for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, be sure you get the genuine. It is an absolutely pure medicinal malt whiskey, and is sold IN SEALED BOTTLES ONLY—never in bulk. Look for the trade-mark, the "Old Chemist," on the label, and make sure the seal over the cork is unbroken. Price $1.00 a large bottle. Write Medical Department, The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y., for an illustrated medical booklet, containing testimonials and rare common sense rules for heatlh, and doctor's advice, both sent free.

FORTUNE FROM LIFE INSURANCE

Policy Paid to Friend Who Made Good Use of It.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 27.—The will of Josephine A. Coles, revealing the strange romance of an old colored woman, who left several valuable pieces of property and a personal estate to strangers, and only about one-third of her fortune to distant relatives, was filed in the register's office. Mrs. Coles was over 60 years of age, and notwithstanding that she had houses and flats in Pittsburg, she kept boarders and roomers until she died.

Mrs. Coles' fortune had its beginning in a strange manner. She had accumulated a few dollars and one day was asked by a friend to aid him in paying the premium on his life insurance policy of $5,000. The man agreed to make the policy over to her, it is related by her attorney, until he could pay back the premium advanced, she to be the beneficiary should he die in the meantime. Before he could settle he died, and Mrs. Coles received the principal of $5,000. She invested the money in a house at No. 5640 Rural avenue, where she kept boarders. From her earnings she erected three flats and from the income of these flats she bought other property on Harvard street.

About twenty-five years ago James R. Davis of the Highland park zoo, then a boy, went to board at her house in Rural avenue. He was very kind to Mrs. Coles, who took a great fancy to him, and although he called her mother for years, he was surprised to find he had been made the principal beneficiary in her will. About seven years ago a young girl went to live with her, who since married a man named Cralle. She was like a daughter to the old lady and she and her two babies get about a third of the estate. A small portion of the estate is left to distant relatives. Mrs. Coles has a husband living, but he received no bequest.

EGGS SOCIALISTS' WEAPONS.

Austrian Independent Leader Is Injured Severely By Opponents.

Vienna, May 27.—The Independent leader, Count Albert Apponyi, who made an electioneering visit to Temesvar last Sunday, was so roughly handled that he has retired to his country seat to recover.

A large body of Socialists received him at Temesvar, hooting him and bombarding his carriage with stones and rotten eggs. The driver, having been wounded by a stone, the carriage was stopped and Count Apponyi was struck by stones and eggs and beaten with the demonstrators' cudgels. The windows of the episcopal residence where Count Apponyi took refuge and passed the night were all smashed. The mayor of Temesvar apologized to Count Apponyi next day.

The Socialist leader was arrested at the railway station while waiting with rotten eggs and stones to bombard Count Apponyi on his departure.

COLE'S LIBEL SUIT UPHELD

St. Paul, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—"I would not have anything to do with him, nor touch him with a ten-foot pole."

It might be safe enough to make this remark about the average citizen, but it is libelous per se, according to the Minnesota supreme court, when said of a minister.

The decision was handed down today on the appeal of Daniel G. Cole, who had sued Frank R. Millspaugh for using those words, thereby keeping Cole out of the Congregationalist church pastorate.

The lower court held that the words were not libelous, but the supreme court reversed the decision.

JOHN L. TALKS ON BRITISH POLITICS

Former Champion Gives Opinion on Budget---Returns to See Fight.

New York, May 27.—John L. Sullivan had a few things to say on the Jeffries-Johnson fight today on his arrival from Europe and then staggered his interviewers by taking a long leap into the profoundities of political questions of Europe. The former heavyweight champion has been on a honeymoon in Europe and returned on the Mauretania to see the fight in San Francisco.

"Jeffries doesn't need old fellows like Corbett and Choynski in his training," said Sullivan. "What he needs are young fellows with a lot more speed than he has."

John L. said he never knew of a man who left the boxing game and then got back to form again.

"There's always the possibility though," added Sullivan, "for Jeffries is a hard man and a fighter from the word go. If he can get back into shape he's a better man than Johnson and he can whip him."

But the British budget seemed to hold more charm for the old fighter than things pugilistic.

"England, Ireland and Scotland are more impoverished than ever," he said. "All this money that Great Britain has been putting into her navy—you see, Germany has been forcing her to it by scaring her so much—has proved an awful strain and this here budget bill is just going to make things terrible."

Following which observation, John L. stalked down the steamer's gangplank.

OLDFIELD HAS NARROW ESCAPE.

Motor Speedway, Indianapolis, Ind., May 27.—While going about eighty miles an hour in a practice run before the first event was called, Oldfield driving a Knox car broke the steering knuckle in his machine while making the turn on the back stretch of the track. The car was thrown upon the embankment but Oldfield escaped injury.

AUTHOR OF THE GOLD STANDARD LAW DEAD

Indianapolis, Ind., May 27.—Jesse Overstreet, who represented this, the Seventh district of Indiana in congress from 1896 to 1908, died today at his home in this city after a long illness.

Jesse Overstreet was born in Johnson county, Indiana, Dec. 14, 1859, and after an academic and collegiate education was admitted to the bar in

SUPERIOR

DECLAMATORY CONTEST.

Miss Katherine Sarazin Wins First Place in Annual Event.

Miss Katherine Sarazin won first place in the annual declamatory contest of the Superior normal school last evening. Miss Vera Schultz captured second prize, and third place was awarded to Charles Cadigan.

The winners were each presented with a gold medal, donated by a local jeweler. There was a fair-sized audience in attendance. Because of the late date of the contest, the local normal will not send a representative to the Stanley Hall contest at Minneapolis this year.

In Municipal Court.

The $100 bail bond of C. Hoi, a Chinaman, was declared forfeited yesterday by Judge Parker of the municipal court, when the man did not appear for trial on a charge of selling poison without a label. He was arrested for dealing in opium.

S. L. Crotty, who was held by the police on a charge of having threatened his wife, was yesterday released on $100 peace bond.

Commencement Dates.

The commencement dates for the graduating class of the Superior normal school have been announced. They are as follows: May 31, examination by committee of regents; June 1, reception by President and Mrs. McCaskill to seniors; June 3, junior-senior party, probably at Hotel Superior; June 10, graduation exercises of "Model" school; June 11, senior play at normal; June 12, baccalaureate sermon; June 14, class day; June 15, reception and reunion; June 16, commencement program; June 16, alumni banquet.

Players Given Reception.

The Superior Stein club last evening tendered a reception to the Superior baseball club and the Red Wing team at the Stein club rooms in the Truax block. An informal program was carried out. Among the speakers were: Mayor F. R. Crumpton, W. J. Sommer, president of the Superior club, Manager Artie O'Dea and Manager Malloy of the Red Wing aggregation. Musical numbers were also given, and, at the close of the program, refreshments were served.

The Superior lodge of Elks held a big smoker and initiation last evening at the clubrooms at the Hammond block. Eight candidates were admitted to the mysteries of Elkdom. Besides those of the local lodge, there were several visiting Elks in attendance.

HURLS HERSELF BEFORE TRAIN

Chicago, May 27.—Clad only in a robe, Mrs. William Stroker, 43 years old, today committed suicide by throwing herself in front of a train. She had apparently arisen from bed and hurried to the railroad tracks. Her body was mangled. She is believed to have been temporarily deranged.

PERU MAY INSIST ON GOING TO WAR

Lima, Peru, May 27.—Another large contingent of the army is proceeding to the frontier today. Despite official assurances from Washington that Peru and Ecuador have accepted the arbitration of the United States, Brazil and Argentina in their boundary dispute, the popular opinion is that war is inevitable owing to the conditions which Ecuador imposed respecting mediation.

RAILROADS

TO OPEN RICH COUNTRY.

Big Blackfoot Railway in Montana Lets Extension Contract.

Missoula, Mont., May 27.—The big Blackfoot Railway company has awarded contracts for the construction of forty miles of road in an extension of its present line up Blackfoot river. Clifton Applegate will build fifteen miles from the present terminus at McNamara Landing to the mouth of Clearwater river, while others will construct twenty-five miles from Clear water up Blackfoot towards Nevada creek. The work is to be started immediately and the line will be completed this summer.

The present extension is from Bonner to Camas creek. The branch to be constructed will open wonderfully rich valleys to settlement. Freight and passenger connections will be made at Bonner with the Northern Pacific and Puget Sound railroads and the Missoula electric railroad.

In connection with the announcement of the awarding of the contract President Toole stated today that the lumber mill of the Big Blackfoot company at Bonner will not close during the winter months. The logs will be shipped by rail winter and summer and the drives adandoned.

Cattle Rates Reasonable.

St. Louis Mo., May 27.—Rates on cattle made by the interstate commerce commission are not confiscatory, according to the report of John J. Sedgon, special master appointed by the United States circuit court to take depositions in the case.

Copper Country Couple Wed.

Marquette, Mich., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Raymond Cundy of Houghton and Miss May Dix of Lake Linden were married Tuesday at St. Peter's cathedral, Father J. G. Pinten officiating. J. W. Cundy, a brother of the groom, was the best man. Both young people are well known in the Copper country and have many friends there. Miss Dix is a daughter of Nicholas Dix of Lake Linden and Mr. Cundy is a son of Mrs. Sarah Cundy.

If a few more table guests would make it profitable for you to keep boarders, then you have business for a Herald want ad.

VETERANS DECREASE

Muster of G. A. R. Posts Shows Many Deaths During the Year.

Thousands in Khaki Ready to Represent the Later War.

New York, May 27.—That death has claimed from a quarter to almost a half of the veterans of the Civil war within the twelve-month since they last marched behind their tattered colors is shown by a muster of the G. A. R. posts that has been made in this city. Scores of the aged boys in blue who last year tottered with their floral tokens to the graves of their comrades now await the coming Memorial day parade beneath the sod, these sad statistics show. Never in the history of this town have the preparations for this annual day of decoration impressed its people as deeply with the sorrowful significance of the occasion. In the great borough of Brooklyn little more than a full regiment of veterans can be rallied behind the colors, it is reported. While thousands of active men in khaki are ready to represent the later war, New York is heartsore over the pitiful lack of the older heroes which this year's march must exploit.

Judicial Jangles.

By raising the question of taking city-paid telephones away from the residences of the judges, a cautious controller has made more ermine bristle behind the bench than has ever been ruffled in all the court history of Gotham. For years the members of the judiciary have slept each night with a buzzing instrument at their ears ready to settle over the wire sudden questions of night bail. Though the city treasury was tapped to pay charges upon these nocturnal interruptions the judges have always considered the practice a matter of duty rather than a thing of graft. Today many of the irate dispensers of justice are threatening to tear from their walls the talking nuisances for which the watchdog of the city funds has suggested they pay themselves. Since the people have protested the cutting off of their judges from night contact, however, the authorities appear ready to continue this necessary city service.

Choosing Coaches.

For the first time in many years of furious motoring, society has today begun to take up with new enthusiasm the tooling of the coach-and-four. Regular runs for half a dozen daily coaches have been established about town, while each sunny afternoon is made the occasion for scores of four-in-hand trips by private parties. From noon till night Fifth avenue is now alive with the clear notes of the coach horn, rising far above the honk of automobiles. Horseflesh is once more receiving the same attention that was accorded it in the years before the public moved by motor, the experts report, and the day of the driving horse is nearer its dawn than its dusk. New Yorkers appear to welcome this return to their old love which is clearly shown by the revival of the old coaching days.

Martyred for Many.

Only a simple alms cup, presented to an uptown church in memory of Ruth Wheeler, today records the martyrdom of the little stenographer, whose giving up of her life has worked much for the protection of sister innocents. In the presence of the mother and sisters, for whose support she braved the perils of her tragic search for work, and the assistant district attorney who convicted the brutal Wolter, this tiny tribute has just been presented to her former rector. That many a guileless girl in her enforced search for work will be guarded by stricter law and policing is now assured as the result of the public shock at the fate of this girlish bread winner. "The Noble Army of Martyrs Praise Thee" is the inscription on the Ruth Wheeler memorial cup, and no one has yet disputed the title of "Saint Ruth" which a weeping clergyman spoke in receiving it.

Hounds in Hiding.

Bands of blooded fox hounds are today scoring the wilds of Staten Island with not a red coat behind them, since some malicious mischief maker turned loose the prize pack of the local hunt club. While stray members of this valuable canine troop are occasionally seen giving tongue behind a flying cat or goat, the police have as yet been utterly unable to round up these speedy fugitives. Society huntsmen are fuming at their peculiar plight and the overworked anise seed drag is at last resting from its labors. This sport of old England was never popular among the farmers of the island, and it is suspected that they are holding the hounds in hiding.

STRICKEN IN AUTO.

Machine Running Wild While Its Driver Was Dying.

East Orange, N. J., May 27.—While driving alone in his automobile here this afternoon, Lewis C. Gillespie of No. 39 North Arlington avenue was stricken with apoplexy. He was dead before medical attention could be procured from the Orange Memorial hospital.

The car was descending the hill east of Prospect street on Park avenue when Mr. Gillespie toppled over in his seat. It ran on without guidance past the Ashland street school at Clinton street, where it was boarded by Otto Larson, a chauffeur, and was brought to a stop. People had seen the car wavering on its way down the hill and feared that it would pitch into the gutter at the side of the road.

After he had brought the car to a stop, Larson was joined by Richard T. Post, who has an office nearby, and they hurried the unconscious man to the office of Dr. George C. Becket in North Walnut street. The physician was out, and at Mr. Post's suggestion the journey of two miles to the St. Mary's hospital in Orange was begun. Larson put on all speed and barely escaped being held up by the cycle cops.

At St. Mary's hospital there was no doctor, and no time was lost in circling the block and getting Mr. Gillespie to the Orange Memorial hospital. Just as his unconscious form was lifted out of the car there, he breathed his last.

The place where Mr. Gillespie was stricken is usually frequented with cars of all kinds. It happened that the Gillespie car was the only one on the stretch this afternoon.

Italians Are Deported.

Durham, Ga., May 27.—Twenty-five Italian miners accused of intimidating the officials of the Durham Coal & Coke company's mines here and who were arrested by state troops sent here by Governor Brown, have been forcibly deported without trial.

FALSE TEETH ARE USED AS WEAPON

Strange Missile Cuts Gash in New York Man's Face.

New York, May 27.—False teeth as a weapon in a fight proved very effective in an encounter that occurred in front of the Grand Central Station, in the presence of a large crowd, between two men over the alleged refusal of one to pay a newsboy a penny for a peper he had purchased. The false teeth were knocked out of their place with a blow, and the owner, taking them from his mouth, struck his opponent in the face with them. The owner was later arrested on the charge of knocking out his opponent.

After dining in the Grand Union hotel, Thomas Kennedy, a real estate broker, and George H. Stanton, a lawyer, were talking in front of the hotel, when a small newsboy approached them, weeping.

"Say, mister," he whimpered, "a man over there took a paper from me and wouldn't pay me." Mr. Kennedy and his friend followed the boy across Forty-second street. They met Michael Walsh, of 405 Lexington avenue.

"Why don't you pay this boy for his paper?" Mr. Kennedy asked.

"What business of yours is it?" Mr. Walsh replied.

"It's my business any time I catch—" Mr. Kennedy's false teeth were knocked half way down his throat. He got them out and hurled them at Mr. Walsh, cutting a gash in the man's face. Then with several stiff punches he knocked Mr. Walsh down and out. A heavy umbrella with a steel rod was found much bent. It is charged that Mr. Kennedy used this also.

"Gee!" said the newsboy after the fight. "I'd give a penny any time to see that!"

While a policeman was calling an ambulance Mr. Kennedy recovered his teeth and Dr. Dowdle of Bellevue arrived and dressed Mr. Walsh's wounds. At the East Thirty-fifth street station Mr. Kennedy was charged with felonious assault and Mr. Walsh with assault.

SECOND DISTRICT BANKERS ARE MEETING IN MANKATO.

Mankato, Minn., May 27.—The eighth annual meeting of the Second district group of the Minnesota Bankers' association was held in Mankato Wednesday and attended by 150 bankers and the wives of many of them.

The following officers were elected: P. M. Serrurier, Holland, president; John S. Tolverson, Fulda, vice president; W. A. Streator, Winnebago, secretary; A. L. Ward, Fairmont, and W. D. Willard, Mankato, were re-elected members of the executive committee.

JUST TO KEEP MY TAILORS BUSY

HARRY MITCHELL

HARRY MITCHELL

TOMORROW MORNING AT 8 O'CLOCK

Tomorrow I'm going to give you a chance to pick from the finest goods for suits made to order only $14. The Cullen & Cullen stock which I bought in New York three weeks ago, together with all my single suit lengths from my regular fine stock—you can take your choice from any of these goods for suit made to order, only $14.

Over 5,000 beautiful suit patterns to select from. Every one of them is a beauty and is worth from $35 to $50. Your choice, only $14.

Here is the point—the cold spell during the latter part of April and May has made my customers buy dark medium weight goods, so that I am heavily overstocked on fine summer goods. The season is getting short, and as I make it a rule not to carry any goods over from one season to another, I am going to SLAUGHTER PRICES and let you in on them at $14.

I have over 200 good tailors, and I am anxious to keep them busy. I would rather sell these goods without profit, keep my tailors busy, give my customers good bargains, rather than sell only a few suits, make big profits, get stuck with the goods and my tailors idle.

The only excuse that any man can have by buying a suit off the shelf tomorrow, will be because he wants to slip into it for Decoration Day. DON'T DO IT. You'll have to wear the suit the whole season, and you want it to look nice and to wear well. The only way that you can do this is to have your clothes made to order, and by Harry Mitchell.

I am going to make it convenient for you Saturday and all next week. I am going to have my tailors so arranged so that we will be able to get out a suit within 24 hours or to suit your convenience. I've instructed my salesmen, cutters and my tailors to give extraordinary and special attention to each and every customer, and to see that everybody is satisfied, because the satisfaction that I give my customers is the only satisfaction that I will have from this sale, and that's enough for me.

Be on hand early Saturday morning so as to avoid the afternoon and evening crowd. Yours truly, HARRY MITCHELL.

EXTRAORDINARY SPECIAL SALE!

SATURDAY MORNING AT 8 O'CLOCK

Tomorrow, Saturday, at 8 a. m., begins the greatest sale that ever took place in America at 123 West Superior Street.

JUST THINK OF IT!

$30, $35 and $40

SUITS Made to Order, Only $14.00

With a positive guarantee of perfect fit, latest style, first-class trimmings, good workmanship, only $14.00. I will give you my personal guarantee that you can't go into any tailor store in Duluth and order a suit to equal my goods for less than $30, $35 or $40, and my price is only $14.00.

Tomorrow, Saturday, I want to make the biggest day my store has ever seen, and I am going to do it, too---if the price cuts any figure with you. I tell you right now if you don't come in to look at these goods that I am offering at $14.00 for suits made to order, you will miss it---because no matter what you can buy clothes for elsewhere, I will give you a better bargain.

Read the Adjoining Advertisement for Particulars.

Yours truly, HARRY MITCHELL.

DECLINE IN EGG PRICES

Heavy Receipts of Fine Eggs Cause Reduction of 1 Cent a Dozen.

Fancy Creamery Butter Firm and Other Varieties Decline.

After holding firm for some time at 21 cents, eggs this week declined to 20 cents a dozen, wholesale. Fancy creamery butter held firm but the cheaper grades are easier. Swiss descriptions of cheese are lower. Old potatoes are steady and firm and new potatoes dropped from $1.50 to $1.35 a bushel. A fair business has been carried on in fruits and vegetables.

The demand for fancy creamery butter has been holding firm and receivers have been able to move stocks without discomfort. In the dairy and packing grades, however, receipts have increased without a corresponding broadening of the outlet and receivers were forced to make concessions to stimulate the demand. Dairy butter lost 1 cent, selling today at 23 cents. Packing stock declined 1 cent to 20 cents.

Prices have been considered too high by retailers and jobbers. Both have lacked confidence in the market and have taken hold sparingly fearing that a recession of values might catch them heavily loaded with high priced stock. The market has had weak support from spot buyers. Quotations are slightly higher than a year ago which tends to make speculators wary. They do not credit the assertion of some people that the June market will witness an upturn in values.

The atention of the trade has been centered to some extent in the warfare between the Chicago and Elgin members of the Elgin butter board. The Chicago people, it seems, are loaded up with high priced stock and they do not care to see the prices of butter reduced immediately. On the other hand there is a large and influential portion of the trade which would willingly witness a reduction of values as they think a lowering of prices would stimulate the speculative demand and would thus broaden the outlet. Creamerp people hesitate to increase their production so long as the cold storage element is not in the market. If supplies were being stimulated for storage purposes the creameries could increase their outputs which under prevailing conditions they hesitate to do. Butter receipts are increasing and the prospect is for heavier shipments to the leading markets in the near future.

Receipts of eggs are increasing and receivers were under the necessity of making concessions in order to keep supplies from congesting the market. A reduction in 1c a dozen stimulated the retail demand. Supplies were handled rapidly and stocks are fairly well cleaned up. Most of the offerings were choice in quality. This market gets chiefly the northern egg which is considered superior to any other. There has been a good outlet for the miscellaneous and dirties although this class is small. The bulk of shipments comprises first-class fresh eggs.

American cheese was firm and values were unchanged. Swiss makes sold at a decline, block Swiss losing 2c from last week's quotation of 22c. Wheel Swiss lost 1c from the quotation of 22c a week ago. The demand for American descriptions was excellent and receivers were not under the necessity of lowering values to stimulate inquiries. Stocks are relatively small and supplies in the leading centers are passing into strong hands. While many people consider prices too high to be long sustained they have been forced to pay the quotations asked because supplies are limited and retailers have been buying sparingly believing that a reaction was due. The big packers have been purchasing supplies heavily from the manufacturers and advices from the makers are decidedly bullish.

The demand for potatoes was active, old varieties holding firm at 85 cents to the retailer. Producers are paid from 28 cents to 30 cents. Receipts have been heavy but the market has had a buoyant undertone. The greatest increase in the arrival of potatoes has been in new descriptions. The shipments came from Texas, Louisiana and Florida and were moved freely at reduced prices. The quotation dropped from $1.50 to $1.35 a bushel, while receipts of old crop goods have not been as heavy as several weeks ago yet they are in excess of arrivals at this time last year.

* * *

Green vegetables have been moderately active. Receipts from the middle states were added to arrivals from the southern states and receivers made concessions in prices to keep the market bare of accumulations. The trade was not depressed, however, and a ready response from consumers resulted in a satisfactory business. Asparagus, cucumbers, green onions, pieplant, radishes and turnips were in larger supply than any other kind of early vegetables. Carrots, beets and lettuce held firm. String beans have not been in heavy demand. This was due partly to heir inferior quality. The strawberry trade was active and offerings found a ready outlet. Arrivals were steady, but the quality was irregular and prices widened between the fancy varieties and the lower grades. Oranges, lemons and apples met with a fair demand at steady prices, while pineapples were in larger supply and sold freely.

Beef is unchanged from last week at 8½@11½ cents. Mutton is much easier, the price having dropped from 15½ cents to 13 cents. Pork loins declined from 14½@15½ cents to 14 cents. Lamb is slightly higher at 16@16½ cents compared with 15½ cents a week ago. Lard is selling at 14 cents, ½ cent lower than last week. Poultry values are unchanged and the market is steady. Trading is light and supplies are small.

No More Pension Claims.

Washington, May 27.—Explaining that congress had already passed one-third more pension claims than any previous session, Senator Scott, chairman of the committee on pensions, has informed the senate that the committee would not report any more such claims before adournment.

How to Keep Wicker Furniture Clean

One of the biggest troubles with wicker furniture is to keep it looking clean and bright. Once the dust and dirt settle in the crevices of the wicker-work, it looks dingy and shabby. However, an easy way to restore the brightness to this sort of furniture, is to wash the canework with hot suds made by dissolving a tablespoonful of Gold Dust washing powder in a pail of water. Apply the suds with a sponge until the cane is thoroughly soaked and leave in the fresh air until dry. This is also a good way to restore the color and elasticity to cane-seated chairs.

High Class Footwear at Reasonable Prices

The high cost of living theory is soon dropped by you as quickly as you step into our Shoe Department.

Somebody in the senate spoke of the high cost being the fault of the retail dealer and we believe it—it applies to Duluth more than to any other city in the Northwest, as the shoe dealers are simply charging enormous prices for their goods and this store has come to your aid. You, Mr. or Mrs. Consumer, are more benefitted by trading in this store than all cost reducing theories put together and we can prove it to you. Come and see the values and quit talking about "high cost of living."

TELLS CAUSES OF ACCIDENTS

Railway Man Says Employes' Negligence Brings 85 Per Cent.

Toledo, Ohio, May 27.—Negligence of employes is the cause of 85 per cent of the railroad accidents occurring in the United States, declared E. F. Schneider, general manager of the Cleveland, Southwestern & Columbus railway, in an address before the convention of the Central Electric association.

Mr. Schneider finds that 13 per cent of accidents are due to the negligence of the public, and only 2 per cent to hidden defects or the acts of God.

"We do too much fighting and too little thinking," he said. "I was brought up in the old school which followed the practice that if you could not sandbag a poor victim after you had injured and maimed him, fight him. If we had spent half the money preventing that we did fighting, our accident account would not be so great."

Mr. Schneider said that discipline has been tried and found wanting as a means of preventing accidents.

CANADIAN FORESTS SCENE OF BIG FIRES.

Winnipeg, Man., May 27.—Forest fires that have now attained a width of twenty-five miles have been raging all week in Northern Manitoba and Saskatchewan, and have destroyed thousands of dollars' worth of timber. It is reported here that the arrival of a Canadian Northern train saved many lives at Mistatin. The fires are now spreading towards the north, and hundreds of fire rangers and helpers have given up their efforts to stop the flames.

Woodenware Man Bankrupt.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 27.—Jesse C. Bradley, former president of the defunct Two Rivers Woodenware company, which went into bankruptcy about a month ago, and former president of the Vulcan Steel & Iron company, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy.

Mr. Bradley gives his liabilities as $204,213, while his total assets are scheduled at $21,990, of which $11,240 is exempt.

SUPERIOR STREET. SECOND AVENUE WEST.

Why I Moved? Listen

The Reason: My shoe business outgrew the old location and I had to move to have more room.

Now, a Little Heart to Heart Talk and Story of My Life.

I was born July 4, 1876. Just 100 years to the hour after Abraham Clark wrote his name as the fourteenth signer of the DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE. My grandfather, in his early manhood, worked as a shoemaker in New England years ago when it was the custom for the shoemaker to travel about visiting one family after another, remaining long enough to make shoes for the whole family before going to the next. My family have since the days of grandfather been identified more or less with the leather business, and naturally I myself drifted into the shoe business. The smell of good leather is as incense rare to me. I love it. When I was old enough to look over a counter I became a clerk in my brother's store. I got on fine and finally graduated and took up the profession of traveling shoe salesman. After traveling four years, I decided to enter the Retail Shoe game. From experience I gained in my travels and relations with the shoe retailers, I came to the conclusion that to run a shoe store in the regular way and do a small business on long profits would not get me anywhere, and what I wanted was quick results. I was convinced that if I could get some of the Big Shoe Factories to sell me their Salesmen's Samples, countermand and returned shoes at a Low Cash Price I could open a store and sell the public good shoes at a price far below what would be regular retail prices. Well I was successful in arranging with the factories and decided to try out my plan. Next thing was to find a suitable city for the business, one large enough to work up a big business in and a live growing place. After looking over several cities, I came to Duluth. We fell in love at first sight and here was the spot I made up my mind to open business in if I had to do it up in the sky or down in the ground. I opened in the ground. The other fellows laughed. "Oh, people won't go down there." But they did, and my business started good from the jump and has grown rapidly since. Why? Because I am not a faker and the public have found I do what I claim to do and Save Them Money. After only twenty months here my business has grown until I was obliged to move to larger quarters.

I have no connection with any stores other than my store at Superior, Wis., and my Duluth store, at 11 2nd Ave. W.

TO HAVE BIG AERIAL MEET

Four New Features Provided for Feats at Rheims, France.

Challenge Cup to Constructor for Greatest Distance Traversed.

Paris, May 27.—The French aviation calendar for 1910 comprises a great number of important meetings at which valuable prizes are offered to the pilots of aerial craft, but none seems likely to surpass in interest the second annual Grand Semaine d'Aviation de la Champagne. It is the French Aero club meeting and is destined to become the great annual "Aviation Derby."

The program, which has just been drawn up officially, contains four new and interesting features. The Grand Prix de la Champagne is not to be awarded, as last year, to the aviator who will have covered the greatest distance in the air without contact with the ground, but to the aeroplane constructor whose machines shall together during the meeting have traveled the longest distance in the air. According to the regulations for this competition, which is endowed with one single prize of $10,000 and a silver challenge cup, each constructor will have the right to be represented by three aeroplanes, but he may, if he chooses, compete with two or only one, but to gain the prize his two aerial craft, or his single machine, must cover a greater distanec than any of the groups of three machines his competitors may have chosen to represent them.

Will Start July 3.

The start in that competition is to be given every day from July 3, the first day of the meeting, which is to be held at Bethany, near Rheims, till Saturday, July 9, the day preceding the close of the contests. All fights with the machines participating in this competition made in contesting other prizes will count for the total of the distances covered in the air, and, contrary to the general regulations for the other prizes of the meeting, flying apparatus need not be always piloted by the same airman.

Perhaps the most remarkable item on the program is the Michel Ephrussi prize of $2,000. It will be the first real aeroplane race ever witnessed. The machines are to be drawn up in line, and when the starter lowers his flag they are to start all together for a cross country flight of a maximum distance of thirty kilometers (nineteen miles). The prize will be awarded to the pilot who, on his machine, returns to the aerodrome and first crosses the line at the winning post. The exact course has not yet been settled, but the distance of the race is fixed between twelve and a half and nineteen miles.

Another interesting contest will be the speed race reserved to officers on active service or belonging to the reserves, who already have received the authorization of the war minister to participate in it. Prizes of $600 and $400 will be awarded to the officers who cover 50 kilometers (31 miles), or ten circuits of the course in the shortest time. This contest is fixed for July 7 and 10.

Another innovation is a speed contest for lady aviators. The distance is limited to 10 kilometers, or 6½ miles. It will be an open competition on July 4, 6 and 8.

Other Prizes Provided.

There are four prizes—first prize, $4,000; second, $1,000; third, $600, and fourth, $400—for the greatest distance flown without contact with the ground, it being stipulated that the first prize shall not be awarded unless the distance covered is at least 124 miles, and that to gain the second, third or fourth prizes the distances covered must not be less than 62 miles, 46½ miles and 31 miles respectively. This competition will be held on July 3, 4, 6 and 8. A similar stipulation exists for the awarding of the four prizes for the greatest total of the distance covered in the air by each individual airman during the meeting. The first prize of $3,000 will not be awarded unless the aggregate distance flown amounts to at least 186 miles, nor will the second prize of $1,600, the third of $800 and the fourth of $600 be awarded unless the total distance covered in the air amounts to at least 124 miles, 93 miles and 62 miles respectively. The speed race for $2,000, $600 and $400 will be held over a distance of 12½ miles. The passenger-carrying competition, with a prize of $1,000, will be awarded to the airman who shall, on July 3, 6 and 9, cover the longest distance with the greatest number of passengers beside him on his aeroplane. The altitude prizes of $2,000 and $1,000 will be open for competition on July 5, 7 and 10.

The elimination contest for the pilots who will represent France in the Gordon Bennett Aviation Cup race, which is to be held in the United States, is fixed to take place during the Rheims meeting.

Lion Fondles a Child.

In Pittsburg a savage lion fondled the hand that a child thrust into his cage. Danger to a child is sometimes great when least regarded. Often it comes through Colds, Croup, and Whooping Cough. They slay thousands that Dr. King's New Discovvery could have saved. "A few doses cured our baby of a very bad case of Croup," writes Mrs. George B. Davis, of Flat Rock, N. C. "We always give it to him when he takes cold. It's a wonderful medicine for babies." Best for Coughs, Colds, La Grippe, Asthma, Hemorrhages, Weak Lungs. 50c. $1. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by all druggists.

THE JURY HEARD A PHONOGRAPH

For That Reason Pardon Is Asked for Kansas Slayer.

Sedan, Kan., May 27.—Did the plaintive tones of "Lasca," a dramatic recital, reproduced on a phonograph, influence a jury of twelve "good men and true" to bring in a verdict of guilty against Robert Moore and send him to the penitentiary for killing his neighbor, Frank Berree?

Judge Aikman of the district court held that the phonograph and its wheezing product had nothing to do with the verdict, and when the case went to the supreme court that tribunal said the same thing and sustained the lower court's refusal to grant a new trial.

Are Asking a Pardon.

The friends of Moore, however, refuse to be satisfied and are now circulating a petition for his pardon from the penitentiary at Lansing, where he went just one year ago to begin a 10-year sentence. These friends assert that if the jurymen had not heard the phonograph they would never have convicted Moore.

Moore and Berree lived on adjoining farms in the north part of this county. Their children quarreled at school, and the parents took up the battles of their children. One word brought on another one morning in May, 1908, when Moore met Berree in the public road. Then another farmer drove up with a load of corn and, seeing two neighbors quarreling, persuaded both to move on. It looked as though there would be no more trouble, when Berree suddenly turned his horse and rode back toward Moore. Moore believed Berree was going to shoot him, he says, and shot first. Berree fell dead in the road.

Then Adjourned for Supper.

When the case came to trial it was a hard fought one. Half a dozen lawyers were hired by each side. Several of the lawyers had spoken when the court adjourned for supper. After the jury had been fed at the hotel it started down the street and passed a jewelry store from which the sounding of a phonograph protruded through the window.

One juryman proposed that all stop and have some music. They did so, and the first and only selection played was "Lasca." This is a pathetic recital with musical accompaniment. It tells of the death of a beautiful Mexican girl in a cattle stampede. It is a selection well calculated to bring tears and heart-throbs. The jury listened to it and then returned to the courtroom, where the final plea for the state was made. The lawyer was at his best and he followed the strains of pathos that "Lasca" had already started. The jury retired and quickly brought in a verdict of guilty in the second degree.

Played the Piece in Court.

When the motion for a new trial was being argued the attorneys for Moore had the phonograph brought to the courtroom and the selection played for the court. The motion for a new trial was denied. The case was carried to the supreme court. The phonograph "record" was filed with the papers in the case and the attorneys offered to have it played in the supreme courtroom, but the justices were willing to take the word of the lawyers for it, so it was not used. The lower court was sustained.

When Moore heard of this he came to Sedan and offered to go to Lansing alone to begin his time. His friends are working hard now to get him pardoned. He bore an excellent reputation and had a large family of girls who are now running the farm.

LORDS HAVE NEW VOCATION.

London Judge in Celebrated Case Calls Them China Cities.

London, May 28.—After a ten days' hearing of the "old china" case, in which Christie, Manson & Woods were sued by the executors of the late Mr. Dickens, the jury found:

"That there was negligence on the part of Messrs. Christie in the preparation of the catalogue, but that the plaintiffs had not proved that they suffered any monetary loss from this negligence."

No judgment was entered upon this finding and Mr. Justice Lawrance announced that he would hear arguments by counsel in regard to the legal effect of it.

The summing up of the judge was brightened by characteristic humor. Pointing out that several noble lords had been seen in the witness box, he said that Lord Curzon, the ex-viceroy of India, for instance, had brought his great mind to bear upon china (laughter) and it was nice to think that if any misfortune happened to the house whence they came there would be the career of old china experts open to them. (Loud laughter.)

Hitherto the noble lords have been set down as judges of beauty shows and comic operas. Now another occupation is open to them.

CLOTH MADE FROM BARK OF TREES

Frenchman Discovers a Substitute for Cotton in the Spruce.

Boston, Mass., May 27.—If scientific experimenters in textile fibers know what they are talking about the millions of cords of spruce wood that are now ground into pulp for paper making may be manufactured into cotton cloth—and better cotton cloth than can be made from the product of the fields of Dixie, Egypt and India. In a few years we may be wearing clothing made from trees that are now decorating the landscape along the east and west branches of the Allegash, and instead of more pulp mills this state and other spruce-producing regions will be dotted with spruce cotton mills.

At a session of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers James Hope of Rouen, France, told about a new process of making a substitute for cotton from spruce pulp. He showed samples of the spruce substitute for cotton in yard and piece goods woven from the yarn in the plain cotton form and with a worsted combination.

The process is the work of a French inventor. Mr. Hope said that arrangements are being made to have it manufactured extensively in England, where there is a demand for substitute for cottton for certain purposes to make the British less dependent upon the United States for cotton. Plans are also going forward for making the substitute in other parts of Europe, and it may become one of the great industries in the spruce forests of Canada and Russia.

In regard to its adaptability Mr. Hope said:

"It takes on dyes, bleaching and finishing more brilliantly than the cotton fiber. It will resist boiling in water or caustic potash solution for some minutes without change, and its combustion is certainly no more rapid than that of cotton. The cost of its manufacture is much lower than the market price of cotton. The fiber can be made of any length. The strength of the yarn apparently exceeds that of cotton."

DIAMOND MINES MAY MERGE.

Johannesburg, May 27.—The discussions on the subject of the proposed amalgamation of De Beers and the Premier diamond mines have been resumed, but apparently without success.

There is general curiosity as to the position of the diamond mines under the union in view of the Transvaal government's partnership in the Premier mines.

S. S. S. CURES RHEUMATISM

The cause of Rheumatism is an excess of uric acid in the blood. The uratic impurity gets into the circulation by absorption, usually because of constipation, weak kidneys, and other systemic irregularities. Then the blood becomes weak and sour and irritating urate particles are formed in this vital fluid. When in this impure condition the blood can not furnish the necessary amount of nourishment to the different muscles, tendons, nerves and ligaments of the body. Instead it constantly steeps them in the briny acrid matter, and the gritty, urate particles collect in the joints, which causes the pains, aches and soreness of Rheumatism. Liniments, plasters, etc. may relieve the acute pain of an attack of Rheumatism, but such treatment does not reach the blood and therefore can have no permanent good effect. There is but one way to cure Rheumatism and that is to purify the blood of the acid poison. S. S. S. goes into the circulation and attacks the disease at its head. It removes the cause for the reason that it is the greatest of all blood purifiers. It filters out every trace of the sour, inflammatory matter, cools the acid-heated circulation, adds richness and nourishment to the blood and permanently cures Rheumatism. S. S. S. does not patch up, it cures permanently. S. S. S. is especially valuable as a remedy for Rheumatism because it does not contain a particle of harmful mineral in any form. It is purely vegetable, a fine tonic as well as blood purifier. Book on Rheumatism sent free to all who write. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

Good Results Shown in Annual Report of Duluth Association.

Increases in Membership and Attendance at Classes and Meetings.

An increase in membership, increases in the attendance at gymnasium, Bible and educational classes, greater success with extension work, satisfactory financial conditions and encouraging results in all departments of the work are features of the annual report of the work of the Young Men's Christian Association of Duluth for the year ending April 30, 1910. The report was submitted to the board of directors this week by General Secretary Phil Bevis.

During the year 2,654 men and boys were members of the association, a gain of about 300 over the preceding year. In the gymnasium 1,102 classes were conducted with a total attendance of 18,302. The physical section privileges of the association were used 54,489 separate times during the year, the figure representing approximately the number of baths taken, including the swimming pool.

The total number of religious meetings was 887, as compared to 673 the previous year. The attendance increased from 19,195 to 25,663, of which number 12,459 were reached in the extension work of the association. The total Bible class attendance increased from 3,153 to 3,944.

Thirty subjects were taught in the 1,048 sessions of night classes and boys' summer school, with an enrollment of 280. There were 248 different students. Ten lectures and talks were given, with a total attendance of 750, and 35 entertainments were attended by 7,330.

The 107 rooms in the Central building were all filled during the year and the average number of roomers was 152. In the lunch room 47,633 lunches were served. Eighty-five people were directed to boarding houses and 73 positions were filled. The four billiard and pool tables were used 37,500 times and the three bowling alleys 14,991 times.

The past year has shown that the Central building is not too large for the association. Every room in the building has been occupied almost continually and more dormitories could be used.

The income of the association from the use of the Central building, together with the receipts from the memberships, pays that proportion of the running expenses of the association that was estimated when the new building was planned, and of the amount necessary to be raised annually by subscription, 50 per cent goes exclusively to the boys' department. Aside from paying the operating expenses of the association, funds are set aside monthly for the payment of the interest on the mortgage on the property and for providing a sinking fund for retiring that obligation.

The association in Duluth is prospering and its present condition is satisfactory to officers and others interested in the work. The Central building is owned by the association, while the boys' building is leased for association purposes. Ten officers are employed by the association and there are twenty-nine other employes, making a total working force of thirty-nine.

On boards of management and active committees, 225 men and boys are serving and some definite responsibility has been carried by each one during the past year. The association has met with hearty co-operation on the part of members and the public and is in an excellent position for effective work during the coming year.

EXAMINATION FOR INSANITY

E. R. Scribner of Tower will have an examination as to his sanity this afternoon in probate court. Scribner has been acting queerly for some time past. He threatens to shoot people, it is said.

He was brought into court some time ago, the doctors were present and everything was in readiness to go on with the examination when he startled those present by quietly asking that an attorney be secured for him.

He says he is not crazy and that he can prove it. The examination was postponed until today. He holds a bookkeeping position at Tower and seems to be rational.

It is said that he was for some time confined in a state hospital some years ago.

AGED MAN ASKS FOR DAMAGES

The case of James R. Walker against the Duluth Street Railway company for $10,000 for injuries alleged to have been sustained when he fell off a street car at Sixteenth avenue east one day last winter was begun this morning before Judge Dibell of the district court.

Mr. Walker is 78 years old and father of J. O. Walker, deputy county auditor.

In his complaint Mr. Walker alleges that there were no gates on the "dinky" on which he was riding and also that the car was started up before he had stepped to the ground.

As a result of the accident he claims to have sustained a broken leg and other injuries.

EXERCISES AT SCHOOLS

Program of Patriotic Songs and Recitations Given By Children.

Business Will Be Practically Suspended in Duluth Memorial Day.

Memorial day exercises are being held in all of the schools of the city today, the program consisting of patriotic songs and recitations. Two or three members of the G. A. R. and one member of the Citizens' staff are visiting each of the schools to speak to the pupils on the sacred character of Memorial day and on the events which it commemorates. The Grand Army men were asked by the commanders of their posts to tell some reminiscences of the war.

The observance of Memorial day in Duluth Monday will be general. Business will be practically suspended, as all of the large furniture, clothing and dry goods stores will close for the entire day. The wholesale houses will also give their employes the holiday.

The banks, brokerage offices and offices of the federal, state, county and city officials will be closed. The postoffice will observe the holiday in the usual manner, with one carrier delivery in the residence and two in the business districts in the morning. The stamp and general delivery windows will be open from 10 to 11 o'clock in the morning.

The Memorial-day program will be carried out as previously announced. The parade will include military and civic organizations, and will undoubtedly be the largest ever held in Duluth. It will be followed by exercises at the First M. E. church and at the high school.

ST. CLOUD CONVICT IN JAIL IN CALIFORNIA.

Pasadena, Cal., May 27.—Allen N. Smith is in the Pasadena jail at his own request, awaiting werd from St. Cloud, Minn., for confirmation of his own confession that he is an escaped convict.

Smith says that he was convicted of grand larceny six years ago, and sent to the Minnesota state reformatory for twenty-five years. After serving six months, he escaped and came to California, he said. Here the burden of guilt, and the qualms of conscience became more than he could bear.

MUTUAL CIGAR COMPANY FORMED

The New Firm Will Adopt "Do It for Duluth" Motto.

With "Do It for Duluth" as their slogan, Zenith City cigar dealers and consumers have launched a new enterprise that is destined to be of importance to the city from the beginning of its career.

The Mutual Cigar company is the name of the concern, which is capitalized at $50,000, and has as its stockholders more than sixty dealers and a large number of consumers who are boosters for Duluth. The company is organized along the same lines as is the People's Brewing company, which has been in existence only a year and a half and is already paying dividends.

A committee of citizens interested in the new enterprise is now engaged in searching for a suitable site for the factory that will be established without delay by the Mutual company. From the start the factory will afford employment for fifty workmen, in addition to those now engaged in such work in the city, and within thirty days the Mutual will have its goods on the market. There is enough business in sight to keep the fifty workmen employed indefinitely, and, with the support that is assured the Mutual, the company is certain to prosper and expand.

Ninety per cent of the cigars now sold in Duluth are products of outside points. It is an admitted fact that cigars can be made in Duluth just as cheaply as in Tampa, and there is not the slightest reason why the Duluth product should not be of as good quality as the Tampa product, or the product of any other place.

The officers of the Mutual Cigar company are: President, M. J. Gleeson; vice president, Martin Smith; treasurer, E. J. Cook; secretary, J. Abrahamson.

These officers are members of the board of directors, together with Henry Perault, H. P. Curran and E. J. Whalan.

WHITE RATS WILL "SCAMPER"

Unique Gathering Will Be Held at the Bijou Theater.

The "White Rats of America," probably the strongest theatrical organization in the country with members scattered far and wide, will "scamper" tonight at the Bijou theater after the last performance.

Invitations have been issued to all actors and actresses in the city and to the newspaper fraternity by Prof. Herbert Albini, president of the organization, and Manager Joe Maitland of the Bijou.

The "bids" are imperative. The decree has gone forth that all who have been asked must be there. Whether a "White Rat" or not, excuses must not be offered. A good time is guaranteed, with plenty to eat, an abundance of laughs, good jokes, many fancy "stunts," and such other entertainment as is usually within only the province of "White Rats" to witness.

Prof. Albini and Prof. Herbert L. Flint will star together on the same boards. Between the two of them it is probable that all guests will be put to sleep and while they are dreaming heavy dreams of another world, white rabbits, fluffy geese, fuzzy chicks, baby elephants and waddling ducks will pop from their ears and eyes to be found resting in their pockets or hanging to their shoulders when they awaken. Tricks will be turned which will make them so giddy that when they try to recollect what has happened they will be convinced that it was all a product of a too vivid imagination.

At the bottom of the invitations the following is appended:

"God bless all White Rats. Don't forget our secretary, Harry Mountford, our champion. Good luck to Babby Gaylor and our Chief Niblo, John Lancaster and All."

AN UNKNOWN WINS HANDICAP SHOOT

J. E. Dickey of Davenport Takes Western Event Held at Des Moines.

Des Moines, Iowa, May 27.—J. E. Dickey of Davenport, comparatively unknown to the shooting fraternity, won the banner event in the Western handicap shoot here yesterday afternoon. As winner of the Western handicap, Dickey received first money and the championship trophy.

He broke 98 out of a possible 100 and shot from the 16-yard line. The winner was a dark horse in the field of 119 entries.

Four shooters tied for second with 94.

GUN ENDS HONEYMOON.

Groom Shoots Himself Accidentally While on Motor Trip.

Paris, May 27.—A honeymoon in Algiers had a tragic ending last week. The bride's husband accidentally shot himself before his young wife's eyes.

M. Andre Holtz returned some time ago from a government mission at Marseilles. After the wedding the happy pair left for Algeria, where they intended to take a four weeks' motor tour.

While on the road to Millana, close to the ravine known as the "Robbers' precipice," M. Holtz alighted from the car to shoot a bird.

The earth gave way beneath him, and to save himself he leaned upon his rifle, and accidentally caused the charge to go off.

The next instant he dropped dead, with a bullet through his head.

The bride, who was alone in the car, swooned, and was found several hours later, unconscious, hanging over the edge of the precipice.

MATRIMONY A "PROFESSION."

Vassar Professor Says in Lecture That "Brain Weds Brain."

Troy, N. Y., May 27.—Woodbridge Riley of Vassar college, speaking on the "individual and the common interests in society" at the Episcopal Church congress in session here, created a mild sensation by suggesting matrimony as a profession. He said in part: "Why cannot the clever woman look on matrimony as a profession or rather as something demanding professional abilities? It is commonly said that a far-seeing girl, threatened with spinsterhood, marries merely to have a home. That is scarcely true. Cleverness seldom loses its head. The clever woman wishes to marry the clever man and does so. Now from a cold-blooded point of view such marriages take place from justifiable ambition. Two heads are better than one. And the clever woman sees she can influence her husband in his professional affairs and thereby affect the interests of their community. Is this un-American because unsentimental?"

HOUSE IN FUSS ON TAFT'S TRAVELING

Lively Debate Rises From His Exceeding His $25,000 Allowance.

Washington, May 27.—Because the president exceeded his traveling expense allowance of $25,000 voted by congress for the present fiscal year, and the committee on appropriations sought to meet the deficiency by making the appropriation for next year "immediately available," the house yesterday was thrown into lively debate. Chairman Tawney offended several Democrats by suggesting that the president had made his extended western and southern trip largely upon the urgent solicitation of Democrats of the house, whom Mr. Tawney denounced for opposing the effort to provide an immediate fund.

This statement called forth angry retorts from Messrs. Bartlett and Hardwick of Georgia and others, who criticised the White House for furnishing to the chairman of the appropriations committee the names of Democrats who had figured in the president's trip.

The point of order made by Mr. Macon against the words 'immediately available," was sustained and those words were stricken from the bill so that the appropriation cannot be used until after July 1.

COURT UPHOLDS BANK.

Abdul Hamid Is Refused Withdrawal of His Deposits.

Berlin, May 27.—As already reported, the refusal of the German Imperial bank to pay out the sums deposited with it by ex-Sultan Abdul Hamid has been upheld by the Berlin provincial court. The action of the Imperial bank was based on the belief that the ex-sultan, in demanding repayment of his deposits, was acting under compulsion, and that in the event of his once more becoming a free agent the bank might be held responsible.

In giving judgment in favor of the Imperial bank, the court, while finding that there was no sufficient proof of "compulsion," nevertheless considered that it might be assumed that Abdul Hamid's request for repayment had not been seriously meant, and had only been made in the hope that the bank would recognize this to be the case. It was inexplicable why Abdul Hamid should want the money in his present circumstances, more especially as he had on no previous occasion given notice of the withdrawal of his deposits, but had taken especial precautions that no one but himself should be able to touch them.

CLING TO FRENCH TONGUE.

Paris, May 27.—The language question has been a burning one in Alsace for thirty years. The Alsacians have clung tenaciously to the French tongue, despite inducements and disabilities, and even suffering, to make them adopt the language of their conquerors of 1870. The language question was the subject of a recent lecture by M. Rene Henry, professor of the school of political science, before the Alliance Francaise. The lecturer, after speaking of the importance of the French language for the maintenance and vitality of French culture in the provinces annexed by Germany, spoke of the progress of the French language, which had grown in recent years, and its intellectual influence was now greater than twenty years ago. The devotion of the Alsacians was a comforting lesson in patriotism.

TO REVIVE OLD FESTIVAL.

Mania for Cutting Trees Has Worked Injuries to Italian Climate.

Rome, May 27.—Signor Credaro, the new minister of education, has issued a circular to the prefects and schoolmasters throughout Italy drawing their attention to the desirability of celebrating anew that "Festival of the Trees," which was originated years ago by one of his predecessors, Professor Baccelli, but which has lately fallen into disuse.

The minister urges the municipal authorities to co-operate in this good work and promises plants, pecuniary subsidies, and prizes for those who undertake it. Thus, the pleasing spectacle of school children planting trees will be revived, and something will be done to realize the picture of a well-afforested Italy, drawn by Virgil in the second "Georgic."

The mania for cutting down trees has done great harm to the climate in many places of Italy, while there are numerous beautiful spots in the Abruzzi, such as Scanno, which would make ideal summer residences, had they but shade.

Injured by Steam Plow.

Denhoff, N. D., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Francis Laughlin met with a very serious accident on a steam plow near here when he fell under the wheels of the heavy machine. One leg was broken and mashed above the knee, while he received bruises over his entire body which are of an exceedingly painful nature. The victim is married and his family resides at Carrington. He will recover.

LEADERS IN ART WORLD

American Painters Rank First in the Modern School.

Interesting Lecture By Chicago Dealer at the High School.

An interesting account of the American painters and the place that their work occupies in the world of art, was presented by J. W. Young of Chicago last evening at the lecture before the Duluth Art association which was given at the assembly hall of the high school.

The speaker was introduced to the audience by Bishop McGolrick, president of the art association, who paid a neat tribute to the two Duluth artists, David Everson and C. Rosenkrantz. Mr. Young while paying tribute to the old masters and great artists of other times and countries, is an enthusiast for American art and artists and feels that today of the contemporary artists the American can take the lead every time.

"Public interest in art is necessary to Duluth," said Mr. Young.

"The Duluth Art association has done very well, but it still has two duties to perform, to build a home for art and to provide an art director. Art like everything else, has its business side and money is a necessity. I am certain that the business men of the city would support the project well. I do not wish to criticise this exhibition and I think that what the promoters did was the best thing to do under the circumstances, but I do not believe in art exhibitions advertising any one connoisseur's collection. I think that the art director should be commissioned to go over the country and take some of the best specimens he could get of American art, then get some of the works of European artists, hung them side by side as they did a few years ago in New York and let the people judge for themselves whether or not Europe has anything on us in art."

The lecture was illustrated by a series of beautiful slides made by color photography from examples of the best American art.

The attendance at the exhibition which is held in the top floor of the courthouse is most satisfactory. The exhibit is free to the public and open every day from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m. The school children of the city are visiting the exhibit in great numbers studying the pictures with much interest. The next few days will be devoted writing essays in efforts to win the prize which has been offered by the association for the best essays on "The Picture I Liked Best and Why." Money prizes will be awarded the various classes for the best essay.

Adopts Commission Plan.

McAlester, Okla., May 27.—This city adopted a commission form of government yesterday by a vote of 1,200 to 300.

WEST END

LIVED NINE DAYS IN STATE OF COMA

Blind and Helpless From Paralysis, West End Man Dies.

Stricken totally blind and with almost every muscle in his body paralyzed, Ole Lendberg, 80 years old, lived for the past nine days in a state of coma. He died last evening about 7:30 o'clock at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. E. Erickson of 2218 West Ninth street, without regaining consciousness.

A week ago Saturday, the aged man suffered a very severe stroke of paralysis. The stroke deprived him the use of his limbs and he was not able to leave his bed after that. In a day or two his sight failed him. He then was deprived of the power of speech, but he still lived.

How much of the time, the aged man was conscious will never be known. Had Mr. Lendberg lived until July, he would have been 80 years old. Seven years ago he came to the West end from Sweden.

Surviving him are three daughters, Mrs. J. E. Erickson, Mrs. A. J. Richten and Mrs. L. K. Johnson, all of Duluth. He has a brother and two sisters, who reside in Sweden. The funeral will be held Monday, Memorial day, in the afternoon at 2 o'clock from Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street. Rev. Carl G. Olsan, pastor of the congregation, will officiate and burial will be made at the Lutheran cemetery at Hermantown.

Ladies' Chorus.

Mrs. Anna Olson Dies.

Mrs. Anna Olson, 29 years old, wife of Carl W. Olson, died this morning at the family residence, 2827 Railroad street, following a short illness. She is survived by a husband only. No funeral arrangements have been made.

WEST END "WHITE WAY" ALMOST A CERTAINTY.

After much agitation, it now seems that the "white way" is a certainty at the West end, along Superior street between Eighteenth and Twenty-second avenues west.

The committee of the West End Commercial club which is pushing the matter will report its progress at the meeting of the club this evening. Business men along Superior street seem to be strongly in favor of it.

POINT OF ROCKS IS A CAMP FOR THE IDLE.

With the advent of summer weather, the Point of Rocks, Fourteenth avenue west, has turned into a sunning place for idle men. Yesterday afternoon, the top of the big rock was dotted with such men, who chose the place for killing time.

Another favorite spot for idlers is the large rock at Ninth avenue west and First street. On a warm summer day, the professional "bo's" may be seen there stretched out asleep or perhaps reading an old newspaper.

Birthday Party.

Mrs. Arthur Smith of 29 Devonshire street entertained at a birthday dinner a party in honor of her sister, Miss Nellie Nelson, last evening at her home. Covers were laid for ten. Those present were: Misses Esther Larson, Lillie Nelson, Dora Williams, Myrtle Craig, Lucile McPheran, Jane Grant, Florence Smith, Anna Scobie, Nellie Nelson and Mrs. Arthur Smith.

West End Shortrails.

Miss Esther Erickson of 1926 West Fourth street returned yesterday from Two Harbors, Minn., where she attended the funeral of John D. Therren, a relative.

Henry Armstrong of Ashland, Wis., is in the West end as a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Armstrong of 2009 Piedmont avenue.

Bert Budd of Chicago and James Welch of Spokane, Wash., are registered today at the Esmond hotel, Twentieth avenue west and Michigan street.

The Adams Athletic association gave another of the series of weekly dancing parties last evening at Lincoln park pavilion. The affair was largely attended.

Martin Rude, who has been confined with illness for the past few days, is reported to be slightly improved today. He is not yet able to attend to his business.

The Sunday school teachers of the First Swedish Baptist church will meet this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Axel Peterson. Monthly business will be transacted.

Announcement has been made of the wedding of Miss Helen Hughes of 121 North Nineteenth avenue west to Richard Quigley of Knife River. The wedding will take place during the last week of June.

The funeral of Marguerite, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hendrickson of Twenty-sixth avenue west and Fourth street, who died yesterday, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence. Rev. Edward Erickson, pastor of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, officiated and interment was made at Park Hill cemetery.

Jack McLean, a driver for the Elliott Packing company, sustained painful injuries to his shoulder from a fall yesterday from a delivery wagon.

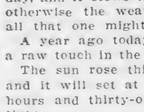
FAIR



Apparently one might be safe in leaving his overcoat at home today, but one can never tell about this May weather in Duluth. Yesterday was a beautiful day, although the temperature did not get above 60 deg. There is a brisk wind from the west today, and it blows the dust around, but otherwise the weather conditions are all that one might ask.

A year ago today was cloudy, with a raw touch in the air.

The sun rose this morning at 4:19, and it will set at 7:50, giving fifteen hours and thirty-one minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Fine weather prevails from the Mississippi valley eastward to the Atlantic seaboard, due largely to the influence of a strong high pressure area central over the lake region. Temperatures are also somewhat higher in the latter district. Barometric depressions overlying Western Mexico and the region north of Montana were the cause of rains over Oregon, Montana, Western South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Western Missouri and Oklahoma during the last twenty-four hours. The barometer continues high off the Pacific coast."

General Forecasts.

Upper lakes—Moderate southeast to south winds; fair tonight and Saturday.

Chicago, May 27.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Saturday:

Upper Michigan—Fair tonight and Saturday.

Wisconsin—Fair tonight and Saturday; slightly warmer tonight with light frost in lowlands.

Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Montana—Fair tonight and Saturday; moderate temperature.

Iowa—Fair, except probably showers in west portion tonight or Saturday.

BRANDEIS DECLARES BALLINGER UNFIT TO HOLD PUBLIC OFFICE

yields to pressure, yields to it not only in acts but also in statement, be it written or spoken.

Struggle for Democracy.

"This investigation has been referred to as a struggle for conservation, a struggle against the special interests.

"It is that, but it is far more. In its essence it is the struggle for democracy, the struggle for the small man against the overpowering influence of the big, politically as well as financially. The struggle to establish that every American is entitled to equal justice—in the public service as well as in the courts—that no official is so highly stationed that he may trample ruthlessly and unjustly upon even the humblest American citizen.

"The cause of Glavis is the cause of the common people and more especially the cause of hundreds of thousands of government officials."

Reviewed Alaska Claims.

Mr. Brandeis gave a chronological resume of the Alaska coal land situation from the time the Cunningham claims were first filed in 1906. He laid particular stress upon the contention that Mr. Ballinger as commissioner of the land office was fully acquainted with the situation and personally directed the proceedure in the land office whereby claims were scrutinized. He declared that of 461 Alaska coal claimants whose addresses were secured by special agents early in their investigation, 356 appeared to be residents of the Pacific coast and 164 lived in Seattle, Ballinger's home city.

"Among these claimants were the men of greatest influence in the state, financially and politically, and among these were friends and associates of Mr. Ballinger," said the attorney.

Who Were Investigated.

"While these Pacific coast claimants remained undisturbed by further inquiries into the validity of their claims, most of the others, those residing in Illinois and Michigan, were, on Sept. 24, 1907, directed to be thoroughly investigated. Was it a coincidence that the investigations by Special Agent Jones in the summer of 1907 into the Cunningham claims stopped shortly after Ballinger returned to Seattle, shortly after the agreement between the Morgan-Guggenheim Alaska syndicate and the Cunningham claimants, which rendered an early issue of the patents important? Was it a coincidence that an active inquiry was undertaken into the claims of residents of Illinois and Michigan?"

Clear-listing of Claims.

Proceeding to the clear-listing of the Cunningham claims in 1907, Mr. Brandeis said that the suspension of the order after Glavis' protest was evidently done by Ballinger with the idea that ultimately the patents should be granted when "this uncomfortable obstacle presented by Glavis' intervention should be overcome." When the Cale bill, which Brandeis said Ballinger had drafted to overcome that obstacle, failed, and the law of May 28, 1908, was enacted, "Lawyer" Ballinger was appealed to for aid not only by Clarence Cunningham, but by "Ballinger's influential friend, C. J. Smith—the senatemaker."

He said Ballinger then drew the Cunningham affidavits "containing sworn statements obviously in irreconcilable conflict with the terms of their existing agreement with the Morgan-Guggenheim syndicate of July 20, 1907." He referred to Ballinger's trip East to see "his old friend Garfield" and "his friend and protege Dennett" on behalf of the Cunningham claimants.

Not Legal Services.

"Why did Ballinger do that?" he asked. "He says that these were not strictly legal services. If they were not, so much the worse. Was this, then, an attempt to capitalize his friendship with Garfield and Dennett? to capitalize an influence necessarily attending his recent incumbency in office; to capitalize the knowledge he had acquired when filling the important office of land commissioner?

"He says he was very unwilling to undertake this land office work and that he rather unexpectedly received only reimbursement of his traveling expenses. If this be so, so much the worse. If against his will and without expectation of compensation, he undertook this service for such men as Charles J. Smith, Charles Sweeney, Horace C. Henry and ex-Governor Moore, then it was because their will was law to him. Under their potent influence, Mr. Ballinger forgot the rules of professional ethics as he forgot the rules of the land department over which he had presided and by which he was barred for two years after his retirement from practice before it."

"A Safe Trustee?"

"Is such a man a safe trustee for the people's property?" he demanded.

Mr. Brandeis said that when Glavis appealed to Ballinger to postpone hearings on the Cunningham cases until after a field examination could be made, the then secretary "drew strange distinctions." He said Ballinger had felt at liberty to serve the Cunningham claimants, although he had previously as land commissioner represented the government; but on becoming secretary he had felt barred from representing the people because, as he had expressed it, he had "incidentally acted for the Cunningham claimants." Brandeis said that Ballinger had felt no such hesitation in hastening, at the instance of the claimants, the investigation of the Cunningham and other claims.

Referring to Glavis' successful appeal to the forest service for a delay of the hearings and his being subsequently superseded by the "inexperienced" Sheridan, Brandeis said that "even Sheridan agreed that a postponement was proper."

With the Coal Cases.

As to Mr. Ballinger's assertion that he had nothing to do with the coal cases since he became secretary, Brandeis said:

"Secretary Ballinger knew all, and in effect he did all. It needed no writing signed by him to do the act. It needed no specific instructions. Those by whom he was surrounded were of that category who 'at the winking of an eye' understood, and who would never prove insubordinate from overzeal for the public interest."

As indicating Mr. Ballinger's "irresoluteness," Brandeis recited how he had acted under pressure in his various steps in the Cunningham cases, yielding to the claimants when in Seattle and later to Glavis when he returned to Washington, with the claimants, "3,000 miles away."

Mr. Brandeis spoke of Ballinger's appearance on the witness stand "with its extraordinary failures of memory, mis-statements and denials" and quoted from the testimony Ballinger gave on cross-examination about the Lawler memorandum with the evident purpose of showing that Ballinger attempted to conceal the truth and evade his questions.

Associates of Ballinger.

"Such is the conduct of Mr. Ballinger" he continued. "Note his associations. He is obviously in the closest relations with men like C. J. Smith, Horace C. Henry and with their associates, Charles Sweeney, Ex-Governor Moore and McGraw. He is evidently in very close relations with George W. Perkins, J. P. Morgan & Co., and the members of the Alaska syndicate.

"Now consider the past conduct of Mr. Ballinger. Considering his character as it has manifested itself throughout this case, do you really think that the interests of the people could be safely represented by Mr. Ballinger as against the special interests of Cunningham claimants and the Guggenheim-Morgan syndicate?"

Mr. Brandeis defended Glavis in laying the matter of the Alaskan coal claims before the president by the advice of Pinchot. He said that after Glavis had submitted his statement of Aug. 18 last, he was not again communicated with by the president before the appearance of the latter's Sept. 13 letter dismissing him and exonerating Ballinger.

That Lawler Memorandum.

He said a "deluge of typewritten matter" came from the interior department in reply, supplemented by oral statements and arguments by Ballinger and Assistant Attorney General Lawler, and that finally the president had committed to Lawler, "a subordinate and appointee of Ballinger, a man who had an especial grudge against Glavis, the drafting of the president's opinion on the whole matter."

"It is not surprising under the circumstances that the letter of the president exonerated Mr. Ballinger," exclaimed the attorney. He added that it was surprising, however, that the president should have sent a letter which condemned Glavis and charged him with falsehood, with the suppression of truth and with neglect of duty—"a condemnation on charges of the preferring of which against him he had no knowledge whatsoever." Brandeis said that up to that time Glavis had never given to the public a single word in criticism of Ballinger or his other superiors.

"But for this investigation, Glavis—the ideal public servant, competent, faithful, zealous—would have been permanently condemned and held up to the public disgrace—without hearing—without even knowledge that charges had been preferred against him. He needed this investigation to give him an opportunity to answer the groundless charges by which the president was misled."

SUBMARINE IS WHIRLED OUT OF REACH OF DIVERS; MAY CONTAIN LIVING MEN

ers with the force of divers worked vainly throughout the night to raise the ill-fated war craft from her bed 100 feet below the surface. Strong currents interfered greatly with the operations, and at noon today little had been accomplished.

Admiral B. De La Payrere, minister of marine, is on the scene personally directing the work.

The appearance of the submersible on the surface for a brief period following the accident is attributed by navy experts to a desperate attempt of her commander to operate the flooding machinery.

Stories of the Accident.

The channel steamer Pas de Calais sighted the periscope of the Pluviose some seventy feet ahead and backed, but too late to avoid a collision. The lookout who first saw the periscope said today that he had never seen such an instrument before and mistook it for a buoy.

The report that the Pluviose was operating beneath the channel steamer in furtherance of its practice in torpedoing passing vessels is not generally credited.

It was late this afternoon that the Pluviose was lifted from her mud bed by the swift undercurrent and swept from the view of the divers, who were not able to again locate her.

VOTE SOON IN SENATE

was rejected, 35 to 40. An amendment composed of propositions by Senators Jones and Paynter was accepted. This provides for the extension for a period of six months of the 120-day suspension of new rates, and regulations for the hearing as to their reasonableness if notified within that time, and for the refunding of the difference between rates if the new rate is found to be unreasonable. It was adopted unanimously.

An amendment by Senator Hughes, striking out the capitalization provision of the bill was adopted, with practical unanimity.

Most Important Vote.

Of all the votes of the day, the one on the Cummins amendment was the most important. The vote on this amendment was by no means as close as had been predicted by its friends and feared by its opponents.

Of the twenty-nine votes favorable to the amendment, twelve were cast by insurgents, as follows: Beveridge, Borah, Bourne, Bristow, Burkett, Clapp, Crawford, Cummins, Dixon, Dolliver, Gamble and La Follette. Only four Democrats—Bailey, McEnIry, Smith of Maryland and Taylor—voted for the provision.

of my insistence to state that it is revolutionary, ill-advised and infernal. Not only that, it is dangerous both to the railroads and those who proposed it. If it is adopted it may lead to a conclusion that the entire law shall be held unconstitutional.

"The proviso proposed to be omitted is that which expressly limits the authority of the interstate commerce commission to interstate trade or the trade between the states and foreign nations. If it is omitted may it not be questioned whether or not the control of the commission does not extend to all trade, both internal or domestic, in a state as well as interstate?

"In fact it has been contended both here in Minnesota in the original proceeding before Judge Lochran, in Missouri and in Oklahoma, that railroad transportation in its nature is such as properly to be a matter of interstate consideration in all its branches. In other words, this is a clear attempt to take away from the states any power to regulate transportation within their borders."

PRESIDENT IS PAINED

of the duties of the president is to visit the people in their homes.

Congressmen on the Train.

"But the intimation or suggestion that the acceptance by congressmen of the president's invitation to travel on the train with him in their respective districts or states was a reason why they should not vote their free opinion on the question of such an appropriation is to me a most painful one. In traveling upon the train they were not receiving my hospitality—they were only making a little more elaborate the cordial welcome which they as representatives of their districts wished to give.

"The feature of the discussion yesterday which was especially distressing to me was a suggested reflection on Southern hospitality. The intimation that somewhere in the South board was charged has no foundation in fact, and I never heard it intimated until I saw it in this morning's paper.

South Most Hospitable.

"In all my experience—and I have enjoyed the hospitality of many sections and countries of the world—I never had a more cordial, generous, open and lavish welcome than I had in the Southern states during my trip, and the slightest hint that puts me in the attitude of a critic of that hospitality gives me great pain.

"I am going to take the liberty of making this letter to you public. Very sincerely yours,

"WILLIAM H. TAFT."

THE CITY'S BUSINESS.

Mayor Cullum, at the recent meeting of the new public affairs committee of the Commercial club, pleaded for a closer relationship between the financial affairs of the city and the activities of the Commercial club. His plea was wise and his plan is salutary.

There is great need, in this city as in all other cities, of closer inspection of city finances by the people, or by organizations unofficially representing the people. The Herald for years has advocated greater publicity for city budget-making, and greater attention on the part of the public to that important function.

It is no discredit to the public officials of Duluth to say that they need all the outside advice they can get, and this is especially true of those who fix the city's tax levies and direct the expenditure of the taxes received. Every step in the process of making the annual tax levy should be carried on in full daylight, and the public should take a deep interest in that process. Since everybody's business is nobody's business, this will not be done unless the Commercial club, through its public affairs committee, takes direct interest in and direct action in the making of the city's budget.

In the past the proceedings of the conference committee, which fixes the tax levy, have usually been secret. That, as The Herald has said often, is wrong. It is wrong because public business cannot be made private business, and because it exposes the officials who conduct public business in the dark to grave dangers if anything wrong should grow out of their secret deliberations. The whole process of budget-making should be done in the open, and the people, or the Commercial club for the people, should take greater interest in that process than they have in the past.

The amount of taxes paid by the property owners is determined by the budget. The amount of taxes levied against Duluth property counts heavily in the consideration of those intending location or investment here. So does the percentage of proper returns in results from public money expended. The making of the budget, the amount of the taxes, the nature of the results from public expenditures, the upbuilding of Duluth, the attracting of new industries and the development of industries already here—these items are all intimately related, and the relationship calls for close study on the part of public-spirited citizens and intelligent action on the part of such a body as the Commercial club.

The machinery for budget-making might easily be improved so as to provide greater opportunity for public interest and public action. For instance, here is the program in the making of a budget in New York:

On six days in October there are public hearings at which the estimates are explained.

On two dates in October there are hearings at which taxpayers interested in proposed estimates may appear and discuss them.

On Oct. 21 the tentative budget is distributed, and five days later there is a public hearing at which taxpayers and public officials may discuss the tentative budget not only in gross but in detail.

A similar program in Duluth would provide greater publicity for the budget and its items and would give interested taxpayers a better chance to advocate or oppose proposed items and to criticise the budget as a whole.

"REMEMBER THE MAINE."

What will be disclosed when the wreck of the Maine is raised from the bottom of Havana harbor?

Will it justify the suspicion that its destruction was the result of a Spanish plot, a suspicion which plunged two nations into war, took the lives of hundreds of men, changed the maps of two continents and saddled the United States with a perilous possession in distant seas?

Will it justify the assertion that the explosion that destroyed the Maine came from inside the vessel and was due to accident?

Or will the destruction wrought by the explosion prove so serious that it will be impossible to tell how it was caused?

After a dozen years this country has decided to raise the wreck and investigate. This should have been done long ago, and that it has been delayed so long has not tended to convince Europe of our good faith in professing to be certain that Spain blew up the Maine.

However, it is better late than never, and there will be great and universal interest in the disclosures that follow, if any disclosures do follow. At any rate, the investigation should be made in the open and the truth, whatever it be, should be made known.

While this country extracted as much glory as it could out of its war with Spain, it is very questionable indeed if history is going to give it great credit for the incident that closed the last century. That Spain was needlessly cruel and oppressive to the Cubans is undeniable, and the sympathy of the American people with the abused people of Cuba did them credit. This country has acted generously and wisely, withal, toward Cuba since the war. Cuba's promised freedom has been freely given, even though it was necessary to take it back again for a time to restore order in that troubled isle.

But wiser statesmanship, a little less hysteria on the part of the people, and a little less flagrant jingoism on the part of the yellow press, might have made it possible to bring about results quite as good without a war.

James Boyle, President McKinley's private secretary as governor of Ohio and his lifelong friend, is reported as saying that McKinley told him, after the event, that war was unnecessary and that it was one of the great sorrows of his life that he had been unable to prevent war. According to this authority, McKinley stated that negotiations were well advanced for a settlement of the Cuban matter, and that they would have been concluded successfully if war had not been precipitated.

Though anti-imperialism and anti-militarism are dead issues in the minds of many men, it may be that they are not dead, but sleeping. Had it not been for the war with Spain, they probably never would have been born. It was a shock to the traditions of a nation formed on the principle that no people is fitted to govern another people, when this country became the owner of the people of the Philippine islands. Always, ownership of one people by another has been worse for the owners than for the owned. The story of imperialism is not finished, and its last chapter never will be written until this country, in some manner creditable to itself, gets rid of the Philippines. What the history of that incident which is yet unwritten may contain, no man can say. What it may include of the motives and secret machinations that led to the war with Spain, and of the complications and misery yet to grow out of that war, is an inscrutable mystery.

But if there had been no war with Spain, this American republic would own no dangerous possession in Eastern seas; and that would be well.

THE PRICE OF COTTON.

May 17 The Herald published a dispatch in which Lewis W. Parker, president of the American Cotton Manufacturers' association, explaining a new price level in cotton, was quoted as saying:

> Cotton must be expected to be upon a higher level of price than it has been in times past, and even the relatively high price prevailing during the last fall and winter and now prevailing is not out of proportion. There must be a recognition on our part that a new price level in cotton is both proper and necessary, and that we must bend our energies, not in the effort to reduce this price level, but in the effort to convince buyers of its necessity and propriety, and of the necessity, therefore, of a consequent rise in the price of manufactured products.

Tonight The Herald publishes the following dispatch:

> Providence, R. I., May 27.—Within the course of the next few weeks it is believed that cotton manufacturers of Rhode Island will be forced to curtail their production by closing their factories two days a week.

Fall River, Mass., reported today that nearly all of the cotton mills will be shut down from Saturday to June 6 to curtail the output, and that about 20,000 operatives will be affected. Manchester, N. H., reported that the seventeen cotton and worsted mills of the Amoskeag corporation closed last night until next Wednesday, throwing 16,000 employes into idleness.

Evidently the energies of the cotton manufacturers are being bent in more directions than those indicated by the speech of President Parker. Shutting down to curtail production is an easy way to maintain prices, especially when an industry has a common understanding.

Two other facts should be remembered in this connection:

First, that the cotton schedules of the "best tariff law ever passed" include some of the greatest iniquities of that iniquitous law.

Second, that the cotton mill employes who have been thrown out of work by this conspiracy to mulct the people through higher prices for cotton products are among the poorest paid workers in this country. When constantly employed, their pay averages about $7 to $8 per week.

"DRINK HEARTY!"

"Oh, for a drink of Lake Superior water!' exclaimed Rev. M. S. Rice in a very interesting letter to The Herald from Jerusalem, published last evening; and every citizen of Duluth who has wandered afar will realize how he felt.

It isn't necessary to go to Jerusalem to recognize the void that is made when a cool, wholesome drink out of a Duluth faucet is not to be had. Nowhere on earth is there better water to drink than that which came through Henry Truelsen's valiant efforts for the people of Duluth. In very few places is there water as good, and in nine places out of ten the water is so much worse that the dullest taste will recognize the difference. All over the world, drinking water ranges from vile to just fair, from deadly poison to negative harmlessness. In Duluth the water is always clear, always fresh, always cool, always pure, always wholesome and sweet. It quenches the thirst and deposits no dirt or germs. It satisfies and refreshes, and makes no headache next morning and no typhoid fever week after next.

Duluth never should cease to give praise for its blessing of good water. It does not rank among the least of the many reasons why Duluth is the best town on earth to live in.

THE DULUTH BASEBALL TEAM.

The other day The Herald asked: "What is the matter with the Sox?"

Judging by the way they played yesterday the answer is: "Nothing."

For the bottom of the percentage column in the "Minny" league yesterday thoughtfully reached up its slapstick and biffed the top of the percentage column a hot one, Duluth from the inglorious foot getting 13 runs to 2 for the Rochester team, for all the latter's proud but precarious eminence at the head of the list.

Whether it was the bracing Lake Superior air, the aid and comfort of the home fans, or the fact that the Sox have just struck their gait, it was very encouraging. Duluth is greatly interested in its baseball team. It wants it to win. It likes the "feel" of being at the top of the percentage column much better than that of being at the bottom. The season is young yet, and a little of yesterday's ginger and skill projected through future games will put the Sox where Duluth would like to have them.

On to Crookston!

Join the Duluth delegation to Crookston. Get into the spirit that is knitting the common interests of Northern Minnesota into an effective force. You will enjoy every minute of the trip.

From the votes in the senate on the railroad bill it is clear that the administration and the railroads will have their will, and that the law as passed and signed will offer little relief to the people.

Louisiana is willing to pay $5,000,000 for a world's fair to celebrate the opening of the Panama canal, if it is held at New Orleans. Some cities that have had world's fairs might give up that much for assurance that no more will be unloaded on them.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

THE TRANSFER OF SERGEANT BARBER.

To the Editor of The Herald:

As a resident of the West end I wish to protest against the transfer of Sergeant Barber to West Duluth. I am convinced that the move is caused by pressure brought to bear by political interests. I notice that Mayor Cullum states that it is only one of a number of transfers that are being made and that they are in the course of the ordinary policy of the police department. This may be true, but it is also true that Sergeant Barber has been enforcing the law, doing his duty as it should be done by every police officer in any city, and has made many bitter enemies by it. The law-abiding element in the West end desires his retention, and as a political proposition they are to be reckoned with. The trouble is that the other class is always active. WEST ENDER.

Duluth, May 27.

THE ART EXHIBIT AND SUNDAY OBSERVANCE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The Duluth Art society shows commendable good sense in deciding to open the art exhibit in the courthouse on Sunday.

Some people will object, of course. Regardless of its merit, any undertaking on Sunday will cause a flood of censure from certain sources. Having the courage to brave that censure, the officers of the art society are to be commended for their stand.

The workingman, who labors all day, does not feel like getting into his best clothes and visiting an art exhibit in the evening after his day's work. Neither is his mind in the clear, receptive state in which the mind of any one who visits the art exhibit should be. He is not at his best to give each picture the time and study required to get a proper conception of its true meaning and beauty. The workingman does not stand alone in that class. The man who works in an office, or in any other capacity, during the day is not at his best to view and appreciate art in the evening.

Given time enough to spend a few moments before each picture on Sunday, those people will leave the exhibit with far better impressions than they would have were they given only the evenings for the visit.

Sunday is not a day for religious worship only. It is a day of rest, a day of leisure, a day for the improvement of the mind and a withdrawal from the sordid rush of business and weight of labor. True, religion means the development of mind as well as morals, the striving for the attainment of an appreciation of the better things of life, and to some people—perhaps I might say to many people—the art exhibit will appeal more strongly as an uplifting factor than will service or sermon. R. H. G.

Duluth, May 27.

To a Daisy.

Wee, modest, crimson-tipped flow'r
Thou's met me in an evil hour;
For I maun crush amang the stoure
Thy slender stem;
To spare thee now is past my pow'r,
Thou bonnie gem.

Alas, it's no thy neebor sweet,
The bonnie lark companion meet!
Bending thee 'mang the dewy weet!
Wi' spreckled breast,
When upward-springing, blythe, to greet
The purpling east.

Cauld blew the bitter, biting north
Upon thy humble early birth;
Yet cheerfully thou glinted forth
Amid the storm
Scarce rear'd above the parent earth
Thy tender form.

The flaunting flowers our gardens yield,
High shelt'ring woods and wa's maun shield,
But thou beneath the random bield
O' clod or stane
Adorns the thistle stubble field
Unseen, alane.

There, in they scanty mantle clad,
Thy snowy bosom sunward spread,
Thou lifts thy unassuming head
In humble guise;
But now the share uptears thy bed
And low thou lies!

Such is the fate of artless maid,
Sweet flow'ret of the rural shade,
By love's simplicity betray'd,
And guileless trust
Till she, like thee, all soll'd is laid
Low i' the dust.

Such is the fate of simple Bard,
On life's rough ocean luckless starr'd
Unskillful he to note the card,
Of prudent lore,
Till billows rage and gales blow hard
And whelm him o'er.

Such fate to suffering worth is giv'n
Who long with wants and woes ha striv'n
By human pride or cunning driv'n
To mis'ry's brink
Till, wrench'd of every stay but heav'n
He, ruin'd, sink.

Ev'n thou who mourn'st the daisy's fate,
That fate is thine—no distant date;
Stern Ruin's plowshare drives, elate,
Full on thy bloom,
Till crush'd beneath the furrow's weight
Shall be thy doom.

—Robert Burns.

The Reasoning of Rastus.

Saturday Evening Post: Representative Longworth of Ohio tells of a negro who brought his three sons to town on election day in a border town in Ohio.

"Hello, Rastus," said a man who knew the negro, "what are you doing here?"

"I'se jist projeckin' 'round to see how's 'lection."

In the afternoon the same man met Rastus again. "Have you voted, Rastus?" he asked.

"Yassir, I's voted, an' my boys, they's voted."

"How did you vote?"

"Well, boss, it was disyer way. I meets a Republican on th' street an' he gibs me 'leven dollars to vote his ticket. An' I meets a Democrat an' he gibs me seven dollars to vote his ticket. So I voted for th' Democrat."

"But the Republican gave you the most money."

"Yessir, dat's jist th' p'int. I voted for them Democrats because they was least corrupt."

Popular Fiction.

Chicago Tribune: "I'm So Sorry I Was Out When You Called, Mrs. Simpson!"

"I Think I'll Take These Shoes; They Don't Pinch My Feet a Bit."

"Yes, I Prefer to Shave Myself; Barbers Make My Face Sore."

"Good Night, Mrs. Higgsworthy; I've Had a Perfectly Delightful Time."

"How Beautifully You Dance, Miss Rocksey!"

"Gentlemen, I Had Not the Slightest Expectation of Being Called Upon to Make Any Remarks This Evening."

"Please Favor Us With a Song, Miss Owler; We Shall Enjoy It Ever So Much."

"Certainly, Madam; I'll Take Pleasure in Subscribing to the Church Organ Fund."

"No Inconvenience at All, Old Boy; Pay It Whenever You Get Ready."

Gilding Gold.

Washington Post: Mr. Roosevelt wore a daisy on the little Dutch princess' birthday. But pinning a daisy on the colonel is like sending coals to Newcastle.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

He Will Have a Chance.

Greenbush Tribune: Mr. Payne, the author of the tariff law which bears his name, says that the said tariff has brought prosperity to the farmer, who never in his history has enjoyed the prosperity he enjoys today. The farmer is prosperous, it is true, but to say that the new tariff is responsible for his prosperity is preposterous. The farmer will say what he thinks of the new tariff next fall.

Keeping the Bad Eggs.

Fergus Falls Free Press: Pinchot, Shaw, Price, Glavis and Kerby, all valuable servants, have been fired on account of that man Ballinger, who is still retained. Usually it is the bad eggs that are thrown away, but not so at Washington during the Taft regime.

How to Celebrate.

Bovey Iron News: Let us celebrate the Fourth this year by overlooking it. No good can come of it in honoring (?) it in the usual manner. Let us remember the day in our homes, quietly and in order. Let us take to the lakes and the woods and spend the day with mother and the children rather than to stay and help by our presence the continuation of the July 4th farce. Stand aside and look at the observance of the day. Are you proud of it? Do the fights, drunks and disorderlies conform to your ideas of the proper way to honor tho great day? Are you satisfied that it is right for each or any of us to become the fiends unclaimed and to raise h—l unmolested on July 4th? Who is there among us to give the right for one day to become lawless howling mobs of humanity—and for what? Is there a person today who cares a continental for the day if it were not for the loss of the "lid." Who is there that conscientiously goes forth with a full knowledge of the day's import and remains long in sane celebration? Suspend the Fourth until such time as it can be properly recognized and honorably treated as it should be.

Lind Will Do That.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: And now they are talking of Bobb Dunn for lieutenant governor. That surely would swamp Governor Eberhart.

United We Stand, Divided We Fall.

Park Rapids Clipper: Northern Minnesota should send a delegation to the next legislature every member of which is pledged to work for reapportionment, good roads, drainage and such questions as are of vital interest in the development of this entire section. Unitedly we can secure recognition while with the ranks broken here and there by those having some local or other primary object we shall be able to accomplish little.

That Covers Many.

Waverly Star and Tribune: An "insurgent" is a Republican who just can't stand for the things the Republican party stands for.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago: Bigamy is as foolish as it is criminal.

It's difficult for a landlord and tenant to trot in double harness.

You never hear a minister singing "No Wedding Bells for Me."

Farmers don't believe in race suicide. Children are so useful on the farm.

It's surprising what long letters some women can write without telling anything.

If you are thinking of going to law to spite somebody, take a year off and think it over.

No man ever loves the way he thought he would. He loves the way he has to or is allowed to.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: A happy life is a great temptation to death to step in.

Most of the nonsense in the world comes so near being sense you can't tell it isn't when it's yours.

An old maid woman can get over it any minute by marrying, but an old maid man stays so forever.

Before a man's wife tames him from being a wild animal he's a nightmare, and afterwards a bore.

To Stop Hiccough.

Outing: Hiccoughing is a distressing and sometimes a dangerous complaint. Many times a swallow of water will stop it. If simple measures fail, the following has been found very efficacious.

The nerves that produce hiccough are near the surface of the neck. They may be reached and compressed by placing two fingers right in the center of the top of the breastbone between the two cords that run up either side of the neck and pressing inward, downward, and outward. A few minutes pressure of this kind will stop the most obstinate hiccough.

Fooling With Kern.

Cleveland Leader: When Indiana can't think of anything else to do, it digs up Kern and brushes him off again.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1890.

Mr. and Mrs. John Panton leave Monday morning for New York, where on June 7 they will take the splendid Cunarder Umbria for Scotland and the continent. Mr. Panton wants to revisit his old home, which he has not seen for nine years, and they will be absent several months, most of the time in Scotland.

Miss Mary Nelson of the West end has returned from school at St. Peter.

Mrs. J. E. Heney, George N. La Vaque and A. M. Morison left yesterday afternoon to attend the National Christian Science convention, which opens at Chickering hall, New York, next Tuesday.

Hon. W. F. Colcleugh of Selkirk, a member of the Manitoba legislature, is in the city to confer with some of the people of Duluth regarding railroad lines between this city and Winnipeg. In addition to a direct line between the two cities he wants to see a road from Duluth, skirting along the west bank of Lake of the Woods to Selkirk and thence to the grain fields of the Peace River country.

Mrs. O. Roise of the West end has gone on a visit to friends in Chicago.

Miss Adams of Bangor, Me., will visit her sister, Mrs. Frank R. Webber, this summer.

There is another change imminent in the Duluth Tribune. H. W. Mitchell, who came here from St. Paul, and, with Fred J. Chipman, has been proprietor of the paper since R. C. Mitchell sold out, has been deposed as manager and Mr. Chipman reigns in his stead.

Traphagen & Fitzpatrick, architects, successors to O. G. Traphagen, have given notice to contractors that bids will be received for the excavation of the new theater to be erected by A. M. Miller.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Washington Star: "This talking of enormous canals on Mars seems to fascinate you," said one statesman.

"Yes," replied the other, "think of the appropriation bills."

Stray Stories: Slum Worker—What a well-behaved little boy he is!

Burglar's Wife—And he comes by it natural, ma'am. His poor father always got his sentence reduced owin' to good behavior.

"Yes, when he brings disaster."

"That's the funny thing about it The original Jonah was a prophet, while the modern Jonah is a loss."

Life: Mrs. Frost—How's your husband?

Snow—The members of his club say he is looking splendidly.

New York Evening Telegram: "Some one always profits by our mistakes."

"Yes, the minister got $5 when I was married."

The Two Mysteries.

"We know not what it is, dear, this sleep so deep and still;
The folded hands, the awful calm, the cheek so pale and chill;
The lids that will not lift again, though we may call and call;
The strange white solitude of peace that settles over all.

"We know not what it means, dear, this desolate heart pain;
This dread to take our daily way, and walk in it again;
We know not what to other sphere the loved who leave us go,
Nor why we're left to wonder still, nor why we do not know.

"But this we know: Our loved and dead, if they should come this day—
Should come and ask us, 'What is life?' not one of us could say;
Life is a mystery, as deep as ever death can be;
Yet, oh, dear it is to us, this life we live and see.

"Then might they say—these vanished ones—and blessed in the thought,
So death is sweet to us, beloved, though we may show you nought;
We may not to the quick reveal the mystery of death—
Ye cannot tell us, if ye would, the mystery of breath.'

"The child who enters life comes not with knowledge or intent
So those who enter death must go as little children sent;
Nothing is known, but I believe that God is overhead,
And as life is to the living, so death is to the dead."

MARY MAPES DODGE.

Hamlet to the Players.

William Shakespeare: Speak the speech, I pray you, as I pronounced it to you—trippingly on the tongue; but if you mouth it, as many of our players do, I had as lief the town-crier spake my lines. Nor do not saw the air too much with your hand, thus, but use all gently; for in the very torrent, tempest, and, I may say, whirlwind of your passion, you must acquire and beget a temperance that may give it smoothness. O! it offends me to the soul to hear a robustious periwig pated fellow tear a passion to tatters—to very rags—to split the ears of the groundlings; who, for the most part, are capable of nothing but inexplicable dumb show and noise. I would have such a fellow whipped for o'erdoing Termagant. It out-herods Herod. Pray you, avoid it.

Be not too tame, neither, but let your own discretion be you tutor. Suit the action to the word, the word to the action; with this special observance—that you o'erstep not the modesty of nature, for anything so overdone is from the purpose of playing; whose end, both at the first and now, was, and is, to hold, as 'twere, the mirror up to nature—to show virtue her own feature, scorn her own image; and the very age and body of the time, his form and pressure. Now, this overdone or come tardy off, though it make the unskillful laugh, cannot but make the judicious grieve, the censure of which one must, in your allowance, o'erweigh a whole theater of others. O! there be players that I have seen play and heard others praise, and that highly, not to speak it profanely, that, neither having the accent of Christians nor the gait of Christian, pagan or man, have so strutted and bellowed that I have thought some of nature's journeymen had made them and not made them well—they imitated humanity so abominably!

The Singing Heart.

I spoke a traveler on the road
Who smiled beneath his leaden load.
"How play you such a blithesome part?"—
"Comrade, I bear a singing heart!"

I questioned one whose path with pain
In the grim shadows long had lain,
"How fare you thus life's thorny smart?"—
"Comrade, I bear a singing heart!"

I cried to one whom adversity
Could not make bend the hardy knee,
"How such brave seeming? Tell the art!"—
'Comrade, I bear a singing heart!"

Friend, blest be thou if thou canst say
Upon the inevitable way
Whereupon we fare, sans guide or chart—
"Comrade, bear a singing heart!"
—Clinton Scollard in The Independent.

The Child Workers.

I.

"Kill me the children," said Herod—
"Slay!"
And the red sword flashed in the sun;
Flashed and fell—in a merciful way,
For the killing was speedily done;
And the walls of the victims were suddenly stilled
In the old-fashioned way in which Herod killed.

II.

But to slaughter the innocents inch by inch
In the shop, in the mill, in the mine;
To grapple them down in the terrible clinch
Of a dollar-mad, daily design
And slowly destroy them both spirit and frame—
Why, Herod himself would call it a shame!
—Howard Singleton Taylor in Chicago Examiner.

HELLO GIRLS ARE TREATED CRUELLY

Grave Charges Against the Exchanges in London Are Filed.

London, May 27. — Grave charges were made against the management of the postoffice telephone exchanges in the city at a large meeting of London telephonists which was held at the hall of the Society of Compositors at Ludgate-circus.

It was alleged that the system of "speeding up" now in vogue and the hustling methods of supervision necessary to maintain the pressure were detrimental to the health of the staff, and directly opposed to the true interests of the service.

Details were given in support of the charges. It was stated that at one exchange recently thirty girls out of a staff of thirty-six collapsed in two consecutive days.

Hysterics were of daily occurrence and on one day at another exchange no fewer than forty girls of the 240 employed were on the sick list.

A strongly worded resolution was adopted unanimously by the meeting, which called the attention of the postmaster general and the public to the serious state of things.

The case for the telephone operators was explained by one of them after the meeting.

"The girls' hours are forty-eight a week," he said, "and many frequently go into hysterics, while the consumption hospitals on the south coast are full of cases brought on by the arduous work of telephoning. The girls' wages eventually rise to $7 per week.

"The night workers get two-thirds of their pay stopped when ill, even though the illness is due to the strain of their duties, and this occurs quite frequently.

"A serious case of an operator who was ruined for life as regards physical conditions occurred quite frequently.

"The operator had been in the service only three years when her nerves completely broke down, and a doctor who examined her said that if the work was continued she would not live for six months, and that she must give her work up at once.

"This is only one case of many, and there are a large number who, if they consulted a doctor, would be given the same advice. They dare not give up the work for fear they would not obtain occupations. At the same time they know that they can only last a few years."

BRYN MAWR NOW TO GREET TAFT

College Girls Will Celebrate in the President's Presence.

New York, May 27.—With President Taft coming from Washington on June 2 to celebrate with hundreds of the women graduates of Bryn Mawr the twenty-fifth anniversary of the college, special plans for this event are being made here today by officers of the Bryn Mawr Alumnae association. Surrounding the president in the open cloisters of the library at the final session of their commencement, past and present students of Bryn Mawr, assembled from all over this country, will await the final announcement of the result of their campaign to raise the $500,000 endowment fund which is needed to assure for the future the widening work of their alma mater and which is still short of consumption.

Following the success of the recent May day revels, the proceeds of which are being turned over by the undergraduates as their contribution to this fund it is hoped that the $250,000 offered by the general educational board will be shown to be matched dollar for dollar and the ambitious amount of endowment practicahy completed through the efforts of less than 1,000 women.

Marshalled by Helen Taft and many of her sophomore classmates, crowds of the families and friends of Bryn Mawr girls and graduates will welcome the president of the United States, according to plans that are now being perfected for this event. "Queen's weather" has always favored open air exercises at Bryn Mawr, and in preparing for the Taft address outside the ivied walls of the campus buildings the enthusiastic women in charge of the celebration do not expect to disappoint the distinguished audience that is arranging to attend from every section of the continent. Already it is indicated that President Taft will meet upon the campus of Bryn Mawr a greater gathering of the followers of the college than have ever assembled there before.

From all the Southern, Middle Atlantic and New England states, and even from many of the Pacific and far western communities of the continent, Bryn Mawr graduates will travel to their old campus haunts to hold class reunions and join with the girl students in basket ball matches, bonfire celebrations and councils over the final completion of the endowment fund for which they have all been struggling. A round $100,000 will be offered by the class of 1907, many of whose members will return from their third years out of college, it was announced today. With other considerable contributions by wealthy friends of women's education, class contributions made up of modest sums as well as the dollars and dimes that the girl students of Bryn Mawr have been hoarding from their fees for running errands about the campus, will be added to the grand total that will be announced before the president.

BACK WICKERSHAM'S ALASKAN CHARGES.

Washington, May 27.—Sensational testimony in connection with the Alaskan political situation was again given before the sub-committee of the senate committee on judiciary, which is investigating the protests against the appointments of John Rustgard to succeed John J. Boyce as United States district attorney, and Herbert L. Faulkner to succeed Daniel Sutherland as United States marshal, both in Division No. 1, Alaska.

Delegate Wickersham completed his statement, charging that the new appointees were subservient to the Guggenheim interests. Boyce and Sutherland were heard. They protested that they were removed at the instigation of a political clique, represented by Louis Shackleford, Republican national committeeman for Alaska, Former Governor W. B. Hogatt and Governor Walter E. Clark.

TO DOUBLE THE FORCE

Repair Work at Foley Gold Mine Is Now Being Pushed.

General Awakening in Mining in the Rainy Lake Region.

Mine Center, Ont., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Capt. John Hosking has received instructions to double the working force on the Foley mine. He reports that everything is going smoothly in connection with work under way. For some weeks he has been doing repair work of different kinds. At present, he is repairing the power house at the north shaft on the Bonanza vein. Considerable material for the work under way is expected soon.

John L. Morrison of Duluth and A. L. Hoffman of Brainerd, Minn., president and secretary, respectively, of the Foley Gold Mines company, limited, are expected here June 1 to inspect work done the past month and to lay out work for the month to come.

Among other things under way, a big garden is being planted at the Foley mine. Capt. Hosking states that he is constantly and seriously troubled with incursions of the red deer. They recently ate up onions, lettuce and radishes and have trampled the growling vegetables badly. The game laws do not allow resort to fire arms, therefore a couple of cross and nimble dogs will be secured to guard the garden plots.

Deer and Bear.

There is a shaft on the "galena" vein about eight feet deep. The other morning Capt. Hosking found a young fawn in it. He removed it from the pit and it went swiftly into the bush in search of Mother Doe.

Capt. Hosking also reports that a big black bear recently was shot in the woods adjacent to the northerly end of the Foley location. It was in very good condition considering the time of the year and one of the largest seen around here for several years.

The English mining engineer who declared that Tonopah and Goldfield were no good for precious metals because no big game existed there, ought to examine some of the mines around Mine Center.

Next week, Capt. John Gilbert, superintendent of provincial roads for this section, will start repair work on the road from the Mine Center wagon road to the Foley mine. This road was first put through by the late J. C. Foley but it has been in bad repair for some years. It will make the Foley mine very accessible from Mine Center station.

In the winter, before the provincial parliament adjourned, W. A. Preston, member for this district, secured an appropriation through the department of public works for this improvement and other work. Great credit is due Mr. Preston for his earnest efforts and his success.

General Mining Awakening.

There is a general awakening all along the line in mining matters. Mike Ralph was out to his iron lands near Bad Vermilion Lake some time ago and, recently, Dave Gelil took a party of men to examine his old property south of the Seine river, below the Foley mine a few miles.

Kenora possesses a Prospestors' & Mine Owners' Association and there is an inclination to organize one for the Rainy Lake region taking in all the territory from Fort Frances to Atikokan.

The Ontario government is waking up to the fact that Cobalt is not the only place in Ontario where minerals exist and mines are possible. Prof. A. L. Parsons, mineralogist for Toronto university and E. Thompson, a graduate of the same institution, at present are in the Lake of the Woods region for the purpose of obtaining precise information concerning mineralogical conditions in that part of the Rainy River district. They are accompanied by A. K. Slater, of Mysore, India, who will make comparisons between the formations here and in his Asiatic field.

Very recently, Prof. Parsons addressed the Kenora association. He spoke of the association of minerals and said that most prospectors paid little heed to anything but gold and silver. He mentioned the fact that many of the baser minerals are of greater importance and profit. He told of a case, also, where a Rainy River district prospector sent a strange mineral to the Toronto for assay. It was found to contain platinum. The prospector who sent the mineral was written for further particulars, but he failed to reply and nothing further ever was done. Platinum, as any mining man knows, is much more valuable per ounce than gold.

COUNTESS IS TO FLY.

British Society Surprised at Lark of Countess of Donoughmore.

London, May 27.—It has come as a shock to a number of society folks in London who have grown accustomed to regard the countess of Donoughmore as one of the most matronly women among them, to find that she has suddenly developed a taste for aviation.

The success of her cousin, Cecil Grace, son of the late J. W. Grace of New York, who made a daring flight over the warships at Sheerness recently, has fired the countess with an ambition to become a flyer, and against her father's and husband's protestations, she has expressed her determination to accompany her cousin on his next aerial voyage.

Hitherto the countess's activities have consisted in opening bazaars organized in the interests of philanthropy and distributing charity privately in her own quiet way. She has carefully avoided anything that would have a tendency to identify her with any of the vices of the smart set, with the result that she is looked upon more as a prude than a woman of fashion.

CHEROKEES TO VOTE.

Republicans Will Be Aided By Indians in Oklahoma.

Grove, Okla., May 27.—The fullblood Cherokee Indians have decided for the first time since statehood to participate in politics by voting at the primaries next August and at the state election in November.

The Cherokee is a "singed cat" in politics, and in tribal days learned the political game from start to finish. Once in state politics it is improbable that the fullblood ever will withdraw. With the fullbloods at the polls practically all the Cherokee will be voting.

Of these fullbloods more than 90 per cent are Republicans and are intensely partisan. To them Republicanism means "for the government"—the Federal government. In Democracy the Cherokee fullblood sees the party of President Jackson that drove the Cherokees from their old homes in Georgia and Tennessee to the wilderness west of the Mississippi.

An agreement was reached for the division of candidates in the local election. The fullbloods asked for only two nominees, suggested that the other nominees should be white men and generously conceded to the white men the selection of the white candidates.

River Pearl Brings $1,500.

Peoria, Ill., May 27.—Frank Hudnull, a pearl dealer of Both, Ill., has purchased from a fisherman in this city the largest pearl ever found in the Illinois river. The pearl is described as a "double saucer," and weighs eighty-five grains. Mr. Hudnull paid $1,500 for it.

Reclamation Bond Scheme Made.

Washington, May 27.—Supporters of the bill to provide for an issue of $30,000,000 in certificates of indebtedness to complete reclamation projects have announced that they would try to fasten it as a "rider" on the administration land withdrawal bill. President Taft is said to have consented to this course.

AT 74 OWES FINE HEAD OF HAIR TO CUTICURA

Itching, Scaling Scalp Humor was Making It All Fall Out—Two Doctors Could Not Stop the Trouble—Niece Advised Using Cuticura.

CURED HER SCALP AND MADE HAIR GROW AGAIN

"My mother used to have a very bad humor on her head which the doctors called an eczema, and for it I had two different doctors. Her head was very sore and her hair nearly all fell out in spite of what they both did. One day her niece came in to see her and they were speaking of how her hair was falling out and the doctors did it no good. She says, 'Aunt, why don't you try Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment?' Mother did and they helped her, so she soon began bathing with the Cuticura Soap and anointing with the Cuticura Ointment, and in six months' time the itching, burning and scaling of her head was over and her hair began growing. To-day she feels very much in debt to Cuticura Soap and Ointment for the fine head of hair she has for an old lady seventy-four years old.

"In regard to my own case, mine was an eczema something like hers. It was in my feet. As soon as the cold weather came my feet would itch and burn and then they would crack open and bleed. Then I thought I would flee to my mother's friends, Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. I did for four or five winters and now my feet are as smooth as any one's. Ellsworth Dunham, Hiram, Me., Sept. 30, 1909."

What Barnum Said of Cuticura.

P. T. Barnum, the famous circus man, once wrote: "I have had the Cuticura Remedies among the contents of my medicine chest with my shows for the last three seasons, and I can cheerfully certify that they were very effective in every case which called for their use."

Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Humor of Infants, Children and Adults consists of Cuticura Soap (25c.) to Cleanse the Skin, Cuticura Ointment (50c.) to Heal the Skin and Cuticura Resolvent (50c.), (or in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, 25c. per vial of 60), to Purify the Blood. Sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem Corp., Sole Props., 135 Columbus Ave., Boston, Mass. Mailed Free, 32-page Cuticura Book on Skin Diseases, and their Speedy, Economical Treatment.

FAIL TO GET COMMISSION

Graduates From Naval Academy in 1898 Not Yet Ensigns.

Every One Unable to Pass the Final Examinations.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, May 27.—The president, the navy department, congress and the public generally were astounded when the news was flashed from Annapolis that not a single member of the class graduated in 1898 from the naval academy had passed sufficiently high in the final examinations to entitle him to a commission as ensign. Never before in the history of the institution, which is the pride of the country, has such a result followed a two years' cruise of the midshipmen who were sent out following their graduation. It is learned from some of those who are in close touch with the middies that the examination was the most severe ever imposed, and it is very broadly hinted that officers higher up were responsible for what is said to be a deliberate attempt to "bilge" the class of '98 in order that they themselves may longer remain on the active list of the navy. Whether this is true or not, the president and the secretary of the navy decided that the action of the examining board was altogether too drastic and in spite of the adverse reports nearly all of the middies will be commissioned as ensigns.

It is probable too that the board of visitors to the naval academy, which will examine that institution this summer, will go more carefully into the curriculum and that a reformation in the exaction imposed upon the ombryo admirals will be radically reformed. The history of the navy shows that the star graduates do not as a rule turn out to be the ablest navigators and seamen. There is many an old shell back in the service today who ranks high as a stactician and a navigator who would be stumped by a problem in calculus which would be pie for a high school boy, and it is argued with a great deal of force that after passing the rigid examinations imposed every half year there will be some of the right kind of stuff in the class of a hundred sturdy American boys who have had four years of academic education and two years of sea duty even though they are not able to satisfactorily explain the fourth dimension.

Transfers of Army Officers.

Lieut. Col. Charles W. Taylor of the general staf of the army has just been ordered to proceed to Denver to take up the duties of adjutant general of the department of Colorado.

Col. Taylor's case is not a unique one, but it demonstrates very clearly how difficult it is for an army officer with a family to make his salary to satisfy all his needs. Army officers are subject to the orders of the president as commander-in-chief, who by the way seldom knows them individually, which are transmitted through the adjutant general of the army, and just when one has become comfortably settled in a desirable post, where he may have the advantages of education for his children he is liable to be ordered to a new post a thousand miles away.

Some years ago there was an officer in the army with nine children, who in ten years was ordered to no less than seven different posts, every move involving an expenditure of practically $1,000 in railroad fare and in the transportation of his household goods. The case of Col. Taylor is almost analogous. At the outbreak of the Spanish war he was a captain in the Ninth cavalry, stationed in Fort Robinson, Neb. The Ninth is a negro regiment and was one of the first and most active organizations which preceded to Siboney and San Juan, and it was the black fellows of the Ninth that saved the Rough Riders from annihilation in that campaign. Capt. Taylor, who in the final engagement was ranking officer of the organization, was "shot all to pieces," and was taken to Governor's island nearly a physical wreck. But he recovered and about the beginning of the year 1899, President McKinley assigned him to the position of treasurer of the National Soldiers' home in this city, where he showed remarkable executive ability and in which place he remained for about three years, giving him a chance to educate his children. About eight years ago he was dumped from Washington to Fort Mead, and of course his family went with him. Just as he was finally settled at Fort Mead he was ordered to the Philippines, and upon the elevation of Gen. Merritt to the head of the army, Taylor then having reached his majority, was assigned to recruiting duty in St. Paul. His next move was a nice little jump from St. Paul to Fort Sill, Okla., and then a shorter one to Leavenworth, Kan. From Leavenworth he was ordered back to Minnesota, being stationed at Fort Snelling, and just when he had nicely settled his household goods and his family at that very desirable post, telegraphic orders reached him to proceed to Washington for duty in the adjutant general's office. This was a year and a half ago. In the meantime Maj. Taylor had become Lieut. Col. Taylor. He did not know what would be the duration of his last assignment, but last fall he bought a house here and had just got comfortably settled, when the powers that be in an official order promulgated last week directed him to proceed to Denver there to assume the duties of adjutant general of that department. Lieut. Col. Taylor will reach his full colonelcy in December, 1914, and will retire about six years later. He will probably have another trip to the Philippines within a year or two, and by the time he reaches the retirement age will have a very practical knowledge of the geography of the United States, not only on this continent but among its possessions beyond the seas.

New Wireless Device.

Press dispatches recently have told of the trial of an invention on the French line steamer La Provence, which is designed to enable a vessel at sea, equipped with wireless, to ascertain the exact direction from which a message comes. This device is said to be the invention of an Italian and experiments made thus far show that the device is a success and that it will be possible by its installation upon vessels to overcome the danger of collisions in fogs.

It is interesting to note in this connection that Elliott Woods, superintendent of the United States capitol, has, during the past six months, made many experiments in a similar line and he is confident that he had solved the problem before the Italian scientist did so. But Mr. Woods is not a wealthy man, and the many inventions which he has perfected have all gone to the use of the public, and especially of the government, without charge or payment of any kind. He endeavored to secure the aid of the navy to demonstrate the effect of his device, but was turned down, for it seems that naval officers don't like land lubbers to interfere with navigation. Now that an Italian has come into the field, it is possible that Mr. Woods will receive more encouragement and that the American invention may prove equally effective in the purpose for which it was designed.

TURKEY BESTS AN ARTIST.

But Britisher Finally Is Rescued By Party of Golfers.

London, May 27.—A Staffordshire artit, while sketching near Hanley, was attacked by a turkey, and had an exciting encounter with the bird lasting a quarter of an hour.

The turkey approached the artist from behind and made a sudden attack. With his sketch block he aimed a blow at the bird's head, but missed, and then sought refuge behind a tree. The turkey pursued him and injured him quite severely. A party of golfers finally came to the rescue and killed the turkey.

CARLISTS GAIN A TRIUMPH.

Regionalist Basques See Colors Lowered in Affray Near Asua.

Madrid, May 27.—A serio is affray has occurred between Carlists and Regionalist Basques at Asua, near Bilbao. Provoked by a cry of "Viva Euskaria," the Carlists, who were led by a soi-disant commandant in the Carlist army, broke into the Basque Casino, and their violence gives some foretaste of what may occur in the elections among a high-spirited population, many of whom seem ever ready to cry, "Viva Jaime III." Having pulled down the Basque flag and destroyed everything in the Casino—whose five occupants were lucky to escape with their lives amid a storm of bullets—the Carlists marched off triumphantly.

WHEN THE SKIN AILS

Real "First Aid" in Eczema and Skin Troubles of Every Nature.

Most medicinal preparations for physicians' use tell on the label what particular disease they are best adapted to cure. All the troubles readily curable by poslam, the new skin remedy, make a lengthy list, including every surface skin affection, for poslam is "first aid" whenever the skin ails. While primarily a remedy for eczema, acne, tetter, barber's and all other forms of itch, etc., it promptly cures all the lesser skin affections, pimples, blackheads, red noses, blotches, fever blisters, inflamed skin, rash, herpes, clears the complexion and keeps the skin in a healthy condition.

Many of these minor troubles are eradicated by poslam over night, others in a day or two, and many cases of eczema yield in two weeks. Itching stops on first application, and the skin begins to heal at once.

Every druggist keps both the 50-cent size (for minor troubles) and the $2 jar, and either of these may be obtained at the Lyceum Pharmacy and W. A. Abbett's in Duluth and the A. E. Holmberg Drug Co., in Superior, as well as other reliable drug stores.

But no one is even asked to purchase poslam without first obtaining a sample package, which will be sent by mail, free of charge, upon request, by the Emergency Laboratories, No. 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York city.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

Memorial Day coming on Monday makes a week end party a timely and delightful form of enjoyment that many Duluthians will avail themselves of, this year although those who enter most seriously into the spirit of Memorial Day, rather resent picnics and merry making on the day set aside for respect to the dead soldiers. The people who didn't live through war times, however, are planning, fishing trip and cross country walks and house parties for the day. A large number of Duluthians will go to Solon Springs for the holiday and the cottages there will be opened for the season at that time. Others will spend the week end at Ford du Lac or Pike Lake and several parties will go to the Spirit Lake branch of the Boat club for a holiday outing.

PALESTINE ASSEMBLY

Entertains at Last Party for the Season.

The members of the Palestine assembly entertained last evening at the ball room of the Masonic Temple at the last of the dancing parties for the season. La Brosse's orchestra played the program of dancing music and a large number of the members and their guests enjoyed the affair which concluded a season of most enjoyable parties.

HOME WEDDING.

Miss Treviranus Becomes Bride of A. Butchart.

The wedding of Miss Laura H. Treviranus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Treviranus, and Archie Butchart took place last evening at the home of the bride's parents, 2722 West Second street. In the room in which the ceremony took place a bank of palms and ferns was arranged. White carnations were the flowers placed about the room. The ceremony took place at 8 o'clock, the wedding music being played by Mrs. Hanely Hanson who also played during the ceremony. There were no attendants. The bride was given in marriage by her father and the service was read by the Rev. J. Wilfred Loughridge. The bride wore a pretty lingerie gown of white embroidery and carried a bouquet of bride's roses.

In the dining room where the wedding supper was served the decorations were in red roses and ferns. There were twenty-five guests at the wedding.

Mr. Butchart and his bride will be at home at 318 Twenty-seventh avenue west.

TRY THIS DINNER

Puree of Parsnips.

Fry brown in butter, one quart of tender parsnips, cut into dice. Cover with beef stock, cook slowly until tender, press through a sieve and return to the fire. Thicken slightly with flour blended in water, season to taste and serve with croutons.

Veal Cutlet en Casserole.

Brown a large veal cutlet in butter. Add salt and pepper to season, a bay leaf, clove or garlic, one onion and one carrot sliced. Put into the casserole, cover and cook slowly for two hours. Serve with spinach.

Vegetables—Escolloped Tomatoes and Cheese.

Make a drawn butter sauce with two tablespoons each of butter and flour. Cook with one cup of hot water and season with salt and pepper, then a layer of crumbs with a thick sprinkling of grated cheese. Continue until the dish is full, having a generous sprinkling of cheese on top. Pour over the whole the hot sauce and bake in a moderate oven until brown.

Dessert—Apricots en Mousse.

Rub a can of apricots through a fine sieve. Steep two tablespoonfuls of gelatine in the syrup of the apricots for half an hour, and then put it to dissolve in a gentle heat, adding a cupful of sugar and stir until it is dissolved. Add the apricot pulp and put it away to cool. Meawhile whip half a pint of thick sweet cream very stiff, and when the apricot mixture is about to congeal, carefully mix the two together. Place it in a mold, cover closely, seal the edges with butter and imbed it in a pail of salted ice for two hours.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Home Made American Cement.

Cement made by the following American formula will unite most substances, and is more powerful than almost all the repairing cements sold under various fancy titles. Six pieces of gum mastic the size of large peas are dissolved in alcohol, only sufficient being used to liquify the gum. Isinglass slightly softened in water is placed in a two-ounce bottle and good brandy or rum added to fill up the neck of the phial.

The water used in softening the isinglass must not be allowed to dilute this mixture.

Small pieces of galbanum or ammoniacum, about one-third of the gum mastic, must be ground and two ounces dissolved in the bottle. Mix the contents of the bottle with the dissolved gum mastic, using a little heat to assist the mixing, and keep the cement in a well-stoppered bottle. When required for use set the bottle in warm water.

Cleaning Varnished Wall Paper.

Make a lather of warm water and soap powder and after dusting down the paper, dip a whitewash brush lightly into the water; squeeze most of the moisture from it and work down the paper from the ceiling. Do part at a time and thoroughly dry the paper as you proceed.

To Make Sachet Powder.

Sachet powder may be made at home as follows: Take three ounces each of powderer fullers' earth, starch and rice flour, add sufficient powdered orris root to scent delicately. Pass three times through a sieve and the powder is ready.

* * *

Removal of Mud Stains.

Carbonate of soda will remove the most obstinate mud stains. Rub off with cloth or flannel dipped in soda, then press well on wrong side with warm iron.

How to Clean Nickel Ware.

Nickel-plated cullinary utensils, chafing dishes, jelly molds, etc., can be cleaned with a paste of whiting and household ammonia. This will not injure the nickel and will be found to lighten considerably the labor of cleaning.

THE "CHANTECLER" RULES ALL THE STYLES IN WOMEN'S HATS AND "NOVELTIES" IN THE GAY FRENCH CAPITAL

SOME OF THE PARIS STYLES OF THE PRESENT SUMMER.

These are the latest style in Paris hats. One of them shows the vogue of Rostand's "Chantecler." Every one in Paris is selling pins and brooches and fans and umbrella handles with roosters' heads adorning them, and cocks' heads on hats are quite the vogue. But later still are oriental turbans of variegated coloring and "pot hats" like truncated cones. A very pretty face looks prettier under these hats, but a homely one has all its bad features emphasized. Still most of the American women now in Paris will bring these monstrosities back to Cleveland and Detroit and Cincinnati to give their friends something to talk about.

THE EVENING STORY

"THE LADIES"

By James Pearson.

Frank Manton stood in front of his dressing table, raking over the contents of a little flat jewelry case. He was dressing for a dance at Miss Laughton's, and his cuff links were missing. As usual, when anything of his was not in its accustomed place, he searched his brother's belongings before overturning his own.

Charlie's table stood in the opposite corner. He crossed the room, pulled out the top drawer, and began overhauling a tumble of gloves, ties, socks, and handkerchiefs. In the back part of the drawer was an overturned leather box. Under it, in a medley of studs, plus and buttons, were the links. He picked them from the litter, roughly smoothed the top of the confusion into a semblance of order, and was just closing the drawer when something caught his eye. It was a little pink slip; on it was written in coarse, stubby hand: "Turquoise and diamond marquise ring," and there was a loan of $25.

He stood staring at it, his forehead drawn down in deep wrinkles and a tense look about his lips.

"Well, I like your nerve!"

Frank turned as his brother entered the room.

"I'm only going through your things to get back what you went through mine to take. If I hadn't had to, I shouldn't have seen things you didn't want me to know."

"I supose," returned the other, "you're referring to that beastly pawn ticket."

"Yes, and I think you said it about right. To coax a lady for the permission of wearing her ring, to wear it openly, and then to pawn it, is beastly—worse than beastly. Beasts have honor where their weaker sex is concerned—you haven't a grain."

"Oh, I say, you'll have to cut that out. I haven't stolen the ring, you know, and tomorrow's pay day. I only pawned it last night, and I was in a deuce of a hole. If you weren't so confoundedly proper—"

"And you were going to wait until tomorrow to redeem it, when you are to see her tonight?"

"I couldn't very well do it before, could I? Besides, I'm broke."

Frank Manton looked at his brother for a moment. Frank looked his brother in the eyes.

"Give me the ticket," said he.

"What for?"

"I'm going to redeem it."

"Tonight?"

"Yes, tonight."

"But the dance?"

"I can go late. I'm not escorting anyone"

"And what will you do with the ring—make a grand scene with your brother as the heavy villain?"

"I'm going to give it to you at Miss Laughton's. You can do the scene-making on your own account."

Charlie dropped his bravado.

"Frank," he said, "you're a trump."

"Don't," said his brother sharply. "It isn't for your sake—I told you I had done helping you out of your scrapes."

"And it's for her sake, then? I didn't know we were rivals."

Charlie stepped to the drawer and handed over the offending slip.

"If I weren't in such a deuce of a hole, I'll be hanged if I'd let you have it," he said, scowling.

Frank finished dressing, and hastened from the room. Three-quarters of an hour later he was hurrying back towards the station. The ring was in his pocket, and from time to time his fingers touched carressingly the little square box that contained it. He knew, without asking, to whom it belonged. He had often watched it sparkling on Miss Laughton's hand.

Miss Laughton saw rim as he entered the crowded room, and came graciously towards him.

"You are late," she said, looking up frankly into Manton's tense face, "but you are quite excusable; your brother has explained your tardiness. We women have always to give way where bushess interests are concerned. We're not having all dancing this evening," she continued; "it's so warm, and it's the first time we've met together this season, and, of course, everybody wants to talk about the summer happenings, so we're having 'progressive conversation.' I've only one topic left, Mr. Manton. It is the last on the list. Will you take it with me?"

She held out a little white card like a dance program as she spoke.

"Most gratefully," he replied.

"The Ladies," he read, as he took hold of the dangling little pencil; "the ladies—that's a hard subject, Miss Laughton. You will have to do all the talking; but you will have a delighted listener, I assure you."

"I shall be dreadfully disappointed then, Mr. Manton. I should very much like your opinion of your sex, though I am afraid we would not feel flattered."

He hastened to correct her, but she laughingly interrupted.

"Don't spoil our topic, Mr. Manton. You see, as it is, you will have to be the speaker and I the audience—but I'm forgetting; your card is all but empty. You must hurry if you are going to fill it before the bell rings."

Across the room Charlie sat, openly flirting with a little blonde.

Frank threaded his way to where they sat, and politely handed his card to the lady. As she bent over it, he contrived to slip the packet with the ring into his brother's palm.

Before his card was quite full the bell rang, and the buzzing began. His topic with the blonde was next to the last on the list.

As he approached her she drew aside her skirts with a pretty gesture, and began to talk airily. He listened a moment, smiling to himself at the dainty frivolity she was unconsciously unfolding; then her words became a jumble of light tones.

In a corner, half-shaded by a large palm, sat his brother and Miss Laughton. Her left hand lay in his, and his curly head was bent low above it.

The blonde girl chatted on for a moment, then she looked in the direction her companion was gazing, and her cheeks flushed.

Charlie glanced up just then, and his eyes met theirs. Something seemed to flash across his face; for a second he stared at them; then he smiled carelessly, and turned again to Miss Laughton.

The bell rang for a change of partners.

Frank released himself with a bow, and took the place his brother had just vacated.

"You were to do the talking, you know," said Miss Laughton's clear voice, "and please, sir, I'm waiting."

"Was I?" he answered. "That was your bargain, I believe; but I'm quite willing, for you were misjudging me, I remember."

His words came in a rush then, strong words, telling her, though she knew it not, his idea of one woman, and that woman herself.

She listened, with eyes fixed on her clasped hands. When he ceased speaking, she lifted her head and looked into his glowing face.

"Mr. Manton," she said, "you are going to be disappointed in life, I fear. Women aren't like that. I wish we were, but we're not. We're just ordinary mortals; you have made us angels and saints."

"I believe you are right in one thing, Miss Laughton," he answered. "I shall be disappointed in life, yes; but I believe I know that somewhere there is a woman who is all I have pictured to you."

"And you believe you will find her, only to meet disappointment?"

"I have found her."

"And the disappointment?"

Her eyes were turned away from his, and the words were spoken low.

"Yes," he replied, "and the disappointment."

Charlie came up to him a few minutes later, as he stood alone near where she had left him.

"What the deuce have you been thinking?" he whispered, gripping his arm. "Whose ring did you suppose that was, anyhow?"

"I know very well that it was Miss Laughton's" his brother replied.

"Miss Laughton's be fiddlesticks! You didn't suppose she'd be letting me or any other fellow wear—"

"But," interrupted Frank. "I saw you giving it to her—I saw you holding her hand under the palm."

"You saw me reading her hand and describing a husband to her that was you to the dot.

His brother looked at him, bewildered.

"What sort of game are you playing with me?" he asked.

"No game at all; though, goodness knows, I've been mad enough at you to play you almost any kind. But it's the truth I'm telling you. I described you to her, and I tell you she liked it. If you weren't so dead slow, you might have found it out for yourself long ago."

"But the ring?"

"The ring. Oh, that was the little blonde's you were talking with. You don't suppose there's only one like it in the world, do you?"

Frand did not reply.

At the other end of the room Miss Laughton stood, a bright center, about which were grouped the most eligible men of her set.

He gazed earnestly at her a moment, unable to believe his brother's words. His look drew her eyes to his. She glanced up frankly; then her lids slowly lowered, and a faint blush deepened the pink of her cheeks.

Frank turned to his brother.

"Charlie," he said, "what made you tell me—this?"

"Charles laughed lightly.

"Good heavens, man, we're brothers; and if you did go for me tonight you've helped me out of more scrapes than you'd get into if you lived as long as Methuselah. But I say, Frank, you've got to help me make peace with the blonde, you know. She's down on me for that holding hands business."

LATEST SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

SOX OPEN THE SEASON BY SMOTHERING THE LEADERS

Rochester Surgeons Trounced By Score of 13 to 2.

Big Crowd and Fine Weather for the Opening Contest.

(BY BRUCE.)

Duluth, 13; Rochester, 2.

You have the story, sweet and to the point. We won and we did it in a manner so impressive that today the fans are wondering why Duluth is at the bottom of the ladder and how in old creation Rochester ever climbed to the topmost rung.

Noboby who saw the game of yesterday can possibly explain.

It was a great old day. The fun started down in front of the city hall. The two teams were packed in seagoing hacks, and with pleasant smiles driven slowly through the biggest and best street of our fair city.

A band preceded the parade, playing such fetching music that from windows heads were precipitously popped and along the line of march the mayor, city officials, ball players and regular old line fans were the cynosure of many eyes.

There was a big crowd at the park when the first hack reached the gate. The bleachers were comfortably filled and the grandstand was filling, though the first of our prominent hackmen drew up before the portcullis of the front gate before 3 o'clock.

After preliminary practice by both teams, in which the Sox showed the papricka that distinguished their play of last season, the players were lined up in orderly fashion, with conscious looks of importance o'erspreading their countenances, and A. W. Kuehnow introduced to the fans Mayor Marcus B. Cullum.

The speech of his honor was short and to the point. He told the fans that just before a ball game was no time for an extended flow of silver oratory; informed them that the team was better than its standing would indicate; pointed out that baseball was the same grand old game, one worthy of the patronage of the best people in the city.

Little O'Leary took his place at bat, Umps Agur strode to the usual posish behind the plate and the mayor strolled to the box, where with accurate aim he hurled the first ball of the season, true as a die, over the plate. O'Leary, very courteously, struck at the flying pellet and the season was ushered in.

In the very first inning George Washington Dauss showed that his salary wing was working in faultless manner. O'Leary, Kernan and Bobby Wallace struck at nothing more substantial than the beautiful summer weighted atmosphere. Three went out via the Guss Hill method, and the big crowd gave the little pitcher an ovation as he walked to the bench.

After Shorty Anderson had gone out Karnan to Dunn and Smiling Pete Neelon had been retired, Johnson to Dunn, Thomas Zachery Taylor stopped one with his graceful physique, O'Brien got the first hit of the season, advancing Tom to third, and Cleanup Altermott hit for two wholesome sacks, sending the runners scurrying across.

The shortstop attempted to stretch his hit into a three-base clout, and was caught at third, Johnson, Johnson and Kernan.

Rochester went down one, two, three in their next innings. Dunn was retired on an infield offering. Corrigan got a life on Altermott's bubble, stole second and was caught trying to pilfer third. Johnson whiffed.

Sweeney and Woods were retired on infield hits, Gillis was hit by an erratic shoot and was forced at second by Dauss.

In the third Twohey flew to Gillis and Fisher, the sorrel-topped catcher, struck out as did his battery mate, Joyless Joanson.

We gathered two more in the closing half. Anderson did the swallow act to Corrigan, but Neelon and Taylor hit for two each, Neelon scoring on Tom's clout, and O'Brien drew four wide ones. Corrigan thoughtlessly dropped Altermott's offerng and Taylor scored on the misplay. Sweeney struck out and Woods was retired through the infield route, leaving O'Brien and Altermott on the sacks.

Indian Chase went in after Johnson had one man gone in the third, but was replaced by Cronin when Duluth was retired, Corrigan evidently desiding to use the Indian for today's peace offering.

The Surgeons went runless in the fourth, though the first hit of the afternoon was gathered off Dauss in this frame. O'Leary got the blow, but was forced at second on Kernan's fielder's choice. Wallace went out at first from Dauss and Dunn struck out.

Gillis and Dauss hit safely in Duluth's half, Gillis scoring when Anderson hit a sacrifice fly to center. Neelon fouled to Dunn, Taylor got on through Cronin's error, and O'Brien struck out.

In the fifth Corrigan flew to Neelon, Johnson drew a base on balls and Twohey and Fisher struck out.

Altermott got his second two base hit, but was forced at third by Sweeney's infield offering. Sweeney stole second and went to third on a wild pitch and scored on Woods' hit. Gillis hit, sending Woods to second. Dauss forced Woods at second, Anderson hit safely and Dauss was caught trying to get to third on the hit.

Dauss struck out three Doctors in the sixth and we gathered five large runs.

Neelon went on at first and Taylor drew four bad ones. O'Brien singled, Altermott singled, Corrigan erred on Sweeney's offering, Woods drew the second transportation of the inning. Gillis singled, Dauss was retired at first, sending a score across and Anderson ended the glee for flying to right.

Rochester gathered its first score in the seventh. Wallace singled and scored on Dunn's two base clout. Corrigan flew to Darby. Johnson struck out and Twohey went out, Altermott to Gillis.

Duluth gathered one in the seventh. After Neelon had been retired on an infield hit, Taylor got on through Dunn's error, was advanced on O'Brien's third single of the day. O'Brien was forced at second on Altermott's hit to the infield, but Sweeney got his first blow of the day, scoring Taylor. Sweeney was caught between second and third, Fisher, Cronin, Kernan and Wallace figuring in the play.

Rochester gathered their last in the eighth, Fisher hitting for two and scoring on O'Leary's single. Cronin struct out and Kernan hit a liner that O'Brien pulled out of the air, doubling O'Leary at second.

Anderson and Gillis hit safely in the first half, but Neelon fouled to Dunn, Woods went out on an infield offering and Dauss flew to Kernan.

Rochester went out in order in its last half and the game was over.

GRUMBLERS LOSE OPENER

Despised Red Wing Defeats Superior in Thirteen-Inning Battle.

Superior dropped the first at-home game to the despised Red Wing team yesterday, the visitors winning in the thirteenth inning by the score of 1 to 0.

The game was a pitchers' duel between Widell and Currie, each team gathering five bingles. Red Wing played errorless ball and the Grumblers had but one boot charged against them.

After two Indians were gone in the thirteenth, Kelly drew a pass, stole second and third, through the grace of two bad throws. He came home on Black's hit. Superior could do nothing in its half, and the first home game was chalked to the credit of the ruralites.

A parade followed the opening, and Mayor Frank R. Crumpton made a speech and heaved the first ball across.

PIRATES DROP ONE MORE TO BOSTON.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 27.—Boston defeated the Pittsburgs, 4 to 1, yesterday, errors spoiling the steady work of the opposing pitchers, and being, in part, responsible for all the scoring. Brown's effective pitching was, however, more effective than Adams'. In marked contrast to the four errors which Pittsburg made were three double plays, in all of which Wagner figured. Score:

REDS WIN SEE-SAW GAME FROM CARDINALS.

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 27.—Cincinnati made a whirlwind ninth-inning finish yesterday, and, overcoming a two-run lead in their half, won from St. Louis, 7 to 6. Suggs was hit hard, but Corridon's wildness evened things up. It was a see-saw game up to the finish. Score:

										R.	H.	E.
St. Louis	0	1	0	0	0	1	2	2	—	6	16	1
Cincinnati	2	0	0	1	0	0	0	1	3	—	7	10	1

Batteries—Harmon, Corridon, Reiger and Phelps; Suggs and McLean. Umpires—Klem and Kane.

PHILLIES BLANKED BY OVERALL'S PITCHING.

Chicago, May 27.—Chicago tightened its hold on first place yesterday by defeating Philadelphia, 2 to 0, in a light-hitting game. It was the eighth successive victory. Overall held the visitors to one hit, while Chicago made only three safe ones. Errors helped the winners in getting runs. The Chicago club yesterday sold Pitcher Slack to Philadelphia, and unconditionally released Pitcher Mitchell, a University of Mississippi player, signed recently. Score:

CLEVELAND'S ERRORS GIVE BOSTON VICTORY.

Boston, Mass., May 27.—Numerous errors, mingled with Boston's hard hitting gave the home team yesterday's game, 7 to 3. Cicotte was also batted hard, but was accorded phenomenal support. Score:

										R.	H.	E.
Cleveland	0	0	0	1	0	2	0	0	0	—	3	6	4

TIGERS WIN EASILY FROM WASHINGTON.

Washington, May 27.—Detroit drove Reisling from the box in the sixth inning and easily defeated Washington, 5 to 1, yesterday. Killian was very effective with men on bases. President Taft, who was an interested spectator at the game, shook hands with all the Detroit players after the game from his private box, Manager Jennings introducing his men as they passed in line before the chief executive. Score.

CREE'S HARD HITTING WINS FOR NEW YORK.

New York, May 27.—The New York Americans took Chicago into camp yesterday and defeated the visitors by a score of 4 to 3. Cree's hitting was responsible for New York's ninth straight victory. He made a home run in the fourth with two men on bases and a triple in the seventh when Roach was on first. Score:

SAINTS AND BLUES DIVIDE DOUBLE-HEADER.

St. Paul, Minn., May 27.—St. Paul and Kansas City divided a double header yesterday, Kansas City winning the first game, 3 to 2, Swan out-pitching Chech. St. Paul played a good uphill game in the second and won out, 9 to 7, by hitting Brandon and Swan hard. Manager Kelly of St. Paul was presented with a chest of silver by St. Paul fans and the players of the local team contributed a cut-glass punch bowl and glasses. Governor Eberhart made the presentation speech.

COLONELS ARE AGAIN BLANKED BY TOLEDO.

Toledo, Ohio, May 27.—Pitcher George Boyce made a very auspicious debut on the home grounds yesterday, holding Louisville to four scattered hits and Toledo won, 6 to 0. The local team hit Higginbotham hard and often and played a great game in the field. Score:

										R.	H.	E.
Louisville	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	—	0	4	3

Batteries—Boyce and Land; Higginbotham and Hughes. Umpires—Cusack and Chill.

INDIANS TAKE TWO GAMES FROM COLUMBUS.

Columbus, Ohio, May 27.—Indianapolis got both games of the double header, the first 7 to 2, and the second 4 to 3. Kaler was hit hard in the fifth inning of the first game after loose fielding work had filled up the bases. Three Infield hits and Odwell's error after Carr and Hayden had started with clean drives, put the visitors ahead in the seventh inning of the second game.

First game—

NEW PLAYERS WILL REPORT

Two Pitchers and Two Infielders Secured for Duluth Team.

A. W. Kuehnow announced today that he had two pitchers, a right-hander and a port-side thrower, coming, and that he also had two infielders that he would try out.

Al Cummings has written that he will leave this week for Duluth. He has experienced some trouble in getting a substitute to take his place at Cleveland, where he has held a good position during the past winter.

The fans who saw the game of yesterday are wondering why the Sox are so far in the race. The showing confirms the story that the team encountered a lot of hard luck on the trip. The team looks good, and Marion rounds into shape and Cummings is as good as he should be the present season, there is every reason to believe that Duluth will leave for the next series with Wausau in a very good place.

Altermott at short looks good, and his hitting has been fine so far. Few experiments will be made as long as the team plays the way it did yesterday. Another twirler, with Marion in shape, and Duluth will have the best staff in the league.

TO COMPETE FOR SILVER TROPHY

Marksmen of Duluth and Superior to Hold Shoot Sunday, June 5.

Five companies of the National Guard of Duluth and Superior will compete for the silver trophy offered as a prize for the best marksmanship a week from next Sunday on the local rifle range. A team of ten men will be entered by each of the three local companies, the regimental band and Company I, Third regiment, W. N. G.

Each man will be allowed ten shots at the 200 and 600-yard targets under the rules of the United States firing regulations. The contest will start at 8 o'clock and it is expected that every man will be through by noon.

The local range is the best outside of that maintained at the state encampment grounds at Lake City. The targets are manipulated by electricity from a deep trench running underneath the line of bull's eyes. Another safety feature is the fact that they are set at the base of a hill, thus reducing the danger from stray bullets.

Much interest is being shown and the rivalry between the various companies is keen. The affair is in charge of Lieut. A. P. Watts, who has charge of the army recruiting station in this city.

FROM THE PRESS BOX

Dauss got in solid right from the very start, making O'Leary, Kernan and Wallace step clear across the plate hitting at wide breakers.

• • •

Indian Chase was the only one of the Rochester pitchers who showed anything yesterday. The Comanche was only in the box for a few minutes, but his curves look good. Johnson and Cronin had nothing but a disgusted feeling and a hopeful prayer.

• • •

If the form shown yesterday was the true test of the ability of Rochester, it is passing strange how the team ever got to the highest rung. The team does not look nearly as strong as the Sox.

• • •

In the eighth Orator O'Brien went back of his station, leaped into the air and pulled down Kernan's line hit with his glove hand. He threw the ball back to Gillis, catching the unwary O'Leary off the bag. It was the most startling play of the day.

• • •

Perhaps Altermott has been making bungles on the trip, but just the same he has shown that he can hit. He looks like a ball player and has a habit of hitting them to the fence.

• • •

John A. Elliott wired at the last moment that he could not be present. The fans were looking for the large and radiant presence of the league executive. Instead John sent two unipires here, Agur and Griffith working the double system.

• • •

We have a regular operator at the park. He is under the little coop and sends the results of the game by innings to every town in the circuit. What he sent yesterday was very distasteful to Superior.

• • •

Dauss had fifteen strikeouts yesterday. On June 9 last season Big Marlon, pitching against Eau Claire, struck out eighteen men, the game going eleven innings and Duluth winning, 6 to 5. That record made last season, so far as is known, is the strike out record of the league. The record made yesterday is also, as far as is known, the nine inning record for the Minny league.

• • •

Mayor Cullum really threw the ball over the plate yesterday. He didn't have much on the ball—but it really is control that counts.

• • •

"Doc" McCuen was to have caught the first ball pitched, but arrived at the park too late.

ARE THERE TO BE "THRILLED"

Grandstands Packed and Paddocks Crowded at Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 27.—Three days of motor racing with a field of sixty starters opened today at the Indianapolis speedway before a great crowd in which were automobile enthusiasts from all over the country, attracted by the names of the celebrated drivers and the expectation that records would be smashed on the new two and one-half mile course, the only brick track in the world.

By noon the grandstands were packed, the paddocks crowded by touring parties.

All possible safeguards had been made against a repetition of fatal accidents that marred the races at the speedway last summer. A cement retaining wall has been built along the upper edge of the course near the stand to prevent cars crashing into the crowd of spectators if wheels should break or tires rip. The track, ground to the smoothness of a floor, offered no resistance to all the speed drivers could force from their motors.

One hundred-mile races presented the greatest test of the endurance on the card for today. Twelve cars were entered. The other events were for five and ten miles. The several classifactions of stock chassis cars from 160 to 600 cubic inches piston displacement were represented in five events, all with many entrants. Speed trials and a free-for-all handicap with twenty-six cars entered completed the program.

LIGHT FOCUSED ON JEFFRIES

Frisco Fans Have Chance to Size Up His Fighting Abilities.

San Francisco, May 27.—The spot light is focused today on Jim Jeffries in consequence of his sparring exhibition here tonight.

The retired heavyweight hero of many a momentous mill is scheduled to square off this evening in the arena of Dreamland rink with Joe Choynski and Bob Armstrong and his brother, Jack Jeffries. In these workouts the fans expect to get a line on Jeffries as he is. Late in the winter, shortly before going into camp at Ben Lomond, Jeffries revealed himself to San Francisco in an athletic tournament and made a fine impression.

Tonight's exhibition probably will be his last showing in public until he enters the ring here July 4 to battle with Johnson for the world's championship.

After the show Jeffries will return immediately to Ben Lomond to prevent loss of time from his regular training work. Aside from their road work, neither of the fighters indulged in much exercise yesterday. Johnson is expected to rest today also, but tomorrow he will begin a three-day carnival of boxing at his beach quarters. Henceforth ring work, it is thought, will hold the most conspicuous place in the training curriculum of both.

Jim Corbett is looked for from the East tonight in time to show up at the Jeffries soiree.

LAJOIE LEADS THE A. L. SLUGGERS

NAPOLEON LAJOIE.

Napolean Lajoie, last year manager of the Cleveland Americans is playing much better ball this season, due in a large measure to his relief from managing the team. He leads the league at the bat, with an average of 432. Lajoie is a great favorite all over the circuit and has been playing ball for many years.

TRIALS IN BIG ATHLETIC MEET

Class of Athletes at Philadelphia Up to That of Former Years.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 27.—Taken as a whole the class of the athletes who will compete in the annual inter-collegiate track and field championships which began on the Franklin field this afternoon, is as good as any that have been brought together in this important college athletic meet in years.

On the strength of performances during the spring, it would appear that the team championship will be won by either Harvard, Yale or Pennsylvania. Yale is strong in the field events, Harvard is well equipped in both field and track and will make a desperate attempt to retain the championship won last year, while Pennsylvania's greatest strength lies in her track men up to and including the mile event.

The smaller colleges with a few stars may be important figures in determining the championship, for they will cut into the points the big colleges expect to gain.

With the exception of the one and two-mile races all the track events today will be limited to trial heats, leaving finals until tomorrow.

In the trials of the pole vault and high jump events today the large number of entrants will be reduced to five for the finals tomorrow. The height cleared today will not count except to gain admission in the finals.

In the shot put, hammer throw and broad jump, however, the distance will count and the men making the best performances today or tomorrow in these three events will be the winners.

The weather is perfect and the track fast.

College Baseball.

Washington Crew Wins.

Seattle, May 27.—The Leland-Stanford university boat was swamped by the rough water of Lake Washington here yesterday when only half of the three-mile course had been covered, and the University of Washington crew finished alone, winning the Pacific coast eight-oared championship in the fast time of 18:22-0/5, a record for the course. The Washington oarsman left last night for Madison, Wis., where they will compete in the regatta of June 4.

Munroe Turned Down.

Ben Lomond, Cal., May 27.—An offer was received yesterday from Jack Munroe to join the training forces at the camp of James J. Jeffries to assist in putting the former champion in shape for his fight with Jack Johnson. Manager Berger turned down the offer.

Cannon Is Good Natured.

Washington, May 27.—Speaker Cannon presented the Detroit baseball team yesterday with a mascot in the form of a nickel-plated horseshoe. When the members of the team were introduced to the speaker by Representative Denby of Michigan, one of them caught sight of the horseshoe which was used as a paper weight on Mr. Cannon's desk, and suggested that "its possession might help the team."

Kerner Goes to Wichita.

Wichita, Kan., May 27.—The Wichita Western league club has bought Catcher Phil Kerner from the Des Moines club. He was drafted from Des Moines last year by the Chicago Americans and turned back.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

MANY ACRES STILL OPEN

About 450,000 Acres of Public Land in Williston, N. D., District.

Abandonment of Irrigation Projects Restores Much Land to Entry.

Williston, N. D., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—There still remains in the local United States land office district about 450,000 acres open to settlement, according to Register George W. Wilson. This amount of land will soon be increased by the reopening of certain land which was withdrawn some time ago, and by the opening of the Fort Berthold reservation lands.

When the last official statement was issued there remained 648,300 acres in the district open to settlement. Filings have been and are now being made at an average of about six a day, so that the present open acreage is about 450,000.

Many Thousand Acres Added.

The abandonment of the Nessen irrigation project and the restoration of Nessen and Grinnell valleys to settlement means the addition of thousands of acres of rich farming land to the district.

"Squattings" on the land in these two valleys will be permitted June 25, and on July 25 the filings will be accepted. There is certain to be a race for places June 25, as there are some fine parcels of ground in the district.

QUILL DRIVERS TO HAVE GREAT TIME

Annual Outing of North Central Minnesota Editorial Association.

Walker, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—President Welles, Vice President Dare and Secretary-Treasurer Rutledge of the North Central Minnesota Editorial association have announced the program for the three days' outing of the association at P. H. McGarry's summer resort here on Leech lake Friday, Saturday and Sunday, June 3, 4 and 5.

The first day, Friday, will be devoted to receiving the guests, fishing and boating on the lake and a smoker in the evening with P. J. Vassaly of the Little Falls Herald presiding.

Saturday morning will be devoted to sightseeing, fishing, boating and general recreation, while Saturday afternoon will be taken up with field sports, baseball games, ladies' foot races, blindfolded walking match, nail-driving contest, etc.

Banquet Saturday Evening.

There will be a banquet Saturday evening at Glengary dining hall, with Senator McGarry as toastmaster and the following program: Introducing toastmaster, F. A. Dare of Walker Pilot; "Welcome to Editorial Association," J. S. Scribner, mayor of Walker; response, A. M. Welles of Sauk Center Herald, president of the association; "From Tripod to Bench," C. W. Stanton of Bemidji, judge of the Fifteenth judicial district; music by Aeolin quartet of Brainerd; "The Joys of an Editor's Wife," Mrs. F. A. Dare of Walker; "How it Feels to Be a Plain Citizen," Governor A. O. Eberhart; "From Paste Pot to Marble Halls," C. E. Vassaly of the Little Falls Herald, member state board of control; "Learning the Game," C. A. Shannon of Bemidji Pioneer, youngest member of association; "The Ladies," Hon. F. M. Eddy, Sauk Center; violin solo, selected, Mrs. C. R. Sanborn.

WANT SCHOOLMARMS TO TELL RIGHT AGE.

La Crosse, Wis., May 27.—If a committee composed of three men is successful in its task, every school teacher in Wisconsin will be obliged to tell truthfully her or his age.

The school superintendents in convention here this week appointed a committee of three to devise ways and means of making women teachers tell their ages without romancing. In addition this committee is to tackle the less staggering problem of securing information as to qualifications, training, experience and the grade of work performed by students.

In order to soothe the feelings of the teachers, the superintendents also entered into a discussion with a view to raising the standard of wages. Special training for county superintendents was also discussed.

IS LOST IN ONTARIO WHILE EXAMINING PROPERTY

Port Arthur, Ont., May 27.—It is now regarded as certain that Capt. Roland, who has been missing in the woods near Wahigoon for about a week, has lost his life. Fred W. White, who left here May 15 in company with Roland to inspect property near Gold Rock, returned Wednesday night and said that after searching all the intervening time, assisted by several other men, he had very little hope that Roland was alive. There are several shafts of abandoned mining properties in the district and it is feared the captain may have fallen down one. The advisability of sending out other search parties is being discussed by friends here.

SCOUT DAMAGE SUIT.

Not Believed Wanted Man Will Sue Grand Forks Concern.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—That the recent story published in a Montreal newspaper to the effect that Archibald McTier had started a suit for $25,000 damages against Hatcher Bros. of this city, alleging false arrest in connection with the recent extradition matter, has no foundation in facts seems fairly certain. O. M. Hatcher, head of the local firm, stated that he had not been notified of any such procedure. Further than this he had nothing to say in regard to the affair.

The bringing of such a damage suit as the one reported, would make it necessary for McTier to return to North Dakota and it is just this procedure that he has been waging so vigorous a fight against. The idea therefore of his bringing this suit and playing into the hands of the state authorities seems utterly out of the question.

WAS TOO AMBITIOUS.

Vice President of Defunct Shoe Company Explains to Referee.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—His ambition ran away with his judgment, according to W. W. Heffelfinger, former football player and well-known Republican politician, vice president of the defunct North Star Shoe company, in explaining to the referee in bankruptcy the various interests of the shoe company in the Northwest. Heffelfinger said too much was taken on, too many extensions were made and the load became more than the company could stand.

Jacob Newman, a Chicago attorney, implied that the North Star company had been "milked" to keep the others going. The witness met this implication with quiet reserve.

Mr. Newman wanted to know the connection of Mr. Heffelfinger with the Gourderay Lumber company, the Chippewa Hardware & Lumber company, the Shaft-Tierge Shoe company of Faribault, the North Star Shoe company of Davenport, Iowa, the Heffelfinger Shoe Manufacturing company, the Shay Shoe company of La Crosse, the Beckwark Shoe company of Red Wing and the Ashland Shoe company, Ashland.

Mr. Heffelfinger said that the panic of 1907 had caused great loss in lumber, this in explaining why $54,000 had been taken from the shoe company for lumber business.

HALF OF SALARY TO WIFE

Was Odd Marriage Contract Disclosed by Detroit Divorce Suit.

Detroit, Mich., May 27.—An odd marriage contract is disclosed in the divorce suit of Gerald J. McMechan, secretary of the Union Trust company, and one of the best known of Michigan's financiers.

Mr. McMechan promises that he will not sulk or will, at least, try not to do so. He promises to give one-half of his salary to his wife and try to save as much as possible from the remainder. His diet is regulated in certain particulars by another provision.

If Mr. McMechan broke any of the rules thus laid down Mrs. McMechan was to sue immediately for a divorce.

BOY BURGLAR, 11 YEARS OLD, MILL CITY'S LATEST.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Probably the youngest burglar in captivity is Leonard Nelson, who was arrested Wednesday by Detectives Bahan and Ohman of the South Side station and locked up in the boys' ward at Central station on a charge of burglary. He is 11 years old.

Nelson and another boy are accused of having entered the grocery store of Johnson Brothers, Third street and Cedar avenue, Sunday night. The safe was locked and the cash register empty, so the only booty obtained by the youthful marauders was some canned goods, crackers, candy and other small articles.

TWO OF SAME NAME.

Conflict in Names Involving Homestead Near Dickinson, N. D.

Dickinson, N. D., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fact that there were two Kate Wagendorf's in the Dickinson land district may result in Mrs. John Reilly, formerly Miss Wagendorf, losing her homestead. When she offered proof in 1905 of her residence on the claim, a question arose when it was found that another Kate Wagendorf had also filed on land. To satisfy the government that they were not the same person, an inspector was sent out, and three years later a final certificate was issued, but no patent has yet been issued. Then came a contest by Frank Newhouse, who declares that the land had never been cultivated. Since making final proof, Miss Wagendorf was wedded and is now Mrs. Reilly. Following the taking of a big grist of evidence, the matter was submitted to the land office.

NOAH BACK TO PEN.

Ward County Murderer Returned to North Dakota Institution.

Minot, N. D., May 27.—"That won't be for very long," was Robert J. Noah's sole comment when Judge Crawford formally sentenced him to life imprisonment for the murder of Gus Johnson.

The motion for arrest of judgment on the grounds of lack of jurisdiction was made and an appeal will probably be taken.

Noah and Fritz Hanson, who received one year for alleged incendiarism at Kenmare were taken to Bismarck yesterday.

Anton Miltenberger of Berwick was bound over to the district court at a preliminary hearing held at Towner on the charge of assault, preferred against him by Martin Evenson, a barber. There has been bad blood between the two men for some time as a result of arrests for blind pigging in that town, presumably caused by Evenson.

MANDAN GRADUATES ALL BOYS THIS YEAR.

Mandan, N. D., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Four members of the Mandan high school will graduate this year, receiving their diplomas on June 7, when the formal commencement exercises will be held. The members of the class are Robert Macklin, Edwin McGillic, Louis Heltig and Ralph Keller, a very noticeable feature being the fact that all are boys, whereas girls usually outnumber the members of the stronger sex in matters of this kind. Robert Macklin is the president of the class.

Good Racing at Bowbells.

Bowbells, N. D., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—No racing meet that will be held in North Dakota this year is assured of a better string of horses than is in the meet that will be held in Bowbells June 14, 15 and 16. The entries that have been announced for the stake events are of the very best.

Wants Uniform Feed Laws.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 27.—Thirty members of the American Feed Manufacturers' association in its twenty-second annual convention here yesterday afternoon discussed uniform laws. The chief purpose of the association is to consider each kind of concentrated feed and adopt a bill satisfactory to the manufacturers, jobbers, retailers and buyers, in the hope that it will be adopted in agricultural states. The plan is to have a true label of contents on each bag of feed.

Improving Jamestown College.

Jamestown, N. D., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two new buildings are being erected at the Jamestown college, one a dormitory and the other the president's house, and on both the contractors have already made good progress. In addition to these buildings, a general plan of beautification is being carried on, this consisting of the planting of trees and shrubbery on an extensive scale.

The dormitory building will be three stories high, and provide quarters for the girls attending the college.

St. Paul Claims 215,000.

St. Paul, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—"The local census sheets are nearly complete. About 150 portfolios have been sent to Washington, leaving about 43 still in the hands of Supervisor W. B. Webster.

"In a conservative estimate the total count of St. Paul will reach about 215,000.

LABORING MEN BUY MILLE LACS LANDS.

Princeton, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The feature of the state land sale conducted here Wednesday when State Auditor Iverson offered the state lands of Mille Lacs county was the fact that all but one parcel went to laboring men of St. Paul. Several hundred acres were sold at prices ranging from $5 to $7.25 per acre. There are only about 1,000 acres of unsold state lands in this county.

New Hankinson Church Assured.

Hankinson, N. D., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the sum of over $5,000 already subscribed, the construction of a new Congregational church in Hankinson is assured. Rev. E. S. Shaw, joint missionary superintendent for this state, has charge of the preliminary work, and is associated with Rev. C. S. Johnson of this city. A building costing about $10,000 exclusive of furnishings, is proposed.

LITTLE DAMAGE DONE.

Shevlin, Minn., Fire Loss Less Than Was Reported.

Shevlin, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The loss by fire here last Saturday was considerably less than reported. The fire department extinguished the fire before it broke through either of the side walls of the building in which it started, so that neither the adjoining restaurant nor the West hotel livery barn were damaged by fire or water, as claimed. The total loss was not over $600. The child burned to death was in its fifth year instead of being 3, as The Herald story said.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Marquette—Refusing to pay a fine of $200 and costs of $23, Angus Crossman, a local restaurant keeper, is serving a sixty-day term in the county jail. He was convicted of violating the liquor law by selling beer without being possessed of the necessary license.

Negaunee—Francis V. Sauer, aged 70, a resident of Negaunee for more than thirty years, died Tuesday evening at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ed Piggott, of cancer of the stomach. The deceased was a member of Charles H. Towne post of the Grand Army. He was a carpenter by trade.

Ishpeming—Mrs. George Cann died rather unexpectedly Wednesday. Before her marriage the deceased lived for a number of years in Negaunee and she is perhaps better known there than in Ishpeming. Her death is particularly sad, as she leaves an infant babe. Her age was 31 and she is survived by her husband and four children.

Negaunee—A. C. Seass received 75,000 trout fry Wednesday via the South Shore train and sent them to the lakes and rivers near Little Lake. There were twenty-two cans of fish. Mr. Seass has been stocking the lakes and streams in that neighborhood for some years past.

Marquette—Miss Phyllis Diebold and William King, both popular and well known young people of this city were united in marriage at Father Pinten's residence Wednesday evening. The couple were attended by Richard Kelley and Miss Marie Du Bois. The bride's parents reside at West Branch, Mich.

Calumet—The fruit dealers are making arrangements for the annual outing of the fruit venders and their wives and families which will probably be held some time next month. It is thought that the outing will take place either at the Electric park, Calumet & Hecla park, or at White City.

Hancock—Mrs. Isaac Wahlstrom died Tuesday at her home on Elm street after a long illness with cancer, for which she had undergone several operations during the past year. Mrs. Wahlstrom was about 43 years of age and was a native of Franklin. She is survived by her husband and four children.

Calumet—John Agnitch, manager of the Croatian Co-operative store, and Frank Plautz, manager of the meat market which is conducted in connection with the store, have resigned.

Hancock—William A. Hayward, secretary of the Western Federation of Miners, will appear in this city next week to deliver a lecture under the auspices of the Finnish Socialists of this city. Hayward is the man who was given national notoriety through his arrest and trial with Moyer and Pettibone.

Houghton—Private arrangements are being made to entertain the Detroit business men Saturday. A number of local business men are planning to get together for the purpose of extending a welcome to the visitors, and arrange for automobiles to convey them to different points of interest.

Laurium—A class numbering at least 100 will take the first communion next Sunday morning at Sacred Heart church. The service will commence at 8 o'clock. The members of the class are pupils of the Sacred Heart school.

Hancock—Memorial day exercises were held in many of the grades of the Hancock school on Friday afternoon. There was no observance in the high school, owing to the session of the Eclectic club on Tuesday evening.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Fargo, N. D.—The new bishop of Fargo will arrive in this city from St. Paul on the evening of May 30, next Monday. He will be met at the train by a number of the priests of the diocese and escorted to the bishop's house on North Broadway, which has been extensively repaired.

Casselton, N. D.—Henry Foss of Casselton died Wednesday in the Fargo hospital. Mr. Foss was born in California thirty-eight years ago, but for the past twenty years or more had been a resident of Casselton, where he was looked up to as one of the prominent men. He was the manager of the Wells Lumber company, and was well known in business and social circles. He is survived by his widow and three children.

Bismark, N. D.—Charles W. Van Horn, son of W. L. Van Horn, one of the secretaries of Senator McCumber, has been sent to the Philippines. The young man was formerly assistant leader of the cadet band at the agricultural college with the rank of first lieutenant. He enlisted in the navy some time ago and was placed in the hospital corps.

Douglas, N. D.—Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Britton Holbrook of Pleasant Lake, N. D., recently celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary. They are pioneers in this state, having settled at their present home in 1887, when Devils Lake was the nearest railroad point.

Minot, N. D.—Judge Burke has issued an absolute decree of divorce to Anna Bruhn of Tague from her husband, Herman Bruhn, upon the grounds of desertion. Mrs. Bruhn is given the custoday of the minor children and Bruhn is barred from right, title or any interest whatever in her estate.

Larimore, N. D.—Rev. George B. Booth, has accepted a call to the Presbyterian church at Larimore. He comes from Iowa and has a splendid reputation not only as a pulpit orator and popular pastor, but as a doer of things.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Iver Lodmell arrived Tuesday evening with his family from Stephens, Minn., and will again make his home here after being away eight years. He has entered into partnership with Contractor Rudsen.

Minot, N. D.—Mrs. R. C. Wedge and Miss Louise Muus have left for Europe. They will make short stops at Minneapolis, Chicago and New York City, and will start on the ocean voyage the 25th. During their absence they will visit places of interest in Norway, Germany, Holland, Belgium, England and possibly other countries.

Sarles, N. D.—While endeavoring to learn the mechanicism of a gasoline engine, Floyd, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Rosenburger had his arm caught in the belt and broken.

Sheldon, N. D.—From the Sheldon high school this year there will be three graduates, Violet Morrison, Martha Larson and Dora Torfin. The commencement exercises occur Friday evening and Prof. J. M. Gilette of the state university will deliver the address.

Bisbee, N. D.—Over 600 trees have been set out here in two weeks, a general plan of beautification having been adopted which will mean great things for the city within a very few years.

Mayville, N. D.—At a meeting of the executive committee of the North Dakota Educational association, the program for the meeting to be held this year was finally completed. It prodes for some very excellent features, but has not been made public as yet.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

East Grand Forks, N. D.—Miss Verda Gles of this city and Miss Jean Judson of Warren, who were appointed to the teaching staff of the local school for next year, have both resigned their positions. Miss Gles will go to Chicago sometime during the summer, where she will take up the study of music, while Miss Judson will accompany her parents out West.

St. Cloud—The funeral of the late Herman Schreier, who died at his home in New Munich last Saturday, was held from the church at New Munich Monday morning. The deceased was 64 years of age and was one of the pioneer settlers of New Munich. He is survived by his wife, one son and three daughters.

Fergus Falls—The Roman Catholic congregation of Fergus Falls will erect a new church this year. A part of the funds will be raised by the giving of a harvest festival.

Brainerd—Olivia Olson, the 8-month-old infant of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Olson, died on May 23, of an attack of bronchial pneumonia. She was sick only two days. The remains were shipped to Henning, where the body was buried in the family lot.

St. Cloud—Death has claimed Miss Mary Reichensperger, the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Reichensperger of Rice. The young lady was taken ill a short time ago with quick consumption and has been failing rapidly ever since. She was 18 years of age and was a graduate of the St. Cloud normal and expected to start teaching this fall.

Crookston—The members of Col. Cobham Post, No. 30, and all other members of the order who happen to be in the city will meet at the Post hall in Crookston, South Main street, next Sunday at 10 o'clock to march in a body to the M. E. church, where the Memorial sermon will be preached by Rev. W. C. Hodgson.

Rochester—A reception and banquet will be tendered to Bishop Patrick Heffron on the occasion of his first visit to Rochester. This will occur on June 12, when he will officiate at St. John's church, but the function in his honor will occur on the following evening, June 13, and will be held in the Masonic temple.

Moorhead—Organizer T. W. Rayley of the Royal League has met with great success in promoting the interests of his society in Moorhead, and the result will be apparent in the initiation of a large class of candidates on Friday evening at Masonic hall. Members of the Detroit council will be present and will assist in initiatory ceremonies.

Mankato—Mrs. Franklin Barnes, one of the best known and most honored residents of Vernon Center, died Tuesday evening of heart disease. She had been suffering for two years with an ailment of the heart, and was an invalid. Mrs. Barnes was born at Bangor, Me., Jan. 7, 1839, and came to Minnesota in pioneer days, settling at Vernon Center.

North Branch—A conference of the friends of the county option movement in Chisago county was held Wednesday afternoon at the town hall and various matters of interest were discussed. The meeting was attended by representative men from various portions of the county and was addressed by Rev. E. C. Clemens of Duluth.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

La Crosse—The sale of the West Salem fair grounds for $6,100 marks the dissolution of the La Crosse County Agricultural & Horticultural society, which for fifty-two years held a fair at West Salem. The ground will be platted for building purposes.

Baraboo—Programs have been issued for the seventh annual meeting of the Wisconsin Association of Rural Letter Carriers to be held here on May 30 and 31.

Milwaukee—C. J. Doyle, Chicago, was elected president of the American Association of State Fire Marshals at the convention held here. Chicago was selected as the next place of meeting. Other officers elected are: John W. Zuber, Ohio, vice president; C. A. Ellinson, West Virginia, secretary and treasurer; A. Lienback, Manitoba, Can.; T. N. Purtell, Wisconsin; W. F. Niekirk, Kentucky, directors.

Wausaukee — Mike and Henry Huempfer shot one young wolf and captured two more while on a hunting expedition on Monday. These are the first seen here for several years.

Appleton—Members of the Outagamie Auto club have tendered their cars for the use of the veterans on Memorial day during the parade and on the trip to the cemeteries. Adjt. Gen. Charles R. Boardman of Madison will deliver the memorial address.

Janesville — William Marmer, for twenty-five years identified with the New Gaslight company as superintendent of construction, committed suicide Wednesday by shooting. Mr. Marmer was a thirty-second degree Mason and a member of various local organizations. Family troubles are supposed to have caused his act.

Ashland—The final commencement exercises of the Ashland schools will take place this year June 10. The baccalaureate sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Mr. Driscoll Sunday, June 5, at the Presbyterian church. At the final commencement exercises Rev. Mr. Evans will deliver the invocation and an address will be made by Principal C. C. Parlin of Wausau.

Grand Rapids—The Wood County National bank has moved to its new $100,000 building at Vine and Second streets.

BUILDING BOOM ON AT GRAND RAPIDS

Foundation for the New McAlpine Block Are Being Placed.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Graham & Young, the Hibbing contractors, who recently secured the contract for the erection of the McAlpine block are excavating for the basement. A dozen men and half as many teams are employed on the job. The laying of the concrete foundation will be commenced today. The dirt from the excavation is being hauled to the yard of Charles Pogue, where it is being used to grade up the lots.

The stone foundation for the county jail is well along, and the masons on the job expect to have it completed this week. The jail addition will be 39 by 38 feet, when the sone work is done, there will be constructed a base of concrete four feet deep under the entire new building. This base will be the floor of the new addition. Brick work on the building will be commenced as soon as the foundation is completed.

The W. N. Dalcour dwelling is up and sheathed. The building is a story and a half, hip roof and will contain six rooms and will be modern and up-to-date in every respect. A concrete basement extends under the entire building.

A modern house is being built for Attorney A. L. Thwing, on the corner of Sleeper avenue and Seventh street. Between $6,200 and $6,500 will be expended in the construction of this dwelling.

Work on the John Cochran house in the north end of town is progressing and the house will soon be ready for the plasterers.

Henry Hughes announces he has decided to erect a building 75 by 100 feet, two stories and full basement, on the lots which he purchased last summer from the Doran estate, known as the old hotel Gladstone site. The building will be primarily for the accommodation of the Henry Hughes & Co.'s store, and they will occupy the main part of the ground floor and the basement.

GRAND RAPIDS MAKING READY

Firemen and Citizens Busy With Plans for Firemen's Tournament.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local volunteer fire department is busy arranging for the annual firemen's tournament of the Northern Minnesota Tournament association here June 21, 22, 23, 24 and 25. A committee, consisting of William McAlpine, Lester Lofberg and Allan Doran, has been appointed to solicit funds, and they report very satisfactory progress. Other committees are: Printing, H. D. Poers, E. A. Kremer and James Doran; hotel accommodations, William McAlpine, H. McLachlan and Charles Doran; sports, Ed. Huson, Lester Lofberg and Miller Williams.

Everything points to a very successful tournament. All of the firemen and the business men of the city are taking an unusually active interest in the affair.

This year added interest will be taken in the tournament, owing to the fact that teams from the fire departments of several small towns, including Bovey, Coleraine, Taconite and Nashwauk, will take part. Aside from these towns, it is expected that teams will be present from Park Rapids, Akeley, Walker, Cass Lake and Wadena, which have always heretofore participated.

GRAND RAPIDS BALL TEAMS PLANNING GAMES.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Grand Rapids ball teams, which have been winning games without any losses this season, are attracting the attention of some of the best teams in this section, and two of them are booked to go up against some of the strongest teams in this section Sunday and Monday.

Sunday the Regulars will play the strong Marble team, on the local grounds. Memorial day there will be a game between the Cass Lake team and the Grand Rapids regulars, on the Grand Rapids grounds..

Sunday the Juniors, who have played together three seasons and have never been beaten, will go to Marble to play.

ANOTHER LARGE VIRGINIA SAWMILL SOON TO START

VIRGINIA & RAINY LAKE COMPANY'S NEW MILL.

Virginia, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Machinery is being installed in the newly constructed sawmill of the Virginia & Rainy Lake company here and it is expected the mill will begin sawing about the latter part of June. This mill together with the big mill of the same company, will cut nearly 1,000,000 feet per day. With the new mill in operation, the company will employ about 1,200 men.

UNKNOWN MAN IS FATALLY INJURED

Struck By Train on Brimson Bridge, Dying Soon After.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—A foreigner, as yet unidentified, was struck by an ore train on the bridge at Brimson early Thursday. He was brought to the Budd hospital, where he died later. He was sitting alongside of the water barrel on the bridge, and the engineer did not see him until it was too late.

The City baseball league of the Y. M. C. A. opened its season last evening, with a game between the Athletics and the Giants. The Giants won by a score of 14 to 5, before a large and enthusiastic crowd. The first game, which was to have been played Tuesday evening between the Tigers and the Cubs, has been postponed indefinitely.

ITALIAN PICNIC SUNDAY.

Christopher Columbus Society of Chisholm Plans Fine Outing.

Chisholm, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—On the Chisholm-Hibbing road next Sunday there will be things doing, when the Christopher Columbus society holds its first big picnic of the season, with many members present from both villages.

The society has made preparations to hold picnics at this point at frequent intervals throughout the summer. A band stand has been erected, booths built and other measures taken to secure a good time for all who may attend, and the location is such that it is convenient to both Chisholm and Hibbing.

The Chisholm band will be in attendance Sunday.

C. Coggollo is president of the Christopher Columbus society, and Julius Grosso is secretary.

THIRTY CENT VERDICT.

Defendant Instead of Plaintiff Wins in Novel Lawsuit.

Virginia, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The services of a jury and the district court officers were required yesterday to decide whether James Shaw, an employe of a Turkish bath establishment in Hibbing, had overdrawn $47.99 from his employer, John A. Healy. After the formalities of a trial the jury found for the defendant, awarding him the sum of 30 cents, believing the claim of the defendant that instead of overdrawing his pay of $75 per month he had the traditional 30 cents coming. The term of district court here, which has been in session here since early in April, has adjourned and the next range court will begin at Hibbing June 8.

HILL CANNOT SURVIVE.

Man With Fractured Skull May Die Any Minute.

Coleraine, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is said to be absolutely no hope for Andrew Hill, aged 36, extra gang man, working on the Missabe road, who was struck by a broken cable near Taconite Junction, sustaining a fractured skull. He has a family.

SEVERAL CONTRACTS LET.

Itasca County Board Arranges for Much Road Work.

Grand Rapids, iMnn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Itasca county board this week let several contracts. Joseph Meyers will build a ditch along the state road north of Deer River at 18 cents per cubic yard. Thomas Leslie & Co. will grade County Road No. 44 in 145-25 at 75 cents per rod for the first mile and a half at $1 per yard for the balance of the distance.

The contract for widening County Road No. 21, known as the Feeley-Bovey road, was awarded to Jasper M. Pogue for 50 cents per rod. Melvin M. Rosholt of Feeley was given the work of grading County Road No. 50 in the town of Blackberry at 75 cents per rod.

William Smith was awarded the contract for the construction, clearing and grading of County Road No 53 at the rate of $2.50 per rod. This road lies in town 55-27 and runs west to the Mississippi river, where it will connect with the new bridge that is being built across the river at Colasset.

George Arscott secured the contract for the construction of a portion of County Road No 63 in Nashwauk township at $2.40 per rod. This road is to be cleared and grubbed forty feet wide. For the improvement of the Bovey Grand Rapids road A. A. Mitchell was given the contract at the lump sum of $3,345. For the grading of that part of County Road No. 27, known as the Feeley-Goodland road, Melvin N. Rosholt secured the contract, his bid being $1,080.

It was voted to expend $200 on the Trout lake road under the supervision of William Quackenbush of Grand Rapids. The sum of $300 each was appropriated to the towns of Bearville, Carpenter and Sago, to be expended in the repair of roads and bridges. The board adjourned to Saturday, June 4.

BREAKING PIPE IS CONTINUAL MENACE

Eveleth Water System Not Equal to the Increased Pressure.

Eveleth, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The break in the water line to the supply station at St. Mary's lake Wednesday, which resulted in the Fayal Location residents being cut off from their usual water supply for the major portion of the day, has been repaired. Some time ago a break occurred in the same pipe, causing much annoyance, and the city water works superintendent and Consulting Engineer Edward P. Burch of Minneapolis have recommended to the council that a more durable pipe line be installed. No action has been taken, and as a result the city is in constant danger of being disconnected and being forced to go without water.

The water station is now pumping 217 pounds, considerably more than last year, the increased pressure resulting from the connection with the new 300,000-gallon water tank, and the pipe line is considered incapable of safely standing the additional pressure. Consulting Engineer Edward Burch will be here tomorrow to inspect the tank which he requested be built, as the structure is now in a completed shape.

DULUTH MINISTER IS TO PREACH AT EVELETH.

Eveleth, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—As the repairs on the First Presbyterian church have not been completed, the Missabe Mountain Township hall will again be utilized Sunday. Rev. Phillip A. Schwarz, the pastor of the church, is in the East, on his vacation trip and in his stead, Rev. J. A. Moody of the Bethel settlement, Duluth, will occupy the pulpit.

Taking State Examinations.

Eveleth, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—All the schools on the accredited list are taking the state examinations.

"BOIL THE WATER" HIBBING SLOGAN

Impurities in City Supply Necessitate Such Time Honored Action.

Hibbing, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. Hill of the state board of health will be here today to investigate the character of the water from the village well. A great many people are afflicted with internal disorders and it is thought it may be due to the city water. For a time the water was muddy or reddish as during the past three months certain changes have been noticed in the wells. Samples of water will be sent to the state bacteriologist to see if it has been contaminated in any way, and Dr. C. G. McMahon, health officer has advised all users of city water to boil it.

The Misses Wyand and Emery have accepted positions in the public schools at Seattle, and will not return to Hibbing next year. Both are very popular school teachers and their determination to leave Hibbing is greatly regretted by their many friends. Miss Emery has been here for the past three years and at the present time is in charge of the ungraded room, and Miss Wyand has been here two years and has had charge of the fifth grade.

Fred Tucker returned to Minneapolis Thursday after spending a few days here.

Dr. G. N. Butchard returned Thursday from Duluth.

Mrs. E. M. Gage has arrived in this city from Los Angeles, and will be the guest of Mrs. R. D. Bosworth for several weeks.

T. U. Lewis arrived Thursday evening and will spend a few days here.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Van Mere left Thursday morning for a short wedding trip through the eastern part of the state.

COTTON MAKERS CLOSE THE MILLS

Curtailment of Output Is Begun in New England.

Providence, R. I., May 27.—Within the course of the next few weeks it is believed that cotton manufacturers of Rhode Island will be forced to curtail their production by closing their factories two days a week. The cotton market is practically at a standstill.

Close at Fall River.

Fall River, Mass., May 27.—Nearly all of the cotton mills here will be shut down from next Saturday until June 6 to curtail the output. About 20,000 operatives will be affected.

Shut Till Wednesday.

Manchester, N. H., May 27.—The seventeen cotton and worsted mills of the Amoskeag corporation were closed last night until Wednesday. The company employs 15,800 operatives.

MAY REDUCE TOBACCO DUTY.

That This Will Be Incorporated in Budget Is London Rumor.

London, May 27.—For some weeks past there have been rumors, believed to emanate from the treasury, to the effect that in the new budget that is to be proposed after the spring recess a considerable reduction will be made in the tobacco duties. Before leaving town recently the chancellor declined to make any announcement whatever on the subect, and indicated that he could not anticipate in the slightest degree the statement which will fall to him to make on the introduction of the new budget.

BIG DEMAND FOR THE SMALLER BANK NOTES.

Washington, May 27.—There is a demand throughout the country for paper money of the smaller denominations which the treasury department is unable to meet. In order to relieve the situation the department will encourage banks holding silver certificates of the denominations of $10 or over to send part of them to the treasury so that they may be exchanged for those of smaller denominations.

As a preliminary step a note has been issued to banks asking for data as to the silver certificates of the denominations of $10 and over, held by them on June 2, and whether it would be agreeable to make the exchange proposed. Silver certificates over the denominations of $10 issued by the government include those for $20, $50, $100, $500 and $1,000.

Several years ago when there was a scarcity of $5 notes, the department sought to increase their issue by the same method as that now in view, although the experiment was another class at issue. It met with indifferent success, however, as only a limited proportion of the banks seconded the government's efforts.

TOOK FIFTEEN YEARS

For Hoffman to Get Married After Getting a License.

Hammond, Ind., May 27.—It took Julius Hoffman, aged 60, 2332 West Fifty-second street, Chicago, and Miss Henrietta Doruke, who boarded in the same house, fifteen years to make up their minds to marry. Hoffman got the license in took fifteen years ago, and was married yesterday by Judge Frank Green in West Hammond. He astonished Green by pulling out the weather beaten license granted in 1895. Hoffman was a widower with three children who objected to the wedding. He finally induced Miss Doruke, who is 52 years old, to elope with him.

BEMIDJI MEMORIAL DAY PLANS ELABORATE.

Bemidji, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Decoration day will be appropriately observed in Bemidji with an excellent program. The decoration of the graves of old soldiers will be performed in the forenoon.

The memorial exercises will be held in the city hall at 2 p. m., when the following program will be rendered: "America," audience; prayer, Rev. J. T. Martin; reading general orders, T. H. Pendergast; rallying song, quartet; Lincoln's Gettysburg address, Prof. W. B. Stewart; reading, Miss Rica Carling; address, E. E. McDonald; solo, Andrew Reed; address, P. J. Russell; oration, M. J. Brown; song, "Tenting Tonight," quartet; benediction.

Langdon, N. D., Commencement.

Langdon, N. D., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—June 3 is the date selected for the commencement exercises of the Langdon high school. President B. H. Kroeze of Jamestown being the principal speaker. There are four girls in this year's class, and they, assisted by other students, will present the play, "A Box of Monkeys."

Makes Fortune in Lumber.

Marquette, Mich., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fred Cooper, formerly of Manistique, Schoolcraft county, went West a few years ago and located at Portland. News is now received that he has made a snug fortune as the result of a series of timber land deals. The transactions have netted him a profit of $42,000. The timber was sold to an Eau Claire, Wis., firm.

IS DRAGGED OUT OF BURNING BARN

Joseph Hennessy Saved By Hero From Cremation at Conway, N. D.

Conway, N. D., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The escape of Joseph Hennessy from the C. H. Soudan livery barn, when it was destroyed by fire early yesterday morning, was most miraculous. But for the bravery of C. P. Philstrom, he would not be alive. Philstrom had to fight his way to Hennessy through smoke and darkness, and was himself almost overcome before he dragged the unconscious man to safety. He was within two or three feet of Gilbert Landrun, who was burned to death, but did not know that he was there.

Landrun only chanced to be sleeping in the barn by reason of the fact that his horses had run away the night before, thus making it impossible for him to go home. It was not known that he was in the barn until two hours after the fire was over and his charred remains were found.

BODY NOT IDENTIFIED AS WOMAN'S HUSBAND.

Marinette, Wis., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Chief of Police Cook of Marinette has not heard from Mrs. Robert Bielby of Dowagiac, Mich., who, according to a newspaper dispatch, is of the opinion that the body found in the woods near Amberg this week, was her husband. Bielby is said to have disappeared last fall while hunting in Northern Wisconsin in the vicinity of Marinette. The body was in a bad state of decomposition and there was no way of identifying it.

FIVE-DOLLAR CHECK IS RAISED TO $300.

San Francisco, May 27.—Glenn C. Merritt, a naval wireless operator, who is said to come of a prominent Des Moines, Iowa, family, is under arrest at Vallejo, charged with raising a government pay check from $5 to $300 and passing it in this city.

According to the federal authorities, Merritt has made a partial confession. His arrest has depressed him so, it is said, that since his incarceration on the cruiser West Virgina he has attempted to harm himself by banging his head against the iron bars.

CRACK HORSES AT FAIR.

Dan Patch and Minor Heir at North Dakota Fair.

Fargo, N. D., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The management of the North Dakota state fair has made arrangements for the appearance exposition week, July 20 to 25 of Dan Patch, Minor Heir, Lady Maud C, and Hedgewood Boy of the famous Savage stables. The two former will be put on the track merely for exhibition purposes, but both Lady Maud C. and Hedgewood Boy will be sent against the state track record held by Giftline on Wednesday of fair week and on Friday they will be started to establish a new pole team record for the state and to break former half-mile pole team records of the country.

Dan Patch was exhibited in this state a year ago and Lady Maud C. was conditioned on this racing circuit three years ago.

How to Stop Drinking

It was formerly customary for the habitual drinker to take the pledge regularly, some times once a year, and sometimes in every fit of remorse that followed his debauches, and then —Break it.

But now it is gradually dawning on the world that pledges do not stop drunkenness. The nervous system of the habitual drinker is diseased and he must have treatment that will cure this condition. Orrine is sold under a positive guarantee to cure the drink habit or the money will be refunded. Can be given secretly.

Write for free booklet on the Cure of Alcoholism to the Orrine Co., 457 Orrine Building, Washington, D. C. Mailed sealed. Orrine costs but $1 per box. Sold in this city by W. A. Abbett, 129 West Superior street, 930 East Second street, and 101 West Fourth street.

AFTER FOUR YEARS OF MISERY

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Baltimore, Md. — "For four years my life was a misery to me. I suffered from irregularities, terrible dragging sensations, extreme nervousness, and that all gone feeling in my stomach. I had given up hope of ever being well when I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Then I felt as though new life had been given me, and I am recommending it to all my friends."—Mrs. W. S. Ford, 2207 W. Franklin St., Baltimore, Md.

The most successful remedy in this country for the cure of all forms of female complaints is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has stood the test of years and to-day is more widely and successfully used than any other female remedy. It has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means had failed.

If you are suffering from any of these ailments, don't give up hope until you have given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you would like special advice write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it. She has guided thousands to health, free of charge.

CULTIVATING SLIMNESS

Fat women must take this injunction to heart if they want to be in style for the new modes will not drape over a fat figure.

The fat has got to come off quickly but without harm, of course, and this means only one thing can be depended upon. Exercising or dieting are too slow. The fat woman who wants to wear a form-clinging gown, must make an immediate trip to her druggist and get a case of Marmola Prescription Tablets, which will cost her about 75 cents.

Taking one of these after each meal and at bedtime should be enough to bring her to the "losing-a-pound-a-day" stage before even the first case is used up. It is hardly believable that such delightful results can be obtained without harm and for such a small sum of money, but then, fact is stranger than fiction.

Test the effect of these tablets by getting a case yourself, either from the Marmola Co., 491 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich., or from any druggist. They are made in exact accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription and consequently, can not have any ill effects.

VETERAN IS SUMMONED

Civil War Hero Dies Three Days Before Memorial Day.

Was Inventor of Note---Promoted for Bravery at Shiloh.

Henry Korten, a Civil war veteran, 75 years of age, died last night at the home of his sister, Mrs. A. Le Duc of 1207 East Superior street, within a few days of Memorial day, which he had been planning to observe with the "old boys in blue" throughout the country. He had been visiting his sister since the first of the year and passed away after a brief illness brought on by old age.

Mr. Korten was a mechanical engineer of repute and an inventor of note. He made his home in Chicago, where he is widely known as the inventor of a smoke consumer in extensive use in that city. For years he was master mechanic of the Chicago & Rock Island railroad, with headquarters in Chicago. He is survived by one son in New York and another son in Dubuque, Iowa. He served throughout the War of the Rebellion, enlisting at President Lincoln's first call for volunteers, becoming a member of Company K, Fifteenth Michigan infantry. He was wounded in the battle of Shiloh and was promoted for bravery. Mr. Korten was a member of Grant Post of Chicago for thirty-four years. The funeral will be private. The body will be taken to Armada, Mich., his early home, for interment.

RAILWAY MAIL CLERKS WANT RETIRING SCALE.

Kansas City, Mo., May 27.—A resolution was adopted at the annual convention of the Railway Mail Clerks' Association of America today appealing to congress in the interest of a retiring scale of pay for railway mail clerks. The resolution urged that clerks be allowed to retire at 60 years of age or after 25 years of service and be allowed three-fourths of their former salary.

MARINE NEWS

STEINBRENNER IS RAISED

Boat Sunk Last Fall Goes to Detour Under Own Steam.

Sault Ste. Marie, May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Reid succeeded in raising the Steinbrenner, sunk at Nine Mile point in the Soo river, yesterday. The steamer proceeded under her own steam to Detour where she now is. The captain expects to leave for Detroit in a day or two. The boat is in fine condition and shows little effect of being under water all winter.

Pontoons passed Detour at 5 o'clock this morning and will reach the wreck of the Ketchum this afternoon. Col. Townsend and the wrecker James Reid are at West Neebish passage awaiting the arrival.

REISS ON INITIAL TRIP.

Big New Steel Vessel Sails for Lower Lakes With Ore.

The Peter Reiss, the big steel vessel that yesterday took her trial spin out into the lake, today left for the lower lakes with a load of ore. The trip today is the beginning of the big vessel's service in the ore-carrying traffic.

Yesterday's trial was satisfactory in every way. The engines were in perfect working order, and it was decided to take the first load out today.

DEMAND FOR WHEAT CHARTERS INCREASES.

Wheat tonnage was offered here for Buffalo today at 1⅝ cents. There were few demands at the figure. There has been but little change in the grain carrying situation, though today it was stated that there is the indication of a slightly increased demand for charters.

Coal has shown a slight falling off at Buffalo the present week, there being a heavy decrease in the total coal tonnage shipped from that harbor. Cleveland reports state that there is a better demand for coal at the various ports on Lake Superior. The Cleveland report also states that the mines are in better condition and that there is the prospect that an increased amount of coal will go up the lakes.

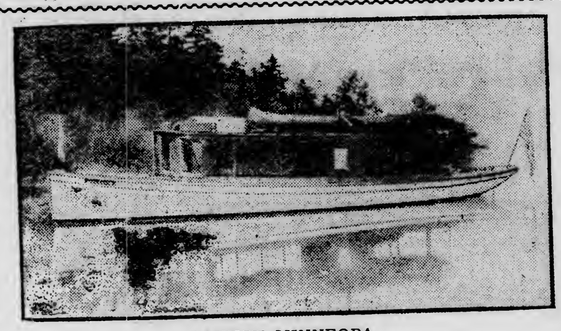
CHICAGO MAN TAKES LONG TRIP IN DULUTH LAUNCH



LAUNCH MINNEOPA.

The launch Minneopa, owned by the Patterson Boat company of this city, returned today from the longest trip ever taken by a launch on Lake Superior. The boat traveled over 1,000 miles, having been on the trip for the past ten days.

E. M. Bunce, a business man of Chicago, and his wife took the long trip, which was up the north shore. From Duluth to Michipicoten island every bay and port along the north shore was explored. Mr. Bunce and his wife were accompanied by Stanley Patterson and E. Faulkner, who ran the launch. Provisions were taken for the trip and the tourists slept in the launch.

During the trip Thunder bay, Blacky bay, Nipigon bay, the north channel, Pie island, Peninsula harbor, Oiseau bay, Simpson island and Triangular harbor were explored by the party.

Mr. Bunce is very fond of sport, and having heard of the great scenery of Lake Superior, decided upon the present trip. He stated this morning that he had never enjoyed any trip in the world as he had the little journey up the north shore, and that he would look forward to the time when he could make another trip up among the bays and channels of the lake.

Mr. Patterson stated that though long launch trips were common down on the Eastern coast, very few long trips have been taken here. He suggested, now that a Chicago man had set the record upon the making of long trips, perhaps some of the Duluth people would follow the example.

Inspectors Complete Work.

Port Huron, Mich., May 27.—Marine inspectors late today completed the investigation of the collision which cost eighteen lives on Lake Huron Monday between the steamers Frank H. Goodyear and James B. Wood. The result of the investigation was sent to Washington and will be announced in that city.

New North Dakota Hotel.

Fargo, N. D., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Aaron Stern of Wahpeton, who owns the present Hotel Plaza, announces that as soon as the lease expires he will construct a new fire-proof building on the site.

Notice to Contractors.

Sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Education of the City of Duluth, at its office in the Central High School building, up to 7:30 P. M. of Friday June 3rd, 1910, for the furnishing of all labor material necessary for the rewiring of the Central High School building according to specifications which may be obtained at the office of the Board in said building.

PROTESTS INNOCENCE

"So Help Me God, I Am Not Guilty," Says Schreiber.

"Great God!" was the exclamation of William Schreiber when informed by a Herald reporter that the supreme court had upheld the decision of the lower court, and that he was now doomed to spend the rest of his natural life in a prison cell at Stillwater.

Two large tears, one from each eye, started down his cheeks as he said: "I am not the first man that has suffered, innocent of the crime with which he was charged." And then to conceal his emotion, Schreiber sought the darkest corner of his cell.

"So help me, God, I am not guilty of the crime, and if the sun you now see shining through the prison bars were the last sun I ever expected to see, and if I knew that this was my last moment on earth, I would die with the words on my lips."

DECORATION DAY

Both North and South, the blue as well as the grey, are the popular colors for suits this season.

In inviting you to buy your new suit in time for Decoration day, and in the place where the Best is sold and where the choice of patterns and sizes are far the biggest, we'll give you a short description of what we have to offer in

Blue and Grey for Young and Old

We can fit men and boys of every size—from the tiny tot to the Taft stature—and have clothes made by different specialists for the different periods in life—for ages 2½ to 99 years.

Blues and Greys for Boys

Buy the Boy his new Decoration Day Suit on the second floor of the Columbia store, where you are entirely surrounded by children's and boys' wearing apparel and where salesmen who are specialists for the young folks take pleasure in showing you through the only metropolitan boys' store in Duluth.

Suits with double-breasted coats, wide lapels, good linings and pants, cut in full bloomer style, with taped seams and lined throughout—in blue serges and in gray mixtures and gray stripes—for boys of any age, are here at the price of..... $5

If you want higher qualities, they are plentiful in our large stock of Boys' Summer Clothes, at $7.50, $8.50, $10, $12.50, $15 and $18.

Blue Serge Clothes always look dressy and can be kept fresh with a little sponging and pressing.

Gray materials are very durable and do not show dust and specks very readily.

Greys

Fancy plain Oxford Worsteds—dark gray and also those handsome light gray patterns so seldom found in ready-to-wear stores, are here at $30 and down to—

$20

Greys

The very newest fabrics in fancy grays — both worsteds and cheviots — plaids, pin checks, fancy stripes, in all the new shades, at prices from $35 down to—

$10

Blues

Blue Serges of the staple variety in three shades—also the fancy herringbone stripe blue serge not shown elsewhere except by the most high-priced tailors. From $30 to—

$10

Blues

Fancy striped blue unfinished worsteds are here in the highest quality of pure woolens at $20 and up to $27.50.

A new one just received is a particular beauty, at—

$25

The Columbia and one firm in the Twin Cities are the only stores in Minnesota that carry all the above mentioned patterns in special sizes cut for "stouts," "long stouts," "shorts," "short stouts" and "slims." Over 800 suits are here in these odd sizes, in addition to the enormous "regular" stocks to be found in none but responsible qualities. Most of the men's suits come from these leaders among modern clothes-makers — the Stein-Bloch and the Sincerity Wholesale Tailors.

Looking for Owner.
The local police have been asked by the La Crosse, Wis., authorities if they have any record of a suit case that has been stolen in this city. They have arrested a man named Frank Kelly, and he had a case in his possession with laundry marked "C. Butler," and some ties labeled "E. A. Daniels, Two Harbors." The records do not show that any such suit case was lost here, but they are trying to locate the owner.

Saloons Will Close.
Saloons in Duluth will be closed Memorial day from 10 o'clock in the morning until 3 o'clock in the afternoon, as required by law. Notice of this will be contained in the proclamation of Mayor Cullum, when it is published tomorrow. The mayor will also request business houses to close upon that day.

Southern Lumbermen Here.
W. W. Potter of Chippewa Falls, Wis., who for many years has been well-known in logging circles in Northern Wisconsin and Minnesota, is in the city, a guest at the St. Louis hotel. Mr. Potter is spending a few days in this city and Superior on business, and expects to return to his home in Chippewa Falls probably tomorrow. For eight months past he has been in Louisiana as the representative of the Southland Lumber company, which owns large tracts of yellow pine in that state. The company has not yet built a mill on the tract, but Mr. Potter has charge of the concern's interests there, and will return to Louisiana.

Burglars Enter Flat.
Burglars entered the flat of John Hedren at 19 West Superior street early last evening while the family was attending a theatrical performance. Several valuable articles of jewelry were stolen, including a diamond locket. Entrance was gained by prying open a rear window.

Meeting of Camp McEwen.
The members of Camp McEwen, United States War Veterans, will hold an open meeting tonight at Memorial hall. Decoration day plans will be talked over. The business meeting will be followed by a smoker.

Republican Club to Meet.
The Norwegian Republican club will meet this evening at Odd Fellows' hall, 18 Lake avenue north.

Ticket Offices to Close.
Local ticket offices will be closed Monday afternoon and city freight offices will be closed all of the day. This action is taken as a general observance of Memorial day.

Charge Not Proven.
Mike Kennedy, arrested Wednesday evening for stealing a coat from a Bowery second hand dealer, was discharged in police court yesterday afternoon for lack of evluence.

New Vice President.
A. B. Eldredge, formerly general attorney of the South Shore, has been appointed vice president of the road, succeeding Walter R. Baker, who has left the services of the road. The order announcing the change is signed by President Fitch and reached Duluth today.

Funeral of Mrs. Knowles.
The funeral of Mrs. W. B. Knowles of Colbyville, who died last night at St. Luke's hospital, will take place tomorrow afternoon from the undertaking rooms of Flood & Horgan. She was suffering from cancer. She is survived by her husband and a child by a former marriage. Interment will be at Forest Hill cemetery. She was 42 years of age.

Goes to Two Harbors.
Judge Middlecoff left this afternoon for Two Harbors, where he will hold court for Judge Tracy, judge of probate in Lake county. Judge Tracy is ill.

The Ladies
of the First Christian church will hold a sale of home cooking, all day Saturday. 301 East Superior street.

Pratt & Lambert's
No. 61 Floor Varnish has stood the test. Quayle-Larsen Co., 23 Second avenue west.

FUNERAL OF RALPH LUECK

The funeral of Ralph Lueck, the young man who committed suicide at "Ike Brown's place" yesterday, will take place at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the residence of his sister, Mrs. F. V. Post of 822 East Fifth street. Interment will be held at Forest Hill cemetery.

The indications are that he was suffering from melancholia following a long illness and wanted to end his life. He had placed the muzzle of a 44-calibre rifle against his neck under the chin and pulled the trigger. The bullet went upwards into his brains, but did not go through, lodging near the skull. Lueck went to the Cloquet river for a vacation, during which he hoped to regain his health. The rifle used belonged to the proprietor of the stopping place. The relatives scout the suicide theory, stating that the shooting must have been accidental. But the position of the wound and the powder marks on the neck go to disprove this claim.

NON-PARTISAN JUDICIARY LAW WILL BE TESTED.

Fargo, N. D., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—A friendly suit will be started to test the constitutionality of the non-partisan judiciary law. Under its provisions only Democrats and Republicans can file. Prohibitionists, Socialists and others have no show. It is probable that a test case will be started by an effort to file party nominations. This will secure a ruling from the secretary of state and legal action can then be started as in the recent senatorial matter.

LOOKING FOR MERRY.

Dickinson, N. D., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. F. Merry, a former Stark county land man, is probably the worst wanted man in the state at the present time with warrants out in Foster county and a conviction hanging over his head in Adams county. Both cases grow out of the promotion of a certain railroad scheme which he had developed, apparently for his own benefit. Since the recent supreme court decision affirming the decision of the district court, which was in effect that he was guilty of the offense charged, officials have re-doubled their efforts to locate him, but they have been unsuccessful in so doing. He seems to have been able to make himself decidedly scarce.

LIEUT. WATTS TRANSFERRED

Lieut. A. W. Watts, who has been in Duluth for the past two years in charge of the United States recruiting station here, has received notice that he will be transferred to the regular service of the army. Lieut. Watts will report for active duty in Arizona, where his regiment is quartered at the present time.

The date of the transfer of Lieut. Watts is fixed for Aug. 15. During his stay in Duluth the officer has made a host of friends and there will be a genuine regret at the news of his departure within a few weeks of the army officer.

NO SNAP TO PASS CITY EXAMINATIONS.

Of the twenty men who took civil service examinations recently, eleven failed and those who passed, did so with the narrowest margins on record. Of the nine applicants for policemen four failed and two were rejected; of the two applicants for inspector in the engineer's office one failed; of the three applicants for driver of the fire department, one failed and of the six applicants for places as rodmen, nxmen and chainmen in the engineer's office three failed.

WORKS BI-PLANE IN SPITE OF WIND

Newburyport, Mass., May 27.—Several aeroplane flights, lasting an hour and a half and covering distances from one-quarter to one-half mile at an altitude of fifteen feet, were made today by William Hilliard in a Herring-Burgess bi-plane at the Plum Island aviation ground. There was a brisk breeze blowing at the time.

The bi-plane has lately been equipped with a new device to give lateral stability. This device is intended especially for use in windy weather, and today it had its first real test. The inventor and Mr. Hilliard say that it worked remarkably well.

POWER PROJECT IS BEING PUSHED ANEW

Condemnation Proceedings Begun By Minnesota Canal Company.

The Minnesota Canal & Power company has begun condemnation proceedings against the Mesaba Iron company and nearly 100 individuals to acquire title to land between Birch lake and West Duluth.

The land lies along several streams, which, according to the plans of the company, will be improved so that forest products may be brought down to St. Louis bay by water, and at the same time the streams will furnish power to generate electricity.

The company was organized in 1894 under the general incorporation statue of Minnesota. The purposes of the company are the same as when it was organized sixteen years ago. They are: To generate electricity for public use, operate canals, dams, reservoirs, ditches, pipe lines, transmission lines, power houses and the construction of a navigable water course from Birch lake to St. Louis bay.

This water way will begin at Birch lake and join the Embarrass river, which river will be followed to Sabin lake. From this point smaller waterways will be improved, giving an entrance near West Duluth. At this point a power house is to be constructed. It is for the purpose of acquiring the land needed in this venture that the condemnation proceedings were commenced.

Because it lacked the aproval of the United States chief engineer and the secretary of war, the company was not able to get its plans through some years ago. The approval in writing has now been obtained and the condemnation proceedings is the first step in the actual work of the company.

CHEAP POTATOES AND PENNY FISH FOR DULUTHIANS UNDER THE PLAN EVOLVED BY CAPTAIN B. F. HOWARD

Into the murky gloom of the high cost of living night, a ray of sunshine penetrates.

Capt. B. F. Howard, one of Duluth's oldest residents, is the apostle of light, who brings this ray of sunshine to the discouraged housewife and the nerve-racked husband, who are trying to stretch a $75 income over a $100 household.

Wasted energy is the theme of Mr. Howard's song. Like the men who tried to harness the power contained in the kicks of all the frogs in the world, Mr. Howard figures there are thousands of dollars' worth of physical energy going to waste in Duluth every summer, and this he proposes to harness and turn to good account. Perhaps he leaves the personal equation out of his reckoning, but here is his scheme:

"Make me superintendent of the Golf club, with its eighty broad, rolling acres," says Mr. Howard, "and lend me unqualified, unquestioned obedience in order to get the best results.

"I'll turn those broad, broad acres into a potato farm. Instead of playing golf the men can wield the plow, harrow, rake and spade. That will give them plenty of exercise, more beneficial than chasing a chunk of gutta percha through the waving reeds.

"During the warm, summer days the women and children can get out into the fields and pluck potato bugs from the abundantly blossoming plants. That will give them plenty of tan and outdoor color.

"By that time the men will be getting restless again, whereupon each of them can be given two long rows to care for. When the spuds are ripe they can turn themselves loose in hordes to reap the harvest. When the 'Murphys' are ready for the market they can requisition their automobiles, and to the toot of horns peddle the fruits of their labor to the people of the city, at 10 cents a bushel.

"The members of the boat club could take their sturdy craft into the lake and bring them back loaded to the gunwhales with herring, trout and white fish. They have more automobiles and emulating the examples of their brethren at the country club, could infest the city with fish-loaded devil carts, supplying the people at 1 cent a pound.

CAPT. B. F. HOWARD.

"Thus would every requirement be met. The buzz wagons would advertise their stocks in a manner beyond the scope of any other agency. Sales would overwhelm them, so that they might even have to hire a few of the unemployed, adding to the great work.

"Never would the people have occasion again to complain of the high cost of living, the tariff, monopolistic ownership of railroads, unfeeling corporations or other evils now besetting them. The diet might even make them so strong that they would turn out en masse to tackle the Point of Rocks, and wipe it away.

Thus Mr. Howard finished his elucidation of his theory. It left his small handful of listeners spellbound, swept away by the force of his oratory and the soundness of his logic. The Most Noble Grand Exalted Order of Cheap Potatoes and Penny Fish was formed on the spot. Each of those present subscribed for as much stock as his finances permitted.

WILD CHASE AT MIDNIGHT

Police Officers Have Man Hunt Among the Chimney Pots.

Up stairways and ladders, through traps and over Bowery roofs, Rudolph Askeland led the police and the man he had robbed a merry chase at 1:30 o'clock this morning.

Dodging hither and thither, he played hide and seek in deadly earnest with Patrolmen Perry and O. Olson and his victim, George Sponagel. High above the street, the guardians of the law and the fugitive vaulted from one building to another, around chimneys and through wires.

People sleeping in the cots of the lodging houses were awakened by what they thought was the famous comet at last making good its threat to wipe the earth off the heavenly map. The pounding of heavy boots startled them more than they had been startled by floods or falling trees. Many pairs of knees touched the hard, bare floors or rough mats with a strange sensation; many pairs of hands were folded in supplicating attitudes for the first time since childhood; and many lips whispered prayers that they thought were forgotten.

The unusual manhunt lasted about fifteen minutes. Exhausted and shaking like a leaf, Askeland was found crouched in a dark shadow between a chimney and a wall, reaching about two feet above the roof.

While talking to Sponagel in front of the North Star hotel on Superior street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues west, Askeland had "frisked" Sponagel of two 2 bills and $1 in silver. Missing his wealth Sponagel raised the hue and cry, and started up the stairs of the lodging house after Askeland. The policemen heard his shouts, and came running to the scene, following the two to the roofs.

Askeland was charged with being drunk in police court this morning. He entered a plea of guilty, and was fined $10 and costs, with the alternative of ten days in the county jail. He didn't have the cash, and went over the hill. Sponagel was arraigned on the same charge, but received a suspended sentence on pleading guilty, as did the other prisoners in the grist. Askeland was the only one who had to go to jail.

BANDS OF MERCY ARE ORGANIZED

There are in Duluth 1,000 members of the various bands of mercy now being organized in the schools throughout the city by Miss Ellen Dahlen of the humane office.

So far only the Bryant, Emerson, Adams and Monroe schools have been visited. In each school Miss Dahlen finds the children enthusiastic over the idea of forming societies.

Early in the week the Franklin, Salter, Madison and Jackson school will be visited. It is expected that there will be nearly 3,000 members when all the schools have finally been visited.

All pupils above the fourth grade are given an opportunity to join the society and none have refused to enroll.

MEMORIAL TO JUDGE REYNOLDS

The engrossed memorial to the late Judge R. Reynolds, adopted by the bar association of Polk county years ago, which is to be placed in the law library of the St. Louis county bar association is now being framed and will be turned over the association.

This specimen of pen and ink work is of exceptional interest, especially to the lawyers of this judicial district, and was the subject of discussion at Wednesday's meeting of the bar, when Judge Dibell was put forward as a candidate for associate justice of the supreme court. A portrait in oils of Judge O. P. Stearns, who was the first judge of the Eleventh district bench, hangs in the courtroom of Judge Ensign, who for some years was Judge Stearns' colleague on the bench and previously was in partnership with him in the practice of law. The engrossed memorial to Judge Reynolds, who was the second judge of this district, is an unusual reminder of an unusual man, which explains why the lawyers are so eager to gain possession of it. It is now the property of Attorney Joseph W. Reynolds, a son of the jurist, who is having it framed for the bar association.

Judge Stearns was appointed judge of the Eleventh district in April, 1874, and served until January, 1894, when he died. Judge Reynolds' service on the bench of this district dated from March, 1885, to January, 1887, and Judge Ensign began his service in 1889.

APARTMENTS FOR BACHELORS

Many hundreds of people visited the Sherwood building on First street between Third and Fourth avenues west yesterday afternoon and inspected the bachelor apartments on the third floor.

The bachelor apartments are an innovation in Duluth in that they are the first to be fitted out in a business block in the downtown district and the first in the city to be furnished and finished on such an elaborate scale.

The people who visited the apartments yesterday were unstinting in their praises and Mr. Sherwood and Mrs. Sherwood, who received the visitors and conducted them through the apartments, were showered with commendations for their foresight in introducing the new arrangements.

Nearly all of the apartments have already been rented and the bachelors are moving in today. They are delighted with the arrangements. Everything possible has been done for their comfort and convenience. The rooms are large, well lighted, well ventilated and furnished with taste an delegance. The rooms will be in charge of a man and woman, who will live in the building, be within easy call of the occupants and will be ready to attend to their every want.

The apartments are on the third floor of the building, which was just completed May 1. The building is one of the finest structures in Duluth. It is thoroughly fireproof, centrally located and the announcement that the third floor would be fitted up for bachelors found ready response from prospective occupants.

Mr. Sherwood is well satisfied with the innovation. The apartments are the finest in the West for the prices charged and Mr. Sherwood says he believes the amount of money he spent in fitting them out has been expended to good purpose.

CATALOGUE FOR ART EXHIBIT IS ISSUED.

The catalogue for the art exhibition is completed and copies were available at the rooms today and will during the remainder of the exhibit.

The committee has prepared a most pleasing catalogue and a few words concerning the artist and his work is placed after each name, making the reference clear and of much value to the visitor at the exhibit. The catalogue is printed on deep cream paper and bound in brown. Pictures of the president, Bishop McGolrick, of David Ericson, artist, and of C. C. Rosenkranz, artist and director of the exhibit, occupy the first few pages.

The exhibit will be open Sunday from 1 o'clock in the afternoon until 7 p. m. and on Memorial day, Monday, from 1 to 10 p. m. These hours have been especially planned for the many people who are occupied during the week and would have no opportunity to visit the exhibit otherwise.

NOTICE!

All Meat Markets will be closed at 9 a. m., Monday, Decoration Day. Everybody get their supplies on Saturday.

STRANGE FORM OF INSANITY

Firm in the belief that she had Halleys comet in her grasp, Esther Marsh was arested by the police at her home near Twelfth avenue west and Second street last evening.

According to the neighbors, she had been flat on her back for two days spinning the imaginary comet on the tip of her index finger. Her arm was extended full length and she was slowly swaying it with a circular motion without speaking a word. She was taken to the county jail to await an examination as to her sanity. She was sent to Fergus Falls some time ago, but was recently released on parole.

AUTOS DISCOUNT GRADE CROSSINGS

Chicago, May 27.—Automobiles have become a greater menace to life and limb than gradings, according to a report submitted to Mayor Busse today by W. J. Raymer, superintendent of track elevation for the city. His report shows since June 1, 1909: By automobiles, 25 deaths, 568 injured; by grade crossings, 35 deaths, 83 injured.

QUALITY IN ICE CREAM

VELVET ICE CREAM stands for quality in every sense of the word.

Quality in materials, in equipment, in workmanship, in the packages in which it is delivered, in the delivery service. The cream from which Velvet Ice Cream is made comes from our own model creameries in the country. Trained agricultural college experts test it as it comes from the farms, place it in sterilized containers, cool it to near the freezing point and make it into delicious dishes for you. We make our own fruit flavorings from the finest fruits. We use only pure granulated sugar for sweetening. Cream, pure fruits and sugar make

AVENUE IN BAD SHAPE

Agitation for Improvement of Grand Is Being Renewed.

Agitation has begun anew at West Duluth for the improvement of Grand avenue and residents of the western end of the city are getting anxious to know when the council will order the improvement. A storm sewer was to be laid this year, preparatory to the paving of the thoroughfare next year.

Last fall, property owners at West Duluth having property abutting the street between Fifty-fourth and Fifty-ninth avenues west presented a petition to the council asking that the street be paved. The council deferred any action on the matter until estimates could be secured.

At that time, it was thought most advisable to lay a storm sewer between Forty-ninth and Fifty-ninth. The city engineer prepared estimates of the cost of the work, but before the assessments were confirmed, a charter amendment was passed, providing that storm sewers and the paving of street intersections be paid for by the city.

A legal question arises as to whether the city cannot assess the property owners for work that was petitioned for before the passage of the amendment. This has not been passed upon by City Attorney Bert Fesler and it is probable that the council will not go ahead with the work until this point is settled.

According to Alderman W. B. Getchell of the Eighth ward, the has not yet created a fund for this purpose and consequently the work may be deferred for a short time. He stated this morning however, that the council would probably order the work done some time this year.

Grand avenue is recognized as the principal thoroughfare between West Duluth and the city proper for it carries a heavy volume of traffic. The suburb is growing rapidly and the demand for the paving of the only accessible street for heavy traffic, between West Duluth and the city is strong.

A few years ago, Oneota street was used for heavy traffic, but the paving on this street has given out and the road is now impassable, except to light rigs, especially in bad weather. There is some agitation for the paving of this street, but most people seem to favor the paving of Grand avenue first.

On Grand avenue, there is a short distance on one side of the street that is in fairly good condition, but east of Thirty-ninth avenue to Twenty-eighth avenue, the avenue is in a deplorable shape after a light rain. The street has only been graded between these two points and it is only a matter of time, it is thought, before some thing must be done to relieve the situation.

West of Twenty-ninth avenue, the street is paved on the north side of the street car tracks to Forty-ninth avenue. The paving itself, is in good condition yet, but on account of the narrow portion which is paved, it often becomes necessary for traffic to stop to untangle itself owing to congestion because the paving is not wide enough for all teams to pass.

After Forty-ninth avenue is passed, there is a mud hole, where the old bridge was taken out by the city. On wet days, it is a common occurrence for teams to get stuck in the mud here.

Memorial Day Program.

A special Memorial day program was given at the Oneota school today. It follows:

LECTURE-RECITAL.

Mrs. Stella Prince Stocker Will Explain Orchestra Program.

A lecture for people musically inclined will be given this evening at the Elim Swedish Lutheran church, Fifty-sixth avenue west and Elinor street, by Mrs. Stella Prince Stocker, whose lecture-recital work in the musical field has excited much favorable comment.

No admission will be charged to the lecture this evening. Mrs. Stocker has taken for her theme the program of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, which will apepar here in Duluth on June 3 and 4 at the Lyceum theater.

During the evening selections will be rendered on the new pipe organ by Prof. A. F. Lundholm and Mrs. Stocker will illustrate some of the productions with her descriptions. Mrs. Stocker is a composer of lighter operas and a lecturer whose services have been in wide demand.

The larger part of her recital-lecture work was carried on during her residence in New York city. Since removing to Duluth she has made several short recital trips.

Fredel-Johnston.

Miss Esther Fredel and Fred A. Johnston were married Wednesday afternoon at the parsonage of Elim Swedish Lutheran church, West Duluth, by Rev. Carl G. Olson, pastor of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church of the West end.

After the ceremony was performed a wedding dinner was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Johnston. Twenty guests were present. The house was prettily decorated with carnations, apple blossoms and smilax.

Miss Edith Fredel of St. Paul attended the bride and the groomsman was Gustaf Wesholm of West Duluth. Mr. and Mrs. Johnston left yesterday on a wedding trip to Evansville, Minn.

Dahl Arrested Again.

Rudolph Dahl, who was arrested and convicted for non-support and habitual drunkenness last fall and who served a county jail sentence of ninety days because he came home intoxicated and beat his wife, was arrested again last evening for drunkenness. He was arraigned in police court this morning.

Officer Is Injured.

While hurrying across the Northern Pacific tracks at the Central avenue crossing yesterday Officer Brouillette of the West Duluth police force slipped and fell against a rail, sustaining minor injuries.

He picked himself up in time to clear himself from the path of an oncoming freight train. The officer will be laid up at his home at West Duluth for a few days.

Street Crossing Blocked.

Complaints have been coming in to the West Duluth police that the switching crews of the Northern Pacific road allow a string of cars to block the Sixty-seventh avenue west crossing for an unreasonable time every morning. The police reported the matter to Local Agent Sweet, who promised to take the matter up with the roadmaster. If the matter is not remedied, it is probable that arrests will be made.

COOK TO BE POSTMASTER

Is Nominated to Succeed Guy A. Eaton By the President.

A special dispatch to The Herald from Washington this afternoon states that Arthur P. Cook has been named as postmaster for Duluth by President

A. P. COOK.

Taft. The nomination is subject to approval by the senate.

The appointment of Mr. Cook was forecasted in The Herald several months ago.

HAUPT NAMED FOR JOB AGAIN

Washington, May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The president today nominated Charles C. Haupt to be United States district attorney for Minnesota.

MINNEAPOLIS HAS BAD FIRE

Minneapolis, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire today destroyed five buildings in the manufacturing district along University avenue and the total loss on buildings and contents is estimated at $120,000. Several firemen was badly burned before the fire was got under control this afternoon.

An entire block of frame buildings from 2419 to 2429 University avenue was destroyed.

A spectacular sight was the burning of 800 barrels of lubricating oil in the plant of the Van Tilbury Lubricating Oil company, which was one of the firms burned out. The individual losses are:

S. L. Manteufel Refrigerator company, $10,000.

Van Tilbury Lubricating Oil company, $5,000.

H. M. Strand company, manufacturers of oars, skis, etc., $10,000.

Russel Gardner Machine company, $75,000.

The Abe Harrin warehouse, $5,000.

Buildings owned by E. J. Kimball, $15,000.

Care of the Hands.

The hardest, roughest hands may be made soft and white in a month or two with the proper care. Rainwater is considered best for washing them, but a little borax added to hard water will counteract its effect and make it just as good. SUPREME COURT AFFIRMS ORDER

The judgment of the municipal court of the city of Duluth granting Maude E. Cooper a verdict of $400 against Stronge & Warner company, affirmed by the district court of St. Louis county, was again affirmed by the Minnesota supreme court today.

According to the pleadings in the case, Miss Cooper was engaged by the Stronge & Warner company about March 1, 1909, to manage the millinery department conducted by the company in Silberstein & Bondy's store. After six weeks, she claimed that she was replaced by another manager and was offered an inferior position, which she refused. She sued for $400, the amount of the salary which she would have earned between the time she was discharged and Aug. 1, at which time her contract would have expired. The jury in municipal court returned a verdict for the full amount.

The motion of the defendants for judgment notwithstanding the verdict or a new trial was denied by the municipal court and the judgment was affirmed by the district court judges on appeal. The defendants appealed to the supreme court and a decision handed down today affirmed the decisions of the local courts.

The supreme court says in affirming the judgment:

"A contract employing one as manager of a sales department is violated by the master in reducing a servant to a sales clerk.

"The employe so reduced is required to be reasonably diligent in seeking employment of a similar character to that contracted for."

SOLDIER IS COURT-MARTIALED

A report received from Fort Snelling today tells of the court-martialing of Albert K. Clark, who created a disturbance on a Duluth street car on the evening of April 6.

The soldier was arrested here and lodged in the city lockup. He was turned over to the government authorities when it was pointed out that his punishment would be more severe, should the government deal with the case.

He has been sentenced to the guard house for three months, and to forfeit $10 of his pay each month.

Clark attempted to strike the woman he was with. When bystanders started to interfere, he attempted to fight them. But for the arrival of the police Clark might have been roughly handled.

SONS OF VETERANS WILL ATTEND SERVICES.

All Sons of Veterans, whether members of the order or not, will meet at the Memorial hall, Sunday at 9 a. m. and go with the members of the G. A. R. to the services at the Endion church, Nineteenth avenue east and First street.

WHEAT STILL ON DECLINE

Market Sags During Session With Slight Rally at Close.

Early Options in Flax Have a Big Advance Here.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 27.—Wheat values declined steadily today until toward the close, when the market became oversold and prices rallied, although the upturn did not carry values to within striking distance of the close yesterday.

It was reported toward the close that Chicago was offering wheat at Buffalo at 2c under Duluth prices, and that offers had been made to Duluth to sell back the stuff recently taken from here for delivery at Chicago, the wheat to go to Buffalo at 2c under this market. An earlier report gave the difference at 2½c, but the former figure later was declared to be correct.

May wheat was not traded in here today. It closed $1.04¼ nominal. July opened late at $1.04 asked, and sold at $1.03⅞, $1.04, $1.03½-⅝, $1.03⅝, $1.03¼, $1.03½, $1.02⅞, $1.03⅜, and closed with bids at $1.03⅜. September opened with offers at 93 cents, sold at 92⅝c, 93¼c, 92⅝c, 93c, 92⅝c, 92¾c, 93⅜c, 93¾c, and closed at the last named price. Trading was comparatively light toward the close.

Flax was strong in a market characterized by light trading. May advanced 14c, July 10½c, September 1c and October ½c. There was some bidding in May from shorts and July was strong and buoyant. There is a disposition of longs to hold on to their seed and the shorts have been disappointed, some people think, in their expectations that the longs would let go of the stuff. Receipts have been increasing lately, but whether there will be sufficient seed here for purposes of delivery is problematical. Seed is scarce and some of the shorts apparently have found it necessary to bid up the market to attract needed stuff. Flax that was sold to arrive a long time ago apparently is wanted and the possibilities of a "squeeze" have not been eliminated.

May flax opened late at $2.21 and was bid up to $2.35, at which price sales were made. July opened $2.04½ bid and sold at $2.15, the close. September sold at $1.67¼ after opening $1.67 bid. It declined to $1.66½ and sold up to $1.68 and closed $1.68 bid. October opened $1.59 bid and sold at $1.58½ and $1.59½ and closed $1.59½.

Oats continued to decline. The crop will be large and there has been selling lately in the futures. The cash situation is weak. Oats lost ½c here today. Cash wheat closed ½c over July, with the mills offering 2c over July. Rye closed unchanged. Barley slipped, closing 50@60c. Durum closed ⅜c off.

Heavy liquidation in the wheat market continued today, and values declined precipitately under great and incessant pressure. Cables closed lower and crop news was favorable, but these factors were subordinate to pit conditions. Long wheat was thrown into the various pits of the country, and the downturn was further induced by heavy short selling from abroad.

Early in the day buying in corn surprised the wheat traders, and there was a rally of brief duration, after which values continued to slide. There was heavy realizing in July and September, and more wheat was sold to arrive than for some time. The bears have raked in large profits in the last few days, and some played for a recovery today; so that they could attack the market again. Pit conditions mitigated against a rally, however, and values received little support, except from shorts who were covering.

The market is more nearly evened up than at any time in several months. Some people think that a reaction is due, but believe that there will be no permanency to rallies and that the market is rapidly working into a situation where fundamental factors and economic conditions of general importance will dominate.

There was some disposition to buy the September option on today's break. The public is not in the market, and the buying, outside of small investment accounts, came chiefly from the shorts.

Continental markets were lower today, and advices from India indicate that that country will have the biggest crop on record. Cables from Russia said that weather and crop conditions are excellent. The record-breaking exports from that country, according to indications, will show no let up.

The milling demand is showing a slight improvement, but there is no urgency. The cash demand was moderate, and receipts were small. The mills offered 2c over July, an advance of ½c over yesterday.

MARKET GOSSIP

Chicago Tribune: Capt. Phillips, the Newton, Kan., speculator, whose operations on the board of trade have assumed big proportions at many times, is credited with having lost a fortune in wheat on the last break. Tuesday he was credited with selling about 2,000,000 bu and Wednesday about 1,000,000 bu more. While some estimates were higher than this, it was regarded as a conservative estimate that he had a line of 3,000,000 bu bought when wheat was much higher. Most of his wheat was for September delivery. He based his bullish views on the poor condition of the crop in Kansas, the county in which he lives, Harvey, showing a big loss from winter killing. For a time the market went his way, but finally went against him, and he threw his wheat overboard Tuesday and Wednesday. There was some talk that brokers who usually act for him had sold wheat for the Bartlett-Patten interests, but there was no confirmation of this.

Price Current: "Winter wheat making good seasonable advance and spring grain reports are quite favorable. Corn approaching close of planting. Some replanting required. General situation encouraging."

Shipments not reported, cars, 14,000 bu flax. Loading—Parks Foster, 130,000 bu oats, Neptune, 39,000 bu oats.

Wheat stores decreased 721,000 bu in five days to 3,296,000 bu. Flax stores increased 25,000 bu to 101,000 bu. Estimated decrease of stores of wheat for the current week are 675,000 bu and the increase of flax, 15,000 bu.

Barrell received the following from Kinyon, Bradley, S. D.: "A great improvement is noted in grain during last week. A few fields still look to be light stand but are improving rapidly. As soon as we have warm days wheat will undoubtedly stool very heavily. Weather has been cool and

The Pattens and W. H. Bartlett first became big factors in the trade through their operations in oats and corn. Several huge deals were brought to a successful culmination in both corn and oats before any success was met with in wheat.

It became a trite saying in the trade that to "copper" Patten in wheat was an easy way to make money. This held good until a year ago, when the big Evanston plunger inaugurated and carried through the largest and most spectacular deal in May wheat ever engineered on the board of trade. At the height of the campaign it was estimated that Patten and his associates were long 40,000,000 bu of May wheat, and when the month ended with the price at $1.34, it represented profits placed at about $8,000,000 to $10,000,000 to be divided among the members of the bull crowd.

Special Russian cable said: "In the South and Center the weather is favorable, being dry and warm, and the outlook for the crops is very satisfactory. Arrivals at the ports are small, and stocks are decreasing as a result of heavy shipments. The markets are irregular. The South Eastern railway of Russia has ordered 2,000 new freight cars to assist in handling the new wheat crop."

Chicago Inter Ocean: Bartlett-Frazier company with a capital of $1,000,000 came to succeed Bartlett, Patten & Co., July 1. James A. Patten and George W. Patten are the only members of the present firm to remain. The official announcement to this effect was made yesterday and confirmed by James A. Patten, Bartlett-Frazier company will have as stockholders W. H. Bartlett, F. F. Frazier, and H. E. Eycroft of the old firm of Bartlett, Patten & Co., who are C. B. Pierce, H. J. Patten, George E. Fuller, and E. D. W. Fogle. Bartlett, Patten and Co., have been in existence for two years, succeeding to the business of Bartlett, Frazier & Carrington, July 1, 1908, when F. F. Frazier and H. E. Eycroft retired. These gentlemen have had a good rest the last two years and are going back into business. The firm of Bartlett, Frazier & Carrington, took over the business of Carrington, Patten & Co., in 1903, which brought the Pattens in closer connection with Bartlett and Frazier. W. H. Bartlett and F. F. Frazier came to Chicago from Peoria in 1889, with two concerns and now have the largest commission and elevator trade of any house in the country.

Broomhall cabled: Wheat opened demoralized and very weak, and prices showed a decline of 1¾@2d. Selling was due to the break in America yesterday and the sharp break in both Manitoba and La Plata offerings. Spot markets were very weak and Argentine shipments were larger than expected, and Russia continues to offer freely. Later and during the morning the market developed a steadier undertone as selling subsided, and there appeared a better demand for cargoes and values showed an advance of ¼@½d. Again selling pressure developed on the advance and prices declined sharply, with profit-taking general. At midday the market was steadier and ¼@½d up from the bottom and 1⅛@2d lower than yesterday.

Corn opened ¼d lower on cheaper La Plata offers and a poor demand for spot. Later values were unchanged.

Argentine shipments: Wheat, 1,968,000 bu; previous week, 992,000; last year, 1,776,000; corn, 1,037,000 bu; previous week, 476,000; last year, 2,735,000. Visible supply—Wheat, 1,248,000 bu; previous week, 1,104,000; last year, 2,248,000; corn, 1,785,000 bu; previous week 1,411,000; last year, 4,518,000. The Buenos Ayres market is closed. The general tone, however, is weak under increased arrivals from the country. The arrivals of corn are increasing and conditions show an improvement.

Winnipeg wired Thornton: "Three or four export houses bidding for May and cash wheat yesterday afternoon. Looks as though our market might be around its proper level, but Chicago still looks very high compared with values here and abroad."

Modern Miller: Crop outlook is moderately bearish. Weather conditions have been favorable for the advancement of winter wheat and prospects generally more satisfactory. In the states of central regions bad spots are numerous, especially where the fly continues its depraditions. This is particularly noted in Illinois, where materially reduced yield is probable. Kansas and Nebraska continue to report improvement. Oklahoma and Texas have good prospects. Recent hail storms in Texas did little damage. The harvest in Texas has progressed to the middle and western sections.

Broomhall estimates world's shipments of wheat and flour for Monday (exclusive of North America) at 8,000,000 bu against 6,720,000 bu last week. Of this total Europe will take about 7,200,000 bu. Total shipments last week amounted to 10,048,000 bu and 12,284,000 bu last year. Arrivals of breadstuffs into the United Kingdom will aggregate about 6,000,000 bu. He predicts that there will be moderate changes in the quantity of breadstuffs on passage.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Turmoil of Gigantic Operations Rocks the Wheat Pit.

Chicago, May 27.—Gigantic transactions in wheat today startled observers who looked for a calm after yesterday's whirlwind. Trade was so vast and confusion so great that individual operations seemed hardly to count. Prices steadily plunged downward, and sometimes were at the same moment as much as 1½c apart for May in different sections of the pit.

One fact stood out sharply. There was forcing selling of wheat here on a large scale. The first element of steadiness in the market came from an unexpected quarter. An independent rally in the cereal pit suprised wheat speculators and temporarily at least led to a breathing spell for the harrassed bulls. The pause was the more noticeable as the upturn in the coarse grain was due to purchases by the firm of which the recent bull leader in wheat was a member.

The wheat market opene ½@1⅝c down with September at 91½@92½c, a drop of ½@1½c. The option fluctuated wildly within that range, and steadied to some extent finally at the upper figure. May at one time showed a fall of 1⅜@2c at $1.03¾, but rallied to $1.04⅝.

Suddenly the market turned weak again. Attempts to resell wheat bought early, found quotations with little support. Entire groups formed the bugport. Reports of a better cash demand, however, especially by millers afforded ground for some reaction later. The close, nevertheless, was weak, with September ½c net lower, and May showing a drop of 2⅜@3c at $1.02¾.

The corn market was subjected to a sharp bidding up process by brokers standing in a spectacularly concerted manner. If their motive was for effect on wheat, the plan proved highly effective and incidentally put up the price of corn 1c per bushel. September opened ¾@⅞c off at 58⅜@58⅝c, and then advanced to 59⅛c.

The corn market, however, became infected with the semi-panicky condition of wheat and slumped badly. There was a partial reaction late in the day. The close was comparatively steady at 58¼c for September, a net loss of ⅜c.

Selling was general in oats but of a scattered sort and resembled liquidation. September opened a shade lower to a shade higher, at 36⅛@36¼c, but influenced by corn, rallied to 36⅝c.

Trade in provisions was light, but price changes inclined upward. The opening was 2½c lower to 2½c higher and then the market advanced a little. September delivery reaching $22.10 for pork, $12.17½ for lard and $12.15 for ribs.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Trade Turns Panicky and July Quotations Go Down.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 27.—The wheat market today was of a panicky character. Fluctuations were sharp and wide. The price of July at one time was quoted in a range of ½c. Quotations today were the lowest on this crop. During the late session the market became oversold, and a slightly firmer tone ruled. July closed 1¼@1¼c lower than yesterday. Local elevator stocks decreased 725,000 bu for the week. Wheat and flour shipments so far were 480,359 bu in excess of the wheat receipts. Minneapolis today received 142 cars of wheat, against 202 cars a year ago; Duluth 9 cars, against 2 cars; and Winnipeg 59 cars, against 41 cars. May opened $1.04¼; high, $1.04⅝; low, $1.02½; closed, $1.03¾. July opened $1.04¼@1.04; high, $1.04¼, low, $1.02½; closed, $1.03⅜. September opened 92c; high, 93c; low, 91¼@91⅝c; closed, 92½c.

Cash wheat was easier. Demand was strong for choice grades only. It was hard to dispose of the lower varieties such as soft Minnesota. Durum wheat was a slow sale. No. 1 northern sold for 1@4c above the July option. Closing prices: No. 1 northern, $1.05@1.07; to arrive, $1.04⅞@1.06⅞; No. 2 northern, $1.03@1.05; to arrive, $1.02⅞@1.04⅞; No. 3 wheat, $1.00@1.02; No. 3 yellow corn, 54@54½c; No. 3 white oats, 35⅜@36⅝; No. 2 rye, 68@71c.

Flax—Receipts, 14 cars, year ago, 4; shipments, 1. Demand was strong for both spot and to arrive flax seed at 1c above the Duluth July. Offerings were light. Close, $2.16.

Barley—Receipts, 40 cars; year ago, 34; shipments, 45. A much easier tone ruled in barley today. Sales were made at prices about 2c lower than yesterday, but the official close was only 1c lower. Closing range, 49@59c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 2,318 tons; the market was steady with no quotable change. Bran in 100-pound sacks, $18.25@18.25.

Flour—Prices were lowered today on account of the further break in wheat. Millers and anticipate a better demand at the lower prices. Shipments were light, only 49,600 bbls. First patents in wood f. o. b. Minneapolis, $5.10@5.30; second patents, $4.90@5.10; first clears, $3.95@4.05; second clears, $2.80@3.10.

Cotton Market.

New York, May 27.—The cotton market opened steady owing to better cables than due, with May 2 points higher, but at a decline or 2@6 points on the general buying under the influence of "stop" and local bear pressure. Trading was quite active and excited right after the call and the whole list quickly weakened under apprehensions of further Chicago liquidation promoted by the selling of houses with Western connections and the favorable weather map. July broke to $14.70 or 16 points net lower, while the new crop sold off to a net decline of 6@7 points.

Futures closed steady; bids: May, 14.95; June, 14.85; July, 14.92; August, 14.38; September, 13.46; October, 12.75; November, 12.63; December, 12.55; January, 12.53; March, 12.56. Spot closed quiet, 5 points advance; middling uplands, 15.30; middling gulf, 15.55. Sales, 11,593.

DULLNESS IN STOCKS

Prices Yield Easily on Light Trading and Close Is Heavy.

Some Activity Shown at the Opening, But Does Not Last.

New York, May 27.—The opening stock market today was irregular within a narrow range and the dealings were quite active. The prominent speculative stocks were lower and the decline was extended after the opening. Union Pacific and Reading lost 1 and Southern Pacific, St. Paul, Baltimore & Ohio, Amalgamated Copper, American Smelting and International Mercantile Marine preferred large fractions. New York, Chicago and St. Louis and American Hide and Leather preferred rose 1 and American Car ¾.

Stock was supplied in abundance and prices went materially lower. Union Pacific showed a loss of 1½, St. Paul 1¼ and Atchison, Baltimore & Ohio, Northern Pacific, Canadian Pacific, United States Steel, Consolidated Gas and others a point. Buying for both accounts caused a considerable fractional rally, after which the market became very dull. Brooklyn Union Gas gained 1½.

Professional operators professed disappointment over the lack of response to the St. Paul deal sale. The settlement in the cotton and grain markets was supposed to throw some pressure on stocks. Prices had recovered pretty well before noon but business shrank to nominal proportions. American Locomotive, American Cotton Oil, Pullman and Pressed Steel Car preferred gained 1. Bonds were steady.

The railroad stocks were neglected but several minor specialties were strong. American Hide & Leather preferred advanced 2, and Consolidated Gas 1¼.

The market closed heavy and dull. Prices yielded easily on light dealings, falling to low points in some cases. Virginia-Carolina Chemical rose 1¼. Allis-Chalmers preferred fell 1½ and Missouri Pacific and Kansas & Texas 1.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.

DEFAULT has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage executed by Stephen Zgonc, mortgagor, to A. L. Rogers, mortgagee, bearing date March 25th, 1909, recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of St. Louis County, Minnesota, on March 25th, 1909, in Book 261 of Mortgages on page 300.

Said default consists in the non-payment of a certain note of $800.00, dated March 25th, 1909, due May 1, 1910, executed and delivered by said Stephen Zgonc to said A. L. Rogers, which note is secured by said mortgage.

Said mortgage was assigned by said A. L. Rogers to Phillip C. Schmidt by written assignment dated January 18th, 1910, recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of said St. Louis County, Minnesota, on May 10th, 1910, in Book 188 of Mortgages on page 456. Said mortgage was assigned by said Philip C. Schmidt to Sattler Brothers Company, a corporation, by written assignment dated May 9th, 1910, recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of said St. Louis County, Minnesota, on May 10th, 1910, in Book 188 of Mortgages on page 457.

By reason of such default, the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise has ever been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage.

The property described in said mortgage and thereby mortgaged, is Lot seven (7) in Block sixteen (16), Chisholm, and Lot twelve (12) in Block three (3), Second Addition to Chisholm, according to the respective plats thereof on file and of record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for St. Louis County, Minnesota subject to mineral reservations made by former owners thereof.

There is claimed to be due and is due upon said mortgage at the date of this notice the sum of $842.66.

Now, therefore, NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises above described, which sale will be made at public auction to the highest bidder for cash by the Sheriff of St. Louis County, Minnesota, at the Front Door of the Sheriff's Office in the County Court House at Duluth, Minnesota, upon Monday, the 27th day of June, 1910, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to satisfy the amount due on said mortgage and $50.00 attorneys' fees as provided by said mortgage, together with the costs and disbursements allowed by law.

Dated this 13th day of May, 1910.

"INSURGENT" CALLED TO MEET ROOSEVELT SOON AS HE RETURNS

Member of House Admits He Has Received Letter From Europe.

Declares Ex-President Will Join Forces Against "Regulars."

Is Old Time Political Friend of the Traveling Rough Rider.

Washington, May 28.—Ex-President Roosevelt has written a letter from London to a prominent Republican "insurgent" member of the house of representatives requesting the latter to meet him in conference as soon after the ex-president's arrival in New York on June 18 as possible.

Mr. Roosevelt's letter indicates that he is desirous of clearing the "insurgent" situation in the house from first hands as soon as possible after his return to this country.

The member receiving the letter declined to allow the use of his name in connection with it, as he said it might prove embarrassing for both Mr. Roosevelt and himself if made known at this time. He did, however, show the letter to one or two persons with the injunction that they should not disclose its text.

Long Time Political Friend.

It is known that there has been an interchange of letters between this member and the ex-president since the latter's arrival in Europe. The "insurgent" is a long-time personal friend of Mr. Roosevelt, and for that reason has not hesitated about advising the ex-president unreservedly about the various political events which have transpired since Mr. Roosevelt's departure for Africa a year ago.

In response to Mr. Roosevelt's request, the "insurgent member" has made a hotel reservation in New York for June 18.

This member expressed no doubt whatever that Mr. Rosevelt would support the cause of the house insurgents, and prophesied that he would be found making a few speeches this fall in the districts represented by "insurgents" who might be in danger of defeat.

"Whatever else may have been charged," said this member, "Mr. Roosevelt has never been accused of ingratitude toward his friends."

ECUADOR AND PERU WARLIKE

South American Countries Seem Determined to Fight.

Washington, May 28.—Official dispatches received at the state department from both Lima, Peru, and Quito, Ecuador, indicate that warlike preparations between Peru and Ecuador are being rapidly pushed forward and that a conflict seems inevitable.

Sail for Edinburgh.

Philadelphia, May 28.—A delegation of leading churchmen from the South left on the steamship Merion today for the world's missionary conference in Edinburgh, Scotland, next month. More than 1,200 Americans will attend the conference.

NEAR END OF ARGUMENTS

Ballinger-Pinchot Committee Then Will Receive Briefs of Case.

Vertrees Continues His Defense of Secretary of the Interior.

Washington, May 28.—Argument of counsel before the Ballinger-Pinchot investigating committee probably will be concluded today. John J. Vertress, attorney for Secretary Ballinger, who began his closing argument for the "defense" yesterday, taking up then the question of the secretary's action in regard to water power sites, is expected to conclude by discussing Mr. Ballinger's attitude toward the Cunningham claims in Alaska. He will be followed by Louis D. Brandeis and George W. Pepper, attorneys for the "prosecution," who will present half hour rebuttals to the arguments of Mr. Vertrees.

Fifteen days will be allowed for the attorneys to file with the committee any briefs they may desire to present as evidence in connection with the investigation. Then the committee will begin to sift the vast bulk of evidence presened on each side. It is not known yet whether the committee will be ready to present a report on the matter to the present session of congress.

Senator Nelson Absent.

When the committee met today, Representative McCall of Massachusetts,

FIRST PREMIER OF THE UNITED SOUTH AFRICA

GEN. LOUIS BOTHA.

Cape Town, May 28.—Gen. Louis Botha, premier of the Transvaal, has been summoned to form the first ministry of United South Africa, of which Viscount Gladstone is the first governor general. Cape Town will be the seat of legislation and Pretoria the seat of the executive government.

LAWLER SAYS HE IS SORRY

Assistant Attorney General Apologizes for His Statements.

Withdraws Part of Testimony When Sued for Slander By Writer.

Washington, May 28.—Oscar Lawler, assistant attorney-general for the interior department, today said he had sent to the Ballinger-Pinchot investigating committee and to Christopher P. Connolly and James B. Connolly, a letter disavowing any intention of doing the Messrs. Connolly an injury in his testimony before the committee and withdrawing his remarks with an apology.

Sued by Connolly.

Christopher P. Connolly, a lawyer of Montana and New York and a writer for magazines, has filed suit in the supreme court of the District of Columbia to recover $20,000 damages for alleged slander from Oscar Lawler, assistant attorney general for the interior department. This is the first of the threatened legal proceedings growing out of the Ballinger-Pinchot inquiry. It was rumored around the court that Secretary Ballinger was prepared to invoke the law against some of his alleged traducers.

The basis of the action is the testimony given by Mr. Lawler, May 17, before the Ballinger-Pinchot joint committee, wherein Mr. Lawler is alleged to have referred to Mr. Connolly

SUICIDE TAKEN FOR LEON LING

New York Police Finally Find Dead Oriental Is Japanese.

New York, May 28.—Descriptions of an Oriental who committed suicide by jumping in front of a subway train on the Broadway line late last night were compared carefully today with the description of Leon Ling, widely sought for months on a charge of having murdered Elsie Sigel. The descriptions were finally decided not to be identical. The suicide, it developed, was a Japanese.

CASHIER MULLIN GETS FIVE YEARS

Misapplication of Funds of Pennsylvania Bank His Offense.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 28.—Charles E. Mullin, former cashier of the Farmers' & Merchants' National Bank of Mount Pleasant, Pa., who was found guilty by a jury in the United States district court of misapplying the funds of the bank, was today sentenced to five years in the United States penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan. Mullin has been tried twice, the first trial being reheard.

FIND FAULT WITH RICHES

Presbyterians Adopt Declaration That Wealth Is Not Divided Rightly.

Take Stand on Industrial Matters---May Meet in Chicago Next.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 28.—The Presbyterian general assembly sought to finish all remaining business at this morning's session in order that final adjournment may be taken. The principal question yet to be decided is the place for holding the next assembly. Chicago is the favorite and probably will be chosen.

The report of the committee on social problems, adopted by the assembly, says:

"The church declares that the getting of wealth must be in obedience to Christian ideals, and that all wealth, from whatever source acquired, must be held or administered as a trust from God for the good of fellow man. The church protests against undue desire for wealth, untempered pursuit of gain, and the immoderate exaltation of riches, and calls for a more equitable distribution of wealth.

For Industrial Reforms.

"The church declares for the abolition of child labor—that is, the protection of children from exploitation in industry and trade, and from work that is dwarfing, degrading or morally unwholesome.

WOULD NOT EAT WITH MR. ERDER

Mrs. Doxey's Conduct Is Recounted By Aunt of Dead Man.

St. Louis, May 28.—William J. Erder, for whose death Mrs. Dora E. Doxey is now on trial, thought it strange that his wife did not eat the same food she served him, according to the testimony today.

Mrs. Frances Connelly of St. Louis county, an aunt, testified that her nephew said to her:

"Isn't it strange that Dora does not eat what she serves me?"

The state charges that Mrs. Doxey fed Erder arsenic in the form of cacodylate of soda.

The trial is expected to end early next week. Judge Grimm said today before court opened that if the case is not submitted to the jury by Tuesday he will hold night sessions.

With the presence by her side of her aged father and her two sisters, Mrs. Doxey retained her rather exuberant spirits. She followed the state's witnesses closely, with frequent suggestions to her attorneys.

MAN KILLED; WIFE DYING

Baby Is Only One to Escape Unharmed in Runaway Accident.

William Townsley of Berlin, N. D., Dead---Six Children in Family.

Lamoure, N. D., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Townsley of Berlin, this county, was killed and his wife so seriously injured that her life is despaired of, while their 3-months old child escaped with hardly a bruise, when the team behind which they were riding ran away today. When William Carpenter came up a short time afterwards, he found only the little child conscious, the father and mother lying under the wagon. Townsley died six hours after the accident.

There are six children in the family, the oldest 13 years old. Relatives in Iowa have been notified and are coming to take charge.

MILL CITY FIRE LOSS $750,000

St. Paul Department Has to Send Help in Fighting the Flames.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire which started at 1 o'clock this morning and burned fiercely was not got under control until 3 a. m., after burning down four large implement warehouses and other pieces of property, entailing a loss of about $750,000, according to last estimates.

But one man, Christ Madison, 2718 Harriet avenue, was burned. His condition is serious.

The fire started from an unknown cause in the warehouse of the Great Northern Implement company. The burned district is bounded by Washington avenue and Third street and Sixth and Seventh avenues south. The implement warehouses burned were:

The Rock island, the Great Northern, the Waterbury and the Northwestern. The Sixth avenue hotel was practically destroyed.

Three engines were detailed from St. Paul to help fight the flames.

The pricipal losses are:

Northern Rock Island Plow company, $200,000.

Great Northern Implement company, $250,000.

The loss on the building owned by C. W. Wright, Saginaw, Mich., $200,000.

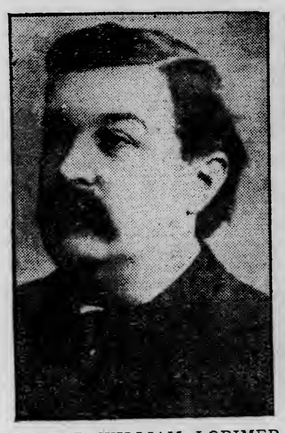
Yale Clubs at Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., May 28.—The Associated Western Yale clubs held their annual meeting here today, with President Arthur T. Hadley as the principal guest of honor, and several hundred Yale graduates in attendance.

SENATOR LORIMER FLAYS MEN WHO CHARGE BRIBERY IN HIS ELECTION IN SPEECH UPON FLOOR OF SENATE

SENATOR AND ONE OF HIS "ENEMIES"



SENATOR WILLIAM LORIMER Of Illinois.

CHARLES S. DENEEN, Governor of Illinois.

Uses Bitter Invective in Personal Attack on Medill McCormick.

Declares Charges Are Result of His Refusal to Bow to Newspaper.

Deneen, Busse and Hopkins His Enemies---White Bitterly Scored.

Washington, May 28.—Strenuous denial of the charge that he had obtained his seat in the United States senate through bribery and corruption was made before that body today, by William Lorimer of Illinois. Soon after the assembling of the senate Mr. Lorimer arose to a question of personal privilege, and began his reply to the charges that have aroused wide interest.

His statement upon the floor of the senate had been eagerly awaited by his colleagues, of whom there was practically a full attendance, and earnest attention was given him.

Mr. Lorimer confined himself closely to his manuscript. He spoke in distinct tone of voice and notwithstanding his delivery was somewhat monotonous he commanded close attention.

Members of House Present.

Most of the senators were in their seats, and included among the outside auditors was practically the entire Illinois delegation in the house of representatives. Mr. Lorimer's colleague, Senator Cullom, also was among the interested listeners.

Senator Lorimer spoke from his seat in the rear of the extreme right side of the chamber. When the suggestion was made that he should take a more central position he said he considered it preferable for present purposes to speak from his own seat.

Foremost in the answer of the senator to the charge stood his assertion that it had been formulated by the Chicago Tribune with the purpose of destroying a new banking association

WRITES PROTEST IN HIS OWN BLOOD

Chinese Official Joins Protest Against the Foreign Loan.

Pekin, May 28.—The opposition of the gentry and other popular leaders in Hunan and Honan provinces to the acceptance by the Chinese government of the Hankow-Sze Chuen railway loan has not diminished. On the contrary, the anti-foreign sentiment regarding this particular subject is becoming more pronounced.

This extremely hostile feeling was expressed in a startling manner recently. President Siu Chi-Tchang of the board of communications, received a letter from the leader of the opposition in Hunan province protesting against the conclusion of the loan. The communication was written in the blood of the writer's severed finger.

SEVENTY STRIKE AND 1,400 MEN ARE IDLE.

Toledo, Ohio, May 28.—Fourteen hundred men were thrown out of work here today at the National Malleable Casting company plant, when seventy laborers in the moulders' department struck for higher wages. The company refused to grant the demands and shut down the plant. It is expected that the company will reopen next week.

BERTH RATE CASE HELD UP

Hearing of Application for Injunction Postponed at St. Paul.

Great Northern Will Seek to Intervene in Action at Chicago.

St. Paul, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judges Sanborn, Adams and Hook of the United States circuit court today postponed the hearing of the application of the Great Northern Railway company for an injunction to restrain the interstate commerce commission from putting into effect the reduction in sleeping car rates, until June 6.

The hearing was postponed at the suggestion of Judge Sanborn, the other judges consenting, in order to permit the Great Northern to go to Chicago to ask to be allowed to intervene in a similar case before the court there, and get a hearing. If the court at Chicago allows the intervention, the case here will be dismissed.

One Set of Records.

Judge Sanborn said that if the Great Northern railway was allowed to come in as an intervenor in the Chicago case it could present its arguments and then, if an appeal was to be taken, one set of records would do for both cases. If the court at Chicago refuses to allow the road to intervene the case will be taken up here at the time stated.

W. S. Kenyon, assisant to Attorney General Wickersham of Washington, and P. J. Farrell, also of Washington, represented the interstate commerce commission; E. C. Lindsley and J. H. Armstrong, the Great Northern railway, and T. J. Norton, the Santa Fe Railway company.

MADRIZ FORCES CAPTURE CITY

Bluefields Is Taken, But Estrada Declares He Is Not Beaten Yet.

Bluefields, Nicaragua, May 28.—The government forces, under cover of the fire of the gunboat San Jacinto, yesterday routed the insurgents and captured Bluefields. This loss of the Estrada forces probably ends the revolution.

The Estrada gunboats Blunca and Ometepe escaped up the Escondido river.

The government generals, Larado and Chyarria, have not yet attacked Rama, which is in the hands of the revolutionists.

Gen. Estrada takes his defeat calmly at Bluefields. He says he intends to make further resistance. No damage has been done to American property here.

BREAK RECORDS TO SEE SICK DAUGHTER.

Chicago, May 28.—Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Chalmers reached the bedside of their daughter, Mrs. Norman Williams, Jr., today, having made the trip from Carlsbad, Germany, in the record time of 184 hours. Mr. and Mrs. Chalmers began the journey upon receipt of a telegram that Mrs. Williams was in a serious condition as the result of an operation for appendicitis. Today the daughter was found in an encouraging condition, her recovery being predicted.

KAISER DISABLED BY BITE ON HAND

Insect Leaves Wound That Calls for Work By Physicians.

Berlin, May 28.—Emperor William is experiencing some inconvenience because of an eruption on the right hand caused by the bite of an insect. The court physicians state there is no danger of serious consequences from the irritation, which they expect will disappear within a few days. They have, however, opened and treated the affected part against the possible development of blood poisoning.

For the time being his majesty has delegated the signature of state documents to Crown Prince Frederick William, and all urgent decrees will appear with the double signatures of the crown prince and the imperial chancellor, Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, preceded by the notation: "By order of the emperor."

This is the first occasion during the reign of the emperor upon which the documents of state have received other than his majesty's autograph.

WOMEN FIGHT FOREST FIRE

Keep Flames at Bay in Birchwood Park Until Help Arrives.

Settlement Near End of Woodland Car Line Loses But Two Houses.

Forest fires wiped out two homes and nearly swept away the settlement of Birchwood park, about half a mile from the end of the Woodland avenue car line yesterday afternoon. Only the efforts of firemen sent out by the local department saved the remaining dwellings from destruction.

Five men were sent out in response to urgent telephone calls. They didn't take any heavy apparatus with them. When they reached the scene of the conflagration two houses were burning so fiercely that it was impossible to save them. They directed their efforts to preventing a spread of flames and rapidly improvised a temporary fire line about the settlement.

From the reports brought into fire headquarters no men were at home when the fire reached the settlement. The women were doing their best to fight the flames and it is said that they rendered much valuable assistance to the firemen. The firemen stayed at the settlement until late last night, when all danger was past.

DEMONSTRATION WAS REALISTIC

Auto Owner Broke Springs Showing City Officials Rough Road.

Olof G. Olson and R. E. Patterson of the board of public works got acquainted with the condition of London road between Ninth and Fourteenth avenues east in a realistic manner yesterday afternoon.

One of the oldermen took them out to see the thoroughfare in his automobile. He cautioned the driver to go as slow as possible, but despite the admonition the machine seemed to persist in jarring the occupants so hard that they thought several times they would be bounced to the pavement, according to one of them. Suddenly they felt something give. Climbing out they learned that the springs had broken. So they descended to the level of other citizens and made the rest of the inspection on foot.

DULUTH TO HONOR MEN WHO FOUGHT TO SAVE THE UNION

Memorial Day Will Be Appropriately Observed in the City.

Nearly All Business Places Will Close for the Day.

All is ready for the proper observance of Memorial day as planned by the members of the Grand Army of the Republic and their associate bodies. The day will be appropriately observed. Everybody will turn out to honor the dead and the living.

The graves of the departed will be decked with flags and flowers and in memory of those who lost their lives on the water, flowers will be thrown on the waters of the lake. The parade of military and civil odganizations will be held in the morning.

The exercises at the First Methodist church will take place at 10:30. The exercises at the Central high school, which will be for the school children taking part in the program, will be at the same time. M. B. Cullum will preside at the church meeting and S. S. Williamson will preside at the high school gathering.

Yesterday in all the public schools appropriate exercises were held. The old soldiers spoke to the children, and in their turn the children spoke patriotic pieces and read patriotic speeches and sang patriotic songs.

Monday nearly all the stores will be closed. Nearly every one will be at liberty to spend the day as he sees fit. There will be one delivery of mail in the residence district, and two in the business district Monday morning. The general delivery window at the postoffice will be open from 10 to 11 a. m.

EVERYONE IS INNOCENT

Nobody Will Admit Having Attended Hibbing Fight, Says Sheriff.

Willing to Make Arrests If Anybody Will Swear Out Warrant.

Sheriff William J. Bates returned from Hibbing last night, where he went to investigate the fight that was held there some days ago between Daugherty of Milwaukee and Jimmy Potts of Minneapolis.

The sheriff says that to all appearances no fight occurred, although he says it must have taken place. "I could find no one who would admit having attended the fight," says the sheriff, "and the promoters cannot be located.

"I am perfectly willing to arrest those who took part, the promoters or the spectators if some one will swear out the warrant. I did not know of the fight and of course could not stop it. If I had known there was to be an affair of that kind I certainly would not have allowed it to go on.

"It is a hard matter to watch this entire county and I cannot be everywhere at once. I want to enforce the law and these fights must stop. I have had no word of any kind from the governor. Everybody in Hibbing looks as innocent as though they never heard the word, prizefight."

ANNUAL CONVENTION.

The Episcopal Diocese Will Hold Yearly Session in Duluth.

The fifteenth annual convention of the Episcopal diocese of Duluth will be held in Duluth next Wednesday.

The principal feature of Wednesday's program will be an address to the pastors of the diocese in the Pro-Cathedral by the Rt. Rev. Cameron Mann, bishop of North Dakota. The meetings of the trustees of the diocese, the board of missions and the standing committees will be held May 31.

Following the convention a dinner will be served at 7 p. m., by the women of St. Paul's church, and the Pro-Cathedral. Afterward the report of the diocesan commission will be read and addresses will be delivered by Bishop Mann, Archdeacon Pearshall, Rev. F. C. Coolbaugh and Richard Close. The banner of the diocese will be presented by Bishop Morrison of Duluth to the Sunday school entitled to its possession. The bishop will deliver an address in the bishop's chapel at 9:30 o'clock Thursday morning. The women's auxiliary of the diocese will hold a business session at the conclusion of the address. Mrs. Cameron Mann will speak and Deaconess Routledge, missionary of the Philippines with headquarters at Manilla, will deliver an address.

Bishop and Mrs. Morrison and Bishop and Mrs. Mann will hold a reception at the episcopal residence, Thursday evening from 8 to 10 o'clock. The delegates to the convention, the women's auxiliary and their friends are invited.

GOVERNOR AT WALKER.

Will Address the Graduating Class and the Editors.

Walker, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Eberhart expects to fill two engagements here next week, on Friday evening to deliver the address at the graduating exercises and on the day following to attend the editor's outing at Glengarry clubhouse, where he will speak at a banquet given that evening. The governor has stated that he means to take advantage of the fine fishing in Leech lake during his stay here.

Mrs. Maud Sibley Recommended.

Washington, May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Steenerson today recommended Mrs. Maud Sibley to be postmistress at Island lake to succeed her husband, F. O. Sibley, deceased.

NOTICE!

The offices of Duluth Edison Electric Co. will be closed all day Monday, Decoration day.

MARINE NEWS

TWO CARGOES OF GRAIN TAKEN DOWN THE LAKES.

Two cargoes of grain have left the Duluth harbor in the last twenty-four hours. The Parks Foster and the Neptune cleared from here late yesterday for Buffalo. With the exception of these vessels, there has been very little demand for charters.

The grain rate is quoted at 1¾ cents at the present time, with very little wheat in sight. The present week has shown no change in the situation.

The congestion in the East will, grain men believe, prevent a heavy demand for grain from Chicago.

FLEET HERE BECAUSE OF SOO BLOCKADE.

The delay the past two days at the Soo has resulted in an unusually large number of boats being gathered at the Head of the Lakes at the present time. With no work at the docks tomorrow, it is believed that there will be a large number of freighters waiting to load Monday morning.

While the delay at the Soo was not serious, vessel men arriving here today state that there were a large number of vessels tied up there, and that even now there is some delay in getting through.

STEAMER JOSEPH WOOD HERE ON MAIDEN TRIP.

The steamer Joseph Wood, a new Hanna boat, came up this morning on its first trip. The Joseph Wood was built the past winter, and the present trip up the lakes is the first long water trial of the new boat.

The big boat came up with a load of coal, passing the Peter Reiss, another new vessel on its maiden trip down the lakes, a short distance from the canal.

The Joseph Wood will take a load of ore down today or Monday.

COMPLETING ITS DREDGING CONTRACT.

The Northern Dredge & Dock company is at the present time finishing some dredging work at Ontonagon, and will shortly take up a dredging contract at Ashland. The contract at Ashland is for a private concern.

MARINE REVIEW RED BOOK FOR 1910 ISSUED.

The Great Lakes Red Book published by the Marine Review of Cleveland, is just out. This is about the handiest little publication issued devoted to lake trade. It gives a list of over 1,000 vessels on the Great Lakes with the name of owner, captain and engineer of each vessel, so adroitly indexed that reference to one vessel gives access to the entire fleet to which it belongs.

"WHITE RATS" HOLD "SCAMPER"

Unique Gathering in the Basement of the Bijou Theater.

After the show was over, after the last encore, there was a scampering of White Rats in the basement of the Bijou theater last night, that was "some scamper."

Herbert Albini, president of the national stage order of White Rats, who has been entertaining Bijou patrons this week, and Joe Maitland, manager of the house, were the hosts, and the joys of the scamper included things to eat, things to drink, things that were to laugh at and things to amaze. The scores of guests, representing visiting stage folk and varied walks of life in Duluth, enjoyed them all.

When the viands and the beverages had done their duty, the attention of the guests was diverted to a kankaroo court, presided over by Judge Albini, who assessed fines right and left with a generous disposition to overlook as few of those present as possible.

Later all adjourned to the auditorium, and clever entertainers sang, acted and performed tricks until well along in the morning, when the scamperers scampered home.

During the evening, solid silver purses were presented as tokens of appreciation by the White Rats, to Mrs. Maitland, and Mrs. Fred Snyder, her sister, whose husband is leader of the Bijou orchestra.

It was a unique entertainment throughout and one that will long be remembered by those fortunate enough to receive invitations.

BOARD WILL HAVE A QUIET MEETING

But Little Business to Be Transacted By County Commissioners.

There will be a quiet meeting of the county commissioners on June 7.

Very little new business has been filed as yet with J. O. Walker, clerk of the board. There is a matter of some bridge contracts in Commissioner Tischer's district. The contracts will probably be let at the meeting.

The settlers wish a bridge constructed over the Little Sucker river and also one over the main river. The matter of a bridge over Schmidt's creek will also be taken up.

So far as is known at this time there will be but little business transacted outside the regular routine.

SENSATION NOT ENDED.

Salacious Butte Divorce Case Is Still Hanging Fire.

Butte, Mont., May 28.—The famous Bordeaux divorce case came to an abrupt end here Thursday after eleven years of litigation when Judge J. Miller Smith of Helena dismissed the proceeding after the jury had failed to reach a verdict, and after the attorneys had asked him to give a verdict.

In 1899, John Bordeaux, capitalist of this city, began a suit for divorce from his wife, Ella, on statutory grounds, naming the editor of a morning paper as his charges causing a sensation in society circles. Mrs. Bordeaux was allowed alimony of $100 a month, which sum she has received up to the present time, despite the strenous efforts of Bordeaux to have the order set aside.

Bordeaux was awarded a divorce, but the supreme court, after the case had been brought before it a half dozen times on various motions, remanded it for a retrial. Counsel for Bordeaux and for Mrs. Bordeaux will appeal from Judge Smith's ruling to the supreme court.

HOTEL HOLLAND

Located on the Northwest Corner of Fifth Avenue West and Superior Street.

BRAY & NYSTROM, Architects.

HOTEL HOLLAND, Duluth's splendid new hostelry Located on the northwest corner of Superior street and Fifth avenue west, a site generally conceded to be one of the best in the central business section of the city.

Hotel Holland is a magnificent triumph of modern hotel architecture, a model of beauty and quiet elegance, notable for its spaciousness, its perfection of convenience, and patterned throughout to the best dictates of a discerning taste. Its keynote is luxury and taste, but everywhere conformable to practical requirements.

Within a radius of two blocks are located the passenger stations of all the incoming and outgoing railroads, passenger docks, government and county buildings, proposed city hall, Lyceum theater, Commercial club, prominent office buildings, shopping and wholesale district making it an ideal location that will appeal both to the business man and the tourist.

The hotel will contain 150 rooms with and without baths. Running hot and cold water, local and long distance telephone connections, and outside exposure in every room. The bathrooms are all equipped with the latest sanitary plumbing. A particular feature of the bathroom is a stationary shower above each tub.

The management, being solicitous for the comfort and welfare of its lady guests, has provided a retiring room. It is situated at the rear of the hunters' room. A maid will be in constant attendance.

An entirely separate floor has been devoted to the servants' quarters, provided with every comfort and convenience.

The management has been extremely successful in procuring the most capable and efficient assistance in their respective departments: L. E. Burr, assistant manager and chief clerk, late of the Chamberlain, Des Moines, Iowa; E. A. Coleman, chef, formerly with the Seelbach of Louisville, International of Niagara Falls, Albany of Denver, Country Club of Cleveland, Ohio, and Carling's of St. Paul; John Frch, head baker, formerly of the Sherman House and Auditorium of Chicago.

The management, in its ceaseless and untiring efforts, has endeavored to give Duluth a hostelry unsurpassed in its completeness and befitting the rapid and progressive development of the city.

The new Hotel Holland is owned by S. I. Levine and was built expressly for the Hotel Holland company.

This magnificent structure was designed by Bray & Nystrom, local architects. It is of reinforced concrete, vitrified brick and terra cotta. The only woodwork in the entire construction are its doors and exterior window casings. The floors of the rooms and hall are of cement construction. The floors of the cafes, gentlemen's grille, lobby, kitchen, bar, and cigar store are all of tile, insuring absolute cleanliness and sanitation. There are fireproof doors leading to the boiler and engine rooms, kitchen, elevator shafts and the baggage room. The hollow tile partitions between all rooms make each room an absolutely fire-proof compartment by itself. The beautifully designed iron stair case running through the building is another feature in fire-proof construction. It can be readily seen that every scientific improvement in modern fire-proof construction has been advantageously utilized.

The architects have taken extra precautions in the ventilating system throughout the building. The atmospheric condition in the boiler, engine, store and wine rooms and bakery, all located in the basement, in the cafes, bar, kitchen and public toilets on the first floor; also the lobby, parlor and parlor floor rooms are all furnished with pure fresh air driven by two large fans. Three immense exhaust fans discharge all of the foul air in the building. These fans are operated by electricity and are situated on the roof.

All the doors are solid panels of birch mahogany. The woodwork in the interior of the rooms is finished in the natural, while the exterior facing in the halls is finished in the mahogany, producing a very attractive effect.

The ladies' parlor is so situated that it gives a full view of Fifth avenue, and also overlooks the lobby, by means of beautifully latticed Dutch windows.

The foundation work and floor loads are constructed so as to make this a ten-story building, should the progress of Duluth warrant it. Plans for additional floors have already been drawn. Further provision has been made, should these plans be carried out, to increase the size of the heating, electrical and cold storage plants, as well as the elevators and ventilating systems.

GENERAL CONTRACTORS.

MacLeod & Smith of this city are the general contractors for the building. The building is constructed of what is known as reinforced concrete construction, and the Turner System of reinforcing was used.

The firm of MacLeod & Smith are also the contractors for the new Fidelity building, for which Messrs. Bray & Nystrom have prepared the plans. This building, also, will be constructed of reinforced concrete, and the Turner System of reinforcing will be used.

Another building of the same construction, and also being constructed by MacLeod & Smith, is the Puritan block, owned by the Davis Realty company of Boston, and which will be occupied by Schultze Bros. of this city.

Ground has been broken for another warehouse to be located on Michigan street, between Lake avenue and First avenue east. The owners of this building are Messrs. James Young and Nicholas Witt. MacLeod & Smith are the contractors, and the plans will be prepared by Bray & Nystrom, architects.

Until two years ago there was only one building of reinforced concrete in the city of Duluth—the warehouse of the Duluth Van & Storage company. Since that time there have been built the Christie building, the Hormel building, the Elks' building, the Holland hotel, the Soo depot, the Sherwood building, MacLeod & Smith's building, the Puritan block, the addition to the Duluth Van & Storage company's building, the Young & Witt building and the Fidelity building. All the above mentioned buildings, which are completed or under construction, are of the reinforced concrete type, showing its remarkable gain in popularity in this short time.

ELECTRICAL WIRING AND POWER PLANT.

The complete installation of electrical work was installed by the Duluth Electrical company.

The power plant consisting two 50 kilowatt direct current Crocker-Wheeler generators, each direct connected to a 12 by 12 Ames high speed automatic engine, furnishes current for all lights throughout the building, also the power for operating ventilating fans, elevators, and refrigerating machinery.

The engines are fitted with the Ames automatic oiling system, Armstrong governor, indicator piping and reducing motion.

The refrigerating plant is operated by two Crocker-Wheeler direct current compound wound motors.

The switchboard consisting of three panels of polished slate is so arranged that both generators can be operated together or singly; it is also arranged with two sets of bus bars, and all circuits feeding motors are controlled by double pole double throw switches, so that same can be operated from either the power bus bar or the light bus bar.

Two 600 ampheres switchboard type Duncan wattmeters are installed on the board for measuring the current used throughout the building.

Wiring for the lighting system is arranged so that same can be operated either on 110 volts two wire or 220 volts three wire.

There is a distribution panel located on each floor and from this panel the branch wires for lights are installed in iron conduit, laid in the concrete slabs and tile partitions.

Mr. Levine has spared no initial expense in this electrical installation, and the Duluth Electrical company claims it is the most economical and modern plant in the Northwest.

HARDWARE CONTRACT.

All the hardware for the Holland hotel was furnished by the Quayle-Larsen company, 23 Second avenue west, which firm makes a specialty of builders' hardware and contractors' supplies. Although only one and one-half years in business at its present location, the Quayle-Larsen company has furnished hardware for over 200 buildings and residences in this city and on the ranges. The firm will occupy, shortly, the entire Superior and Michigan street floors and subbasement of the new six-story Fidelity building now under construction between Lake avenue and First avenue west. The Hotel Holland, Commercial club building, Christie building, two city school buildings, Eveleth high school building and a large number of Duluth's new residences were fitted out with the famous Sargent hardware, handled by the Quayle-Larsen company.

DECORATING AND FINISHING.

Cowen & Zimmerman did all the decorating in the Holland hotel, also all the wall work, wood finishing and special mural decorations in the cafe. The firm is now fully prepared to compete with all of the larger firms in their line, and cater specially to work in fine residences, public buildings, churches, etc.

Cowen & Zimmerman (formerly Zimmerman & Jackson), while quite young, feel as if they are entitled to recognition from the general public. Starting only three years ago in a little room 24 by 45, using only one-half the space, on First avenue west, the firm is now nicely situated at 531 East Superior street, in a two-story building, with a floor space of 50 by 90, where it is making alterations to enlarge its upholstering, refurnishing and drapery, having rooms to handle its work with greater dispatch.

We call your attention to the beautiful sketches that appear on the walls of the grille room, that were done by us; it is worth your while.

THE FURNISHINGS.

The new Hotel Holland was furnished by French & Bassett of this city with furniture, carpets, rugs, draperies, window shades, brass beds, box springs and mattresses, portable reading lamps, etc. The general design is colonial—the bedrooms will contain handsome dull mahogany colonial scroll dressers, boltless construction satin finished brass beds, handmade box springs, mahogany wardrobes, trunk stands, desk tables, rockers and chairs—besides electric portable reading lamps. The rugs are Hartford Saxony rugs in handsome rich colorings and designs.

The furniture in the hotel lobby is of solid mahogany, specially designed and constructed—upholstered pieces are in Spanish leather—making a beautiful homelike looking room, specially inviting.

The parlors are furnished with dull mahogany colonial design pieces upholstered in panne plush, with beautiful Hartford Saxony rugs, velour draperies over imported Madras cloth; on each floor is an elevator parlor or small waiting room, also in solid mahogany, with Hartford Saxony rugs, specially designed; furniture upholstered in panne plush.

The hunters' room is furnished with specially designed and constructed furniture, beautifully finished in Austrian gray—all from designs and sketches furnished by French & Bassett.

The Holland room is particularly attractive, the furniture being from designs furnished by French & Bassett showing the Holland style of architecture—specially designed and constructed furniture, the chairs upholstered with delft leather, windows hung with Austrian shade cloth and covered with specially designed lace panels, the entire scheme being new and novel and specially attractive.

The hallways are all carpeted in plain green Hartford carpet. The entire scheme of furnishing has been well carried out and does great credit to the big house furnishing firm of French & Bassett.

ROOFING, DOORS AND WINDOWS.

The steel doors, fireproof windows, roofing and cornice work of the Hotel Holland were all furnished by W. D. Callan, 113½ West First street. A contract of this nature is a special feature in the construction of the modern fireproof buildings and in this particular case was carried out with dispatch and to the complete satisfaction of the architects and owners. Mr. Callan has within the past two years furnished the sheet metal work for a large number of flat buildings, residences and business blocks.

PLUMBING AND HEATING.

The plumbing and heating in the Hotel Holland was installed by the D. R. Black company. The heating consisting of the Warren Webster Vacuum heating system, using the exhaust steam from the electric generators and pump for heating the building, instead of live steam, which enables the building to be heated to a temperature of 72 deg. in the coldest winter weather at atmospheric pressure, thus making the consumption of fuel very economical and the saving of 10 to 25 per cent over the ordinary heating system. Every precaution has been taken to make this heating apparatus second to none.

The plumbing is of the latest and most modern type. Bathrooms being equipped off of each apartment with porcelain bath tubs of the latest type, and each individual room being supplied with a porcelain lavatory, supplied with hot and cold water throughout. The main bathroom off the hall is equipped with modern needle overhead showers and porcelain bath tubs. Each floor is also equipped with public toilet rooms, with tile floors, for ladies and gentlemen. The entire work was done under the personal supervision of Mr. Black, who is president of the company. From a sanitary point of view, nothing has been left undone to make it first-class in every respect.

TILING AND MARBLE.

The Dunlop-Moore company furnished all hollow tile fireproofing, asbestone, sanitary floors and base for toilet and bath rooms, also the marble work for the lobby, stairs, grille room and restaurant. The company's recent jobs of tile and marble include the following: Christie building, Fairmont school, Cabot Bradley building, W. E. Richardson residence, Dr. J. J. Eklund residence, S. J. Cassen residence, Virginia; R. M. Weyerhaeuser residence, Cloquet; Mark Elliott residence, Virginia.

The company has work under way at the present time in the Washington and manual training schools, A. W. Hartman's residence, H. H. Myers' residence and Reinhart's jewelry store.

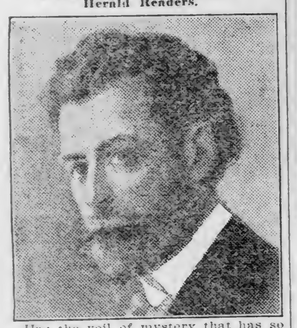
Can This Man Read Your Life?

The rich, poor, exalted and humble seek his advice on Business, Marriage, Friends, Enemies, Changes, Speculations, Love Affairs, Journeys, and all events of Life.

MANY SAY HE REVEALS THEIR LIVES WITH AMAZING ACCURACY.

Free Test Readings Will Be Sent for a Short Time to All Duluth Herald Readers.



Has the veil of mystery that has so long shrouded the ancient sciences been raised at last? Can it be that a system has been perfected that reveals with reasonable accuracy the character and disposition of an individual, and so outlines the life as to assist in avoiding errors and taking advantage of opportunities?

Roxroy, a man who has for twenty years been delving into the mysteries of the occult, making a scientific study of the various methods of reading the lives of people seems to have reached a higher round in the ladder of fame than his predecessors. Letters are pouring into his office from all parts of the world telling of the benefits derived from his advice. Many of his patrons look upon him as a man gifted with some strange, mysterious power, but he modestly asserts that what he accomplishes is due alone to an understanding of natural laws.

He is a man of kindly feeling toward humanity, and his manner and tone immediately impress one with his sincere belief in his work. A huge stack of grateful letters from people who have received readings from him adds to other convincing proof as to his ability. Even Astrologers and Palmists admit that his system surpasses anything yet introduced.

The Rev. G. C. H. Hasskarl, Ph. D., pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church, in a letter to Prof. Roxroy, says: "You are certainly the greatest specialist and master of your profession. Every one consulting you will marvel at the correctness of your detailed personal readings and advice. The most sceptical will consult you again and again after corresponding with you once."

If you wish to take advantage of Roxroy's generous offer and obtain a free reading, send your date, month and year of birth, state whether (Mr., Mrs. or Miss) and also a copy of the following verse in your own handwriting:

I have heard of your power
To read people's lives,
And would ask what for me
You have to advise?

Be sure to give your correct name, birth date and address and write plainly. Send your letter to ROXROY, Dept 54-D, No. 177a Kensington High Street, London, W., England. If you wish, you may inclose 10 cents (U. S. A. stamps) to pay postage, clerical work, etc. Do not inclose coins or silver in letters.

Note—Under the new Postal regulations you can send a sealed letter to England for only 2 cents postage.

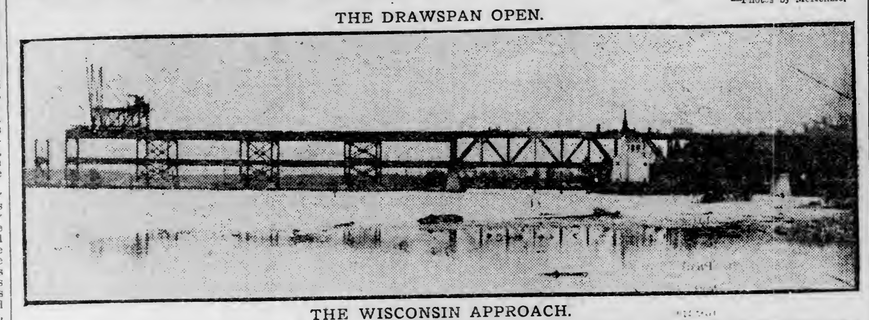
RAPID PROGRESS BEING MADE ON BRIDGE ACROSS THE ST. LOUIS

—Photos by McKenzie.

THE DRAWSPAN OPEN.



THE WISCONSIN APPROACH.

Remarkable progress, all things considered, has been made on the great bridge that is being built by the Interstato Transfer railroad over the St. Louis river at New Duluth in the vicinity of the new steel plant. The photographs reproduced on this page give ocular evidence of the rapidity with which the construction work is being prosecuted.

The draw span has been completed and is being swung now whenever desired. The building and placing of this draw span has been a work of exceptional interest from an engineering point of view and has been completed without disaster or even any hitch.

The workmen are now turning their attention to the concrete construction work that is to be done on the Minnesota approach. This work will not be permitted to lag, every effort being exerted to make it proceed evenly and without interruption.

WEST END WORKS HARDSHIP ON HOME OWNERS

Protest Against Making Immediate Sewer Connections Is Made.

Residents along Helm street, who have received notices to connect at once with the sewer, for sanitary reasons, are protesting because they are rushed in the matter and many have requested their alderman, William L. Bernard, to ask the council for more time.

The district is thickly settled here and some claim that it is working an unnecessary hardship on the people, who cannot afford the improvement on such short notice. There has been no report of any unusual sickness in this district that can be attributed to the lack of sewer connections.

Railroad street, back of Helm, has no sewer connections and the Helm street residents claim that they are being discriminated against. The order was given out at the request of the health board with the view of improving both the health conditions in this section and the appearance of the street.

WEST END CLUBS PLAN FOR OUTING

Neighborhood House Boys Have Fine Program for Summer.

A summer outing program for the boys' club at the Neighborhood house of the Twentieth Century club, is being planned.

The boys will camp at one of the lakes near the city for two weeks, each of the four clubs, which have been organized under the auspices of the Twentieth Century club, taking turns in enjoying the outing.

The clubs are the Lincoln, Knights of the Round Table, Twentieth Century boys and the Newsboys club. The last named organization is a club for boys under the age of 12 who sell papers after school hours.

The program for the summer also includes cross-country hikes to Pike lake and other summer resorts in the vicinity of Duluth. It is also planned to hold a general field day for the members of the four clubs at one of the West end playgrounds. This would include sports of all sorts. The affair will be held after the close of school.

"WHITE WAY" FAVORED.

New Lighting System at West End to Cost About $3,500.

An estimate of the cost of installing the "white way" from Eighteenth to Twenty-second avenues on West Superior street, was placed at $3,500, last evening, by a special committee in its report to the West End Commercial club, which held its meeting last evening.

It is proposed to have ten posts to each block, five on each side of the street. The club instructed its committee to get in touch with manufacturers of standards and secure quotations of the lowest price.

According to the committee business men at the West end seem to favor the "white way."

Patriotic Program.

The Young People's Society of the First Swedish Baptist church has arranged an elaborate Memorial day program which will be given at the church parlors Monday evening. The program includes patriotic recitations and songs.

Annual Festival.

The Parthenoe Society of the Swedish Mission church will hold its annual festival at the church next Monday evening. Rev. F. O. Kling of Minneapolis, former pastor of the local church, will be the principal speaker.

Mrs. George Trevranus of 2722 west Second street will entertain the Ladies' Aid Society of the Second Presbyterian church at her home Wednesday afternoon.

Funeral services were held this afternoon for Mrs. Anna Olson, 29 years old, who died yesterday. The funeral was held from the residence, 2827 Railroad street. She is survived by her husband, Carl W. Olson, and a brother residing in Duluth.

The May Calendar Circle of the Second Presbyterian church will hold its monthly meeting Tuesday evening at the church parlors, 1515 West Superior street. A good program has been arranged for the occasion.

Frances R. La Brosse of 430 North Nineteenth avenue west returned today from Ely, Minn., where he has been on a business trip.

The Sunday school teachers of the First Swedish Baptist church held a meeting last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Axel Peterson. The regular monthly business came up for consideration.

Elmer Peterson of West Fourth street left yesterday for a trip in the West. He expects to return to his home in the West end in the fall.

Willis Edmundson, who has for the past two years been on a claim in Western Canada, is in the West end on a visit with relatives.

Mrs. Peter Olson of 2233 West Tenth street will entertain the Ladies' Aid Society of Zion Norwegian Lutheran church at her home Wednesday afternoon.

MORE VIOLATORS FINED.

State Dairy and Food Commission Continues After Lawbreakers.

St. Paul, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)— The State Dairy and Food commission is actively engaged prosecuting Minnesota dealers who violate the pure food law. John McCabe, assistant commissioner, has reported the following prosecutions.

Dunbar & Larson of Cambridge fined $25 and costs for selling pork sausage which contained preservatives; C. A. Kratz of Winona, William Morris of Winona and M. Schultz of Paynesville were each fined $15 and costs, for selling candy colored with coal tar dyes.

WISCONSIN REPUBLICANS FORGETTING DIFFERENCES.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 28.—The Republican political movement, headed by E. L. Philipp, has issued a call for a convention, to be held in Milwaukee June 8.

The call is signed by over 1,000 Republicans, praises the administration of President Taft and urges the doing away of factionalism. Among the signers are Former Governors W. D. Hoard, Edward Scofield and many who have been allied with both the so-called "stalwart" and "half-breed" factions in the past.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

Andrew Nelson is being urged by his friends to permit the use of his name as a candidate for the lower house of the legislature from the Fiftieth district. Mr. Nelson is loath to take up the contest, as he was loath to enter the congressional fight, preferring that some other good Democrat assume the burden, if an acceptable one was found willing to do so. When Judge Jaques was prevailed upon to file for the Democratic nomination for congress, Mr. Nelson was quick to commend him and wish him well. Mr. Nelson's attitude on the congressional question was well known; if the party insisted that he should make the fight, he would seriously consider the proposal, but his professional and business engagements were such that it would be a hardship, comparatively, for him to devote the time required of a representative in congress to purely public duties, rather than to his law practice.

Andrew Nelson For The Legislature.

However, it is being pointed out by his friends that he can be of great and valuable service to the people of the district as a representative at St. Paul, and the demands on his time will not be so great if he goes to the legislature as they would be in the event that he had accepted the congressional opportunity.

Mr. Nelson's standing in the community and his fitness to serve the people of Minnesota in any capacity are such that his friends continue to insist that he should take some active part in governmental affairs, and they are hopeful that he will consent to the plan to make him the Democratic nominee in the Fiftieth.

• • •

There is a movement afoot to persuade Chester A. Congdon, the Republican representative from the Fifty-first legislative district, to be a candidate for renomination and re-election. Mr. Congdon has not indicated what his decision is likely to be, but his friends feel confident that he will consent to make the run again.

• • •

The fight for the Republican nomination for clerk of the supreme court continues to occupy the attention of a large section of the state press and among politicians all through the state it is a favorite topic. The general opinion seems to be that Irving A. Caswell of Anoka county, the incumbent, will be nominated to succeed himself. George F. Dix, of St. Paul, who is being backed strenuously by the Ramsey county organization, is eliminated from consideration by many because of the multiplicity of candidates for state office from that county, and County Attorney O. K. Dahle of Houston county is beginning to push his campaign, having sent out to the bar of the state a circular letter setting forth his claims to the office, but Mr. Caswell's lead is believed to be so great that there is little chance Mr. Dahle will be able to capture the prize. Mr. Dahle's home is at Caledonia, and he is a popular man in that part of the state.

Caswell Apparently the Favorite.

The Democratic Free Press of Anoka has this to say of Clerk Caswell: "The Free Press has never felt especially friendly toward Mr. Caswell. In fact, Mr. Caswell and his friends and the Free Press have often differed politically in local affairs. Yet, in spite of this fact, we know him to be an able man, a shrewd, honest and industrious official, and we know that his nomination at the Republican convention would be a wise move. The prospects are that he will win.

The Waverly Star and Tribune quotes the Republican Le Sueur News: "I don't pretend to be a prophet nor a son of one either, but I am not afraid to hazard a guess that John Lind will be the Democratic nominee for governor and if he is, there will be something doing. John Lind has a lot of friends in all parties, and has a reputation of being fearless," and says by way of comment:

"This expression from a Republican editor seems to be the general sentiment throughout the state and Lind is truly the choice of the people. When the people find a man who is brainy, honest and capable they do not hesitate to elevate that man to a position where he can faithfully serve the public and accomplish good, especially in Minnesota."

William M. Taber of Park Rapids, Hubbard county, will join the Ancient and Honorable Order of Candidates for State Treasurer. His boom is only about two weeks old and so far has manifested itself only in Hubbard county.

• • •

Discussing Bob Dunn's wondering comment on the independence and good sense shown by S. Y. Gordon as a candidate for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor, the Litchfield Ledger says that "pink tea" politicians will be found opposing "that man Gordon" for the reasons cited by Dunn as peculiarly acceptable in a presiding officer of the senate. Says the Ledger:

Just What Is Expected.

"F. B. Kellogg conveniently lit out for Europe in order to leave an open field to 'Foxy Grandpa' to become presiding officer of the state convention, and he will see to it that Bill Grimshaw is on hand with the necessary motions and resolutions to put Gordon and those of his way of thinking in cold storage until their support is needed, after the slate ticket is made up. Then you will see Ed Smith of Minneapolis or Andy Stevens of Crookston made chairman of the state central committee; Dar Reese will have charge of the wires and Bill Rich will act as handy man.

"When that has been all arranged and they have forgotten to mention county option or the tonnage tax, they will harangue the highways and byways of the state with the story that true reform is in the saddle and ask such men as Gordon to stand by the job that has been put up. How long, oh how long, do the people intend to be thus bamboozled?

"Is it not about time that the people took the bit in their teeth and held a convention of their own once, just to see how it would work?"

• • •

J. E. Haycraft, who has been postmaster of Madella, Watonwan county, is a county option candidate for the state senate. The district was represented in the last legislature by William A. Hilton of Truman, Martin county, who in all probability will be a candidate for re-election, but not as a county optionist.

• • •

The "Bill Lee element" in Republican politics is "in bad" with the Wadena Pioneer Journal. The announcement that J. H. Mark, a young attorney of that town, will be a candidate for the legislature, Judge Asher Murray having decided not to make the run, is made the text of a preachment on Bill Lee that is not calculated to please the leader of the county optionists. The Wadena paper says that it will not support Mr. Mark, not because of any personal displeasure with that gentleman, but because he is allied with Lee. Says the Pioneer Journal:

William E. Lee Is Given a Prod.

"Principles are of more importance than friendships, and on the basis of principles this newspaper can not possibly support Mr. Mark. Without referring to county option in any sense, the Pioneer Journal believes Mr. Mark is in wrong.

"To expect the support of friends, any man must first place himself in a position where his friends can help him. It appears to us that Mr. Mark has entirely disregarded or overlooked this axiom, which applies with equal force to all walks of life, and especially to politics.

"The pioneer Journal cannot support Mr. Mark because, wittingly or unwittingly, he has alligned himself with a political faction in this district which this newspaper has consistently opposed for years upon the ground of principle.

"The Pioneer Journal cannot support Mr. Mark because he has joined forces with the Bill Lee crowd. It will be useless for Mr. Mark to deny this. Bill Lee and his henchmen were the dominant spirits in the recent county option convention, held in this city. "Bill" Lee has assumed to "drive" the county option forces in Todd county. He has espoused that cause this year, because he thinks the issue is popular—not because he believes in county option. A politician who has heretofore always prided himself upon his ability to line-up the saloon interests in his favor, has not experienced any sudden change of heart, and is not now sincerely a friend of county option.

"By becoming the county option candidate in this county, Mr. Mark will, in prosecuting his campaign, naturally and unavoidably, work in harmony with the "Bill" Lee forces in Todd county. If, in the judgment of the Pioneer Journal, the old Lee crowd has not been "fit" in former years, and not worthy of the support of the people, they are not worty of the support of the people at the present time, for there is no evidence to indicate that any of them have experienced any change of heart.

"At the present Mr. Mark is alone in the legislative race in this county. We do not know whether anyone else will come forward as a candidate or not, but if a good man steps into the race, The Pioneer Journal will give him cordial support, provided, of course he is in our best judgment, worthy and well qualified, is not a political trickster and will truly and honestly represent the people if they elect him.

COMPANIES A-C-E

And the Band, Third Infantry, will assemble at the Armory Monday morning, May 30th, at 9:30, for the purpose of participating in the Memorial Day parade.

By order of MAJOR H. V. EVA.

T. L. CHISHOLM,
First Lieutenant, Third Infantry, Adjutant First Battalion.

NORMAL NOTES

Friday morning a special Decoration day program was given by the students and model school of the normal in connection with the chapel exercises. The following selections were sung by the chorus:

"Star Spangled Banner" .....
"America" .....
"Nobly Our Flag Flutters O'er Us". Selection ..... Glee Club.
Solo ..... Maud Matteson.

Following the musical numbers the students were addressed by the following members of the G. A. R.: Capt. W. H. Smallwood, Comrade Leonidas Merritt, who belonged to the Minnesota regiment; Comrade B. E. Jones, from one of the Pennsylvania companies; Comrade W. E. Jones, from a New York company, and Comrade Wood, who was a member of the navy. These veterans commended the spirit of patriotism displayed by the students and urged that their lives be made purer and better examples of patriotism.

Following the program by the students, a program was given on the lawn by the children of the grades. A number of patriotic songs were sung and the children were addressed by the old soldiers.

The members of the senior class were entertained by the class counsellor, Miss Post, Wednesday afternoon at the school. The music room was prettily decorated in the class colors, red and black. Games were played and a pleasant afternoon spent. Assisting Miss Post at the tables were: Bessie Bouck and Helen Ballou, members of the freshmen class.

BRYANT SCHOOL WINS THE PENNANT.

In the interscholastic baseball league championship series, the Bryant school carried off the banner. The contest was between the Washington and the Bryants, but the Bryants won both games. The score yesterday was 3 to 2. The game was keenly contested, both sides playing a good game. The Bryants will receive the banner in the course of a couple of weeks. It will be made in their school colors, and is presented by the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A., which has conducted the league.

Steinway Pianos Mean Steinway Tones

Tone is the great objective in the accomplishment of music. To understand and know it, one must associate with it, until it becomes an integral part of the being. Therefore, in the musical education, the better the association, the better the accomplishment. Steinway pianos are the highest conception of good tone. The cost is a trifle more, but the musical quality so high, that the alvantage is simply incomparable. The ideal of all true musicians is a Steinway piano.

TEMPERANCE CONVENTION

National Gathering of Finnish Temperance Society in West Duluth.

The annual national convention of the Swedish Finnish Temperance association will be held at West Duluth this summer. Arrangements have just been made to hold the big temperance meeting at Wade's hall, Central avenue and Ramsey street on July 28, 29, 30, and 31.

The last annual convention of the order was held at Seattle, Wash. The organization has 3,000 members with about seventy local orders in different parts of the country. It has a strong foothold in Minnesota and many delegates from all parts of the state will attend.

According to the present plans of the committee, a big picnic will be given on the last day of the convention. This will be held at Lincoln park. A good program of speaking and music as well as athletic games will be arranged.

Extra trains will bring delegates to Duluth from the range towns and from Michigan and it is expected that the affair will be one of the largest gatherings of Finnish and Swedish people that has ever been held in Duluth. The committee expects an attendance of at least 500.

The committee has been very fortunate in selecting good speakers for the affair. President Youngdahl of the Anti-saloon League of Minnesota and Hon. E. E. Lobdell have promised to attend. There will also be other speakers. The final arrangements for the gathering will be made by the local committee at a meeting which will be held in the near future.

FOURTH OF JULY TO BE GALA DAY

THE COMMITTEE.

Edward Warner, Chairman.

Leo Hannot,	James E. Foubister,
T. F. Olsen,	Thomas Fitzgerald,
Peter Delozjn,	James E. Rockwell,
Atle Swansun,	C. C. Salter,
Frank H. Wade,	Henry Butler,
R. J. Baker,	D. A. Fitzpatrick.
Otto Haller,

The above is the business men's committee, which will arrange for the big Fourth of July celebration at West Duluth this year. Yesterday it was decided that the celebration would be held, and the committee has already raised $375. The celebration will cost about $600.

The committee will have full power to act and choose additional members. Tuesday afternoon a meeting will be held, and sub-committees will be chosen. The celebration will be of the old-fashioned sort, and the city of Duluth, as well as residents of the range towns, will be invited to attend.

PROCTOR STORE IS BROKEN INTO

Unknown thieves broke into the general store of E. M. McEwen at Proctor during the early morning hours, and after making an attempt to rifle the cash drawers, made away with a number of articles. A suitcase and a traveling grip were taken and probably the stolen goods were placed in this.

Mr. McEwen, proprietor of the store, was notified of the burglary shortly after 4 o'clock this morning by an officer who discovered the door open. About midnight the officer had tried the door and had found it locked as usual. It is thought that the burglary was committed about 2 o'clock.

The proprietor of the store does not know just what was taken, but among the things he misses a suitcase and a black valise and a cravenette coat. The cash drawers had been broken into, but no money had been left in them.

The police are investigating.

WEST DULUTHIANS WILL APPRECIATE NEW SERVICE.

The "owl car" service, recently announced by the officials of the Duluth Street Railway company, and which will go into force July 1, is meeting with much favorable comment at West Duluth.

From West Duluth cars, will run through the city twice to Lakeside and once to Woodland every night. The new service is a result of an agitation started by the West Duluth Commercial club.

A car will leave Sixty-second avenue west at 2 o'clock every morning and run to Lakeside. It will return on the Grand avenue line to Seventy-first avenue. From there it will leave at 4 o'clock for Lakeside. On its return trip, it will arrive at Fifth avenue west in time to connect with the Great Northern 6 o'clock train.

Another car will run to Woodland on a similar schedule.

ELY SCHOOL CHILDREN EXECUTE FLAG DRILL.

A flag drill in which twenty-eight children took part featured the Memorial day entertainment yesterday afternoon at the Ely school, West Duluth.

The children were well drilled and went through many pretty evolutions. There was a large attendance of visitors at the entertainment.

MANY FISHING PARTIES PLANNED FOR WEEK END.

Many week-end excursions have been planned by West Duluth people on account of Monday being generally observed as a holiday.

Several fishing parties have been made up and trips will be made to nearby streams or lakes. Jack Gram and a party of friends will spend the next two days on a fishing expedition up the St. Louis river.

M. J. Filiatrault is on a fishing trip today up the river.

LABORER PLEADS GUILTY.

Frank Stroik Pays a Fine for Beating His Wife.

After Frank Stroik, 20 years old, who was arrested this week on a charge of beating his wife, demanded a jury trial when arraigned before Judge J. B. Flack of the West Duluth justice court, he pleaded guilty to the charge. The case was up this morning.

The jurymen, however, had been called and Stroik was obliged to pay the costs of the case. He paid a fine of $20.50. Stroik, it is alleged, struck his wife and otherwise misused. She came to the police with her complaint and had him placed under arrest.

Stroik is a laborer and resides at 3905 West Seventh street.

Special Service Sunday.

Rev. Hugo P. J. Selinger, pastor of the West Duluth Baptist church, will hold special Memorial day services at the church, Fifty-ninth avenue west and Grand tomorrow. He will speak on "Marching Orders" at the morning service and in the evening his subject is announced as "The Unfurled Banner." There will be special music. The other services are as usual.

West Duluth Briefs.

A small fire broke out yesterday afternoon at the Polk street bridge on Central avenue. It was put out before the fire department was called.

Dr. H. W. Greeley returned today from Orangeville, Ill., where he attended the funeral of his wife's mother, Mrs. G. W. Crum.

Before a large audience at Merritt Memorial M. E. church, Forty-sixth avenue west and Halifax street, last evening, a number of young people of the Second Presbyterian church presented a three-act playlet, "Men, Maids and Matchmakers."

F. D. Knight of Proctor has resigned his position as storekeeper for the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road. He will leave in a few days for Portland, Or., where he will make his future home.

WILL BUILD A THEATER

Samuel Neuman, representative of L. N. Scott, manager of the Metropolitan theaters of St. Paul and Minneapolis, and of Klaw & Erlanger, is in the city today for the purpose of selecting a new site for a theater to house the attractions of the so-called "theatrical syndicate."

"I have two sites in prospect," said Mr. Neuman this afternoon. "I am not yet at liberty to give out where they are, but we will select one of them and begin work on a new theater here this coming summer. The building should be ready by the first of next year."

FITCH WILL NOT RESIGN

W. F. Fitch, president and general manager of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railway, stated here today that there was nothing in a story published this morning, intimating that he might resign from the presidency of the road, or the general managership of the company.

"There is nothing in the story," was all that President Fitch would say.

SUPERIOR

PLEADS GUILTY AND IS GIVEN YEAR AT WAUPUN.

W. Shear, arrested yesterday morning for stealing about $100 worth of tools from men working on the new high school building, was sentenced late yesterday to a term of one year in the state penitentiary on a charge of grand larceny. Shear, after being apprehended, waived examination when arraigned in police court. He was taken to the superior court, where he entered a plea of guilty.

LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE WILL CONDUCT HEARING.

The joint legislative committee on industrial insurance will come to Superior for a hearing to be given local manufacturers next Wednesday. Nearly every manufacturing concern in Superior is preparing to send a representative to the hearing.

The members of the committee are: Senators Sanborn, Fairchild and Blaine and Assemblymen Ingalls, Culbertson, Brew and Walter Egan of Superior.

Bounties Are Large.

The state and county paid out $546 in bounties within the past two weeks. Twenty-eight animals were killed, including bear, wolves and wildcats. Dan Farman of Gordon received $150 for shooting five wolves and five wildcats. Miss Hazel Sheckel of Solon Springs was the only woman nimrod among the bounty seekers. She received $20 for the hide of a wolf.

Currie Gets One Year.

John Currie was sentenced to one year at Waupun by Judge Smith of the superior court yesterday when he pleaded guilty to a charge of complicity in the burglarizing of a grain car of the Great Northern railway. He admitted having a hand in the same affair for which Harry Smith was recently sentenced to a year's imprisonment.

Given Chance to Leave City.
Hulda Hanson and Jennie Granger, who were arrested last evening charged with vagrancy, got sixty days straight in the county jail when they pleaded guilty in police court this morning. Sentence was suspended on condition that they leave the city before Wednesday.

Kind Act Not Appreciated.
Frank Rean will not tell a policeman to seek a warmer climate in the future when the officer wakes him up on the street and tries to induce him to go home. Patrolman Andree attempted such good offices last night, and met with a hot reception. This morning Rean pleaded guilty in police court to being drunk and disorderly and was fined $10 and costs or ten days.

For Stealing Ice.
Mike Ward, 63 years old, thought yesterday was too hot to go without a drink. So he tackled a cold job to raise the price. Picking up a wheelbarrow he invaded the railroad yards, where he began to load it up with ice. But the police interfered before he had a chance to sell the congealed product. He pleaded guilty to trespass in police court and got three days in the county jail.

PLACED BACTERIOLOGY ON SCIENTIFIC BASIS

Baden Baden, May 28.—Prof. Robert Koch, the famous bacteriologist, died here yesterday afternoon from heart disease. He was born at Klausthal, Hanover, Dec. 11, 1843.

Prof. Koch became distinguished as

PROF. ROBERT KOCH,
Who Is Dead at Baden Baden.

an investigator of micro-organisms, but probably gained most renown as the discoverer of the bacilli of tuberculosis and cholera. He was graduated in 1866 from the University of Goettengen, and while a practitioner at Wollstein, began has researches in bacteriology. His first writings covered investigations of anthrax and the aetiology of traumatic infective diseases, marked an epoch in medicine and placed bacteriology on a scientific basis.

WANTS DIVORCE FROM HUSBAND

Mary Johnson, 43 years old wants a divorce from her husband, Louis Johnson, 51 years old. The papers in the action were filed this morning with the clerk of the district court.

About a year ago one of the district court judges granted Mrs. Johnson a separation for the period of one year. She now thinks the conditions are no better than they were at that time and asks to have the separation made absolute.

In her complaint Mrs. Johnson claims that her husband has been an habitual drunkard for some time past and that when he is under the influence of liquor he treats her in a cruel and inhuman manner.

There are two sons, one of age and the other 18. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were married in Duluth during the month of May, 1887.

DULUTH GIRL WINS MEDAL

Miss Marie Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Clark, 1530 East Superior street, won the diamond medal at the Chicago Musical college, Chicago, Ill., yesterday when she was graduated. She had previously obtained high honors.

The diamond medal is the greatest honor indicative of scholarship that can be bestowed by the college. It is believed that the medal carries with it a scholarship in a foreign school, although this feature is not definitely known here. Miss Clark has been studying voice culture at the college for the last two years. She will return home in a few days.

SPANISH WAR VETERANS MAY COME TO DULUTH.

Indications are that Duluth will entertain the state encampment of the United Spanish War veterans in 1911. Plans to that end are now being made by Camp John G. McEwen, No. 6, and indications are that they will be successful. A large delegation will be sent to the state encampment at Faribault this year with instructions to get the convention for Duluth next year. Superior will also endeavor to get the Wisconsin encampment at the same time, giving the two an opportunity to combine.

R. veterans who will flag the soldiers' graves in all cemeteries of the city.

PRESBYTERIANS REJECT CHICAGO

Atlantic City, N. J., May 28.—The Presbyterian general assembly at its final session today voted to hold next year's meeting in this city. Chicago and Louisville made a fight for the place of meeting. After a long discussion, the assembly voted to pay the expenses of the commissioners until Monday morning rather than force the members of distant points to either pay their own expenses until Monday or travel on Sunday, but the expense of each commissioner was limited to $200 for the trip.

WALKER ON THE METAL

Walker's copper letter in Saturday's Boston Commercial says:

"Copper is firm and shows a disposition to grow stronger. Lake is 13½ to 13¾ cents and electrolytic is 12¾ to 13 cents per pound. There have been heavy sales this month for both domestic and foreign account. Exports are running heavier, and will this month exceed those of April by several million pounds. Foreign consumption is now increasing and should continue to, as general business in Great Britain and Europe promises to show considerable improvement throughout the remaining months of this year.

"There is now very good reason to expect that the Copper Producers' association report, to be issued week after next, will reflect a very decided improvement in the statistical position of the metal. If it does it will encourage further buying by consumers both here and abroad, and also by the foreign speculative interests. The May production will probably show a considerable increase over that of April; but this should be more than offset by the heavier deliveries.

"The improvement in the metal situation began to show itself at the moment when it was least expected, as I have frequently predicted would be the case. As a result of recent developments, producers are in a more confident frame of mind than they have been previously for several months, and the feeling is now becoming quite general among consumers that metal prices will be higher before they are lower. The continued low price of copper has encouraged its more general use in building and other construction work, and this explains the steadily increasing consumption now, despite the fact that general business is comparatively dull."

SPOONER MAN KILLED.

Oiler in Sawmill Has Handle of Implement Driven Through Body.

Baudette, Wis., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Otto Mosen, an oiler for the Shevlin-Mathieu Lumber company here, met with a peculiar accident that was fatal, at the mill. While removing some rubbish from under the gang saw with a "pickaroon," it is presumed the rapidly revolving pulleys struck the "pickaroon," driving the handle through his body, entering the left lung. He retained presence of mind, and removed the handle without assistance, and walked downstairs to the main floor. The accident occurred at 5 o'clock a. m. yesterday, and death occurred at 11 p. m. Mosen was a young man, arriving from Spooner this spring.

John Saari Got Hair Cut.

Four students who were caricatured in the Gopher, the junior annual at the state university got revenge on Thursday, when, in lieu of damages for libel, they imprisoned Hanford Cox, editor-in-chief of the annual, in a room and gave his hair a fantastic cut. Just to prove that spring is here a body of sophomores headed a similar expedition, which cut the hair of John Saari, a freshman "medic" from Duluth.

CASCADE JUNIORS BEAT THE SLUGGERS.

In a hard fought battle on the grounds at Ninth avenue west and Third street this morning, the Cascade Juniors walloped the Fifth Avenue Sluggers by a score of 24 to 16. Herman Bergstrom of the victors was the bright star of the game, pitching fine ball and driving out a home run. The batteries were Bergstroin and Wold for the Cascades and Akelson and Calo for the losers. The Cascades want games with other teams in the city, the members averaging 13 years old.

FIRST BASEMAN SLATTERY WILL REPORT TO SOX.

At the baseball office of the Duluth Baseball association it was announced today that Slattery, the man who will be given a trial at first base, and who has been lost for the past week, would report today and would probably be tried in one of the Monday games. A pitcher from the Dayton, O., club is also reported to be on the way here.

The officials of the club stated today that they were negotiating for the purchase of an outfielder. If the negotiations are successful this man will report within a few days.

ON THE IRON RANGES

LOOK OVER BIG PLANT

Coleraine and Bovey People Inspect Great Ore Washing Concern.

Marvel at Amount of Ore Successfully Treated Night and Day.

Coleraine, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Yesterday afternoon about 150 citizens of Coleraine and Bovey accepted the invitation of John C. Greenway, the general superintendent of the Oliver Iron Mining company's interests in the Cantesteo district and visited the open pit mining operations and the new ore concentrating mill here.

The party first inspected the Cantesteo and the Walker pits, revelations even to the citizens who had lived here for some time. Mountains of overburden had been removed during the last three years and vast areas of the ore body laid bare. Great snorting, puffing steam shovels were nosing their way through the ore and loading it in the ore cars, two tons of the iron stuff at every lift of the big dipper. Workmen were seen burrowing into the bank of ore and planting powder mines or dynamite and later the explosion would throw up a volcano-like mass of ore dust.

Visit Big Concentrator.

From the pit almost 100 feet below the surrounding wooded surface the accommodation train began its gradual ascent until it stopped with its load of sightseers at the top of the ore concentrating mill now 100 feet above the hills which overlook Trout lake. Here they saw a train of unwashed ore enter the topmost part of the great mill and looking ninety-five feet below they saw a train of purified ore product on its way to the Duluth docks. The visitors were curious to see how this change was made from the low grade, unmarketable mass to the high grade ore below. They saw the crude material dumped into great hopper-like bins while the cars were still in motion, and then, passing within the mill inclosure, they looked down on a scene that will not soon be forgotten. Electric motors, belting, shaftings, cog-wheels, revolving trommels, grinding turbos, oscillating tables, the impinging, forceful streams of water, sprays of water, blood-red streams, the rumbling thunder-like sound and the vibratory jar of the mighty forces at work arrested the attention of all.

Watched Treatment of Ore.

The visitors passed down stairway after stairway, scrutinizing every part of the wonderful mill. From the great trommels they saw the coarser ore pass to the picking belt and then to the receiving bin, while the finer articles of iron were carried by streams of water to two pairs of turbos where more of the product was separated for market; the unwashed part is carried to other pairs of turbos for further treatment, and the residue from these again are carried to the final stage, to the Overstrom oscillating tables. The ore separated by these different processes is again collected into common hopper-like bins near the bottom of the mill and dropped by the force of gravity into the ore cars ready to receive it.

Day and night this great washing plant receives and gives out ore. For each three tons brought to the mill two tons of iron ore are made marketable. One hundred cars a day, or 5,000 tons, is the finished output of this mammoth laundry. The successful operation of this concentrating plant means the marketing of otherwise unmerchantable ore in this one mining district alone.

VIRGINIA PUPILS WILL PAY TRIBUTE

Younger Generation of Range City to Fittingly Observe Memorial Day.

Virginia, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the idea of instilling the minds of the school children of Virginia proper reverence for the nation's heroic dead as well as to inculcate a general spirit of patriotism Supt. Lafayette Bliss of the Virginia schools has made elaborate plans for a proper observance of Memorial day next Monday.

Mr. Bliss announces the following outline of the day's proceedings:

All the schools will assemble at 9 o'clock Monday morning in their own buildings as usual. Outside schools will march to the Roosevelt so as to be on the Roosevelt grounds at 10:30 o'clock. The line of march will be formed in the following order:

Marshal of the day, City band, veterans of the Civil war, veterans of the Spanish war, teachers and pupils of the Roosevelt building, teachers and pupils of the Johnson building, teachers and pupils of the primary building, teachers and pupils of the Central building, teachers and pupils of the Franklin building, teachers and pupils of the South side building, teachers and pupils of the North side building, teachers and pupils of the Higgins building, teachers and pupils of the Homestead building, teachers and pupils of the Farmstead building night school and citizens.

The line of march will be from the Roosevelt, south on Central avenue to Cedar street; east on Cedar street to Mesabi avenue; north on Mesabi avenue to Chestnut street; west on Chestnut street to Central avenue; south on Central avenue to the Roosevelt.

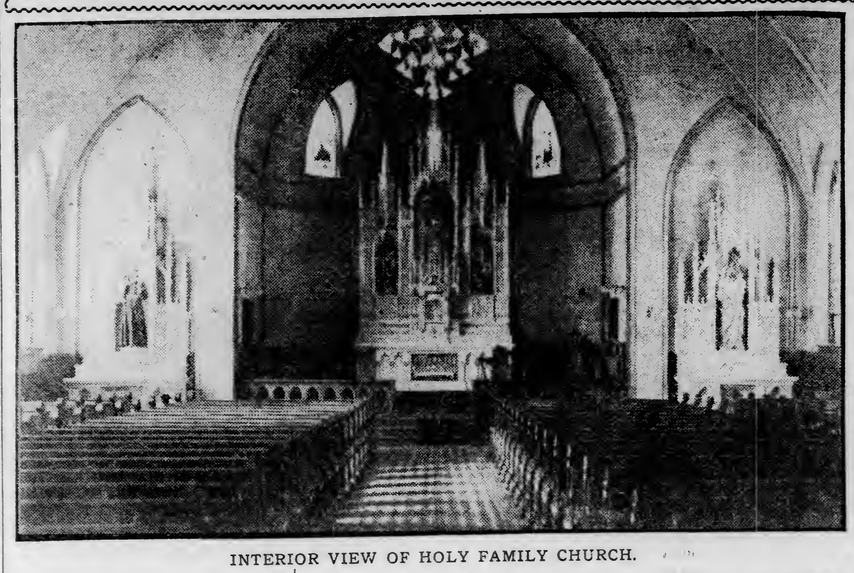
Early in the morning a committee will decorate the graves of soldiers and sailors buried in the local cemetery.

The schools will re-assemble at the Roosevelt grounds and give the flag salute, after which they will be dismissed until 8 o'clock in the evening.

To Give Program in Evening.

The general public, the high school, eighth, seventh, sixth and fifth grades, with all the teachers are cordially invited to the evening exercises in the Auditorium. The schools will assemble in their own buildings and march to the Roosevelt. Other children wishing to attend must sit with their parents. The organization of ushers, etc., will be the same as in the entertainment course. The program will consist of an address by Rev. W. J. Powers, stereopticon views of battles and incidents relative to the Civil war, patriotic recitations and singing by the school children.

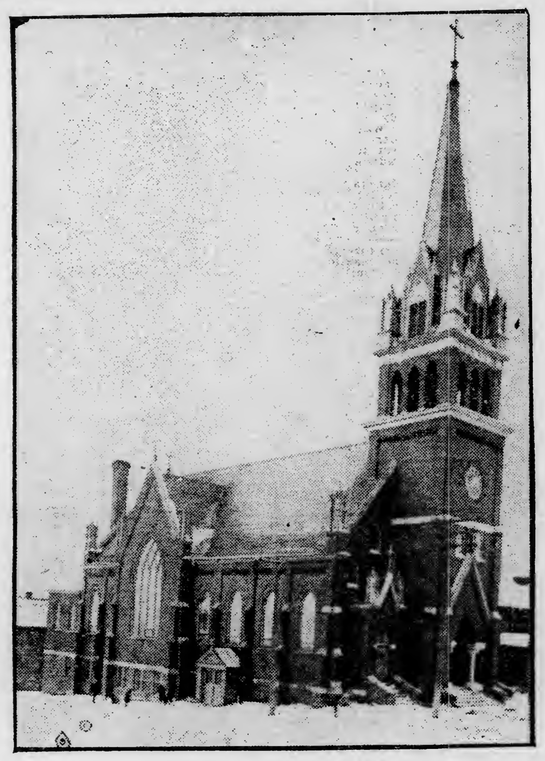
EVELETH'S NEW CHURCH TO BE DEDICATED SUNDAY



INTERIOR VIEW OF HOLY FAMILY CHURCH.

Eveleth, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Holy Family church, the new edifice recently completed at a cost of $30,000 will be dedicated tomorrow and Rev. Father Bilban, the pastor will be assisted in the impressive ceremonies by many prominent churchmen. Bishop McGolrick of Duluth, Bishop Frabec of St. Cloud, Rev. F. Solkar of the St. Paul seminary and a host of other clergymen will be present taking part in the ceremonies. Elaborate preparations have been made for the entertainment of the throng of visitors expected from the various range towns and from Duluth. The dedicatory ceremonies will be held from 10:30 a. m. to noon and from 7:30 p. m. to 9 p. m.

Rev. Father Bilban has been tireless in his management of the construction of this splendid church, which was built by days labor, the finest on the range and tomorrow will no doubt be one of the proudest moments in his life. The exterior and the interior views of the edifice show it to be a spacious, artistically and splendidly designed building. The stained glass windows depicting biblical scenes and the beautiful sanctuary and other interior furnishings are in a class by themselves.



HOLY FAMILY CHURCH.

ITASCA COUNTY IS ALIVE TO ISSUES

Its Development Association Planning to Be Represented at Crookston Meet.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—A meeting of the Itasca county division of the Northern Minnesota Development association was held Thursday for the purpose of electing delegates to the convention of the association at Crookston on June 1, 2 and 3. Itasca county is entitled to five delegates. Ways and means of keeping the association on a solid financial basis were discussed. The secretary stated that the assessment of $5 on each town and village and of $10 on the county had not been responded to very liberally; only four or five having paid up their dues. Efforts will be made to secure the money from these assessments so as to provide funds for the association.

The meeting intrusted the selection of delegates of President D. M. Gunn of the county branch of the association. President Gunn is away at the present time and has not yet announced his list of delegates and alternates.

Among the boosters from out of town who were present at the meeting were: W. J. Stocle, Attorney R. A. McQuat, J. A. Vandyke, E. J. Anderson, Editor C. C. Seeley of Coleraine; A. H. Grimpo and F. Provinski of Bovey; P. E. Ramquist, Coleraine; George Ruby, Deer River, and George Becker, Bass Brook.

SMITH'S FRIENDS ACTIVE.

Will Go to St. Paul Convention With Brass Band.

Eveleth, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mayor Walter J. Smith, the candidate for the state treasurership, is out-of-town campaigning, but nevertheless his candidacy is not being overlooked at home, and a movement is now being started whereby a large number of local residents and range citizens with a brass band will attend the state Republican convention at St. Paul June 21 in his interest. A large number of the residents interested in the mayor's candidacy will also attend the county convention at Hibbing June 17.

CHURCH MEMORIAL SERVICES

Will Be Conducted in the Eveleth Churches on Sunday.

Eveleth, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Memorial services will be held at many of the local churches tomorrow. At the St. John's Episcopal church, Rev. R. C. Carswell will preach a special sermon.

At the Missabe township hall, where the First Presbyterian church members will gather because of their inability to use their own church, Rev. J. T. Moody, chaplain and general superintendent of the Duluth Bethel society, who is filling the pulpit in the absence of Rev. Schwarz, Jr., will make some fitting remarks on the subject, as will Rev. C. Skiness, the new Swedish Mission church pastor, who replaces Rev. J. I. Faduu, who is now on a vacation trip to Scandinavia.

ELY SOCIAL EVENING.

Given in the High School and Is Very Successful Affair.

Ely, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The social evening given in the high school auditorium Friday was a most pleasant affair. A reception for the senior class was held from 8:30 until 9 o'clock; from 9 until 9:45 a musical was given by Labrosse's orchestra; and from 9:45 until 12:30 dancing was indulged in. Many attended, and everybody seemed filled with the spirit of enjoyment, and declared that the party was one of the best given here. Light refreshments were served during the evening.

Miss Belle Toutloff was a Duluth visitor this week, going down Wednesday.

Richard Sellwood of Duluth was an Ely visitor the latter part of the week.

Mrs. L. M. Wagner departed Wednesday morning for Atlantic City, N. J., where she assumes charge of the Hotel Savoy of that city.

Miss Margaret McLaughlin and her friend, Miss Knowles of Duluth, returned home Saturday after a few days visit in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Locker and Mr. and Mrs. George Smelty returned to their home in Ishpeming on Wednesday morning.

Charles Seraphine and daughter, Agness, left here on Thursday morning for an extended visit with his mother at Ishpeming, Mich.

Cashier L. B. Brockway of the First National bank resigned his position this week and departed on Thursday for the East.

Announcements were received this week from Pullman, Wash., of the marriage of Miss Leona Headloff and Frank Bryant, Sunday, May 22.

Miss Laura Tracy of Two Harbors is the guest of her sister, Mrs. William O'Rourke.

John Grail of Mankato arrived in the city on Friday for a few days visit with his sister, Miss Edna Grail.

LAY CORNER STONE ON MEMORIAL DAY

Coleraine Will Celebrate Notable Event Next Monday Afternoon.

Coleraine, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Coleraine will celebrate Memorial day by laying the corner stone of the new $40,000 village hall. At 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon all places of business will be closed and the entire population with many visitors from the neighboring towns will assemble at the site of the new building on Roosevelt avenue where the impressive ceremony will take place.

Speeches will be made by C. C. McCarthy, D. M. Gunn of Grand Rapids and others. The Coleraine band will give open air concerts during the afternoon and evening.

In the evening a banquet will be served for the village council, the speakers and other guests. The spread will be in charge of the domestic science department of the high school. A grand ball will conclude the festivities at the high school auditorium. This will begin at 9 o'clock. The music will be furnished by the Coleraine orchestra of ten pieces. The general public has been most cordially invited to attend the dance.

REV. FATHER BILBAN,
Pastor of Holy Name Catholic Church.

DULUTH RABBI WILL ADDRESS STUDENTS

Dr. Lefkovits Will Deliver Baccalaureate Sermon at Coleraine.

Coleraine, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The graduating class of the Greenway high school consists of five students, Dolly Armundson, David Barron, Harriet Hurley, Mata Loux and Genevieve McCarthy. Each has completed the required sixteen credits for graduation from the accredited high schools of Minnesota and some of them have completed seventeen and one-half credits.

Commencement week will start Sunday evening, May 29, when the annual sermon to the class will be given at the high school auditorium by Rabbi Lefkovitz of Duluth. He will be assisted by the local clergymen. Special music has been prepared under the direction of Miss Brinton.

The promotion day exercises will be held in the graded schools at Coleraine, Bovey, Marbie and Taconite on Friday morning, June 3.

On Friday evening the class will present their play, "Tommy's Wife." In this they will be assisted by other high school students. Reserved seats will be on sale at Stock's drug store Wednesday for the class day.

The graduating exercises will take place on Saturday evening in the auditorium. The speaker on this occasion will be L. B. Wickersham, who is well known to many people of this district as one of the best platform speakers in America.

The closing exercises of the commencement week will be the social function given under the auspices of the junior class of the high school in honor of the graduates at the auditorium Monday evening, June 6.

The following program will be rendered at the high school auditorium tomorrow evening when Rabbi Lefkovits, Ph.D., will deliver the baccalaureate sermon:

Anthem, "Gloria in Excelsis," Mozart, union choir; invocation, Rev. George E. Silloway; vocal solo, "Fear Not Ye, O Israel," Dudley Buck; scripture lesson, Rev. G. W. Findley; hymn, "Guide Me, O Thou Great Jehovah," Williams; prayer, Rev. W. O. Garrett; anthem, "The Heavens Are Telling," Hayden, union choir; sermon, Rabbi M. LAWYER ROSSMAN WILL PREACH IN GRAND RAPIDS.

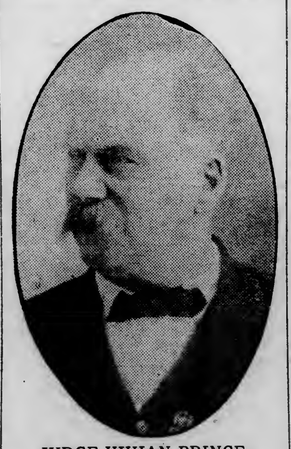
Grand Rapids, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. J. M. Davies announces that at the evening services Sunday his pulpit will be filled by W. A. Rossman, a well-known lawyer of Being Memorial Sunday the subject will be along lines in keeping with the day. This is the fourth of a series of addresses by laymen with which Rev. Mr. Davies has treated his church.

DON'T BELIEVE FISH EXIST IN ST. MARY'S.

Eveleth, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The report that St. Mary's lake, the source of this city's water supply, was "fishy" is doubted and the contrary is believed, inasmuch as an expert local fisherman, on his initial trip to the lake, after spending a day failed to get a bite, while on the second day after three hours' work was only rewarded with three small ones.

RANGE MUNICIPAL JUDGES ORGANIZE



JUDGE VIVIAN PRINCE.

Eveleth, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Vivian Prince returned last evening from Hibbing, where he was unanimously elected president of the Association of Municipal Judges of the County of St. Louis, which was organized yesterday with Judge Edward A. Freeman, Chisholm, vice president; Judge Thomas H. Brady, Hibbing, secretary; Judge E. A. Cary, Virginia, treasurer.

The organization resulted from the desire of the range judges for uniform procedure in the municipal courts.

HIBBING OPERETTA IS GREAT SUCCESS

Minnesota Flower Chosen By Children as the National Flower.

Hibbing, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The operetta, "The National Flower," which was given last evening at the high school auditorium by the children of the fourth and fifth grades of the public schools proved very pleasing. The children took part of flowers and Minnesota flower was chosen as the national flower.

A very pretty sight was witnessed Friday afternoon when about 200 children of the kindergarten rooms of the Washington schools after their exercises in their rooms marched out of the south entrance onto the lawn where they lined up in order, each one waving a large American flag. The public schools will not have any exercises on Memorial day. The day will be observed by the village as a legal holiday and most all the business places will be closed for the day. There will, however, be no parade or public observance of the day.

EXTENDING SERVICE.

Virginia Light & Power Company Reaching Out to Additions.

Virginia, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Twelve-inch pipes are being run from the plant of the Virginia Electric Power & Water Supply company to the Alphene and Northside additions, with six-inch distributing pipes to consumers.

Wires are also being strung to furnish light and power to the addition. At the power house a 25,000 gallon capacity tank is being installed and will be ready in a few days. This will give the company a water reserve to be used in case of a big fire.

Two deep wells furnish plenty of pure water for drinking and other purposes, one being 828 feet deep and the other 450 feet deep. Supt. John A. Kennedy says that many miles of water mains will be laid this summer and that the improvements will be kept up until the plant will be one of the best in operation in the state.

CROSBY MINER KILLED.

Is Caught By Cavein in the Property at Nashwauk.

Nashwauk, Inn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The remains of Sam Vokovitch, an Austrian laborer, who was accidently killed while at work in a drift at the Crosby mine here Wednesday evening, was taken to Hibbing Friday morning for burial. Vokovitch and his partner, Louis Ratama were together working in the drift in the mine when earth from above caved in upon them. A large force of rescuers were at once on the scene and with two hours of hard work they dug into the drift and found the mangled body of Vokovitch. Ratama was severely injured about the back caused by a large rock that struck him and it is expected that he will recover. The dead man was 38 years of age and leaves a wife and four children in the old country and a brother who resides here.

ADVERTISEMENTS FOR PROPOSALS FOR PAVING PORTIONS OF CERTAIN STREETS AND AVENUES IN VIRGINIA, MINN.

Office of City Clerk, Virginia, Minn., May 19, 1910.

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids will be received by the City Clerk of the City of Virginia, Minnesota, at his office in the City Hall of said city until 8 o'clock P. M. of Tuesday, June 7, 1910, for the paving of the following described portions of certain streets and avenues in said city of Virginia hereinafter mentioned.

1. Sealed bids for the paving of Chestnut street in said city from the west side of Central Avenue on the east to the west side of Virginia Avenue on the west; Lake Boulevard, Wyoming Avenue and Mesaba Avenue from the north side of Chestnut Street on the south to the south side of Walnut Street on the north; Virginia Avenue, Cleveland Avenue, Wyoming Avenue and Mesaba Avenue from the south side of Chestnut street on the north to the north side of Maple Street on the south.

2. Separate sealed bids for the paving of Maple Street in the said city of Virginia, from the west side of Railroad Avenue on the east to the west side of Virginia Avenue on the west, exceptiong that portion of Maple Street crossing Central Avenue between the east and west lines of said Central Avenue.

3. Separate sealed bids for the paving of Central Avenue from the north side of Willow Street on the north to the south side of Sage Street on the south.

Sealed bids as above described may be submitted for the paving with any of the following materials, viz:

Creosoted wood block on concrete foundation.

Tarvated sand-filled macadam.

Tarvia or tarcon macadam, on concrete base.

Taroid or any other proper road tar-filled macadam.

Donnellite pavement on concrete foundation.

Bitulithic pavement on concrete foundation.

Grancold concrete pavement, for any or all of the three above described portions of roadway to be paved.

The City Council specifically reserves the right to select kind of paving as it may desire from the bids submitted pursuant to this notice, upon each or any of the above described portions of roadway and to award the contract for paving to the lowest responsible bidder complying with the foregoing requirements for the paving or pavings so selected by the said Council, and further reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

The person, firm or company to whom is awarded the contract for the paving of any of the above described portions of roadways, shall, within five days from date of award, enter into a written contract to be prepared by the City Attorney of Virginia, Minn., for the proper and faithful performance of the paving work awarded to said person, firm or company. All of said work to be in accordance with the plans and specifications therefor now on file in the office of the said City Clerk of Virginia, Minnesota, all of the terms and conditions of which plans and specifications are hereby made a part of this notice. The successful bidder shall further furnish, at the time of the execution of said contract, a bond for the full contract price, acceptable to and to be approved by the City Council, for the full and faithful performance of said contract.

Every bid shall be accompanied by a regularly certified check, payable to the City Treasurer of Virginia, Minnesota, in the sum of five per cent of the amount of the bid, as a guarantee that the successful bidder will enter into a contract and furnish a bond to the City of Virginia as above designated; said check to be forfeited to said City as liquidated damages in case of failure to sign contract and furnish bond by the successful bidder.

All bids to be sealed in an envelope in such manner that the same cannot be opened without detection, to be directed to the undersigned, City Clerk of Virginia, Minnesota, and to contain a statement on the outside cover showing for what portion of work the bid is made.

All bidders shall further specify what guarantee, if any, covering stability of pavement, they will give, and whether said guarantee shall be indorsed by the furnishing of a surety bond or by giving to the City of Virginia the right to reserve two per cent of the contract price for a term of five years as set forth in the above mentioned specifications.

Said bids to conform in all respects to all terms and conditions of the City Charter relating thereto.

By order of the City Council of Virginia, Minnesota

ALBERT E. BICKFORD,
City Clerk.

PUTS WIRES UNDER LAW

Senate Adopts Amendment to Interstate Commerce Statutes.

Makes Telephone and Telegraph Subject to Federal Control.

Washington, May 28.—At the last moment before reaching the point of voting on the railroad bill yesterday the senate took the important step of adding an amendment placing interstate telegraph and telephone lines under the supervision of the interstate commerce commission. This section was followed by an effort to restore a portion of section 12, affecting mergers, which heretofore was voted out.

Both provisions were introduced so suddenly as to surprise the senate, and the latter one was considered so important that rather than vote upon it without more consideration than it was able to give, the senate took an adjournment until today.

The action of the senate on telegraph and telephone companies insures their inclusion in some form in the proposed law as the subject is offered in the house bill.

La Follette Clause Adopted.

The suggestion for the inclusion of telegraph and telephone companies within the control of the interstate commerce commission, was made by Senator Dixon of Montana, but ultimately his amendment was supplanted by one in simpler form which was offered by Senator La Follette. This provision went through without even a discussion. The provision as adopted is as follows:

"That telegraph and telephone companies (except wireless) transacting an interstate business, are hereby placed under the supervision and conrol of the interstate commerce commission, subject to the provisions of an act to regulate commerce, approved Feb. 4, 1887, which are applicable thereto."

The exception of wireless was made at the suggestion of Senator Heyburn.

DAY OF REST FOR STEEL TRUST MEN

Iron and Steel Institute Members Discuss Dickson's Plan.

New York, May 28.—Heads of the steel and iron industry, including F. H. Gary and Charles M. Schwab, applauded as William B. Dickson, vice president of the United States Steel corporation, addressing the annual dinner of the American Iron & Steel Institute last night, advocated the establishment of a rule among all manufacturers in their line that no employe should work more than six days a week.

At his suggestion, it was decided later to appoint a committee to investigate and to devise a plan for a day of rest, which has caused so much trouble among steel workers.

Mr. Dickson said he realized the rule would cause additional expense and entail difficulty, but he thought the problem could be solved satisfactorily.

F. H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, presided at the banquet, and spoke in a general way of the improved condition of the industry.

Charles M. Schwab of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, Willis L. King and O. P. Fletchworth also spoke.

In the afternoon the institute, which was organized a year ago, held an executive meeting. The only statement issued as to the proceedings was the announcement of the re-election of officers, headed by Judge Gary as president.

HOUSE VOTES CANTEEN BILL DOWN TWICE.

Washington, May 28.—The old fight over the canteen question was reopened in the house by an amendment offered by Mr. Keliher of Massachusetts to the sundry civil bill to allow canteens at all old soldiers' homes within five miles of cities, where liquor is sold. The house rejected the amendment by a vote of 17 to 51. Later Mr. Keliher reoffered the amendment, to have it meet defeat once more.

ILLINOIS LEGISLATOR ACCUSED OF PERJURY.

Springfield, Ill., May 28.—An indictment for perjury was returned late yesterday afternoon against State Senator D. W. Holtslaw, Democrat, of Iuka, by the Sangamon county grand jury, which is probing alleged bribery in the Illinois legislature. The indictment is based principally upon the testimony of Senator Holtslaw that he did not know and had never arranged for a meeting with J. W. Knox of Chicago, representing a desk company of Boston, which company was the lowest bidder to supply the assembly wih furniture, but did not secure the contract.

JULIA WARD HOWE CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY.

Boston, Mass., May 28.—Receiving congratulations from distinguished friends in this country and also from abroad, Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, yesterday observed her 91st birthday, surrounded by the members of her family. Part of the day was given up to a public reception. Mrs. Howe took much pride in wearing the hood given her by Brown university last year, when she was given the degree of doctor of literature.

BOYS AGED 9 AND 6 IN RIDE ACROSS CONTINENT.

Wahington, May 28.—After riding on horseback most of the way across the continent to meet Col. Roosevelt on his arrival at New York, Lewis and Temple Abernathy, aged 9 and 6, respectively, sons of Jack Abernathy of Oklahoma, the wolf catcher and friend of the former president, have arrived in the national capital.

Civil Service Meeting.

Albany, N. Y., May 28.—Civil service officials from all over the country will assembly here June 2 an 3 to attend the third biennial meeting of the National Assembly of Civil Service Commissioners and the conference of New York State and Municipal Civil Service Commissioners.

MUTILATED BODY FOUND IN BAY

Man May Have Been Murdered or Struck By a Train.

Possibilities of foul play attach to the finding of the body of an unknown man last evening in the Sixth avenue slip, near the docks of the Northern Storage company. One leg was cut off below the knee, the chest was crushed, and the features were so badly decomposed as to be unrecognizable.

Where the body came from is unknown. It is said by some that he must have been walking across one of the railroad bridges between Duluth and Superior, when he was run over by a train he couldn't dodge. Others fear that he may have been murdered and robbed, and then put on the tracks to cover up evidences of the crime, figuring that the body would be hurled into the bay if struck by a train on the bridge. The body was taken to the undertaking parlors of J. L. Crawford. It will probably be examined by the coroner today.

SENATOR LORIMER FLAYS MEN WHO CHARGE BRIBERY

in that city which Mr. Lorimer has organized.

Wants Senate to Investigate.

Concluding, he offered a resolution calling for a senatorial investigation of the charges against him, this resolution being as follows:

"Resolved, That the committee on privileges and elections be directed to examine the allegations recently made in the public press, charging that bribery and corruption were practiced in the election of William Lorimer to a seat in the United States senate, and to ascertain the facts in connection with these charges, and report as early as possible; and for that purpose the committee shall have authority to send for people and papers and to employ a stenographer and such other additional help as it shall deem necessary."

"Facts and Reasons."

In opening Mr. Lorimer said:

"Mr. President: I rise to a question of personal privilege to state the facts concerning and the reasons for the most recent assault upon me by the Chicago Tribune with the intent to blacken my character with the people of the county and to injure me and my friends, financially and politically."

He then detailed the fact of the Tribune's publication on April 30 last of a story over a signature of Charles A. White, a member of the Illinois legislature, in which it was alleged that he had procured his seat in the senate through bribery and corruption.

"I have been compelled," he went on, "to defer my return to the senate owing to the fact that the story was timed and published with a deliberate purpose to destroy a new banking association of Chicago which I have been organizing with some of my friends.

Aimed at Bank Venture.

"The assault was made to prevent the bank from opening, but utterly failed of its purpose, but it required my constant attention to build an impregnable bulwark around the bank to safeguard the interests of those who have intrusted their funds to the care of my association and myself, against any malicious or vicious assault that may be made against it by the Tribune."

Relating that it had been charged that the bribe had been paid through Lee O'Neil Browne, the Democratic leader of the Illinois house of representatives, he defended Mr. Browne as entirely above participation in such a proceeding.

He declared that Medill McCormick of the Tribune had threatened that the bank never should open, and also asserted that White did not write the story, as had been claimed, but that it was "the work of a trained newspaper hand, skilled in the art of creating scandal out of lies, when it is thought necessary, to blacken the character of one whom the newspaper cannot control.

"Poor, Low Creature."

"It is also plain to be seen," he went on, "that every word was passed upon by a lawyer before it was signed by that poor, low creature, White, who does not hesitate to commite forgery for a few dollars, and to whom perjury is no crime, who is a part of the lowest fringes of depravity, and who, to secure money to satisfy his instinct for debauchery, sold what little was left of his manhood, and became the pliant tool of the Tribune in this timed and malicious attack."

Defending Charles Luke, a deceased member of the legislature against a charge that he was a beneficiary of his (Lorimer's) bribery, the senator told how Mr. Luke, a Democrat, had risen from practically his deathbed to vote for him, a Republican, but without other motive than friendship.

"Malicious, Satanic Lie."

"Standing in this historic chamber, in a place of high honor, to which my departed friend did all in his power to assist me, I would," he said, "be untrue to our friendship and my high regard for him if I did not hurl this malicious, heartless, Satanic lie back into the foul mouth that uttered it.

Senator Lorimer then proceeded with unmeasured words of bitter invective and epithet in an attack upon Medill McCormick personally.

He asserted that Representatives Link and Beckmeyer had not made confessions, as had been charged; but, on the contrary, said that "the charges stand as they stood April 30, the uncorroborated lies of the Tribune, supported only by the bought signature of their weak tool, White."

"Lied and Knew It Lied."

Senator Lorimer went on with increased vehemence to assert that the Chicago paper "lied and knew it lied" in charging that money was used to purchase his election.

"Not one dollar was paid to a single member of the general assembly for his vote for me," the senator declared, and he added that when the truth was known everybody would understand that the publication of the article by White was "a part of a political conspiracy to drive me out of public life, to ruin me financially, because I will not do as other Republicans in Illinois have done—place myself under the absolute control and dictatorship of the Chicago Tribune."

He declared that by subservience he could at any time have made his peace with the newspapers.

Urged by Deneen.

Senator Lorimer gave his version of his senatorial campaign and election. He declared that it was upon the suggestion of Governor Deneen that he had entered the field, and then only after he and the governor had besought others to make the run.

The senator went back to the Blaine campaign of 1884, and then to a ward contest in Chicago, for the alleged genesis of his disagreements with the Chicago newspaper.

At very great length Senator Lorimer described Chicago political developments. In 1902, he said, Governor Deneen, then county attorney, and other friends urged him to make his peace with the Tribune.

"When they were poor and in need of help," he said, "they were anxious and pleased to work with the organization, even against the constant assault of the newspaper trust; but after they had become prosperous and affluent they felt they could stand the lashing no longer, and ran to the newspaper cover, and have been subservient since that time."

Combined Against Him.

Coming down to modern times, he declared that "all of the power of the city, county, state and federal administrations, under the leadership of Senator Hopkins, Governor Deneen and Mayor Busse, assembled into a misfit organization," combined to destroy the organization controlled by Lorimer, with intent to give control to the Tribune.

He traced his breach with Governor Deneen largely to a difference of opinion between the two as to the wisdom of spending, independently of action by the national government, the $20,000,000 pledged by the state toward the deep-waterway-to-the-gulf project, which the governor favored and he opposed.

He asserted that the governor personally advised in the preparation of the White story in the Tribune. He went on to say:

"The governor joined this campaign of slander because he saw an opportunity to throw dust in the eyes of the people, use the conspiracy to defeat those who stood for federal co-operation in expending the $20,000,000, and secure control of the next legislature.

Governor in the Affair.

"Why he persists in his efforts to get control of the $20,000,000 when he well knows that it is useless to attempt to construct a waterway, is a mystery that I cannot fathom."

Senator Lorimer further attacked the Chicago Tribune's policy in opposition to the Payne-Aldrich tariff, attributing this to the failure to put in the free list wood pulp, which would have saved the paper $40,000 a year.

"This," he said, "is the only tax we have any record of in which the Tribune pays its just share."

He also charged the Tribune establishment with being the beneficiary of the Chicago educational board by collecting extra rental of $151,500 a year for its quarters in the Tribune building and $94,000 through alleged undervaluation of its site, owned by the city.

Concluding, Mr. Lorimer asserted that the Tribune had dogged him all these years because it had not been able to lash him into subjection.

"The purpose of these charges," he declared, "was to disgrace and destroy my friends and myself," whom they cannot control, and to come into absolute control of the Republican party in Illinois and to secure themselves in continued plundering of the public treasury."

ployment of the methods of conciliation and arbitration in industrial disputes.

"The church declares for the release of every worker from work one day in seven, and it declares further for adequate protection of working people from dangerous machinery and objectionable conditions of labor.

"The church declares for some provision by which the burden imposed by injuries and deaths from industrial accidents shall not be permitted to rest upon the injured person or his family."

presiding in the absence of Chairman Nelson, read a letter from Assistant Attorney General Oscar Lawler, under date of today, retracting his statement before the committee, reflecting upon C. P. Connolly, a magazine writer. Mr. Vertrees, counsel for Secretary Ballinger, then proceeded with his argument, taking up the subject of the Cunningham coal claims. He asked members of the committee to remember that when Mr. Ballinger went into office as commissioner of the land office on March 4, 1907, the Cunningham cases had been advanced nearly to completion.

Attorneys Brandeis and Pepper had told the committee they had produced evidence which they said established that Ballinger was not "vigilant" and "resolute" in resisting the aggressiveness of special interests and that his course had been characteristized by a lack of fidelity to the public interest.

Mr. Pepper, attorney for Pinchot, advanced as the reason Ballinger should be supplanted as secretary that during his regime there had been "no administration worthy of the name, but only a series of acts unwise in themselves, referable to no principle of action, and the cause of embarrassment to the president and of injury to the public."

Ballinger and Pinchot.

Vertrees said Ballinger was to be commended for the so-called "Garfield policies" he had reversed, and contrasted Former Secretary Garfield with Mr. Ballinger. He said the former thought he had the right to do what he was not specificially prohibited by law from doing, while Mr. Ballinger always was guided by law in his official acts.

Vertrees indulged in a scathing denunciation of Glavis and Kerby, referring to the latter as "that creature Kerby."

Former Secretary Garfield and Former Forester Pinchot came in for most severe castigation from Attorney Vertrees, who did not hesitate to denounce them as disappointed men who sought revenge upon the new secretary.

Talked on Conservation.

At considerable length Mr. Vertrees discussed the subject of conservation.

"In a just and proper sense," he said, "we are all conservationists, and as such there is none more sound than Mr. Ballinger. Now I am talking about these men who have gone to seed on the conservation basis—that of the Pinchot brand, thirty-third degree conservationists—like some people running off with a fake and a fancy."

LAWLER SAYS HE IS SORRY

and others as "despicable scoundrels, who would stoop to any depths of degradation." He is further alleged to have testified that "a man named Connolly stood on the deck of the steamship Republic, just before she went down, and trampled down women and children in an attempt to get into the lifeboat."

Claims He Was Identified.

When asked to identify the Connolly referred to, it is alleged, Mr. Lawler said:

"He is an employe of Collier's Weekly, and is a tall, slender man with a short gray moustache."

This Mr. Connolly says, describes him.

Mr. Lawler is further alleged to have said that he had considerable contempt for the "Connolly connected with Collier's Weekly, anyway, and would not put him above anything of that kind."

Mr. Connolly charges that this connecting of him with the person on board the Republic, is false, and that the accusation was maliciously made.

Mr. Connolly said later that at the time of the loss of the Republic he was in Los Angeles, Cal., many miles from the scene of the disaster.

PROCTOR CLASS GIVES ITS PLAY

"Mrs. Briggs of the Poultry Yard" Presented Friday Evening.

Proctor, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The class play given by the Eighth grade graduating class at the Y. M. C. A. last evening was well attended and thoroughly enjoyed by all. The play was a three-act comedy entitled "Mrs. Briggs of the Poultry Yard." Following was the cast of characters:

Mrs. Briggs, a woman of business, Margaret Nelson; Ralph, an adopted boy, Royal Dawson; Jimmy, Alvira, Melissa (her family), Corwin Eller, Gertrude Owens, Ruby Brayden; Silas Green, "a near relation," George Rich; Mr. Lee, a wealthy neighbor, Charles Nichols; Virginia Lee, his daughter, Evon Reneaud; Daisy Thornton, her friend, Ruth Bird; Mrs. O'Connor, with no liking for goats, Pearl Hatch; Mandy Bates, whose tongue will stumble, Eva Brayden.

Next Friday evening the graduating exercises will be held at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium. President Bohannon of the Duluth normal school has been secured to deliver the address to the graduates. FORECAST TILL 7 P. M. SUNDAY.
For Duluth, Superior and vicinity, including the Mesaba and Vermilion Iron ranges: Showers this afternoon and tonight or Sunday; cooler; brisk westerly winds.
EXPLANATORY NOTES.
H. W. RICHARDSON, Local Forecaster.

RAIN

After the beautiful weather of the past few days, the weather man holds out a promise of a little rain for Sunday. If the moist weather extends into Monday, precedent will be vindicated, for what is Memorial day without rain? Last evening was truly a beautiful evening for a stroll. Today the sky is clouded, but the rain has not yet come.

Bright, warm weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:19 and it will set at 7:51, giving fifteen hours and thirty-two minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The Western Canada disturbance has increased in intensity and has moved its center to Manitoba. During the past twenty-four hours this low pressure has caused rains in Saskatchewan, Manitoba, the Dakotas, Montana, Eastern Nebraska, Kansas, Western Missouri and Iowa. Higher temperatures prevail in the lower Missouri and upper Mississippi valleys and the lake region. The barometer continues low over Arizona and New Mexico. Areas of high pressure overlie the Ohio valley and plateau region. The latter high barometer condition is causing cooler weather throughout the extreme Northwest."

General Forecasts.

Upper Lakes: Moderate south winds becoming brisk southwest to west over Superior and North Michigan; showers tonight or Sunday, except fair tonight on Huron.

Chicago, May 28.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Sunday:

Upper Michigan—Showers tonight or Sunday; cooler Sunday in west portion.

Wisconsin—Showers tonight or Sunday; warmer tonight; cooler Sunday afternoon.

Minnesota—Partly cloudy with probably showers in east portion tonight or Sunday; cooler Sunday and in north and west portions tonight.

Iowa—Partly cloudy with showers tonight or Sunday; warmer in east portion tonight; cooler Sunday afternoon and in northwest tonight.

North Dakota—Cloudy and cooler tonight and Sunday.

South Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Sunday; cooler tonight and in southeast portion Sunday.

Montana—Fair tonight and Sunday; light frost tonight with cooler.

NOVEL SUIT INSTITUTED.

Seeks Damages for Death of Husband Through Liquor Illegally Sold

Crookston, Minn., May 28.—Special to The Herald.)—What is probably the first suit of the kind ever brought in the state of Minnesota has been begun by Eliza Olson against E. A. Harm of East Grand Forks and the American Bonding company of Baltimore for $2,000 damages in connection with the death of her husband on Dec. 7, 1908.

The complaint alleges that Edward Olson, the husband, met his death as a result of intoxicating liquors sold him by the saloon operated under the license issued E. A. Harm, and further, that this liquor was sold on Sunday in violation of the bonding provisions.

The suit is brought under a 1905 act of the Minnesota legislature, which makes the bonding company liable for damages up to the amount of the bond furnished, which is, in this case, $2,000.

The plaintiff brings suit on the ground that she has been deprived of the support of her husband the past two years and asks damages to the full amount allowed by law.

LONG DELAYED REPORT.

By Gettysburg Monument Commission Made After Thirteen Years.

St. Paul, Minn., May 28.—The report of the Gettyburg monument commission reached the governor yesterday after thirteen years delay.

The commission was appointed in 1897 and finished work that summer. The chairman, Judge William Lochren, found it impossible to make a full report at that time, and he says in the present report that business, work on the bench and later sickness prevented him from making the report.

When it was proposed to erect a monument to the First Minnesota volunteers on the battlefield of Gettysburg, the legislature appropriated $20,000 for the purpose and provided for the appointment of a commission which should have charge of the fund and see that it was properly expended. Of the $20,000, $19,337.79 was spent and the rest was turned back to the state. The members of the commission were Judge William Lochron, C. B. Heffelfinger and Mat Marvin. Mr. Marvin has since died.

Twenty-Seven Boys and Girls Will Graduate From the High School.

Brainerd, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The high school commencement exercises will be held Tuesday evening June 7, in the opera house. The graduating class, numbering twenty-seven, is probably the largest class that has been graduated from the high school in recent years. Those graduating from the Latin-Scientific course are: Roland E. Barron, Lloyd Kenneth Smith, Florence Isabel Flanagan, Irene Clare Cosgrove, Maud Geraldine Hage, Lillian Clarissa Hage, Dorothy Emma Lyddon, Hazel Bell Baker, Mary Audrey McGarry, Sara Sue Koop, Charles Rudolph Nelstead, Evert E. Swanson, Lillian Mae Langslow, Alice Marie English, Georgia Lucile Brown, Lydia Sarah Groenig, Jessie Margaret Johnson, Mary Etta Bishop, Mabel Olivia Gustafson, Ruth M. Moody.

Those graduating from the commercial course are: Thomas William McMeekin, John Senti, Harry Earl Murphy, James Manley Graham, Angus, Ray Murray, Lillian Colette Smith, Severn Swanson. Eight of the class will deliver orations or read essays as follows: Roland E. Barron, Dorothy Emma Lyddon, Thoms William McMeekin, John Senti, Mary Audrey McGarry, Charles Rudolph Nelstead, Severn Swanson, and Ruth M. Moody.

The program will include singing by the high school boys and girls, choruses and selections by the high school orchestra, all under the direction of Mrs. Frances Newman Dial.

The high school alumni have reorganized and will give a banquet June 8 at the Ransford hotel, in honor of the graduating class. There are about 200 alumni, of whom ninety reside in the city.

CEMETERY A NUISANCE.

Chisago Woman Wins Injunction Suit Against Cemetery People.

St. Paul, Minn., May 28.—The Swedish Evangelical Lutheran Cemetery Association of Chisago city has looked for a new site for its cemetery. The association had a piece of land selected for the purpose, but Adelia Nelson, who owns property near the proposed burial place, alleged that the cemetery would be a nuisance and asked the court to issue an injunction, heading off the association. The lower court of Chisago county refused to grant the injunction and Mrs. Nelson took the matter to the state supreme court.

In a decision written by Justice E. A. Jaggard, it is held by the court that under the findings of the court and of the circumstances proved, the injunction should be issued.

County Auditor to Prison.

Bleckinson, N. D., May 28.—John S. White was given the minimum sentence of five years yesterday by Judge Goss for his forgeries as county auditor, amounting to over $40,000 during his eight years in office. He was taken to the penitentiary yesterday afternoon. Carl Albrecht broke jail Thursday night and cannot be found. He was to be sentenced today.

THREE BLIND PIGS AT DILWORTH ARE RAIDED.

Moorhead, Minn., May 28.—Three blindpig resorts were raided at Dilworth yesterday by special officers, on complaint of R. B. Webb, county commissioner. Two wagon loads of liquors were confiscated and brought here. Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis, Martin Peterson and Peter Lindeberg were placed under arrest. A fourth man escaped in an auto to Fargo. Lindeberg entered a plea of guilty and was fined $50. The raid will be a factor in the election for the incorporation of Dilworth as a village.

Porch Cushions.

A porch cushion made of extremely coarse square meshed burlap was finished with a spiderweb pattern of dark raffia, hold in place with red silkateen. For the scorching days of our summer, which are generally spent on the porch, there is refreshing relief in a glass of Golden Grain Belt beer—cool, pure and wholesome. It relieves fatigue that comes with the extremely hot days. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Duluth branch Minneapolis Brewing company."

A TALE OF THE NORTH WOODS.

Surely that was a sadly moving tale which Carl Fridblom, a Cook county settler, told in his letter published in The Herald last evening. Being in arrears on his subscription to The Herald, though he had not been pressed for payment he wrote to explain why he had not paid, and to ask if The Herald kindly wouldn't wait for its money until he got on his feet again, after being wiped out slick and clean by a forest fire. Wait? Bless your heart, Carl Fridblom, of course The Herald will wait! The receipt in full for your arrears and for a year in advance which went to you promptly on receipt of your letter carried with it our deepest sympathy and our best wishes for a quick rehabilitation of your fortunes. We only wish that you owed us that bill of "$35 for foodstuffs, now destroyed."

Picture it in your mind, you comfortable dweller in the city: "I had made a good winter's work, which had given me enough cash to provide for my needs for half a year, to pay what little debts I had and to keep us comfortable for the time being, and we were contented and looked forward with confidence to the future. But on the tenth of this month the great backblow came."

A neighbor's carelessness let loose a forest fire through the tinder-dry woods. The result was graphically described in Fridblom's letter. At first the fire seemed to avoid his place. Called to help a neighbor save his home, he returned to find his little fortune disappearing in the flames which his good wife had fought bravely but ineffectively. "My barn to the right was going up in flames; my house in front of me going up in flames; the little chicken house a little further off with three setting hens, in flames; forty cords of split cordwood, my spring wood, melting down to cinders, the grass and ground burning; the forest burning, east, west, north, south of me. Where was my wife? I called for her; no answer. * * * There she sat, head bent, seemingly in a stupor. When I came up close to her she lifted up her head, pointed to a small purse containing what little money we had—$60—and said very meekly: 'This is all I could save.'"

The story of how the good wife had vainly fought the flames, desperately striving to save their home, was told dramatically. "In less than an hour it was all over, and there we stood now on the bare and burned ground without food, without clothes, without a shelter for ourselves and animals, a cow and two heifers which were let out to save themselves as best they could. The cow stable was gone—my good cow stable, only a year old, built by myself and my wife without foreign aid; light and warm in winter, made large enough for eight cows." The simple pathos of this itemized account of his losses would move a heart of stone—the house, their own handiwork, all its contents, "the start toward a chicken business that would have given us a yearly income," citizenship papers, land patent, books in five languages—even the growing grass was burned so that the poor cows found nothing to eat, and wandered dismally afar, unfed, unmilked.

"And now, there we are! Stripped bare like newborn children, poorer than seven years ago; poorer than at the start, reduced to beggary! And now, also, backward seven years, with seven years less future, and corresponding vigorous health. Fifty-one years old seven years ago! How old now? And how we loved it all! Loved the fine, invigorating climate, loved the nature, loved to see how the wilderness was transformed into an abode and home, loved to cut and clear and then to dig and plant!"

Seven years of patient, faithful, hopeful work wiped out in an hour! All to be done over again, with youth and strength seven years farther away than at the start!

Men of money, does that story not suggest something to you?

HIDE AND SEEK POLITICS.

Minnesota is about to have a state election. Public interest will be centered almost exclusively upon the governorship; yet nearly a dozen other state officers are to be elected at the same time, several of whom have more real power to help or hurt the people's interests than the governor.

The voters will know pretty much all there is to be known about the candidates for governor. They will know little or nothing about the candidates for the other state offices, and will make their choice between those presented by the respective parties. These so-called "minor candidates" will be picked, according to custom, largely by the men in control of the party organizations.

This condition does not make for good government and that government under it has been as good as it is in Minnesota is not the doing of the system.

Suppose only the governor and one or two others were elected, and the governor were required to fill by appointment all the other offices that are now elective. He would pick his men knowing that he would be held responsible, personally and politically, for their acts. On the whole, don't you believe that better results would come in that way than in the present way?

That would be the "short ballot" plan, which is attracting great interest in this country. It will be a long time, doubtless, before that plan is made applicable to state governments; but it will not be long before it is applied to most city governments, and county governments will come next, then state governments.

It centralizes power, but it also centralizes responsibility. It gives the people closer control of their public affairs, because they will know whom to blame when things go wrong, and whom to rebuke. The commission form of city government is a move in that direction, and nearly a hundred cities have taken it up and none has returned to the old way.

Under the title that heads this editorial Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton and head of the Short Ballot organization, contributes to the current North American review an interesting analysis of American political ills in which he says of the present long and complicated ballot: "We have given the people something so vast and complicated to do in asking them to select all the officers of government that they cannot do it. It must be done for them by professionals. There are so many men named for office; it is futile to name one or two unless you name a whole ticket; the offices that fill a ticket are so many and so obscure that it is impossible the thing should be done informally and offhand by direct, unassisted popular choice. There must be a preliminary process of selection, of nomination, of preparing a ticket as a whole, unless there is to be hopeless confusion, names put up at haphazard and nobody elected by a clear majority at the end. The machine, in these conditions, is as yet an indispensable instrumentality of our politics. * * * The Short Ballot is the short and open way by which we can return to representative government. It is the high duty of every lover of political liberty to become a partisan of such a reform if once we become convinced of it."

UNDERSTANDING WOMEN.

Here is one of those smart sayings that pass for wisdom because they are aptly turned: "A man would never marry if he understood women; nor a woman, if she understood men."

A good deal of nonsense creeps into print about "understanding women."

The ordinary individual has his hands full if he understands one woman; and by the time he has realized what a task that is, he has no ambition to undertake the work of understanding women.

The extraordinary individual sees the hopelessness of the task right at the start, and takes up something easier and more promising.

To say that a man would never marry if he understood women is to slander womanhood; and it is only just to add that this false epigram was made by a woman. To add to it the statement that a woman would never marry if she understood men is to include the whole human race in the slander. It is one of those smug, glittering epigrams that make a lot of people say "How true!" before they think, and then add "But how ridiculously false!" when they think—if, by chance, they do think.

If there is a man who "understands women," he is the very man to marry one; and we have no such depressing opinion of womankind as to say that he wouldn't marry. A woman who understood men would be the very woman to marry one; for lack of understanding is a cause of most matrimonial infelicities.

Understanding women in the abstract is one thing, and understanding one woman is another thing entirely. What counts in the marriage relationship is not so much the breadth of a husband's understanding of women as the extent of his understanding of the one woman he has married. A philosopher might imagine that he had studied womankind until he had made the subject his own, and yet fail miserably as a husband because he didn't understand his wife.

The study of woman in the abstract and of man in the abstract is very entertaining, no doubt; indeed, there is no greater study on earth. But these abstract studies have little to do with matrimony. What counts there is knowledge of the person you are marrying. If a wife understands her husband, she ought to know how to get along with him comfortably; and if a husband understands his wife, he ought to be able to steer away from her faults, to avoid her weaknesses, to cultivate her merits and to develop her strengths.

Nor should it be overlooked that it is a pretty good idea, before marrying, to understand yourself. Maybe that ought to come first; certainly it should not be remoter than second. Understanding is a very helpful adjunct to marriage. It is not, as our woman epigram-maker would have us believe, a bar to marriage.

THE MAN AT THE FURNACE DOOR.

In the hearing before the Federal arbitration board which is trying to adjust the dispute over wages between western railroads and their employes, the following bit of testimony was given:

> E. A. Milligan, a fireman discharged from railroad service recently for defective vision, testified that the intense heat generated in the furnaces of modern locomotives frequently caused firemen to lose their sight.

Commenting on this interesting testimony, the Chicago News says: "The present study of occupational diseases in this and other states should establish definitely to what extent firemen are disabled by the heat and glare of the fires they feed. If their labor tends to destroy their sight, what shall be said of a government which does not require that the industry share the burden of loss when a blinded fireman is compelled to quit his post? Compensation for workers disabled at their tasks must become a part of the cost of service in this country, as it is in others."

If it is true that the men who tend the fires in modern locomotives are subjected to conditions which tend to enfeeble or destroy their sight, then beyond any question the railroads, and not the firemen, should assume the burden of loss.

That result can be brought about only by law. The railroads, with few exceptions, will not assume this obligation, though it is morally theirs, until it is made legally theirs.

Men are cheap. Human life is the cheapest commodity in this country, and the one that is cared for least of any. We have an abundance of laws for the protection of property; very few laws for the protection of human life and for the conservation of labor. When a railroad loses a fireman, driven blind by the conditions of his employment, it is easy to get another fireman. The railroad is a corporation, and corporations have no hearts or minds to suffer in sympathy. The men who direct their affairs are far removed from the man at the furnace door. If they actually saw a fireman driven out of his employment by an injury necessary to that employment, they might sympathize with him and regret the need of sending him out helpless and dependent upon the world. But they are far removed from the man at the furnace door, and they are paid to conserve the profits of their corporations.

There are many other occupations where the period of use is short, and where even life itself is shortened by the conditions of employment. In most of these industries it has been necessary to enforce by law obvious precautions which were not adopted voluntarily because they cost money. And where these conditions produce death or permanent disability, there are yet no laws which compel the industry to assume the burden of loss; so the loss falls on the shoulders of the injured workman, and upon those of his dependents.

Some time the industry, and not the helpless workman, will assume the burden of risk of employment; and not until then will justice be done in this country.

MR. HALLEY'S COMET.

Clearing weather has given everybody a chance to see Mr. Halley's celebrated comet. Having made the transit between the earth and the sun, it is now on its way through the long ellipse which some mystic duty has made its eternal beat. For seventy-five years, or thereabouts, it will be absent in the mysterious void through which it swings with a speed bewilderingly swift. For a few evenings longer it will be visible, growing fainter day by day, and then it will flirt its gauzy tail and vanish.

As has been said, no doubt, many thousands of times in the past week or two, not many who have seen the comet this time will be here to see it when it returns. That is so obvious that everybody has said it, thus adding it to the list of bromidioms along with "When I wash my hair I can't do a thing with it," "When I take my umbrella it never rains," and "I don't know anything about art, but I know what I like when I see it."

In point of fact, however, there has been nothing about the visit of the comet to make an indelible mark in the memory, even if all of us should live until it comes back on its next trip. If by some beneficence of fate the span of human life should suddenly be prolonged so that seventy-five years hence everybody now on earth should still be living and in full possession of his faculties, the astronomers would have to remind us of the coming of the comet, tell us all about Halley once more, and explain that while the comet's tail might brush the earth no harm would be done, even though it should contain cyanogen or some other deadly dose.

In short, it has been a very poor show. The astronomers come out of it a little shattered in reputation, perhaps more than they deserve. The head of the comet did what they said it would, and probably it is too much to require the astronomers to be accurate about its tail.

This isn't the first time comets have disappointed. The immortal Pepys, whose diary brought him undying fame, records that on Dec. 21, 1664, "My Lord Sandwich this day writes me word that he hath seen the comet and says it is the most extraordinary thing he ever saw."

Again, three days later, he wrote: "Having sat up all night till past 2 o'clock this morning our porter, being appointed, comes and tells us that the bellman tells him that the star is seen upon Tower Hill; so I and my boy went to Tower Hill, it being a most fine, bright, moonshine night, and a great frost, but no comet to be seen."

Later, the same day, Pepys finally saw the comet, but as has been the case with those who have seen Halley's comet this year, he was greatly disappointed. The comet, he says, "now, whether worn away or not, I know not, appears not with a tail, but only is larger and duller than any other star."

Those who had expected to sup on horrors and sleep with terrors during the visit of the comet have been agreeably disappointed. It is to be hoped that forty years from now, when the old folks are reminiscing about the visit of Halley's comet, we shall hear no tall tales of its splendor and fearsomeness.

FRED CARPENTER'S NEW JOB.

Fred Carpenter of Sauk Center, Minn., private secretary to President Taft, has been appointed minister to Morocco.

It seems necessary to interpose an objection to the unworthy suspicion which connects this incident with the case of young Mr. Kerby, stenographer to Secretary Ballinger, who has been tipping off to the public the secrets of his chief.

It is true that Kerby's action probably has made many people whose skirts are not altogether immaculate look askance at their confidential employes. The realization that they are human beings and have tongues which they sometimes use may have made many employers slightly uncomfortable.

But it is unjust to draw any inferences between the Kerby case and the president's act in shipping his private secretary off to Africa.

The fact that so little has originated in the president's office ought to be enough to acquit the president of this most unworthy suspicion.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 200 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

OUGHT TO BE ABLE TO KEEP TEN FAMILIES.

To the editor of The Herald:

Just ten families—very poor families—ought to derive much material benefit with A. P. Cook, when he takes up his duties as postmaster and leaves those of looking after the welfare of the unfortunate to a successor. I understand that his new position will pay him $3,600 a year or thereabouts. On his basis of $26 a month per family his salary would enable him to provide for a fraction over 11.5 families. But of course he must live himself, so he should be given the benefit of the fraction. The care of ten families would amount to $3,120 a year, or $312 each. This would leave him $480 a year for personal use, or $40 a month, which would enable him to live quite a bit better than his allowance called for. Do you suppose Mr. Cook will do it?

FACETIOUS.

Duluth, May 28.

THE VALUE OF THE ART ASSOCIATION.

To the Editor of The Herald:

It seems to me that although Duluthians are attending the art exhibit at the courthouse, in large numbers and enjoying it thoroughly, there are a great many who do not quite appreciate the work and effort of the members of the art association. Bringing pictures to the city and arranging such a well selected and well hung exhibit as we now have, means a lot of work beside the money expended. Its educational value is enormous. The school children's essay contest and the consequent arrangement for their entertainment at the show, has started inquiry in many young minds that can not help but prove a great factor in their education. One of the most interesting features of the whole thing will be those essays that several hundred young Duluthians will write on "The Picture I Liked Best and Why."

But Mr. Editor the thing I am asking your space for is to urge the many hundreds of people who can afford it to show their appreciation and willingness to help by becoming members of the association. Very few of those who visit the association but could do that without effort. Few people can buy pictures for themselves or to give this city; about the same number can subscribe a thousand or two dollars, but hundreds can send one dollar to the treasurer, Mrs. A. B. Siewert and make possible a live active representative association.

Thanking you for your space and hoping every one will "Do It Now" I am,

ONE WHO'S GOING TO SEND HIS DOLLAR.

Duluth, May 27.

Casey at the Bat.

The outlook it wasn't brilliant for the Mudville nine that day;
The score stood four to two, with but one inning more to play.
And then when Cooney died at first, and Barrows did the same,
A sickly silence fell upon the patrons of the game.

A straggling few got up to go in deep despair. The rest
Clung to that hope which springs eternal in the human breast;
They thought if only Casey could get a whack at that—
We'd put up even money now with Casey at the bat.

But Flynn preceded Casey, as did also Jimmy Blake,
And the former was a lulu, and the latter was a cake;
So upon that stricken multitude grim melancholy sat,
For there seemed but little chance of Casey's getting to the bat.

But Flynn let drive a single, to the wonderment of all,
And Blake, the much despised, tore the cover off the ball,
And when the dust had lifted, and the men saw what had occurred,
There was Johnnie safe at second, and Flynn a-hugging third.

Then from five thousand throats, or more, there rose a lusty yell;
It rumbled through the valley; it rattled in the dell;
It knocked upon the mountain and recoiled upon the flat,
For Casey, mighty Casey, was advancing to the bat.

There was ease in Casey's manner as he stepped into his place;
There was pride in Casey's bearing and a smile on Casey's face.
And when, responding to the cheers, he lightly doffed his hat,
No stranger in the crowd could doubt 'twas Casey at the bat.

Ten thousand eyes were on him as he rubbed his hands with dirt;
Five thousand tongues applauded when he wiped them on his shirt.
Then while the writhing pitcher ground the ball into his hip,
Defiance gleamed in Casey's eye, a sneer curled Casey's lip.

And now the leather-covered sphere came hurtling through the air,
And Casey stood a-watching it in haughty grandeur there.
Close by the sturdy batsman the ball unheeded sped—
"That ain't my style," said Casey.
"Strike one!" the umpire said.

From the benches, black with people, there went up a muffled roar,
Like the beating of the storm-waves on a stern and distant shore.
"Kill him! Kill the umpire!" shouted some one in the stand;
And it's likely they'd have killed him had not Casey raised his hand.

With a smile of Christian charity great Casey's visage shone;
He stilled the rising tumult; he bade the game go on;
He signalled to the pitcher, and once more the spheroid flew;
But Casey still ignored it, and the umpire said: "Strike two!"

"Fraud!" cried the madden thousands, and the echo answered "Fraud!"
But one scornful look from Casey and the audience was awed.
They saw his face grow stern and cold, they saw his muscles strain,
And they knew that Casey wouldn't let the ball go by again.

The sneer is gone from Casey's lip, his teeth are clenched in hate;
He pounds with cruel violence his bat upon the plate.
And now the pitcher holds the ball, and now he's let it go,
And now the air is shattered by the force of Casey's blow.

Oh! somewhere in this favored land the sun is shining bright;
The band is playing somewhere, and somewhere hearts are light,
And somewhere men are laughing, and somewhere children shout;
But there is no joy in Mudville—mighty Casey had struck out.

—Ernest L. Thayer.

The Revolutionary War.

Puck: As time goes on it becomes more and more apparent that the American Revolution was a great mistake both from a legal and an ethical standpoint. We belonged to England just as fairly and squarely as anything—just as fairly as we now belong to the Trusts, or as fairly as the Philippines belong to us. England was in the business of owning us and making us pay for the privilege. We had no right to interfere. Many a widow and orphan had an interest in us. It may not be too late to make restitution.

Ruin and Desolation.

Puck: Statistics are frightfully embarrassing at times. For instance, Trade-with-the-Philippines statistics must be frightfully embarrassing to our friends the High Protectionists. The new tariff law which permits the interchange of practically all articles free of duty between the Philippines and the States has almost doubled the volume of trade in both directions. The new law went into effect eight months ago and the improvement was noticeable at once. As it bids fair to continue, the embarrassment of the High Protectionists is unlikely to diminish, every dollar's worth of increase making more ridiculous his oft-spoken claim that free trade spells "ruin." The Filipinos are profiting, and the people of the United States are profiting, too, by the removal of the stupid obstructions to trade which existed for over ten years, or ever since Spain relinquished the islands. What is now being demonstrated in a comparatively small way by the Philippine trade statistics might be demonstated in a large way if the tariff obstructions between the United States and Canada were removed for actual good. If the effect of the removal of the Philippine tariff, the Philippines being 5,000 miles away, is almost to double trade in less than a year, the effect of the removal of the Canadian tariff, Canada being right at our door, would be to—well, at all events, it would cause the High Protectionist some embarrassment of a most painful sort.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

The New Patriotism.

As once more we draw near the most tender day of all those in the year set apart for national commemoration, the uttermost sentiment in the heart of every true American is that of patriotism. This is one of the three or four high emotions that give dignity and worth to life. Not easy to define in words we always recognize it when we see it embodied in deeds. When the little bands of veterans go from grave to grave with their floral offerings to their fallen comrades, we shall have no doubt that half a century ago in this country patriotism was a tremendous force. The empty sleeve here, the limping gait there, the furrowed countenances, the bowed forms, tell the story of love to country as no amount of oratory could ever do.

But when we turn from such sights and the scenes which they suggest, the gory battlefields, the forced marches, the crowded hospitals and the loathsome prison pens—to the world as it is today we find a totally different situation, a united country, thousands of peaceful industries in operation everywhere throughout our borders, and a far more complex, albeit less warlike national life. In this world with which we and our children have to do where is the field for patriotism; how can it manifest itself?

At once the need of a redefinition of patriotism arises. It is the same word to the magic of which the boys in blue responded in the early sixties, but we must fill it with a larger meaning, just as the content of the word "parent" or the word "Christian" ought to be larger and richer today because of all the light that is being shed on the duties and opportunities of parenthood, and on the meaning and reach of the Christian life. Patriotism in essence is just what it was when it sent men to a glorious death at Thermopylae and Gettysburg, but the form of its expression in the twentieth century will not be just what it was in the century before Christ or in the nineteenth century after him.

The new patriotism, the patriotism which we and the coming generation are called upon to foster and exhibit, will not have as its chief symbol, the gun. Its first appeal will not be to arms but to the intelligence and reasonableness of men. Its methods will be argumentative, persuasive, not belligerent. It will say, "Come, brother, let us reason together and find, if we can, a way out of this difficulty that shall be alike honorable to both." 'Tis dog's delight to bark and fight, but rational beings in this enlightened age should not double up their fists and square off for a fight either with their knuckles or with a great fleet of dreadnoughts. The new patriotism, if it is worthy to be a successor to the old, will exalt the functions of international tribunals that shall mete out justice to contending parties and whose decisions shall be universally accepted just as all sensible people abide by the decisions of the highest courts.

The new patriotism will also be distinguished by its cosmopolitanism. This does not mean that we shall cease to be especially fond of our own nation. That is just as legitimate as to be fond of our own family or our religious denomination. But it does mean that we shall appreciate the greatness of other countries, and their just claims to a place in the family of nations. Americans ought to be the last people in the world to disesteem other countries, for we are not already a composite people blending many national strains, and therefore bound by many ties to the countries beyond the seas.

In one particular at least the new patriotism can hardly be an improvement on the old, for in any age the patriot counts not his life dear unto himself. We cannot hope to outstrip those whom we mourn today in valor and self-sacrifice. We do well if we simply equal them; but here again our place of duty is not under burning Southern skies or in connection with the abnormal activities of war. The far more prosaic field of every-day life is where we must toil and sacrifice in order that our dear land may still be free, united and righteous. Every community suffers because of a dearth of citizens ready to give up time, money, leisure, opportunities for self-culture and professional rewards, in order to serve the state. Since last Memorial day we have had at least one shining instance of this type of patriotism. But not even the warmest friends of Governor Hughes would claim that he is the only one who is helping to keep alive in America this type of citizenship. If you are not doing it too, you can if you will only try.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Heaven seems so much farther away from home than the other place.

The foolisher a girl is when she is engaged to a man the more she can make him show it all.

A man's idea of being patriotic is to act as if he deserved a lot of credit for George Washington.

There seems to be a lot more satisfaction in winning a dollar on a horse race than in earning a hundred.

What a woman likes about having a man make love to her is it's even more exciting than if he meant it.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Coumns ofThe Herald of This Date, 1890.

W. Ira Pendleton, the Denver and Duluth realty holder, arrived in the city yesterday on an important mission, not alone dealing with a seven-story building which he intends to erect here. "I am agitating," he said, "close rail communication with Duluth. Denver people want Duluth rail service. It would help us wonderfully, and also help Duluth. I have been in conference with several Denver and Duluth business men, looking to a consolidation or agreement whereby a Duluth-St. Paul road, a St. Paul-Sioux City road and the Union Pacific road may form a coalition and run freight and passenger trains directly between Duluth and Denver. The distance from Denver to Duluth is 970 miles while from Denver to Chicago it is 1,042 miles."

A Chicago dispatch says the American Linseed Oil company has decided to locate its new factory in Duluth. A contract to this effect has been signed. Duluth is regarded as the natural entrepot for the flax fields of the Dakotas, Iowa and Nebraska, from which the company will secure its raw material. They expect to erect a mill having a capacity of nearly 200 barrels a day and employing sixty men. The plant will cost over $100,000. It is said that George F. Piper, who moved from Mankato to Duluth lately, will become general manager of the mill.

A Lynx which was shot near Northern Pacific Junction by Charles Kugler, measures five feet from fore paws to hind paws and thirty-four inches from tip of tail to nose.

The collections last week of county taxes amounted to nearly $100,000. County Treasurer Johnson thinks the collections this week should reach at least $500,000.

The annual stockholders meeting of the St. Louis Water Power company will be held tomorrow. J. W. Butler of Philadelpiia, representing the Jay Cooke interests, has arrived to attend the meeting.

WHAT OF THE HARVEST?

By SAVOYARD.

I was at the Jefferson dinner at the New Willard in this town on April 13. We had something to eat, a little to drink, heard some very good speeches and were exceptionally harmonious and duly enthusiastic over the development of a political situation, which reveals that there are different sorts of Republicanism in our glorious Union than there are different varieties of Democracy. Everybody predicted a signal victory for the party of Jefferson next November, and if we fail to win then I see nothing for the Democratic party to do but to retire permanently from politics.

But there are more than one million voters in the United States who vainly and delusively imagine that they are Democrats, because they are so labeled, by chance, and these would swim the river to vote for Theodore Roosevelt for president of the United States in 1912. And yet this country has not yet produced a public man, from Alexander Hamilton to Thaddeus Stevens, from Abraham Lincoln to Nelson W. Aldrich, from Ben Wade to Joe Cannon, who was less of a Democrat than Col. Roosevelt, who insulted and slandered Thomas Jefferson's memory in one of his books that he imagines is history.

At this Jefferson dinner, Col. John Temple Graves of the Hearst newspapers, offered the Independence league as a present to the Democratic party. There was much applause, none of which I helped to make, believing, as I do, that the annexation of that layout would turn out a liability and not an asset, if I may steal a witticism from the brilliant Carmack. Like my friend Joe Bailey, I am anxious for our old party to annex some Democracy. It is sadly in need of it.

I don't know precisely what the Independence league is; it is said to have abundance of principles. Let it keep 'em. Graves says it has a million or more voters, but even voters may prove embarrassing to a political party, as witness 1896, when we annexed Jerry Simpson and Tom Watson and their million or owo chips and whetstones, yclept the Populist party, and that cost us the vote of New York which was exchanged for Nebraska.

I hope the house of representatives of the Sixty-second congress will be Democratic by an immense majority. If so, let it enact a tariff bill for revenue only, and send it over to the Republican senate to die in committee. Let it be such a bill that Bailey and Clark, Daniel and Shively, Simmons and Rayner, Florida and Kentucky, New York and Alabama, can stand on. Then, if Harmon is re-elected governor of Ohio, nominate him on that platform, and he will beat any Republican between earth and sky, unless it be Roosevelt, and we may even beat him, who declared that he was a Republican before he was a tariff reformer.

• • •

I was introduced to the Hon. Foss of Massachusetts at the Jefferson dinner. He is the gentleman who put Cape Cod upside down, and turned it inside out, changing a Republican majority of more than 14,000 to a Democratic majority of more than 6,000. Mr. Foss is an insurgent Republican who insurged—that is, he came out from among them and joined the Democratic party flat-footed. He is an extensive manufacturer, a very rich man, and he frankly says that in some lines of his business the Payne tariff allows rim to reap enormous profits, paid by the helpless consumer, as much as 100 per cent frequently, and that he knows it is pure and unadulterated defensible graft, which it is. What a pity that every tariff-blooted manufacturer is not as intelligent, as candid and as honest as the Hon. Foss.

What are the Western insurgents going to do? You can jump across the ditch that separates the tariff ideas of Jonathan P. Dolliver and Champ Clark, where as there is a gulf as wide and as impassable as that between Lazarus and Dives separating the tariff views of Senator Dolliver and Representative Dalzell. If the tariff is to be the paramount in 1912, as it will be if the Democratic party has a "smidgen" of sense, there is no city of refuge for the Western insurgent Republicans but the Democratic party. Why don't they insurge? They are bound to do it as soon as the Democratic party becomes absolutely Democratic.

And yet there is difficulty, though since my last talk with Bailey of Texas I do not think it insurmountable. If the next congress shall turn up with a Democratic majority at all, it will be the result of a tidal wave like that of 1890, when the Democrats from north of Mason & Dixon's line outnumbered the Democrats from the south of that line—the "Solid South" as it then was, including the border states of Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia, Kentucky and Missouri. Every Democrao in the Sixty-second congress from north of Mason & Dixon's line will favor free raw materials and tariff for revenue only on the finished product, and at least half the Southern Democrats will join them, such men as Champ Clark and his fellow-Democrats from Missouri, Ollie James and his fellow-Democrats from Kentucky, Finis Garrett and his fellow-Democrats from Tennessee, Claude Kitchen and possibly some of his fellow-Democrats of North Carolina, and there are others.

There is, however, the possibility of a serious row, such as separated Carlisle and Randall thirty years ago. Senator Bailey would vote to reduce the infamous taxation of schedule "K" one-half, and that would be a great thing, and if Champ Clark, before the present session is over, does not bring the insurgents to the trough and make them feed on that sort of oats he will make a grievous mistake. But would Senator Bailey vote for a schedule "K" that provided free wool and a flat duty of 25 per cent ad valorem on all woolens? If he and every Southern senator and member will do that, we will have a united party in the Sixty-second congress and a united party to confront the enemy in 1912, and we might beat even Roosevelt himself.

Not since 1876 has the Democratic party won a single national victory except on the issue of tariff for revenue only vs. tariff for protection, or as it is better stated, tariff for public purposes vs. tariff for private monopoly. We have that issue again, and the result is bound to be what it was in 1892 if we are only true to ourselves.

I see the French have presented Theodore Roosevelt with a bust of Thomas Jefferson. It seems that they have not read the "historical" works of the colonel in France. Had they done so, they would have discovered what lofty and sovereign contempt the twenty-sixth president of the United States has for his predecessor, the third president of the United States. It were meet if what Roosevelt thinks of the author of the Declaration of Independence and the father of the Democratic party were inscribed on this bust of the sage of Monticello, the profoundest political philosopher the world ever saw, above Edmund Burke, above William E. Gladstone, and above George Mason, even.

Col. Roosevelt has had to submit to some grim demands in his time. It will be recalled that he wrote something or other that was a gross misrepresentation of Jefferson Davis, the head of the Confederate States of America. Mr. Davis, as perfect and as princely a gentleman as the world ever saw, wrote a courteous letter to Col. Roosevelt, pointing out his error, and citing indubitable evidence to sustain his version of the affair. In the school of good breeding, whence Jefferson Davis was graduate, it was taught that by this action Mr. Davis was doing Mr. Roosevelt a favor.

However much of a gentleman he is, Col. Roosevelt is not that sort of a gentleman. With a churlishness that would disgrace a bully of the slums, Mr. Roosevelt replied to the courtesy: "Mr. Theodore Roosevelt can hold no communication with Mr. Jefferson Davis."

And then, when president of the United States, he stulified himself to the gorge by pronouncing a fulsome eulogy on Mr. Davis at Vicksburg, Miss. A gentleman of the school of Jefferson Davis would not have done that to be president for life.

PARABLE OF THE UNWISE FARMER

His Fruit Dropped Through the Holes in the Cart and Was Trampled in the Mud—Shall He Plug Up the Holes and Stop the Loss, or Is That Some Other Fellow's Job?

By F. Park Lewis, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.

(Exclusive Service The Survey Press Bureau.)

Behold a certain farmer was driving along a highway, and as he journeyed he found that he was losing a large part of the choice fruit with which his wagon was loaded. As he saw the product of his labor dropping into the mud of the highway, he called upon his neighbors and friends to help him recover it. Many of the kindly disposed people, leaving their work, came to his assistance, and followed the wagon and picked up the fruit and put it into the wagon again. But most of it was bruised, and some of it had been crushed under the feet of the passers-by.

And as the farmer continued on his journey, other well-meaning people joined in the train, and in the course of time almost the entire load was made up of unclean and bruised fruit. Many weary miles had been traveled after this fashion when an idle fellow sanding by the wayside, seeing the wasteful destruction of fruit and the wearisome and vain toil of the well-intentioned neighbors, called out in derision: "Sir, why dost thou not stop the holes in thy wagon?"

And some of the friends of the farmer answered and said: "Hast thou not heard that it is not pleasant to talk about a defective wagon?" And the farmer said unto the questioner: "Dost thou not know that it is not my duty to mend the wagon, seeing it doth not belong to me?"

In 1908, the state of New York provided for nearly 50,000 physical and moral derelicts, almost two-thirds as many as constitute the standing army of the United States. They were found in prisons, in reformatories, in hospitals for the insane, in asylums for defectives, and in institutions for unfortunates. For their maintenace in that one year, the state appropriated nearly $10,000,000. At least half of those human wrecks were the direct result of vicious conditions which the state could and should control, but in the absence of organized preventive measures dealing with causes, the state not only fails to control, but is controlled to the extent of paying millions of dollars providing for results. This is neither sound sense, prudent economoes, nor wise statesmanship. Furthermore, the increase in degeneracy in all of its forms is appalling. It is taking millions out of the ranks of the producers and putting them into the ranks of the consumers.

The two poisons which are sapping the foundations of our national life are alcohol and veneral diseases. They fill our hospitals for the insane, our colonies for epileptics, our institutions for the feeble-minded, our schools for the blind and deaf, and directly or indirectly contribute largely to the population of our prisons and reformatories. So rapid has been the growth in numbers and cost of maintonance of these dereflcts that should the present ratio of increase continue unchecked for two generations, the exchequer of the state will be hankrupt, while a large proportion of those who should be taxpayers will have become taxeaters.

In recommending technical lines of study, a well-known medical superintendent says that in his judgment, the first and most important is prevention of insanity, idiocy, epilepsy, imbecility, feeble-mindedness, tuberculosis, and crime. The prevention of tuberculosis, which we know now largely how to forestall, and the causes underlying it are being so widely studied that it need not be emphasized; but the attention of the public has not been called so prominently to the prevention of, and the causes underlying, crime. A recent authority asserts that 50 per cent of the criminal classes would probably come under the definition of "social unfits," defective in body or intellect, and totally unable, without help, to shape or direct their lives. An inlightened public sentiment is already recognizing the relationship between poverty, disease and crime. It is a matter of common knowledge that many men committed to prison are men without work and without money, needing pity and relief, and not criminals, needing punishment. The distinction between misfortune, imprudence and crime is sharply defined when the sense of proportion should be carefully observed not only in the making of our laws, but also in their administration.

The urgent necessity of some state control of preventable disease in relation to the insane, is pointed out by the commission in lunacy. General paralysis of the insane is a fatal disease, the victims living, on an average, five years. Its cause is known and preventable—syphilis; its prevention is of greater importance to the human race than that of tuberculosis, which often attacks those whose vital energy syphilis has reduced.

Alcohol is one of the common causes of insanity, epilepsy, paralysis, and tuberculosis; together with venereal diseases it causes half of the blindness.

The institutions for the feeble-minded, the separation of the sexes, the jurisdiction over the retention of defectives in institutions, and the division of the state into districts, should receive attention.

The hour has struck for emancipation. We may no longer sleep and take our rest. Helen Keller prophesies that "the time will come when instead of looking with pride on our great charitable institutions, we shall come to regard them as monuments of our ignorance, stupidity and folly." Hasten the day!

Now the meaning of the parable is this. The farmer is the state; the wagon is the care which the state provides; the fruit, which the farmer is allowing to drop into the mud, is the only source of wealth which the state possesses—her children, with the loss of their integrity, their intelligence, their strength, and their sanity, all other possessions are valueless; the voice is reason and common sense, which calls upon the farmer in the name of humanity to stop the crime of producing degenerates by controlling the things that make degenerates; and the holes in the wagon are alcoholism and venereal diseases, especially syphilis, the mere mention of which shocks many of the philanthropic people who are engaged in picking defaced humanity out of the dirt. The preventable causes of insanity, idiocy, blindness, and crime—causes which, in a vast number of cases, are known and governable—are filling with increasing rapidity the costly institutions which the state continues to erect. Alcoholism and venereal diseases are undermining the foundations of society, and it is evident that unless these causes of degeneracy are stopped, the vitality of the nation will be destroyed, for the iniquity of the fathers is visited upon the children unto the third and fourth generation.

What, then, shall be our answer to the voice? The dominant ideas of today are the conservation of energy and the prevention of waste, whether in materials or in forces. The entire medical profession is concerning itself, not only with curing disease, but also in controlling the conditions that cause disease. Sociologists have long known that the twin curses, alcoholism and venereal diseases, are largely preventable and governable, if not by restrictive legislation, at least by broader education. Were measures taken to limit the losses from these curses, we should be much nearer to the solution of the problem of the high cost of living because thousands of human beings would be conserved as productive forces, adding to the wealth of the nation and thereby lightening the burdens of those less capable.

What shall be our answer to the voice? In the name of economy, of justice, of humanity, let us stop the holes!

IN THE LITERARY WORLD

The seventh volume of this monumental storehouse of religious knowledge is out about three months following Vol. 6, according to the publishers' plans of issuing four volumes a year until twelve volumes are complete. This volume ranges from "Liutprand" to "Moralities," treats 610 topics, contains 520 pages, and includes the work of 141 collaborators. Among the important topics treated are "Lutherans" in fifteen pages, "Methodists" in twenty-four pages, "Mennonites" in ten pages, "The Lord's Supper" in seventeen pages, "The Mass" in sixteen pages, and "Missions to the Heathen" in twenty-four pages. The treatment of "Marriage" covers in rich but brief detail every phase of its historical, ethical, ecclesiastic and religious aspects. As would be expected in a religious encyclopedia, the moral and ethical conceptions of the marriage relationship are given most thorough and learned treatment. Mohammed and Mohammedanism are treated exhaustively. Among the biographies are those of Martin Luther, Philipp Melanethon, David Livingstone, John Locke, Dwight L. Moody, "Chaplain" McCabe and Cardinal McCloskey. St. Luke, St. Mark, St. Matthew, Mary, the mother of Jesus, Mary Magdalene and other Bible characters are briefly but appreciatingly chronicled.

A PLAIN ENGLISHMAN IN ENGLAND. By Charles T. Whitefield. New York: Doubleday, Page & Co. 50 cents.

This is a pleasant and laughable satire on English customs, particularly those centering about ancient British country homes when house parties are on. The English breakfast, the cold morning "tub," the tipping problem and other foibles of British life are treated amusingly in this interesting addition to the library of "Little Comic Masterpieces."

JUST HORSES. By Sewell Ford, author of "Horses Nine," "Shorty McCabe," "Cherub Devine," etc. New York: Mitchell Kennerley. $1 net.

Every lover of a good horse and every lover of a good story will find an irresistable appeal in this collection of stories by the author of "Horses Nine," to which this is a companion volume. There is pathos, humor and reality in these stories, and the author has a crisp and piquant style that makes his story-telling very effective.

THE BOY AVIATORS IN NICARAGUA; or, In League with the Insurgents. By Capt. Wilbur Lawton. New York: Hurst & Co. 50 cents.

The business of navigating the air has been perfected in stories for boys, and with the present volume is a specimen, to a degree that the Wright brothers must work years to reach. Also, the aeroplane, perfected to that high degree of efficiency, is a very convenient implement for working out thrilling tales. This story gives the adventures of Frank and Harry Chester, "the boy aviators," with some of their friends, and their aeroplane, the Golden Eagle, in Nicaragua, where they join the revolutionists against Zelaya. To bring it thoroughly up to date, this aeroplane is equipped with wireless apparatus. There is at least one thrilling adventure to each chapter, and the story is told with considerable snap.

NOBODY'S COUSIN. By A. Van Ogle. New York: Cochrane Publishing company. 55 cents.

No doubt the author of this novel is a very estimable person. He—or she—introduces it with a poem inspired by lofty sentiments to which nobody could take exception. Yet the book itself is an attempt at making a novel by a person who is utterly unfitted to write one, however valuable he—or she—may be in some other occupation.

THE AIRSHIP BOYS DUE NORTH. or By Balloon to the Pole. By H. L. Sayler. Chicago: The Reilly & Britton company. $1.

Less than a year the first of the Airship Boys series by Mr. Sayler was published. It made an instantaneous hit. Mr. Sayler was given a standing along with such well-known writers as Jules Verne and Robert Louis Stevenson, and among other things discovered by the critics was that Mr. Sayler had shown that rare quality in his work which appeals alike to the adult and youth. A second book of the series followed, and ranked among "the best sellers." Now comes the third—"The Airship Boys Due North." Mr Sayler was quick to see that he had dropped into a prominent niche, and he rightly felt that whatever he did in the future must excel anything done in the past. For that reason he took the necessary time for the work. His idea is a good one—to deliver the boys a thrilling story of educational value true to the principles of aerial navigation. For this purpose he made a full study of aeronautics, and has had the advice of many of the noted men of the day in that line of business, such as Octave Chanute, Victor Loughead, Montgomery, the Wrights, and Curtiss; but the educational and technical parts of his stories are so interwoven with romance that boy or man never knows that he is taking the dose. Mr. Sayler is a very active newspaper man, being manager of the City Press Association of Chicago and has the direction of a large force of reporters. He is now working on the fourth volume of the Airship Boys series which will be published early in the fall.

Of Books and Writers.

To those who read between the lines in his first act of "Chantecler," printed in the June issue of Hampton's Magazine, will be found what is undoubtedly Rostand's sly dig at his critics.

It will be remembered that after the presentation and popularity of "Cyrano de Bergerac," Rostand was the center of a bitter critical fight among various factions in Paris. So terrific was the onslaught at the time that Rostand, who is physically a very delicate man, went into a nervous decline and for a long time it was thought he might die.

Here is the significant passage in which the conspirators against the Cock tell why they do not like him:

The Owl—Thanks! But how is it that you are with us?

The Cat—Ah, night brings out what daylight will not own to! I do not like the Cock because the Dog does. There you have it!

The Turkey—I do not like him for the reason that having known him as a Chick I cannot admit him as a Cock.

A Duck—I do not like the Cock, because, not being web-footed, he marks his passage by a track of stars.

A Chicken—I do not like the Cock, because I'm such a homely bird!

Another Chicken—I do not like the Cock because he has his picture painted in purple on all the plates.

Another Chicken—I do not like the Cock, because on all the steeples he has his statue in gilt bronze!

An Owl to a big, overgrown Chicken—Well, well! And you, Capon?

The Capon (drily)—I do not like the Cock!

First Owl (to The Mole)—And you, why do you hate him?

The Mole—I hate him because I have never seen him!

The Cuckoo Clock—Cuckoo!

First Owl—And you, Cuckoo, do you know why you hate him?

The Cuckoo (on the last stroke)—Because he does not have to be wound up! Cuckoo!

The English book world lives under the shadow of another general election, and when it occurs several prominent British authors will be found taking an active part. In the county of Norfolk lives E. Phillips Oppenheim, who has already in his novels, which preceded "The Illustrious Prince," showed his preference for tariff reform. Mr. Oppenheim naturally championed the Conservative candidate at the last general election. It will be recalled that in "A Prince of Sinners," Mr. Oppenheim really preceded Joseph Chamberlain in arguing that the protective policy was the only means of salvation for the British workingman. Beside being a successful author, Mr. Oppenheim had, until recently, extensive manufacturing interests, which he inherited from his father, and he has been a close student of English politics. It is not at all surprising to learn that Mr. Oppenheim is a Conservative candidate in his district at the next general election, a district which is, however, strongly Liberal.

He has generally had the experiene of the details he recounts, and in "The Pursuit," at least, he followed his hero and heroine practically every inch of the way, which led through Spain and Tangier and ended in Messina at the time of the earthquake.

"From the Bottom Up," by Alexander Irvine (Doubleday, Page & Co.), is an unconventional autobiography of a man who has had many interesting things happen to him, and who has, by his own sheer force of will, pushed his way up from the lowest stratum of society, coming into touch with people in all ranks of life. As a sailor he had this interesting experience:

"While lying off Piraeus, I was doing guard duty on deck in the first watch. Toward the close of the watch I was joined on my beat by a man in plain clothes, who, with a lighted cigar in his mouth, marched fore and aft the the starboard side of the ship with me. In anticipation of entering greek waters, I had read up for months, and this stranger astonished to find a common soldier so well informed on the history of Greece. I had not yet been ashore, but I had arranged to go on the following day. The gentleman, on leaving, handed me a card on which he had pencilled what I think was an introduction. I had only time to ask him his name, and he said: 'Georges Just Georges.' Next day I discovered that I had been pow-wowing with King George of Greece."

Probably no one will be as much surprised to know that Winston Churchill has in "A Modern Chronicle" (Macmillan) written an unmoral book as was the author himself. And yet the accusation has been made—even the word "immoral" being applied to the book in some instances. It all comes from the different ways of looking at things. Here, on the one hand, stands the Advance of Chicago and the "Christian Work and Evangelist, both of them stoutly affirming that the moral effect of the book is bad. A presentation of "the disgusting divorce problem of today" "unmoral in tone from beginning to end," they characterize the work. On the other hand, however, are arfayed a number of equally reputable periodicals, the Congregationalist and Christian Work, which declares that "it is the breadth and moral soundness which make the story so well worth while," the Religious Journal and Messenger, which emphasizes the "many wholesome truths" contained therein, and the Christian Register, which calls special attention to Honora, speaking of her as "a perfect woman, nobly planned, to warn, to comfort, and command."

Truly, what one looks for in this life—or in fiction—one finds.

In "A Life for a Life," which is to be published next week by the Macmillans, Robert Herrick has written what will probably be called a bold novel. He has had throughout the courage of his convictions—at no time mincing words, but going right to the heart of the matter and laying it all bare. As a keen analysis of modern business methods and as a vivid presentation of the "rottenness" of certain social circles, "A Life for a Life" possesses no ordinary degree of interest. An absorbing love story is told at the same time, the story of a love which completely governs the hero's life, and enables him to rise up out of the mire and accomplish great things.

The reception with which Mary S. Watts' "Nathan Burke (Macmillan), is meeting at the hands of the general public recalls the treatment accorded at first to Thackeray's works, to which it has been so generally compared by the press of the country. While Thackeray's early literary productions were much discussed, there was in the atmosphere a certain coldness, a suspicion as to their real value. But with the years there came a decided change, and in time, not to know Thackeray was an evidence of inexcusable illiteracy. And a similar situation is being evolved in the case of "Nathan Burke." It has been discussed in the periodicals and literary journals at great length—its form, its characters, its plot, all have been taken up in detail, and the one conclusion which has been reached is that here is a novel extraordinarily worth while; a novel which is going down to posterity and one which, sooner or later, every one will have to read.

A new book by Henryk Sienkiewicz, the Polish author, who wrote "Quo Vadis," "With Fire and Sword," etc., is always an event in the literary world; and his host of admirers in this country will welcome the new volume entitled "Whirlpools" which his American publishers, Little, Brown & Co., Boston, announce for publication early in June. As in "Children of the Soil," the great novelist in his new book, "Whirlpools," deals with the conditions of modern life, and as in "Without Dogma," he has placed the soul of his hero under the microscope, but unlike that work, he has made him the central figure of a group of lifelike characters and an unusual love story. Marynia, the youthful violinist, is said to be one of the author's most beautiful and lovable girl creations "Whirlpools" has been translated from the Polish by Max A. Drezmal.

By the transposition of two words, a comment recently made by William Dean Howells on the poetry of Cale Young Rice in the May number of the North American Review, has been changed from positive to negative. As printed Mr. Howells says: "I could have but little praise for Mr. Rice's poetry." Mr. Howells' comment should have read: "I could have little but praise for Mr. Rice's poetry." Any misquotation of so eminent an authority as Mr. Howell should be set right.

Among the Magazines.

The first of a series of three papers by George Kennan, reviewing the events that have taken place in Russia since the "Bloody Sunday" of January, 1905, makes its appearance in the June Century. During the last thirty years Mr. Kennan, through his articles published in the Century and elsewhere, has become one of the leading authorities on political and social conditions in Russia. His revelations of the barbarities involved in the convict system of Siberia attracted the attention of the civilized world, and gained for him the fear as well as the respect of the czar's government. Among the important articles, having a distinctly timely interest, appearing in the June Century is a notable contribution by T. R. Macmechen and Carl Dienstbach, special students or aeronautics, who present a novelforecast of some of the possibilities of aerial warfare based on recent investigations of some of the peculiarities observed in the flight of birds. Another article, by Andrew Carnegie, gives a careful analysis of recent contributions to the movement having universal peace for its object, and shows wherein President Taft's pronouncement before the Peace and Arbitration society on the 22nd of March is one of the most vital helps to the anti-war crusade. An article by Clayton Sedgwick Cooper, following his "College Men and the Bible," reveals the religious ferment through which India is at present passing, and indicates, by means of a recital of actual experiences in that country, the interest that is being awakened there in the teachings and practice of Christianity. Noteworthy, also, in the literature of reminiscence is a paper by William M. Chase on "Two Whistlers," in which are given many characteristics and illuminative anecdotes of the great painter and etcher.

The sixtieth anniversary of Harper's Magazine is observed in the June number, notably through an article by the editor, Henry Mills Alden, who sets aside his rule of contributing to the magazine only through the Editor's Study, and reviews the policies and accomplishments of Harper's during the last decade. In this number Gaillard Hunt sketches an intimtae picture of Mrs. Madison's first drawing room, and Howard J. Shannon, in an exceptional article with original drawings, details the manifestations of life in miorscopic animals of the sea. Deshler Welch's initial article describes Marseilles; Florence Lucas Seville of the Philadelphia Consumers' league tells of the home life of the Pennsylvania silk mill girls; and Charles W. Furlong, F.R.G.S., relates his experience among the sheep ranches of Patagonia. There are two professors' articles—Prof. Lounsbury's of Yale on artificial and natural changes in usage, and Prof. Robert Kennedy Duncan's, of the University of Kansas, on the question of the atom. In fiction "The Wild Olive" draws to a close, and the short stories are by Edward S. Martin, Alice Brown, James Hopper, Muriel Campbell Dyar, and several others. There is a "Serenade" in verse by Owen Wister.

The Memorial day number of the Youth's Companion is an American number, through and through. "The Rose-Colored Acacia," by Elsie Singmaster, is a story of reconciliation over the graves of the Blue and the Gray. The story of "A Man's Work," by Garland P. Ferrell, is convincing proof that a story of cowboy life can keep one's interest aroused to the keenest pitch, without the introduction of a single bad man. James B. Connolly's article on "The American Boy and the Navy" shows what opportunities lie open to the young enlisted man in the American naval service. And the beautiful cover of this issue symbolizes a custom which is growing in our seacoast towns of scattering flowers on the sea Memorial day in tribute to the sailors of the navy who sleep beneath the waves.

June is a month in which so many important events happen that the comprehensive woman's magazine must be unusually full of interesting articles. The June number of the Woman's Home Companion includes "Wedding Gifts that Are Different," "A Novel Graduation Program," "When You Graduate," "A Vacation Trip to Europe," etc. Kate V. Staint-Maur contributes another of her practical articles this month on strawberry culture, and the love song, "You're Worth the World to Me," by Alfred G. Robyn, is just the right thing to sing on summer evenings. Unusually carefully selected fashions are shown this month by Grace Margaret Gould, with an eye particularly to the needs of the girl graduate. The special departments are filled with timely and good advice on many subjects, and the young readers of the Woman's Home Companion find in the June number almost a small magazine for themselves. Among the offerings in the children's department is a letter from Selma Lagerlof, the author of that now famous fairy story, "The Adventures of Nils."

Full of interest and valuable information the Wide World Magazine for June upholds its reputation as being unique among present-day periodicals. The stories and articles are all founded on fact and deal with every corner of the civilized and uncivilized world. From Alaska to San Pedro Bay, from Mexico to German East Africa, the amount of territory which this single number covers is remarkable. Shark-fishing, bear-hunting, show-boating, swimming, etc., are all dealt with, while the stories of exploration and adventure are full of fascination. A curious narrative is related by Laurence D. Young, who affirms that a man named Durgot accomplished the superhuman task of swimming the whirlpool rapids of Niagara. Other interesting articles include an account of the little-known kingdom of Ternate and the "Enchanted Islands."

"What about the Democratic party?" is the title of Ray Stannard Baker's article in the June American Magazine. In it Mr. Baker points out that the Democratic party is steadily gaining strength. The tariff, the Aldrich-Cannon combine and the mistakes of the Taft administration are responsible for a great shift in public opinion. Mr. Baker believes that the next house will be Democratic. This article is a most conslusive and authoritative summing up of the present political situation. James Oppenheim writes of his investigations among the almshouses in New York state. The things of which he writes are almost unbelievable. It is hard to conceive of such human suffering as Mr. Oppenheim describes. "The Wonders of Pitching," by Hugh S. Fullerton, is another of the notable series of baseball articles which are appearing in this magazine. Other features, all of which are amusing and of a humorous vein are 'A Week of One Night Stands," by Bennet Musson, "A Plain American in England," by Charles T. Whitefield, and "Upon the Threatened Extinction of the Art of Letter Writing," by George Fitch.

The Strand for June contains nine stories by popular writers and twelve articles of interest. George Edwardes, of the Gaiety and Daly's theaters, London, writes his "Reminiscences" and incidentally remarks that a musical comedy seldom pays on its London production. Willy Clarkson, the famous "make-up" man, discourses on "The Art of Disguise," and an anonymous writer contributes an appreciative article—fully illustrated—on "The Art of the British Working Man." Another series of "Life-Size Portraits" is given, the photographs including Maude Adams, William Gillette, Ida Conquest, Ethel Barymore and David Belasco. An interesting "nature" article is one entitled "A Plant that Quenches Thirst." Andrew Soutar describes and illustrates a number of models which have been "produced in court" to aid juries in their decisions. The issue is interesting from cover to cover.

The June number of Success magazine opens with an article of unusual interest, entitled "The Marriage Factory," which is the first of a series on "Marriage in America," by Robert Haven Schauffer. "The Evils of the Night Messenger Service," by Leroy Scott, contains an appeal to every thoughtful American citizen for the protection of the boys in that service. A noteworthy business article is "Our Chance in South America," by Charles Johnson Post. "Congress—Helpless and Hopeless" is an article by Arthur I. Street on conditions in the United States treasury department. Inez Haynes Gillmore contributes another "Janey" story, "Janey and the Stork," in which the young heroine wrestles with a new problem. There is an amusing sketch by Ellis Parker Butler, entitled "On Jury Duty," and another, "On the Ebb Tide," by Wilbur Daniel Steele.

The best chapter so far of Theodore Roosevelt's hunting experiences leads the June number of Scribner's Magazine. In "Elephant Hunting on Mount Kenia" he gives all the romance and adventure that is associated with the huge animal that is the subject of unflagging interest around the camp fires of African hunters. "Some American Preparatory Schools," by Arthur Ruhl, gives a sympathetic and discriminating account of the charm of the life of such schools as Andover, Exeter, Groton, St. Paul's, St. Mark's, Lawrenceville, and The Hill school. Each school has traditions and a distinct character of its own. It puts its stamp on a boy which is as well recognized as that of the older colleges; indeed the tone of the colleges themselves has been greatly influenced by groups of men from these influential schools. Mr. Ruhl's knowledge is first hand. No better picture has been given of the actual life of the boys in this formation period. "The Proposed Development of Inland Waterways" is a competent discussion by a skillful student of transportation problems of why a policy of extravagance in developing water transportation should not be blindly entered upon. He believes in the gradual, scientific, and systematic improvement of existing waterways, and not in revolutionary schemes which will be economically unprofitable.

Variety is quite as much the spice of magazines as it is of life, and the editor who fails to realize this fact soon finds himself with a dwindling subscription list. One publication which always shows commendable discretion in the selection of its contents is Lippincott's. Its May issue contained a stirring adventure novelette by Will Levington Comfort—he of "Routledge Rides Alone" fame. The complete novel for June is as dissimilar to it as it well could be, yet it is just as good a story—just as well written, just as interesting. The title of it is "Francine," and the author is Marie Louise Goetcalus, who has the book "Anne of Treshout" and many excellent short stories to her credit. Francine, of course, is the name of the little French heroine, who leaves her home in the Paris Quartier Latin and comes to New York to join her uncle, Jacques. He has been in America a whole year, and has become quite Americanized, but Francine proves less adaptable, and constantly fails afoul of Mrs. Grundy and the conventions, to Jacques' great distress. The tale portrays the French life and character with a fidelity little short of marvelous. There is much humor in it, and a little sadness, and in the end the reader is glad to find that the mercurial Jacques and the dainty Francine are on the high road to happiness

Among the leading articles in The World Today for June are: "The Menace of the Police, the Delays of Justice," by Hugh C. Weir, a startling expose of the abuses existing in the judicial system of the United States; "The Elimination of Graft," by Brand Whitlock, mayor of Toledo, a strong presentation by a practical former of the hold graft has upon public service and municipal officeholders; "What the English Have Done for Egypt," by Henry C. Morris, an interesting showing of the improvements resulting from British control. Other articles are: "Pioneering Universal Brotherhood"—an editorial relative to the Laymen's Missionary movement; "The Security of Investments in Mexico," by Theodore N. Ely; "Health for the Makers of Health Foods," by Truman Armstrong; "The Harvest Moon," by Augustus Thomas, condensed by Lucy France Pierce; "A Holiday in Norway," by Carlton Foster; "Portaitures with the Camera," by C. This issue contains a humorous story by William Hemmingway, an article on the photography of sound waves by A. Lawrence Hodges, a scathing arraignment of the Ibsen craze by William Winter, and the usual editorial and humor features.

TWO DULUTH ARTISTS IN ATTENDANCE AT EXHIBIT ARE LOUD IN ITS PRAISE

REVIEWED BY ERICSON

Talented Duluthian Gives His Opinion of Paintings Shown.

Art Not a Luxury, But a Necessity, He Says.

DAVID ERICSON.

C. C. ROSENKRANZ.

David Ericson, who is proudly claimed by Duluth, was born in Sweden in 1870. His career is set forth as follows in the catalogue issued by the Duluth Art association for the exhibit now being held at the court house:

Born in 1870 in Sweden. Studied in New York under W. M. Chase and Mr. Mawbray. In 1900 he went abroad, traveled in France, Belgium and Italy. Finally took up his studies in Paris, under James McNeil Whistler and Prenet, exhibiting at the Salon in 1901 and 1902 his pictures called 'Moonbeams' and 'Orpheus,' also 'Nativity,' which had the place of honor in the Salon in 1902. He has taken a gold medal in Paris, silver medal at the St. Louis World's fair, honorable mention at the Pittsburg International exhibition. His pictures have been hung at all of the important exhibitions in New York, Washington, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Buffalo. He is member of the Minnesota Art commission, and a member of the Paris American Art society. He is represented in all of the best collections in Duluth, in Buffalo, New York, Chicago, Detroit, Paris, France, London and Minneapolis.

"David Ericson is represented in this year's Paris Salon by an important painting called 'Winter.' His pictures are noted for individuality, dignity of composition, charm of color and poetic sentiment. The Paris and New York critics have written of him as one of the most artistic and poetic painters of our times."

Mr. Ericson has written the following concerning the Duluth exhibit and a few of the pictures that appeal to him:

"The citizens of Duluth are to be congratulated upon the beautiful exhibition now going on at the courthouse. Through the generosity of its patrons it has developed into one of the finest picture shows that one could see anywhere. The art society deserves the greatest praise for the selection of the pictures and in the arrangement of the galleries. One is particularly struck with the good discernment of the picture buyers. There are, naturally, many pictures chosen for their literariness, but one finds here and there those chosen for their artistic merits alone. There have been but few events in the city of equal educational importance. No influence is so refining, so encouraging to thoroughness, or so stimulating to the imagination as art. It is the dividing line between mere education and culture. It stands for development. It is life to be sensitive to form, color and good taste. We recall the past, we realize the present and dream of the future, according to our power of perception.

"We have too long considered art a luxury. It is a necessity. The exhibition pictures may be divided into two classes, prose and poetry. Of the two, poetry is the higher art. It is the early morning, with its receding mystery, the charming twilight, or the bewitching moonbeams, which have oftenest inspired the greatest minds in modern art. There is always the greatest joy in illusions. A great picture conveys more than the actual reproduction. It must have also the essence. The artist learns to do thoroughly, only to leave out intelligently. It is the expression, the emotion that should concern the public. 'Art is the science of the beautiful,' as my master, Mr. Whistler, used to say. And that covers the ground. How colorless is life without it. The Duluth Art association has made a fine beginning. May its enthusiasm long continue.

"Among the pictures shown this year, 'The Prayer,' by Charlet, is one of the finest examples of Flemish art, beautifully enveloped and charming in color; and is the only example of Flemish modern art owned in the city, as far as I know. There is also a very rich Schreyer, one of his usual pictures of Arabs on horseback, one of the richest in coloring by this artist. The Ziem canvas—a Venetian scene in crimson and blue, is a most satisfactory picture by this artist. The Daubigny is most harmonious in dull tapestry tints, worthy of a place in any gallery.

"In the Bol, a genuine example by the old Dutch master, the warm, transparent shadows enveloping a beautiful oval face and trickling down over the rich brown cape and white lace, is most masterly. This picture has a place of honor, and is a very rare and wonderful example of the period of Rembrandt. It is a picture well worth studying.

"The Childe Hassam, a moonlight, a blue-green picture, is the most vibrating of anything I have sen by this artist. The mysterious shadows thrown across the white house from a nearby tree, and the mysterious sky, produce a most enjoyable effect.

"The Blakelock is a powerful, romantic landscape, and should be especially noticed, as this artist stands alone in this kind of expression. Blakelock is an American.

"Mr. Rosenkranz has several very strong landscapes. I consider his 'Smoky Day,' a square silvery picture of Duluth harbor, showing the Duluth elevators in the distance and a small sail boat flitting across the middle distance, in its color and technique especially consistent. This picture is shown for the first time in Duluth, but I am sure will gain much praise in outside exhibitions. Also, 'The Silence of the Night,' one of this artist's works, the pine trees of Park Point enveloped in the mystery of night, has a subtle charm that makes it stand out in the exhibition as something especially personal. It shows the coming greatness of this man."

Mr. Ericson's own picture, "The Nativity," which is hung in the place of honor at the exhibit, at the end of the long corridor at the north end of the gallery, is the largest canvas exhibited, and the largest work of this artist. The picture shows the Virgin Mary, a young solemn, appealing figure, holding the Infant Christ, while the kings and wise men kneel in adoration. There are ten figures in the canvas, life size. In speaking of this picture this week, in response to interested questions, Mr. Ericson told its history. The picture was begun ten years ago in his studio in Paris, and he has been working at it off and on ever since, so that it is, in a sense, the result of ten years' effort.

"I have tried to show in it the wonder and adoration of all the universe to 'The New Life,'" said the artist. "The thing I most wanted was to present the lofty sentiment that inspired all of those near, the wonder and solemnity of the young mother and the reverence of the adorers."

The canvas is flooded with the soft, mellow lamp light, and beyond, in the distance, in contrast is the blue of the sky.

On either side of "The Nativity" are two moonlight pictures, mysterious and beautiful. Mr. Ericson's newest picture, which he calls "Fourth of July," is an especially interesting canvas. It is a night scene, with fireworks bursting in the air. It has a peculiar local interest, as it was inspired by a view from Lakeside looking toward Superior, and Park Point is suggested in a wraithlike figure across the canvas. Branches of a pine tree, Japanese in effect, are in the foreground on one side of the picture, and in the shadow, barely distinguishable, are figures hurrying toward the center of interest. The picture is attracting much attention.

MEMORIAL DAY PROCLAMATION

By the Mayor

Whereas, Memorial Day is a legal holiday, and the true significance of its observance is becoming more and more appreciated as time goes on, the spirit of patriotism is by no means dormant, as evidenced by the splendid organization composing the Citizens' Staff, who have organized for the purpose of perpetuating the memories sacred to this day.

In order that this day may be properly observed, I hereby request all business houses to close, and that the citizens in general cease all unnecessary labor; that all places of amusement be closed until after 3 o'clock; and that the saloons comply with the law by closing from 10 a. m. until 3 p. m.

M. B. CULLUM,
Mayor.

PLEASED AT RESPONSE

C. C. Rosenkranz Says That Art Exhibit Appeals to All.

Doors Will Be Open on Sunday and Memorial Day.

C. C. Rosenkranz, who is engaged by the art association as its direcor during the exhibition, has been a resident of Duluth for three years. He was former art director of the Duluth art school. Mr. Rosenkranz studied in New York under William, M. Chase, Walter Sherlaw and John Ward Stimson. He was a scholaship pupil at the Artists-Artisans Institute of New York and was art teacher at the Newark Seminary and Art club and was for three years art director of the Buffalo Y. M. C. A. He is a member of the Newart, N. J., Art club, the Buffalo Society of Artists and the Society of Artists and the Fine Arts academy.

Mr. Rosenkranz has been at the exhibit during every hour it has been open to the public during the week, and he is much pleased at the response which has come from the people of the city. "An art exhibit appeals to every one," he said today. "A child draws pictures and is attracted to them and through every age there is something in them that holds the interested attention of people. An exhibit, too, is for study, and many visitors and the Duluth people have been coming often during the week. Many come in for a few minutes at noon hour and will make another visit in the evening for a prolonged inspection and that is exactly the thing that we most want. A fine picture is a test for the observer as well as a thing to be judged. If we stand before a picture of acknowledged perfection and remark: "I do not care for it," it is the person who lacks, not the picture and when you stand before a fine picture it is silently judging you. An artist makes a picture because the impulse to create is within him. When he has finished, the observer must bring something of imagination and sympathy, or the picture will mean little. If the painter depicts with too much minuteness there is no room for imagination.

"Every one should be satisfied with the exhibit that the Duluth association is giving the public this year for there are good examples of the different kinds of pictures that should satisfy every one. 'Against the Sky,' by Frank Benson, is as fine a piece of out of door painting as we have. It is fresh and bright and direct in technique. The 'Bay of Naples,' a little study by the great Turner is fine in composition and classic in feeling. There is a wonderful Rosseau, vigorous and masculine, and in it you feel the elemental things, the solidness of the earth, the vigor of the trees and it is withal beautiful in color. There is a large canvass of Keith, a dark forest with the trunks of trees gleaming out of it that is fine; there are two canvases of Le Sidaner, wonderful in atmosphere and delicate in color; two beautiful examples of Mauve and others of the French school. 'A Mountain Sunset' by Charles Warren Eaton is one of the most dramatic things he has done; 'Sunset on the Plains,' by A. H. Wyant is most unusual in color; in all of this there must be an appeal to every taste. There are pictures from the foremost American landscape artists and good foreign things.

"The exhibit is, I think, directly reaching the Duluth public and in this the public can feel one of the direct benefits of having a public building available for the such purposes. Every citizen feels when he comes to the courthouse that he is in an institution in which he has a part. The hours that have been named for Sunday, from 1 to 7 o'clock, and on Memorial day, from 1 to 10 o'clock have been planned for the people who are occupied during the week. The officers and directors of the association hope that a large number will avail themselves of the opportunity to visit the exhibition at that time."

Chamberlain's Liniment.
This is a new preparation and a good one. It is especially valuable as a cure for chronic and muscular rheumatism, and for the relief from pain which it affords in acute inflammatory rheumatism. Those who have used it have invariably spoken of it in the highest terms of praise. Lame back, lame shoulder and a stiff neck are due to rheumatism of the muscles, usually brought on by exposure to cold or damp, and are quickly cured by applying this liniment freely and massaging the effected parts. Soreness of the muscles, whether induced by violent exercise or injury, is allayed by this liniment. For sale by all druggists.

SAYS FARMERS ARE LUCKY MEN

Senator Smoot Tells About the Increase in Their Finances.

Washington, May 28.—Presenting a series of tables, Senator Smoot yesterday addressed the senate with regard to conditions of farmers in this country compared with their condition in 1896.

"When the prices of practically all commodities have shown some advance during the last few years," he said, "the products of the farm show a much greater advance than do the prices of the products of mines and factories."

He gave the following specification: Corn, 118 per cent; wheat, 88 per cent; cotton, 92 per cent; oats, 132 per cent; rye, 117 per cent; barley, 126 per cent; hay, 49 per cent; hops, 340 per cent; potatoes, 73 per cent; flax seed, 142 per cent; cattle, 92 per cent; fat hogs, 172 per cent; dairy butter, 57 per cent; eggs, 107 per cent.

Commenting upon the general conditions, Mr. Smoot said:

"The financial condition of the grain raiser of the Northwest, the general farmer of the Middle West, the cotton planter of the South, is better than ever before. Financially, the farmer has become independent. The general free delivery and the telephone have placed him in touch with the world, and he is as familiar with current events as is the city dweller."

MINNESOTA UNIVERSITY

Interesting Facts About Comet Discovered By Prof. Leavenworth.

Minnesota's First Ethnic Census Completed By Sociology Class.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Prof. Leavenworth discovered in his investigations that Halley's comet has a horn or long tapering nose, which is ahead of the comet proper. He was able to make several good drawings of it and hopes to get a photograph soon. According to the records the horn or luminous jet is the same as the one seen during the period of the comet of 1835.

The jet observed by Prof. Leavenworth extends for some distance ahead of the comet and slightly to one side of the main body. It is highly luminous and drawings of it resemble sketches of the seed of a milkweed—just the sharp-pointed seed then a trail of wool or "tail."

Minnesota's first ethnic census has just been completed by Dr. A. E. Jenks' sociology class. Only a portion of the city of Minneapolis was covered in the enumeration but the results obtained are so highly satisfactory from a scientific viewpoint that the work will be continued next year and it is not improbable that it may be extended either offically or by the university to cover the entire state.

While undertaken in the first place to interest students of sociology and ethnology in their work it appears that much valuable information, not readily obtained from the federal census statistics, may be made available by broadening the scope of the work. Dr. Jenks in starting his students as census enumerators was particularly desirous that they observe percentages of foreigners and the process of amalgamation or intermarriage of nationalities in America.

"Initiated" is to be the title of the senior play of the class of 1910. It is a three-act comedy of campus life, dealing with one of the most vital problems at Minnesota today. The first act is to be the great river bank scene, featuring the big chorus hit of the Union opera and will be sung by the engineer quartet, in the sentimental dusk of a Mississippi twilight. The second act is at the junior ball and is to give a beautiful stage picture of the most prominent seniors. The third act and finale is class day on the campus knoll and shows all the brilliancy of a beautiful June day with the maze of white dresses backed by the campus green.

The title of the senior specialties in the play is "Forty-Five Minutes From Folwell." It is an operetta in four vignettes. There are from thirty to a 190 people on the stage at all times. The big song hit of the operetta is the "New Minnesota," the third great loyalty song which is to become the property of the university.

RATES TO RED WING ARE DECLARED UNFAIR.

Washington, May 28.—Unduly discriminatory freight rates from Eastern points of origin to Red Wing, Minn., are being exacted by the all-rail and rail and lake transportation companies, according to an opinion handed down today by the Interstate commerce commission. The carriers are ordered, by July 15, to put in rates that will place the shippers of Red Wing on the same basis as those of St. Paul.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The school year is nearly ended, the three lower classes only having three more weeks and the seniors two more.

The invitations for class night and the commencement exercises have been ordered and will be out in a few days.

Mr. Sprague has chosen several essays to be read commencement night. Marianne Williamson, Alma Straud and Elizabeth Mitchell will read essays and Robert Donaldson will deliver the class oration.

The senior-freshmen debate for the championship of the school will take place Wednesday morning during the chapel hour. The seniors will have the affirmative and the freshmen the negative of the question, "Resolved, That Duluth Should Adopt the Commission Form of Government."

Miss Hughes' classes did not recite Monday and Miss Carson's classes were dismissed Wednesday on account of the illness of the instructors.

The high school students will meet at the school Monday morning and from there they will go to the armory to take part in the Memorial day parade. Memorial day exercises were held at school yesterday and besides speeches by Col. Bates and several other veterans of the war the following musical program was rendered:

"Hark to the Tread (Chopin's funeral march) with solos by Miss Alice Sjoselius.
"Requiem," a memorial anthem.....
A. F. M. Custance.
"Soldier's Charms" ("Faust").....
"American Flag" .....
"Taps" .....
Solo .....
Alice Sjoselius.
Cornet solo.....
C. Helmer.

Mr. Custance's recently published setting.

The sudden death of Miss Taylor's mother has cast a shadow of gloom over the school.

The senior class, out of respect for Miss Taylor, who has always taken a great interest in the class, postponed its farewell party from last night to some future date.

The Zenith will be completed June 13.

Professors Sprague, Romeaux and Ging will hold summer school in vacation for the benefit of those students who failed and wish to make up the work. It will probably be held in the high school building but nothing is definite concerning the place.

The basketball team will meet Tuesday to elect a captain for next year. The captaincy of the team for next year seems to lie between "Morrey" Harvis and Ralph Waldron.

Yesterday was the last day for handing in names for the junior-senior party. The members of the senior and junior classes were permitted to hand in the names of outsiders whom they wish to receive invitations.

"Dutch" Jeronimous resigned the vice presidency of the athletic association and Harold Kelly was elected to take his place.

J. W. Young's lecture on art Wednesday morning had its effect upon the pupils and at almost any time some of the students may be seen visiting the art exhibit at the courthouse.

Many of the students are greatly interested in the prize contest for the best essay and many are being written.

Mr. Gibson's fifth and sixth period botany classes went on a botanical expedition Wednesday.

Asher Taylor, one of the best athletes who ever attended Central left school this week, and has taken a position in one of the banks.

Spirit Lake seems to be a popular place for the students. Last night a party composed of Ruth Borland, Florence Boden, Alma Strand, Margaret Elders, Eleanor Reichert, Winnefred Warner, John Scanlon, Charles Kelly, Beverly Jones, Harold Williams, Frank Scanlon, Al Taylor and Albert Codding spent the evening there.

The baseball team received its first real defeat Wednesday at the hands of Nelson Dewey, the score being 14 to 1. The boys surely took a balloon ascension.

The senior-faculty game will take place a week from today.

If a few more table guests would make it profitable for you to keep boarders, then you have business for a Herald want ad.

HUGHES CALLS THE LEGISLATURE BACK.

Albany, N. Y., May 28.—Believing that there should be further opportunity for considering the Cobb compromise direct nomination bill, which was defeated in the assembly Thursday night, after many hours of filibuster, Governor Hughes late yesterday called an extraordinary session of the legislature to meet on Monday, June 20.

This is the third time during his four years of administration that Governor Hughes has called the legislature back after it had adjourned. Three years ago the reapportionment bill was passed, and the following year the anti-gambling bills were the issue.

MEMORIAL DAY

On Monday, May 31st, this store will be closed all day out of respect for the dead and in honor of the living soldiers who fought for their country.

A POPULAR VERDICT

Based on Evidence of Duluth People.

Grateful thousands tell it—

How weak backs were made strong—

Weak kidneys made well—

Urinary disorders corrected.

Duluth people add their testimony.

They gladly praise Doan's Kidney Pills

For quick relief and lasting cures.

Duluth evidence is now complete.

Duluth testimony is confirmed;

Reports of early relief substantiated.

Cures doubly proved by test of time.

Let a Duluth citizen speak.

J. H. Tomlin W. Palmetto St., Duluth, Minn., says: "Backache clung to me persistently for two years and finally became so severe that I had to lay off from work. If I brought the least strain on the muscles of my back, sharp pains seized me. The kidney secretions were also irregular in passage and I did not rest well. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me in 1898 and at that time I publicly recommended them. I am only too pleased to again speak in their favor, as I have never suffered from kidney trouble since."

Newbro's Herpicide Delights the Ladies

Because they know from experience that the intelligent use of Herpicide means much to their personal appearance. It saves and beautifies the hair and in the vast majority of cases, adds greatly to its abundance.

The presence of the dandruff germ in the scalp destroys the gloss and beauty of the hair, even before the resulting disease becomes firmly established.

Each day that the use of Newbro's Herpicide is put off, makes the repair that much more difficult.

Saves your hair while you have hair to save.

The intelligent use of Herpicide proves its actual worth.

"I am delighted with Herpicide. I have never used a remedy that gives such marvelous results. The effect on my son's head is magical and he had a very persistent case of dandruff."
(Signed) MRS. J. L. MOORE,
Paulding, Ohio.

"I must tell you that your remedy for the hair is working like a charm and I am very much pleased with it. The itching has stopped and new hair is growing. I shall recommend it to all my friends."
(Signed) MRS. I. KINNEY,
New Haven, Conn.

"I can say from experience that Newbro's Herpicide is the most wonderful hair grower and dandruff eradicator that was ever made. I have used it for some time and can truthfully say that I am greatly pleased with it. I cheerfully recommend it as a splendid preparation."
(Signed) MRS. DR. BEST,
Cottage Grove, Oregon.

"It gives me great pleasure to add my recommendation of Newbro's Herpicide. A member of our family has used your remedy with very satisfactory results."
(Signed) MISS A. E. CARUTHERS,
Tampa, Florida.

"Newbro's Herpicide is certainly the best remedy for dandruff and itching scalp I ever used. I have told several persons about your preparation and will tell every one I have an opportunity to. I can not praise Herpicide enough for what it has done for me."

FROM THE MINES AND THE SMELTERS

GOOD RESULTS AT LIVE OAK

Underground Work Being Pushed in Conjunction With Churn Drills---Uniform Ore Taken From Warrior and Shipments Continue to Smelter.

Globe, Ariz., May 28.—The Live Oak Development company is attaining excellent results in driving drift No. 208 eastward on the second level of the mine, which is established 200 feet from the surface. The drift is at present 121 feet long and has passed continually through sulphide ore having a copper content as high or higher than the average of 2 5-10 per cent secured by a thorough sampling of the ore body several months ago. This drift is being driven rapidly eastward with the aid of power drills.

While the underground work is in progress, two churn drills are being kept steadily at work prospecting the ground in advance of the drifting. Hole No. 2 has just been finished, and as was the case at Hole No. 1, the existence of a large body of sulphide ore was proven. Drills are now sinking holes Nos 3 and 4. Hole No. 3 is 250 feet deep and is still in the overburden of the ore body. At the fourth location, which is 600 feet southwest of the vertical shaft, the drill has just begun work. The drills are prospecting the Live Oak territory in 200-foot squares, a hole being put down at the corner of each square. Each of these holes will subsequently be checked by underground driving.

Warrior.

From its mine in the northern part of the Miami district, the Warrior Development company is continuing shipments of high grade ore at the rate of 100 tons a day, a slight increase in tonnage having recently been made. This ore averages 9 5-10 per cent copper or better, as it is only by reason of the excellent uniform grade of the ore that the management is enabled to continue shipments at a good profit when many of the other mines are curtailing production as much as possible, owing to the present low price of copper. The Warrior ore is still being treated by the El Paso smelter and is put on the cars at the Miami terminal of the Arizona Eastern railway.

The result being obtained by the continued driving on the west drift on the 300-foot level of the Warrior mine are decidedly favorable and point to the existence of one of the most extensive high grade ore chutes ever developed in the Globe-Miami district. For some time past, drifting in this part of the mine has been at a standstill, while a series of raises have been put up for the purpose of stopping the ore shipment. Recently, however, drifting has again been begun and is constantly developing high grade material.

The Warrior Development company is hiring a full force of men, over eighty employees now being engaged at the property.

BELIEVES IN NORTH BUTTE

George F. Bartlett Considers It One of Butte's Greatest Mines—Development of the Ore Bodies To Be Pushed More Energetically.

Boston, Mass., May 28.—George Bartlett, who was the candidate for director of the North Butte Mining company, representing the Charles A. Clark minority interests, has returned from a visit to the North Butte property. Mr. Bartlett is a practical mining man with thirty years' experience in the Butte camp, and was the original owner of the Boston & Corbin property. He says:

"Following the annual meeting of the North Butte Mining company at Duluth, I visited Butte and in company with Supt. Pope went underground at the North Butte property. We visited the various levels and drifts of the mine, and I also saw the working plans of the mine, showing amounts of ore in place. It is quite apparent that there has been a sad neglect of the necessary amount of development work in the past three years. Mr. Pope assured me, however, that he now intends to inaugurate a progressive campaign of development; and if this is done I feel sure the mine will respond with a bountiful supply of ore.

"There are persistent rumors in Butte that a diamond drill has been used on the 2,800-foot level of the Diamond mine to crosscut the Edith May and Miners' Union vein, and that at that level the core showed over forty feet in width of high-grade copper ore; but no one in authority in either of the companies would acknowledge they knew anything of it. In a winze that was started below the 2,200-foot level some months ago, although only thirty or thirty-five feet in depth, was a good grade of ore all the way down, showing streaks of high-grade bornite copper ore.

"This, together with the rumors

THE COLORADO DISTRICTS

Rich Ore Shoot on Mitchell Mine of Pinnacle Company—Leadville's Iron-Silver Company Reduces the Cost of Transporting Ore.

Colorado Springs, Colo., May 28.—The Pinnacle Mining & Leasing company, operating on the Mitchell mine of the Pinnacle company, Cripple Creek, is in an ore shoot which has been proved for 135 feet, with grab samples assaying 60 and 70 ounces gold a ton. The vein is 18 to 24 inches where assays were obtained. The shaft will be sunk on the vein.

The Gold Dollar Consolidated Mining Company, Cripple Creek, will hold its annual meeting at Cheyenne, Wyo., June 8. Royalties last year reached $20,868.98. The treasury surplus is $19,000.

The Doctor-Jackpot mine is shipping $24.40 ore, which is slightly above the average of the neighborhood. Royalties paid during the last quarter reached $5,749.72.

Work has been resumed in the advance of the Prudential adit, the portal of which is situated on Republican mountain, in the heart of Georgetown. The bore, now in 850 feet, is penetrating the richest section of the hill. The first known vein to be reached is the extension to the east of the Gambetta, which is making an excellent production record.

The Chamberlain-Dillingham sampler, Georgetown, Colo., reports heavier business for April than for any month for four years. A total of 498 cars of ore were sold at an average of $41 a ton. This record may be doubled in June.

Roberts and associates have taken a lease and bond on the Avon mill in Nevada gulch, Central City, to handle ores from the San Juan mine on Quartz Hill.

Leadville's Iron-Silver Mining company, a New York corporation, which has paid $4,200,000 in dividends on a capital stock of $10,000,000, has reduced the cost of transporting ore from mines to railway 60 cents to $1.05 a ton by use of a wire rope tram which has been completed to the Tuscon shaft. The tram has a capacity of twenty tons hourly; it cost $7,854. The Tuscon orehouse has been enlarged at a cost of $5,582, to admit of increased handsorting. The company paid $50,000 in dividends in 1909, notwithstanding low market prices and costly improve-

OLD DOMINION IS DELAYED

Shipment of Hoist Will Not Be Made Until June 10---United Globe Is Being Developed While New Work Slacks.

Globe, Ariz., May 28.—At the plant of the Old Dominion Copper Mining & Smelting company, the usual amount of ore, about 700 tons daily, is being hoisted to supply the smelter. At present, the hoisting is being done through a shaft, as the management has apparently decided that it will not shut down this shaft to make repairs above the third level station until the new hoist ordered several months ago is on the ground and ready for installation. Although it was expected that the hoist would be shipped from the factory the first of May, it has developed that the shipment cannot be effected until June 10, so that the A shaft will probably not be fully equipped until late in the summer. The excavations for the hoist, however, are completed and the concrete foundation is being put in. As soon as the hoist arrives, the head-frame at the A shaft will be raised, and while the work is under way the shaft will be shutdown and the ore and waste will be hoisted temporarily through the B shaft. Although this arrangement will necessitate tramming the ore for a distance of about 2,600 feet, to the B shaft, it is virtually the only means of keeping the mine in operation during the installation of the hoist and the repairing of the shaft where injured by caving above the third level station. A new addition to the plant at the A shaft is a rotary transformer, already on the ground, awaiting installation.

The Old Dominion company has decreased materially its development work in the western part of the mine, and meanwhile has increased its operations in the United Globe company. Whether this means that the development in the western territory has proven disappointing or that the indications are more favorable for large ore bodies in the United Globe property, cannot be ascertained from the management, as General Manager G. H. Dowell has recently become very reticent concerning developments at the mine.

Preparations are now being made to begin work on the Buckeye claim of the United Globe property. A three-compartment shaft will be sunk there in the near future to open what appears to be a highly silicious ore body in quartzite formation.

At the bottom of the Transit shaft, crosscutting in two directions is well under way. The Transit shaft is 2,500 feet east of A shaft and the depth at which crosscutting is being done is that of the second level of the Old Dominion mine. There are several old stopes above the second level of the Old Dominion, under which the crosscuts will be extended, thus facilitating the extraction of what ore remains there. At the Buffalo mine, work is now being done with a view to connecting the intermediate level with the surface. To accomplish this end, a tunnel is being driven and has now attained a length of sixty feet. The portal of this tunnel is above the collar of B shaft. The other two levels of the Buffalo workings, known as the upper and lower, already have connections with the surface. The distance between these two levels is 140 feet. At the Buffalo mine, eleven men are being employed.

AT THE LAKE COPPER MINES

Recently Discovered Lode on the Isle Royale Generally Regarded as Extension of the Baltic—South Lake Moves Its Drill Outfit, No. 1 Hole Yielding Nothing of Importance.

Houghton, Mich., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Isle Royale continues busily engaged in surface trenching across the recently discovered lode, and which is now generally held to be an extension of the South Range master lode, the Baltic. Several pits have been opened on this formation and some very likely looking copper ground has been exposed. The largest trench which has been opened to a length of about thirty feet and to a depth of about ten feet exposes a lode of upwards of twenty-seven feet in width without exposing the footwall contact. The lode carries copper in exceptional quantity. Work at this point has been interferred somewhat by heavy rains, necessitating the installation of a steam pump to keep the pits and trenches clear of water. A power drill has also been added to the equipment and opening work is being vigorously prosecuted. The lode strongly resembles the Baltic formation, and in the opinion of many of the local mining men is the northerly extension of it. This point, however, has not been defintely determined, but whatever its identity the facts are that Isle Royale at last uncovered a strong amygdaloid bed, of unusual width and carrying copper in commercial quantity at grass roots, and it is without doubt the best showing ever obtained on the Isle Royale property.

The situation over on the Isle Royale lode is not materially different from that noted in the past. Four shafts are in active operation. The older or No. 2 shaft is sinking steadily below a depth of about 2,500 feet, and fair average ground is being opened at that point. The newer shafts to the southward are temporarily bottomed at average depths of about 1,000 feet. The ground at this end of the property is variable, and in general of low average grade. These three shafts are supplying approximately one-half the rock tonage sent to the mill.

South Lake.

South Lake has abandoned the No. 1 drill hole at a depth of about 2,000 feet and the drill outfit has removed to a point about midway between the No. 1 and No. 2 hole, where another vertical hole will be sunk in the hope of encountering the underlay of the Lake lode. The No. 1 hole yielded nothing of importance. The No. 2 hole, which is sinking in the southeast corner of the property has attained a depth of about 2,300 feet and is the deepest drill hole in this district. It is sinking with No. 3 hole to cut the underlay of the Lake bed. Work at this point is also without feature.

Oneco.

Oneco's No. 7 drill hole, the last to be put down in the so-called Oneco and Torch Lake lodes has been temporarily abandoned, and all efforts are now directed toward the location of the so-called New Baltic lode, the underlay of which is carried by the Oneco property. The company now has two drill outfits engaged in this search, one at the extreme northeast of the property and the other in the southeast corner nearer the New Baltic property, where this lode was first discovered.

Ojibway.

Recent developments in the Ojibway mines are of a highly encouraging character and the situation there is rapidly growing better. The company now has eight or nine drills engaged in shaft sinking and drifting, at various depths from the 500-foot level down to the 1,250. The character of the ground opened is decidedly promising at the 650 and 800-foot levels tributary to No. 1 shaft. Conditions in the No. 2 shaft are not quite so encouraging but a recent change noted in the formation in that end of the mine promises better. No attempt is being made at production and the management is not planning on a mill test for the immediate future but will continue to center all efforts in opening work.

Arcadian.

The Arcadian Copper company continues engaged with diamond drill exploratory work, in an effort to locate a copper-bearing bed of commercial value. The present exploratory campaign has been confined to the eastern limits of the property, where it was thought that the northely extension of the Baltic lode might be encountered. Operations to date have revealed nothing of importance. The

ECONOMY IN COST OF MINING

Expense Account of Butte Properties Already Reduced By Merger—Butte-Alex Scott Makes Assessment—Never Sweat Mine Resumes Operations—Tuolumne to Pay Dividends at an Early Date.

Butte, Mont., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—It was stated that one of the chief reasons for the merging of the mines of this district was economy in the cost of management and operation. It was pointed out that with the mines all under one company the possibility of litigation was done away with and the forces could be so organized as to considerably reduce the expense account. To some extent this has already been demonstrated, and the announcement is made that copper will be produced at a cost of 9 cents a pound and there is an intimation that in time the cost may be further reduced. There were many well informed mining men who shook their heads when it was put forward that one result of the merger would be a reduction in the price of production, making the argument that the further down the mines went the greater the cost of operation, but this argument is knocked to the winds by the Anaconda company actually accomplishing one of the purposes of the merger so early in the consolidation period.

Butte-Alex Scott Assessment.

The Butte-Alex Scott directors have decided to make a call on the stockholders for $1 a share on the 50,000 shares of stock, the payment to be made July 1. The stock of this company is only partly paid up, so that this calls for a part payment of the stock. The development work is of a most encouraging character and it is estimated that on the 1,200-foot level alone there is $500,000 worth of ore blocked out. The shaft has now reached to the 1,600-foot level and a great deal of work is being done on this level. Ore shipments are expected to be made in the next few days.

Clark Zinc Mines.

Thomas S. Kligallon, for a quarter of a century in the employ of the Clark interests and one of the best known mining men in the West, is to assume charge of the zinc properties of the Montana millionaire and he has instructions to push the work on the Elm Orlu mine with the object of increasing the output. Mr. Clark is satisfied that the district has a great future before it as a zinc producer. Mr. Kligallon has been foreman of the original mine, one of the properties acquired by the Amalgamated in the recent purchase.

Never Sweat Mine Resumes.

The Never Sweat mine, after being closed down for several weeks on account of an accident to the machinery, has resumed operations again and is shipping ore, thus further increasing the output of the district as compared with the months of March and April. All the properties of the Amalgamated company are now producing at a rate which will likely exceed that of April, and in addition there are the East Butte, the Tuolumne, the Butte-Ballaklava and the Original and Stewart, operated by W. A. Clark, which will represent an output of over 3,000,000 pounds. The output of the Amalgamated and a few small producers in March was slightly in excess of 25,000,000 pounds, or only about 7,000,000 pounds more than the increase in the surplus. For a time the talk among mining men was that a curtailment would be brought about in a very short time, but now the opinion seems to be that there will be no curtailment and that the mines will go ahead turning out the copper irrespective of the demand. It certainly does appear that unless there is a large increase in consumption very soon, the surplus will be greatly increased in the next two months.

Butte & Superior.

The Butte & Superior company is now operating one-half of the Basin concentrator with three shifts during the twenty-four hours, and according to those in charge of the company's affairs much better results are being obtained than under the old arrangement. It is stated that the company is sending each day about 350 tons of ore to the concentrator. A few days ago A. H. Wethey, general manager of the Clark properties, in discussing the zinc possibilities of the district, said that the Butte Reduction works had secured a lease of the concentrator plant from the Amalgamated interests for the treatment of zinc ore and that he would be willing to handle the ore of the Butte & Superior or any part of it in addition to the ore from the Elm Orlu. The fact that work, which was only recently commenced on the Butte & Superior mill, has been stopped, may have as a reason that some negotiations are pending along this line. Manager Wethey has been absent in the East for several weeks, and in his absence there is no one here to speak with authority on the subject. The foundation for the concentrator is about completed and the structural steel has been in the city for the past three weeks.

Change in Superintendents.

When the Clark mines are taken over by the Amalgamated Copper company on the first of next month the men will work under new superintendents and foremen as the men now in charge of the properties will continue in the employ of the Clark interests at other properties. Superintendent Tom Bryant will look after the copper mines, devoting much of his time to getting the old Anaconda mine in shape for operation after being closed down for many years. Machinery is now being installed and in a few weeks the work of unwatering the property will be commenced. This mine was a producer at one time, and just why Mr.

LAKE SUPERIOR IRON MINES

Road Planning New Extensions in Iron River and Stambaugh District—Good Mine Being Developed at Chicagon Lake—Swallow & Hopkins Take Option on Gustafson Property.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad, which during the past few years has gradually been reaching out for traffic from the iron mines of the Menominee iron range, is planning a new extension of its lines in that region. It proposes to enter the Iron River and Stambaugh district. This territory at the western end of the range has become one of the most important fields of the Menominee and it is still in the early days of its development. The ore deposits are proving much more extensive than imagined a few years ago. Already a dozen different mining concerns are operating in the district. New ore bodies are being found and developed right along and it is predicted that a decade hence will see fully twice as many shippers as are on the list at the present time. It is a promising field for progressive railroad systems.

An extension of its service to the Iron River and Stambaugh country was planned by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul company some years ago. Surveys were made for a line extending from Crystal Falls, at the opposite side of Iron county, Mich., and passing around the south end of Chicagon lake. The construction of the Pacific coast division intervened, however, and the company has held its Menominee range work in abeyance. Now surveyors are again in the field and it is the understanding that the Crystal Falls-Iron River line will be built probably during the present season. The Buffalo & Susquehanna company's Chicagon property has been found worthy of extensive development since the original railroad route was staked out, and the iron formation on which it lies has been more fully traced. For this reason the railroad will be built to the north of Chicagon lake, instead of to the south of it. The proposed line will not be far from twenty miles in length. It will traverse large areas of hardwood lands, as well as run parallel with the iron formation, and thus will open a country capable of both extensive agricultural and mining development.

New Mine at Chicagon Lake.

The Buffalo & Susquehanna people, operating in this case under the name of the Munro Mining company, are developing a very good mine at Chicagon lake, midway between Crystal Falls and Iron River. The shaft is down 500 feet, and at that depth much ore is being opened up. Four large boarding houses are in course of erection and the construction of a number of dwellings will be started shortly. This is preparatory to a considerable increase of the working force, which now numbers fifty men. A boiler house is being erected also. A new plant of machinery is to be installed, and with this plant in commission the work of opening up the mine will proceed rapidly. It was only after various other mining concerns had failed to locate ore in quantity, and after much time and much money has been expended by the present operators, that success was met with, and it is promised that when railroad facilities are furnished by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, the mine will be in position to make a very considerable production.

A new operator which has entered the Western Menominee range field is the Swallow & Hopkins Mining company, a Mesaba range concern. It has taken an option on the property of Carl J. Gustafson in section 23, 43-34, directly to the north of the Chicagon mine, and is already proceeding with the exploration of the tract. Diamond drilling is being done. The property is very favorably located on the iron-bearing formation, but because of a heavy overburden such cursory prospecting has as had previously been done had failed to locate a possible ore body. The ledge is some 250 feet beneath the surface. A promising property in the same locality is the Schiebler tract, in section 29, 43-34, and which is in the hands of the Munro Mining company. It has been drilled and test-pitted and ore has been found. In section 36, 43-35, Corrigan, McKinney & Co. are developing the Tully. The property contanis a large body of ore. Shaft sinking is in progress and an engine house is being erected.

The Spring Valley Iron Mining company expects to ship 100,000 tons of ore from its Zimmerman mine this season. The property is one of the new mines of the Iron River region. It sent out one cargo in 1908 and 10,000 tons last year. It is in section 7, 42-34. Various mine buildings have recently been erected and a new plant of machinery has been installed. This includes an air compressor, a hoisting engine and a dynamo. The underground workings are lighted with electricity. The Zimmerman is controlled by Ohio furnace interests. E. H. Willis is the president and Eugene Zimmerman the vice

EAST BUTTE RUN AT PROFIT

Company is "Paying Its Board" and Some More—No Effort to Push Production Work Until the Metal Market Improves.

Boston, Mass., May 28.—Robert H. Gross, president of the East Butte Copper Mining company, who made a periodical visit to the property in Butte, has returned to his home in Boston and gives a good account of the East Butte situation. He says:

"The East Butte property never looked better than at the present time and is in shape to take advantage of any improvement in the metal to materially increase its output and show a substantial profit from operations.

"At the moment no effort is being made to push production and yet the company is 'paying its board;' in fact, some profit has been made from operations during the past six months.

"Our development work is confined exclusively to the Pittsmont property, where several new ore bodies have recently been encountered. On one level alone, the 800, there have been two new ore bodies discovered within a week. Some idea of the extent of our development in the Pittsmont property may be had from the fact that there are over ten miles of openings in this section of our property.

"We are hoisting 2,086 tons of rock a week at the present time which averages 5 per cent copper or 104 pounds to the ton, of which three-quarters is first-class ore. Our best ore is coming from stope 18, where we are hoisting 760 tons of rock a week, running 5.9 per cent copper.

"In stope 4 we have a fine ore body thirty-five feet wide running 4 per cent copper, which is not being mined but is being saved for hoisting when the metal market improves.

"We are leaving no stone unturned in the direction of reducing copper costs. The starting up of a second furnace to handle additional custom ore from the Butte-Ballaklava property will result in a saving in our cost. With the second furnace in operation the company will be able to handle daily about 300 tons of East Butte ore and 200 tons of custom ore at its furnaces. The absorption of the Clark properties by the Amalgamated leaves the East Butte company with the only independent smelter in the entire Butte camp, which will bring it into increased favor and result in additional new business in treating custom ores.

"There has recently been spent about $15,000 in improvements at the East Butte company's lime quarry, the completion of which permits a very material increase in output. Quite a little business is done with other companies in supplying them with lime, from which the East Butte company receives a good profit. One manufacturing company alone will take 8,000 tons of lime from our company in the next six months.

"There are now 450 men on the company's payroll, the largest number in its history, which calls for the payment of from $45,000 to $50,000 a month in salaries."

SUPERIOR & BOSTON OUTPUT

Copper Produced in April Amounted to 353,007 Pounds, With Good Showing of Silver---Is Shipping Eighty Tons Daily.

Globe, Ariz., May 28.—The product of the ore extracted from the Superior & Boston mine during April was 353,007 pounds of copper and 6,725 ounces of silver. The company is continuing to make shipments of ore averaging 9 per cent or better in copper at the rate of eighty tons daily. Nearly all this ore is stoped from the Great Eastern vein on the 600-foot level, but some of it is obtained from the Black Oxide tunnel near the Gardner shaft, where leasers are extracting material averaging about 7 per cent copper and having a high iron content. As the Arizona Eastern railroad is now building a spur to the McGaw shaft, the Superior & Boston mine should be equipped with excellent shipping facilities within two months. As there is a great deal of trestle work to be done, it is not likely that the spur will be completed until July. At present the Superior & Boston Copper company is shipping its ore to the Old Dominion smelter by way of the Arizona Commercial railway.

The McGaw shaft, which will be the main working shaft of the Superior & Boston mine, from which the various levels will be established, has been sunk 130 feet below the sixth level. At a point 112 feet below the sixth station sets were put in preparatory to establishing the seventh level at that depth. It is expected that the shaft sinking will have reached the eighth level by July 1, and at that time the ore body will be opened at that depth. The eighth level of the McGaw shaft will be 220 feet below the sixth.

The west winze at the Gardner workings has been sunk ninety-five feet below the 400-foot level, where drifting first developed an extensive body of high grade ore. This winze has been continuously in ore from its starting point to the bottom, thus indicating the vertical extent of the ore which makes the future of this part of the mine most promising. In sinking this winze, the small hoist is being used and as soon as this winze is sunk to a sufficient depth the hoist will be moved to the east winze already put down on the vein to a depth of forty-six feet, 125 feet distant.

Supt. J. D. Wanvig is employing 135 men.

Superior & Globe.

At the property of the Superior & Globe Copper company, no underground work other than the driving of the crosscut north from the shaft is under way. The crosscut being driven is on the 650-foot level, and, as has been the case from the starting point, the formation through which it is passing is diabase.

The management is still making plans for using diamond drills in prospecting the property, but arrangements for this work have not yet been completed. In case a contract is made for doing diamond drill work, it will probably be given to the Sullivan Drill company, which has in the past done work on other properties in the district. The Superior & Globe Copper company is having its claims surveyed, preliminary to applying for a patent.

QUARTZ MINING AT VALDEZ

Output of 860 Ounces of Gold Besides $4,000 in Concentrates, From 150 Tons of Ore in Eighteen Days Operations.

Seattle, Wash., May 28.—A dispatch from Valdez says: "The first attempt at quartz mining in this district has proved highly successful. Returns received here today from the first eighteen days' operations of the Cliff Mining company's claim showed an output of 860 ounces of gold, besides $4,000 in concentrates, from 150 tons of ore. The company was organized eight months ago to develop the quartz vein on Valdez bay, and a 1,000-foot tunnel and an uprise was driven, and a three stamp mill installed."

Capt. John Worth of Fairbanks, who has claims on the Iditarod which he has been working, is out from the district, which he says has a bright future. "The first hole sunk was fourteen feet deep and pay streak was about six inches thick and ran as high as $2.90 to the pan," says Capt. Worth. "This hole was close to the creek and the holes sunk further away from the creek were the same depth, but the pay streak was thicker, being about four feet, and the average pan of the dump went seven cents. Our ground is not considered as rich as the ground on Flat Creek, where claims are now selling as high as $50,000. My opinion is that there is a very extensive area of gold bearing ground there and I look to see a great mining camp built up there this summer. I have seen all the placer camps of Alaska and the Iditarod looks to me as good if not better than any of them."

There promises to be great activity in the mining industry on the Kenai Peninsula and contiguous regions of Willow Creek, Susitna and Yentna this season. On the Kenai work will be carried on by several hydraulic companies. Among these may be included the Quartz Creek Mining company, operating on Quartz Creek. As soon

CABLE MOUNTAIN DISTRICT

Butte Men Attracted by Reports of Gold Strikes—Properties of Old Eureka Company Acquired by the Cable-Ontario Company.

Butte, Mont., May 28.—The activity in the Cable Mountain or Georgetown mining district, west of Anaconda, and between Silker lake and Philipsburg, is attracting gold seekers from all over the country. A number of Butte men have lately become interested in the district and they regard that part of the state as the greatest gold country in the West. The report of the probable sale of the Southern Cross group to the American Smelter & Refining company for a price in the neighborhood of $1,000,000 has been the principal cause for the widespread interest in the Cable-Georgetown district. Many experienced miners are seeking leases and men of large capital have started work on properties that were idle for many years.

One of the largest of the new strikes reported seems to be upon the Montana mine, leased to McFadden and others of Anaconda. This claim is situated about half a mile below the Southern Cross, on the extension of the Cable range. The leasers reported early this month a strike of forty-five feet of ore running about $20 per ton, with streaks much richer, and still improving. The depth is less than 100 feet from the surface now, but they have put on machinery and will sink to 500.

Among the more notable old groups which are about to be revived is the Ontario group of five patented claims, directly adjoining the Montana on the west. These originally belonged to the Eureka Gold & Silver Mining company, but a new company has been recently formed, filing its articles of incorporation last week under the

THE FIRST PARTY OF SETTLERS FROM HOLLAND.
A Glance Is Sufficient to Show the High Class of Settlers Secured.

The party of Hollanders which came to this country as a result of Bishop McGolrick's efforts to colonize a large tract of land in Hubbard, Becker and Mille Lacs counties, has settled down to till the soil and build up the colony.

The party, which consisted of about 100 people, men, women and children, arrived from Holland about a month ago. Selections of land have been made and the different families are already engaged in clearing the land for market gardening and dairying.

In a short time another party of colonists is coming from Europe. They will come from Belgium and will settle in Becker county. Other parties are being organized in different European countries and they will be brought across the ocean to settle the Minnesota lands by the application of hard work and the methods learned from long experience as farmers in their native countries.

Bishop McGolrick is extending his colonization campaign and he hopes to be successful in attaining the end he set for himself—the colonization of all the lands in the original plan. He says that his agents in the large cities and in the foreign countries have met with ready encouragement. The people who are coming from Europe are all experienced farmers, thrifty and hard working. They are selling their farms in their native lands and are coming to this country supplied with enough money to go into farming on a sound basis at the very beginning.

The land which Bishop McGolrick has set out to colonize is owned by the D. S. B. Johnston Land company of St. Paul and comprises thousands of acres in a section of fertile soil and neglected opportunities. In each colony the company has agreed to build a church, priest's house and school, so that educational and religious development may begin at the same time as the development of the agricultural resources of the country.

The terms on which the lands are offered to colonists are exceptionally easy. The land sells at from $10 to $17.50 an acre, the colonist paying $3 an acre down and having ten years in which to pay the remainder. If at the end of two years a colonist has six cows, the price of his land will be reduced $1 an acre.

The company is selling on those terms in the colonization plan, one-half of each section, holding the remainder for future sale. With the development of the country by the colonists and the proving up of its resources, the land retained will become more valuable and future sales will be possible at such a figure that the company will make a profit which will compensate somewhat for the exceptionally easy terms on which sales are being made to the colonists.

MINING IN THE BLACK HILLS

Homestake to Run All Its Plants by Electricity—Minnesota Mines Company Taking Out Good Grade Ore Which is Plentiful.

Lead, S. D., May 28.—The Homestake Mining company is installing electrical equipment for its cyanide plant No. 2 at Gayville, and within a few days this will be run by the current. The company at present runs three plants, the Mineral Point, Pocohontas and Caledonian, but its ultimate intention is to run all its plants with electricity. This will not be done until the great hydroelectric plant now being erected in Spearfish canon is completed next fall.

Judge S. T. Cochran, president of the Hidden Treasure Mining company, announces that arrangements are being made to resume work on a larger scale than heretofore. Judge Cochran has put a force at work unwatering the shaft, and when this is completed the development work will be started. The shaft is of two compartments and is now down 220 feet. It is the intention to sink it to the 500-foot level before any further drift work is started.

The Minnesota Mines company, operating in the Maitland district, is taking out siliceous ore from the quartzite on the east 100-foot level of the mine, which has been undeveloped on account of water. The ore is of good grade and is being run through the mill daily and seems to be plentiful in quantity. The company is also proceeding on the 200-foot level and is into the first vertical, which shows a width of forty feet, where the grade of the ore is improving. It is working toward the west verticals, where other ore bodies are to be opened up.

Deadwood, S. D., May 28.—A deal is in progress to secure considerable mining ground in the section of the northern hills lying south of Lawrence county and along the border line of Pennington county, taking in the Silver City district. Some years ago some efforts were made along the same lines, but the owners held at too high a price. The ground is unpatented but has had development enough to entitle the owners to mineral patents and to show prospects of opening up good veins. There is plenty of timber on the ground. Some of the properties have good machinery and well-built shafts. Among the more prominent properties mentioned in the proposed deal are the Calliboga, Fortune, Bally and Hughes ground, with a showing in gold, silver, lead and a number of other meals. Eastern capitalists are interested.

The Silver City Mining company, recently organized with local men to handle the old Dugan property on Rapid creek, is preparing to build some sort of treatment plant. Henry Swanson of Chicago is here to look over plans and confer with the local directors, who include L. D. Bailor ago the property shipped much good ore and it is believed with little development can do so again.

AT THE ARIZONA-MICHIGAN

Force of Twenty Men Make Rapid Progress Along Exploration---Development Favorable at National, Good Ore Showing in West Drift.

Globe, Ariz., May 28.—Supt. N. A. Nelson, with a force of about twenty men employed, is rapidly advancing operations at the property of the Arizona-Michigan Mining company, located about five miles east of Globe, in the Copper Hill mining district.

At present most of the operations are confined to the Blackbird and Telfair shafts, where exploratory work is in progress. The Blackbird shaft has been sunk to a depth of 250 feet, in a vein about four feet wide at the surface, and containing a great deal of iron. At the 200-foot mark, the width of this vein began to increase noticeably, so that there is a strong possibility of its acquiring greater size at depth. At the depths of 100 and 200 feet, levels have been established and crosscutting to explore both foot and hanging walls has been done. As soon as the shaft is 300 feet deep, crosscutting in a similar manner for exploratory purposes will be done on the third level.

At the Telfair shaft, on the northwest part of the property, the south crosscut is being driven on the 500-foot level at the rate of about twenty feet a week. This crosscut at present is 870 feet long, and the face of it is in shale. With about 225 feet more of driving the Old Dominion fault, which is expected to carry good copper values, should be opened. From all indications available for observation, the fault is almost vertical.

Nationnl.

At the Williams shaft of the National Mining company, the developments for the last few weeks have been very favorable. The stringer of high-grade copper ore which was encountered several weeks ago at a distance of fifty feet southeast of the shaft, has been drifted on for about thirty feet eastward and sixty feet westward. This work has shown that the ore averages about eighteen inches in width, and that the most ore prevails in the west drift. Apparently, the stringer is due to a slip in the shale and a subsequent deposit of copper. The ore occurs as carbonate.

The drifting and crosscutting on the 600-foot level, where the stringer mentioned above was discovered, has now been discontinued temporarily, while sinking of the shaft at a depth of 680 feet has been resumed. The shaft is at present 697 feet deep, and is being put down at the rate of about twenty feet a week. The plan of the management is to continue sinking until the depth of 778 feet is attained, when a sump will be made and a level will be established for the purpose of exploring at greater depth. As deep mining seems to be the secret of success in Copper Hill district, the management's present policy should prove productive of results.

Supt. H. W. Woodward, who is in charge of all operations on the National Mining Exploration property, has purchased a new mining cage of the Leadville type, and carrying cars with the capacity of one ton.

above mentioned, lead me to believe that 400 feet greater depth in North Butte will find the usual amount and grade of ore, for I do not agree with Mr. Atwater that a vein in the Butte district once low grade or barren does not at greater depth regain its usual values. Both the Parrot and Anaconda and nearly all the other mines have had this experience in Butte, and as a later example we have the Gagnon, which only a few years ago was considered a disappointment, but now, according to E. B. Thayer's late report, has made the biggest strike of high-grade ore seen for years.

"Now as no one can see into a mine further than the point of the pick, I feel we are justified in expecting North Butte to do as the others have done, even in the veins that have been developed. North Butte has a large amount of undeveloped ground that undoubtedly when bought was expected to be valuable, but without development nothing can be known regarding its value. Among the claims still undeveloped are the Mill View, Emily, Berlin, Lynchburg, Leaf, Gustavus, Margaretha and the Croesus, the half interest of which the company has just purchased for 10,000 shares of North Butte stock.

"I have always believed, and still, believe, that North Butte is and will be one of the best mines in Butte."

name of the Cable-Ontario Mining company, to take over and operate all the properties of the old company. The men associated in this project are generally well known and experienced and some of them have made large fortunes in mining in Montana. Those mentioned in the articles filed are J. M. Merrill of Groveland, Cal., formerly of Montana; John P. Reins of Butte; A. S. Hoffman of Philipsburg, and Charles Mattison, Glenn L. Thompson and J. A. Poore, all of Butte. Mr. Merrill was one of the very fortunate large owners in the Granite Mountain and Bi-Metallic mines in the '80s and passed into the millionaire class at that time. For many years he has occupied his beautiful home in California and taken an active interest in the development of the oil fields of that state. He is president of the Cosmopolite Oil company and interested in several others. His connection with this Montana property assures that extensive mining will be done if the properties continue to justify it. Mr. Reins has been a prominent figure for many years in mining in Montana and particularly in Butte. Mr. Hoffman is the leading merchant in Philipsburg, and the other three young men have numerous mining interests throughout the state and have been connected with good projects.

is ready to begin. The Copper Creek Mining & Milling company will work on Cooper Creek as usual. D. M. Stewart and associates will install a hydraulic plant on Gulch creek as soon as weather conditions permit. The plant and necessary equipment is at hand and all that remains is the building of a ditch.

The upper Stewart dredging enterprises are to be followed up this year. The Matheson people on McQuestion river will operate a dredge. The Yukon Basin Gold Dredging company will operate another, and a third company, handled by Philo Johnson, old time bonanza miner and associates, will work on McQuestion. The Johnson people are organizing and may bring in a dredge this season.

A large consignment of machinery for the Societe Minier company of Boulder creek, Atlair, was purchased by M. Tade Obalski, the manager. The company will open a large hydraulic mine on Hemlock as well as prospect the Boulder properties with a drill.

The Alaska Perseverance will build another 100 stamp mill on its property in Silver Bow basin back of Juneau and will drive the Alexandria tunnel from tidewater to the mine, a distance of three miles. Three hundred men will be employed.

The annual event of the year in the Klondike occurred May 11 when the Yukon opened. The ice had been soft for some time, but at 4 p. m. Wednesday the river opened in front of Dawson. The occasion was celebrated as it always is.

ments. The Tucson shipments reached 17,265 tons and the Moyer 53,767 tons, worth respectively $241,045 and $190,448. Zinc was the leading value, with lead, copper and silver. Leasers shipped 3,134 tons, worth $15,530, making the total 74,166 tons, worth $447,024, an average of $6.02 a ton. Development work for the year was 3,286 feet. Total cost of operating was $237,783, or $3.20 a ton. Investment in equipment was $19,186. Total profits $183,122, or about $2.47 a ton of ore. Surplus on hand Dec. 31, $220,342.

The Anona mine on Long and Derry hill, owned by Boston capitalists, has been wired for hydro-electric power.

The Berg Co-operative Mining company is in high-grade gold ore in its mine in the Twin Lakes district of Chaffee county. Samples of Columbine ore, tested in Chicago, have yielded $229 a ton, principally gold, with lesser values in silver, lead and zinc.

The old Black Queen group of mines in Gunnison county is to have a new tunnel lower down to the ore veins and an up-to-date mill to handle low-grade ores. The Lead King mine will ship lead ores on assurance of low treatment charges. A rich strike is reported in the Dupont tunnel, with silver values up to 300 ounces.

company has located a new hole in the horizon of the new lode recently cut by New Baltic and which yielded a rather exceptional rich core of copper rock. Work at the new point is expected to be under way in a few days.

Cherokee.

The operations of the Cherokee Mining company are confined to exploratory work and an attempt to locate the several so-called Lake-Indiana-Adventure lodes, all of which presumably traverse this property as does the Winona lode, which latter is being opened with such good results by the Winona and King Philip companies to the northward. The Cherokee company has two drill outfits in service engaged in this work.

Cliff.

The Cliff Copper company, recently organized to take over and develop the old Cliff property, in recent years owned and controlled by the Tamarack Mining company, is planning to begin exploratory work shortly. The Cliff tract, lying between the Ojibway and Kewenaw properties, is very extensive and carries all of the known copper bearing beds of this district. A limited amount of exploratory work was done on this property while it was under the control of Tamarack, but never yielded much encouragement, though nowise disproved its possibilities.

Clark closed it down never has been very clearly explained, except that his Stewart and Original mines were good money makers and he did not wish to spend his money in any uncertain transactions. However, He is now determined to ascertain just what there is in the mine at depth and some old timers believe that he will find it a profitable investment.

Butte-Ballaklava.

The Butte- Ballaklava is shiping 100 tons of ore daily to the Pittsmont smelter which is operating a second furnace to handle the same. Superintendent P. H. Nelson, who returned from Duluth a few days ago, is very enthusiastic over the prospects of the property. He says that the richest copper ore being mined in this district is being shipped from the mine to the Pittsmont smelter. He says it averages 9½ per cent copper and sixteen ounces of silver to the ton. The Butte-Ballaklava recently ordered its first dividend and Superintendent Nelson says that they will come regularly hereafter.

Tuolumne.

The Tuolumne will be another dividend payer after the meeting of the directors next month, according to President Hickey. He says the condition of the treasury and the money-making progress of the mine will fully warrant the directors in putting the property on a dividend basis. President Hickey further says that Tuolumne will considerably increase its output this month as compared with April, when there was a record production of 1,023,750 pounds. Considerable second-class ore is being shipped this month, as was the case last month, which will reduce the average value about 5 per cent.

What Did Clark Get?

"What do you think the Amalgamated paid Senator Clark for his copper properties?" is a question frequently heard asked among mining men, but no one is prepared to answer the question, even in the way of a guess. "One year ago," remarked a prominent mining man the other day, when the subject was under discussion, "Senator Clark said that he would not sell his interests in this city for less than $25,000,000, but that included the street railway, Columbia Gardens, his newspaper and other interests, so I would not pretend to make even a guess what he received for the two mines and the reduction works."

The Ophir.

As yet no word has reached this city as to the proposal for the erection of a concentrator to treat the ores of the Ophir mine of the Butte Central Copper company. It has been urged that the ores on the 200 and the 300-foot levels, which are principally gold and silver and which were partially developed by leasers some years ago, would more than pay the current expenses incurred in developing the property at depth if a concentrator were erected.

Davis-Daly.

The Davis-Daly property still remains idle so far as the shipment of ore is concerned, and the force of men has been reduced in the Colorado mine to its lowest possible number. It is stated that just as soon as Mr. Heinze returns to the city he will personally take up the question of a right of way for a railway from the mine to the Great Northern tracks with the property owners along the proposed route.

president of the operating company. The ore runs 57 per cent in metallic iron and the openings so far made indicate that there is a large body of it.

New Steel Shafthouse.

One of the very finest steel shafthouses on the Menominee range has been erected at the Mineral Mining company's James mine, in section 23, 43-35, north of Iron River. It is seventy-five feet high and stands on concrete pillars. The James made its first shipment the latter part of 1907. It has developed into one of the very best mines of the Western Menominee and in buildings and machinery has been given an exceptionally fine equipment. A force of 150 men is now employed. The shipments this year will approximate 150,000 tons. In the Crystal Falls field, the United States Steel corporation is exploring the Hilltop property with a diamond drill. A hole is being driven underneath the open pit to test the deposit at greater depth.

It is reported on the Marquette range, but it is not yet officially confirmed, that it is the intention of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company to extend its Lake Superior & Ishpeming line westerly to a connection with the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad at Champion. The project is one that undoubtedly will be undertaken at some time, if not this year. The Cleveland-Cliffs company is very active in the country to the west of Ishpeming and which the proposed line would serve. It is opening the North Lake and the Barnes mines and is exploring a number of other tracts in the territory between Ishpeming and Champion, and it is carrying on similar operations in the Michigamme district, to the west of Champion. A contract for an extension of the railroad from Ishpeming to the North Lake and the Barnes, the latter six miles west of Ishpeming, already has been awarded, and the Barnes is only six miles distant from Champion.

Another Open Pit Mine.

The Marquette range is to have another open pit mine. This is the Catherine property, which the Graham Nut & Bolt company of Pittsburg, Pa., is developing in the Michigamme district. It is expected that some ore will be sent out yet this season. The Catherine adjoins the Rogers-Brown county's Portland mine, where two steam shovels are in commission, one engaged in stripping and one at work loading ore. As the overburden varies in depth only from a few feet to thirty or forty feet, the management of the Catherine has decided that to mine with steam shovels, at least for the first few years, would be the most economical method. The sinking of the shaft has accordingly been stopped and operations are confined to sinking test pits for the purpose of testing the ore body. The Catherine ore, like that at the Portland, is leanor near the surface than at depth. The leanest runs about 52 per cent in iron, and the better grade 57 per cent. Nearly all the ore in the Michigamme district is high in phosphorous, but with the present furnace practice this element is not as objectionable as was the case some thirty years or more ago, when the Michigamme district was first exploited only to fall into a state of inactivity, from which it is now recovering. There are immense deposits in the field, enough to keep the various operating companies busy for decades to come.

Adjoining the Catherine property is the old Spurr mine, which has recently been taken over by the James Furnace interests of Iron Mountain, Mich. The Spurr was first opened in 1872. It had a checkered career for a number of years and finally suspended operations after producing 152,000 tons. It will now be tested jointly with the Catherine, in accordance with an agreement entered into with the management of the latter property. The Spurr was originally operated on the open-pit plan, but subsequently underground mining was done, four comparatively shallow shafts being sunk for that purpose. The Jones interests do not care particularly for high-grade ore, and at the start they will mine the material that lies nearest the surface. It is claimed that with their newly-invented furnace they can treat an ore that runs only 25 per cent iron as cheaply as one that goes 60 per cent or better. The only difference is that there is a greater amount of slag to handle.

Portland to Be Big Mine.

The Portland property of the Rogers-Brown company will make a big mine. The two steam shovels are at work at opposite side of the formation. The overburden will be removed the entire distance between them and there will be created a pit that will rival many of those on the Mesaba range. While practically all of the ores yet found in the Michigamme field are of the limonitic class, it is considered quite probable that ores of higher grade will be discovered. This has been the history of most of the iron mining fields of Upper Michigan. The Iron River and Cascade districts are the latest to prove ores of high grade at depth. Tests with the diamond drill are now in progress in the Michigamme country and it will not be at all surprising if mineral of Bessemer quality is found. These tests are being made by the Cleveland-Cliffs company. Two drills are in commission.

The Jones Furnace people are at work at the old Kloman mine at Republic, Marquette range, engaged in testing the formation. There are lean ores in the capping covering the deposits of better grade that were mined out years ago, and it is believed that these ores can be smelted profitably. The Independent Mining company, a recently organized concern, controlled at Detroit, Mich., is at work at the old Erie mine, seven miles west of Republic. Buildings are being erected and machinery installed. The company also is at work at the Spencer property, on the Menominee range.

Klingebiel has earned the reputation of being the hoodoo pitcher of the Minny league. Last season he lost thirteen extra inning games. Yesterday he had the Physicians and Surgeons eating out of his sunburned hand until the serious sixth, when they fell on his benders hip and thigh, chasing three perfectly natural runs across the commer.

Again in the eighth the invaders gathered one, which further added to the hopelessness of the case. With Big Chief Chase trying manfully to emulate the record being made the present season by that other big chief, Bender of the Athletics, and succeeding in part in crowding himself into the picture gallery of famous Indian twirlers, there was not much chance for the Sox to crowd the leaders at the finish.

We Score One.

Neither team got away to a fast start. O'Leary drew a pass in the first and was sacrificed to first by loving Kernan. Wallace was saved when Sweeney booted his infield offering. Dunn and Corrigan flew to the outfield and the inning passed with peace and quietness.

Anderson hit in our half and Neelon was hit by one of the Chief's wandering offerings. Anderson attempted to pilfer the second bag, but found that tall Fisher's wing was of the Archer order. Taylor retired after three unsuccessful ones and Darby the poet drew four that cleared the plate. Neelon attempted to steal third and was thrown out.

Rochester did nothing in the second, Johnson striking out, Twohey going out to the infield, Fisher hitting and Chase striking out. In our half Altermott flew out, Sweeney hit, Woods went out to the infield and Gillis struck out.

O'Leary got on in the third through Sweeney's bubble and Kernan flew to Sunshine Neelon. Wallace lined to Altermott who got the ball back to first ahead of O'Leary.

Klingebiel hit in our half and Anderson followed his example. Neelon also hit, sending Klingebiel over with the first run of the game. Anderson was caught off third, Fisher to Kernan and Taylor drew a base on balls. O'Brien flew to Kernan and Altermott forced Taylor at second.

Both teams went out in perfect precision in the fourth, not a batter even seriously disturbing the dust in the batters' box. It was one of those peaceful and calm innings.

Rochester did nothing in their half of the fifth, going down like repentent sinners at a well conducted revival meeting. We also were effected with a lassitude, and big Chief Chase had every reason to feel confident and supreme.

The sixth was a nightmare—an inning of chills and sorrow. O'Leary was retired, Altermott to Gillis and Kernan struck out. It all looked serene—two men out and no one on. Then Wallace hit and Dunn got on when Altermott erred. Wallace stole third and scored when Corrigan hit safely. Dunn looked swiftly to the outfield and then also dashed for the plate. He landed safely. Corrigan went to second on the bum heave to the plate. Johnson secured the third hit of the inning and Corrigan came over with the third run. Johnson went to second on the throw to the plate to catch Corrigan, but was caught off the bag, Woods to O'Brien.

What looked like a rally in the last half of the inning was spoiled by a bum decision of Agur. Taylor got on through O'Leary's miscue and went to second on O'Brien's single. Altermott flew to Twohey and the left fielder threw back to second. Taylor got back to the base ahead of the ball, but Agur called him out, much to the disgust of the fans. Sweeney went out, Chase to Dunn.

Both teams were subdued and meek, not to say lowly, in the seventh inning. Both went out in military order.

Rochester added one in the eighth. After O'Leary had fouled to Leskey, the new catcher, who made a nice catch of the fly, Kernan hit for one. Wallace hit to Gillis and was retired, Kernan going to second on the temporary retirement. Dunn hit safely scoring Kernan, and Corrigan ended the inning by going out, Klingebiel to Gillis.

We went out in rehearsed order in the eighth and ninth and the game passed into history.

The game was fast and well played. Both pitchers were heaving in Madame Yale form, which means lovely, perhaps, and hits were as scarce as fresh eggs on Friday.

We lost, but are hopeful of winning today. Below you will find the series of sadness enlarged upon:

RED WING PLAYERS DROP ANOTHER

Superior Bests Down State Team By Score of 11 to 4.

Superior, 11; Red Wing, 4.

In a contest featured chiefly by the inability of Pitchers Fautsch and Rice to control their delivery, Superior yesterday took the second game of the series from the Red Wing players.

It was all Superior. The Wisconsin boys were in the game all the time and it was almost too easy thought the spectators. Red Wing got two in the third and two in the sixth; Superior scored almost at will. Four runs came in the first, one in the third, three in the fourth, and three in the last half of the eighth.

The real fielding feature of the game was when Kelly of the Red Wing team made a one-handed spear of McGraw's line drive over first. The Superior players tried three squeeze plays but the runner in each instance was caught at the plate.

The score follows:

CUMMINGS IS ON HIS WAY

Duluth Boy Ready to Pitch Monday---New Infield Also Reports.

According to the information received from the baseball office, Al Cummings will reach the city today, and will be ready to pitch in one of the Monday games. The pitcher is reported to be in the very best of condition, and ready to take his regular turn in the box.

W. F. Barnard, the infielder secured from the Evansville, Ind., team, also arrived today, and he may be used in one of the games Monday, or in the game tomorrow. It was given out at the office of the club that there would be some shifts in the infield.

Howard, a pitcher, who was with the team earlier in the season, was out in uniform yesterday. He may be used this afternoon. At the present time the management of the club is dickering for two pitchers, and until these men arrive or Marion gets his arm back, the club will be shy on box workers.

A. W. Kuehnow stated today that he would keep on getting players until he had built up a winning team. He intimated that it was up to the manager of the team to make good, as the club was willing and anxious to secure the best players possible.

The coming of Cummings will probably strengthen the club. Al was stronger last winter than he has been for some time. If he has regained his old time strength he will be one of the best hurlers in the league. He has the head and the change of pace and breakers. With more strength he would be very effective against the strongest teams in the league.

Unless there is some needed hitting in the outfield, some experimenting may be done there. Mr. Kuehnow stated today that hitters were needed and he would try to add to the hitting strength of the club.

The game tomorrow will be called at 3 o'clock. There will be two games Monday, Red Wing being the opponent of the Sox both tomorrow and in the two games on Memorial day.

The games between Smith and Malley's pets will be for the honor of crawling out of last place, so that more than ordinary interest will attach to them.

WANTS MATCH WITH SAILOR

Ed Adamson Would Pit Johnny Hudson Against Duluth Champion.

That veteran king of the mat Ed. Adamson, is here today to arrange for a finish elimination wrestling match between Greek Johnny Hudson and the famous Sailor Jack of this city. The match will be for the purpose of deciding which of the two boys will meet Young Miller, the world's welterweight champion in a finish match, to be decided in this city.

Jack is probably perfectly willing to meet the slippery littel greek, especially if there is a chance to get on the mat with Young Miller, whom he has been clamoring to meet for the past three months.

Jack and the Greek will probably meet before the Duluth Athletic club, and the winner of that match will meet Young Miller at the Armory, Lyceum or at the baseball park. A match between Sailor Jack, should he defeat the Greek, and Young Miller, will be one of the greatest matches in this country.

If the details of the match are arranged today, the match between the Greek and Jack will be decided in the near future.

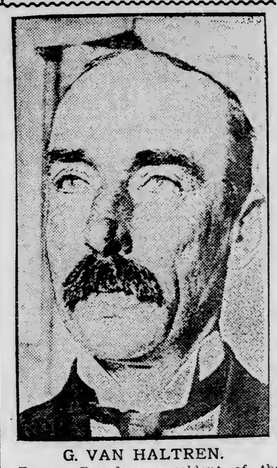
HIS JOB IS SAVING PITTSBURG MONEY



G. VAN HALTREN.

Barney Dreyfuss, president of the Pittsburg world's champions, declares that he has a scout on his staff who has been drawing a salary from the Pirate club for over five years and has never landed a player. Dreyfuss says he will not release him and that he can stay with him as long as he likes. This scout is George Van Haltren, the former Giant. According to Dreyfuss, Van Haltren saves the Pittsburg club a lot of money every year, because he is in a position to know most of the players on the coast and can warn the Pirates against the poor ones and recommend the good players.

SPEEDWAY IS VERY FAST

Brick Course at Indianapolis Justifies Hopes of Its Constructors.

Time Is Lowered in Three Classes of American Stock Cars.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 28.—Records went down in yesterday's races at the Motor Speedway and the new brick course justified all the hopes of its experimenting constructors that it would surpass all others for speed.

In three different classes of American stock cars, time was lowered. The drivers let their engines go to their limit and fought every foot of the way. The greatest victory of the day was the 100-mile race for cars of 301 and 350 cubic inches piston displacement, which was won by Kincaid in a National in 1:23:43. The previous record, set by Chevrolet in a Buick at Atlanta, was 1:24:08.

Ill fortune took this race away from Dawson, driving a Marmon. He led the field from the tenth to the eighty-fifth mile and lost the lead by the fouling of a spark plug and could not regain it. Kincaid, pounding down the home stretch, narrowly escaped crashing into the press stand when one of his rear tires ripped off and hurtled high in the air. By sheer strength he held his car to the track and the crowds in the grandstands gave him a roar of cheers. Flagged at the finish of the race, he asked the enthusiasts that gathered around his car: "Who won?"

"You," they answered, and Kincaid silently turned and shook hands with his mechanician.

In the five-mile race for cars of the same class as entered the 100-mile, Kincaid broke another record, winning over Dawson and Harroun, both driving Marmons, by a burst of speed in the home stretch that carried him from the field to the fore. His time was 5:05, bettering the former record by forty seconds.

Harroun had his inning in the 10-mile event for cars of 213 inches displacement. He won in 8:16, smashing the former record of 9:03. Chevolet, driving a Buick in the five-mile race, for the little car of 161 to 230 inches displacement, won with a brilliant dash in 4:41.

The withdrawal of all the Buick and Jackson entries by reason of the technical committee barring several cars that were said to exceed classification of power, threatened the success of the meet, but after saveral conferences the Buick owners consented to re-enter three of their cars that met the American Automobile association rules as interpreted by the technical committee. Chevrolet and Burman, thus were saved to the meet.

The steering gear of Barney Oldfield's Knox broke as he was trying out his motor before the first event was called, and he ran to the high edge of the bank on a curve, but stopped safely. The accident put him out of the races for the day. Fox, driving a Pope-Hartford, also had a narrow escape when the steering gear of his car broke and the car shot into the inner ditch, but it did not turn over.

The meet is to continue today and Monday.

The feature of today's card will be the 200-mile race, which was called off last year because of the death-dealing accidents. On Memorial day, the first national championship races of the American Automobile association will be run.

JEFFRIES IN PLAYFUL MOOD

Chases "Gentleman Jim" About Ring for Amusement of Spectators.

San Francisco, Cal., May 28.—Giving his second public boxing exhibition since he began training, and making what is said probably will be his last appearance before the big fight on July 4, James J. Jeffries surprised more than 2,000 enthusiastic ring followers last night by his apparently excellent condition and speed when he boxed three rounds with his brother, Jack, and three with Joe Choynski at Dreamland Rink.

The big fighter was fast and snappy in action and surprisingly quick on his feet.

This, with his appearance, the utter absence of avoirdupois and every indication that his training has put him in fine form, made a favorable impression on the big crowd, which howled itself hoarse with approval. The only adverse comment was that he "looked older."

Jeffries was given a great ovation when he entered the place and again when he entered the ring. A few minutes later James J. Corbett came in, and "Gentleman Jim" was given a greater ovation than Jeffries. The latter was in an unusually pleasant mood and playfully chased Corbett around the ring.

TO HOLD ANNUAL TOURNAMENT

Amateur Shoot Memorial Day on Northwestern Club Grounds.

The second annual amateur tournament of the Northwestern Gun club will be held Memorial day. The shooting will take place rain or shine, according to the members. The events will begin at 9:30 a. m.

There is a very large list of entrants not only from Duluth but from all over the Northwest. The grounds will be used Sunday for practice purposes and those who enter the Decoration day event are invited to try themselves out at this time.

There will be carriages to take the sportsmen to the grounds. They will leave from in front of the Spalding hotel at 8 a. m., Monday.

Dinner will be served on the grounds.

Hopes to See Fight.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 28.—Patrick McCarthy, mayor of San Francisco in an interview here yesterday, announced that he was in favor of the Jeffries-Johnson fight and hoped to see the battle for the heavyweight championship July 4. He left last night for the West.

FROM THE PRESS BOX

Umpire Agur's judgment on the bases was miserably poor yesterday. He called Anderson out at first in the eight when the runner had the throw beaten by a couple of feet. The Umps was standing right at the bag, so that his missing what was plainly seen from the stand, is one of those deep mysteries that the game is continually producing.

In the sixth he called Thomas Zachary Taylor, the poet, out at second when the romancer had the ball beaten easily.

This Chase has a lot of stuff. He has a fast one and plenty of curves. He lacks change of pace and it may be that he will be solved when the June sun is high in the heavens. He looks like a workman who depends much on mechanical ability. However he has got away fine so far, the present season.

• • •

Leskey went in the seventh inning, just to show the Irish Orator what he could do. He caught a foul up against the grandstand, that being the only chance the tail boy had to show. What little he had to do, he did well. Even when he struck out, he struck out in a healthy and enthusiastic manner.

• • •

Tom Taylor had an off day yesterday with the bat. Out of three times up he struck out twice. That is something that Thomas is rarely guilty of.

• • •

The day before yesterday Gillis was one of our most prominent hitting citizens, gathering four hits in the course of the afternoon. Yesterday he strode to the plate three times and biffed healthily each time. Ain't it funny, Geraldine, what a difference just a few hours make?

• • •

Altermott has a whirling whip, all right. In the third yesterday he pulled down Wallace's liner and threw with speed and precision to Gillis, nipping O'Leary before the little Turk could get back to the bag. If the fielding of this Altermott picks up a little finish, he should make one of the best in the league.

• • •

Darby O'Brien was fairly busy at his station yesterday, having five put outs and two assists. Indian Chase popped two Texas leaguers to the orator and several other of the Rochester players favored his side of the diamond.

• • •

In the ninth, Mons. Johnson hit a screamer out to Taylor's garden. He gracefully rounded first and attempted to beat it down to second. Taylor put life and enthusiasm in his whip and made a perfectly lovely heave to O'Brien, getting the runner.

• • •

Yesterday was the first ladies' day of the season and the stand was well filled with the fair sex. Michael Angelo Sweeney seemed to be the favorite with the ladies, and being naturally a bashful boy, this fact may have affected the playing of the harp.

• • •

Big Howard, who was with the Sox earlier in the season, was with the team again yesterday. Whether he will stay with the team or not, is not known at this time, Darby is anxiously waiting to learn whether Cummings is coming or not.

AROUND THE CIRCUIT

A. M. Lyons, who does baseball for the Red Wing Republican has been with the Malloy Indians during their first two games in Superior. He was in Duluth yesterday, as he desired to see a regular city before he returned home. He confided the statement that he got awfully lonely in Superior, not being able to sleep nights, because it was so quiet.

Mr. Lyons stated that Red Wing is baseball daffy and that great crowds are turning out to see the games. His paper got out an extra at the opening of the season, which is gong some for a town of the size of Red Wing.

According to Lyons, the team has the loyal support of the fans, who are convinced that before the season is much older, the team will be out of the cellar position.

Mr. Lyons states that never before has there been so much interest in baseball in the southern part of the state.

• • •

Ed. Steffens, the pitcher signed by La Crosse upon the recommendation of the great and only Konetchy, has been released by Joe Safford. The silent manager is cutting down his squad and found that Steffen has done nothing the present season that would warrant his remaining on the team.

Red Hayes is probably the only utility infielder that will be kept. Tragesser, the catcher, will be released and Jack Zalusky, who was secured from the Denver club, will be the main receiver.

Visiting ball players state that Eau Claire has a very strong team. Despite the loss of Russ Bailey the outfield is strong, Carter playing a very strong game. Eau Claire has generally been picked as one of the strong teams by the players who have played against the Angels the present season.

• • •

Jack Corrigan stated yesterday that the Rochester fans were giving his team the very best kind of support. He even stated that the Rochester fans were turning out in greater numbers than the Red Wing enthusiasts. He believes also that he has a very strong team and that his perch at the top of the pennant is not too good a position for his team to occupy.

• • •

Down at Eau Claire they are yelling because the papers at this end of the circuit did not take out the game La Crosse won from Eau Claire, but which was protested and allowed. If the president of this league would kindly send out notices of some of the decisions that are made in his office, perhaps the papers at this end of the circuit would be able to keep better track of these protested games.

As yet no official notice of the allowing of the protest has been sent out from the Elliott office. News makes attendance and attendance makes baseball prosperity. Mons Elliott might do well to bear that in mind.

• • •

Mique Malloy of the Red Wing Indians is on the trail of another twirler. He states that one or two good pitchers is all the club needs. He states his team is hitting and he also has a good bunch of fielders. The Red Wing boss believes that poor pitching alone is responsible for the low standing of the team.

COLLEGE BOYS BREAK RECORDS

Oberlin Defeats Thirteen Teams in Eighth "Big Six" Meet.

Columbus, Ohio, May 28.—In a contest that was not decided until the last event, Oberlin cleaned a field of thirteen colleges yesterday in the the eighth annual "Big Six" meet. Seven records were smashed. Western Reserve, Ohio State, Oberlin, Miami and Ohio Wesleyan were the record-breakers.

McCoy of Miami went the 100 yards in 9 4-5 seconds. The field of six were not more than a foot apart when the tape was reached.

Daniels of Wesleyan broke the record in the 440-yard dash, and did most of the racing in the relay. His sprinting in the last event was responsible for Wesleyan winning and breaking the record.

Barney broke the high hurdles, Jones the broad jump and Robinson the hammer throw.

LEWIS KNOCKED OUT BY KETCHEL

Parisian Idol Forces Fighting Which Seemed to Please Stanley.

New York, May 28.—Stanley Ketchel of Michigan, the middleweight champion, knocked out Willie Lewis of this city in the second round of a scheduled 10-round bout at the National Sporting club last night. Lewis, who was the Parisian idol some months ago, is a welterweight and was fully ten pounds lighter than Ketchel who weighed in at 158 pounds, according to agreement.

Lewis went right at his man the opening round. They exchanged body blows at close quarters, with Ketchel having the better of the exchanges. Lewis stepped cleverly inside of a vicious right swing and planted a straight left on Ketchel's face a moment later. After another session of in-fighting, Ketchel sent a left to the face, and the gong ended the round.

Lewis in the second round went after Ketchel furiously, but the fast pace suited Ketchel, who after several exchanges, planted a hard left on Lewis' body and followed it with a terrific right swing to the jaw. Lewis fell hard to the floor and was counted out. He lay there for several minutes before reviving sufficiently to be helped from the ring.

Pole Vault Record Broken.

Boulder, Colo., May 28.—Capt. L. F. Scott of the Stanford university track team yesterday broke the world's pole vault record, held by himself, with a vault of 12 feet, 10⅞ inches, in the dual track meet with the University of Colorado. The former record was 12 feet, 10 3-16 inches. Stanford won the meet with 71½ points to 50½.

PHILADELPHIA OUTFIELDER WHO IS LEADING NATIONAL LEAGUE BATTERS

MAGEE OF PHILADELPHIA NATIONALS.

Sherwood Magee, the hard hitting fielder of the Philadelphia Nationals, is at present leading the league in batting, with an average of over 400. There are a number of managers who would like Mr. Magee in their outer garden, but the Philadelphia management will probably not let him go.

WITH THE FIGHTERS

The Germans have no appreciation of the fine points of boxing. The Berlin police recently gave the contestants in a bout orders not to hit hard, and when one of the boxers scored a knockdown, he was disqualified by the referee.

The news that Joe Gans is failing rapidly will be received with regret by all who take an interest in boxing. It is said the former champion's lungs are affected. Few will deny that Gans in his day was the greatest lightweight of them all. He was not only a great boxer, but he had a knockout punch, a combination seldom found in a champion. There is no reason to believe that Lavigne at his best would have beaten the Old Master when Gans was at the height of his career. Lavigne never was able to stop a clever man, as witness his failures in the cases of Young Griffo and Kid McPartland.

If Gans' lungs really are affected there is small doubt the complaint was brought on by his foolish efforts to make weight for Battling Nelson. Although Gans was the champion at the time, he was so eager for the money involved in a match with Nelson that he permitted that Queensberry upstart to dictate 133 pounds ringside, with trunks and shoes. This necessitated Gans getting down to 131½ pounds and weakened him so he was unable to do himself justice in the bouts. Nothing is more dangerous to the lungs than the weakening results of unwarranted weight reduction, and Gans can lay his present trouble to his unwise action in his matches with Nelson.

London scribes are enthusiastic over a new heavyweight, Bombardier Billy Wells, who is named as a possible opponent for the winner of the Johnson-Jeffries match. Wells swept the boards in India, and having left the British army went to London with the hope of carving out a reputation. In his first and only bout in England he made a show of Gunner Joe Mills. Of this bout a London sporting writer says:

"The Bombardier was obviously taking things very easily, and yet it did not seem as though Mills was able to put a glove on him. The big fellow was as quick and smart on his feet as Jim Driscoll, his defense was perfect, and he showed himself to be possessed of a most useful left.

"The above description of his footwork may appear exaggerated, and it must of course be admitted that, as he was so obviously the superior, his display may have flattered him to some extent. But, be this as it may, it was perfectly plain that he was the fastest heavyweight who has been seen anywhere for many a long day. This was the general impression formed by a singularly expert circle of critics.

"Soldier boxers, especialy those who have made their reputations in India, have been somewhat disappointing in the past, but there is an exception to every rule, and Wells bids fair to prove a very striking one on this occasion."

Wells is a handsome specimen of physical manhood, standing six feet two and one-half inches in his socks and tipping the beam at 192 pounds in his best fighting condition. He has the phenomenal reach of 71½ inches. The Bombardier's progress in fistic circles will be watched with interest.

Sam Langford has been criticised in reference to the fact that he has fallen time he starts. He says he can't do ed to knock out his opponents every it, but that he always tries. The manner in which he put Kublak away was rather convincing. No other boxer has been sending Kublak to dreamland.

Ketchell and Willie Lewis are scheduled to meet on May 27 and the bout does not have a wholesome look. Lewis was recently knocked out by Papke in a few rounds in Paris, and while he says he had all the better of the contest up to the time of the decisive punch, the only reply is "that's what they all say."

"It is all arranged for Jeffries to win in fifteen rounds," said a man who is a close student of boxing affairs. "Jeffries would not have made the match otherwise. He is not only an old man athletically, but both his arms are affected and he could not use them effectively in a bout. In a contest on its merits Johnson would win in a common canter. But Johnson wants the money and is willing to betray his followers. He will get the whole of the purse for his treachery and Jeff, with his victory will go out on the road and earn a fortune. In fact, he has been guaranteed $150,000 for the tour. With what he gets from the pictures, Jeff can retire with a fortune and Johnson will again bob up as champion. That is the scheme. Just watch and see."

The fight between Lew Powell of San Francisco and George M. Memsic of Los Angeles came to an unexpected ending at the end of the fourth round Saturday. When Memsic went to his corner it was found his right arm was broken between the wrist and elbow and the fight was stopped. Referee Eyton gave the decision to Powell. Memsic's arm was broken near the end of the round when Powell stopped a right swing with his elbow.

The Berneyo Wins.

Havana, May 28.—The Berneyo, owned by S. W. Granbery of Brooklyn, won the yachtsmen's club power-boat race from Philadelphia to Havana. The Berneyo, with her time allowance over the Caliph of 3 hours and 45 minutes, beat the latter boat by 2 hours, 44 minutes, 18 seconds. The Illys and the Caroline had not been sighted this morning when their time allowances expired.

The scratch boat, Loantaka, owned by H. Jay Peters of Trenton, N. J., got into trouble with her machinery soon after the start, and abandoned the race.

The Caliph, owned by M. E. Brigham of the Ventnor yacht club, finished first last evening. The Berneyo arrived an hour later. The Caroline, M. F. Dennie of the Columbia Yacht club, owner, had an allowance of 18 hours and 12 minutes, and an allowance over the winner of 6 hours and 50 minutes. The Ilys had corresponding allowances of 19 hours and 3 minutes and 7 hours and 28 minutes.

The vessels started May 21 off Race street wharf in the Delaware river, Philadelphia, and finished between Morro castle and La Punta fort, at the entrance to the harbor here. The distance was 1,138 nautical, or 1,309 statute miles.

The prizes were: First, City of Philadelphia cup, valued at $1,000, and $1,000 in cash; second, Yachtsmen's club cup, valued at $500, and $500 in cash; third, the Alexander Van Rensselaer cup, valued at $250, and $250 in cash.

TOURING TO TWIN CITIES

Many Duluth Automobile Parties Leave for a Run Down State.

Roads Are Said to Be in Best Condition for Years.

Today the road between Duluth and Minneapolis was lined with Duluth automobilists. Many left early this morning and will return Memorial day.

The road is said to be in the best shape for years. While many left this morning, others will go this afternoon. Those who left later will make the journey by easy stages, staying over night at the various points along the road and continuing Sunday morning.

Joseph G. Harrison left this morning in his Hudson car.

Phil Thomas and Gilbert Cutler are making the trip in Mr. Thomas' Stearns car. This is the car in which the party made the trip to Duluth in a trifle over six hours about three weeks ago.

Mrs. Joseph Cotton and Miss Katherine Hubbell went down in Mr. Cotton's Franklin car.

Mr. Owen is making the trip with a party of four others in his Regal. J. G. Brooks is making the trip in his Cadillac and O. K. Knobloch is making the run in his new Chalmers-Detroit. J. A. Todd went down in his Stearns.

Many others are making the trip and there are said to be many Twin City autoists making the journey to Duluth.

The roads about Duluth are now in as good shape as they will be this year, it is said, and Duluth people are beginning to use their cars more for country.

During the week P. E. Dowling drove from Eveleth in his new Hudson car. Mr. Dowling, who has been for years owner and editor of the Eveleth Star, will from now on make his home in Duluth.

Dr. W. G. Dolan, John Haley and John Jenswold became owners of Chalmers-Detroit cars during the past week.

Six shining Cadillac cars have been sold during the week. The new models are beauties in both the toy tonneau and five-passenger shapes. The Cadillac is being made popular in Duluth and its popularity is steadily growing. Among the new owners is "Bobby" Burns who says he is greatly pleased with his car.

The Franklin air-cooled car is having a large sale. For speed and hill climbing abilities this car cannot be beaten, it is claimed.

CORBETT TELLS HOW HE TRAINED

San Francisco, Cal., May 28.—Although Jim Corbett, according to his own declaration, has not come to California to take charge of Jim Jeffries' training, it is generally believed that plans of the former champion for a revision of the work will be adopted, and that Corbett will wield great influence henceforth in the regulation of the Ben Lomond program. He has some decided views as to the style of training Jeffries should follow in preparation for his fight with Johnson. He said:

"It's fighting and boxing that Jeffries requires from now on. I'm going to warn him that fighting is what he'll get from me. When I was training for my meeting with this same Jeffries, I hired Gus Ruhlin in at $100 a week, and we would lock ourselves in a twelve-foot ring and pummel each other all around the ropes. That is the kind of work Jeffries should have now."

Contrasting the tactics of Johnson and Jeffries, Corbett said:

"Johnson is a wonderful defensive boxer, and, moreover, he blocks with his hands and does not depend on his feet. Strangely unlike most flat-footed boxers, he is not aggressive. Nor has he shown a punch. Now, Jeffries likes a man who comes rushing into him. Johnson will do nothing of the sort. He will stay away and clinch as often as he can."

Johnson will resume boxing this afternoon. He has extended a general invitation to all would-be sparring partners. Johnson says he can't have too many men to box with, and that he would like to have a round dozen on hand.

KAUFMANN WILL SPAR WITH JACK

San Francisco, Cal., May 28.—Johnson has engaged Al Kaufmann, the California heavyweight, to box with him.

Kaufmann, Billy Delaney and Johnson held a long conference yesterday afternoon, after which the announcement was made.

There are two things, it is said, that determined Kaufmann to go with Johnson. One is that Delaney would like to help the colored champion dethrone Jeffries, and the other is that Kaufmann is at outs with Sam Berger. Kaufmann complains that ever since he knocked Berger out in San Francisco, Sam has been bitter.

The Johnson workout yesterday was the same as on Thursday. He was on the road for twelve miles. Beginning tomorrow, Johnson will box in the gymnasium three days in succession.

PENNSYLVANIA SHOWS UP WELL

Philadelphia, May 28.—Pennsylvania showed up so well in the trials yesterday as to make it probable Philadelphia institutions will carry off the intercollegiate championships, the finals of which will be held on Franklin Field this afternoon. Provided Pennsylvania wins the meet, it looks like a warm battle for second place between Yale, Michigan, Harvard and possibly Princeton, as the contenders.

Pennsylvania announced 14 men for the final; Yale and Princeton, 12 each; Harvard, 11; Cornell, 8; Michigan, 8; Amherst, 4; Syracuse, 4; Columbia and Wesleyan, 2 each and Rutgers, Colgate, Dartmouth, New York university, Haverford and Bowdoin 1 each. No records were broken yesterday, but the performances were all of a high order.

Harvard had ill luck. Foster counted on to win the 220-yard dash, pulled up late and failed to qualify. Little, in the broad jump, twisted his ankle and Harvard lost another possible winner.

Yale lost ground in failing to qualify Kirjassoff in the half-mile and Canfield in the high jump.

ACQUIRES OPTIONS

Vermillion and Mesabe Iron Company Holds All Kennedy Options.

Controls 880 Acres Valuable Iron Lands on Vermilion Range.

All of the "Kennedy options" on iron ore properties on the Vermilion range have been turned over to the Vermillion and Mesabe Iron Company, in which organization Mr. Kennedy and a number of other well-known business and professional men at the Head of the Lakes are interested.

The properties controlled by the company, aggregate 880 acres, under eight contracts. Over $40,000 has been expended in the last three years exploring and developing the iron properties and the company now has six on which iron ore is known to exist and which are to be further developed.

The properties acquired comprise eight forty-acre tracts in Section 8, 17 and 18, 62-13, better known as the Robinson Lake properties; 160 acres in Section 4, 62-13, known as the Johnson and Bergman properties; 40 acres in the northeast part of Section 1, 62-13, known as the Erickson property; 160 acres in Section 10, 62-14, known as the McCue property; 80 acres in the northeast quarter of Section 5, 62-12 and 120 acres in the northwest quarter of Section 4, 62-12, known as the Anderson and Lucky Boy properties; and an option for a lease on lands on the Mesabe range described in Sections 29 and 31, 59-14.

The Vermillion and Mesabe Iron Company has been working with several drills for some time past on all these properties and is carrying on the largest exploration and development operations of any other individual or company in the district mentioned.

Analyses of ore taken from the Vermillion properties show hematite ore similar to that in the operating mines around Ely and running to a high percentage in iron.

This is the first statement from authoritative sources that has been made regarding the Kennedy options and will, it is believed, set at rest speculation that has been rife for over two years past as to the operations of Mr. Kennedy and his associates. Various rumors have been circulated to the effect that certain of the options had been sold to the Steel company, but no such sales have been made, nor are any contemplated until the Vermillion and Mesabe Iron Company carries its development work to the point where it feels disposed to sell on a royalty basis to an operating company.

The work of acquiring the options was started by Mr. Kennedy alone three years ago. As he proceeded he became associated with other local men and ample funds have been provided to carry on operations successfully to the present time.

That information regarding the options and the extent of the operations has not been made public by those concerned, until the present time, was due to business reasons.

In the Robinson Lake property the Vermillion and Mesabe Iron Company has a hanging wall and footwall thoroughly established. This is of more than usual interest from the fact that it is the first time a footwall has been established on the Vermillion range. To get this footwall clearly defined four drill holes were made, the last finished hole being over 1,000 feet down and penetrating the footwall to a depth of over 252 feet. The ore in this formation extended 232 feet and showed a hematite ore that assayed at 64 per cent iron. A drill hole on the opposite edge is down over 1,000 feet and is through the footwall. Another drill hole between the two mentioned is down 465 feet, but is not finished. The company is sinking a shaft on the property and will drift. An assay of ore from the pit showed 66.58 per cent iron.

Mining men well acquainted with the situation say that the ore formation shown on the Duluth & Vermillion Company's property extends clear across the Robinson Lake property on the easterly side.

The shaft of the Southall mine is only 17 feet from the eastern boundary line of the Johnson and Bergman properties controlled by the Vermillion and Mesabe Iron company. In this shaft ore has been found at a depth of 35 feet that assayed 69.67 per cent iron. Ore taken from the Johnson and Bergman property assays 65 per cent iron. The company is sinking a shaft and will drift into the ore.

On the Erickson property the company has gone through a strata of ore and moved the drill further away from the wall. Paint rock and hematite ore of the same character as that in the mines at Ely, a distance of three miles, and on the same formation was found on the side of a pit sunk to a depth of 30 feet. The first drill hole on this property went through 60 to 65 feet of clear ore and then into the wall.

The McCue property, operated on by the Minnesota Ore company in 1890, was afterward acquired by Edward McCue and by his widow optioned to Mr. Kennedy. The extent of early operations is shown by an extract from the Vermillion Iron Journal of Jan. 8, 1891, which follows:

"The main shaft is now down 104 feet and has gone through ore nearly the entire distance. At the 50-foot level crosscuts have been driven nearly 300 feet, extending east and west, and, with few exceptions, are through fine ore."

Various options have been held on this property since 1891, but work was never started again until the Vermillion and Mesabe Iron Company obtained control. Drilling is now under way.

The Anderson and Lucky Boy properties are one and one-half miles from the Chandler mine and in the same valley. On the Anderson property was an old pit 70 or 80 feet deep with a drift, abandoned on account of litigation affecting the title. After Mr. Kennedy secured his option drilling was started. The company has two pits showing paint rock and soap rock from the surface and some ore. The drilling is still going on.

On the Lucky Boy property the company has drilled through 85 feet of paint rock and encountered clear ore of a depth of 55 feet continuing to a depth of 35 feet more of hematite ore and paint rock mixed. The hematite ore resembles that in the Chandler mine. Both properties are in the same trough as the Chandler and Pioneer mines.

Dwight E. Woodbridge, the well-known local mining expert, in a private report on these two properties, said:

"I am inclined to consider these two properties, together with the McCue, the most favorably of those which the company holds on the Vermilion range, though the Robinson Lake properties have as favorable an outlook as most of the work now under way in that region. With these several well located properties and money for their careful and thorough exploration this company has a better opportunity for the discovery of commercial bodies of ore than any exploration of which I am informed on the Vermilion range. I regard these properties as exceptionally well located, in the main, and advise systematic exploration."

Mr. Woodbridge's report was made in March, this year, since when the company has carried much exploration work to a successful point.

The company has a drill at work on its Mesabe range property, Sections 29 and 31, 59-14. One hole is through the formation, encountering the characteristic jasper of the Mesabe range, and some ore. This led to the selection of a spot 30 feet south of the first hole where the company now has a second hole into the same material. This property is 1,200 feet east of the Adriatic mine's easterly workings and is in the same character of country as that around the Adriatic. There is as good reason to expect a deposit of iron ore in the land now being drilled as there was at many other points on the Mesabe range where ores have been found in quantity. The exploration will be continued across the forty.

These six properties mentioned and two on the Mesabe range have been selected by the Vermillion and Mesabe Iron Company from among all the options held by Mr. Kennedy and others as the properties on which development work will be pushed. It is probable, also, that the company will exercise other options and carry on other exploration work should that course be determined on later.

The Vermillion and Mesabe Iron Company was organized under the laws of Minnesota. Its capital stock is $1,000,000 divided into 100,000 shares of a par value of $10.

The stock thus far has been quite closely held by a number of prominent local men, but it is understood that a small amount may be put on the market, shortly, by the company itself, to increase the fund for continued development work.

Under the contracts held by the company the royalties to be paid vary from 15 cents to 50 cents, averaging on the eight options less than 30 cents per ton. Figuring the price paid by operating companies at from $1 to $1.50 per ton, Mr. Kennedy and his associates seem in line for a handsome return on their investments.

GRAND JURY TO PROBE KILLING BY SLEUTHS.

Chicago, May 28.—Unable to reach a verdict on the death of John Dubinski, who was mistaken for a highwayman and killed by city detectives a week ago, a coroner's jury has recommended that the evidence in the case be presented to a grand jury. The jury was then dismissed by Coroner Hoffman.

Pauline McHugh, who was engaged to wed Dubinski, caused a sensation at city hall three days ago when she told Chief of Police Steward that she would kill herself unless there was a life atonement for the death of her fiance. Miss McHugh testified at the inquest.

"OPPOSITION IS GROWING," HE SAYS

University President Thinks the Big Fight Will Not Take Place.

New York, May 28.—Benjamin Ide Wheeler, president of the University of California, who is now in New York, is quoted as saying:

"Opposition to the Jeffries-Johnson fight is steadily growing, and it is extremely doubtful if the fight will take place as scheduled. Responsible citizens of San Francisco and the state do not want the fight, and it will be most harmful if it does take place."

COMIC OPERA STAR GETS $10,000 ALIMONY.

New York, May 28.—Justice McCall, in the supreme court, yesterday ordered Albert Gallatin Wheeler, a millionaire member of the New York Stock exchange, to pay his wife, formerly Claudia Carlstad, a comic opera star, $10,000 a year alimony and a counsel fee of $1,500 pending the trial of her suit for separation.

Wheeler is a son of Albert G. Wheeler, who is at the head of the corporation that built the Chicago subway. He is a member of the Chicago board of trade and the Union League club.

CHAFING DISHES

Uniform heat under perfect control makes an electric chafing dish the most certain and satisfactory of all cooking machines. We have them in many different styles and at different prices to suit all purses.

LUMINOUS RADIATORS

A PORTABLE radiator, invaluable in the nursery or sleeping room. Produces heat immediately when the switch is turned on. Beautiful and not too expensive.

TEA KETTLES

In one of these kettles water can be kept boiling for an indefinite time with the expenditure of very little current as the heat can be adjusted. In two sizes.

COMBINATION COOKERS

Made in four sizes, equipped with indestructible quartz enamel unit; one of these will be most acceptable to any housewife. Priced according to size.

GRIDS AND BROILERS

Both are similar in design except that the broiler has a corrugated surface. Cakes or steaks can be cooked to a nicety with one of these convenient electric devices without the necessity of standing over a hot fire.

HOUSEKEEP THE ELECTRICAL WAY THIS SUMMER

DON'T torture yourself and family all through the coming hot weather with a blazing stove to cook and iron—use electrical apparatus and cut out three-fourths of the work and all the unpleasantness.

Electrically-generated heat is cheaper than coal or gas-generated heat when you take into consideration the fact that we make special rates on power to be used for heating purposes, that with electrically-generated heat your wall-hangings and draperies are not ruined with soot and coal dust, that the air of your house remains pure and fit to breathe, unmixed with tens of millions of minute fragments of unconsumed carbon inseperable from the coal or coal-gas flame; thus saving much in the health of your family. In a score of ways The Electrical Way is the Economical way!

Housewives who "housekeep the electrical way" could not possibly be persuaded to go back to the innumerable discomforts of the old way!

Visit our Show-room and inspect the apparatus shown there—get prices, and rates on current—we will demonstrate to you that you can't afford not to "housekeep the electrical way" this summer and every summer to come!

SOME IMPROVEMENT IN TRADE

New York, May 28.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade today says:

Changes in the business situation are in the line of moderate improvements. Crop prospects are better and this is plainy indicated by the downward tendency of prices. Visible improvement is taking place in the iron and steel trade, and this is the best development of the past few days; there is a larger demand for both pig iron and for finished products, especially in agricultural and structural lines. Demand from railroad for equipment is somewhat restricted by uncertainty regarding freight rates, yet some good business in rolling stock is regarded as certain and rails have been taken in moderate amounts. Buying of cotton goods still limited, and mills are still indisposed to accept long contracts on account of the unsatisfactory prices. Curtailment is growing as the crop season advances. The trend of trade is toward improvement, however. In woolens and worsteds, stock goods are being offered at concessions and mills are conservative in the matter of operation on fall lines not under order. The yarn markets are steadier and a little more business is being done. Jobbers are making headway in cleaning seasonable stocks, but retailers are still very conservative in the volume of their weekly purchases.

Trade in footwear continues slow and unsatisfactory, large jobbers throughout the country having failed to follow up initial purchases by supplementary buying of account. Curtailment of production is a necessity. The question of price has apparently little bearing on the volume of present traffic. Leather is generally inactive. Considerable curtailment of production has recently taken place, and some large upper leather tanners are running only to 40 per cent of capacity. Pronounced dullness continues to rule throughout the entire hide market and all varieties of both domestic and foreign hides are weaker.

CAUCUS AGAIN IS POSTPONED

Republicans Hope to Agree Wednesday on Postal Bank Bill.

Washington, May 28.—The Republican house caucus on the postal savings bank bill adjourned at 11 o'clock last night until Wednesday night, without having completed the bill. Shortly after the caucus convened, it was decided to pass over without action section 9 of the bill, relating to the disposition of postal savings deposits. This section has been the stumbling block in the way of a caucus agreement, but it is expected that Wednesday it will be disposed of. The matter of disagreement is on the question of what percentage of the postal deposits shall remain in the local banks.

The remaining sections of the bill were read and accepted, with slight amendment. The question of taxation of deposits caused issuance of United States bonds in small denominations. It finally was decided that the bonds should be issued in denominations of $20 up to $100. About 100 members were present.

TORNADO TOUCHES TOWN.

Part of Pierce City, Mo., Damaged By Twister.

Pierce City, Mo., May 28.—A tornado which formed northwest of here at 6 o'clock last night, struck the western edge of town a few minutes later, destroyed ten dwellings and several barns and swept southward out of sight. No one was killed. Cyclone cellars saved the families of Edward Greer, William Tate, John Shylock and James Abernathy. That many persons were not injured is due to the fact that the twister was seen to form by those endangered, and thus they had an opportunity to seek refuge. Telephonic and telegraphic communication in all directions was interrupted for five hours.

DULUTHIAN PRESIDENT.

Z. D. Scott Chosen Head of State Board of Forestry.

St. Paul, Minn., May 28.—The forests of the state must be protected and fires must be prevented. This was the gist of a resolution presented to the state forestry board yesterday at the suggestion of Governor Eberhart.

The board met in the office of State Forester C. C. Andrews, and after electing Z. D. Scott of Duluth, president, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of S. M. Owens, the question of preventing fires was taken up. W. B. Douglas, former attorney general, at Governor Eberhart's suggestion, introduced a resolution asking that the president appoint a committee of five to propose legislation extending the power of the board in the matter of the preventing of fires. The question will come before the legislature at its next session.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY

SOCIETY

The art exhibition and the Symphony orchestra concerts and the school graduations are the interests that are demanding attention. During the last week many hundred Duluthians were present at the fine showing of pictures which the Duluth Art association has provided for the public. Various clubs of the city have been assisting hosts on the different days and the Duluth women will continue to assist during the next week. The exhibit will be open tomorrow from 1 to 7 o'clock and the officers of the association and the active members will receive. Monday, May 30, the members of the ladies' literature class, of which Mrs. L. W. Kline is president, have been invited to assist, Tuesday, May 31, the Bishop's club, Mrs. F. E. Kennedy, president, will be at the rooms, Wednesday, June 1, the Cecilian society, Mrs. H. C. Strong, president will receive; Thursday, June 2, the members of the Park Point study class, Mrs. Gude, president, and the Lester Park Literary club, Mrs. Helen Stewart, president, will receive. Friday, June 3, the Linneae club members have been invited to be at the exhibit and Saturday, June 4, the Greysolen duLhut chapter of the D. A. R., will be the special hostesses.

The Twentieth Century club, the Needlework Guild, the Matinee Musicale and the Daughters of Liberty chapter of the D. A. R., assisted on various days this week.

The graduation exercises for the grade school and high school will demand attention early in June. The first of the normal school events in connection with graduation took place last evening when the resident director, J. L. Washburn and Mrs. Washburn received the graduates and the members of the faculty at their home at Glen Avon. During the receiving hours, La Brosse's orchestra played and the soloists were Miss Alice Sjoselius, soprano, who will leave soon for Europe to study at Berlin in the autumn and Miss Long of the faculty gave several readings. The alumnae banquet will be held this evening.

ABOUT THE BRIDES

Mr. and Mrs. Frank I. Breeze have issued invitations for the wedding reception for their daughter, Miss Rachael Marion MacLaren and William Liddell Mackay of this city which will take place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Breeze at 1013 East Second street, Wednesday evening, June 8. The ceremony will take place at 8 o'clock before immediate friends. The bride will be attended by Miss Mabel Mackay of St. Paul, sister of the bridegroom, and the groomsman will be Mr. Rhinebelt of St. Paul. The ceremony will be followed by the reception.

Mr. Mackay and his bride will leave for a wedding trip and will be at home in this city after their return.

Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Kincaid of 102 South Fourteenth avenue east were hosts at a bridge party Tuesday evening in compliment to Miss MacLaren and Mr. Mackay. The game was played at six tables. Thursday afternoon Mrs. Arthur Barnes entertained at cards at her home at Lester park in honor of Miss MacLaren and last evening Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Cheney entertained at their home, 1222 East Second street.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Everhard returned this week from their wedding trip. Their wedding took place Wednesday of last week at Minneapolis and many Duluthians will be interested in the following social note from the Minneapolis Journal of Sunday.

"Miss Edna Catherine Thiem, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Theim of 1322 Douglas avenue south, was married to Frank Taggart Everhard Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thiem. Rev. Clement G. Clarke of the First Congregational church, read the service at 8 o'clock in the presence of the immediate relatives and intimate friends. No invitations had been issued. The ceremony was performed below the bow window in the living room amid appointments of green and white. An altar of palms and white roses was lighted by cathedral candles.

"Miss Elizabeth Nelson was the maid of honor and she wore a white chiffon gown embroidered in pink and carried a shower bouquet of Dorothy Perkins roses. The bride wore a robe of cream silk poplin trimmed with duchess lace and pearls. Her shower bouquet was formed of bride roses, lilies-of-the-valley and stephanitis. Oliver Lovell was Mr. Everhard's best man. Preceding the service Mrs. Helen Smith sang 'The Sweetest Story Ever Told,' and 'Mendelssohn's Spring Song.' George Dames of St. Paul accompanied Mrs. Smith and played the wedding march.

"Mr. and Mrs. Thiem and the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. William Everhard, assisted in receiving the guests after the ceremony. All the rooms were decorated in green and white except the dining room, where American beauty roses were used. A wedding supper was served in the dining room. Mrs. Monroe Freeman of St. Anthony park, and Mrs. George Campbell served ices and coffee. Frappe was served by Miss Helen Lovell, assisted by the Misses Catherine Rittenhouse, Julia Porter and Helen Gulles.

"The bride's going away gown was brown silk with brown hat. Mr. and Mrs. Everhard will reside in Duluth. The bride finished her education at the Chevy Chase school in Washington, D. C., two years ago and the same year the bridegroom graduated at the law school of the university where he was a member of the Delta Chi fraternity."

THE WEEK'S AFFAIRS

Mrs. Alexander Milne was the guest of honor at a birthday surprise reception last Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. B. Paul of 1632 East First street. The affair was arranged by the Ladies' Union of the Pilgrim church and during the afternoon a large company of the members and guests called to greet Mrs. Milne. The house was attractively decorated in wild flowers, cherry blossoms being used. In the dining room the appointments were in yellow, yellow pansies being the table decorations and wild yellow violets were the dainty flowers used. A birthday cake with yellow candles occupied the center of the table.

During the afternoon, Mrs. O. J. Larson sang and there was a reading by Mrs. F. B. Rollins. A series of toasts in compliment to Mrs. Milne were given by a number of the members.

The following item from the Minneapolis Journal will be of interest to many Duluthians:

"Members of the Lambda Nu, alumnae chapter of Delta Gamma, were at home this afternoon at the chapter house, 1011 Sixth street southeast, in honor of Mrs. E. McMaster Pennock, nee Tennant, a Delta Gamma bride of May 14, and her sister, Mrs. Charles E. Adams of Duluth. Receiving with Mrs. Pennock and Mrs. Adams were their mother, Mrs. G. H. Tennant; Mrs. M. D. Purdy, Miss Ada Comstock, Miss Gratia Countryman and Miss Laura Henry. The hours were from 3 to 6 and 125 members of Delta Gamma called, including both alumnae and girls from the active chapter in the Twin Cities.

"Ferns and palms were arranged through the rooms in bower effect and in the dining room yellow roses, the sorority flower, were heaped in a mound on the tea table. Serving in the dining room were Mrs. Grosvenor Cross, Mrs. Samuel L. Sewall, Mrs. G. B. Frankforter, Mrs. G. W. Buffington, Mrs. John Irwin and Miss Katrina Strohmeier. A group of girls from the active chapter assisted. A short musical program was given."

The members of the Palestine assembly entertained at the last party of the season Thursday evening of this week. The affair was given at the ballroom of the Masonic temple. CALL IT "LAGNIAPPE"

By CARA REESE.

So, if you are "tired" of seeing the word in the public prints or hearing it on everybody's tongue, how will lagniappe do as a substitute?

It is more euphonious. There are folks like you who do not regard the term "graft" as agreeable, nor desire to belong to the category of "grafters." But some of these same good people are so expert in lagniappe that, come to think of it, they furnish an interesting text which may lead up to your enlightenment.

They insist on having trading stamps, coupons, chances on gift drawing or a bonus with their buying such as a decorated plate with the tea or a piece of bologna with the meat. It is a trade practice that dates back to Spanish days, when customers received a small gift in addition to the purchase.

Lagniappe, however, can be carried to extremes. It is a habit, too, that grows with the practice. The spirit of greed is awakened and finally there is developed a race of patrons who actually decline to purchase without a slight return for the outlay, or who murmur when the "samples" have already been distributed and with none remaining when they put in appearance. It sometimes happens at special displays and exhibits that those who are laden down the heaviest with gift trifles are the ones who are complaining the loudest over a shortage. The habit grows of wanting the bonus or the prize.

It is legitimate business enterprise to offer inducements to the public, to grant a commission as it were for the trade which is directed toward the business, to offer discount on large purchases and ready pay, a reward to agents or friends of the house who secure patronage and orders. And there are other attractive plans such as "bargains" on special days, or a "sale" of some overstock, or a coupon in the sealed package, or a gift in trading stamps or some memento to "call again." There is much that is interesting and above board in prize package distribution. It is only when the patrons themselves get the coupon idea on the brain, so to speak, or live, move and have their being on a trading stamp basis, that the policy of lagniappe in their cases leans toward a less beneficial condition. When you strive for every bonus in sight you are as greedy as the early slaves who did their masters' trading at the markets and shops where the most candy and cake were given as reward to the negro for bringing business that way.

Modern methods have superseded the gum drop and sweet cake and the business-like calculations protect dealers from loss in their gift distribution, free shows and souvenirs in standards of goods or inadequate mensure to even up while patrons are attracted to a paying percentage.

So you see, if it is not graft, it is something else. Lagniappe carried to extremes by greedy purchasers or those desiring something for nothing or a few souvenirs more than their share, is somewhat of a substitute for the term which you quote as "overworked" and disagreeable. Turn your pockets inside out. How many prize coupons, or raffle tickets or gift numbers or "sample" trinkets do you find there?

The ease of operation, elegance of style and construction, smooth and noiseless running qualities, and the entire absence of smoke, leaking oils, grease, and constant "fussing" necessary in the use of any gasoline car, makes the Columbus Electric easily the Ideal Car on the market today.

It is especially adapted for summer or winter service—rain or shine—and its simplicity and perfection of control make it entirely safe for any woman or child to operate at all times.

It is the lightest and best built electric car on the market. Light weight means more power, speed and better all around road performance, less wear on the tires and batteries and less expense for upkeep.

It is built by a factory whose product has for nearly fifty years been recognized as "Standard the World Over"—that has never built anything but strictly high grade goods.

More of these excellent cars are being used by satisfied owners in Minneapolis, Duluth, Winona, Aberdeen, Winnipeg and other cities in this immediate territory than all other electric cars combined.

CLUBS AND MUSICAL

MINNEAPOLIS SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA CONCERTS PROMISE TO BE BRILLIANT SOCIAL AND MUSICAL SUCCESSES

Largest List of Subscribers Ever Secured for Such an Event.

Much Interest Is Being Shown in the Children's Concert.

Friday Will Be Symphony Night and Saturday Grand Opera Night.

Everything points to a series of brilliant concerts in Duluth the latter part of next week when the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra with the assisting soloists will present three concerts at the Lyceum Friday and Saturday nights and Saturday afternoon.

There will be a special children's matinee Friday afternoon to which only school children of the city will be admitted. There is great interest in the children's concert and in preparation there have been talks at many of the schools of the city in illustration of the program which will be presented and the demand for tickets is large. Committees from the Matinee Musicale and Cecilian societies have arranged the details for the children's concerts. The committee in charge of the concert is as follows: Miss Carlotta Simonds, Mrs. John A. Stephenson, Mrs. Ostergren, Mrs. Stocker, Mrs. Ruth, Mrs. A. M. Gow, Miss Josephine Carey, Miss Stocker, Miss Elsie Smith, Miss Teresa Lynn, Miss Williams, Miss Thomas, Miss Smart, Miss Hartman, Miss Faith Rogers, Miss Helen Coburn and Miss Isabel Pearson treasurer, and Miss Van Stone.

Symphony Night.

Friday is symphony night and the chief attraction is Tschaikowsky's symphony in Eminon No. 5, a splendid example of the Russian composer's work as a symphony writer. The work is in four movements, commencing with a short andante followed by the allegro movement and finishing with a spirited finale. Other numbers are by Mozart, Coleridge-Taylor, Sibelius, Jaernefeldt and Elgan. Mr. Middleton will sing "Who Treads the Path of Duty," from "The Magic Flute," and Mrs. Tewksbury will sing "Spring Had Come," from "Hiawatha's Departure," while Mr. Czerwonky will play Sarasate's famous "Gipsy Songs."

The matinee on Saturday afternoon offers some fine numbers, all new to Duluth concert goers. Hamish McCann's overture, "The Land of the Hungarian dances, Grieg's "Lyric Suite" and Smetana's symphonic poem, "On the Shores of the Moldau," with songs by David Duggan and Marietta Bagby will make a most charming program.

The final concert on Saturday night is called the grand operatic and Wagner night, with selections from Gounod's "Faust," Wagner's "Lohengrin," "Siegfried" and "Walkuere." From "Faust" there will be the "Flower Girl," "Clear the Way for the Calf of Gold," "The Hour Is Late" (duet), and the Fred Finale, "Holy Angels." From "Lohengrin," "The Vorspiel," Lohengrin's narrative, "King's Prayer," and the introduction to Act III, "Forest Murmurs," from "Siegfried," and the concert will end with the famous "Ride of the Walkyries," from "Walkuere."

The committes in charge are:

Executive—T. W. Hugo, Stephen H. Jones, Horace W. Reyner.

Decoration committee—Mrs. J. H. Crowley, Miss Crowley, Mrs. S. H. Jones.

The Subscription List.

The subscription list, which is the largest in the history of such endeavors in the city, is as follows:

Lecture Recital.

Mrs. Stella Prince Stocker will present a lecture recital on "Lohengrin" Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the First Baptist church and Wednesday evening the lecture will be given at the Endion Methodist church. The program is as follows:

The legend of the silver bell.

Wagner's idea of the prelude, on the Spring Festival program.

Elsa's Accusation and the vision.

The champion appears in a boat drawn by a swan.

"The King's Prayer," on the Festival program.

The Judgment

Doubt, in the person of Ortrud, assails the glorius faith of Elsa. Prelude to the third Act and bridal chorus on the festival program.

The Death of Telramund.

Elsa asks the fatal question.

Lohengrin's Narrative (Erzaehlung), on the festival program.

The knight departs for his home in the Grail castle.

Spiritual Interpretation of the Lohengrin story.

As an introduction to the lecture the themes of the Fifth Symphony by Tschaikowski, Wagner's Waldweben, and Ride of the Valkyries from "Walkuere" will be played. The organ will be used for all the illustrations.

All are welcome at these recitals. No tickets will be sold, but there will be a church collection.

TRY THIS DINNER

Soup—Velours.

Boil a few carrots; when tender crush them and rub through a sieve. Make a tapioca soup with a can of bouillon and three of water. When the tapioca is done, add the puree of carrots and mix well. Boil for a few minutes, season to taste and serve.

Ment—Bruised Beef.

Take six or eight pounds of round or a piece of rump. Lard with salt pork. Put a few slices of pork in a large pan; when the pork begins to fry add two onions, two slices of carrot, half a turnip, all minced or chopped fine. As soon as they begin to brown nicely, draw to one side of the pan and put in your beef. Dredge well with pepper, salt and flour. Brown the meat well on all sides, then add one quart of boiling water and a small bunch of sweet herbs. Cover the pan and cook slowly three and a half hours. Baste often; take up and add to the gravy half can of tomatoes and cook ten minutes. Strain, pour around beef and serve.

Vegetables—Beans Spanish Style.

Put to soak over night a quart of pink beans. Rinse the next morning and put on to boil, with a piece of salt pork and a medium-sized onion sliced. Use hot water and cook slowly two hours, then add a heaping tablespoonful of chili powder after mixing with a little cold water. Boil another hour and add salt if needed.

• • •

Desert—Prunes and Rice.

Stew prunes tender, pit, chop fine. Boil cupful of rice soft and dry. Place alternate layers of rice and prunes in a buttered dish, finishing with a layer of rice. Dot with butter, dust with sugar and grated nutmeg. Bake in hot oven. Serve with hard sauce.

WILL ATTEND THE LONDON WEDDING

MISS HOPE HAMILTON.

Miss Hope Hamilton, one of the beauties of the younger set in society, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. William A. Hamilton, departed May 24 on the Kronprinsessin Cecilie for Europe to attend the Drexel-Maidstone wedding. Miss Hamilton was a bridesmaid at the Gould-Drexel marriage a short time ago. She is a second cousin to Mrs. Drexel, Jr.

THE EVENING STORY

AT SEA WITH A LIBERATOR

By A. Wallie.

"See here! What do you take me for, anyway? I'm not the sort that can kow-tow in a brass-bound monkey jacket and white pants," almost yelled Dugald McFarlane, marine engineer. "But if you're looking for a chief that will give you steam all the time, I'm your man, Captain Tacker."

"I know that," responded the captain, heartily. "We've been shipmates before, and I reckon that with you below I'll have no call to worry about the machinery. That is why, when I chanced to hear you might be free, I wired you to meet me here to ask if you'd take charge of the Gloria's engines. But I'll deceive no man, and I tell you straight that her trip is out of the ordinary. I don't say there may not be shooting," he added, tentatively.

McFarlane sucked at a long cheroot of the rank brand he affected, digesting this explanation the while.

"I've no fancy for shooting," he returned, in meditative fashion, after due cogitation, "for eighteen pounds a month I think it was you said?"

"Sixteen," corrected the other.

"Either's small pay for the responsibility o' big twin tribles like you say this Gloria has."

"I'll make it eighteen, then," said Tacker.

"Thats better. But I'm only jist paid off after six months out East, and I promised the wife I'd go straight hame the minute I had my money. She's an awfu' wumman, and will be neither tae haud nor tae bind if I break my word for only eighteen pounds. You'll have to allow extra for Mrs. McFarlane, as well as for the shooting," he concluded, with decision.

It was Tacker's turn to think, but he was anxious to secure the engineer.

"I must have a chief I can depend upon," he whispered, bending forward.

"I'll call it eighteen certain, and twenty if we work through all right. If it was a common voyage I couldn't make such an offer."

"What is it then?" demanded Dugald. "I'll stick my heid in no poke."

"You'll keep it to yourself?"

"When I'm paid to shut my mouth it bides steekit."

"Meaning you won't talk. Well, then, I'll trust you. The Gloria's a fast ship, nearly new. In the North River, she loaded wnat was declared as general cargo, but is mostly munitions, for herself. We put into the Sound to pick up the owner, who sent me up to town to find a chief, for I refused to sail with the lager-soaked sausage who was shipped abroad for the berth. We're to run to a South American port through a tin-pot Republican squadron, land the stuff, and return."

"Yes. The owner has a further game on. He had to tell me something of it, and his notion is to use the Gloria to carry off some rich senora out there to whom he is engaged, with her fortune in specie. So there is a chance of shooting both ways, though if you'll come I reckon we can count on heels to keep clear of it."

"A chief engineer," he responded sententiously, "is a hard workit man, dirt cheap at twenty notes a month just to keep the cranks moving. It's beyond reason tae expect me, for the same money, tae expose mysel' tae the stiles o' the Scarlet Wumman by finding steam tae help some foreign dyby-night tae elope bag and baggage. What would Mrs. McFarlane say? That must be an extra, too, Captain Tacker, or not a foot will I stir in it."

"Well, let it stand at that," said the captain.

When they had parted the engineer made his way to one of the big New York hospitals, where he inquired for Miss Jeanie Faskin. She came to him in the waiting room, a fair-haired, blue-eyed girl, in nurse's uniform, who greeted him with an accent faintly reflecting his own.

"Uncle Dugald!" she exclaimed, kissing him. "What brings you here now; I told you yesterday that I would be on duty?"

"Hoots, lass," said he with clumsy jocosity, "your patients are no' gaun tae die wanting you for all the time I'll keep you. I'm for sea, and jist called to tak' gude-by with you."

"You promised to go home," she reminded him.

"Maybe," he returned slyly; 'but I've got tae mak' money for your auntie. I'll be writin' her where to address next to me,' he went on more seriously, "and I'd like fine to hear through her what comes of this man you're engaged to. Have you see him again yet?"

The girl, rosy red, drew a letter from her bosom.

"It makes not," said she shyly, "but I've had this from him to say that he has been called away unexpectedly, and expects to see me soon."

"The warrant he's a busy chap," remarked McFarlane. "Let me see what he signs himsel'," he asked. "I didn't jist make out the name you said he had."

She held the missive before him, folded over at the signature. He glanced at it, and then pityingly at his niece.

He reached the Gloria to find Tacker in company with a tall, dark man, good looking, and having the grand air of a Spanish hidalgo. The captain, who was hastening towards the bridge, introduced him.

"This is Don Matadero," he said hurriedly. "The pilot is aboard; we will get away as soon as possible, if you please, Mr. McFarlane."

Matadero greeted the newcomer graciously.

"It makes me proud," he began in broken English, "to acquire the acquaintance of an engineer so distinguished."

"The same to yourself," responded Dugald politely.

"I rejoice," he went on, "that the wheels of our ship are to roll in a keeping so excellent as Capt. Tacker declares you to possess. I fear we may soon need your skill, for outside the winds blow ver' severe."

"Like enough," rejoined the other indifferently, "but that's the deck gang's affairs. The winds will no bother me if the engines is rich."

Forty-eight hours later this somewhat boastful declaration would hardly have been made. The Gloria encountered a furious southerly gale, with which the ship had so to fight for very life that the equanimity even of McFarlane was disturbed. During the height of the storm he ascended to the main saloon on his way to communicate with Tacker. Then sounds of distress coming from the owner's state room, and looking inside it saw what brought a grim smile to his lips. Before the wash basin, in which, as the least precarious place, he had placed a leaden saint and a candle, knelt Don Matadero, his face, like chalk, his eyes staring wildly, his limbs shaking as in an ague—the very embodiment of deadly fear. He shrieked as the ship shuddered to the crash of a tremendous sea. "If you disapprove of the object of my journey I will give it up. I vow—"

It was a terrible gale and getting worse every minute. The engineer sought out the captain, saluting him in a joking way.

"But you know," he retorted with an oath, "that we are being bowled off our course, and that with this weather we'll have to find shelter?"

"You've got our pay for this trip banked, have you not?"

"Most of it."

"Well," rejoined the other, "if you'll give me a call when we're off post, and see your signal gun is loaded to fire when I want it, I've a plan that I'm thinking will put you in the way of earning your money without trailing to South America to do it."

He went below to turn in for a short time. Rising refreshed, he had several of his hands called.

"If you've a fancy to get back soon, with dollars in your pockets, when the signal gun bangs, jist think you're on Broadway on the Fourth of July, and make as much clatter as you can outside the main saloon. You can find nuts to fling here the same as there, and if one or two come through the saloon glass I'll see you're no asked to pay the damage."

This matter settled, Dugald sought out Matadero. He found him collapsed before the washstand, although the sea had moderated as the steamer was buffeted about.

"Hallelujah to the wind!" remarked Dugald. "It's fit to lift the funnel aff her."

"Good San Clemens de Soria," quivered "the bravest of the brave." "I promise you a gold—"

"Try good Dugald McFarlane for a change," interrupted the visitor. "It's maybe my belief that if this goes on the crew will think you're a Jonah, and be for putting you overboard if I don't stand by you."

"Good Senor McFarlane," twittered the Don hysterically, "save me from that."

"You must repent if I am to help you. I heard you confessing to your image that it micht think this voyage was sinful. As that's so, will you sign a paper abandoning it?"

"I'll sign anything," muttered the frightened man.

"Write to Capt. Tacker," said he, "giving him orders to pay off himself and all hands, with three months' wages, at the first port we reach."

"That's like the real thing," the engineer said, encouragingly, pocketing the completed document, "but now I've a bit of private business with you. You promised to marry my niece, Jessie Faskin, that nursed you and saved your life, by what I hear, when you were sick."

"I intend so to do," the other asserted, gathering courace, "even though you tell me now she is to you a relation."

"Is that any drawback?" roared Dugald indignantly. "But you" no' get the lass. You're pledged to another, and one is enough for any man, much less for a tining like you. You'll give me an order on your bankers—I ken fine your account will stand it—for a clear thousand pounds for her for breach o' promise The minute captain Tacker mentioned your name I shippit wi' him to see you did the lass justice, and what I ask is cheaper than the law would cost you."

Even a worm will turn, and Matadero did so.

"You coerce me!" he spluttered with an oath. "I shall pay anything."

Then commented Dugald coolly "you'll hae tae settle wi' the man-o'-war if this is one that's been shadowing us. I daresay the authorities have got a sough what kind of German toys we're loaded wi'. There you are!"

He had raised his hand signaling to the man stationed outside, and the boom of a gun came to their ears. It was followed by a thunderous crashing and clattering, as though quick fire was pouring on the steamer. A huge nut crashed bullet-like through the skylight, and Matadero surrendered.

"I agree," he yelled fearfully, shaking so that he could scarcely sign the order.

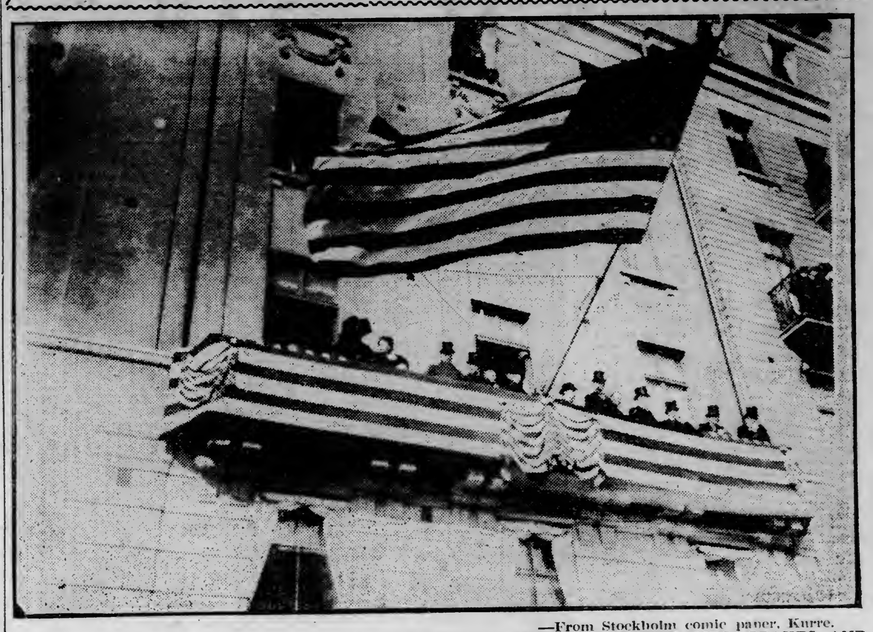
"Only save me."

"We're inside the harbor," remarked Captain Tacker, appearing at the door dripping wet, and may thank heaven for a safe harbor."

"I care not," said Matadero. "I am done with you."

"Make it home then," suggested Dugald equably, "and I'll tak' the first train up from the pier and send Mrs. McFarlane to New York to tell Jeanie Faskin that she's got a thousand pounds instead of what she thought was a man. It's hard on the lass, but Mrs. McFarlane is fine and cosy for her tae greet on, and auld enough to show her that the siller is her own as the other never meant tae be. Forbye," he chuckled dryly, "I can tell the wife that it's paid me no' that badly tae sea.

COL. ROOSEVELT'S VISIT AT STOCKHOLM



—From Stockholm comic paper, Kurre.

BALCONY OF AMERICAN LEGATION. LEFT TO RIGHT: MRS. ROOSEVELT, MRS. GRAVES AND COL. ROOSEVELT.

This view of a scene at the American legation has been forwarded to The Herald by Col. C. H. Graves of Duluth, who is the United States minister to Sweden.

NAR TEDDY ROOSEVELT FAR UPP FOR LEJONBACKEN.

At the entrance to the royal palce at Stockholm, Sweden, are two colossal stone lions. This cartoon represents Mr. Roosevelt's arrival there and what he would probably do to them. The caricatures of the crown prince, endeavoring to restrain him, and of the royal coachman and footmen are excellent and easily recognized.

FARM AND GARDEN

The "Rising Sun" in the Garden

Among pretty devices for the flower garden none is more appropriate than a bed to represent the rising sun. To arrange it dig a round bed, and proceed to simulate the rising sun by "raying" in palest yellow flowers from the center of the bed to the extreme edge, having seven to none of the sun's rays. Now, on each side of the pale yellow flowers plant the lightest shade of pink, leaving these lines a trifle shorter than the yellow ones.

Continue on in this way with flowers ranging in colors from pale yellow to deep rose or orange pink, and let the shortest lines be made of the darkest flowers, no two lines being of the same length, excepting the palest yellow ones.

When the plants are in flower the effect of this bed is exceedingly beautiful, the center a mass of blooms, with a carefully careless and fringed outer edge that may be filled in with the lightest blue flowers if desired.

As to the flowers that are used for the "rising sun," they may be left to the gardener, who will know best what to choose. There are, for instance, some lovely yellow-white nasturiums that would do well for the first "rays," and the changes might be rung on nasturtiums of every color.

Earthing Up Potatoes.

As soon as the infant tips of your potatoes are showing earthing up should be practiced to protect them. Do not quite conceal the young growths, rather nearly cover now and then; when they have grown several inches repeat the operation, and, should frosts be likely, the tops might be littered with straw at night time, as well as earthed up, but remove the covering daily.

One of the Pretty Annuals.

One of the prettiest annuals for the flower garden is Clarkia Pulchella. It forms an elegant bush one and a half feet high, with numerous showy flowers of a rich lake color, varieties running to rose and white, etc. There are also doubit-flowered varieties. Sow the seed in spring out of doors, leaving the plants twelve inches apart. They bloom from July onwards, and are very beautiful.

Commander Julius A. Pratt Post No. 143 Dept. Ill., G. A. R.

Mr. Isaac Cook, Commander of above Post, Kewanee, Ill., writes: "For a long time I was bothered with backache and pains acress my kidneys. About two months ago I started taking Foley Kidney Pills and soon saw they were doing just as claimed. I kept on taking them and now I am free from backache and the painful bladder misery is all gone. I like Foley Kidney Pills so well that I have told many of my friends and comrades about them and shall recommend them at every opportunity." Sold by all druggists.

OUR YOUNG FOLKS PAGE

Dot's and Tot's Decoration Day.

BY WILLIAM WALLACE, JR.

DOT was a dear little girl of nine years. Tot was her brother of seven. They were seated in the sunshine that flooded the big, green-carpeted lawn which stretched about their home. Everywhere lovely flowers blossomed; roses, lilacs, flags, and every kind of yard flower that one sees in the spring.

It was the twenty-ninth day of May, and people were getting ready for Decoration Day. Dot and Tot had heard their mother and father talking of the coming event for a week, and they had promised Dot and Tot all the flowers that they wanted to carry to the cemetery. "You must decorate those graves which are uncared for," said their mother. "There are so many that will have no flowers unless we take them."

And now, as they sat there, Dot weaving a wreath of pansies, their conversation turned upon Decoration Day. "We'll have such a lot of lovely wreaths," Tot remarked. "We can put 'em on mos' a hundred graves, can't we?"

"Yes, on the poor forgotten graves," explained Dot. "You see, there are some very old people buried there, an' all their children have moved far, far away to some other place. So there is no one to put flowers on their graves,—'less little boys an' girls, like you an' me, do it for 'em."

Just then Tot's attention was attracted by a little girl who was just outside the hedge which bordered the lawn. She was reaching her arm over the low hedge and pulling occasional roses from some bushes which grew there. Tot, knowing that the roses belonged to his own yard, called out: "Stop pullin' our roses!"

Dot looked up from her work and saw the little girl.

"Was she gathering roses from our bushes?" she asked of Tot.

"Yes, an' she mustn't take any more," Tot declared. "It's stealin'."

"Oh, you mustn't say that, Brother," said Dot. "Maybe she doesn't know they belong to any person in particular. I'll call to her to come in." And Dot called out to the little girl, who was looking at her and Tot most intently. "Come in, little girl!"

The little girl, thus invited, did not wait for a second invitation. She hurried in through the gate and advanced to the sunny spot on the soft grass where Dot and Tot awaited her.

"Howdy-do," said Dot. "Won't you please sit down?" And she designated a place on the ground beside herself.

The little girl, half a dozen roses in her hands, sat down. "Who are you?" she asked directly of Dot.

"I'm Dottie Graham," came the information. "And this is my little brother, David Graham. But we all call him Tottie or Tot. Mamma and Papa call me Dottie, but the girls and boys at school call me Dot. What's your name?—And where do you live?"

"My name's Pink King," said the little stranger. "An' I live away down by the railroad depot. My papa is a switchman in the yards."

Dot and Tot seemed glad of the growing acquaintance and Dot asked: "How many brothers and sisters have you got?"

"I haven't any," said the little girl, her eyes wistful. "My little brother Neddie died same time 'at my mamma died. That's a year ago, 'most" z

"Oh—oh—oh—!" exclaimed Dot, half under her breath. "Oh, wasn't that awful? How lonely you must be without a mamma."

Tot also looked his sympathy and fell to wondering how the little girl could get along at all without a mamma. "Who lives with you?" he asked abruptly. "Who bathes you an' puts you to bed if you haven't a mamma?"

"My granny," informed Pink. "She's a very nice old lady, my granny is. She was my mamma's mamma. An' she told me this morning about Decoration Day coming, an' said 'at if we had some flowers we'd put 'em on my mamma's and Neddie's grave. They are buried in the same grave, and the same flowers will do for both. But—we are too poor to buy flowers, an' we haven't any growin' in our yard. So I went out to hunt for flowers while granny is taking her morning nap. See, I got these roses down there by the sidewalk. But he——" pointing to Tot—"called out to me to stop taking them. Are they all yours—all these lovely roses that grow everywhere about?"

"Yes, all that grow inside the hedge," explained Dot. "But—you may have as many as you like. Here, take this wreath. I can make another." And she pressed the lovely wreath into the hands of Pink.

Then all three children fell to gathering roses for Pink to carry home with her, and soon she had her apron full of them, and went off as happy as a little girl could be under the circumstances.

On Decoration Day, when Dot and Tot, accompanied by their mother went to the cemetery, there they saw Pink and a dear old lady, tenderly laying the beautiful flowers and wreath on a grave. The mound showed tender care, but had no headstone or monument of any sort. But well-kept grass was growing green over it. Mrs. Graham went with Dot and Tot to speak to the old grandmother and little Pink, and, before they parted, Mrs. Graham promised to send her gardener to plant some rose bushes at the grave of the mother and child.

"Oh, thank you," said the old lady, emotion in her voice.

"You and your children have made Pink and me quite happy by giving us these beautiful flowers. Otherwise, this last resting place of my dear daughter and little grandson would have been undecorated today, save by our tears."

And as they went homewards, Dot said: "It made me so happy, mamma, to see those lovely roses and that wreath on Pink's mamma's grave."

"Yes, an' it made me happy, too," declared Tot. "Every Decoration Day we'll give 'em flowers, won't we?"

"Yes, darlings," said their mamma. "And we'll give to all who want them for the graves of their dear ones. But, come, let's hurry, for yonder is papa waiting for us at the gate."

"Howdy-do," said Dot. Won't you please sit down?"

Beatrice's Commencement Frock

BY HELENA DAVIS.

IT had been a race between Harriet Gray and Beatrice Finch for the honors of commencement day. Beatrice Finch had always stood first in her class, and while the other girls and boys were spending their leisure hours of evenings and on Saturdays in visiting friends, attending the matinee or going to parties she had employed her time poring over her lessons for the next day or solving some difficult problem which had confused the class during recitation.

And it had not occurred to any of the high school class to bestir themselves till a short time before the closing day of school. Then, suddenly one day, Harriet Gray decided that she would love to be valedictorian of the graduating class. She had played much of the time during the eight months of school, and when only four weeks more remained for preparation she realized that unless someone of the class awakened to energetic work the valedictory would be read by Beatrice Finch. And this fact alone was quite enough to rouse Harriet. In the first place, she—Harriet—moved a grade higher in the social life than did Beatrice, for the former's parents were rich, while the latter was of a very poor family. In the second place, it would cast discredit on her—Harriet—to allow the daughter of a poor carpenter (Mr. Finch was such) to surpass her on the day of graduation. Until then she had not minded Beatrice's being at the head of the class; but now that the fact would be made public—that the class would all be "on view," so to speak—it would never do to allow a carpenter's daughter to overshadow the fondled daughter of a banker.

One evening after school Harriet talked it all over with Grace and Harry Lewis, both of the graduating class. And they agreed with her that "someone worth while" ought to be valedictorian. "But the pupil having the best average will have the honors of the class," said Harry. "I can't make up now for lost time. I'm about fifth in rank, I guess. That was my standing last exam."

"And I just can't catch up with Beatrice Finch," confessed Grace. "I haven't the faculty for learning that she has. Or maybe it's plain stickto'tiveness, I just hate to apply myself so rigorously."

"I haven't liked to study more than just enough to pass my exams," said Harriet. "But I have decided to throw myself body and mind into my work and win the race against Beatrice Finch. It will cost me much hardship, I'll confess. But—someone in our set must carry off the honors of the class."

"Well, you have my best good wishes," said Harry heartily.

"And mine, too, dear," said Grace. "I'd hate to see Beatrice Finch read the valedictory. And there's another matter to consider—her dress! You know she is so poor that she'll disgrace us all by wearing some cheap old thing which will bear the indisputable signs of being 'home-made.'"

Thus did the plan develop and grow. And the class and the teachers were surprised at the strides made in her studies by Harriet Gray. Never before had the girl shown such liking for her books. But she was making up for lost time now, and the race between her and Beatrice Finch grew closer and closer each day, and the class watched with anxiety. All were hoping that Harriet would come out the victor.

And strange to say, Beatrice Finch did not seem to know that anything unusual was happening. To be sure, she could not help but notice the change in Harriet's school work. But she did not think she was in any way responsible for the change. And she was glad that another girl in the class was making such progress. She was not working for honor alone. She was eager to learn, to make progress in school and to be able to graduate as soon as possible.

One evening, a week before Commencement Day, Beatrice was hurrying along the street on her way home from school. She heard a quick step behind her, and looking back, saw Harriet Gray. Harriet was about to pass, nodding coolly to her, when Beatrice smilingly spoke: "Oh, Harriet, please let me congratulate you on your rapid advancement in school. I thought I would be the valedictorian of the class, but now I do believe you will outstrip me and carry off the honors. I shall be glad of your—"

Harriet coolly interrupted with: "Oh, thanks awfully. But I am not trying to outrun you, Miss Finch. It is the duty of someone of—of—of high standing to have the honors of the graduating class. I am only doing my duty."

Beatrice's face flushed crimson and a lump came in her throat. She felt the insult, but was too well-bred to resent it as many other girls would have done. She merely said: "I beg your pardon for having broached the subject. I am sorry if you do not believe I was sincere in what I said just now. As far as my station in life is concerned—well, I have my life before me, and shall try to make it honest and deserving. And I hope never to envy those who think themselves above me, though I may hold an opinion which differs from theirs. I really have not been trying for the valedictory. It seemed inevitable that it would fall to me, until you began to catch up with me. Now, I hope I have made myself clear, and that there will be no hard feelings between us."

"Now, I hope I have made myself clear, and that there will be no hard feelings between us."

As she finished speaking, Beatrice smiled and bowed to Harriet, then passed on down the street. She had been deeply wounded, but was too sensible a girl to let the matter weigh heavily on her heart. Indeed, she did not allude to her conversation with Harriet when she talked with her parents that evening at supper.

The same evening found Harriet sitting in her room alone, and a little pucker between her eyes pronounced the fact that she was ill pleased with something or somebody. And the somebody was none other than herself. After parting from Beatrice on the street that evening her conscience had kept calling out to her in spite of herself. "Why should you have insulted that poor, honest, deserving young classmate?" it kept asking. And Harriet could not answer.

At last, after having sat in her room for an hour pondering she broke out with: "Harriet Gray, you're a snob! Why should you be so stuck up over your father's position and wealth? It is not yours. You did not make a cent of the money you spend. Your father made it with his own perseverance and good judgment. If he had been like poor Mr. Finch, what would you have been? Only the daughter of a poor carpenter; and you could not have been placed in the same rank with Beatrice Finch, for she is an unusual girl. First, she is a lady; second, she is above the petty things which you—Harriet— allow to govern you in life. Yes, you have been a snob, an overbearing egotist!

"How the poor girl's face flushed when I so vulgarly hinted at the difference between her station in life and mine. And how mean I felt, too. But—I shall make amends to her if she will allow me to do so."

The last week of school rolled by, and two days before the great Commencement day Beatrice Finch was surprised one evening to have a call from Harriet. Beatrice had gone to her own room to put the finishing touches on her Commencement frock—a simple white lawn made by her mother, but which was left for Beatrice to trim with some bows of white ribbon. The valedictory had been bestowed upon her, for in spite of Harriet's endeavor to get it she had dropped second to Beatrice in the final examination. And when the teacher had announced that Miss Beatrice Finch was appointed valedictorian Harriet had gone to her and offered her congratulations. "I am so sorry," she added, "that I made such a fool of myself two weeks ago when you spoke to me on the street. I haven't the face to ask your forgiveness. All I can do is to say I am sorry." And Beatrice had grasped her hands, saying in low, earnest tones: "And I was so sorry at the time. I forgive you, and hope if I said anything harsh that you will forgive me, and that we may be friends."

But on the evening before the Commencement exercises Beatrice was much surprised when her mother called her to come down, that Miss Gray was calling. And when she ran down she was still more surprised to see that Harriet carried a long box in her arms.

"Beatrice, I have come to ask a great favor of you," began Harriet. "As a token of friendship, and to assure me that you have forgiven me for my ugly conduct toward you, I want you to accept this Commencement frock. Mamma had it made for me to wear should I be voted the valedictorian. See, it is lovely, and will fit you, for we are of a size." And Harriet took from the box an exquisite frock of white chiffon over soft silk and daintily trimmed with tiny pink rosebuds.

"Oh, I—I—could never take it," cried Beatrice. "Please, please wear it yourself. It is lovely."

Harriet's face fell. "I have another frock that will answer just as well," she explained. "And—I had hoped you would do this for me. I should so love to—to—help make your Commencement perfect."

Beatrice threw her arms about Harriet's neck. "I will wear it," she declared enthusiastically. "And from my heart I rejoice that you have brought it to me. It shall be worn with much happiness."

"And most deservingly, too," said Harriet. "And now I know we are to be firm friends ever afterward."

The Cherry Tree.

FROM my own home I never stray;
I never want to run away;
I am content to quiet be,
For I am just a little tree.

I grow beside my mother, tall,
And not far off's a garden wall;
And children come to play with me,
For I'm their favorite cherry tree.

And in my mother's branches green
Ripe cherries red will soon be seen.
Then how the boys and girls will eat,
Indeed, 'twill give them quite a treat.

And after I have grown so tall—
As high in air as the garden wall—

Then cherries I will yield, you see,
For then I'll be a grownup tree.

Cock o' th' Walk.

CROW, crow, crow,
In the early morning bright.
Crow, crow, crow,
Before it is quite light!

Crow, crow, crow,
Till the evening shadows, when
I go to roost o'er night.
Then I wake to crow again.

Crow, crow, crow!
'Tis my way to sing and talk;
Crow, crow, crow!
For I am Cock o' th' walk.

Cora—Wouldn't it be lovely if dreams came true?

Charles—Well, I'd hate to think that dream I had last night, after eating that welsh rarebit, would come true.

Archie Lang, Astronomer.

BY MAUD WALKER.

THAT Archie Lang had a business head on his fourteen-year-old shoulders cannot be denied by those who read this story. And furthermore, that he gave promise of becoming a great astronomer will be recognized.

It was during the first days of the Halley's comet excitement that Archie got hold of all the information concerning that strange and interesting heavenly traveler that he could lay hands on. After school of evenings he might be found in the public library deeply ingrossed in books that dealt of the firmament. And he always carried with him a notebook and pencil and made notes on the subject. Not only did he inform himself about Halley's comet, but also about the other comets which visit us from time to time. And in doing this he soon became quite an authority on the subject, and when his mother or father wanted some facts pertaining to our coming visitor they asked for information from their son.

One day as Archie was returning home from the public library where, to quote him, he "had enjoyed a feast of comets and their tails," he fell into company with an old man who owned a small street telescope. Often—when Archie had time to spare—he would go to the corner where the old man placed his telescope of evenings, and would get a good look at the moon or at Mars, or perchance some other heavenly body that happened to hold a good position in the sky for the time being. And thus he had become slightly acquainted with the aged "street astronomer," as he was called by the boys of the town.

On this evening in question the subject of conversation naturally turned to Halley's comet. "She's a wonder, isn't she?" asked Archie, alluding to Halley's comet. "And to think that we are to shake her hands, so to speak! Why, I can hardly wait till we come into the limelight of that strange body."

"Yes, it is an interesting comet," declared the aged street astronomer, "but I shall not make much of a study of her now."

"But you'll have your telescope turned on the comet every morning during her visit to us—till she makes her calls in the evening—won't you?" asked Archie. "And then you'll search her out after sundown as she changes her hour of appearing in the sky."

The old man shook his head. "No," he said, "I shall not use my telescope any more. I am going to my married daughter's home—away out West—where I shall be on a big ranch with only a small family about me. Oh, yes, and there'll be hundreds of cattle on the ranch, but they wouldn't care to look through the instrument at the heavens." And the old man smiled grimly.

"But—won't you feel lonely without your telescope?" asked Archie.

"Perhaps—for a time," the old man sighed. "But, we get used to parting from old friends," he went on. "Once I thought I could not live apart from my children, but—their homes were small and far from my abiding place. So, with my little telescope I made a living, and soon I became used to the separation and grew so fond of my new companion that, although it was a mere instrument of steel and glass, it was a true friend to me. But the other day I received a letter from my oldest daughter telling me that her husband had fallen heir, through the death of an aged uncle, to a great cattle ranch, and that now there will be a place for me in their new home on the great plains. So, there I shall go next week, and my dear old friend, the telescope, is for sale."

A thrill of joyous hope entered Archie's heart. For sale—the street telescope! Oh, maybe he might possess it. Then he ventured a question:

"What price do you ask for your telescope, sir?"

"Well, you see, it has a fine glass," explained the old gentleman. "I paid a good price for it when it was new. And it is as good today as it was then, for I have used it like a baby."

"Maybe you would rather not part from it," said Archie, sympathetically. "Why don't you carry it with you, sir?"

The old man smiled. "What use would I have for a telescope on the plains—living in a ranch house? Why, there is only the unobstructed heaven overhead, and I can sit out of evenings and look at the great system of stars with my old eyes unaided by a glass. I know how they look without the telescope's assistance. And it would be only a bother to have it out there—among a lot of little youngsters and—and—cattle." Another grim smile went over the aged face. "But," he hastened to say, "I much prefer to be with my daughter and her little ones than to remain in this cold, lonely city with my old friend, the telescope."

"Well, I should like to buy the instrument," said Archie. "And if the figure you name is not too great, why I'll take it off your hands."

The old "astronomer" named the price he wanted for the telescope, and Archie promised to let him know on the following day whether he could make the purchase. Then he ran home as fast as he could and explained to his mother that he had a telescope offered him for a certain amount. "It's three times as much money as I have, mamma," he explained. "But—I thought maybe I might borrow some from papa. I have a plan for paying papa back very soon."

"Well, I know papa will want to help you out, dear," said Archie's mother. "So lay the matter before him this evening at supper."

Archie acted on his mother's advice and opened negotiations with his father for a small loan. His father shook his head at first, asking: "But, my son, how do you expect to make the instrument pay for itself? Don't you think we are quite too poor to invest in a telescope just now? You know I am pretty much in debt—got some bills to meet next month, and am short of funds to do it with. I'd like for you to have the instrument, son, but——" And Archie's good father shook his head again.

Archie was serious for a moment, then said: "Papa, I have a plan by which I'll make back the price of the telescope during Halley's comet's visit in May. And I think I'll double the price I paid for it, for I have made the lowest estimate on my income from the telescope that can be possible. Now, just try me, Dad. I know my scheme is a dandy one."

"All right, son," smiled the father indulgently. And he felt confidence in Archie's plan, though the boy had not yet explained it to him. "All right, I'll give you the money tomorrow and you can close the bargain with the old man."

The next day Archie was the happiest boy in the city. He owned the telescope, and it was in his room. That evening after school he had a talk with the superintendent of the big apartment house where he lived. And within an hour after this talk, his telescope was placed on the roof of the seven-story apartment house, pointing right into the face of the Man in the Moon. And in the wide entrance hall, near to the elevator, hung this placard, printed by Archie's own hands: "On the roof! A telescope is placed where all who care to avail themselves of the opportunity to view the moon may do so for the small sum of ten cents. A three minutes' talk on the moon will be given to each person looking through the telescope. Special information about Halley's comet will be given during that interesting visitor's appearance in May."

That same evening Archie had seven callers on the roof, and after the information got about in the house, the people—and their children—thronged the place every evening. And pretty soon the people from adjoining apartment houses began coming to take a look at the moon, and declared that they would be regular patrons of Archie's telescope during the comet's appearance in May.

Archie, as happy as a boy could be, counted over his first two weeks' income derived from the telescope. "Dad," he said joyously, "two weeks more of this kind of business will pay you the sum I borrowed, and when old Mr. Halley's comet comes in May—why, I'll begin making my profit. And you've no idea what a lot of informatic I have stored up about that visitor! Gee, I'll become a real lecturer some day, if this thing pays me!" And Archie laughed heartily.

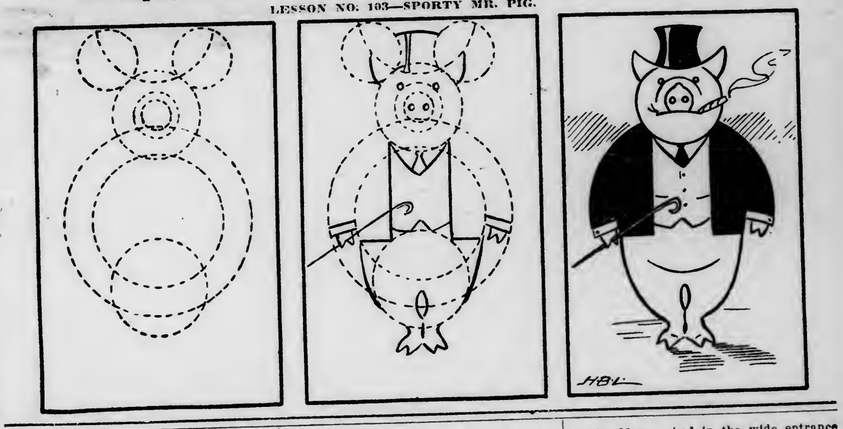
"You'll be a good business man, my son," declared his father proudly.

"He'll be a great astronomer," said the mother, kissing her fine son on the cheek. "He's teaching me something about the heavens every day, and o... how I have enjoyed studying the moon through his new telescope. Why, I would not lose the instrument for twice its price!"

"Neither would I, mamma," cried Archie. "For it will make me a business-man-astronomer-lecturer." And they all laughed together over Archie's anticipated future.

Helpful Hints for Our Young Artists.

LESSON NO. 103—SPORTY MR. PIG.



Our Puzzle Corner

MISTAKES PUZZLE.

In making this picture the artist made five mistakes. Can you find them?

PRIMAL ACROSTIC.

This acrostic contains seven words of five letters each. If the words are rightly guessed and written one below another their initial letters will spell a moisture which is very beneficial to flowers. The cross-words are: 1, a beverage; 2, a bird of prey; 3, strong breezes; 4, a lady's gown; 5, a large stream of water. 6, a musical instrument; 7, something commonly used on the breakfast table.

CURTAILINGS.

(1) Triply curtail something which grows in very warm climates and leave a small, plain bed. (2) Triply curtail water pails and leave a wild male animal. (3) Curtail something of very good quality and leave part of a fish.

CHARADE.

My first is the name of a vegetable, sweet;
It goes with a dinner of bread and meat:
'Tis good when pickled, and otherwise, too;
You like it when old, but better when new.
My second's a grain that is good to eat;
'Tis neither sour, bitter nor sweet;
'Tis better boiled than baked, you see;
If you ever eat it, you'll agree with me.
My two joined together a girl's name will make;
A name that is pretty—and no mistake!
It begins with a letter common to see,
And daintily ends with the letter "e."

REBUS.

ANSWERS TO LAST WEEK'S PUZZLES.

WORD PUZZLES — (a) Black. (b) Green.

CHARADE—Haircloth (hair-cloth).

ZIGZAG PUZZLE — Horse, Cross-words: Hat, Cot, Far, Ash, Eel.

REBUS—A barking dog never bites, so the proverb runs.

CURTAILINGS — 1. Maple-map. 2. Pants-pan. 3. Seal-sea.

"But—won't you feel lonely without your telescope?" asked Archie.

Henrietta Crosman Coming for One Night Only in Her New Play 'Anti-Matrimony'—Lyman H. Howe's Pictures Will Return for Four Nights.

The coming engagement of Henrietta Crosman in "Anti-Matrimony" at the Lyceum theater next Thursday evening, one performance only, will be somewhat in the nature of a farewell appearance.

Miss Crosman has no intention of retiring from the stage, for she is now in the prime of her success, but she has found such a substantial as well as artistic success, in "Anti-Matrimony" that she has finally accepted one of the many offers she has received in recent years to invade the British domain, and next season will find her installed in one of the London theaters. English theatrical managers have long declared that Miss Crosman is the only American approach to their Ellen Terry, and they have tried to induce her on many occasions to come over for a season of Shakespeare's comedies. But Miss Crosman realized that the British public was jealous of its Shakespeare and was loath to accept any foreign artist in the portray of his chief characters. So she bided her time until she should find some modern comedy that embodied all the qualities that would make it a success in any English speaking community. This she believes she has discovered in "Anti-Matrimony." So a few weeks ago contracts were signed between Maurice Campbell, Miss Crosman's manager, and Frank Curzon, the leading London manager, providing for Miss Crosman's appearance in London next year in "Anti-Matrimony," to be followed by several productions of Shakespeare.

Percy MacKaye, who is recognized as the foremost of the present generations of American dramatists, has departed from his accustomed orbit in creating this modern comedy for Miss Crosman. Instead of the serious tragedies and "high-brow" dramas which have heretofore come from his pen, "Anti-Matrimony" is a rollicking laughter-play, poking fun at all that is serious and morbid and preaching the gospel of light-hearted mirth and wholesome living. The principal character, Mildred Grey, is in Miss Crosman's happiest vein, and the other characters are portrayed by one of those splendid companies Miss Crosman always has in her support.

TOUR OF WORLD BY PICTURE ROUTE

Personally Conducted Trip Will Be Enjoyed By Theater Patrons.

To "travel with Lyman H. Howe," at the Lyceum for four nights commencing tomorrow night and with matinee on Wednesday, is to travel around the wide world in two hours on a personally conducted tour and with a guide who knows where to find just what pleases, instructs, and amuses. And the pleasure is not marred by any dry-as-dust lecture.

Every scene speaks for itself so clearly and forcefully that a lecturer's effort would be all in vain. The new program is one of boundless variety and animation. Mr. Howe will take his tourists from the rocky defiles of the Gorge Du Var in France to the even more majestic beauty of the Rockies in midwinter. An exceedingly enjoyable time will be spent at the ice palace in Montreal where the audience may revel with the merry-makers of the winter carnival and admire the skill of expert skaters and exhilarating winter sports. Then they will be taken to the more serious business of lumbering in winter in the great forests of the Northwest. Without losing a moment to get there, a tour will be made through semi-barbaric Algiers and the mysterious desert with its nomads and palmy oasis. Again the travelers will find themselves safe and comfortable in the fighting top of a battleship while the big guns are playing the game of war and also watch how those same big guns are made. These are scenes seldom witnessed by the greatest traveler for only the favored few can ever enter such carefully guarded surroundings.

Lyceum Notes.

The Forbes Stock company will open its season at the Lyceum on June 13. It is one of the strongest stock companies now before the public. Mr. Forbes needs no introduction to the people of Duluth, as he has appeared before many times. The company comes direct from the Gotham theater, Brooklyn, N. Y., where a sucessful season of stock has just been completed. The support is that of the best Mr. Forbes could obtain. The plays to be presented are high class attractions among them being such plays as: "The Great Divide," "Merely Mary Ann," "Old Heidelberg," "Charley's Aunt," "Cameo Kirby," "Brewster's Millions," "Raffles," "The Regeneration," "The Lion and The Mouse," "A Navajo's Love," and many others.

One of the strongest musical attractions that will be seen this year will be at the Lyceum on June 10, 11 and 12.

"The Prince of Tonight," is the title, and it is headed by Henry Woodruff, the well known leading man. Like its predecessors, "The Time, The Place and The Girl," "Honeymoon Trail," and "A Stubborn Cinderella," it is under the management of Mort H. Singer and enjoyed a run of over 200 nights at the Princess theater, Chicago. Adams and Hough have provided a bright, pleasing book, and Joe Howard has written some of his catchiest and prettiest music. Among the members of the cast are Miss Ruth Peebles Margaret McBride, John C. Leach, Arthur Aylesworth, Lew Lawson, Edward Beck and the famous "broilers" from the Princess theater.

Rena Vivienne seems to have made a place all her own in the hearts of Duluth people judging from the interest that is being shown in her early appearance at the Lyceum. On the occasion of her last visit three years ago she sang before one of the largest audiences ever in that theater and it is almost safe to predict that, in point of attendance, her concert June 8 will be a repetition of that memorable event.

Since then she has profited by two years study of German opera, specializing in Wagner music, in Berlin. At the present time she is filling an engagement at the new Boston Opera house singing Arline in "Bohemian Girl," Cho-Cho-San in "Madam Butterfly," Lola in "Cavalleria Rusticana," and Nedda in "I'Pagliacci." She has also appeared in several concerts and musicales in New York city, recently appearing with Leo Tecktonious, a famous pianist, in concert in the grand ball room at the Hotel Astor in which she met with great success.

Miss Vivienne will be accompanied by her mother on her Duluth visit and they will probably remain several weeks.

Grace George will be seen at the Lyceum on June 20 in her new play, a three-act comedy entitled "A Woman's Way." The time of the play is the present and the action takes place in a house on Upper Fifth avenue, New York, overlooking Central park.

The novelty of the play comes in its treatment of the old divorce question. It tells how a young wife wins back her husband after she has apparently lost him to a rich and fascinating widow. It might be entitled a comedy of common sense, for the wife announces to her husband when discussing the scandal, "She is a woman—and I am a woman—you are a man. If I cannot hold you I do not want you. We will invite her here and see."

The second and third acts deal with what happens when the widow arrives as a guest of the wronged woman. The young wife invites both her family and her husband's to meet the widow, assuming that she will probably succeed as the second wife. The novelty of having the widow thrown at his head quite overcomes the husband. The other men with whom the gay widow had had affairs more or less important further complicate the situation. The whole battle between the women for the possession of the man is fought out without any of the other women present discovering what has happened. In the end the young wife completely wins back her husband's love and he is only too glad to sue for pardon. Miss George, as Marion Stanton, the young wife, it is claimed accomplishes the best work of her artistic career.

AT THE BIJOU

High Class Program of Vaudeville Features Will Open With a Memorial Day Matinee. "The Musical Railroaders" Head the Bill.

Commencing Memorial day, the show at the Bijou next week will be as good, is not better then the best, that has ever played this popular house.

Each act is a picked feature, and each different from the others.

Heading the list will be Dorsch and Russell, "The Musical Railroaders." These artists are deserving of a vast amount of credit for the manner in which they have staged their act. The curtain rises showing a railroad tower house in the mountains showing the switches, switch lamps, operating room, etc. All of these turn out to be musical instruments. It is seldom that in a vaudeville act such careful attention is given to the setting. The electrical and scenic effects alone make the act a good one, and with the tuneful melodies that they introduce, mixed with good comedy the act is claimed to be one of the best that vaudeville has to offer. The scenic production of this act is a correct reproduction of the Mount of Holly Cross, painted by Valentine, Brooklyn, New York.

"The world's greatest jumpers" Rose and Ellis, will be one of the notable features on the bill. Mr. Rose is a skilled acrobat and the feats that he performs are sensational and hair raising. As a jumper he has no equals, it is claimed. Miss Ellis is the only woman clown on earth, she was specially engaged for two seasons with Barnum show and was advertised extensively as the only lady clown on earth. She has made millions of people laugh and her comedy creations have always been enjoyed, and have endeared her to vaudeville patrons all over the country.

Miss Alfarretta Symonds assisted by Ryan and North will offer one of the sprightliest dancing and singing acts that has been seen at the Bijou this season. This clever trio have danced and sung their way into the premier ranks of vaudeville. Miss Symonds is a charming little soubrette, and for costuming and all around excellence this trio has few equals.

A comedy gem that will be on the program for this week will be Guy Rawson and Frances Clare, who will present their rural oddity, "Just Kids," which consists of songs, pathos, and laughter. The characters portrayed are that of a country girl and a country lad.

The big added feature for the week and one that has been featured in every first-class theater in America where vaudeville is played will be the distinguished and well known dramatic star Viola Crane and her clever company, presenting "The Third Race" by J. T. Pendergast. The following notice taken from the New York Telegraph theatrical columns and written by one of New Yorks best critics in B. C. Hart:

"The characters in 'The Third Race' in which Miss Viola Crane is starring are drawn true to life and with much care and attention to detail. Especially is this so of the character of Kate Reegan, played by Miss Crane, which ranges from what we might almost call light comedy to pathos and strong emotion. Miss Crane gives an excellent portrayal of the part, full of light and shade, carefully avoiding any tendency to overact. She is at all times convincing and artistic and in the intense moments of the act shows undeniable dramatic strength."

James B. Adams will sing for his illustrated song the new popular coon song hit entitled "Shaky Eyes." The Moving pictures will be all new and exclusive subjects, and pictures of the better class. Matinees are given daily at 2.45 and night performances at 8 and 9:20. Seats reserved by either telephone. A special school children's matinee will be given Saturday afternoon at 2:30, performances Sunday afternoon and night.

All-Star Cast of "The Mikado"—Rush for Out-Door Amusements—Oscar Hammerstein's Profit—Wholesome Effect of Police Censorship.

New York, May 28.—New York is gradually passing out of the season's era of active productions and entering the revival stage. The first revival of the season was "Caste," at the Empire, with a special cast in which Marie Tempest, G. P. Huntley, Elsie Ferguson and Edwin Arden are prominent. Then William A. Brady revived "Jim, the Penman," at the Lyric, with a cast that pretty nearly answers the specifications of an all-star aggregation, and now the Shuberts have announced a revival of "The Mikado," at the Casino, to begin May 20, which is the Monday after the Saturday when "The Chocolate Soldier," after more than thirty weeks, draws its New York engagement to a close.

The cast for "The Mikado" will be as notable as any, since Fritzi Scheff is to have the role of Yum-Yum, Louise Gunning will sing Pitti-Sing, and Josephine Jacoby, late of the Metropolitan opera house, will be heard in the part of Katisha. Now, as for the remainder of the cast, Sam Bernard will be Ko-Ko, Jefferson De Angelis is to be the Mikado, Andrew Mack is to play Nanki-Poo, Charles Ross is to be Poo-Bah and William Pruette Pish-Tush. Then it was announced that Marguerite Clark was to be the Peep-Bo, but the petite Marguerite is doing pretty well in "Jim the Penman," and perhaps some other small divinity will represent her in the remarkable cast. The engagement at the Casino is for only four weeks. Then the theater will enter upon its summer career with a review entitled "Up and Down Broadway," with Eddie Foy as the star.

The first suggestion of warm weather has turned the attention of managers to means of amusing the public when the seashore begins to hum its stren song, for Coney Island opened its doors last week and something like 250,000 New Yorkers went down on Sunday to enjoy themselves. They found everything new except the ocean. Florence Ziegfeld, Jr., is almost ready to launch his roof garden review under the seductive title of the Jardin de Paris and with a Berlin success, with music by Paul Lincke, to start the ball rolling.

Now comes William Morris, and declares he will be the first in the field with a "Chanticlere" summer show. It comes from Berlin, too, and is called "Chanteclaire," which — considering that Charles Frohman has threatened to protect all his rights to the play and title of Rostand's much-talked-of-barnyard comedy—seems to be a dangerous title. Moreover, all the fowls and beasts impersonated by actors and actresses. Mlle. Mizzi Hajos, a Hungarian actress, is to play the henpheasant, the part she has been playing in Berlin, and the title role is to be taken by Harry Lupino, a London comedian. Karl Tuschi, who directed the Berlin production, is to stage the piece here when it is produced on top of the American Music hall on the evening of June 6.

Hammerstein's Victoria roof garden will open May 30. It was announced that the star attraction would be the Parisian sensation, Mlle. Polaire, the woman with the wasp-like waist, and also distinguished as the ugliest woman in the world, but who is a very talented creature for all that. But Polaire is detained by a Paris contract, and will not make her American debut until June 6.

Eben Plympton, the well-known actor, a brillian survivor of the days of Adelaide Nelisen, Edwin Booth, John McCullough, Lawrence Barrett and John T. Raymond, with all of whom he played prominent roles, was taken to a hospital last week and had to undergo a surgical operation. It was at first said that he was in a serious condition, but information coming to me as this is written gives promise that his days may be prolonged indefinitely. He is nearly 60, but is well preserved, and has the appearance of a man considerably younger.

Rose Stahl is to retire her long-time vehicle, "The Chorus Lady," at last. She began her farewell engagement at the Academy of Music to a large and warmly attentive audience. She has appeared in the piece as a vaudeville sketch and a comedy more than 4,000 times, of which 500 performances were given in New York city alone. So far nothing has been found to take its place, but she will positively appear in a new play next year, it is said.

Marburg and Gilipatrick, the translators of Angel Guimera's play, "Marta of the Lowlands," received news this week that Martin Harvey will produce the drama in England as soon as his engagement in "Richard III" at Dublin is concluded. It will be called "Manelich."

The experience of Valeska Surratt in "The Girl With the Whooping Cough," who closed suddenly under duress, is expected to have a wholesome influence on that kind of shows. There have been altogether too many of these avowedly vulgar exhibitions this season, and nobody expressed any regret when Mayor Gaynor stopped the show by revoking the license of the New York theater. The performance failed to give satisfaction, and from a house crowded to the doors on the first night the attendance dropped to less than half the second night after the opening. It would have been kept on the boards here for some time longer, even at a loss, in the expectation that the losses incurred in New York would be more than made up on the road. That is the expectation at the present time, and of course it will go on a tour. The mayor renewed the license of the theater the past week, but not until the management of the house had promised not to repeat the offense and had submitted a list of the productions that it proposed to play there. Accordingly "The Three Twins" were recalled from the road to fill a gap until a regular card can be booked.

Francis Wilson has been devoting all his energy of late to efforts to secure legislation in the states repealing laws which interfere with the rights of children to appear on the stage, such laws in several commonwealths having acted as a serious handicap to perfectly legitimate productions. Wilson holds that stage children can challenge any other children brought up under different conditions either in moral or intellectual respects. He received a letter from Josef Hoffmann, the pianist, this week, in which the distinguished virtuoso commends his efforts and points to his own bitter experience in being ordered off the concert stage and sent back to Europe because of fanatical concern for his tender youth. He declares that but for Rubinstein's personal appeal and encouragement he would have abandoned the stage for good as a result of his heart-breaking disappointment and his return to what seemed then a hopeless struggle. All his interest in music-making, he declares, gradually disappeared, as he had nothing to look forward to but hard work and the scolding of his teachers. Accordingly Hofmann is strongly on the side of Mr. Wilson in his fight to let children not denied opportunities to acquire the usual education of all children.

When Oscar Hammerstein opened the Manhattan opera house in opposition to the Metropolitan it was generally thought to be the act of a crazy man. it now turns out, as I am able to report on very excellent authority, that when he has cleared all his losses for the season and after paying everything he will be at least $500,000 ahead of his venture. The amount paid him by the Metropolitan to give up grand opera in New York was $1,200,000. It is therefore no longer a matter of surprise that when Oscar left for Europe he discussed Mary Garden and other members of his company with a freedom that amazed everybody, and was supposed to spell unavoidable ruin. At that time the heroic impresario, inventor and composer had the Metropolitan acceptance in his pocket, and prima donnas had no longer any terrors for him.

The big actors' fair at the Seventy-first armory proved so successful that the management decided to extend it a day, while the price of admission at the same time was raised from 50 cents to $1. From all accounts, a large sum of money was raised to go to the fund for the relief of distressed and needy players. It was a big event in every sense, and the liberality of the successful ones among the fraternity was demonstrated in a bright light. Aside from the usual fair features there was a fine art exhibition of paintings and drawings peculiar to actor life. The best picture wa sa life-size painting of Joseph Jefferson as Bob Acres in "The Rivals," by John W. Alexander. One of the best side-show features was a kinemetograph record of a three-round fight between J. J. Corbett and Fred Stone of Montgomery and Stone, in which the comedian not only gives a good account of himself as a boxer, but executes several back somersaults as the result of blows struck by his adversary, and finally acts as the droll victim of a sensational knockout. In the fight, Montgomery acts as referee. Several theatrical notabilities are introduced at the ringside. Of course, the picture was especially taken for the fair, and it was viewed principally by women.

President Taft gave the fair the greatest kind of boost on the opening day and entered very heartily into the spirit of the affair. After W. H. Crane's speech of welcome the chief executive turned to the comedian with a twinkle in his eye and observed in an aside, "Crane, I never saw a man who looked so much like a fellow about to be led to execution as you did when you made that speech." Crane admitter that he was thoroughly stage-frightened during the entire ordeal. One of the most distinguished visitors to the fair was Mrs. George Gould, at one time Edith Kingdon of Daly's company, who still retains a warm spot in her heart for the profession which she once graced. She was there with her daughter, Vivian, and numerous friends, Vivian acting as one of the flower girl selling bouquets. She also spent a large sum of money, amounting, it is said, to several thousand dollars in purchases. Mrs. Gould is believed by many to be the anonymous author of a recent book about stage life at Daly's in the '80s, entitled "The Diary of a Daly Debutante," which is full of spicy gossip, but entirely clean in morals.

As I was the first to announce F. C. Whitney's intention almost a year ago of producing an operatta, entitled "The Chocolate Soldier," which has since made such a distinguished record here at three different theaters, but is now drawing to a long engagement to a close, I shall probably be the first to announce that Whitney's next production will be a Viennese opera, called "Baron Trenck," founded on the adventurous career of Frederick the Great's soldier of that name, who aspired to marry the king's sister and was incarcerated in a dungeon, considered hopeless, but from which he escaped several times in spite of all precautions, only to lose his head in the end on the scaffold during the French revolution.

To the recently organized National Theater Owners' association playlovers are indebted for a much-needed progressive policy in things theatrical.

The "open door" movement means that in the years to come this life will be richer in amusement, and that all prominent cities throughout this continent will take the place to which each is entitled. Such cities have passed far beyond the time of being satisfied with the offerings of a single booking or producing company, especially when that company stands for an intollerant exclusion against all others.

For a long time the people of the United States and Canada have felt the injustice of the situation that existed. Necessarily, however, theater owners were compelled to go slowly and prudently in asserting their rights and the rights of their patrons. Now that they have done so, they are abundantly prepared. Independence in the country's theatrical affairs has come to stay, and hereby the public, the theater owners and the stage itself will be immeasurably benefited.

The organization of the National Theater Owners' association and its pronouncement of an 'open door' policy marks the beginning of a new era for the American stage, an era of independence in which the art of the drama will flourish as never before, and in which the public will at last come into its rights.

For many years a majority of the play houses of the country have been subject to the dictates of Klaw & Erlanger, heads of the theatrical trust. The men whose enterprise and capital had built the theaters had little or nothing to say as to the attractions that were sent them from season to season. They were flatly forbidden to open their doors to any productions except those controlled by the trust. The owners and the general public, too, were natural sufferers, the former in a business way and the latter as seekers of high-class amusement.

That regime is now at an end. Men who own or control 1,600 theaters have organized and have declared that they will give the public of their communities all the best attractions to be secured, regardless of who produces them. They are making no war on Klaw & Erlanger; they are simply protecting themselves and their patrons against a tyranny of exclusiveness that was threatening to kill the theatrical interests throughout the country. The owners will open their doors to the Shuberts, to Liebler & Company, to William A. Brady and to Klaw & Erlanger, as well; indeed to all producers who have something worth while to offer.

Theater goers are especially concerned in this declaration of independence, because it means a larger number and greater variety of attractions than they have ever yet been favored with. The theatrical atmosphere the country over will be cleared by the action taken by the National Theater Owners' Association. The breaking of the grip of the trust, which has dominated the stage of this continent and commercialized it to the last degree, will tend toward improvement in more than one direction. There are few patrons of the drama and fewer still of the people of the stage who will not rejoice at the blow that has been struck for free theaters and free actors.

PRESIDENT TAFT'S INTIMATE FRIENDS

They Are Few, and Among Them Is a Woman, Miss Mabel Boardman, Who Is a Power in the American Red Cross Society---How General Clarence R. Edwards Turned Governor Taft's Animosity Into Intimate Friendship--Senator Bourne, of Oregon, the Only Man in Congress Who Is Really Intimate With William H. Taft, Private Citizen---The President's Two Intimates From His College Days, and the Close Friend Who Was His Boyhood Chum---The Affection of W. H. Taft for Horace G. Taft, School Teacher.

Written for the Herald by E. J. Edwards ("Holland").

(Copyright, 1910, by the Associated Literary Press.)

WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT, the twenty-sixth man to become president of the republic, is generally credited with possessing the power of making a friend of any one he meets, formally or otherwise—and since he has been in public life he has met many thousands of his fellow citizens. It is also said of him that, once he is your friend, he is always your friend; and to all of this, and the additional statement that the president must number his friends by the thousand, literally that now famous Yale class of 78—all made up of friends, of course—is willing to take a most solemn oath, no doubt.

But notwithstanding the fact that the president's well known power of making friends leads to the logical conclusion that his friends are legion, in public estimation, in Washington, he has a few friends who stand a little apart from all the rest. And these few are succinctly described by the one word, "intimate."

These intimate friends are, for the most part, aristocratic, in the best sense of the word—they represent the highest standards of society, intellectual and otherwise, in their respective walks of life. To them, as a body, the president confides many things which do not reach the outside world. Combined, they could probably write a most interesting book on the inside history of the Taft administration to date.

The President's Most Intimate Woman Friend.

One of the most intimate friends of the man in the White House is Miss Mabel Boardman, a member of the central committee of the American Red Cross society, and, until recently, secretary of the organization. The W. J. Boardman family, of which she is just now the most prominent member, nationally, has long been acquainted with that of William H. Taft. The Boardmans went to Washington from Cleveland, Ohio; the Tafts made their first appearance in the national capital in the early '90s and ever since the two families have been on terms of the closest intimacy.

No one will dispute the fact that Miss Boardman is President Taft's most intimate woman friend outside of his own immediate family. He made the Boardman home his headquarters in Washington just before his inauguration, and he now visits it in the most familiar manner. In fact, that home is one of the few places in Washington where the president sometimes drops in to pass the evening informally. During the Roosevelt administration, the home of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts was thus honored.

In 1906 Miss Boardman went to the Philippines with Mr. Taft, who was then secretary of war. Shortly thereafter she induced Mr. Taft to become the president of the American Red Cross society, and Mr. Taft established this organization, of which Miss Boardman was the secretary, in quarters in the war department, where it still remains. Before Mr. Taft was nominated for the presidency, but when politicians were insisting on treating him as the heir-apparent and crowding his outer office daily, Mr. Taft's secretary, Fred Carpenter, and Miss Boardman were the only persons who could enter the inner office of the secretary of war at any and all times. Mr. Taft has always addressed Miss Boardman by her given name, while she invariably refers to him as "Mr. Taft." Her sister married Senator W. Murray Crane of Massachusetts, and that dignitary now enjoys a close intimacy with the president, not only because of his official position, but also because of his relationship to the Boardman family.

Incidentally, Miss Boardman is a leader in the social set in Washington. Entree of the Boardman home socially, whether formal or informal, quickly establishes one's social standing in the national capital. "When I first landed in Washington," said a Western man who became a member of congress a few years ago, "I thought the White House was the center of social affairs and that when I was invited there I had reached the highest possible level of social distinction at the national capital. Later, I concluded that when I was invited to a social affair at an embassy I had made further progress along the social ladder. But still later, when I met Robert Bacon at the home of Miss Boardman, I then realized for the first time that this distinction left nothing to be desired in the way of social honors."

At the time that the congressman met Mr. Bacon at Miss Boardman's home, Mr. Bacon was assistant secretary of state and was universally recognized as being the acme of social perfection among the men in Washington. He is now United States ambassador to France, and it is said that he has already charmed the social elite of Paris as he did of Washington.

How Gen. Edwards Won Taft's Favor.

Brig.-Gen. Clarence R. Edwards is perhaps closer to President Taft than any other man who wears the uniform of the army or the navy, except the president's military aide, Capt. Archibald Butt. The intimate personal relations between Gen. Edwards and the president is based on a number of considerations. In the first place, both commen are from Ohio, Gen. Edwards coming from Cleveland, where he was a close friend of the William H. Boardman family, now of Washington, who are intimate friends of the Tafts. In the final analysis, the men like each other.

Gen. Edwards, who is a striking military figure, either in regimental or civilian clothes, accomplished two things the first time he met Mr. Taft. When Mr. Taft came home from the Philippines, where he was the first civil governor, to take the post of secretary of war, it was his intention to make the first official act of his new job the separation of Edwards from his post as chief of the bureau of insular affairs. But when Edwards and Secretary Taft met, the latter succumbed and not only kept Edwards on the job, but also encouraged the pathway of their friendship toward the intimacy that exists between them today.

The fact was, that as governor of the Philippine Islands, Mr. Taft always resented any interference in island affairs from the home government unless he asked for it. The home government, on the other hand, when it got an idea used the insular bureau, of which Edwards, then colonel, was the chief, as a medium of communication. In this way, Governor Taft got a lot of cablegrams signed "Edwards," which fairly breathed militarism in every syllable. To a man who was trying single-handed to win over a hostile and ignorant native population to a brand new form of government by the most peaceful means known to man, those cablegrams were not only irritating; they aroused Governor Taft to a point of wreaking vengeance. Naturally, he blamed "Edwards" for his troubles, and when he arrived in Washington to become secretary of war, "Edwards" was naturally the first man he wanted to see. But when Mr. Taft found out that Col. Edwards was merely a means to an end for somebody else who was his superior, Mr. Taft, with that justice for which he is famous, not only forgave Col. Edwards, but took him into his heart. Today, Brig. Gen. Edwards is his frequent golf partner against Vice President James S. Sherman and Senator Jonathan Bourne of Oregon, or Capt. Butt.

Everybody, almost, in the army and navy considers a "political pull" the best asset that a poor army or navy officer can possibly have in lieu of real cash. Gen. Edwards has been particularly fortunate in this respect. Coming from Cleveland, Ohio, he was well and favorably known to the late Mark Hanna, the Warwick of the McKinley administration. Through Senator Hanna, Gen. Edwards was a great favorite at the White House during the McKinley regime. His efficient services during the Philippine insurrection, in which he served with the lamented Gen. Lawton, kept him in statu quo during the Roosevelt administration until he served as chief of insular affairs under Secretary Taft, whose pride and pet was the Philippine islands. Now that Mr. Taft is president, Gen. Edwards is again the envy of the army and navy because of his intimate friendship with the commander-in-chief of both.

A Close Friend From the Far Northwest.

Gen. Edwards is a member of the Taft "golf cabinet." Senator Jonathan Bourne of Oregon is another member, and among the members of congress none perhaps meets President Taft as often in the intimate relations of his capacity as a private citizen, which he likes to assume when taking recreation, as does Senator Bourne. The president has never complained of this friend's famous pet hobby which died a natural death some two or more years ago—namely, the propoganda he conducted throughout the country for Theodore Roosevelt for a third term as president.

Senator Bourne is a Yankee who succeeded in convincing the state of Oregon that he would make a far better toga wearer than it could possibly find among its other adopted sons, no matter what the section of the country they hailed from. Since his arrival in Washington, he has convinced nearly everybody there that he was right and that he did not get his office through any false political pretenses. He is rich in his own right, and can therefore follow the exorbitant and honorable game of golf whether the president plays it in Augusta, Georgia, Hot Springs, Virginia, Washington, D. C., or Beverly, Massachusetts. He is equally proficient on the links at Portland, Or., when the president happens in that vicinity. It is said that the president would rather beat Vice President Sherman and Senator Bourne than any pair that has ever met Archie Butt or Gen. Edwards and himself in deadly combat on a golf course. The senator has never betrayed any of the confidences of these games, notwithstanding the fact that the presiednt has been observed by distant onlookers to "foozle" the ball occasionally.

Next to golf with the president, the Oregon election law, Oregon apples, and expensive cigars are the present hobbies of the senator. He is greatly interested in government economeis, although not worrying very much about his own.

Two Intimate Friends From College Days.

Of the many friends that he made during his college days, there are two who are regarded as intimates of the president—John Hays Hammond and Henry M. Hoyt.

When the presidential campaign of 1908 was beginning to round into a real political contest, strenuous efforts were made by those in charge of the National League of Republican Clubs to put that organization in fighting shape in order to assist William H. Taft toward re-election. The treasury of the concern, which is the commissary department of all political committees and organizations, was in a bad way. Gen. Edwin A. McAlpin of New York, its president, was working night and day to relieve the financial famine. He had called on the Republican national committee for $50,000, only to find it strapped. The young voters whom it is the mission of this organization to reach, apparently were to be neglected unless there was a miracle performed.

In the midst of his dilemma, Gen. McAlpin had a caller one day who inquired: "You are in favor of the election of Mr. Taft?"

"Most assuredly I am," replied Gen. McAlpin.

"And you need money for the campaign?"

"Yes, and lots of it," snorted the general.

"Well, I know a man who will spend $200,000 to see William H. Taft in the White House," said the caller.

"Name him, and he can have my job, if necessary," said the general.

"John Hays Hammond, Yale '76," concluded his visitor.

That is the story of how John Hays Hammond, the great mining engineer and close friend of William H. Taft, became president of the National League of Republican Clubs. Mr. Hammond put about $100,000 into the campaign of that organization for Mr. Taft, and got results. He did it as a friend, not as a political henchman, and so far as known has not asked the president for any reward whatever for his work. The president still calls him "Jack," and that is enough.

Hammond was two classes ahead of President Taft at Yale, yet their friendship began there. The friendship between Mrs. Hammond and Mrs. Taft is as close as that of their husbands', and the Taft children and the Hammond have almost been brought up together. "Bill" Taft and "Jack" Hammond passed their summer vacations together at Murray bay, Canada, before Mr. Taft became president. "Jack" now has a summer home at Gloucester, Mass., not far from Beverly, where is the president's summer residence, and they are together much of the time during the summer. When President Taft went to Augusta, Ga., during the winter before his inauguration, Mr. Hammond was with him and they played golf together almost daily over the Augusta links.

There is one stage of Mr. Hammond's career that he rarely ever discusses, and that is the vice presidential boom which was launched for him in the spring of 1908. It was pointed out to Mr. Hammond—some say by Mr. Taft himself—that the mining states of the Far West would be likely to support him for vice president. Although he had never been in politics before, Mr. Hammond got into the race, no matter what the impetus to his candidacy was. Some people had professed to believe that he had no other mission than to influence those states to support Mr. Taft for president. The candidacy, however, was not seriously accepted by the politicians, and died "aborning."

"Jack" Hammond, as is pretty generally known, has been in his time one of the highest paid men in the world. It is understood that he receives $500,000 a year from the Guggenheims to pick out paying mines for them. Recently, Mr. Hammond has turned his knowledge to his own account, and now has mines of his own in Mexico and elsewhere.

Since the days of '78 the president and Henry M. Hoyt have been on terms of friendly intimacy. Mr. Hoyt works just across the street from the president in the state department, where he draws a salary of $10,000 a year as counselor. He is the right-hand man of Secretary of State Knox, although the failure of congress to create the title of "under secretary" for him prevents him from becoming acting head of the department when Mr. Knox is away.

Hoyt is a big strapping type of the Anglo-Saxon. Notwithstanding all his outward appearance of athletic prowess, he managed to elude the clutches of Theodore Roosevelt and confined himself strictly to the law during that administration. Presumably, President Roosevelt thought that if Mr. Hoyt could deliver the knockout punch to a few trusts, it would be better than having him waste his energies on the tennis court or in swimming Rock creek. Anyhow, Mr. Hoyt, as assistant attorney general, and later as solicitor general of the department of justice, made a most enviable record, and when the Taft administration came into being, neither Mr. Knox, under whom Hoyt had served at the department of justice, nor the president, who was his good friend, would consent to seeing him leave the government service, although Mr. Hoyt was ready and willing to go into private practice where a small fortune undoubtedly awaited him.

In addition to his legal duties at the department of state, Mr. Hoyt is expected to run across the street and see his old classmate whenever he is sent for, or whenever he feels like it. The president not only regards Hoyt's legal talent as of a high order, but thinks its possessor "a bully good fellow."

The President's Boyhood Chum an "Intimate."

The Taft-Hoyt friendship dates from college days, but the Taft-Hollister intimacy extends clear back to the days when the two men were boys. When Howard C. Hollister of Cincinnati, was recently placed upon the federal bench by President Taft, one of the Ohio members of congress remarked:

"I guess the president is trying to make up to Hollister for the marbles he beat him out of when they were boys together."

When he made the nomination the president himself remarked that it gave him a great deal of pleasure to certify chagrined, however, were the political leaders of Cincinnati, for Judge Hollister is one of the rank insurgents against the political regime of "Boss" George B. Cox. It was recognized, however, that the president meant what he said in naming his next door neighbor for the bench and that it would be useless for any politician to "buck" on a nomination made for pure friendship's sake.

Judge Hollister, when judge of the common pleas court in Cincinnati, fell out with "Boss" Cox, with the result that he failed of a renomination. He had seen enough, however, to cause him to become one of the coterie of reformers in Cincinnati, and ever since he has been such a consistent insurgent against Cox that he has oftentimes been a serious embarrassment not only to congressional nominees but to others with whom he was known to have the most cordial friendly relations. There may have been a friendly motive in the decision of the president to put the judge on the bench and take him out of politics which even the Ohio politicians have not yet realized or appreciated. In any event, President Taft has certainly taken handsome care of his boyhood friend, for whom he has sincere affection and with whom he likes to recall the days when they two were in knee breeches and up to all sorts of mischief.

Another of the president's great Cincinnati friends is J. G. Schmidlapp, the head of the financial interests of that city. Like Judge Hollister, Mr. Schmidlapp is not a political power, but socially he is the leader of his city's upper "40" or "400," whichever way one wishes to put it. He is a man of great civic spirit, a liberal doner to all objects of public charity, and a man of fine intellect and other attractive parts.

Mr. Taft's Affection for His Youngest Brother.

Still another of the president's intimate friendships dates back to his youthful days.

As is well known, the president and his three brothers, Charles D., the multimillionaire; Henry W., the noted lawyer, and Horace G., the school teacher, are all very fond of one another. Of his three brothers, however, persons who are close to the president believe that he actually thinks more of Horace, the youngest, than of either of the other two. Certain it is that the friendship between the president and Horace partakes of all the qualities of boyish intimacy, almost. It is to Horace that the president directs his letters in times of stress and strain, and it is said that he emerges from composing such a letter with a smile and an expression of relief upon his face.

Horace Taft, like the president, is far from wealthy. It is known that he voluntarily gave up a successful career as a lawyer in order to establish his school for boys in Massachusetts. It was to the president that he announced his determination to quit the law and go to teaching. The announcement was as simple and unaffected as the man himself.

"Bill," said Horace, "I have made a success at law, but I do not like it. I am going to start a boys' school, and do some real good in the world."

"Bill," so the story runs, approved of his brother's determination, which only added to the qualities which already made him worship Horace.

No mention of the intimate friends of President Taft would be complete without including Theodore Roosevelt in the list. During his term in the White House, President Roosevelt always addressed his successor-to-be as "Will." Mr. Taft, on the other hand, especially when others were about, never forgot to refer to Mr. Roosevelt as "Mr. President." Their relations were as close as two peas in a pod during the strenuous days of that administration.

To a close friend, President Roosevelt once told the story of the beginning of his friendship for William H. Taft. The following is an almost verbatim account of that conversation:

"They say that Will has been elected to carry out the Roosevelt policies," said Mr. Roosevelt, "but the truth is, he is about to begin carrying out his own policies. Years before it ever occurred to me that I would be president, I began to think of a legislative policy for the country. By some, this policy is called progressive, and by others, radical. I soon found that there was another young man who was thinking along the same lines I was. I knew him slightly, and we entered into a correspondence in which we exchanged our views on things now before congress. Those policies were just as much his as they are mine, and I am not sure but he thought of many of them first."

However, as is well known, President Roosevelt and Mr. Taft did not always agree on every detail of those policies. It is comparatively easy for men to get together on general principles underlying a situation, but when it comes to details, thinking men frequently disagree. So it was in their case.

On one occasion Mr. Roosevelt sent for John C. Spooner, then a senator from Wisconsin and one of the leading constitutional lawyers in congress. On questions of constitutional law Mr. Spooner was then the spokesman of the Roosevelt administration in the senate. Mr. Roosevelt explained to Senator Spooner that he was badly mixed up about the constitutionality of certain features of the railroad rate bill then pending before the fifty-ninth congress. He asked Senator Spooner's advice:

"Why, Mr. President, it would be presumptuous in men to give you advice on this subject when you have such able lawyers in your cabinet as Judge Taft and Elihu Root," exclaimed Mr. Spooner.

"That's the devil of it," replied President Roosevelt. "They don't agree with me."

Much has recently been written about Taft during his trip through Africa and the friends of the president agree that this was due to a well-worked-out plan on the part of Mr. Roosevelt not even to appear to be meddling in White House affairs. That this plan spells neglect from any other motive is not even dreamed of by President Taft or his friends. Furthermore, everybody in Washington who knows President Taft well feels that he is too independent and too self-respecting to go out of his way to presume on his friendship for Mr. Roosevelt to the extent of asking the colonel to agree with him on anything. It is safe to say that Mr. Taft will go his way and Mr. Roosevelt will go his, but those who know best the intimate relations between the two confidently assert that their respective ways will converge at some important meeting place after Mr. Roosevelt's return and that their genuine and sincere personal friendship will be manifested again to the satisfaction of the entire country.

an alleged disagreement between Mr. Roosevelt and his successor over the policies of the Taft administration, as contrasted with those of the Roosevelt administration. The fact is Mr. Roosevelt did not communicate with Mr.

Porter Emerson Browne, who wrote "The Spendthrift" and "A Fool There Was," is at work upon another play which Frederic Thompson will produce the first week in October, if the delivery of the manuscript is not delayed. The play, according to Browne, will be as distinctive as his other works without in any way resembling either of them.

Joseph R. Grismer has retired from business, selling all his interests outright to his former partner, William A. Brady. Mr. Grismer presently will take up a tour around the world, accompanied by his wife, known on the stage as Phoebe Davies. The two partnering have been in business together for twenty years, and very great success has attended their operations, so that Mr. Grismer in ceasing his activities finds himself a rich man.

"The Comic Supplement," the big musical show which will occupy the New Amsterdam roof this summer, will be given its premiere at the Apollo theater, Atlantic City, May 30 (Decoration Day). The date set for the New York opening is Monday, June 6. The principals of the cast include Maude Raymond, Joseph Cawthorn, Violet McMillan, Jed Prouty, Harry Fern, Bowers, Walters and Crooger, Ernest Treux and the Constantine sisters. These are supported by a chorus of eighty.

Robert Edeson has turned playwright and furnished himself with his own new vehicle. It is called "Where the Trail Divides," and was tried out in Boston last week. The leading character is that of an Indian. The play is described as a typical theater-made piece, in which all the tricks of the trade are employed. The fact that there were not sufficient rehearsals militated against the play's reception.

William Faversham, who closed his season with the performance of "Herod" in Boston last week, is already making arrangements for his tour in the fall, when he will take "Herod" and "The World and His Wife," on a long trip to the Pacific coast. Mr. Faversham only recently received an offer to play a season of five weeks in Paris and Berlin, but as his present year has been a hard one, he did not feel equal to the task.

• • •

Joseph Gaites is to star John Hyams and Leila McIntyre in a musical comedy next season entitled, "The Girl of My Dreams," by William Nesbit, Karl Hoschna and Otto Hauerbach.

• • •

Boston did not receive Faversham's "Herod" any too enthusiastically, and he has determined never again to play the Hut City in a serious play.

• • •

Broadway is not likely to see Edna Luby in vaudeville again soon. Miss Luby has received two important offers for musical comedy, one for the summer and another for a road tour next season in one of this year's Broadway successes. Prior to making any change, Miss Luby will play a few more weeks in the two-a-day.

• • •

The feature of the opening of the summer season at Hammerstein's roof garden will be a burlesque on the reigning dramatic sensation of the year, "Madame X." The travesty will be written and staged by Jean Bedini. "Madame 10" is the title. William Hammerstein closed for the burlesque on receiving a cablegram from Oscar Hammerstein that Mlle. Polaire's release from foreign contracts could not be gained in time for the opening of the roof, May 30. "Madame 10" will be presented by a big company, including George P. Murphy, Dan Ferguson, Bedini and Arthur and fifty supernumeraries. An elaborate production will be made to exactly duplicate the courtroom scene of "Madame X."

The title role in Augustus Thomas' new play, "The Member From Ozark," has been assigned by Cohan and Harris to Frederic Burton. Mr. Burton's most recent engagements were with "The Ringmaster" and "Just a Wife."

CANNOT LOCATE WALPOLE ROLAND

Regarded as Certain That Veteran Mining Engineer Is Dead.

Port Arthur, Ont., May 28.—It is now regarded as certain that Capt. Walpole Roland, who has been missing in the woods near Wabigoon for about a week, has lost his life. Fred W. White, who left here on May 15 in company with Roland to inspect property near Gold Rock, has returned and said that after searching all the intervening time, assisted by several other men, he had very little hope that Roland was alive.

After reaching the property to be inspected on May 17, Capt. Roland, who is over 80 years of age, suffered an acute attack of rheumatism and White went out from the camp to gather samples, leaving Roland with a guide named Bonathan. Later in the day, Roland decided he would go out himself and told the guide to pack up his sack and follow to a point where White was working. When Bonathan found White he was surprised to learn that Roland was not there. White and the guide spent a couple of days searching and then secured the assistance of four men from Wabigoon who helped them go thoroughly over the whole country. There are several shafts of abandoned mining properties in the district and it is feared that Capt. Roland may have fallen down one.

The advisability of sending out other search parties is being discussed by friends here.

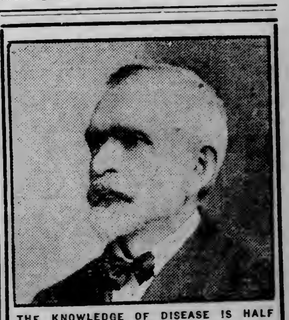
Capt. Roland was 82 years of age and one of the most unique characters in Canada. He has been in this district since 1875. He was one of the engineers on the construction of the Canadian Pacific railway and has two daughters here. Before coming to Canada he was a long time in the British army, where he attained the rank of captain. He was at the relief of Lucknow as captain of the company with which Lord Roberts served as lieutenant. He was with Gen. Gordon at the taking of the Taku forts in the Chinese war, and fought beside the duke of Cambridge in the trenches at Sebastapol. He is said to have been the only man who ever walked all around Lake Superior, which he did in the course of his work as a mining engineer. Capt. Roland lost his war medals in a fire and when the duke of Connaught was here twenty years ago he was apprised of the fact. The duke got a new set specially struck, afterwards destroying the dies. These medals are among the possession of Capt Roland here.

Whooping Cough.

This is a more dangerous disease than is generally presumed. It will be a surprise to many to learn that more deaths result from it than from scarlet fever. Pneumonia often results from it. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been used in many epidemics of whooping cough, and always with the best results. Delbert McKeig of Harlan, Iowa, says of it: "My boy took whooping cough when 9 months old. He had it in the winter. I got a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy which proved good. I cannot recommend it too highly." For sale by all druggists.



THE KNOWLEDGE OF DISEASE IS HALF ITS CURE.

If all you who are in need of help from some suffering disease, will call on me first and let me explain my Herbaqueen Cure, you will not have so many doctor bills to pay. Years of experience in city of Duluth. Consultation Free.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

CROW WING IS AROUSED

Nearby County Awake to Inequalities of Present Apportionment Basis.

Rousing Meeting Is Held to Select Delegates to Big Crookston Meet.

Brainerd, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fully 100 people were in attendance at the Crow Wing County Development Associtaion meeting yesterday when delegates were elected to the Northern Minnesota Development Association convention at Crookston next week. Among the audience were many from the rural districts. After the routine work of the local organization had been accomplished and President C. A. Allbright had made a short address, the members listened to an interesting address by Judge B. F. Wright of the district court. He urged the people of Crow Wing county to attend the Crookston meeting in a large body. He spoke of the preparations made in Hubard county, his home, to attend this meeting. S. F. Alderman, senator from the Forty-eighth district, gave an address on re-apoprtionment.

Apportionment a Misnomer.

"At the present time," said he, "the aportionment for representation in the legislature is based on an assumed population, and it is this method which has led to that faulty representation which now exists. Districts which should be represented by probably three or four more men than they are now entitled to, are represented by less men than districts which are significantly smaller, and this representation is now and has always worked to the benefit of the over-represented Southern districts and to the detriment of the insufficiently represented districts of the Northern part of the state. And to this latter class belong our own county of Crow Wing."

J. M. Elder spoke briefly on the desirability of promoting legislation which will bring about suitable drainage measures, while Carl Zapffe urged an increased levy for the encouragement and oenstruction of substantial roads.

A sleeper has been chartered to carry the Crow Wing county delegation to Crookston, leaving Brainerd on Wednesday night, June 1, and returning Saturday morning, June 4. Over twenty-five people have signified their intention of going.

The delegates elected to represent Crow Wing county are the following: H. J. Hage, Iver Benson, Clifton Allbright, John Sandgren, Carl Zapffe, and the alternates are J. M. Elder, A. M. Opsahl, Wesley Curo, Leslie Jack, J. H. Krekelberg.

Those appointed by the president of the Commercial club are: R. R. Wise, W. H. Gemmell, S. F. Alderman, C. D. Johnson, F. A. Farrar, George Keene and A. G. Trommald.

Isanti County Organizes.

Cambridge, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Isanti County Development association was organized here yesterday afternoon, with these officers: President, A. J. Stoneburg; secretary, G. G. Goodwin; treasurer, J. E. Kienitz. There are also five vice presidents, one from each commissioner's district. Delegates were selected for the Crookston meeting.

Ex-Senator H. W. Barker was chairman of the meeting and while the attendance was not as large as expected, because the farmers are very busy, there was no lack of interest displayed in the proceedings and it was evident the meeting was alive to the objects to be attained by the Northern Minnesota Development association movement. State Immigration Commissioner Welsh, Neill and W. R. Mackenzie of Bemidji, secretary of the Northern Minnesota Development association, spoke arousing much enthusiasm as they pointed out the demand for the present movement to secure justice for Northern Minnesota.

WISCONSIN'S BIGGEST BULL.

Cleveland, Wis., May 28.—Grotegut, Gosse & Wagner have purchased what is supposed to be the largest bull in the state. The bull is a shorthorn, weighing 3,200 pounds, and the rump measures four and one-half feet. It was bought from Ferdinand Walfich of Manitowoc.

EXPLOSION SUSPICIOUS.

Deadwood, S. D. May 28.—Fifteen hundred pounds of giant powder under lock and key in a tunnel of the Mogul Mining company's works at Terry was exploded Thursday, but few people in town know it.

The powder had just been stored there and no one was working near.

The tunnel, being near the surface, was wrecked, as was the blacksmith shop. The officials believe the explosion was spite work. Three days ago an attempt was made to blow up the Caledonian property of the Homestake. The attempt was frustrated by guards who shot at the man while he was escaping. He dropped the box of powder.

MOOSE LAKE DECIDES TO BUILD NEW SCHOOL.

Moose Lake, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—School District No. 3, at a special meeting, elected a new school board, as follows: C. F. Mahnke, J. W. Lindmark, Ben Paulson, Hans Halverson, S. A. Jacobson and Fred Gay. The board has elected the following officers: J. W. Lindmark, chairman; S. A. Jacobson, clerk; Fred Gay, treasurer.

PINE RIVER MAN HAS MINK RANCH

A. S. WHITE.

Pine River, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. S. White, the local agent for the Minnesota & International railroad, is engaged in a novel industry on the side, raising mink for the hide and fur.

Mr. White's mink ranch, as it is called near here, is withal quite a remarkable place. It is walled half way up with iron, the balance being screens so the animals cannot escape. It has cement floors and a tin roof. Troughs lead fresh water into the enclosure for the mink. Mr. White began with a pair of mink and now he has twelve of the animals. He sent one of his mink furs to Chicago this spring. It was pronounced A No. 1 and brought the highest price of the season. Mr. White has a bunch of rabbits to furnish the fur-bearing animals with food. He also has some beautiful Chinese pheasants, a green colored bird, that lays green eggs. The eggs from which these pheasants were hatched came from the state of Washington, and the state of Minnesota is already stocking the state with these game birds.

MAKE PROGRESS ON SHAFT AT CROSBY

New York Foundation Company Is Getting Along Well With Work.

Crosby, Minn, May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Work at the new shaft being put down by the New York Foundation company, is progressing favorably. This is the shaft which is being put down for the Rogers Brown Ore company in section 11-46-29. Two boilers have been placed in position. A clam shell shovel used for excavating has been set up. Two more boilers are expected to arrive. The large cement mixer which is to be operated by steam, has been placed in position.

Three hundred feet of narrow gauge track has been laid from a point where the shaft is to be located to the gravel pit. The gravel is hauled to the cement mixer, where the concrete is used in the construction of the cement shaft.

Quarters have been erected for the men so the crews can be near their work and several old miners from the Michigan iron ranges arrived recently and will be employed on the work at the shaft.

J. B. Galarneault, state superintendent of banks, is authority for the statement that the Crosby state bank will complete its organization within two months.

H. J. Kruse, superintendent of the Rogers Brown Ore company stated: "The Rogers Brown Ore company will commence the construction of fifteen five-room cottages at Cuyuna. The contract will soon be let and work will commence at once. Dr. R. J. Sewall is about ready to open his hospital." The writer mentioned the recent copper find near Pillager caimed to have been made by William Tice. "This was probably the lost ore," said Mr. Kruse. "Copper and iron ranges sometimes run parallel. There are places on the Michigan range where these ranges are only twelve miles apart."

TWENTY-EIGHT GIVEN DIPLOMAS

Largest High School Class in History of Thief River Falls Graduates.

Thief River Falls, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual Commencement exercises of the Thief River Falls high school occurred last evening at the Auditorium, which was crowded. The address to the class was delivered by President Worst of the North Dakota Agricultural college and dwelt largely with the relation of the new movement in education to the old form of secondary education.

The graduating class comprises sixteen boys, and twelve girls as follows: Alf Borry, Lillian Brady, Rasmus Bartleson, Neil Dahl, Ingwald Fossum, Gena Granum, Selma Hoff, George Hicks, Louis Iverson, John Thle, Esther Stebbins, Edwin Karwand, Lena Lonson, Lillian Mussey, Bertha Olson, Ida Ove, Fred Protz, Samuel Pope, James Walker, Martha Tanem, Cora Stene, Ward Sharbach, Frances Schmitz, William Rinker, George Rice, George Jacobson, Josie Weeks, Earl Weeks Miss Ida Ove delivered the valedictory and Ward Sharbach was salutarian.

This class is the largest ever graduated in this high school, and a singular increase in the graduating is noted when it is learned that the class of last year numbered just fourteen and of the preceeding year only seven, the class having increased 100 per cent each year.

The school is now the fourth largest in Northern Minnesota, and to accomadate the increase in its size a $45,000 high school building, modern in every respect, is being constructed. It will be for high school purposes exclusively and every department of instruction possible of presentation in a high school will be taught in this school next year. The name by which this school will be known is Lincoln high school, the same having been decided upon by a vote of the 193 high school students.

To Norwegians of United States in Memory of Rollo.

Fargo, N. D., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—In honor of the millenium of the duchy of Normandy, France, the Norman French are to present to the Norwegians of the United States a statue of Rollo. It is to be located in Fargo and the unveiling will probably occur July 4, 1911. Dr. H. O. Fjelde of Abercrombie, N. D., who was largely responsible for securing the Bjornson bautasten for the North Dakota Agricultural college campus and the famous Wergeland monument for Island park in Fargo, has the present matter in charge.

In 911 Rollo, the Northman, with his Norsemen overran France and took possession of Normandy. The millenium of this event is to be celebrated with great ceremony next year in France and the Norman French want the Norwegians of this country to share in the great event.

It is probable a new park will be secured for Fargo by that time and if this is done it will undoubtedly be named Rollo park, and the new statue placed therein. It will be located in the neartheastern part of the city near the Scandinavian seminary.

PAPER MAGNATE RETIRES.

Thomas Nash, for Many Years Identified With Business, Quits.

Grand Rapids, Wis., May 28.—Thomas E. Nash, for many years president of the Nekoosa-Edwards Paper company, has resigned because of ill health. He has been identified with the paper industry for more than twenty years. In 1892 he organized the Nekoosa Paper company, and has been president of it ever since. In 1908, he was elected president of the Nekoosa-Edwards Paper company, successor of the Nekoosa and Port Edwards paper mills. For many years he was also in active charge of the business of the Northern Paper company, buying pulpwood for the several mills of Grand Rapids and vicinity. Mr. Nash expects to spend considerable time in travel.

MONTHLY LEAFLET

To Be Issued During Summer By the State Entomologist.

St. Paul, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The entomologist of the experiment station at St. Anthony Park, with the consent of the director, plans to publish the first of May, June, July, August and September of each year a small leaflet, or folder, for free distribution, containing timely items of interest to farmers, nurserymen, market gardeners, orchardists and housekeepers of the state.

This publication is not to be regarded as a bulletin, and the subjects contained therein will have necessarily to be treated very briefly, but it is believed there is a demand for such a publication, with items and suggestions regarding cut worms, grasshoppers, household insects, fruit insects, berry insects, spraying, etc., brought out at such time when the items will be of most interest and use to the grower.

The only thing necessary to secure these publications is to send a postal card to the state entomologist, St. Anthony Park, Minn., with the request and name and address thereon. Arrangements for this publication have only just been made, therefore none was issued on May 1.

FAVOR WEIGHT SYSTEM

Of Selling Commodities Hereafter in State of Minnesota.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 28.—The first step in a united effort to establish in Minnesota the system of selling commodities by weight has been taken in the formation of a state organization by the sealers of weights and measures of the Twin Cities and Duluth at a meeting here, when the following officers were named:

George E. Durin, St. Paul, president; E. O. Sather, Minneapolis, secretary; J. J. Ryan, state president of the Retail Grocers' association, vice president; J. C. Doncaster, St. Paul, treasurer; L. E. Norton, St. Paul, assistant secretary.

The new organization will meet again in the near future in St. Paul, when a definite line of action will be adopted.

Legislator Burned in Explosion.

Fergus Falls, Minn., May 28.—J. T. Johnson, who is a member of the legislature from this county, was severely burned about the face by an explosion in his drug store here Thursday night. He accidentally dropped a lighted candle into an empty oil tank, and the explosion followed.

Use Salubrin

It Quickly Makes Sick People Well.

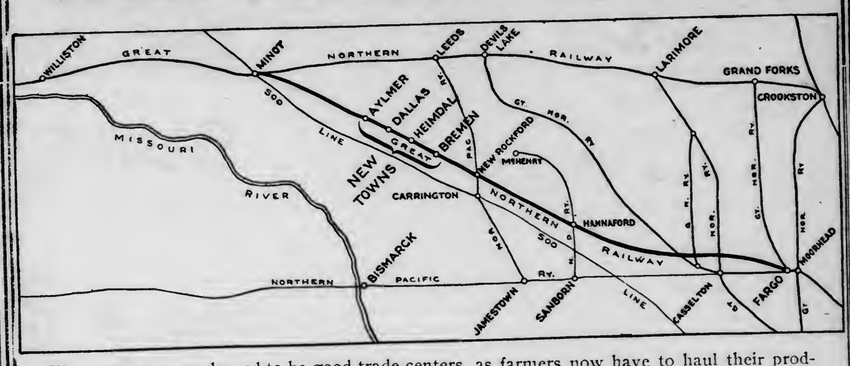
Just try taking Salubrin this Spring and see how much better you feel. Perhaps you haven't any faith in Spring medicine. Maybe, even if you do know that people need cleaning up in Spring just as much as a house needs cleaning, you don't think there is any medicine that will do it. Just forget about all the so-called "blood-purifiers," the "tonics" and nerve compounds" you may have tried and been disappointed with, and use Salubrin. There is no mystery about it or its action. No guess work about what it does to the accumulation of germs and toxins in the system during the cold, sluggish winter months. Salubrin is a germ killer, an anti-toxic which is sure death to all germs, but unlike other germ destroyers it does not injure the human system, being a neutral compound as far as human tissue is concerned. It drives germs out of the blood out of the vital organs, out of every nook and corner of your whole system and makes you feel strong and good all over because it helps nature to do her duty. Salubrin is sold by druggists, price 50 cents per bottle. It's fine for coughs and colds and catarrh, because it kills the germs. If you can't find Salubrin, write us and we will tell you where to get it. Salubrin Laboratory, Dept. 26, Grand Crossing, Chicago, Ill.

SALE OF TOWN LOTS

4 New North Dakota Towns 4

Bremen, Heimdal, Dallas and Aylmer are four new towns to be opened in North Dakota. They are all located in good, well developed agricultural territory through which is now being built the

NEW FARGO-MINOT LINE
OF THE
Great Northern Railway



The new towns are bound to be good trade centers, as farmers now have to haul their products five to twenty miles to reach a railway shipping point. Sales will be held at 10 a. m. at the new sites, as follows:

Bremen, JUNE 1; Heimdal, JUNE 2; Dallas, JUNE 3; Aylmer, JUNE 4.

These new towns can all be conveniently reached from New Rockford, Fessenden and Harvey, and other North Dakota points. Lots will be sold at auction under usual conditions.

Big Pearl Story Arrives.

Prairie du Chien, Wis., May 28.—A 90-grain, white drop pearl, 74-grain pink baroque and 40-grain white globe pearl were three extraordinary finds by pearl fishermen in the Mississippi near this city Thursday. The pearls were bought by J. H. Peacock, a local dealer, for $4,100. These are the first finds of the season.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Fargo, N. D.—Fargo Baptists deeply regret the loss of their pastor, Dr. Herbert Tilden. At the regular weekly meeting Wednesday evening, resolutions expressing this regret and the hope of a pleasant and profitable future for both Dr. and Mrs. Tilden were passed.

Bismarck, N. D.—George Robidow was found guilty of running a blind pig. He was the first man ever convicted in Bismarck by a jury of running such an establishment.

Medina N. D.—A. W. Schroeder, acting for the vendor, has sold to L. B. Shicox, a wealthy farmer of Marshall, Ind., the farm known as the John W. Avery place, about two and a half miles southwest of town, and which consists of 480 acres, for a consideration of $33 per acre, or a total of $154,440 for the three quarters.

Fargo, N. D.—A local land man brought a party of forty-eight land buyers here on a special car on the Northern Pacific this week from Illinois and Indiana. They were met at the depot by agents of the land company and escorted to the Commercial club rooms where the company had lunch and then shown several tracts.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Division Supt. F. D. Kelsey of the Great Northern has gone to Barnesville to look over the material to be used in relaying the track between Grand Forks and that point. The material has been distributed for a distance of about 100 miles along the right-of-way, and the work of relaying will commence within a few days.

Rugby, N. D.—After being held in the court jail at Towner for some time and being refused bail, Pat Meehan has finally been discharged under bonds of $10,000, which the court allowed. Meehan is charged with implication in the death of O. C. Rice recently, for which Jack Buoye is also being held.

Fargo, N. D.—Dr. R. D. Park, who for some time practiced dentistry in Valley City, left here some time ago and is now in Bombay, India. A friend of his received a letter from Dr. Park this week. He states that he likes it in Bombay, but most of the work done by himself and all of the citizens is done at night.

Dickinson, N. D.—Henry Brown is under arrest and in jail on account of being the last man seen with Albert Tuma at Northern Pacific lake. Brown says he was intoxicated and went to the lake with Tuma, where he fell asleep, and when he awoke seven hours later could find nothing of his companion.

Jamestown, N. D.—Roy Sappenfield was appointed chief of the Jamestown fire department, while George Ottinger will be assistant chief.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Grand Marais—The Republican county convention of Cook will be held at the village hall here at 2 o'clock p. m. on Friday, June 17, for the purpose of electing six delegates and six alternates to the Republican state convention.

Northome—The ladies of the different churches of Northome have organized themselves into a class called: "The New Movement Class" for study of the International Sunday school lessons, and for social intercourse.

Moorhead—Mrs. Mary Ambs, a pioneer here, widow of the late Fred Ambs, died Thursday after an illness of three weeks of pneumonia. Mrs. Ambs was born Dec. 8, 1854, in Norway, and came to the United States when she was 8 years of age. She was married on Sept. 14, 1872, to Fred Ambs, the ceremony being performed in Moorhead.

Braham—The Isanti County Rural Letter Carriers' association will hold its annual meeting at Dalbo, Sunday, May 29. The association will be entertained in the afternoon at the home of Carrier C. G. Johnson.

Fertile—S. C. La Due has resigned his position as postmaster, and expects to devote his time to raising strawberries on a large scale on his farm near town. His successor has not been named as yet, but it is practically settled that J. A. Gregerson will be the man.

St. Cloud—Grandpa Scharlet died at Albany, at the age of 94 years last Friday. The old gentleman lived at the home of his son, Rudolph, five miles south of Albany. The funeral was held from the Farming Town Lutheran church, Pastor Naus officiating.

Brainerd—The Gardner block on the corner of Laurel and Fifth street is being given a general overhauling. P. G. Fogelstrom has the contract for the carpenter repair work. The porch has been removed. A firewall of cement, seven inches thick, has been placed between the Gardner block and Purdy's livery stable.

Stillwater—Louis Spero has been taken to the state prison under a sentence of six years upon conviction of participating in the Wildwood pavilion safe blowing. Hall had been taken there the night before. It is believed by the authorities that Hall and Spero were the leaders of a gang of safe crackers and burglars that have been doing active work.

St. Cloud—The Johnson & Borwick granite sheds on Breckenridge avenue have closed down for a few days and when they reopen next Tuesday morning the establishment will have changed from an open shop to a union shop, in which only union cutters and polishers will be employed. The firm will have eight cutters and two polishers.

Foley—Albert Latterell accompanied his daughter Josie to St. Cloud Monday, where she entered the hospital to submit to an operation for appendicitis which was performed on the following day. The young lady is getting along nicely.

Verndale—Mrs. E. C. James, aged 77, a resident of Verndale for nearly thirty years, died last Thursday, after an extended illness.

Sandstone—R. H. Budd of the superintendent's office, has been given a two weeks' vacation and he and his family left Tuesday evening to visit their parents at Northfield, and they will also go to Chicago.

Wadena—The Northern Pacific, in connection with the choosing of a site for the new depot, has come forward with a definite proposition, asking Wadena to vacate a section of Fourth steet across the railroad right-of-way, so that the new depot may be placed directly in that street, closing that important thoroughfare forever.

Crookston—Supt. P. C. Allwest of the Northern division of the Great Northern, returned Thursday morning from a most pleasant trip to Ashville, N. C., where he visited his parents, and also visited points in Virginia, West Virginia, and other places of interest en route.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Madison—The hatching season in the poultry department of the University of Wisconsin College of Agriculture has just closed, with 1,000 chicks to be raised for the use of the department in the coming year. Most of the pullets and some of the roosters will be kept for breeding purposes, instructional and research work.

Oshkosh — Wisconsin laundrymen have organized the Wisconsin Launderers' association. Frank P. Gillen of Oshkosh was elected temporary president and W. E. Wheeler secretary.

Manitowoc—Peter Leick, a farmer of Greenleaf, died in a hospital from the effects of injuries received when he was caught in a belt and thrown against the fly wheel of a farm engine.

Chippewa Falls—Isaac Isaacson, aged 25 years, fell eighteen feet from a silo, striking on his head and receiving injuries from which he died in a few hours. He is survived by a father and ten brothers and sisters.

Wausau—Chicago police have been asked to search for William Schmitz, who left his home here on March 23, telling his wife he was going to Chicago to buy real estate. Nothing has been heard of him since.

Beloit—Dr. C. A. Culver of Beloit college has organized the Midiane Radio Telegraph company, and will establish stations at Beloit, Rockford and Freeport, Ill., and Lancaster, Wis. The company is for scientific research only, and no commercial work will be undertaken.

Ashland—It is expected that all records for attendance at the Ashland baseball park will be broken next Sunday when the locals will battle with the fast Bayfield nine. An intense rivalry exists between the two clubs, and the games Sunday and Monday promise to be interesting and hard fought.

Wausau—The United Commercial Travelers of Wisconsin will meet here June 2. Three thousand are expected and elaborate preparations are being made.

Washburn—Fruit men say that the frosts have done no damage to the apple crop. The trees are now loaded with blossoms. The cherry crop will escape with but slight injury.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Calumet—Edward Merz, aged 44, a native of Pewabic and well known as a hotel man, died Thursday and is survived by a wife, mother, four sisters and one brother. The sisters are, Mrs. Louise Sprague of Cleveland; Miss Julia Merz of Calumet, Mrs. Vivian Veale of Laurium and Mrs. Charles Muir of Houghton and the brother is Albert Merz of Calumet.

Houghton—It took the jury in the case of Joseph Acotti of Calumet, charged with assault upon his wife with intent to murder her, just about an hour to find the man guilty, but not of the charge upon which he was tried, a lesser offense being substituted by the jury upon the instructions of the judge.

Calumet—Aloysius Coppo, aged 69 years, died suddenly at his home over the Braco bakery on Elm street Thursday. He is survived by a wife, who is at present in Europe and several grown up children.

Hancock—Dr. and Mrs. K. V. Arminen expect to leave next week for an extended trip to England.

Calumet—The funeral of the late I. A. Goldsmith of Scott street was held Thursday in Chicago, with interment at the Waldheim cemetery. The remains were shipped to Chicago Wednesday afternoon, accompanied by relatives of the decedent.

Hancock—Angus W. Macdonald has received word from John C. Irvine, department commander for Michigan of the United Spanish War Veterans, through the George Millar camp telling him that he has been appointed chief of the staff of the Michigan department. This brings Mr. McDonald into the large affairs of the veterans.

Calumet—A message conveying news of the death of Edward Jeffery formerly of this city, has been received by officers of Garfield castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, from Lead, S. D. The deceased was 23 years of age and previous to seven weeks ago he had resided here. Jeffery left Calumet with a party of young men for Lead, where he secured employment in the mines.

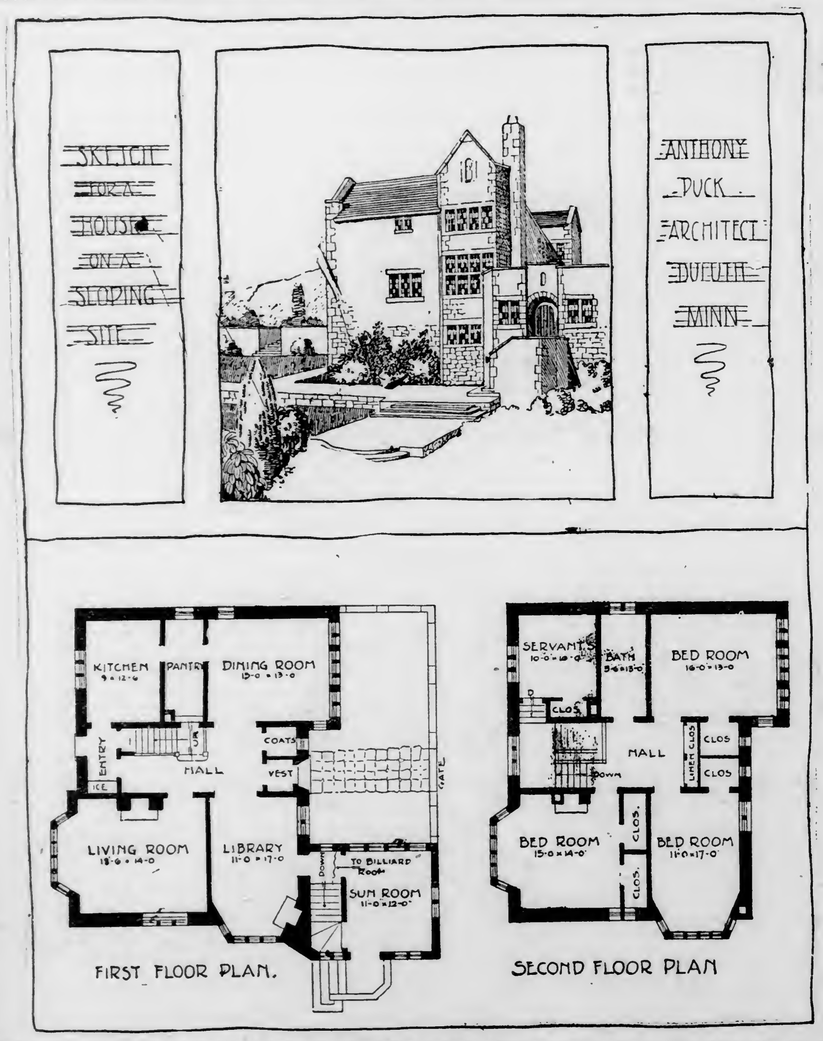
HOME DESIGNED FOR ONE OF THE MANY SLOPING SITES TO BE FOUND IN DULUTH



The above design for a house on a sloping site has been planned to take advantage of the pecularities of the site. The South view shows what can be done with the simplest of treatments.

The rubble walling has a texture and charm of its own with the variety of colour and interesting jointing and does not need to be broken up or enriched by decorative features. The decorative interest of the view is concentrated about the tall bay window and the garden entrance to the sun room with the interesting outside staircase which is the outcome of the sloping site. The simplicity in motive speaks well for the sound, deep, appreciation of the essentials of the owner and the elimination of all fussiness and indecision with a dignity of reserve. The enclosed entrance court gives privacy in these days of publicity and suggests a sheltered, restricted and private home life apart from the associations of business, a calm and peaceful seclusion which to the average man of business is well earned.

From the sunroom access is gained to the billiard room at the basement level, but owing to the advantage of the sloping site this room is above the ground level and commands a view of the front lawn.

The first floor plan shows a dining room, living room, library, kitchen and pantry, with a coat closet off the entrance hall. The second floor shows ample closet accommodation. The first floor trim will be in oak, the kitchen and pantry in birch, the bedrooms in white enamel and the floors of maple.

The above house, inclusive of plumbing and heating, will cost in Duluth and vicinity $16,000

SUNNYSIDE

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

WILL BE TWO BIG DAYS AT

SUNNYSIDE GARDENS

Free Automobiles will be running back and forth all day. Come out and enjoy a few hours at Sunnyside. Never mind about bringing anything to eat; we will have lunch enough for all and we want you to share it with us.

WHAT SOME OF THE EARLY BUYERS SAY:

Superior, Wis., Allouez Sta., May 20, 1910.
MESSRS. HEIMBAUGH & SPRING,
Superior, Wis.
Gentlemen:

I was out to Sunnyside Gardens two weeks ago and bought a tract. It was twice as good as I expected to find it and the easiest cleared land anywhere around Superior or Duluth; I believe I can clear up half of my land in a week's time.

I did not buy for speculation as I expect to clear up my land and do truck farming, but I think the land will be very valuable on account of its being located in the Steel Company's Belt Line Railway district and it will soon be impossible to buy land as close in as Sunnyside Gardens short of $150 or $200 per acre.

I consider myself lucky to get a ten-acre farm so close to Superior for only $450 and on such easy terms, where you can have all the modern conveniences such as telephone and daily mail service, good neighbors and schools, fine wagon roads and only a few minutes' ride into Superior or Duluth by train.

You can refer any one to me who wants to know the facts about Sunnyside Gardens.

Yours, very truly
ADOLPH JOBS.

Messrs. Heimbaugh & Spring,
Superior, Wis., May 18, 1910.
Gentlemen:—

In answer to your letter of May 16th, would say that I was one of the first to visit "Sunnyside Gardens" and liked everything so well hat I purchased at once. If your ten-acre tracts were all sold and I could not get another one, would not sell mine for $1,000, which is twice what I paid for it.

I have lived in Superior for a great many years and am well acquainted. I know there is not another location anywhere near Superior or Duluth that has the advantages offered by "Sunnyside Gardens." The high-priced markets, good roads and mail and train service, together with the fine soil and easily cleared land beats anything I ever saw. Part of my land is so open I could use a breaking plow without hardly any picking up. Several of my friends are going to buy. I can't say too much for "Sunnyside."

Yours truly,
EDW. McHUGH.

THIS IS YOUR LAST CHANCE AT THE FIRST ALLOTMENT OF SUNNYSIDE GARDENS.

And they are head and shoulders above any other real estate proposition offered at the Head of the Lakes, either from a speculative or practical standpoint.

FROM A PRACTICAL STANDPOINT

Think what it means to own a ten-acre truck farm almost within sight of Duluth and Superior, with their high-priced markets, where you have the convenience of Daily Train Service, Daily Mail and Telephone Service, Good Schools, Good Neighbors and Fine Level Roads. Everything, in fact, to make your home life comfortable. Where your soil conditions are right, and the land is free from rocks and hills and so easily cleared that on some tracts one man could clear up four or five acres in a week's time. It means independence, and an income of $2,000 to $3,000 a year to a man that will work.

FROM A SPECULATIVE STANDPOINT.

We only have to tell you that it is located within two and one-half miles of the United States Steel Company's Belt Line Railway, where land has been going up by leaps and bounds. If you believe the Twin Ports are to become a great steel center, it must be plain to you that Sunnyside Gardens, located in this district, must become very valuable in a short space of time. Today you can buy on our easy terms ten acres (100 lots) for the price of a cheap city lot. Mark what we say, you will never get another chance like this again.

COME TO SUNNYSIDE ON SUNDAY OR MONDAY.

Take advantage of this opportunity while the selections are good. Today you can buy

A TEN ACRE TRUCK FARM

$350 to $450 Each

$25.00 CASH and $10.00 to $12.00 PER MONTH

And with every ten-acre tract we will give away absolutely free, a lot in the new town of Sunnyside.

THE WAY TO GO.

On Sunday or Monday go to South Superior by street car. Free automobiles will meet every car from 9 o'clock in the morning until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and take you out to Sunnyside and bring you back.

HEIMBAUGH & SPRING,

SUPERIOR, WIS. OPEN EVENINGS DURING THIS SALE. 1103 TOWER AVE.

P. S. Free maps and literature about Sunnyside will be mailed upon request.

A deposit of $5.00 will hold one of these tracts a few days if you cannot make all of your first payment at once. Bring enough money to hold your tract or you will be disappointed.

LOTS IN NEW ADDITIONS ARE QUICKLY SNAPPED UP

Activity in Residence Property Will Extend to Other Branches.

Farrell Road Is Key to Opening of Vast Farming District.

While the investment feature of the realty market is almost neglected, the home builders and prospective home owners are busy. The openings of new additions have met with remarkable success. Of 350 lots in Loeb's addition to Lakeside, 342 were sold during the past week. In Homecroft park, an addition of small market-garden tracts near Woodland, W. M. Prindle & Co. practically closed out their holdings last Sunday during the week.

In Chamber's First division, there has been a steady sale of lots since the division was put on the market by Richardson, Day & Harrison and the demand for lots in that section continues unabated. L. P. Greenfield & Co. and the Lakeside Land company have had a remarkable demand for lots in Lakeside and Lester park. In fact, every realty firm in the city reports that the demand for residence lots in all sections is unparalleled in previous history of normal times in the city and, though the big investors may be out of the market temporarily, the continued demand for residence lots and the numerous sales recorded give the market a healthy tone.

Some sales are being made in investment property and improved property, of course, but the bulk of the business is running to the low-priced lots, most of them in the new sections. The low prices and the exceptionally easy terms on which that class of property is offered are attracting people who have not the means to get into the market on a larger scale. Some of the purchases are made for speculative purposes, but by far the great proportion of the lots transferred are purchased for actual use and for immediate improvement.

It is a development that will go far toward strengthening the foundation of the market. The effect will be felt all through the market in the movement in every branch of property. Money is not very plentiful, and interest rates are high, but prospective investors will make special efforts to finance ventures, knowing that the movement in residence property will extend to other fields. Matters will adjust themselves, so that the present movement in residence property will be felt very soon in the investment branch of the market, and the activity in that branch will come much more quickly than were it left to develop without the stimulating influence of the minor movement.

The activity in residence property means much to the city. It has not a semblance to boom hysteria. It is the natural outgrowth of the desire of people to own homes of their own and to get into the profits that will come to owners of Duluth real estate in the development of the city. The lots are cheap, but the sections being opened are in the natural path of the city's expansion. The city is certain to grow to the east and north, and as it grows it will build up the sections now going on the market, values will increase, and the people purchasing now will have good returns on their investments—on paper at least, if they do not care to release their holdings.

The street railway extension and road developments on the central hillside are being watched with interest by people interested in the growth of the city to the north and the development of the market gardening and farming district on the top of the hill. The Farrell road plan, backed by the Central Hillside Improvement club, offers an excellent plan for a means of communication on an easy grade between the city and the farming district, and, taken in conjunction with the Sundby road plan, it is a solution of the problem of opening up the vast farming district to the north.

Ultimately, there will, no doubt, be a trolley line on top of the hill, and the extension of the street railway line on Seventh avenue east to Ninth street or Eleventh street is the first step with that end in view. The extension to the farming country cannot come for some time, of course, and for the present the carrying out of the road plans will go a long way toward bringing about the development so heartily desired by people anxious to see the city grow and see it provided with market garden products at something like equitable prices.

The route of the Farrell road is identical for some distance with the plan of the Sundby road, carrying it from Seventh avenue east and Eleventh street to the boulevard. From there the roads would branch off, the Sundby road running to the northwest to a junction with the Swan lake road, through Duluth Heights; and the Farrel road running northeast to a point near Villa Scholastica, and then curving to the west, and running out near the poor farm.

Between them, the roads would open up the whole district and their joint entrance to the city would be the gateway that is really the whole key to the situation. Given that gateway, the farming district would develop with remarkable rapidity, for the lack of an easy means of communication with the city is the greatest obstacle with which the farmers on the hill are now forced to contend.

The Central Hillside Improvement club, at its meeting Tuesday night, urged County Commissioner Tischer to appropriate $5,000 for the Farrell road and County Commissioner Fraser to appropriate $5,000 for the Sundby road. Co-operating with the other two county commissioners from the city and the city officials, it is believed the two commissioners in the districts vitally interested can do the work and every pressure will be brought to bear to secure its completion at the earliest possible moment. The meeting of the club was attended by a number of farmers from the district which would be opened by the two roads and they added their voice to that of the club in urging the county make the improvements.

The street railway extension project is in status quo. The statement of Manager Herbert Marren that the line would be built to Seventh avenue east and Ninth street with the object of extending it on Ninth street to Fourteenth avenue east, stands and Mayor Cullum and others interested are making efforts to secure the extension to Eleventh street. They urge the contention that a great amount of good would be done by the extension for two more blocks up the hill and when Ninth street is graded and in condition to allow the laying of a street railway line, the branch can be laid from the main line on Seventh avenue east just as easily as it could be laid if Ninth street were the terminus of the Seventh avenue east line.

W. M. Prindle & Co. will open several tracts which it owns at Superior View tomorrow. Superior View was platted some years ago into residence lots, and a number of those lots, owned by the company, will be blocked into tracts 75x125 and 100x125 and sold on easy terms. The company had such success in disposing of the large tracts in Homecroft Park, which is some distance farther from the city than Superior View that a rush is expected to secure the tracts which are to be placed on the market tomorrow.

Residence Building Boom Extends to All Parts of the City.

Two New School Buildings Under Construction Show Up Well.

Developments in the building situation are few. No new building plans have come out during the past week, although all of the architects are busy and the contractors say they have all the work they can comfortably handle.

The new Washington grade and manual training school is looming up as a pretentious structure and the fact that it is a notable addition to the educational institutions of the city is becoming evident. It is a fine building and the effect of its beauty will not be destroyed by the fine high school building in the opposite block.

The exterior work on the new cathedral high school on the corner of Second avenue west and Fourth street is about completed and the interior work is progressing well, so there is no doubt but that the building will be completed and ready for occupancy by the opening of the next school year. The building is a commodious structure, well located to secure good light and ventilation and is a fine addition to the group of buildings of which the cathedral is the center.

* * *

The residence building boom is growing. All over the city homes are being constructed and many more are planned. A number of homes are under construction by the Duluth Building & Land company for sale to clients on the easy payment plan. The buildings, which are erected from stock plans or from plans furnished by the client, are well constructed, the work being done by firms that Duluth people know. The people behind the concern are all Duluth men and all materials are purchased from Duluth firms. The company has just started in business here this spring and has found a ready demand for its services. Several buildings are already under construction and deals are pending for many more.

The company is issuing a monthly magazine called The Home Builder, that contains many facts of interest to prospective home owners and people who now rent.

* * *

Bids are in for the addition to the Stone-Ordean-Wells company building, plans for which were prepared by W. A. Hunt. The bids have been sent East for scrutiny and the contract will probably be let within the next two weeks.

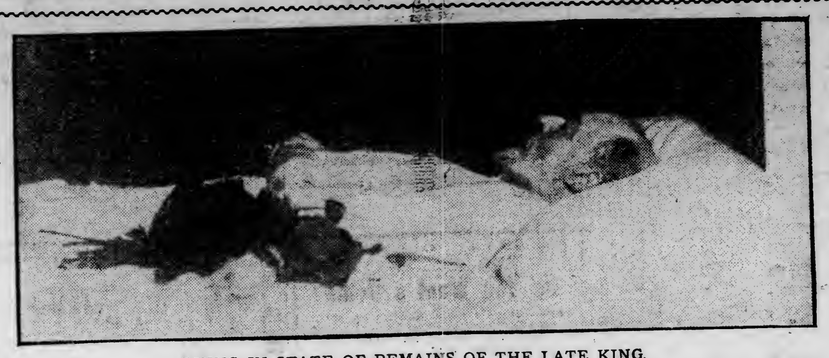
DEATH OF KING EDWARD MARS ROOSEVELT'S TOUR



LYING IN STATE OF REMAINS OF THE LATE KING.

CARRIAGE OF QUEEN MOTHER ALEXANDRA IN THE PROCESSION WHEN THE KING'S BODY WAS REMOVED TO WESTMINSTER.

London, May 17.—In spite of the adverse conditions prevailing when he visited Germany, Theodore Roosevelt had an extremely good time at Berlin. The death of King Edward was not the only condition working against him. There was a virulent attack on him in one of the government journals, which earnestly and circumstantially inquired who he was that so much honor should be shown to him in Europe.

There are many Germans who regard his visit to Europe as political in character and who resent it. Nine years ago when I was in Germany, the German people were almost as much concerned about us as England now is about Germany. That great business machine of which the kaiser is the general manager and press agent, regarded us as possible rivals. Now, with the spreading of German trade influence to all parts of the world, the Germans have ceased to be anxious about us, apparently. They no longer concern themselves with us. They have regained their composure. And so, when the kaiser undertakes to honor an American citizen in whom he has long had a lively interest, they say: Who is Theodore Roosevelt anyway?" And they ridicule his military record and describe our little encounter with Spain as a "potato war."

Attitude of the Kaiser.

That the kaiser does not personally share this feeling was shown by his invitation to Mr. Roosevelt to be his guest at the Schloss—cancelled because of King Edward's death; and it was exemplified further when he informed his friend, Col. Roosevelt, that he was the first civilian who had ever had the honor to review German troops.

It was a subject of personal comment when Mr. Roosevelt arrived in Berlin that he wore a deep mourning band on his hat and that he wore a crepe band on his arm. Mrs. Roosevelt, too, wore mourning when she met the kaiserin. At that time Mr. Roosevelt had not been appointed special ambassador to represent our country at the funeral of King Edward, and this adoption of the mourning emblems worn by the fellow sovereigns of the late king led one American in Berlin to remark that, though we might not have rulers, no European could now twit us with not having a royal family.

Berlin to London.

Mr. Roosevelt was entertained informally during his stay in Berlin, which extended through the days originally planned, and on Sunday morning last he started for London via Flushing, traveling in a special car. The royal suite on the Flushing boat had been reserved for him, and between the Dutch and English shores he got about five hours' rest.

It was about 6:30 when representatives of the British government boarded the ship and extended him a formal welcome. Then he was escorted to a special train placed at his disposal by the Southeastern & Chatham railway for himself and his party. He traveled to London in an ordinary saloon carriage. But those English saloon carriages are very comfortable. They are arranged much after the fashion of one of our observation cars, with lounging chairs heavily upholstered and long couches. W. D. Straight of our consular service, with his picturesque Chinese servant, joined the party and rode with Mr. Roosevelt to London.

There was the usual corps of reporters and photographers to meet Mr. Roosevelt and they were much concerned to know whether the Roosevelt party in hoy had been of the Roosevelt party in Africa. He was such a good subject for a snapshot that they were loath to let him go.

Luggage Mixed Up.

The trip to London was made without stop and without incident. As usual the railway people got the luggage mixed up and part of it was left at Queensboro. But otherwise the trip went smoothly enough.

Victoria station, London, had been most elaborately protected for the arrival of Mr. Roosevelt and the prince of Waldeck-Pyrmont, who came in a few minutes later on a royal train. The platform had been cleared. Police guarded every door. Outside where the royal suite on the Flushing boat had been reserved for him, and between the Dutch and English shores he got about five hours' rest.

DULUTHIAN WHO WAS ONCE EXILED TO SIBERIA

Frank Grygla Tells of His Escape From Russian Soldiers—Was Shot at and Left for Dead—Walked Three Days Without Anything to Eat.

Washington, May 28.—Beaten at frequent intervals, bound with fetters strong and as galling as rawhide, forced to eat coarse black bread, made from the swepings of the mills, and subjected to other indignities, is what Frank Grygla, now stationed at Duluth in the federal land service, suffered at the hands of the Russians before he attained his majority.

Grygla was one of the delegates to the National Polish alliance, which held a meting in Washington last week, following the unveiling of the statues of the Polish patriots, Kosciusko and Pulaski. During the week, Grygla met many of his fellow countrymen, who had, like himself, suffered from the brutalities of Russian soldiers, and all connected with his own experience were brought freshly to his mind.

Grygla came of an aristocratic family of Krakow, Poland. In 1863 there was an uprising against Russia, in which he and his three elder brothers participated. All of them were arrested, and the three older Gryglas were executed wih others who had participated in the revolution.

"The Russian soldiers took us to St. Petersburg," said Grygla, in recounting his experiences. "They imprisoned us and condemned my brothers to be shot. And they forced me to witness the execution.

"I shall never forget that or any of the other things that follows if I live to 100 years old. More than 200 of my countrymen were lined up in front of the trenches which were to receive their bodies. On the breast of each a piece of white cloth was placed over the heart, so that the soldiers could see where to place their bullets in order to kill. But they did not kill, nor even wound fatally, more than half of the men. Others were wounded in the arms, in the legs and in parts of the body where there was no vital spot. But as they fell into the trenches, other soldiers began to cover them up. I heard many a man cry from those graves, urging the soldiers to kill him, and not leave him to a lingering death.

Condemned to Siberia.

"Filled with horror, I was returned to my cell and kept there for many days. When the time approached for my own trial, I was only 19, and had therefore been spared execution. For three days before I was tried I was prevented from sleeping. I would be forced to work every day from early morning until night, and during the night they would bring other prisoners before my door and whip them. Of course, I could not sleep with their cries echoing through the prison. After these three days of torture I was taken before the court. I was almost dead for sleep and did not know what was going on. I did not comprehend the questions I was asked nor did I hear what was being said by my accusers.

"I was found guilty, however, and condemned to penal servitude in Siberia. Others of my countrymen were also sentenced with me and we were kept in prison until all the cases had been disposed of.

"When we started from St. Petersburg there were 2,500 persons in charge of the military guard. Among them were several hundred women and children, wives and relatives of the condemned men. These women and children were permitted to accompany us because they refused to be separated from their relatives. But although going on that long journey voluntarily, they were subjected to the same cruel treatment as the prisoners. None of the weaker men and few of the women and children survived that terrible march, which took us over a year.

Forced to March on Foot.

"Upon reaching the end of the railroad we started on foot for the dreaded Siberia. We were placed four abreast, bound to each other by switches made from slender branches of bushes. These branches were cut green, when they could be twisted as desired, and when they became dry they were tougher and stronger than rawhide.

"On that march we were beaten unmercifully on the slightest pretext. If we faltered we were urged forward by the butts of the guns in the hands of the guards. Many of the people were whipped with stout switches, and several were whipped to death. Fifty lashes were sure death and our guards were not particular whether they killed a man or not.

"Most of these atrocites were committed after we crossed the mountains and reached Siberia. It is true that men and women died from exhaustion, but the worst indignities were not forced upon us until after we had left Russia proper. Then, however, we suffered terribly. We were forced to march about twenty miles a day, starting early in the morning and not resting until 10 o'clock at night.

"So far as I was personally concerned, my treatment was what might be called humane. I was of the privileged class, and was supposed to have some favors shown me, for which my mother had paid. For instance, my mother had supplied the money to pay for a carriage for me all the way to our destination. But I never rode a mile of that long journey. The money went into the pockets of the Russian officials. By virtue of my privilege I was also supposed to have a daily allowance of 15 copecks—about 7 cents—for food. Never on any day did I get more than 3 cents—I was robbed of the remainder. With what little I did receive I was able to get a piece of black bread, made from the sweepings of the mills and full of grit and dirt, and a cup of water for each meal.

"My punishment came after a while, however. As we traveled through Siberia we would stop at the capital of each province, to be inspected by the governor. That official would always ask us if we had any complaint to make. Up to the time I speak of no complaint had been made. Finally, however, the brutal treatment of the soldiers determined several of us to make an appeal to the governor at the next inspection. Accordingly, on the night before we were to reach the capital of the province we were then in, several of us prepared a petition. I was selected to present it to the governor. I did so, and he berated the officers of the guard. This was merely for effect, however, as I learned later, for at dinner at the governor's house that night, he said he had only scolded them because he could do nothing else and he really did not care what was done to the prisoners.

"We resumed our march the next day and when we halted for the midday meal I was bound to a tree and whipped with those deadly switches. I became unconscious and salt was rubbed into my wounds to revive me. I was not given medical treatment, and was forced to resume my clothes and to continue the march. The beating was repeated at intervals, and no attention was paid to my sufferings, which were intense. Finally my flesh became tainted, and was infested and I wished that I was dead. Because of my religious belief, however, I could not commit suicide, as many of the people in that caravan had done, and I continued to suffer.

"My closest companion on that march was my chum at college. He had smuggled a small knife into his clothes and his sufferings became so great that he committed suicide by cutting the veins in his wrists. As he fell he threw the knife from him and I picked it up and concealed it in my fur clothing. It was then early in November of the year following my conviction, and the thermometer was 40 below zero. My chum was not dead, but he was thrown aside and left for the wolves, who appeared every night.

"Then an idea came to me. At intervals during the next month I whittled at the thongs that bound me, until finally I was able to break them. I could not kill myself, but I could force the guards to shoot me, which would end my suffering. That was my purpose when I broke my bonds and started to run into the woods. I was shot at, but the bullets passed through my clothes and did not hit my body. The snow was crusted, and I fell on the ground, very much in the position of a dead man. The soldiers came to where I was but did not shoot again, as I made no motion to indicate that there was any life left in me.

"It had flashed on me that I might possibly be able to escape and I prayed then that the soldiers would believe me dead. They did believe that and hurried away to drive the rest of the prisoners toward the next stopping place.

"When I escaped that army of 2,500 prisoners had dwindled to 800, all the others having died."

Grygla told of his march back toward Russia, subsisting on the remnants of the food he found at the various places where stops had been made, sleeping in trees at night to escape the wolves, and dodging into the trees when he saw a human being.

Finally he was unable to find any food and for three days was forced to march without anything to eat. That night he mounted a tree and was shot at by a peasant, who, upon discovering that he was a man and not a bear, took him to his hut and nursed him through a long illness. The peasant was well repaid, however, for upon examining Grygla's fur coat he found a large sum of money which had been sewed inside the lining by Grygla's mother. Grygla then paid a peddler of mouse traps another portion of the money for his passport, and made his way back home in the guise of an itinerant merchant.

He rejoined his mother, to whom he had been reported as dead, and remained with her for some time. One day, however, he was advised that he was about to be arrested, and he made his escape and came to America.

Durum Alone Shows Any Strength During Short Session.

Wheat Continues Its Decline and Flax Has Big Slump.

Duluth Biard of Trade, May 28.—Today was a day of weaknesses. Durum alone showed strength. May wheat closed at $1.03¼ nominal, 1c under yesterday. July closed at $1.02½ bid, ⅞c under yesterday. September closed at 92¾c bid, ⅝c under yesterday. May flax lost 9c, closing at $2.26 asked; July lost 9c, closing at $2.06 bid; September was unchanged and October lost 1c to $1.58½. Oats closed 1¼c off, rye was 1c off and barley was unchanged. Durum closed 1c up.

May wheat was not trader in. July opened at $1.03 bid, sold at $1.03½, $1.02¾, $1.02½, $1.02⅝, $1.02¼ and $1.02½, closing at $1.02½ bid. September opened at 93⅜c bid, sold at 93c, 93⅛c, 92¾c, 92½c, 92⅝c, 92¾c and closed at 92¾c bid.

May flax sold at $2.36 and was offered down to $2.26, closing at $2.26 asked. July opened with offers at $2.15½ and sold at $2.12, $2.05, $2.10, $2.06 and closed with bids at $2.06. September opened at $1.68, sold at an advance of ½c and then at $1.68, closing with offers at $1.68. October opened at $1.59 and sold ½c higher, then at $1.59¾, $1.58½ and closed at $1.58½.

The most sensational feature of the market was the decline in Chicago May which dropped 6¼c. Minneapolis and St. Louis were the weakest markets other than Chicago. The market was demoralized and there was heavy liquidation. The support came chiefly from shorts. Despite the large holdings which were dumped on the market it was difficult at some periods of the market to find buyers. Timidity on the buying side was pronounced.

Cables were mixed. At the opening there was some bidding in September which steadied the sick market. Very little stuff was sold however, as buyers were scarce. When the support was withdrawn values dropped suddenly, there being a difference of 2c between trades. In the face of the two holidays there was a rush to sell as few people cared to hold wheat in the interim owing to the probable flattering reports which are expected from the Southwestern and Northwestern crops.

Around noon there was another wave of selling, the pressure being sharply defined. It appeared to come from belated holders of wheat who had given up their forlorn hope. The market was further weakened by the sharp slump in Chicago May. Foreign holders sold heavily on this side and appeared to be taking profits on lines which were accumulated at higher levels. The Minneapolis market led in the downturn on the deferred months.

Crop conditions in the Northwest are excellent. It is cloudy over all of the Northwest today and rain is falling over most of North Dakota, some parts of the wheat growing provinces of Canada and portions of South Dakota and Minnesota.

Farm supplies are slightly above normal at this time of the year. Whether or not the farmers will sell at prevailing prices will be determined by the future. Some people think they are able to hold on to their stores and that they will do so. Others believe that local conditions will not play a prominent part in the market in the near future, that prevailing conditions of world-wide importance will dominate. Just now pit factors prevail. The market is somewhat demoralized and until the atmosphere clears it will be nervous and weak, is the general belief.

MARKET GOSSIP

Barrell's crop summary:

Argentina—Favorable weather for land cultivation has continued during the week and from all reports a largely increased acreage has been cultivated. Movement from the interior continues light with much low-grade and lightweight grain. For the balance of the crop year Argentine shipments will be intermittent.

Australia—Nothing new in developments in this country, and export movement will continue at about the present rate.

India—Weather conditions favorable throughout this country and from government estimates it appears that the present wheat crop will run from 75,000,000 to 100,000,000 bu in excess of that of a year ago.

United Kingdom and Europe—Warmer weather and favorable conditions are noted throughout the entire continent and the United Kingdom. Germany's prospects are especially favorable and as a result farmers are selling old wheat quite freely.

Russia—Warm, favorable weather has been experienced with rains in districts where most needed. The southern portion of the belt is especially good. Stocks at ports are decreasing and country movement is light, owing to farm work preventing country deliveries. Private advices still indicate a great quantity of wheat at country points and in farmers' hands which eventually will move to market.

United States: Winter wheat—Favorable conditions are noted throughout the winter wheat belt. More rains have fallen where needed, and the improvement, especially in the Southwest, is marked. Mr. Le Count this week officially estimated the Kansas crop according to present outlook at 6,600,000 bu which is some 17,000,000 bu higher than the yield indicated by the May 1st government report. In sections of Kansas the wheat is headed out and commencing to fill. Considerable Hessian fly damage reports have been received from Central Illinois, and Mr. Lee Count is now investigating conditions in that territory. (Spring wheat)—Unseasonable cold weather has been experienced in spring wheat territory, frost being generally reported during the past forty-eight hours. We do not believe that damage has resulted and Mr. Kinyon, who is now in Bradley, S. D., advises us under date of May 24, that "conditions show marked improvement. A few fields still look to be light stand, but are improving rapidly. Soil is moist but not too wet, and wheat is developing a great root. As soon as warmer weather is experienced, wheat will undoubtedly stool very heavily." The outlook at present could not be improved in spring wheat territory and all that is desired is warmer weather. There is liable to be experienced at almost any time now, and we consider conditions well nigh perfect throughout the entire spring wheat country, with indications for a bumper yield.

Poehler had a message from a traveling man in South Dakota, saying that the flax acreage of that state will not be larger than the acreage sown last year, when a big increase was recorded. There has been some damage to the durum plant, and the stand in some places is poor.

The agricultural and labor department of North Dakota will soon begin to issue a weekly crop bulletin. If it is accurate it should be a great help to the trade.

T. H. Hagen returned this morning fro a trip through part of Montana and along the Northern Pacific through North Dakota. "Growing wheat is in good condition," he said. "In the southern part of North Dakota," said Mr. Hagen, "rain would have been welcome weather map today, it is probable that this section is receiving moisture. Supplies of wheat on the farm are about 5 per cent. Elevator stocks are unusually small. I think there will be a demand for more old wheat than present prices will bring out."

A traveling man for Poehler wrote yesterday that he estimates the increase of flax acreage in Central and Western Minnesota at about 25 per cent.

Lewis, Minneapolis, wired Baker: "Our Grand Forks office wires: 'Wheat is commencing to come in fast from the country, and it looks as though there was more back in farmers' hands than any one had estimated. An elevator man in the office now says that at Hatton, where he figured all the wheat had been marketed, farmers are hauling wheat, and every day there are from 140 to 250 loads being taken in at the elevators here. While receipts are not quite as heavy as this at other points, many places it runs 45 to 100 wagon loads. At Hatton the elevators have a standing order for twenty cars a day to load wheat, and even then they need more.'"

Broomhall cabled: "Wheat at start showed a steady undertone, ⅜ to ⅝c higher and following the opening further gained ¼d to ¼d with offerings lighter. Support was stimulated by the late rally in American prices yesterday, and firmer offerings of both Manitoba and La Plata parcels. Shorts covered some. During the remainder of the morning the market was irregular with May showing a decline from opening of ⅝d on predictions of large and lower cargo offerings. The distant months were well sustained and generally ⅛d to ⅝d higher from opening with speculative buying and some support by prominent firm. Foreign crop conditions continue excellent. Russian weather is favorable and rains have fallen in South Australia, thus relieving anxiety felt regarding the doruth there. India is commencing to offer new crop wheat freely, and Russia offers are large. At the open the market was irregular and generally steady with prices ¼d to ⅝d higher than yesterday.

"Corn undertone was one of heaviness, owing to pressure of La Plata cargoes and parcels and a poor inquiry."

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Lingering Nervousness Causes Upward Spasm in Wheat.

Chicago, May 28.—Lingering nervousness that there might be considerable evening up in wheat today caused an upward spasm in prices. Then the market succumbed to matter-of-fact influences. Rains in general over the winter and spring wheat belts tended to improve the excellent outlook of the growing crops. Foreign news also was bearish, particularly as to free offerings from Russia. It was pointed out also that the defeat of the bull element had taken away one of the chief props upholding quotations. Nevertheless, even the most strenuous advocates of an expert basis for prices were disposed to be cautious on the selling side after a break which from the top was figured at 1½c. The market opened ¼c lower to ½@⅝c higher. September started unchanged to ¼c up at 92¾@93c and after hovering around the upper figure fell to 91⅞c. May descended to $1.01¾, a loss of 1c compared with the previous close.

The market had poor support. Nobody seemed to wish to carry wheat over the holidays and risk possibilities meanwhile from the Southwestern fields. May wheat was offered down more than 2c, with practically no takers. The close was steady for new crop months with September at 91½@91⅝c, a net loss of ⅞@1c.

Corn was slow at the start but pit traders were good buyers and the tone became better till wheat turned weak. September opened unchanged to a shade higher at 58½ to 58½@58⅝c, advanced to 58⅝c and receded to 58¼c.

The weakness in wheat continued to affect corn. The close was easy with September ⅜c net lower at 57¾c.

The local crowd was selling oats. Demand was light. September opened unchanged to a shade lower for September at 36¼@36⅜c to 36⅜c, touched 36⅝@36½c and slid down to 36c.

Provisions were firmer at first with hogs, but on small trade lost about all the gain and in some instances a trifle additional. Opening prices were 2½@4c up with September deliveries at $22.30 for pork and $12.52½@12.55 for lard and ribs.

"DEAL" WAS UNIQUE ONE

Bears Lost Heavily in May Wheat, But Won on September.

Situation Was Perplexing Even to the Trade in Chicago.

Of all the "deals" that ever perplexed the grain trade, the one which practically came to a conclusion Thursday, probably is most mystifying. No other deal, perhaps, ever carried with it so many contradictory features. For instance, the leading cash holder, the Albany miller, has paper profits of about $750,000, but there is a chance that these fictitious winnings may be wiped out if he cannot market his cash supplies at a profit. The leading May bears, Lichstern and Armour, sustained fairly heavy losses on the May deal, but on the September situation they scored heavily. Bartlett-Patten lost a sum estimated at from $500,000 to $750,000. Thus while the bears got out of the May deal with a loss, they won a big victory in September. The bulls were punished and among the Bartlett-Patten following who were "stung," was Capt. Phillips, the Kansas speculator, who lost about $100,000. Lichstern is said to have won about $1,000,000 in the September deal, but to have lost almost an equal amount in May.

In the settlement between Waterman and Lichstern 675,000 bu of cash wheat that Lichstern took from Duluth for delivery at Chicago was taken over by Waterman and diverted to Buffalo. About 250,000 bu was sold at 10½c over Chicago July and yesterday some ofthe rest was offered at Buffalo at 2c under the price this market can lay the stuff down at Buffalo. It is said that Lichstern paid $1.14 a bu for the cash wheat which he delivered on his May contracts. The situation now finds Waterman lined up on one side and scattered shorts on the other. These comprise foreigners, mostly, who have been selling wheat heavily on this side in the last few days. While trailers have been shaken out there is probably a scattered short interest of sufficient size to maintain interest in the market. Waterman, it is said, hedged May wheat this week by selling July. He bought most of his May below $1 and the average cost of his holdings, it is said, was close to $1. A question of interest is whether he can pay carrying charges and market his stuff at a profit.

The leading bulls were saved from enormous losses in the September option by the heavy covering of shorts. It is said that while Bartlett-Patten were unloading a line of 10,000,000 bu Chicago September, Armour and Clement-Curtis covered 3,000,000 bu and 7,000,000 bu, respectively. These lines were put on at higher prices than those at which they were bought in. There is every probability that the rout of the bear forces would have developed into a panic followed by a continuation of the rout yesterday and today if it had not been for the heavy covering and profit taking of the shorts.

It is rather unusual for the finish fight in the deferred month to be pulled off while the current situation is being settled. Bartlett-Patten's loss is estimated at 7c a bushel. Most of the Patten line was bought from 99c to $1.05, the average being about $1.03. It was sold at from 97¾c down. The bull movement in the July and September options started when the first reports of crop damage began to come from Kansas. This was early in March. As these reports multiplied the bull movement increased impetus but it was noticeable that the Southwest did not support its pessimistic messages with buying orders and the bull side of the campaign was not popular with the public. The public was not in the market, anyway, except on scattered days when it espoused the cause of the bears.

Rains in the Southwest put an end to the drouth and to the insect life and the wheat plant began a rapid growth. It stand and an improved appearance. When it became apparent that the crop would be at least a normal yield the beginning of the end of the bull movement in the deferred months came into view. The situation resolved itself into a question of the losses of the bull side. Until the collapse of the market this week it had been sustained chiefly by muscle. The bears were timorous and did not attack the market but when it became apparent that the underpinning had fallen away they jumped on to the market and the bulls ran up the flag and surrendered.

The Northwest was bearish on the situation and many Duluth operators made moderate profits. The professional element here had been bearish for some time.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Liquidation Continues and Wheat Makes New Low Marks.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 28.—Further liquidation made wheat still easier again today and new low points were reached in all the months. Chicago May sold down to 96c, 6¾c below yesterday's close. The deferred contracts were relatively firmer. Minneapolis May closed 2⅛c lower and September ½c lower. Local elevator stocks decreased 50,000 bushels for one day. Minneapolis today received 202 cars of wheat against 103 cars a week ago, Duluth 18 cars against 1 car and Winnipeg 81 cars against 49 cars. May opened $1.03; high, $1.03⅛; low, $1.01⅝; closed, $1.01⅝. July opened $1.02¾; high, $1.03⅜; low, $1.01¾; closed, $1.02¼@1.02⅜. September opened 92¼@⅜c; high, 92⅝c; low, 91⅝c; closed, 92c.

Cash wheat was easier. Demand was very slow for everything except choice grades. No. 1 northern sold for about 1@3½c above the July contract. Closing prices: No. 1 northern, $1.03¼@1.05¼; to arrive, $1.03¼@1.05¼; No. 2 northern, $1.01¼@1.03¼; to arrive, $1.01¼@1.03¼; No. 3 wheat, 98¼c@$1.01¼; No. 3 yellow corn, 53⅜@52⅞c; No. 3 white oats, 34⅛@35⅛c; No. 2 rye, 67@70c.

Flax—Receipts, 12 cars; year ago, 6; shipments, 6. Demand continued strong for both spot and to arrive flaxseed at 1c above the Duluth July. Closing price, $2.07.

Barley—Receipts, 50 cars, year ago, 22; shipments, 47. Feeding grades were easier and offering freely. Malting barley received a strong demand for the few cars on sale. Closing prices were easier. Closing range, 48@57c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,192 tons. There was no notable change today. Bran in 100-lb sacks, $18.00@18.25.

Flour—Some millers reported a better inquiry for flour today at the still lower quotations following the decline in wheat. Shipments, 42,298 bbl. First ptaents in wood f.o.b. Minneapolis, $5.00@5.20; second patents, $4.80@5.00; first clears, $3.85@3.95; second clears, $2.60@2.90.

New York Money.

New York, May 28.—Close: Prime mercantile paper 4¾@5¼ per cent. Sterling exchange nominal with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.84.30@4.84.40 for 60-day bills and at $4.87.35 for demand. Commercial bills, $4.83¾@4.84¼.

South St. Paul Livestock.

South St. Paul, Minn., May 28.—Cattle—Receipts, 300; market steady and unchanged. Hogs—Receipts, 1,400; market 5c higher; range, $9.30@9.35; no bulk quoted. Sheep—Receipts, 100 market steady and unchanged; lambs, unchanged.

Metal Markets.

New York, May 28.—With the exchange closed it was practically a holiday in the metal markets and prices were nominally unchanged. Tin was quoted at 33.05@33-07½c; lake copper, $12.75@13c; electrolytic at 12.62½@12.75c; casting, $12.37½@12.50c. Lead—Market steady at 4.40@4.50c. Smelter—Market easy, $5.50@5.60c. Iron—Market unchanged.

STATEMENT OF NEW YORK BANKS

New York, May 28.—The statement of clearing house banks for the week shows that the banks hold $26,236,000 more than the requirements of the 25 per cent reserve rule. This is an increase of $2,412,025 in the proportion of the cash reserve as compared with last week. The statement follows:

ORDER OF HEARING ON PETITION FOR PROBATE OF FOREIGN WILL. State of Minnesota, County of St. Louis —ss.

In Probate Court.

In the Matter of the Estate of Michael Hayman, Decedent.

Certain instruments purporting to be authenticated copies of the last Will and Testatment of Michael Hayman, and of the probate thereof in the Surrogate Court in and for the County of Erie, State of New York, having been presented to this court, and the petition of Caroline Hayman and Oscar M. Hayman being filed herein, representing, among other things, that said decedent, then being a resident of the County of Erie, State of New York, died testate in the County of Erie, State of New York, on the 15th day of April, 1907, leaving estate in the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, and that said instrument has been allowed and admitted to probate as his Will in the court above named, and praying that said Will be allowed and admitted to probate in this state, and that letters testamentary be issued thereon to Caroline Hayman and Oscar Hayman.

IT IS ORDERED, That said petition be heard before this court, at the Probate Court Rooms in the Court House, in Duluth, in said County, on Monday, on the 20th day of June, 1910, at ten o'clock a. m., and all persons interested in said hearing and in said matter are hereby cited and required at said time and place to show cause, if any there be, why said petition should not be granted.

ORDERED FURTHER, That this order be served by publication in the Duluth Evening Herald according to law, and that a copy of this order be served on the County Treasurer of St. Louis County not later than ten days prior to said day of hearing.

Dated at Duluth, Minn., May 27th, 1910.

By the Court, J. B. MIDDLECOFF, Judge of Probate
